Council Studying Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Mine Workers' 38-member bargaining council meets tonight to consider whether to recommend rank and file ratification of an agreement on wages, benefits and work rules for 120,000 miners.

Union President Arnold Miller said he expected approval by the bargaining council and the miners.

The agreement between negotiators for the miners and the soft coal mine operators was reached Wednesday night. If approved by the miners in a nationwide ratification vote, coal mines in 25 states—shut down since midnight Monday—would be back in operation before Thanksgiving.

Following announcement of the agreement, steel companies took the first steps toward canceling cutbacks triggered by the coal miners strike. Republic Steel Corp., which had reduced coke operations 50 per cent when the strike started, canceled the cutback.

Many local union leaders said they expected quick ratification. "They (the rank and file) seem to be very enthused over the agreement," said Dennis Scarborough, secretary-treasurer of UMW District 31 at Fairmont, W.Va. "We're really open for a quick settlement on it."

Union officials said today a conference of representatives from about 800 union locals will be held Monday in Pittsburgh so that the contract terms can be explained fully before a secret ballot vote is conducted.

The bargaining council meeting here was scheduled for 6 p.m. EST.

WAITING FOR SANDIE — Pampa High School juniors wait around the wood pile collecting today for the annual burning of Sammie Sandie in preparation for the homecoming game between the Harvesters and Amarillo High School tomorrow night. From left are Tammy Long, Karen Moler, Susie Botkin and Selena Scoggin. Activities for the bonfire will begin at 7 p.m. today on the football practice field west of Harvester Stadium.

Price Index Signals Still More Inflation

Spurred by a 56.4 per cent annual increase in food prices, the wholesale price index rose an adjusted 2.3 per cent in October, signaling worse inflation for consumers in the months ahead, the Labor Department reported today.

The October surge was a big jump from the September increase, whose relatively modest 0.1 per cent increase had caused some administration officials to express hopes that inflationary pressures were easing.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said farm products and processed foods and feeds rose 4.7 per cent in October following a decline in September—an adjusted annual rate of 56.4 per cent.

Translated into an annual rate of increase, the latest figures meant that between November of 1973 and this October wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 27.6 per cent. Previous to October, the 12-month increase rate was 22.6 per cent, the BLS estimated.

There was some encouraging news in that industrial commodities, which make up two-thirds of the index, rose at approximately the same rate as in September.

The White House admitted for the first time this week that the nation was moving into a recession based on economic figures to be released this month, especially the Gross National Product which will be released Friday. The GNP is expected to be worse than originally reported last month.

The BLS, which compiles price data to determine the wholesale index, said autos, chemicals and machinery led the upward momentum in October.

The BLS said the index was at 170.0 in October, indicating that goods bought by wholesalers last month were 70 per cent higher than in the base year 1967.

Wholesale prices usually foretell future rises in consumer prices.

Despite the increases in the food area, the BLS said the index for farm products was 0.5 per cent lower in October than for October, 1973. But manufacturers in the processing of the raw farm goods have raised prices over the same period 19.1 per cent, accounting for the higher prices consumers pay in the supermarket.

The BLS said prices of foods that had been manufactured into consumer finished form such as cereal and bakery products increased sharply. Other prices of consumer-ready foods such as pork, eggs, milk and lamb contributed to the acceleration in the food category. Prices declined for beef, veal and fresh vegetables.

There were indications in the industrial commodities index that the inflationary pressures may have peaked in October. The BLS said all industrial commodities, which comprise two-thirds of the index, rose 1.1 per cent in October, virtually matching the pace in September and down sharply from increases that had ranged from 2.0 to 2.9 per cent over the previous nine months.

Industrial commodities are the goods used in the manufacture of most consumer durable and nondurable goods. The index takes into account prices charged by wholesalers through about the middle of the month. There have been declines in prices since mid-October which should be reflected in the November index.

Truck Accident Kills Pampa Resident Today

Elmer Keller, 59, 532 N. Faulkner, was pronounced dead at 8:30 a.m. today at Highland General Hospital as a result of injuries sustained in a two-vehicle accident southeast of Pampa.

According to investigating Department of Public Safety Officer Jay Fielding, a two-and-a-half-ton truck driven by Keller was in collision with a pickup operated by Chris Ward Kelley, 24, Lefors. Kelley was not injured in the accident.

Reports said Mr. Keller was northbound on a dirt county road and was pulling onto State Highway 273 when the mishap occurred about 7:30 a.m. six miles southeast of Pampa.

Metropolitan Ambulance Service transported the injured man to Highland General Hospital.

Mr. Keller was a steamer for A&A Steam Service.

He was born Oct. 10, 1915 in Louisville, Ky. He married Colleen Redman, Aug. 29, 1938 at Mountainview Ark., and had been a resident of Pampa since 1951. He was a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II.

Funeral services will be conducted from Duenkel Memorial Chapel at 2 p.m. Friday.

Survivors include his wife; four daughters, Mrs. Ruby Fern Scafford, Breckenridge; Mrs. Betty Lou McCoy, Pampa; Mrs. Fran Nichols, Mineral Wells; and Mrs. Sally Jo Taylor, Pampa; three sisters, two brothers and eight grandchildren.

ISRAEL FEARFUL

Arafat's Speech Leaves U.N. Delegations Divided

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Arab guerilla leader Yasser Arafat departed New York today for Cuba, leaving behind a United Nations deeply divided over the future of Palestine and an Israel fearful of its eventual destruction at the hands of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Arafat, in a militant speech to the General Assembly, in which he was accorded honors of a visiting chief of state, called for creation of a Palestine in which Jews, Arabs and Christians could live side by side. Israel said that meant destruction of the Jewish state.

With the so-called "Third Force" expressing a more and more pro-Arab stance in the General Assembly, diplomatic sources said there was an increasing threat that Israel might even be expelled from the current U.N. session as was South Africa.

A more complete picture of Arab aims and possible delineation of a resolution they hoped to get from the Assembly's Palestinian debate was expected when Lebanese President Suleiman Franjeh, a Maronite Christian, addresses the assembly today.

Lebanese sources said Arafat had outlined what should be done for the Palestinians in the Middle East and that Franjeh would augment his remarks by suggesting how it should be done.

Havana radio said Arafat had arrived in Havana at invitation of Premier Fidel Castro.

City Getting Little Public Cooperation On Hazards

Response to an appeal for property owner cooperation in the campaign to eliminate hazardous "blind corners" at many Pampa street intersections has been negligible, City Manager Mack Wofford said today.

With Mayor R.D. Wilkerson proclaiming November "Traffic Safety Month" in Pampa, city officials and the City Traffic Commission have placed special emphasis on removing shrubs or trees, vehicles and fences that obstruct clear vision for motorists at street intersections.

The city manager said a field crew from the city engineering department has a list of approximately 120 locations in Pampa that have been designated as blind corners.

He added that the city is in the process of determining whether the obstructions are on private or public property. Obstacles on private property will result in property owners being notified and asked to voluntarily remove them.

City assistance in the removal will be available, he said. Property owners should call City Hall (665-8481) if they need help and there will be no charge.

Obstructions on public property will be removed by city workers.

Wofford said the 120 blind corner intersections are located in all sections of Pampa.

The city manager again pointed out there is a city ordinance covering the blind corner problem which gives the city authority to act.

He again renewed the appeal for voluntary citizen cooperation in the cleaning up of the traffic hazard situation.

Wofford said the city already has removed a trash dumpster at Somerville and Atchison streets that had been the source of complaints from motorists.

Youth Suffers From Injuries

Eighteen-month-old William Patrick Walker, son of Jesus Aguilar and Carolyn Walker Aguilar, 1325 E. Frederick, was transferred from Highland General Hospital to St. Anthony's in Amarillo Wednesday suffering with suspected brain injuries or damage.

The child reportedly had fallen and bumped his head earlier in the day, causing abrasions on his face.

Police reports said the child, according to a family member, did not seem to be injured following the accident but had become ill later.

The nature or cause of the child's injury was not available early today.

Commissioners Okay Band Uniform Funds

In action shortly before noon today, Gray County Commissioners agreed to a partial distribution of permanent school funds to Pampa High School for purchase of uniforms for the marching band.

An emergency meeting of Pampa school trustees will be conducted at 7 a.m. Friday in Coronado Inn to let a contract for purchase of the sets, Paul Simmons said.

BLIND CORNER — This intersection at the corner of Francis and Frost Sts. is one of the traffic hazards receiving consideration by the City of Pampa in an effort to eliminate driving hazards at "blind corners" throughout the city. The city has reported negligible response from the public in voluntary cooperation for removing the hazards.

Snowstorm Hits Nation's Midwest Section, 3 Dead

A dry Canadian cold front swept across the Panhandle late Wednesday, dropping temperatures 30 degrees and packing winds up to 30 miles an hour.

Skies in the Panhandle were generally fair to partly cloudy today but the Midwest section of the nation was suffering under the nation's first major snowstorm of the season, with at least three deaths reported.

Pampa's high Wednesday reached a mild 61 before the front began its trek across the area. Low this morning was 31.

Partly cloudy skies are in the forecast through Friday, with a slight warming trend expected to raise the high up to near 60 in the Pampa vicinity.

In UPI reports: A powerful snowstorm—the first of the season—dumped heavy snows across the midlands Wednesday night and early today, glazing highways and touching off a flurry of accidents.

A near record 5.4 inches of snow fell on Detroit, the heaviest for this date since 1951. At Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, police were called out Wednesday to disperse a "snowball riot" in which 200-250 students pelted campus buildings. No arrests were made.

At least three persons died in weather-related traffic mishaps.

Eugene Holmes, 48, of Maywood, Ill., was killed Wednesday when his truck collided with an auto on icy pavement near St. Charles, Ill.

An 18-year-old Iowa youth was killed when he lost control of his car on a snow-slicked highway in northwestern Iowa and struck a truck. A Calumet City, Ill., youth also was killed in a three-car accident late Tuesday in the early hours of the storm in Chicago's southeast suburbs.

Chicago expressways were tangled by multiple accidents. One 10-car pileup on the Eisenhower Expressway left one person injured. A 20-car crash on the Illinois Tollway tied up traffic but there were no injuries.

A wide belt of snow clogged the upper Great Lakes Region, stretching from Iowa across Illinois to Indiana and reaching into Michigan and Ohio.

Moline, Ill., reported five inches of snow, four inches piled up in Peru, Ind., and Hancock, Mich., in the Upper Peninsula, got eight inches of new snow. Several Iowa cities reported as much as four inches of snow.

The National Weather Service termed the storm the first major snowstorm of the season.

"The snowballers are out already," said one Chicago cab driver as he wiped the snow from the spot where a snowball had struck his passenger side window. "The kids are lining up on the streets and looking for targets."

Chicago reported only an inch of snow, but heavier snowfalls were reported in the south and south suburbs. The National Weather Service said four and a half inches of snow was reported in far south suburban Crete. Heavy snow warnings were in effect today for northern Indiana, southeastern Michigan and northern Ohio.

Sacred Cows Are Milked Of Truisms

By MAX RAFFERTY
Every so often I do a "believe it or not" kind of column in which certain widely accepted sacred cows are milked of their self-evident truisms, if I may wax redundant. Here, for the record, are four propositions we've had pounded into our heads for the last 10 years by the media. Lo! nary a one of them turns out to be even remotely true.

1 - ROTC is disappearing from our college campuses because of massive student resistance to militarism in any form.

FACT - A few colleges, mostly in the Northeast, dropped ROTC in the late '60s, but even then there were far more applicants on the waiting list for the program than there were institutions phasing it out. Today more students are in it than ever before. Secretary of the Army Howard Callaway last spring announced "No institution has requested ROTC termination since 1971. No requests are pending, and there are 19 school applications for ROTC on file."

So much for the rabid rhetoric, the threats and the burnings of the Sick Sixties. One of the main targets of the crazies is today stronger than ever.

2 - "Acupuncture - an ancient secret of the mystic Orient - is amazingly effective and indeed is part of a medical wave of the future."

Sorry it isn't. Dr. John Bonica, chairman of the anesthesiology department at the University of Washington, said in June of this year "Acupuncture may have some value as an anesthetic, but appears to have no value as treatment for disease."

Anyone for "eye of newt and toe of frog"?

3 - "Marijuana is a mild and harmless intoxicant, less dangerous than alcohol."

Hear now Dr. Davis Powelson, chief of the department of psychiatry at the University of California at Berkeley, who 10 years ago favored legalizing pot: "Marijuana is the most dangerous drug we must contend with."

He documents these results of pot-puffing: impairment of mental functioning, paranoid thinking after heavy usage, irreversible deterioration in body and mental functioning, and an irresistible urge to "push" marijuana onto nonusers.

4 - "Home environment and socioeconomic backgrounds are far more important to child learning than are school instructional programs."

This was the substance of the "Coleman Report" eight years ago, which became Holy Writ for the busers and the ethnic balancers. According to New York state's Office of Education Review, schools count after all, at least in teaching kids how to read. Two inner-city schools with nearly identical facilities, staff and low-income students are turning out graduates with "Substantially different reading skills."

School A has 25 percent of its students ready at or above grade level. School B has only 16 percent. Why? Daniel Klepac, director of the recent study, says it's due to "sound managerial practices and instructional leadership."

Translation by your friendly columnist: "School A set specific goals, instructed its teachers to meet them, used no-nonsense discipline and reading methods and accepted no stupid excuses for nonreading such as peer group alienation and absence of relevance."

So there you are. ROTC isn't becoming extinct, acupuncture isn't curing anybody, pot isn't harmless at all, and teaching is not necessarily less important than home environment.

WATCH ON WASHINGTON Rocky's Lack Of Candor Spurs More Questioning

By C. MOLLENHOFF
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Nelson A. Rockefeller's lack of candor with FBI agents is expected to be a major focal point for further questioning on his gift-giving and responsibility for derogatory biography of political opponent Arthur Goldberg.

Some House Judiciary Committee members believe that the erroneous and misleading statements Rockefeller gave could cause the defeat of his nomination to be vice president.

The statements were made by Rockefeller to FBI agents investigating him for the Senate Rules Committee and the House Judiciary Committee. The still-secret reports on Rockefeller's statements are now certain to be explored at length.

Members of both committees consider the reports containing the New York multimillionaire's initial answers to questions about Victor Lasky's biography of Goldberg to be vital evidence on whether Rockefeller was engaging in a willful cover-up.

According to some who have seen the FBI reports, Rockefeller volunteered nothing about the production of the Lasky book, published during his 1970 campaign for governor of New York when he ran against Goldberg.

Rockefeller registered complete surprise when informed that $60,000 from Laurance Rockefeller went into production and distribution of the Goldberg biography.

Nelson Rockefeller reportedly told the FBI he knew nothing about the financing of what Goldberg has called "a hatchet job biography," and he would have advised against it had he known it was being done.

The FBI traced the Laurance Rockefeller funding through a series of fronts established to hide the source of the financing.

In the light of later admissions of advance knowledge that Lasky was writing a highly critical biography of Goldberg, his initial denials appear to be a willful deception of the FBI.

Nelson Rockefeller's subsequent acceptance of "full responsibility" for the publication of the derogatory Goldberg biography appears to be a direct contradiction of his story that he had "no responsibility" for the book and no knowledge it was being produced.

As many Watergate figures have learned, it is a violation of federal law to knowingly give a false story to an agent of the FBI on a material point.

While many political figures understand a few "dirty tricks" in election campaigns, in the context of the Watergate hearings and prosecutions there can be no public defense of political figures who give false or leading answers to law enforcement officials.

Conservative Republican critics of Governor Rockefeller, who say they are familiar with the FBI reports, contend that Rockefeller's statements are comparable to Senator Edward M. Kennedy's initial misleading accounts of the Cappaquiddick tragedy.

Liberal Democrats say Rockefeller's initial denials on the Goldberg book were a "cover story" comparable to former President Richard Nixon's press conference explanations of his role in Watergate cover-up.

Support Your Politician!

Depression is a time when the private sector suffers. In fact, that is a definition. If you want a depression, lend your support to those popular causes that result in penalties upon the non-government segment of the economy. When a sufficient number of individuals join in a program to harass business, they assure themselves of maximum financial distress in minimum time.

One thing the private sector does not need is additional taxes. Yet additional taxes are precisely the nostrum that the Ford Administration is preparing to apply to a wounded patient. Just as the doctors of two centuries ago applied leeches to George Washington and led him to weakness so that he died, so the economic practitioners of our day are applying the tax leech to the civic physique.

One thing that held up the blood-letting tax process to the present time was a difference of opinion among the Potomac society as to which organ to stick the needle into. One school of opinion wished to plunge the suction device into the gas tank. Another argued that the gouge should be infected nearer to the region of the pocketbook, namely, a surtax on personal incomes greater than $15,000 ($7,500 for a single individual).

The individual who earns less than the stated amounts a year may have no objection to a surtax on those who earn more. He is looking through the knothole of his own experience, and actually by fastening his attention upon his own business he pursues a course that is generally healthy. But nature gave us eyes that have peripheral vision to take in at a glance the fuller scene. As with our eyes, so with our reason.

Just a mild employment of rationality shows that those who draw their immediate livelihood from the private sector suffer when the private sector is hit by taxes and other forms of harassment. Even those who draw their pay from tax-supported jobs ultimately depend on the well-being of the productive worker whose making of marketable products and services create the dollars that tinkle in the tax collector's till.

Precious little would the federal, state and local crews receive if all they had to tax were one another!

Surcharge or gasoline tax — the final difference is slight. Both are a subtraction from productivity. Take away a man's gasoline, and the service station attendant goes on the dole. Take away a man's personal income by the surcharge, and you deprive the country of investment dollars for construction and capital tools essential for jobs.

If you yearn for a depression, there is an easy way to get it. Let the tax-taking tax-spending politicians know that you trust them with their hands in your pocket.

Whether officialdom plunders your earnings via overt taxation, such as the gasoline tax and income surtax, or via the covert tax of monetary inflation, the effect is the same: purchasing power has been taken away from those who earned it and given to those who didn't.

THAT'S THE QUESTION Freeze Or Not To Freeze?

By VICTOR RIESEL
WASHINGTON — To freeze or not to freeze (wages and prices) is the question being asked more often than there are queries on who's offering Muhammad Ali $10 million for another free-swinging waltz.

In the highest circles — rarified — one gets two very definitive answers, take your pick. Just the other day at lunch in New York's Automation House, Longshoremen's leader Teddy Gleason flatly predicted, "We'll get wage and price controls soon after Election Day."

That's why, said he, the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA-AFL-CIO) pushed for such a tough and early settlement which gives some dockworkers as much as $40,000 a year, guarantees others $16,000 annually, work or no work, and costs the New York shippers alone some $40 million annually to compensate the waterfront unemployed.

Now from the smaller independent West Coast Longshoremen, led by the long-silent Harry Bridges, comes word that he too expects wage and price controls — and wants his union's Pacific Maritime Assn. contracts reopened.

But it's national AFL-CIO vice president Gleason who's in a better posture to know. He based his prediction on "political sources" who came seeking his union's support. Says he, they told him the controls are inevitable. So he pushed hard to sign up for big increases for another three years.

Congress will move, he averred. And they will pass stabilization measures which will force the President to sign the bills, or bill. Of course, Teddy may be wrong.

He uses THEIR money for HIS charities

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who has always been a very serious-minded and responsible boy, has just started college away from home.

We opened a checking account for him, and agreed to send him through college as long as his grades held up. We get all his cancelled checks, and were shocked to learn that so far he has written checks totalling $350 to support a far out religious group he became interested in since he started college.

My husband has worked hard for his money. We support our own church, and don't feel that our money should be used in this manner.

Our son has worked and earned some money, which is also in his checking account, and he claims that he is supporting this religious cult with HIS money, not ours.

He is a sensitive boy, but easily persuaded, and we fear he has been taken in. We are not made of money, and want to know how to handle this situation. THANK YOU.

UPSET MOTHER

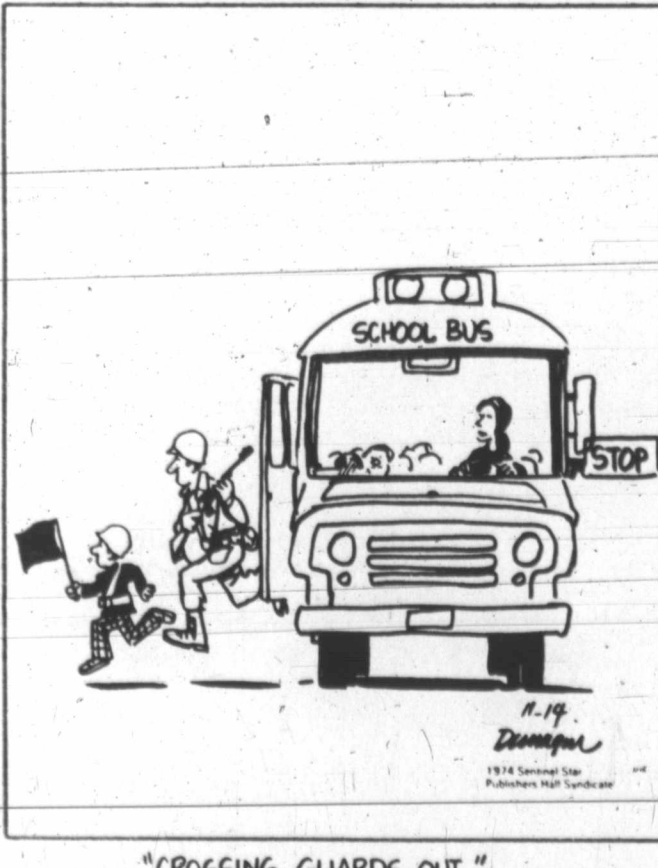

DEAR UPSET: You agreed to subsidize your son's education—not his religious charities. Pay his tuition and other related college expenses and let him donate his hard-earned money (not yours) to whatever he wishes.

Missionaries Found Murdered

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Psychiatrists at a federal prison hospital will examine a 42-year-old fugitive during the next 90 days to see if he is sane and can stand trial for the murders of two Mormon missionaries whose partial remains were found near the suspect's stolen house trailer.

Robert Elmer Kleason, wanted in New York for assault and in custody in Texas for a federal gun violation when the capital murder charges were filed Wednesday, was ordered to the Springfield, Mo., hospital because of what authorities described as his "bizarre behavior."

Kleason, a gun-fancier and hunter once arrested for buffalo rustling in Texas, appeared pale and unshaven in his courtroom appearance. Authorities said he had been "out of his head" at times in the past apparently as the result of a hunting accident.

Officials of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints reported as missing Gary Smith Darly, 20, Simi Valley, Calif., and Mark Fisher, 19, Milwaukee, and police learned the two missionaries were to have had dinner with Kleason Oct. 28—the day they were last seen.

Darley had been in Austin five months. Fischer about five weeks, according to church officials.

The men's stripped car was found on the parking lot of an Austin apartment Nov. 4.

Federal agents searched Kleason's trailer Nov. 5 and he was arrested later that night at a church meeting in Burnet, Tex., on charges of falsifying a gun purchase application.

Police Chief R.A. Miles announced parts of the men's bodies were found near Kleason's trailer Tuesday, but refused to elaborate.

Miles said Kleason is believed to have killed the two men during a robbery on Oct. 28.

Texas Ranger Wallace Spillar filed the capital murder complaint—a charge which carries the death penalty in Texas—and Travis County Justice of the Peace Jim McMurtry set bond at $100,000.

Miles revealed at his brief news conference Kleason's trailer was stolen from an Oak Hill lot a year ago. The trailer has been moved to the Texas Department of

Mutscher Planning Conviction Appeal

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gus Mutscher's attorney plans an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court before January of the former Texas House Speaker's probated sentence for a bribery conspiracy conviction resulting from the state stock fraud scandal.

Attorney Frank Maloney Wednesday lost an appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals to stay the sentence.

"This was simply a formality," Maloney said. "We have to ask the state court for a stay before we file in the Supreme Court."

Mutscher, his aide S. Rush McGinty and former Rep. Tommy Shannon, D-Fort Worth, were convicted in Abilene in March, 1972. They were accused of helping pass legislation favorable to Houston financier Frank W. Sharp in return for rich stock deals. They received five year probated sentences.

Public Safety crime lab in Austin.

Kleason a former carpenter, was a graduate student at the University of Buffalo until he got into trouble with New York authorities over a 1971 shooting incident in Williamson, N.Y.

New York authorities seized 126 rifles and shotguns, 32 hand guns, four machine guns, teargas canisters, grenades, 100 pounds of gunpowder and 42,000 rounds of ammunition when he was arrested.

Kleason could not be found when his case came up for trial in April, 1973.

He came to the attention of authorities in Texas after he was charged with buffalo rustling. That charge was later dropped. He was held for several months pending hearings by Secretary of State Mark White on New York's extradition request which was later denied.

Official Opposes More Burnings

HOUSTON (UPI) — Louisiana's top environmentalist today opposed any effort to continue chemical burnings in the Gulf of Mexico because he said federal officials were unable to ensure a safe operation.

Shell Chemical Co. burned 4,200 tons of chemical waste aboard the specially equipped incinerator ship Vulcanus last month, and asked permission at a public hearing today to burn another 12,600 tons.

The Vulcanus will only be available to Shell officials several more weeks before it is scheduled to return to Europe.

Clint Pray, director of the Louisiana Governor's Council on Environmental Quality, said he opposed extension of Shell's burning permit because the Environmental Protection Agency failed to accurately monitor pollutants from last month's burn.

"We have concluded the EPA failed to comply with the permit requirements for monitoring, that they were technically unprepared to do so, and that the technical problems which would be encountered in preparing for a second research burn—during the short-time the Vulcanus is available in the Gulf—are totally beyond the capacity of EPA," Pray said.

"We will not, therefore, condone any attempts to whitewash the problems that would be posed by an extension of the permit."

Pray said he was unable to understand why Shell and the EPA supported ocean burning.

"It would be against the law, and would be against all of our environmental principles, to conduct such an incineration on United States territory," he said.

"How can we justify raking our dirt under the rug by transferring our own pollution problems to international waters?"

Pray has already asked the Louisiana attorney general's office to prepare an injunction request against any future burning in the Gulf unless federal officials promise more detailed monitoring.

SWCD Directors Attend State Meet

Curtis Schaffer and Milton Carpenter, directors of the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District, recently attended the 34th annual Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts meeting at San Antonio.

They were accompanied by their wives and Perry Gruhlkey, district conservationist, Soil Conservation Service.

The theme of the meeting was "Land Use Regulation." Informative talks were presented by John White, Commissioner of Texas Agriculture, and John Tower, U.S. Senator, Texas.

A resolution was passed by the districts stating that if any land-use planning laws are passed by Washington, the planning should be done by local people on a county basis.

Another resolution passed was in favor of not needing a permit to build a dam that will store less than 200 acre feet of water as the law stands at present a ten acre feet limitation has been proposed by the Professional Engineer Society of Texas.

Brooks' Request Denied

HOUSTON (UPI) — A state district judge has refused to move to another city the trial of David Owen Brooks, a defendant in the mass murders of 27 youths. Judge William M. Hatten Wednesday denied a request by Assistant District Attorney Donald Lambright that Hatten make the change of venue on his own motion as he did in the case of co-defendant Elmer Wayne Henley. "The facts of this case, the publicity and notoriety are no different," Lambright said. Hatten set a trial date for Feb. 17. Defense Attorney

Jim Skelton opposed moving the trial and requested Hatten impose a gag rule to keep the prosecution and defense from discussing the case publicly. "What we want to do is prohibit future publicity," Skelton said. "We don't want to be put in a position where we have to reveal our tactics."

Brooks, 19, is accused of murdering four of 27 teenagers found buried in shallow graves in August, 1973. Henley, 18, was convicted of six murders last August and is now serving a 594-year prison term. Amsted promptly fired

Odessa Student Newspaper Loses Press Freedom

ODESSA, Tex. (UPI) — "This is not a student newspaper," said University of Texas-Permian Basin President B.H. Amsted of the student newspaper. "We consider it a house organ." But Joel Asbery, 21, student editor of the four-page weekly newspaper, "The Windmill," thought otherwise. "I will not be a mouthpiece for the administration," the editor said. So when another student wrote a letter to the editor criticizing the University of Texas board of regents, Asbery printed it. Amsted promptly fired the student editor. And the school president ordered all 1,300 copies of last Friday's newspaper containing the critical letter destroyed in a shredding machine. "This is a grave injustice to the students at the college," Asbery said today of the West Texas school that opened just a year ago. "I printed the letter because I felt it was genuinely written by a student with something he had to say," Asbery said. "It was my obligation to print the letter. I represent all factions on campus." Asbery was offered a job in the university library but refused it. "I would not accept any position with that university," he said. Asbery said he plans to find part-time employment elsewhere. The university president claimed the paper was not to contain opinions and that Asbery was aware of it. "He knew the types of things that were to go into the paper and he chose to violate his agreement as an employee of the school," Amsted said. Control of the student newspaper was shifted from the mass communications department to the university news and information department, which planned to publish an edition of "The Windmill" today as a "newsletter." Under the production system for The Windmill, Dr. Robert Rothstein, chairman of the mass communications department, was supposed to initial every page of the paper prior to publication. Rothstein first refused to initial the edition with the controversial letter but later relented and initiated it "under protest." But when the letter was brought to the attention of Amsted, the shredding was ordered. Rothstein agreed with the decision. "If Dr. Rothstein feels we didn't have any right to represent the students, I think he was terribly wrong," Asbery said. The letter, written by senior government student John Moseley of Paris, Tex., criticized the University of Texas Board of Regents for firing of UT-Austin President Stephen H. Spurr. The letter stated that refusing to give "substantial student and faculty participation" in selecting the next Austin president was a "deplorable act of dictatorship." "It was matched only with (UT System Chancellor Charles) LeMaistre's unmitigated gall in refusing to give the faculty or press specific reasons for the action," the letter said. "It seems the members of the administrative hierarchy of the UT System have become dominos concerning free press, student government and the hasty dismissals of faculty and staff," the letter concluded. Letters to the editor had appeared in The Windmill before but this was the first time a controversial letter had appeared. An advisory committee of staff, faculty, student and administration representatives will decide if future letters to the editor will be published. About 10 million acres of Texas farm land is irrigated.

THINGS JUST AIN'T THE SAME

Bowery Bums Threatening Overcrowded Facilities

By BRENT BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI) — The down-and-outers are pouring into the flophouses and soup kitchens of Manhattan's Skid Row, and worried city officials wonder how they'll be able to feed and shelter everybody when winter comes.

"That's when the flood will hit," said Dr. Robert Reich, a psychiatrist with the Human Resources Administration and a frequent visitor to the dimly lit, rubbish strewn streets along the Bowery.

"Right now, facilities are overcrowded. The men who are still sleeping outdoors will have to go indoors soon — but most of the hotels are full."

Frank Wexler, the agency's assistant director for institutional services, says the newcomers are putting a strain on the city's main dining room for derelicts, the Shelter Care Center for Men.

"It's the worst it's been since the early '50s," he said. "Right now, we're feeding 1,500 men a day at the shelter — about 20 per cent more than at the same time last year. If we keep getting men at the same rate, we'll be in trouble."

Wexler blamed the depressed economy for the crisis. "They're drifting in from all over the city," he said. "Most of them have just marginal skills, and they just get squeezed out whenever there's a crunch."

Another problem is that a lot of men who usually migrate south when winter comes are staying put this year.

"Transportation costs are up, and word is getting around that there's just nothing for them in Florida anymore," Reich said.

He also said most state mental institutions are now releasing "chronically dysfunctional" patients — those who have permanent disorders but are able to "get by" — on the theory local communities should care for them.

"A lot of them gravitate to places like the Bowery," he said.

Struggling to make ends meet in the Bowery and its side streets, however, is nothing new for either the bureaucrats or the bums.

What is new are the hordes of young, aggressive derelicts pouring into the area. "Nearly 40 per cent are now under 30," Wexler said. "A lot of the older men are getting crowded out by the militant young ones."

Burford Peterson, director of the Fellowship Center, a counseling service, was more blunt. "The young ones are robbing the old guys," he said. "People are getting killed. The old-timers are spreading out to the other boroughs."

Two old derelicts standing in front of a honky-tonk bar on the corner of Houston St. and the Bowery groped for words to express their frustration at the change.

"It's always been the depression around here, nothing new about that," said a black panhandler who calls himself John. "But, I don't know, I think I'm getting out. Things just ain't the same."

"It's the young ones," said his bearded friend, who goes by the name of Red and says he used to be a computer technician. "You gotta watch out for them. They're the real bums."

The Almanac

United Press International
Today is Thursday, Nov. 14, the 318th day of 1974 with 47 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter. Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

Robert Fulton, American inventor of the steamboat, was born Nov. 14, 1765.

On this day in history: In 1832, the first horse-drawn street car made its appearance in New York City. It carried 30 passengers. In 1940, German planes bombed Coventry, in southern England, destroying or damaging 69,000 of the 75,000 buildings in the city.

In 1972, for the first time in its 76-year history, the Dow Jones industrial stock averages closed above 1,000. In 1973, Britain's Princess Anne married commoner Captain Mark Phillips.

A thought for the day: Swedish inventor Charles Francis Kettering said, "A man must have a certain amount of intelligent ignorance to get anywhere."

ALL YEAR ROUND

California Desert Blooming Again

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The desert blooms in southern California the year round these days.

Blooms not only with dates and figs and other exotic fruits and flora but also with swimming pools, tennis courts, golf courses, hotels, housing — and tourists.

Take this desert resort about 100 miles southeast of Los Angeles, for instance. Its natural hot mineral springs were a mecca for ailing Indians for centuries but it was hardly more than a cluster of adobe huts when first discovered in the 1930s by movie stars seeking to escape for a while from the glitter and glamour of Hollywood.

Today, Palm Springs can boast of 5,000 swimming pools, more than 200 tennis courts, 34 golf courses, about 200 hotels, a population of 25,000 and 1.5 million visitors annually. And air conditioning has helped make it a year round vacation site.

It is still a popular retreat for celebrities from the world of entertainment. Bob Hope has a home here (fire destroyed a new one which would have been the biggest in town) and so have Frank Sinatra, Debbie Reynolds and Doris Day, among countless others.

For despite its booming popularity as a tourist destination, Palm Springs has not gone touristic. There still are no high-rise hotels blotting out the desert sun or the view of the nearby mountains.

Neon signs are prohibited, and so are blinking, flashing and moving signs. There are no shlocky souvenir shops and after-dark entertainment is low key.

Palm Springs offers a wide variety of accommodations, from budget-priced small hotels to high-rate resort complexes of up to 500 rooms. Most of the bigger ones have swimming pools, saunas and therapeutic baths in addition to a wide range of recreational and other facilities.

Long popular is the Palm Springs Spa, built over the site of the Indian hot springs which gave this oasis its name. The springs and land are still owned by the Agua Caliente (Hot Water) Indians who leased them to the SPA for 99 years.

In fact, every other square mile of land in the desert community is owned by the Indians.

I stayed at the plush La Siesta Villas on Stevens Road, whose regular guest list reads like a WHO'S WHO in the arts — Natalie Wood, Vikki Carr, Rhonda Fleming, James Arness, Jim Garner, Don Ameche, Alan Jay Lerner, Joshua Logan, Sam Spiegel, etc.

There are 19 luxuriously-furnished one and two bedroom villas set in tropical gardens surrounding a pool shaded by palms and oleanders. Each cottage has a living room with open fireplace, completely equipped kitchen, television, private telephone, walled-in patio for sunbathing and daily maid service.

Inkeeper genial Frank Merlo and his charming wife Dorothy will have a jar of coffee and a package of fresh buns waiting in the kitchen when you arrive. After that, you are on your own. Privacy is the keynote. (Rates range from about $50 per day up from a one-bedroom cottage, depending on the season.)

During my visit, I received a preview inspection of the newly-renovated Canyon Hotel Raquet and Golf Resort — opened several weeks later — operated by Americana Hotels for the new Japanese owners. I also was given a fill-in by Tom Voss of the Convention and Visitors Bureau on the Smoke Tree Hilton and Tennis Club and other future construction.

I drove down from Los Angeles via the San Bernardino Freeway (Interstate 10) and California 111. The trip took about two hours; the return trip was more than three hours because of heavy weekend traffic.

Palm Springs also can be reached by air. It is 36 minutes from Los Angeles, 4-1/2 hours from Chicago, and 7 hours from New York.

In 1973, Iowa farmers realized a net income per farm of $16,539, compared to a net of $3,871 in 1960, including government payments.

TV MAILBAG
Denver special due in December

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The TV Mailbag:

Q I really like John Denver and would like to know if there are any plans for him to have another special this year? — J.F., St. Louis, Mo.

A Denver will be appearing in another special this year on the ABC television network. The show is scheduled to appear on Dec. 1.

There are also plans for another musical special for Denver, whose first special, "The John Denver Show," was nominated for an Emmy Award.

Also it is expected Denver will continue his acting career which started last year with appearances on "McCloud," and "Owen Marshall, counselor at law."

Q What year did Lee Meriwether win the title of Miss America? — R.L., Elgin, Ill.

A Miss Meriwether was named Miss America at the 1955 pageant.

Winning that title led the way to her becoming a television actress when she appeared in two plays on the "Philco Playhouse."

She later used the $5,000 scholarship she won from the beauty pageant to pay for acting lessons from Lee Strasberg and Curt Conway.

Miss Meriwether, who served as women's editor on Dave Garroway's "Today" show, now appears on "Barnaby Jones," as Betty Jones, the assistant to series star Buddy Ebsen.

Q My parents and I have a long-standing argument. They say that Mory Tyler Moore was on the old "Richard Diamond" show. Are they right? — N.S., Torrance, Calif.

A Yes, they are, but they must have good ears since she was never really seen.

Miss Moore played Sam, the long-legged secretary, in the show. It was the first role which brought her any attention.

She apparently became frustrated at working on the show because her face was never shown. After 13 weeks, she asked to be released from the show.

Miss Moore then appeared as a guest star on several television shows, before she was selected as Laura Petrie in the "Dick Van Dyke Show." She received two Emmy Awards during the five years that show was on the air.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The inability of the stock market to crack the 650-690 "resistance" level on the Dow Jones industrial average has become a source of frustration and at times gives the market "a tired look," according to E. F. Hutton & Co. The brokerage firm says "the only shortcoming" seems to be a poor fundamental background although it said that the technical structure remains strong.

Indicator Digest says that while gold issues have shown "good action," they have not moved nearly as far as bullion itself. The investment adviser says South African mining issues particularly are areas "where the greatest bargains are to be found" and adds that traders and investors "should find these stocks very interesting in the weeks and months ahead."

ARTIFICIAL LUNG
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A newly developed artificial lung that provides oxygen to the blood of patients with acute respiratory failure is being tested at two hospitals here. The membrane oxygenator is used to treat patients who develop lung failure as a result of massive injuries or other causes. Many of these patients die from lung failure.

940 SEPARATE EVENTS

Odessa Sets USA Birthday 200

United Press International Odessa in West Texas may have the finest and most extensive plan to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

Typed single space and with a hard, brown paper back, "The Odessa Plan for USA Birthday 200" weighs two pounds.

It includes 940 separate events in the town of 87,000 population. The first was on Thanksgiving, 1973, with a reenactment of the first Thanksgiving. The last event will be held Dec. 16, 1976.

Committees with a total of more than 2,500 residents on them worked out the plan. Why is not Odessa willing to let the observance end July 4, 1976, as most U.S. cities will do?

"Well, we just had a few things that couldn't be finished," said businessman John Ben Sheppard, the driving force behind the plan. Sheppard believes it has been a unifying force.

"I believe it has increased patriotism. That is a hard thing to measure. But more people are speaking to each other than ever before," he said.

Sheppard was Texas attorney general from Jan. 1, 1953, to Dec. 31, 1956. Three years before that, he was secretary of state. He now is assistant to the president of El Paso Products, one of Odessa's biggest industries.

Odessa is in the midst of the Permian Basin, which is said to provide the nation with a quarter of its oil and gas reserves. Most of the town's industry is petroleum oriented.

Explaining why he started the plan and is still pushing it, Sheppard said: "I thought our country needed something where people could make a commitment. We were in the midst of Watergate at its worst."

"I felt we needed a unifying force in Odessa. We hadn't had a project where everybody was working together."

Sheppard said that when Texas Congressmen George H. Mahon and Richard C. White presented the Odessa Plan to John Warner, National Centennial administrator, he said it was the finest he had seen.

Many of the planned events are small, measured by happenings in big cities. John Guffey, an advertising man who spend part of almost every working day on the observance, described it overall like this:

"This is flag waving patriotism. We just don't make any apology for our great faith in the American heritage."

"It is a panorama of the American resolution, a resume of American history to the end of the French and Indian War of 1763, a chronicle of American discontent from 1763 to 1776."

"We have a Centennial Band called the American Revolutionaires. We have a mounted drill team of 4-H members, a fire and drum corps. We have a Bicentennial Choir.

"Last week we had a reenactment of the Edington Tea Party, which few people ever heard of. A group of women in the Carolinas on Oct. 25, 1774, refused to buy tea and made their discontent public."

Of course, Odessa also has had a Boston Tea Party. It has had a Colonial church service and is planting 200 trees, one for each year the nation has been in existence.

Charles Maisei, a retired business man, has been appointed permanent town crier. He goes to public events in knee breeches and a three cornered hat, rings a bell and tells those present what is about to happen.

Paul Revere's ride comes in 1975. Odessans have taken a few liberties with that.

There will be 200 Paul Reveres.

The actual anniversary part of the observance will begin July 2, 1976, and last through July 4. Sheppard said there will be 200 scrolls, each with a summary of the Declaration of Independence, on tables on a platform.

"We are going to try to get every man, woman and child in Odessa to march across the platform and sign the scrolls," Sheppard said. "Sign or at least make their mark."

Toledo Bend Reservoir with a controlled storage capacity of 4,477,000 acre-feet of water is the largest man-made body of water in the South. It is 65 miles long and has 1,265 miles of shoreline.

Upset Topdogs Should Make Comebacks

United Press International
Perhaps Woody Hayes' face was the reddest after last weekend's college football games, but it was by no means the only one.
Hayes' countenance, of course, might have been a little redder than the rest because he was both embarrassed and angered at his Ohio State club's controversial loss to Michigan State. As everyone knows embarrassment and anger combined have a tendency to bring an almost purplish hue to the face.

But Coaches Emory Bellard of Texas A&M, Darrell Royal of Texas, Joe Paterno of Penn State and Doug Dickey of Florida also could qualify for the "most sheepish look of the week" award after last Saturday. Their teams, all of whom were highly ranked, joined Ohio State on the upset list.
When a team that is embarrassed to the extent that these five were a week ago, it usually means trouble for the next team on their schedule. And that figures to be the case this weekend.

Bob Commings, coach at Iowa, was especially concerned after watching the Buckeyes lose to Michigan State last Saturday. Iowa entertains Ohio State this Saturday, and Commings flatly admitted he was rooting for the Buckeyes to beat the Spartans.

"Sure, I wanted Ohio State to win," Commings said, "because we thought they could be looking ahead to Michigan the following week and we could sneak up on them. However, I'm sure the only game Ohio State will be looking towards now is their game with us."
Right you are, Bob.

LAST GAME FRIDAY — Pampa halfback Tim Thornburg (33) will be one of several seniors playing in his last game Friday night as Pampa takes on Amarillo High in Homecoming and Harvester Appreciation Night in Harvester Stadium. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. Thornburg, who hurt his knee in last week's 12-9 loss to Palo Duro, has rushed 70 times for 350 yards and three touchdowns this season. His five-yard average leads Pampa.

Parkinson's Disease Tremors

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do all people with Parkinson's disease tremble and shake? My husband, 63, doesn't tremble, only falls backward as he loses his balance. He had polio when he was small and his right foot turns inward when he walks. Would his falling be Parkinson's or just from polio? He takes medicine for Parkinson's, which the doctor said he had after tests. He has worked hard all his life. Should he be working with electric saws? When he runs the lawnmower and pulls it backward, he usually falls down. If he carries anything and steps back, he usually loses his balance — C.W.S.

Most Parkinson's patients have a tremor — a "pill-rolling" movement of the fingers is commonplace. There may be a nodding of the head. Loss of balance — forward or backward — is characteristic.

But — there is no law of nature that requires all patients to have exactly the same combination of prime symptoms. I dare say, if you watch carefully, you will find that your husband does have some tremor or movement or shaking, but it could be less obvious than his balance trouble. Indeed, his medication may be suppressing some of his symptoms but not all.

After all, you have a hospital diagnosis that he has Parkinson's. Whether his foot, turned from the polio, adds to his balance trouble is a good question. I would guess that it probably does have some bearing. But I would discard the idea that the polio is the whole cause. It doesn't cause Parkinson's disease.

One thing I feel quite strongly about, with his muscle rigidity and lack of coordination (which causes his loss of balance), I decidedly do not think it safe for him to deal with electrical tools or a power-driven lawnmower.

Accidents can happen with such tools under the best of circumstances. With loss of balance and a fall in the wrong direction, the consequences could be disastrous.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My friend told me that colored toilet paper is supposed to be bad for a woman to use. How can this be true? Why would they put it out if it is supposed to be bad? If so what is in it that is harmful? — D.S.

"Supposed to be bad?" Who's doing the supposing? The only problem I've ever heard of is that for some people — a minority — the dye stuff can cause an allergic reaction. Itching or irritation, that is. If you don't suffer from that, don't worry about it. If you do have some itching, then switch to white paper.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In an article about glaucoma, you advised or warned about the necessity of eyedrops for the disease but you failed to say special eyedrops are needed, so perhaps you could mention it — D.C.J.

I'll take your word for it. But how would such people know they had glaucoma starting without going to a doctor? In that case the doctor would tell them what to use. The important point is that people should be tested. Seldom if ever is glaucoma recognized by the patient while it is still in its early stages, when treatment can do the most good.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If your bangs are over your forehead and you have oily hair, does it make you have pimples? E.K.

That's one of the things you have to watch out for if you have acne — style your hair so it does not hang down over skin areas that have a tendency to produce pimples.

Acne is a terrible problem for anyone growing up. If you are afflicted with it, or have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois, 60120, for a copy of his booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

SAVED CAT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The fire department reported Friday that the only victim of a fire in a motel room was a cat overcome by smoke.

Fire Capt. Gary Rummell revived it by administering mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, a department spokesman said.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is now apparent that next to Wall Street brokers the two groups hardest hit by economic "stagflation" are the auto industry and the Republican party.

Layoffs that reached the 84,000 mark this week caused one union official to remark that "the auto industry is not in a recession — it's in a depression."

Exact unemployment figures for Republicans were not yet available, owing to recounts in some of last week's close races.

But vast numbers of GOP congressmen, senators and governors were reported looking for work.

"The Republican Party is not in a depression," one GOP official told me. "It's in an abyss."

Adding to the GOP's jobless woes is the possibility, still not firm but apparently solidifying, that Nelson Rockefeller may soon be out on the street.

When a Republican with a resume as impressive as the vice presidential nominee's is in danger of being laid off, you know the labor market is tight indeed.

Traditional job openings for GOP congressmen who got the pink slip last week won't be easy to find, even with a Republican in the White House.

POINT OF VIEW

A Georgia boy realizes dream

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Keith Jackson remembers when he was a kid milking the cows, a Georgia farm boy who would make up sports events and announce them, play by play, with proper excitement. "People thought I was daffy," says Keith. "They thought I was talking to myself — or, even worse yet, talking to the cows."

"Speaking of cows, I used to milk six cows every morning and then I'd ride a horse to school and then come home and shuck the corn. On cold, rainy winter nights, I'd sit at a desk with a kerosene lamp and write stories and then announce them. It's all I ever wanted to be, a sports announcer."

This was back where Keith was born and raised, in the farm town of Bremen, Ga., which people in the area choose to call "Bree-men." It's 40 miles out of Atlanta and, according to Keith, "right smack dab in the heart of the bootleggin' and moonshine country."

Keith did indeed grow up to be a sports announcer, fulfilling his boyhood dream and, the other day, he was saying: "In 27 years in this business I can say in all honesty that I have never consciously hurt anybody in terms of competitiveness. I've never been one for politickin' and I'm not much for cocktail parties."

"I just don't go around and shake a lot of hands," says Keith. "I just believe in doing my job."

By doing his job, Keith Jackson has reached an elevated niche in his profession as one of the prime operatives on ABC Sports and he was given a new assignment this season as the play-by-play announcer on the network's NCAA football telecasts. He also bounces from varied events on "Wide World of Sports" — pro bowling and auto racing and hosting "The Superstars" and covering a flock of golf tournaments.

He's a winner of the prestigious Peabody Award and, just last year, he was named Sportscaster of the Year for his second straight triumph.

But Keith has also known his valleys. It doesn't take much of a memory jog to recall that when ABC began its Monday Night Football telecasts, in addition to Howard Cosell and Don Meredith the threesome was filled out by Keith Jackson. He lasted one year.

Before the start of the second year, Roone Arledge, ABC's sports chief, put in Frank Gifford as Jackson's replacement. "Keith," said

Arledge at the time, "did everything we asked of him. He's a fine professional. But we wanted a different kind of mix."

As Keith looks back, he admits that the losing out on Monday Night Football was not one of his more pleasant experiences. "My feelings were bent somewhat," Keith says. "But I had to take it as it was. I'm a professional broadcaster. It's a part of the business. I don't think I have an ego problem so it didn't bother me in that area. I knew I'd done a good job. I'd given it my best shot. Frank Gifford's a fine man, a true professional and he's done very well."

"What the incident did bring me was the most positive reaction in my entire career. Tons of mail came in, supporting me. In the end, being taken off Monday Night Football didn't hurt. ABC put me on pro basketball and now on NCAA football. It's worked out. Over the long haul, it probably helped me."

JEALOUS DOCTOR
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 64-year-old doctor was arrested Friday for operating on his former fiancee's engagement ring — with a vise.

Police said Dr. Jack Yonchar was booked on suspicion of robbery following a complaint that when his former girlfriend, Alice Soong, 47, told him she planned to marry someone else, he wrenched off her finger the $7,000 diamond engagement ring he had given her and crushed it in a basement vise.

Social Security Q & A
(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly, branch manager, Social Security Administration, 1541 Hobart, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

By H.L. WEATHERLY
Q I am totally disabled. My only income consists of interest of $140 each month which I receive from Series H Bonds. I am unmarried and live alone. Can I receive a Supplemental Security Income payment as a disabled person?

A A single person may have savings or other resources that can be converted to cash that are worth as much as $1500 and still get Federal payments (SSI). However, it appears that your savings in the form of bonds in excess of $20,000 and you will not be able to receive Supplemental Security Income payments even though you are disabled.

Q I injured my back in a boating accident and my doctor told me I would not be able to go back to work for three months. I need help to meet my expenses. Can I receive Supplemental Security Income as a disabled person?

A To receive SSI payments as a disabled person, your disability must be so severe as to prevent you from doing any substantial gainful work for 12 months or longer or be expected to result in death. Since your doctor has indicated that you will be able to return to work in less than 12 months, you would not qualify for SSI payments.

You need two Security Federal accounts because everybody needs money "now" and "then."

Money for "now" — in your Security Federal passbook.

Kids need you. You will be glad you had some money put aside in your Security Federal savings account when they're ready for college. Your "now" money earns interest compounded daily, and can be withdrawn anytime without loss of earnings.

Annually, 5.25% yields 5.39%

Money for "then" — in your Security Federal certificate.

Grown "kids" need you too, for help in setting up their own business or their own households. Start saving for "then" with a Security Federal certificate. Higher earnings and insured safety make it the perfect long-term savings plan for future needs.

Federal regulations require a substantial dividend penalty for early withdrawal on certificates. 5.75% to 7.50%, Annually
