HOUSTON (AP) — An 8-
car where temperatures exceeded 106 degrees has died and police here are investigating why the infant was abandoned by his mother.

The boy, whose name was not released, was discovered Sunday afternoon inside the locked car in what law officers said was the third such death this summer of a Houston area child left inside a vehicle.

The mother, who apparently was intoxicated when she left her car at a gasoline station, was in custody after questioning in the latest death.

"You have to take extreme caution with children, especially young children," homicide investigator Sgt. Ted
Blayd told the Houston
Chronicle in today's editions.
"Leaving them in a car with this heat that we have been having, it doesn't take long for a child to suffocate and die."

Bullets, cartridges yield stories of Red River War

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

PANHANDLE — It was Sept. 9, 1874, when a wagon train hauling supplies to Gen. Nelson Miles in his campaign against the Indians was attacked in what is now Hemphill County.

Capt. Willys Lyman circled the wagons and with less than a 100 men, held off the attackers for three days.

There were 12 Medals of Honor awarded as a result of that action, the highest percentage of Medals of Honor ever awarded in a single action.

There were at least 121 different weapons involved in the fight, according to Dr. Doug Scott, of 17 different types.

Scott is the Great Plains Team Leader at the National Park Service's Midwest Archeological

"The average soldier in 1874 was 22 years of age if he hadn't lied about his age," Scott told his audience Sunday at the Square House Museum. "Many were quite a bit younger, 16 or 17 years old. He was 5-foot-7. He weighed about 150 to 160 pounds."

Water tank divers make film, inspection

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

Underwater divers are not a common site in Pampa, especially when they are diving in the city's water storage tanks, but it happens.

A few days back, City Engineer Richard Morris brought in a crew from U.S. Underwater Services, a firm that often checks off-shore drilling rigs and other deep sea items. The four-man crew was in Pampa to dive only as deep as the bottom of the water towers and to make a video tape of what they found.

The documentary isn't about any underwater creatures living in the tanks, since the tanks are covered to prevent anything going into the water, but what rust and corrosion has done to the tanks.

While the final report from the company has not been sent, Morris said, at least two tanks are in need of repainting inside. Files some of the others may be able to wait a while.

According to Morris, the state requires tanks to be inspected every year. He said, the city often drains a tank and visually inspects it but that can take up to a day for each tank and waste a lot of water. Morris said when they drain one of the three million gallon tanks up to a million gallons of water can be lost.

"The amount of water lost just about pays for the people [U.S. Underwater Services] to come over," Morris said.

The city has 11 storage tanks of various sizes including those at the prison, representing about 11 million gallons of water, a little over 10 million gallons in the city. In the middle of the summer Morris said the city can easily use 7.5 million gallons in a day.

While the tanks can be inspected in winter the weather often does.

Schedules ready at middle school Ending bell to ring earlier

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

School bells will soon be ringing again at Pampa Middle School as school starts on Aug. 12 and there'll be a change in when the ending bell sounds.

The Pampa Middle School will be dismissed earlier than in previous years. The 24-minute homeroom time was eliminated and the dismissal time was moved back to 3 p.m. due to the need for meetings, tutorials and inclusion.

Staff will be on duty until 3:15 p.m. Students are not monitored outside the building after that time because the teachers will be in meetings. Therefore, parents are to pick their children up by 3 p.m.

Pampa Middle School students may begin picking up their schedules today in the main office at the school. Schedules may be obtained between 8 a.m. and noon and from 1-4 p.m. Any student schedules not picked up at the end of the day on Wednesday will be mailed to the student's home address.

Parents will be required to sign on the back of the schedule card to make a request for a schedule change along with the reason.

Additional information regarding schedule changes at the middle school should contact the school.

Storm damage won't halt air show in Borger

BORGER — Air raid sirens should be going off in Borger Friday as World War II aircraft begin their bombing runs on Hutchinson County airport.

High winds damaged the airport and northern Borger Saturday evening but will not stop the Borger Air Show opening Friday, according to airport manager Dennis O'Bryant. "The air show will go on as planned," said O'Bryant Monday morning.

Winds struck the Borger area without warning about 7:30 p.m. Saturday, severely damaging hangars at the airport. One Borger car dealership had windows blown out while other businesses and residences reported damages of roofs lifted from homes and businesses, fences blown down and heavy tree damage. Several barns were reported destroyed on the outskirts of Borger. Power outages were reported in the area, also. The area experienced hail and rain following the wind storm.

An F4U fighter and a B-25 bomber will put on a display of aerial bombardment Friday night at the Borger Air Show, followed by a fireworks exhibition after dark.

n't cooperate and during the summer water demands are so heavy that having a tank empty could present a problem.

The crew from U.S. Underwater Services has two people who switch off going into the storage tanks while the rest of the crew pump them air through a compressor. As backup there are also air tanks that can be used if the compressor fails. The divers also carry a small Scuba tank as a last resort. Crew Leader Andrew Warner said he's never had the compressor fail.

The suits that are worn completely encase the diver so that there is no skin exposed while in the water. Another crew member also sprays the diver's suit with chlorine as a disinfectant so the water supply stays unaffected by the dive. When the tanks are drained, the city has to disinfect the entire tank before it can be used again, Morris said.

Once in the water the diver can be heard and the pictures from the video camera seen inside a trailer. Both sound and pictures are recorded so the company and city officials can review the findings later. This can also act as a safety device in case something were to happen to the dive.

Diver James Larrabee gets sprayed with chlorine by Dan Coburn before entering a 500,000 gallon water storage tank to check on its condition.

BULLETS

another country. Of those, almost 20 percent were Irish. Almost another 20 percent were German. The remainder came from Switzerland, Scotland, Great Britain, Corsica, Italy and across Western Europe.

"They joined up as privates at the phenomenal salary of $13 a month," Scott said. "Actually, not bad pay in 1874. Especially when they got sort of three meals a day. It wasn't always the best food."

Out of their $13 a month, they were charged $1.25 for their tobacco allowance. They had to pay for gear and equipment they lost or damaged.

The army of the day had a desertion rate of about 30 percent.

A lot of the young men that joined the army, Scott said, did so because there was a recession in the 1870s, and there were no jobs.

There are no statistics for the Native Americans involved in the battles of westward expansion. The age is estimated to be between 14 and 30 years old.

"We had young men fighting young men," Scott said.

Speaking to a group Sunday afternoon at the Carson County Square House Museum in the first of a series of lectures this month to commemorate the 125th anniversary of the Red River Indian War, Scott described the weapons determined from about a 1,000 bullets and cartridges found at the battle site.

Trained by the Nebraska State Police in ballistics and firearms forensics, Scott looks at a battlefield like a crime scene.

"I look at it like a detective would study it," he said.

Cartridges can tell a story, he said.

For example, there were a number of cartridges that appeared to have been fired by Henry rifles, the first cartridge gun made in America.

"It's the predecessor of the Winchester," Scott said. "Lever action, it was developed by Oliver Henry in 1860."

It held 16 rounds.

In at least one instance, it appeared that a knife was used to dig the cartridge out of a weapon.

"It didn't have a very long range," Scott said, "but it was a popular gun."

Scott said that probably thousands were available on the frontier at the time of the Red River Indian War.

"It's a very heavy gun," he said, "but very popular."

At the same time, the army was using single shot Springfield rifles. They were moving from the 1866 Springfield to the 1868 model to the 1870 model and model 1873.

"Each had a little difference in their manufacturing technique," Scott said.

The first three were all .50 caliber. The last of the line, the model 1873 was .45 caliber.

The infantry carried the rifle. The cavalry carried a carbine that was shorter. Both had the same firing mechanisms.

The earlier rifles, he said, could have been carried by the teamsters driving the wagons or by the Native Americans. These weapons were distributed to the Indians for hunting as part of treaty obligations.

The older models were considered obsolete, particular guns used during the Civil War. By 1873, the army was moving to the new .45 caliber model.

"It had longer range and better accuracy than the .50 caliber," Scott said.

He said with these weapons, as the guns heated up under heavy firing, if the cartridges weren't clean there could be an extractor problem.

Scott said he found a number of cartridges that appeared to have such problems. In at least one instance, it appeared that a knife was used to dig the cartridge out of a weapon.

The rifles, carried by the infantry, had cleaning rods with them that could be used to knock a cartridge out of the firing chamber. The carbines, carried by the cavalry, were not fitted with cleaning rods. The cartridge that had been pulled out by a knife, Scott concludes, was therefore out of a carbine.

Among the cartridges sent him by state archeologists, Scott also found a bullet that had not been fired, but was damaged.

I believe it may have been struck by an incoming round," Scott said. "It probably struck his cartridge belt. I don't know what it did to the person, but that's the kind of battle damage we see in those circumstances."

Somebody suffered when that bullet struck him, Scott said.

"Maybe it didn't kill him," he said. "Maybe it didn't even seriously wound him. Maybe it kept a round from seriously wounding him, but there is a story there."

It's a small piece of metal, Scott said, but it tells an important story.

"There's a lot of information that can be dug out of that one little piece of metal," he said.

Scott also examined bullets and cartridges from the site of a battle between Miles and a group of Indians that took place Aug. 30, in Palo Duro Canyon about where the Briscoe and Armstrong County line is today.

It was the first time the U.S. Army had used a Gatlin gun in combat, he said.

Invented by Richard Gatlin in 1860s, the weapon with 10 barrels revolving around a central shaft could fire 600 rounds a minute.

"It is a machine gun for all practical purposes," Scott said.

As with some of the weapons on the Lyman wagon train battlefield, Scott found evidence of jamming. There were cartridges from the Gatlin gun that appeared to have been dug out of the weapon with a knife.

There is also a controversy over whether Miles had one or two Gatlin guns.

Scott was unable through his firearm identifications to answer that question, but he was able to identify bullets from 10 different Gatlin gun barrels. Whether all the barrels were on the same gun is another problem.

Comptroller Rylander provides sales tax holiday information

AUSTIN — Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander has provided preliminary information to help retailers and consumers understand the sales tax holiday scheduled for Aug. 6 to Aug. 8.

The tax break, which is expected to save Texas consumers $69.2 million in state sales taxes and up to another $15.5 million in city and county sales taxes over the biennium, was approved by the 1999 Texas Legislature.

"Cutting taxes is one of the 10 priorities I laid out for Texas in the 21st century," Comptroller Rylander said. "The tax burden on working Texas families is too high. The typical American family pays more in total taxes than it spends on food, clothing and shelter combined. The tax holiday will provide Texans with some much-needed relief."

Highlights of information to be included in a rule that will be published shortly in the Texas Register are:

—Starting this year, the tax holiday will be held every year on the first Friday, Saturday and Sunday of August. This year, both state and local sales taxes will be waived. In future years, however, while the state sales tax will continue to be waived, cities, counties and other local taxing entities will have the choice of participating in the holiday or continuing to impose the tax.

—Most clothing and footwear priced at less than $100 will be exempt from sales taxes. Customers will receive the break on individual items, regardless of the amount they buy. For example, sales tax is not due if a customer buys six shirts, each priced at under $100. But the full tax must be paid on a shirt if it is sold for $110; the first $99.99 cannot be exempted.

—Items that are sold in pairs cannot be separated and sold individually. If a pair of shoes costs $150, each shoe cannot be sold for $75 in order to qualify for the sales tax exemption. However, components that are normally priced as separate articles may continue to be sold as separate articles and qualify for the exemption if the price of an article is less than $100.

—Clothing and footwear that are used primarily for athletic activities or for protective wear are not eligible for the exemption. Customers buying golf cleats and football pads, for instance, must pay sales taxes. But the tax will be waived on athletic wear that is commonly worn other than while participating in an athletic activity such as tennis shoes, baseball caps and jogging suits.

—Also not included in the sales tax holiday are accessories, such as jewelry and watches; items that are carried rather than worn including handbags, briefcases, and wallets and clothing that is rented such as formal wear and costumes.

The Comptroller's Office has estimated that the holiday will account for 0.2 percent of annual sales tax collections. The cost to the state will be $10.5 million in 1999, $28.7 million in 2000, and $30 million in 2001. If every city, county and other local taxing entity in the state participates in the sales tax holiday not only this year, but also for the next two years, consumers will save another $15.5 million in sales taxes.

"We are helping Texas families by making it more affordable for them to get their kids ready for school," Comptroller Rylander said.

Wife Says Husband Is Wrong To Claim He's Always Right

DEAR ABBY: Like most of your readers, I never thought I'd be writing to you, but I'm at my wit's end. I am a 38-year-old married woman. My husband doesn't drink, doesn't smoke, doesn't fool around, is physically fit, great in bed and not afraid to shower. He works at a full-time job, as well as a part-time job, and he's an equal partner in the area of child care. So, what's my problem?

Abigail Van Buren
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

This man has never admitted he was wrong about anything in the 13 years we've been married! He has never apologized for any thoughtless thing he's done, has never acknowledged that anything he's ever said has caused me pain or embarrassment, and refuses to admit that this isn't normal.

When I let him know this really bothers me, he'll joke and say: "Someday, if I'm ever wrong, I'll apologize." I'll admit that my response is usually a smart-aleck insult, but I think that after all these years of being married to Mr. Perfect, I'm entitled.

I love this guy, I really do. But I don't think I can bear to spend the rest of my life with a man who thinks that my feelings are unimportant. I'm not usually one to hold a grudge, but since he won't apologize about anything, I stay angry at him much longer than I should about inconsequential things. Short of divorce, what do I do?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Your

husband is a 9 on a scale of 10 — and that's a pretty terrific score. When he says something hurtful or embarrassing, perhaps you should be slower to make a "smart-aleck" comment, and instead let him see an honest reaction. It would make it more difficult for him to joke his way out of an apology.

P.S. Believe it or not, the inability to admit one is wrong is a sign of insecurity.

DEAR ABBY: The poem you printed, "Cocaine," really hit home because I have a daughter who got hooked on it, and she has destroyed the lives of everyone around her.

Enclosed is a letter from her 11-year-old daughter. I wish you would print it; maybe my daughter or some other parent will see it and realize how their drug use is affecting the families they leave behind.

CAROLYN IN ALABAMA

DEAR CAROLYN: Your grandchild's poignant letter is well worth space in this column. Read on:

"Hello, my name is Candi. I'm going to tell you what drugs did to my mother. She left me, my dad and my brother who is only 2 years old. He cries at night for her. Sometimes I cry, too. My dad is really hurt. Me and my brother will grow up without a mother.

"Well, you heard what drugs will do to people. So, please — don't do drugs."

DEAR ABBY: Since Sen. Gramm's letter appeared in your column, congressional offices across America have been bombarded with requests for flags flown over the Capitol. This is great! It's wonderful to see so many patriotic citizens wishing to display Old Glory.

Unfortunately, the prices Sen. Gramm quoted were out of date. Those who wish to obtain a flag should contact the local office of their congressional representative or senators for a list of the correct prices so delivery will not be delayed.

Thanks, Abby. Once again, you've provided a great service for your readers.

A CAPITOL HILL READER

DEAR CAPITOL HILL READER: Thank you for setting the record straight. Readers, your telephone directory lists the telephone numbers for the local offices of your representatives and senators in the section titled "U.S. Government."

another seems to not get your complete message. Stay focused on work, a must appearance and dealing with a boss. Partnership funds play into a decision. You still might need to verify some details, especially involving taxes or the government. Tonight: Hook up with a friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

* You might not be sure of another. Right now, count on yourself, confirm meetings and ward off snafus. Detach and take an overview, rather than triggering. An associate means well but doesn't see the whole story. Nothing is written in stone. Tonight: Working late; sorting through paperwork, calls and news.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 You might not be communicating your point in a way that another can hear. Maintain eye contact; listen to news; be sensitive to what others are saying. Confusion surrounds work and/or a co-worker. A boss might present you with what he thinks is a great idea. Check it out, but keep your eyes open. Tonight: Escape into a movie.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

* Defer to others. Right now, a definitive statement won't work. The suppositions it is based upon will probably not hold up. Confirm news. Be realistic about what a child is saying; he could be pulling the wool over your eyes. Be a bit of a cynic. Tonight: Make time for a favorite person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 Plunge into work, but recognize that you might not have all the answers right now. Information with which you are presented may be incorrect. Tap into your inner resources; reach out for associates. Networking produces some interesting results. Schedule meetings in late afternoon. Tonight: Dinner out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

* Ask questions. Don't take it personally that statements and events make no sense. You will find that the situation is not unique. Let your ingenuity help you find the right way to straighten out a problem. Emphasis is on success and getting your work done. Tonight: Make time for some exercise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

* Listen to your inner voice. Trust what is happening inside you. Others might be confused; you can't depend on them the way you usually do. Allow your mind and imagination to merge. As a result, answers will come forth. Tonight: Get together with a favorite person!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

* Talks confuse rather than clarify, as they should. Work needs your undivided attention. Your imagination goes haywire; you may not know what your limits are. That might be OK, as you seem to have an incredible ability to come up with answers. Tonight: Happy at home.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

* Handle finances with clarity. Know what you want to do. Laughter takes you in a whole new direction. Remain sure of yourself as others seek you out. You can be sure that others will require more information. Help clarify situations. Open up new pathways of discussion. Tonight: Out at a place you love. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

* While others try to communicate clearly, you might not be hearing properly, especially if this involves a domestic matter. Confusion surrounds meetings, associations and ideals. Rather than pushing to make your point, opt to enjoy the haze for the moment. You can't change it! Tonight: Treat yourself well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 You might be uncomfortable with the lack of togetherness and efficiency at this time. The problem is attaining clarity, especially from someone who doesn't have it. Loosen up, throw yourself into work. Play it low-key. You'll know when to come out of hiding. Tonight: Be your ever-happy self.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

* Aim for what you want, even though you might not be as clear in your communication as you would like. Confusion surrounds funds and long-term planning. Confirm meeting times and places, ask others to do the same. Remember what your life goals are. Don't give in to frustration. Tonight: Take a night off.

A copy of a birth certificate is required for each player. No player can turn 10 years old before July 31.

TENNIS

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Pete Sampras regained the top ranking in tennis today, breaking Ivan Lendl's record of 270 weeks at No. 1.

Sampras replaced Australian Pat Rafter for his 271st week at No. 1. Rafter held the top spot for only a week.

Sampras returned to No. 1 by advancing to the final of the Mercedes-Benz Cup. He defeated Andre Agassi 7-6 (7-3), 7-6 (7-1) on Sunday to win the title.

Sampras is one of five players this season to hold the No. 1 ranking, along with Rafter, Agassi, Yevgeny Kafelnikov and Carlos Moya. Only 17 players have held the top spot since the rankings were started in 1973.

Sampras is followed in the rankings by Rafter, Agassi, Kafelnikov and Tim Henman.

FOOTBALL

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Hall of Fame defensive tackle Randy White was back on the practice field this week — slapping guys around, breezing past big linemen, slipping through grasping hands, knocking massive arms away.

No, the former Dallas Cowboys star wasn't trying to make a comeback. He was just trying to make the New Orleans Saints players better.

"The more things you learn, the better player you are," White said. "I learned that when I was playing. And I learned that martial arts techniques could give me an edge. Since then, I've learned more about how they can help."

White and Valentine Espiricueta of Applied Sports Martial Arts of Dallas, use a variety of karate moves to show players how to offset the grabbing, holding and shoving techniques that go on in a game. They have shown their techniques to the Denver Broncos, Detroit Lions, San Diego Chargers and Cowboys in the past.

"It can help any player," Espiricueta, a two-time full contact stick-fighting world champion said. "We teach them to get their opponents hands off them and in a way that redirects his energy and makes him go a different way. It takes a while to get it down, but the guys love it."

White, inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1994 after making the Pro Bowl nine times and being named MVP of the 1977 Super Bowl, became interested in martial arts in 1976 when the Cowboys strength coach introduced him to it.

White found the discipline helped him deal with the 1976 rule change for pass blocking that allowed offensive linemen to use their hands for the first time.

"Randy is one of the best defensive linemen to play the game, and a lot of what he did was on his quickness, speed and the fact that he learned how to use martial arts," coach Mike Ditka said. "He was terrific at shedding people and when guys got their hands on him he had the ability to break them down."

Rotary has scramble

PAMPA — The Rotary Club Charity Scramble was held last weekend at Hidden Hills Public Golf Course.

Results are as follows:
First place: Ronnie Wood, Bob Swope, Ralph Ridgway and Ted Jett, 59.

Second place: Ralph Wilson, Terry Holt, Elmer Wilson and Howard Musgrave, 61.

Third place: Harold Swendon, John Kaplan, Ben Conner and Frank Henderson, 61.

Fourth place: Steve Hopkins, D.D. Lofton, Danny Winborne and Jim Fuller, 62.

Closest to the pin: Bob Conway, No. 15.

PAMPA — The 12th annual Meals On Wheels Golf Scramble will be held Thursday, starting at 6 p.m. at Pampa Country Club.

Call Sam Haynes at 665-5267 to enter as soon as possible.

There will be a $35 entry fee which includes cart and meal. (assigned to a team before teeing off).

Individuals are invited for the meal at 7:30 p.m. Cost will be $6.75 for individuals who do not want to play golf.

Residents are urged to come join the fun and support their local Meals on Wheels. Donations will also be accepted.

Astros rout Padres, 10-3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A few pot-holes have opened in Tony Gwynn's road to 3,000 hits, and they happen to be in the San Diego Padres' clubhouse.

Gwynn moved within six hits of the milestone when he homered, singled and doubled as the Padres beat Houston 10-3 Sunday to snap their nine-game losing streak.

It was his first three-hit game since April 29, and he may have been inspired by a critical story in Sunday's San Diego Union-Tribune.

Jim Leyritz, traded from San Diego to the New York Yankees on Saturday, told the paper that Gwynn lacked the "intangibles" of a team player. Two unidentified Padres also were quoted as saying there was too much focus on Gwynn's countdown to 3,000, which has been extended because of the star's left calf injury.

After the game, Gwynn initially refused to speak with reporters. He eventually talked to a few beat writers, and although he was clearly angry about the story, he wouldn't comment on it.

While some of his teammates may not be happy with Gwynn, Padres manager Bruce Bochy praised the eight-time NL batting champion.

"Today he just had great at-bats," Bochy said. "That's what this club needs."

Tri-State runnerup

Doug Barron of Amarillo poses with the runnerup trophy from the Tri-State Senior Golf Association Tournament last week at the Pampa Country Club. Trophies and prizes were presented during the annual Tri-State banquet.

Life without Deion, Lett

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are going through training camp without their two best defenders, Deion Sanders and Leon Lett. They better get used to playing without them.

Sanders is recovering from toe surgery and Lett is suspended for failing yet another drug test. The team has no idea when either will be back; there's a good chance neither will suit up before October.

So with their preseason opener a week away and the regular season kicking off Sept. 12, all the Cowboys can do is wait.

"We just coach the guys who are here," coach Chan Gailey said. "We work with the things we can control."

Sanders is with the team at Midwestern State University, continuing the rehabilitation on his rebuilt left big toe. He's allowed to jog straight ahead and he's even playing some basketball, which forces him to flex his toes and put pressure on them.

Sanders attends every practice wearing a red do-rag with "Jesus" across the forehead. He walks around giving tips to the cornerbacks and occasionally helps on coverage drills by rifling left-handed passes.

"Deion, we've got to have you," a fan yelled to him Friday. "We're praying for you."

Yet the Cowboys have no idea when he'll be back. "We're all very curious," Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said. "It's looking good, but that's all we know."

Sanders is the most vital piece of the Dallas defense. When he lines up at cornerback, quarterbacks ignore his side of the field, giving teammates a smaller area to defend. He's also the NFL's most electrifying punt returner.

Harvesters start football practice on Wednesday

PAMPA — The Pampa high school football teams is set to begin practice sessions this week as players check out equipment at the PHS athletic building on Tuesday. Checkout times are 4:30 p.m. for seniors, 5:30 p.m. for juniors, 6:30 p.m. for sophomores and 7:30 p.m. for freshmen.

Wednesday, the Harvesters take to the field as the first day of two-a-day workouts begin. The morning practices will begin at 9 a.m. while afternoon practices will begin at 5:30 p.m. through next Monday, Aug. 9 (Monday) is the first day the team can put on pads, according to University Interscholastic League rules.

Meet the Harvesters night will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday in Harvester Stadium. Fans are invited to meet the players and coaching staff.

Rangers down Royals

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Ivan Rodriguez is glad he listened to the Texas Rangers' advice.

The All-Star catcher was told he would be mentally fresher down the stretch of the regular season if he played winter ball in Puerto Rico.

Rodriguez, who loves playing at home in front of family and friends during the off-season, complied, and now he's reaping the benefits.

Rodriguez had a career-high five hits and drove in four runs as the Rangers beat the Kansas City Royals 12-5 Sunday night. "In the past I did get a little tired late in the season," said Rodriguez. "Now I feel the opposite. I feel strong and happy."

Rodriguez hit a two-run homer and a two-run single during Texas' eight-run third and the Rangers went on to their 12th victory in their last 14 games.

In his last four games, Rodriguez is 13-for-19 with nine RBIs.

"My bat is quicker," Rodriguez said. "Tonight feels great. But the bottom line is I just want to help my team win."

Since the All-Star break, Rodriguez has hit safely in 14 of 15 games, going 33-for-70 (.471) over that span to raise his average from .295 to .328.

"He's a great talent, but the main thing is he loves to play the game," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "I had five hits in the minors once, but I don't think I had five hits in a week in the majors. He hits good pitches, he hits bad pitches, he has great hand-eye coordination. He's just being Pudge."

Aaron Sele (11-6) got enough support to win his fourth straight decision. Sele allowed five runs and eight hits in eight innings. He struck out seven and walked one.

Sele struggled through the middle innings, but retired the last seven batters he faced.

"I keep going back out there until they tell me I'm done," Sele said. "You've got to tip your cap to our hitters."

Ruben Mateo's double in the second gave Texas a 1-0 lead, but Kansas City tied it in the third on Johnny Damon's RBI groundout.

Texas broke the game open in the third, knocking out Brian Barber (1-3), who started in place of the traded Kevin Appier.

Rodriguez hit his 19th homer to put the Rangers in front 3-1 and later in the inning, Todd Zeile had a two-run double for a 5-1 lead.

Blake Stein, one of three pitchers acquired for Appier, gave up a sacrifice fly to Lee Stevens, and the inning's sixth run, scored on Stein's wild pitch. Rodriguez's two-run single extended Texas' advantage to 9-1.

Royce Clayton's RBI single in the fourth gave the Rangers a 10-1 lead, but Kansas City came back with a four-run fifth, including Rey Sanchez's run-scoring single and Carlos Beltran's three-run homer.

Stevens added a solo homer in the eighth.

The Rangers are 5-1 against the Royals this season, 17-5 vs. the AL Central.

"Eight runs in the third inning is hard to overcome, but we did make a game of it," Royals manager Tony Muser said.

Notes: Stein and Brad Rigby, two of the pitchers joined in the Appier deal, joined the Royals on Sunday. Jeff D'Amico went to the Royals Triple-A farm team in Omaha. To make room for the pitchers on the 40-man roster, right-hander Hipolito Pichardo and infielder Scott Leius were transferred from the 15- to the 60-day DL.

Barber allowed seven runs and seven hits in two-plus innings. The Rangers called up left-hander Doug Davis from their Oklahoma Triple-A farm team and sent right-hander Jonathon Johnson to Oklahoma. The Rangers have scored eight runs in an inning three times this season. Rodriguez has 11 multi-hit games in his last 15 games and has 18 RBIs in his last 12 games.

It's Duval vs. Woods

By DOUG FERGUSON
AP Golf Writer

They didn't play against each other in the Masters or the Memorial. It hasn't happened at Pinehurst or The Players Championship.

They rarely play well in the same tournaments, which is why Tiger Woods and David Duval are never seen on the same television screen.

That's about to change, even if the only thing at stake are bragging rights and a difference of $700,000.

In the first golf event televised live in prime time by a network, Woods and Duval will play an 18-hole match Monday night at Sherwood Country Club in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Sure, the "Showdown at Sherwood" is a fabricated, made-for-television affair. The winner will earn $1.1 million from a $1.5 million purse (each donating $200,000 to charity) for a mere 3 1/2 hours of work. Both would gladly trade the exhibition for the back nine at Augusta National or even Medinah next week in the PGA Championship.

ABC Sports, which will broadcast the event at 8 p.m. EDT, is banking on the fact that no one will care about anything other than watching the best two players in the world finally go head-to-head.

"It gives us an opportunity to kind of expose the game in a little different light, in a different time frame, on a different day and probably to a different crowd than would usually see the game," Duval said.

For those viewers who don't know a birdie from a bogey, they will see to players who share virtually nothing in common except their skill.

Woods is one of the most dynamic personalities in sports. He took golf to the front pages by winning the Masters in record fashion, becoming the youngest champion and the first one of color. His arrival is a big reason the PGA Tour landed a $136 million television contract, which made everyone around him richer.

"I might be a golf star, but I think Tiger is a star," Duval said. "He transcends the game."

Duval is everything Woods is not — collected, methodical, emotionless. Behind those wraparound sunglasses are eyes that look lifeless, just like a shark before it tears into its prey.

"He's very calm, very level-headed, and it comes out when he plays," Woods said. "He is very methodical, very cool. He doesn't get excited, doesn't get frustrated. He just goes about his business."

Never mind that the event is essentially no different from Shell's Wonderful World of Golf matches, except for the live television. Never mind that the two richest players in golf are about to get even richer. Or that both players are represented by IMG, the sprawling sports agency that proposed the match.

What makes the match compelling is the fact they have clearly raised their game a notch above everyone else. They are the only players to be No. 1 in the world ranking this year, a position currently held by Woods.

"I think that they're arguably the two best players in the game today," Nicklaus said. "I don't think there's any question about that."

Duval stormed to top of the rankings by becoming the first player in 25 years to win four times before the Masters. That included the Bob Hope Classic, where he became the first player to shoot a 59 on a Sunday.

Woods came back strong. In six tournaments after his post-Masters break, he has won three times and not finished worse than seventh — and that includes two majors, a third in the U.S. Open and a tie for seventh in the British Open.

Red Sox hand Yankees 5-4 setback

BOSTON (AP) — Bret Saberhagen stopped his three-game winless streak and Orlando Hernandez suffered his first loss in 46 days as the Boston Red Sox beat the New York Yankees 5-4 Sunday night.

Saberhagen (7-4) retired the last 14 batters he faced before reliever Tim Wakefield nearly blew the game.

Wakefield allowed a RBI single by Paul O'Neill and Bernie Williams' RBI triple in the eighth before Tino Martinez's fly out ended the inning.

Chili Davis led the ninth with a double, a walk to Scott Brosius and a single by Chuck Knoblauch. But Wakefield retired Derek Jeter for the save.

Saberhagen gave up five hits in seven innings and struck out three.

Hernandez (12-7) gave up five runs on eight hits in five-plus innings.

Boston broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth, scoring on Nomar Garciaparra's run-scoring single and Troy O'Leary's two-run homer, all off Hernandez.

Pipeline group hosting educational program

The Pipeline Group's annual Public Education — Contractor Awareness Program will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 3 in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium, 1100 W. Coronado Dr. The program will focus on accident prevention by identifying pipeline and utility rights of way, use of one-call systems and the role pipeline and utility companies play in excavations near underground facilities. The new state law requiring notification to a one-call system before excavation will also be discussed.

A free barbecue will be catered by Dyer's Bar-B-Que for those involved in excavation related activities in Armstrong, Carson, Donley, Gray, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Roberts and Wheeler Counties.

Each year many lives are injured or lost plus millions of dollars in repairs and lost products are incurred due to "third party" incidents — someone digging into a pipeline. Thousands of communications, some life-threatening, may be disrupted when expensive fiber-optic cables are damaged or severed. These types of excavation can be financially devastating to the responsible party. This safety program is an attempt to help those who do excavation work to avoid such situations.

The program will be sponsored by a group of companies with a common goal of preventing accidents and damages to underground pipelines and utilities. The sponsors will provide promotional materials such as safety related brochures and other safety reminders.

Sponsors include: Celanese LTD, Colorado Intrastate Gas

Co., Crescendo Resources LP, Diamond Shamrock Refining and Marketing Co., El Paso Natural Gas Co., KN Energy/Natural Gas Pipeline Co./American Pipeline Co., Koch Pipeline Co. LP, Lone Star Pipeline Co., MidCoast Gas Services Inc., Northern Natural Gas Co./Transwestern Pipeline Co., Phillips Pipe Line Co., Transok LLC, Williams/Mid-America Pipeline Co.

Keeping an eye on Texas

Gone fishing

The economic impact of anglers in Texas is more than $6.3 billion. More than 2.6 million adult anglers spent $2.8 billion in 1996 on various items ranging from trips and equipment to food, bait and fuel.

Fishing tips

- ✓ Sunscreen will kill live bait, so be sure to wash your hands before handling bait.
- ✓ Take an ice chest to ice down your catch as opposed to keeping fish in a live well, since the water can reach higher temperatures than the water the fish were caught out of.
- ✓ Add ice to the bait bucket to keep the temperature down and the bait lively. Your bait will last longer and be more productive catching fish.
- ✓ Wear polarized sunglasses to cut glare off the water and enable you to locate certain fish when sight casting.

Study: New drug for Parkinson's disease has fewer side effects shows that a relatively new drug for treating Parkinson's disease produces less of a debilitating side effect than the most widely prescribed drug used for the disorder.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — New research presented Tuesday and Movement Disorders Center at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Oliver Rascol of the Centre Hospitalier Universitaire, Toulouse, France, presented the study at a medical conference in Vancouver, British Columbia. The study was paid for by the drug's maker, SmithKline Beecham, but run independently.

The study compared the widely used levodopa with the newer drug Requip, made by SmithKline Beecham, which has its U.S. headquarters in Philadelphia. Requip was approved by the federal government just two years ago while levodopa, also known as Sinemet, has been available for 35 years and is given to 75 percent of patients.

Levodopa is the most effective treatment for the symptoms of Parkinson's, which include tremors, slow movement, rigidity and poor balance. But it has a side effect — involuntary body movements.

For most patients, this is mostly a social embarrassment. But in some patients, "it can be even more troublesome, preventing you from being able to eat or to sit up in a chair," Rascol said.

An expert not involved in the study agreed.

"Some of the longer-term complications are much more difficult to manage ... and can be as disabling as the disease itself," said Dr. Matthew B. Stern, director of the Parkinson's Disease

The five-year study shows that treating patients with Requip at the outset ... resulted in fewer involuntary body movements than the common treatment of using levodopa from the beginning.

Requip is one of a promising new class of drugs called dopamine agonists. They still have side effects, including confusion, upset stomach, lightheadedness, hallucinations and sleepiness, but they are not as disabling as the involuntary body movements, Stern said.

The five-year study shows that treating patients with Requip at the outset, and using levodopa only when Parkinson's symptoms become bad enough to require the stronger drug, resulted in fewer involuntary body movements than the common treatment of using levodopa from the beginning.

"You can delay the levodopa and you can use lower doses of levodopa," Rascol said. In a minority of cases, no levodopa is needed at all, he said.

Previous studies supported a similar conclusion, but Rascol's study had more reliable conclusions than earlier ones, Stern said.

For one thing, this study selected the patients early on and tracked them throughout their treatments. Also, this was a "double-blind" study in which neither the patients nor the people tracking the symptoms knew which drugs were in use.

According to SmithKline Beecham, 130 people completed the study, 85 on Requip and 45 on levodopa. Among those given Requip, 27 percent suffered side effects, compared with 29 percent of those on levodopa.

However, the incidence of uncontrollable body movements was 5 percent for Requip and 36 percent for levodopa.

Structure improves homework habits

HOUSTON — A structured environment can help children overcome their problems with homework. "One homework essential is adequate study space with good lighting and few distractions," said Dr. Florence Eddins, a child psychiatrist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "Desks in rooms are fine, but the kitchen or dining room table often work better and allow for better parental supervision."

Parents should talk with children and set a specific time each day to complete homework. Parents should also confer with teachers to find out what they expect from children when it comes to homework. A small reward for completing assignments can also turn homework into a positive experience.

Sleep is important for learning

HOUSTON — Getting plenty of sleep will help children concentrate in the classroom.

"Missing sleep causes most of the day's experiences to be stored inefficiently in the brain," said Dr. Bruce Perry, a child psychiatrist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "Interactions with teachers, book chapters and lectures are harder to remember if a child is sleep deprived."

Perry adds that students should study a little bit a time, instead of cramming for tests. Resting for a while studying will help them process the information properly in the brain.

Seniors need to be social

HOUSTON — Studies have shown that social interaction is a critical part of the mental and physical well-being of senior citizens.

"The death of a spouse or life-long friends, the loss of a job, or a serious illness can make it difficult for some older people to maintain social contacts," said Dr. Robert Luchi with the Huffington Center on Aging at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "Activities such as volunteering, card playing and eating at a senior activity center are good avenues for social interaction."

A lack of social interaction can lower an older person's self-esteem, and, in some cases, cause severe depression.

Missing a dose could cause problems

HOUSTON — Failing to follow instructions when it comes to taking antibiotics could cause problems.

"Skipping a dose of an antibiotic can cause the level of antibiotic in the body to drop, allowing disease-carrying bacteria to recover, thus making the infection worse," said Dr. Armando Correa, an infectious disease expert at Baylor College of Medicine and Texas Children's Hospital in Houston. It's important to complete the number of days on the label, and if there is no indication on the bottle, finish the bottle, even if you ate feeling better.

Correa says doubling up on antibiotics later will not help the situation.

Early diagnosis helps in treatment of testicular cancer

HOUSTON — Testicular cancer can be treated effectively if it is caught early.

"This cancer can be found as a hard area or knot on the testicle," said Dr. Seth Lerner, a urologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "It can also cause pain or inflammation in the tissue around the testicle or in a fluid filled sack around the testicle called the hydrocele."

This type of cancer is it can be found on self-examination. Lerner encourages men to examine themselves at least once a month. Treating the problem before the cancer spreads to the lungs or the lymphnodes in the back part of the abdomen is key to beating the disease.

New surgeries help women avoid hysterectomy

HOUSTON — Two new minimally invasive surgeries can help a woman who experience heavy bleeding during her menstrual cycle avoid a hysterectomy.

"Uterine balloon therapy can be performed once tests determine polyps or fibroids are not located in the inner lining of the uterus," said Dr. Robert Zurawin, an assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "A heating element surrounded by a balloon filled with hot water is inserted into the uterus through the cervix, destroying the lining of the uterus, the part that sheds during a woman's period."

During bipolar hysteroscopic cautery, physicians insert a thin telescope the size of drinking straw into the uterus. The low electrical current then removes polyps or fibroids found on the uterus.

Women will experience pain equivalent to menstrual cramps for a day after surgery, but usually return to routine activities within a couple of days. Both surgeries are not recommended for women who still want to have children.

Following Your Doctor's Orders

- One-third of all patients take all of their medicine; one-third take some; and one-third don't take any
- 21 percent of all patients never get their prescriptions filled
- Over half of all prescriptions are taken incorrectly

Make sure you understand and follow your doctor's orders.

HOW CAN I HELP IN THE TREATMENT PROCESS?

It is important to mention to your therapist your reactions to the process of change, using hypnosis, regardless of how unfair or ridiculous they may seem. Important clues may be derived from your reactions, dreams and resistance's to provide understanding of your inner conflicts and help in your progress.

The Golden Phoenix Center has been appointed the specific mission of improving the psychological health of patients 65 years of age or older who require short term psychiatric hospitalization.
