THORNBERRY

retiree, according to government projections.
 "What that boils down to is there are not going to be enough people to pay Social Security benefits in a few years," Thornberry said.
 He said the debate over how to fix the system will be the number-one topic for Congress for the rest of the year.
 Thornberry drew a laugh when he said Congressional leaders are meeting with President Clinton Monday to try and work out some bill that will pass because Clinton wants "something he can be remembered for. Well, something else he can be remembered for."
 Many of the audience had questions and thoughts about Social Security but there were also concerns about proposed cuts in Veteran's Administration medical programs. Thornberry said the VA budget will also be an area of discussion during the next few weeks in Congress.

 Other members of the audience expressed concern over national security, both in troop strength and placement and the alleged spying by the Chinese and others.
 Thornberry agreed and said that troops are still in Haiti building bridges and schools. He said Congress had passed a law demanding that troops be removed from Haiti but Clinton vetoed it.
 Thornberry will hold three more town hall meetings in his district Saturday and then head back to Washington when Congress reconvenes.

JOHNSON

mittee members from throughout the Texas Panhandle who are connected with the area pageant who are in Fort Worth this week for the pageant.
 Stapp said during rehearsal Thursday afternoon for the talent competition Laura was in excellent control. "She was not at all nervous," said Stapp.
 She performed her talent with a vocal selection, "Unforgettable", Thursday night. Tonight will be evening gown competition for the Pampa woman. Stapp said Laura will wear a cream-colored evening gown in the Friday night competition.
 Winner of the swimsuit competition Wednesday night was Lisa Dalzell competing as Miss Walker County. Talent winner was Georgia Locke as Miss Lufkin.
 Thursday night the Miss Texas Pageant had a first with a four-way tie for the preliminary talent winners. The four who tied for the honor were Miss North Texas, Brooke Buie; Miss Hurst-Eules-Bedford Yanci Yarbrough; Miss Nacogdoches Paige Patillo; Miss Lake Ray Hubbard Deb Baker. Preliminary Swimsuit Winner was Miss Collin County Heather Edwards.

 Alpha Awards, which are first year contestants, in swimsuit competition ended in a two way tie. Tying for the honor were Miss Wise County Alexandra Gorman and Miss Metrocrest Heather Michele Wood.
 First year contestants Miss North Texas Brooke Buie and Miss Nacogdoches Paige Patillo received the Alpha awards for the swimsuit wear.
 Stapp said she is very proud of Laura, and is expecting her to be in the top contestants. Laura competed in the Miss Texas last year as Miss Lake Meredith. She placed 14th.
 Laura's parents, Dr. Jay and Linda Johnson, are in Fort Worth for the pageant. Her 13-year-old sister, Anna, and her grandmother, Evelyn Johnson, are also there.

SLA fugitive waives extradition, admits her real identity is Soliah

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The housewife accused last month of being Symbionese Liberation Army fugitive Kathleen Soliah admitted today that she is that person, as she signed papers paving the way for her to be returned to California to face charges.
 Sara Jane Olson signed an extradition waiver in front of Ramsey County District Judge Kathleen Gearin. She signed the waiver: "Kathleen Ann Soliah/Sara Jane Olson," Gearin said.
 Ms. Olson will not contest her identity, her attorney, Howard Bass, confirmed. Ms. Olson will be flown directly to Los Angeles on Monday or Tuesday. A bail hearing is set for Wednesday.
 "I think she is relieved to be going back to California and to be closing this chapter of her life," Bass said.
 "She is Sara Jane Olson ... regardless of the name that she was born under," he said.
 Ms. Olson smiled and waved at her husband and three daughters and blew them a kiss before leaving the courtroom this morning. Ms. Olson's physician husband, Gerald Peterson, refused to comment outside the courtroom.
 Supporters say Ms. Olson, 52, is a typical "soccer mom" and occasional actress who has led an exemplary life of service to her family, church and community.

 "Ms. Olson wants to put this matter behind her as quickly as possible so she can be reunited with her husband and daughters, return to St. Paul and resume her volunteer work in the community," Bass said.
 Soliah is wanted on murder conspiracy charges, accused of placing pipe bombs under two Los Angeles police cars in 1975. They did not go off. The bombs were allegedly in retaliation for a shootout with police the year before in which six members of the SLA — the notorious leftist group that kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst — were killed.
 She could face a life sentence if convicted.
 The FBI says the question of whether Soliah and Ms. Olson are the same person was answered by a fingerprint match four hours after she was arrested June 16 while driving near her St. Paul home. The arrest followed tips from viewers of "America's Most Wanted," which had featured Soliah in May.
 Ms. Olson was denied bail in Minnesota courts and Bass said he had received no assurances bail would be set in Los Angeles County. But he said he has "every reason to believe" reasonable bail will be set.

Weather focus

PAMPA — Partly cloudy today with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms with a high in the low 90s and south winds at 10-20 mph. Tonight, mostly cloudy with a 60 percent chance of thunderstorms, some may be locally heavy, with a low in the mid 60s and north-northeast winds at 5-15 mph. Tomorrow, partly sunny with a 40 percent chance of thunderstorms, a high in the mid 80s and northeast winds at 10-20 mph. Yesterday's high was 95, the overnight low, 70.
PANHANDLE — Tonight, mostly cloudy with a 50 percent chance of thunderstorms. Locally heavy rainfall possible. Low in the lower 60s. North to northeast wind 5-15 mph. Saturday, a 30 percent chance of morning thunderstorms, otherwise partly sunny with a high near 85. Northeast to east wind 10-20 mph. Saturday night, mostly clear with a low in the lower 60s.

STATEWIDE— Showers and thunderstorms were in the weekend forecast across Texas, with a weak low-pressure system triggering rainfall in the Panhandle and coastal moisture producing storms in the south.
 Offshore showers and thunderstorms slowly moved into South Texas and the Coastal Bend overnight. Isolated rain also fell today along the Texas-New Mexico state line north of a line from Roswell, N.M., to Lubbock. A shower developed at Palacios, near the Matagorda Bay.
 Early-morning readings ranged from the 60s to 80s. It was 64 degrees at Marfa, 67 at Junction, 73 at Lufkin and Nacogdoches, 79 at several North Texas locations, 81 at El Paso and Galveston and 82 at Palacios.

Winds varied from southeasterly to southerly at 5 to 15 mph.
 Highs on Tuesday soared into the low to mid 90s across much of South Texas. It was 96 at Alice and 98 at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and in Wichita Falls.
 An upper-level disturbance in South Texas was expected to trigger more showers and thunderstorms in the region, including the Hill Country and Coastal Plains, through Sunday. A cold front in the Panhandle was bringing the prospect of more rain.
 Highs should range from the 80s and 90s to near 110 degrees along the Rio Grande, with a cooling trend on Saturday forecast to push readings into the low 80s across the Panhandle to near 105 degrees over the far south.
 Overnight lows during the period were expected in the 60s and 70s.

Wife Is Tempted to Leave Her 'So-Called' Marriage

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 12 years and am very unhappy. My husband refuses counseling because he feels nothing is wrong. I do all the parenting, cooking, most of the cleaning, etc. He does work, but refuses to leave a "cushy" job for one that's better paying.

I have sacrificed my safety to work at a school that is known for violence, but he doesn't seem to care other than to say that he will buy me a bulletproof vest. Being back in the dating world would be more fun than this so-called marriage. We are both 34, and a friend says I am going through the "itch."

I am very confused. Help!

was rushed to the hospital where, at the time, my husband was working in the emergency room. Her body and face were so badly mangled that he didn't recognize her. She was rushed to surgery where the doctors tried unsuccessfully to save her life.

After finding the identification, a hospital representative phoned the family with the news of the accident. Upon arriving at the hospital, the family was told that she had not survived. When they were taken to identify the body, imagine their shock when the girl they were shown was not theirs! Our friend's daughter had been carrying her girlfriend's identification at the time of the accident!

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Make calls, reach out for others. You might want to move around less and invite others over to your home. You've got a good feeling about an expenditure. Think about what you expect from a key friend or partner. You are in the mood to indulge. Tonight: Don't push, make it easy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Handle what is happening. Stop and think about what would make an important partner happy. Don't shy away from treating another to a special day. Caring abounds if you remain open. Take a walk, go for a picnic or share a favorite pastime. Tonight: Chatting the night away.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

You are on a roll. Finally, you feel valued. You discover that another really cares and knows what you need and want. Do nothing halfway right now. Treat yourself to a special adventure; go those extra steps. Tonight: Give someone you adore a back rub.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Make the most of another's overtures this morning. Plan on a special day together. Don't worry about others right now — just focus on what the two of you want and need. You'll reignite and recharge your bond. Don't hold back. Share your feelings. Tonight: Love is all around.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Recognize that although you have charisma, your impact isn't always universal. Pick and choose your occasions. Know what you want. The morning makes you a star. Go within in the afternoon. Sometimes it is important to evaluate directions. Tonight: Take a night off!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You have gone beyond the call of duty with a child or loved one. Friendship draws you into a fun happening. Be open to new faces. Accept an invitation that might get you into a new or favorite sport. Exercise stress away, then simply enjoy. Tonight: Is the grass really greener on the other side?

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

If escape is your theme, take off ASAP! No dawdling! Otherwise, another could lasso you in. You might feel like you have to handle a situation as it is. Maintain a high profile. Don't worry about expenditures right now. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Close relating opens doors. Try something different. Be aware of another's bugaboos. Invite a loved one out for brunch; he loves being seen with you. Take off for a drive. Visit a favorite spot. In a different environment, you recharge and reconnect. Tonight: Try a new restaurant.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Relating proves to be more important than usual. Another really cares for you and has a lot to share. Be a willing player! Arrange some quality time later in the day. As a result, you'll feel more nurtured. Frustrations easily dissolve when you spend time together. Tonight: Let more magic into your life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Get a project completed early in the day. Later, you'll want free time. Another's invitation gives you an opportunity to kick up your heels. A commitment to a heartfelt project expands your inner circle. Add more joy to your life. Tonight: Don't worry about a late start to the weekend!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

A child or loved one adores you. Caring builds. Your smile adds to the moment and to your allure, drawing new admirers. You have no idea how much impact you have. A parent or older relative needs your energy, drive and direction. Consider a new addition to your home. Tonight: Plan the work week.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

You're centered. Express your caring attitude and nurturing ways. Others feel good around you. Listen to someone in your day-to-day life who means a lot to you. A loved one wants to know what you would like. Be direct. Discuss a potential trip and long-term plans. Tonight: Maximize the weekend's duration.

Minister's musings ...

(How Jesus Coped with a Problem)
John 6:5-14.

The meeting had lasted all day long. From all the surrounding countryside, people had gathered to hear Jesus teach. He looked over the crowd and realized that he was facing thousands of people — and all of them were hungry.

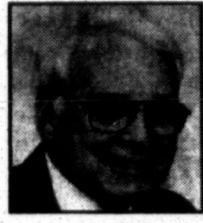

The census takers had numbered 5,000 men. They didn't bother counting women and children. Why? We don't know. But, by guesstimating that there were as many women present as men, and then considering there might have been two children on average for each couple — it's conceivable there could have been about 20,000 people there that day. That's a lot of hungry folk to feed.

The accountant looked at the dilemma and figured that two hundred pennyworth of bread wouldn't be enough to give everyone there a taste. The "penny" or denarius, was about a full day's wage for the average working man. The accountant also concluded they had a problem.

The inventory clerk examined the stores and reported that they had only five little barley loaves (poor folks' food) and two small fishes.

Complicating the situation — even the loaves and fish were a little boy's lunch which he hadn't yet given up to be shared. The inventory clerk concluded there was a problem.

The way Jesus handled this situation was instructive. It gives us pointers for handling our difficulties.

By Rev. Albert Maggard

First Pentecostal Holiness Church

HE ACKNOWLEDGED THE PROBLEM. He didn't deny reality. He didn't take the view that "if I'll ignore it, it may go away." He didn't rely on the hocus pocus of mind over matter — just deny it's reality and it won't be real. There's something the matter with the mind that does that.

He didn't run away from the problem. Escapism was not in his arsenal.

He didn't wait for it to vanish or get worse. Inactivity intensifies anxiety. Procrastinating and dreading problems aid in developing ulcers, gray hair, and wrinkles.

Decision to act often breaks the spell and turns the tide. Jesus acknowledged the problem and prepared to act.

HE LOOKED FOR RESOURCES THAT MIGHT BE AVAILABLE. Sometimes when things look hopeless and problems are overwhelming, it helps to check and see what we've got going for us. What can we bring to bear on the problem?

God has given us some marvelous equipment. He's blessed us with family, friends, health, and a brain which is the greatest computer this universe has ever seen. In discouragements, we sometimes forget what all we've got going for us.

When God asked Moses to deliver two-and-a-half million slaves from Egypt, Moses said he wasn't equipped to do it. The Lord asked him, "What is that in your hand?"

He was carrying a simple shepherd's staff — a plain, old stick. God was saying, "Let's forget about what you lack, and start with what you have." That's still what he wants us to use. Mighty oaks from small acorns grow. St. James remarked, "How great a matter a small fire kindles." And, Scripture reminds us to, "despise not the day of small beginnings." It's still true that "Little is much, when God is in it." There's hope for us. He can use even a plain old stick. We must be committed to use what we already have. The Lord can make it enough.

HE BEGAN TO ACT WITH WHAT HE HAD. Our Lord accepted the lunch from the willing hands of a little boy. Looking up to Heaven, he expressed gratitude to the Heavenly Father who provided it. Then, thankful that he had something to work with, and expecting the Father to multiply it, he started breaking and sharing it. Thousands were fed. Their need was met. The problem was solved.

When we admit and understand our problem, get willing to use available resources, and begin to act with what we have — wonderful things happen. Faith unlocks Heaven's storehouse. God comes to our aid. We discover the truth of Philippians 4:13, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me."

Mormon humor? ... get serious

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A new book of Mormon humor? The very idea draws horselaughs from some members of the faith and sobriety. Yet it's true — and the publisher is The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"We tried hard not to offend anybody," said Jack Lyon, managing editor of church-owned Deseret Book, which released "Best-Loved Humor of the LDS People" this spring. "We did select things people could use if given a talk in church."

An example: "Question: How are bishops chosen?"

"Answer: The stake leaders find the most righteous, spiritual, most loved person in the ward — and then they call her husband."

OK, this is not comedy club stuff. But it's heading in the right direction, say those who want to show there's fun beneath the faith's buttoned-down image.

Robert Kirby, considered by many the preeminent Mormon humorist today, thought for years that most of his fellow believers were a pretty pinched lot.

"I equated Mormons with the way they behaved in church," said Kirby, a humor columnist for The Salt Lake Tribune.

This was, after all, the church whose canonical Doctrine and Covenants states: "Therefore, cease from all your light speeches, from all laughter, from all your lustful desires, from all your pride and light-mindedness, and from all your wicked doings."

Kirby continued: "I operated on the premise that church was a place where humorless people go. I misinterpreted reverence for humorlessness."

That changed with Kirby's first foray into Mormon humor, a satirical column about five types of Mormons, which he wrote for a newspaper where he used to work. Though his Mormon publisher hated it, the column brought a flood of letters from church members who loved it.

Kirby felt like a miner cracking his shins on the mother lode.

"I was surprised that Mormons, particularly — I know Jewish people do it and Catholics to a large extent — used humor to make their lot in life a little more tolerable," he said.

"And the depth of it was even more surprising, because you get people who are very staunch members of the church who laugh about the inconsistencies or the vagaries in our behavior and the mysteries of the gospel."

In other words, they are able to laugh at themselves.

Psst! begins a joke that has made the rounds, though it isn't in the new book: How do you tell the difference between a Mormon wedding and a non-Mormon wedding? At the Mormon wedding, the bride's mother is pregnant.

The punch line plays on the traditional Mormon propensity for large families.

"The really funny Mormon stuff is uniquely Mormon. It's something that comes from being part of the family," said Pat Bagley, political cartoonist at the Tribune.

Mormons use humor as a decompression device, "a way to let off some of the pressure that builds up" and to say things that are true but which, unadorned with humor, might seem heretical or mean. For example, he says: "It's not politic to say 19-year-old missionaries are dumb," but it's safe to say the same thing in a joke or cartoon.

A great way to spend $49...

Earlier this year I wrote a column about a quandary I faced concerning priorities - whether to attend a weeknight Bible study at my church, a creative writing class at West Texas A&M or a landscape gardening class at Amarillo College.

I chose landscape gardening. While it is true the class meeting times fit best with my family's schedule, the most important truth is that I just wanted to do it.

The class met for 10 sessions at Amarillo College and attendees were a various lot. There was a fellow who wanted to start a landscaping business, a woman who wanted to beautify her already lovely yard, a man who wanted to know how to trim his hollies and others with troubled yards seeking beautiful solutions.

Our teacher, a man who clearly loved landscaping, told us the facts about watering (only when grass retains the impression of one's footprints), turf management (grass mowing made easy) and trees (oaks are okay, elms are not). My family tired of the endless wisdom of "My teacher said..."

My classmates and I could barely wait for spring. A late snow was a setback for someone's overanxious planting. We mourned the loss as if the blossoms were our own. We diligently recited the steps required to protect our own budding and just blooming plants from a dry freeze (hose trees and bushes so a capsule of ice forms around the flower). We exchanged plant catalogues and oohed and aahed over the beauty of each flower. We came to know each yard as our own.

When the weather warmed, I removed stone by stone lava rocks from a flower bed. I transplanted monkey grass and reverently visited every local nursery. I purchased my first pair of arc pruners and my husband, dear man, gave me an early birthday gift of electric hedge trimmers. For Mother's Day, he bought me a new shovel, the Shark Attack model.

I am happy I chose landscape gardening over the Bible study class and the creative writing class because as I wrote before, their goals can be accomplished in other ways. However, there was no other way for me to learn to dig in the dirt so effectively except to go to school and study in an organized way.

It was the best $49 I've ever spent.

No end in sight for revival

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — The century's longest-running charismatic revival is still going strong four years after it opened its doors — undeterred by defections, questions about its financial accounting and criticism of its spiritual practices, which include shouting, shaking and falling to the floor, "slain in the spirit."

Thousands of people pack the so-called Pensacola Outpouring, which started at Brownsville Assembly of God on Father's Day 1995. As long as they do, the revival will be in business, say the ministers who began the movement.

"When they stop coming, then that'll be a sign from God to ... do other things," said the Rev. Steve Hill, an evangelist who began the revival with Brownsville's pastor, the Rev. John Kilpatrick.

Crowds fill the 2,000-seat church and overflow into another building where services are shown on a huge video screen. The revival runs four nights a week, with Hill preaching at two of the services.

It also is being taken on the road, and its presence on religious television stations across the nation is growing. The revival has led to the creation of a school where 1,700 students train as ministers and missionaries.

NO TIME LIKE THE PRESENT
According to several statistics, there has scarcely been a better time to sell your home. The Department of Commerce reports that in 1998, new home sales were the highest ever recorded. And, according to the National Association of Realtors, sales of existing homes enjoyed their third successive record year. No wonder! Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages are at their lowest level in 30 years, and more Americans are employed than at any time since 1969. In addition, recent changes in the tax law allow married couples to keep up to $500,000 in capital gains, tax-free, from the sale of a primary residence. (Single homeowners can keep up to $250,000 tax-free.) In short, homeowners have every incentive to sell their homes now.

Astros fall in extra innings to Arizona

PHOENIX (AP) — Arizona manager Buck Showalter summed up the wild night with three words.

"Some game, huh?" he said.

His Diamondbacks blew their 14th save in 29 opportunities, then fell behind in the 10th and 11th innings Thursday night before rallying with two runs to beat the Houston Astros 8-7.

"You like to put an emphasis on a game here and there, key points during the year," Bell said, "and there's no question this can be one of them."

Each team used six pitchers in a game that lasted 4 hours and 16 minutes.

"It was just one of those wacky games," Houston's Craig Biggio said.

To get the victory, Arizona had to score off Billy Wagner, who hadn't given up a run on the road since May 20. Wagner struck out the side in the ninth and had two outs and a 6-5 lead in the 10th.

But pinch-hitter Bernard Gilkey doubled just inside the foul line in right field, then scored on Damian Miller's line-drive double up the middle to tie it 6-6 and send the game into the 11th.

"Usually when Billy goes out there with a lead it's a lock," Williams said. "Damian did a good job of hitting against one of the premier closers in the game. It's the type of game that builds confidence."

Of the eight runs Wagner has allowed all season, six have been scored by Arizona.

Wagner was spent after two innings.

"He was out of steam," interim manager Matt Galante said. So the Astros turned to Brian Williams to try to hold the 7-6 lead in the 11th.

But Tony Womack doubled with one out and Bell, who had a two-run double in the fourth, doubled to deep left-center to drive in Womack and tie it at 7.

The Astros intentionally walked Luis Gonzalez to get to Williams, the NL's RBI leader who already had an RBI double in the game.

"I hit behind Barry Bonds for a lot of years, I'm used to that," Williams said. "I look at it as an opportunity to win the game."

Williams hit the ball just inside the left-field line past third base. "We've been tested so much," Showalter said. "These guys just refuse to roll over."

Galante said this was the kind of loss that can keep hurting.

"We had two leads in the 10th and the 11th and we couldn't hold them," he said. "Worst of all, we used our whole bullpen and we've got more games to play."

Gregg Olson (4-4), activated from the DL earlier in the day, got the victory even though he gave up a run in the 11th.

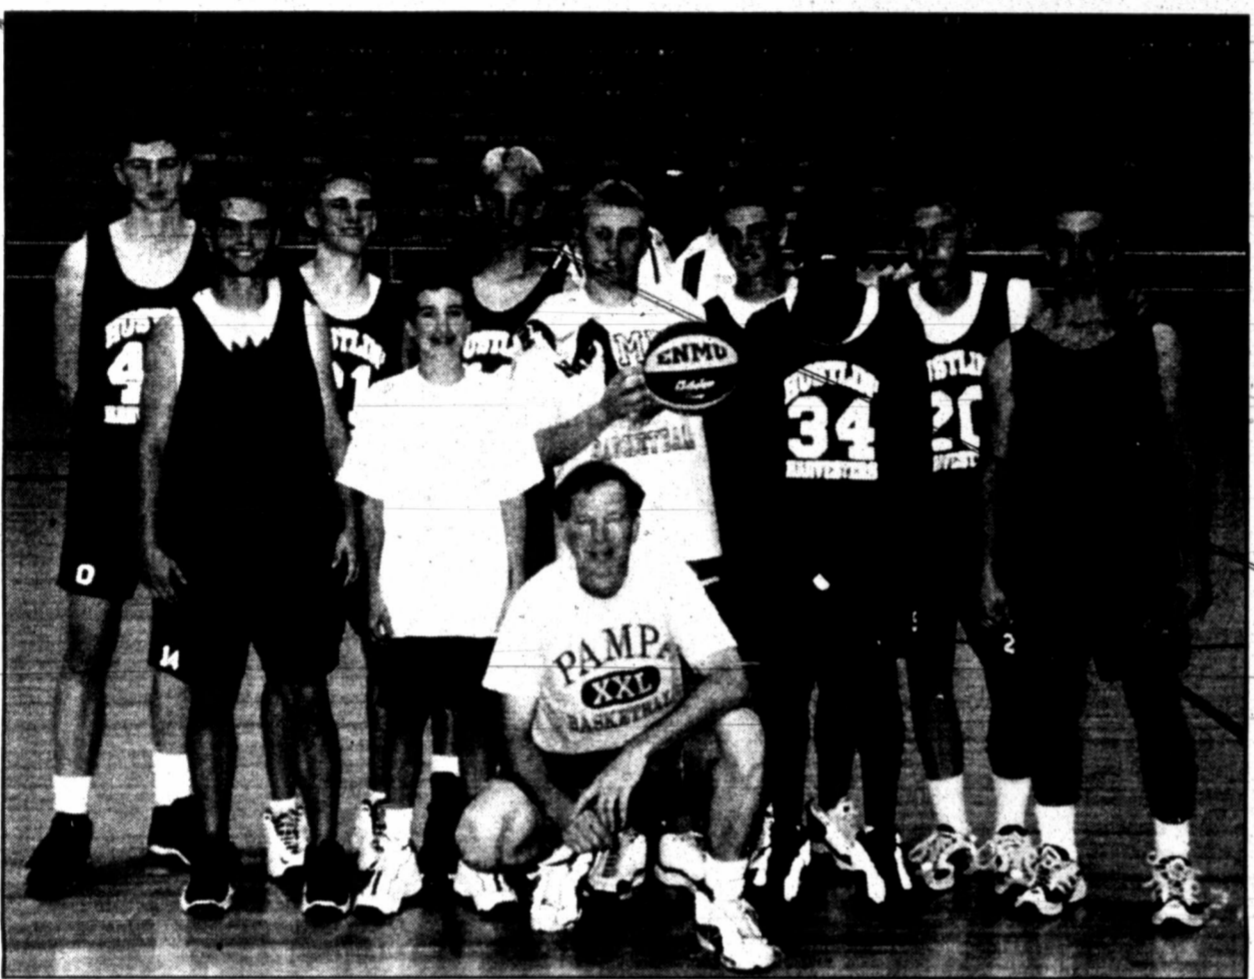

Biggio, who doubled and homered earlier, stretched what looked like a two-out single into a double. Derek Bell singled up the middle to put Houston ahead 7-6.

Houston, which trailed 5-2 entering the eighth, scored twice in the inning, then tied the game in the ninth on Bell's double off Vladimir Nunez. The Astros then took the lead in the 10th when Carl Everett tripled and scored on Bill Spiers' sacrifice fly.

Arizona scored twice in the seventh on Steve Finley's RBI triple and Travis Lee's RBI single to go ahead 5-2. But the Astros rallied in the eighth on Spiers' two-run double down the right-field line off reliever Dan Plesac.

Arizona starter Armando Reynoso left in the seventh with a 3-2 lead, a runner on and no outs. It was the sixth time this year he has left with a lead and wound up with no decision.

Notes: Arizona is 8-8 in 16 extra-inning games, most in the majors. ... To make room for Olson, the Diamondbacks optioned reliever Vincente Padilla to Triple-A Tucson. ... Finley, bothered by a sore back since diving for a ball on June 4, probably will take an epidural injection after Sunday's game. ... Houston is 3-4 with three games left at Kansas City in a 10-game road trip. ... Reynoso is 4-0 with eight no-decisions in his last 12 starts. His lone loss was at Houston on April 27. ... The Diamondbacks won two in a row for the first time since June 16. ... Biggio hit into a double play for only the second time all season.

Players' union rejects age limit

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A minimum age for playing in the NBA is out of the question as far as the players' union is concerned.

The union ended its annual meeting Thursday opposed to an absolute age restriction. "We don't want an absolute limit," said Michael Curry of the Milwaukee Bucks. "We want something that's fair to those who are ready."

"The bottom line is we're not going to accept an age limit," said Brent Barry of the Chicago Bulls, a member of a six-man union committee formed to address the issue of players as young as 18 coming into the league.

Players threw out several ideas, saying the league could form some sort of minor league system similar to the one in baseball so that younger players can develop their games rather than sitting on the ends of NBA benches.

At least one player called for mandatory college education programs for players entering the NBA out of high school.

"There isn't a one-rule-for-everyone answer," said Danny Schayes of the Orlando Magic. "We need a system with the right alternatives for the right guys."

The union also formed a committee to respond to the proposed rules changes for the 1999-2000 season. One new rule would give a player five seconds to pass or shoot. Another would limit most defensive contact on the perimeter.

Many players said the changes ignored the root of the problem that has caused the trend toward low-scoring games.

"Some of us are old enough to remember 120-point games," said the 40-year-old Schayes, who entered the league in 1981 and plans to play at least two more years. "From what we've seen of these new rules, they're barking up the wrong tree.

There's a false hope if they think this is going to change the pace of the game. We're not in desperate need of rules changes, we need a fresh approach to the offensive style of play."

Schayes and union delegates Herb Williams, 41, and Eddie Johnson, 40, have been around long enough to see the league go from the high-octane, run-and-gun style of the early 1980s to the defensive-oriented, offensively-challenged style of the late 1990s.

Antonio Davis was a member of a special 16-member NBA committee that discussed proposed rules changes in June. At that meeting, Miami Heat coach Pat Riley proposed eliminating the 3-point shot.

Most players said the new 5-second rule and the defensive hands-off rule could merely end up causing more fouls, more free throws and less free-flowing action.

"I played for a team in Denver that didn't have a single 24-second violation all season," Schayes said. "Defenses had much more leeway then, and we were still able to score. What's happened is that teams now play their hardest on defense and rest on offense. We want to look for ways to reinvigorate the pace."

Pampa girls compete strong, down Dumas

Pampa's 9-10-year-old girls All-Star softball team defeated Dumas 15-11 Thursday night to stay alive in the district softball tournament at the Optimist Club.

Pampa's 11-hit attack was led by Cassidy Tice, who smashed two in-the-park home runs and a single.

Nicole Clark also contributed with two doubles and a single, Britteni Rice connected twice for a double and a single, Kayla Burns smashed an in-the-park home run. Both Stephanie McVay and Meagan Patterson each helped the offense, connecting for doubles.

Rice earned the victory from the mound, allowing just five hits while striking out six.

Pampa will face Dumas again tonight for the district championship. Game time is set for 7 p.m. at Optimist Park.

IOC proposes cutting budget

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Spending cuts netting $113 million were proposed to a Salt Lake Olympics management committee, which had few questions but sought assurance that the 2002 Winter Games would not suffer.

Salt Lake Organizing Committee executives said Thursday that the savings would shrink the red-ink gap between revenue and spending from $300 million to $185 million.

With corporate sponsors in the pipeline, it should not be difficult to close that gap, said SLOC President Mitt Romney, who has spent recent weeks traveling around the country meeting with chief executives.

He and chief operating officer Fraser Bullock proposed the cuts Thursday, but the board management committee won't vote on a new $1.34 billion budget until September. The biggest shares of the $113 million in cuts are $30 million out of staffing and $38 million out of the inflation cushion.

Of the $113 million, $72 million in cuts are on a list of items the committee would restore if enough money is raised.

The board tabled a measure sought by ex-officio member Randy Dryer to affirm leaving legacy venues for Utah residents as a top objective of the committee.

"Maybe the city won't be dressed up as much, but we think we can still do a great job with the games," Bullock said.

Romney promised, "The kind of changes we're making we don't think will be noticed by the spectators or athletes."

Former SLOC President Frank Joklik, who stepped down amid the bribery scandal but remains on the board, praised the cuts.

"It is almost 12 months since the original $1.453 billion budget was put together. To me it is gratifying, with all of the additional information (available now), to have only an 8 percent reduction," he said. "The secret ... is expert management."

Bullock said, "We started with a great series of documents he (Joklik) put together."

The board Thursday also approved ethics, open meetings and open records policies promised last winter during the height of the scandal over how Salt Lake bent the rules to win the 2002 Winter Games.

The new ethics policy requires trustees and top executives to disclose all personal and family conflicts of interest regularly, to turn over to SLOC any gifts worth $100 or more, and to get permission to spend SLOC money on meals or gifts worth more than $25.

The committee will soon name an ethics officer — a part-time volunteer — to resolve ethical questions.

An information room will be stocked with the committee's public documents, but if a staffer has to dig into files, the cost will be $25 an hour. Many documents, particularly those dealing with sponsor agreements, will remain closed, as will the detailed budget.

SLOC staffers will be subject to a separate ethics policy, still in the works.

One of the raps on the bid committee — and the organizing committee it became — was that a closed atmosphere allowed corruption to go undetected. Gov. Mike Leavitt promised the new policies would open the committee to greater public scrutiny.

Bid committee executives have been blamed for spending more than $1 million on shopping sprees, travel, cash, free medical care and scholarships for International Olympic Committee members and their families.

Western people, places focus of pastel exhibit at Square House

PANHANDLE — Sixteen pastel and one acrylic painting by Amarillo artist and art teacher Steven Napper are currently on exhibit at the Square House Museum in Panhandle. Half are portraits of Native Americans, combining the artist's skill at portraiture with his love of the American West. Most of the others are landscapes of places in Texas and Colorado, in particular the area around Rocky Mountain National Park. Napper holds a workshop and a show in Estes Park every summer, and even finds time to paint himself. Two works are wildlife subjects, another variety of his "portrait" painting.

Napper was born in West Texas and currently resides in Amarillo. He received both a bachelor's and master's degree in art from West Texas State University. After working as a commercial artist for the federal government, he owned his own commercial studio in Amarillo and later in Los Angeles, Calif. Portraits and other forms of studio art became integrated into his profession in 1971, when he began studying with noted artists David Greene, Albert Handel and Ben Konis.

Art education became important to him as he served as an instructor and administrator for public schools until 1997, when he turned his full attention to his artistic goals.

He handles several mediums with distinctive freshness and strong use of color. His use of colors, the interaction of warm and cool, high and low contrast and his skills as a draftsman have made his work easy to distinguish and highly sought.

Dedication, love and talent have led Napper to be recognized over the past 25 years with both awards and membership in many of the most prestigious art organizations in America. Examples of his artistry have been published in almost every major American art publication; both PBS and CBS have done film features on his creations; and he has shown at such museums as the National Gallery in Washington and the Pastel Society of America in New York.

A reception for the artist is scheduled on Sunday, Aug. 1, from 2:30-4 p.m., the last day of the show. "Selected Works of Steven Napper" can be viewed in the Opal Weatherly Purvines gallery in the Square House Annex from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Saturday and from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday. The Square House Museum is located in Panhandle at the intersection of TX Hwy. 207 and Fifth Street. Admission to the museum and to the exhibit is free. For more information, call (806) 537-3524.
