DALLAS (AP) — An international space race is on again, with companies now joining in the competition to boldly go where no advertisers have gone before.

This time, it's not about which nation pushes farther in space exploration. Instead, it concerns which program gets more financial help in an era of shrinking budgets.

The Russian space program is getting a multimillion-dollar boost from Texas-based Pizza Hut, which will paint a 30-foot advertisement on a Proton rocket in November. NASA says it isn't far behind, with private partnerships envisioned to reduce costs for the agency.

"This is the colonization of public space by commercial interests," said James Twitchell, a University of Florida professor who studies commercial culture.

Pizza Hut announced Thursday it would pay the cash-starved Russian space agency about half the price of a 30-second TV ad during the Super Bowl — currently up to $2.5 million — for the right to paint its logo on a Russian Proton rocket.

The rocket is to blast off in mid-November with the living quarters for the International Space Station.

The segment carrying the Pizza Hut logo will be cast off and burn up in the atmosphere before it reaches orbit. But Pizza Hut marketers are counting on the minutes leading up to liftoff and the sight of the engines firing under the company's red-roof logo to provide enough film footage to fuel years of advertising campaigns.

Sewer rate hike goes into effect

Plans call for water fees to rise next year

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

Higher sewer rates will be reflected on this month's Pampa city billing and a water rate increase may not be too far behind.

The sewer rates were included in the 1999-2000 fiscal year budget which was approved earlier this week by the City Commission on a 4-0 vote and goes into effect today.

Residential sewer customers will see an increase of from 60 cents a month to a maximum of $1.25, according to City Manager Bob Eskridge. Commercial customers will be raised 60 cents a month for the first 5,000 gallons and 15 cents for each additional 1,000 gallons. Each month a dime of each customer's payment will go into a fund to pay for the annual Household Hazardous Waste collection event.

The higher sewer rates were needed to pay for an $800,000 project at the sewage treatment plant designed to meeting environmental requirements including a new regulation pertaining to maximum allowable ammonia levels in the effluent.

Likewise, a water rate hike will be needed to pay for about $1.5 million in water tank repairs and painting at two elevated tanks.

While no exact figures are available, City Finance Director John Horst told commissioners a 75-or-80-cent increase on the minimum water usage will probably be needed to finance the tank repairs.

And because the city must pay operating and maintenance costs on the Roberts County well project when it comes on line in 2001, a rate increase will be needed for that. The well project will provide Pampa with an additional source of water, one without the salt content contained in Lake Meredith water.

Eskridge said he expects the increases needed to pay for the tank repairs and the Roberts County water distribution will be combined and the water rate increased only to pay for both.

In an interview, Horst estimated the water rate increase could come at about mid-year next year.

The city will go into bond indebtedness to pay the combined project costs of $2.3 million, Eskridge said the bonds will be repaid over a 20-year period.

Commissioners discussed the rust and other problems inside and out on the tanks and drew upon a report City Engineer Richard Morris had presented them at a previous meeting.

"The tanks are pretty critical," said Mayor Bob Neslage. "It's getting where we don't have a choice — according to the reports I read we are getting into the danger zone."

Commissioner Bob Dixon agreed saying, "The tanks are not getting any better. Eventually we will be required to do it."

Dixon was making reference to state environmental regulators.

A warm gesture

Bonnie Holeton-Boring, sales clerk at Dunlap's, deposits a coat into a container at the store in connection with a coat exchange to benefit Tralee Crisis Center domestic violence victim clients. The exchange is being held at the store today and Saturday. Customers who bring in a used coat to the store will receive a percentage off a new coat, and the used coats will go to clients of Tralee Crisis Center.

Prairie Village clean-up tomorrow

With help from volunteers and the City of Pampa, there'll be a Concerned Citizens cleanup tomorrow in the Prairie Village neighborhood.

A spokesman said clean-up efforts will get started at 8 a.m. when community volunteers and city employees will meet at Prairie Village Park at Crawford and Huff Road.

Pampa City Commissioner Faustina Curry, who represents Ward IV, says she will help clean up and hopes many others will, too, in the area of Huff Road, Varnon, Neel and Prairie Drive.

"There was a community meeting not long ago about this and there were a lot of people there who are committed to this," Curry said. "I hope others will join them ... lots of people from the entire Pampa community."

Weather permitting, the first clean-up project will be the Huff Road and Prairie Drive alleys.

"We are asking those who live in Prairie Village to please come out and help," the spokesman said. "If you do not live in the area and would like to help, it will be appreciated."

(Editor's note: This is the fifth in a series, "The Essence of Europe," about a Pampa group's summer trip.)

On the way to Rome, we stopped at Bologna, Italy. Got in some sight-seeing there and it was a nice break from being on the bus for so long.

The architecture is interesting here and they are doing a lot of renovation work to prepare for the 2000 celebration. The city dates back to the 14th and 15th centuries and some parts of the city are over 900 years old.

We arrived in Rome in the evening, so had our supper of pasta and pork at the Grotta Azzura Ristorante. Then we checked into our only air-conditioned hotel, the Hotel La Pergola. The whole hotel was full of EF students, their group leaders and sponsors from all over the U.S. The students were glad there was a McDonald's next door!

Next morning, we began by taking a guided tour of the ancient

Sheriff promotes two in top posts

The Gray County Sheriff's Department announced the promotion of two deputies to its top two staff positions.

Jim Scott, who has been serving as lieutenant has been promoted to Chief Deputy to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of J.R. Walker. Scott has been with Gray County for five years, but has been in law enforcement for 15 years. He said both his parents were in law enforcement and it's all he ever wanted to do.

Deputy Dallas Hardin has been promoted to Scott's old job as Sheriff's Lieutenant. Hardin has been with Gray County for a year and a half and was with the Pampa Police Department before that. He has 22 years in law enforcement having retired as an MP with the Air Force. He said he knew he wanted to be in law enforcement when he was in high school.

"I'm really glad we have such qualified people we can move into leadership roles," Sheriff Don Copeland said. "I like to promote from within."

Dance the night away

Get ready to do some dancing, eating and listening to a variety of music Saturday night at Rocktoberfest — a street dance for all ages in downtown Pampa on Cuyler Street.

Sponsored by the Pampa High School Choir, the headline band at the dance will be FlashBak, consisting of local members Mark Lang, Jim Benton, Bobby Chase and Mike Russell. Also performing will be local Christian rock band Damascus Road and members of the PHS Show Choir.

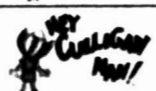

Burgers, chips, soft drinks and bottled water will be sold by choir boosters beginning at 7:30 p.m. The event runs from 7:30 p.m. until 11 p.m.

Tickets for the dance are available for PHS choir members and are $5 for singles and $8 for couples. Admission also may be paid at the "door." Proceeds will help fund the choir's spring tour.

Court battles, arrests, manure — all over art

NEW YORK (AP) — If it looks like horse manure and smells like horse manure — it just may be art.

Self-described artist Scott LoBaido was grabbed by police outside the Brooklyn Museum of Art on Thursday for hurling fistfuls of horse manure at the museum's facade. It was his way of protesting an elephant dung-decorated painting of the Virgin Mary set to go on display this weekend.

"I'm expressing myself creatively!" shouted LoBaido, who criticized the upcoming exhibit as Catholic-bashing as police led him away.

His arrest added to a wild week in the New York art world in which the museum and Mayor Rudolph Giuliani went to war and a gallery owner found herself jailed for distributing live ammunition as part of an exhibit.

The latest flap in the centuries-old battle over what constitutes art began when Giuliani took on the Brooklyn museum for booking "Sensation: Young British Artists from the Saatchi Collection," which opens Saturday.

When the controversial show was in London, it drew more than 300,000 visitors eager to glimpse the controversial Virgin Mary piece by Chris Ofili, and dissected pigs floating in formaldehyde by Damien Hirst.

Giuliani ripped the exhibit and vowed to withhold $7 million in annual city funding for the museum. A city lawsuit, filed Thursday, claims the exhibit violates terms in a lease requiring the museum "to educate and enlighten school children and the public," and to provide free admission on most days. Exhibit tickets are $9.75.

Lawyers on both sides are also squaring off in federal court, where museum attorney Floyd Abrams accused the city and the mayor of "seeking to punish the museum for exercising its First Amendment rights." U.S. District Judge Nina Gershon set a hearing for next week to hear the museum's request for an injunction barring the city from cutting its funding.

Outside court, Michael Hess, the city's top lawyer, said Giuliani "is concerned with taxpayers' money, and he feels it should not be used on an exhibition of vile (art)."

Countered Abrams: "Why in the world would the mayor... want to throw the museum out of the city?" If the mayor wins, he said, "the museum would probably wind up in New Jersey."

The mayor, in California on a fund-raising trip, said the exhibit gives voice to "some very, very disturbed people" at taxpayer expense.

Also in court Thursday was art dealer Mary Boone. She was arrested the night before at her Manhattan gallery, where visitors to a one-man show by artist Tom Sachs were welcomed to take home a 9mm bullet as souvenir. A display of homemade guns, Sachs' signature artwork, was also seized.

Boone was charged with illegal distribution of ammunition and other misdemeanors, including resisting arrest.

"This is an outrageous attack on the artists' right to express themselves," she said late Thursday.

Many feel similarly about

Giuliani's opposition to the Brooklyn exhibit. A full-page advertisement supporting "Sensation" appeared in today's New York Times, signed by more than 100 writers, artists and actors, including Steve Martin, Joyce Carol Oates, Norman Mailer, Arthur Miller and Kurt Vonnegut.

The Times' critic, meanwhile, called the show "uneven" but said its best work "does what all good art should do: It makes you think."

Others have been less supportive. New York Observer critic Hilton Kramer wrote this week that the much-hyped exhibit is "appallingly witless and stupid."

Art exhibits didn't always spark such a response in New York.

The Guggenheim Museum accepted $3 million worth of Robert Mapplethorpe's work with barely a peep in 1992, two years after the photographer's homoerotic works were nearly banned in Cincinnati.

And now, the Brooklyn museum's "Sensation" gift shop is selling lunch boxes with the bio-hazard symbol and lapel pins shaped like traffic caution signs with a label that has "Danger" over the word "Art."

Museum officials have placed a plastic screen in front of Ofili's "The Holy Virgin Mary" to prevent vandalism. The work, meanwhile, received praise by many who attended a Thursday night preview.

"I don't get the feeling the artist is poking fun at the church," said Steven Richman, among those who attended. "It's an interpretation. Dung is considered a respectful symbol."

News round up ...

Review of 50-year-old Korean incident could take a year

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. and South Korean governments are investigating an Associated Press report that U.S. soldiers killed up to 400 civilians at a railroad bridge in the early days of the Korean War.

Army Secretary Louis Caldera, called by Defense Secretary William Cohen to head the U.S. inquiry, promised a thorough review of the No Gun Ri incident.

He said Thursday that the review, which could take a year or more, would include the military's first interviews with veterans who were at the bridge in July 1950.

The AP reported Wednesday accounts by American veterans and South Korean villagers who said they witnessed the killings, including six ex-GIs who said they shot South Korean civilians at the bridge. The AP also found once-classified documents showing that U.S. commanders ordered their troops to shoot civilians as a defense against disguised enemy soldiers.

President Clinton said he had assurances that the Pentagon "wants to get to the bottom of it."

Cohen, in ordering the inquiry, said, "This review is important to the active and retired members of our armed forces, the confidence of the American people in the finest armed forces in the world, and our relationship with the people of the Republic of Korea."

South Korean survivors or relatives of victims have been asking for investigation, compensation and apology, and renewed that call after the new evidence was reported.

"We don't know where the road will lead," Pentagon spokesman Rear Adm. Craig Quigley said, expressing confidence that the Army would be "candid in its findings."

Helping consumers use medicine wisely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Can I drink alcohol while taking an antidepressant? Can I swallow my heart medicine with grapefruit juice? Does my daughter really need to finish this antibiotic when it's obvious she's feeling better?

First you must know when and how to take prescription and over-the-counter drugs. That means more than how many pills a day — it also means knowing what other medicines, foods, even herbs are safe with the drugs, what to do about missed doses and how long to take them. Then you must know what to do if you're among the millions of Americans who suffer a drug-caused side effect each year.

For women, dealing with medicine can be even more complex. Women typically take more prescription drugs than men. And studies suggest moms make more of a family's health decisions, from when to call a pediatrician to ensuring a forgetful grandparent doesn't miss a dose.

Citing those studies, the Food and Drug Administration is targeting American women with a campaign on using medicine more wisely — hoping to distribute 5 million brochures in October that offer what can be lifesaving tips.

Shamrock honors MOW volunteers

SHAMROCK — Volunteer drivers, cooks and the board of directors for Shamrock's Meals on Wheels program were honored recently with a steak dinner here. Dinner was served at the Mesquite Steakhouse north of Shamrock in honor of Meals on Wheels volunteers. Pat McDowell, chairman of the Shamrock Meals on Wheels board, recognized the volunteers, including Care Inn, for their support in preparing and delivering meals in the Irish City. The First National Bank of Shamrock and National Bank of Commerce in Shamrock sponsored the steak dinner. The program served their first meal June 2, 1997. McDowell said they expect to serve their 15,000th meal in early November. The Shamrock program serves an average of 30 meals a day, five days a week, including holidays.

Minister's musings ...

"Surely I spoke of things I did not understand, things too wonderful for me to know. My ears had heard of You but now my eyes have seen You." (Job 42, NIV)

He woke up that morning the richest man in the country. Before the day ended he was broke. The auditors had listed not only his great wealth but also his holdings in cattle. That same day, enemies rustled those herds. The livestock were gone. His children, attending a birthday party at a brother's home, were killed when a violent storm collapsed the house and crushed them. In rapid order, he lost his health and suffered from boil-like eruptions all over his body. In anguish, he pondered what had happened and what it meant.

At the close of that day, the man was found kneeling in worship and "blessing God." Job had lost it all — all but faith. The Devil has real problems trying to destroy a man who — when he loses everything — still bows and worships God.

This awful time in his life enabled him to learn four things:

He learned that a man can endure almost unbelievable stress and trial. Sometimes we're amazed at incidents of endurance and victories of the human spirit. One thinks of our prisoners of war who were treated worse than animals, tortured, imprisoned and nearly starved. Tales of their heroism inspire us all.

torious, cause us to marvel at the grace of God and the toughness He's built into humans.

Hearing of Job's misfortunes, four friends came to comfort him. Their presence meant a lot and they were a real comfort — until they started talking.

His wife said, "Curse God and die."

Eliphaz added, "You're reaping what you sowed."

Bildad reasoned, "Bad things happen only to bad men."

Zophar declared, "God's so big He doesn't notice."

Elihu opined, "It doesn't matter to God whether you're hurting or happy. Men aren't important enough for Him to worry about."

Each of these people meant well. All expressed, from their philosophies, what they thought was true. All were wrong. Job learned that friends can mean well — and yet be wrong.

Human nature cries out for simple answers. We like instant solutions to problems.

When her son died, an angry lady demanded of her pastor, "Where was God when my son was killed?" The pastor gently responded, "The same place He was when His son was killed. And He understands your grief."

God is not "just one of the boys." His ways are higher than our ways as heaven is above the earth. Our limited understanding only dimly perceives His purposes and reasons. We can't require of God answers for all He chooses to do. It's enough for us to know that He, who sees the end from the beginning and knows all things, holds us in His hand. Job learned that simple answers aren't always available. When he couldn't understand, he learned to commit it to God and continue trusting.

One of the great dramas of the Bible, the story of Job is known to almost everyone. But most people only remember that Job suffered. Rarely does anyone mention "the rest of the story." The last chapter of this remarkable account proves the truth that, "The Lord knows how to deliver the godly out of temptation." (2 Peter 2:9)

The auditors were brought back in. Job was blessed by the Lord so abundantly that he was four times better off than when his troubles started. He came to the point that he could remark about having only heard about God — but now having seen Him. In addition to all temporal blessings; God was now more real to him than ever. He learned that God will see us through our troubles.

Pastor, author Ryle to speak at Trinity

James Ryle, pastor, author and a founding member of Promise Keepers board of directors, will speak is coming to Trinity Fellowship, 1200 S. Sumner, for three nights this month.

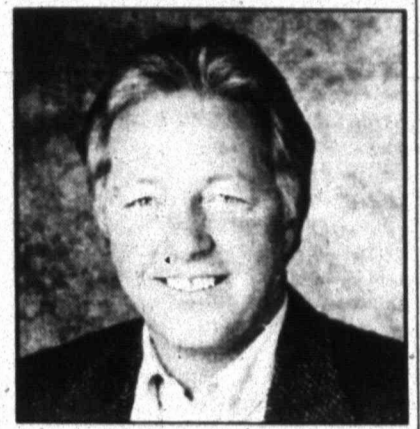

Ryle, will speak at services on Oct. 10 at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., on Monday, Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. and again Oct. 12 at 7 p.m.

He has served in pastoral ministry since 1974 and is the author of two best-selling books, Hippo in the Garden and A Dream Come True.

As one of the founders of Promise Keepers, he has been substantially involved in providing spiritual direction in this national movement and has spoken at several PK events across the country.

Two years ago in the nation's capitol, Ryle delivered the gospel message at Stand in the Gap — an event attended by well over one million men and broadcast to over 20 nations.

In addition to his extensive

travels throughout the U.S. and Europe, Ryle has also served as the chaplain for the University of Colorado football team since 1989.

After 17 years of service as the senior Pastor of VineLife Community Church in Boulder, James resigned to devote his full attention to the ministry of TruthWorks.

Ryle and his wife, Belinda, have four children and live in Colorado.

Questions for the ages

Good morning, God,

God, why do people see you in so many ways? Why are you for some stern and harsh and for some a doting daddy? Some people tell me you have a rule for every occasion. They say you will discipline me like a naughty child, you will prune me away from the life of Christ, while others say you are slow to anger, knitting one more time the rift between us.

I get confused. Especially when I read the Bible and I see how you deal with your children. Sometimes you are tougher than a pine knot and at other times, wooing and gentle. By the preponderance of the evidence, I can't decide which facet of these truths is most true. It scares me because I feel perpetually at risk of being wrong, doing wrong and reaping the rewards of my wrongness. Who knows whether today you are angry or merciful?

I expect there are hurting people who don't think you are very merciful. Their beloved mother or father or child or friend has died or is terribly injured and they secretly believe were you truly omnipotent you could have changed their fate. The rest of us looking at their tragedy are terrified. We shudderingly invoke, "There but for the grace of God, go I," and quiver to think our lives could be devastated just as our neighbor's has been. Then we are guilty because we are relieved you chose another for the sacrifice of pain in what looks to us like a giant lottery of luck. Relief and guilt, relief and guilt. It is the cycle of knowing the pain around us.

You know when you let Satan have his way with Job, you had the perfect opportunity to address the problem of pain but didn't do so. That question of why people suffer when you purport to be a god of love has mystified and alienated people through the ages. I don't think you are about to clear up the mystery and I don't understand that either.

There was once a Broadway play called "Your Arm's too Short to Box with God" and I always believed that was an apt representation of man who demands to know what you have deemed unknowable. I imagine the little boxer flailing away with both oversized fists while a larger, stronger, intrinsically superior boxer holds the tiny opponent away by gently placing his hand on the little guy's head. An immovable God and a tiny silk-clad guy in the boxing ring - what a mismatched contest.

I suspect this prayer repeats those of the ages past and present and those which will be lifted in the future. I don't expect an answer but I get tired of the sore on my soul irritated ever deeper by the questions.

Your worrisome child, Cheryl

Iglesia Bautista Emanuel sets revival for Oct. 8-10

Francisco Nunez, Vice-President of Overseas Ministries for International Crusades, will be leading in revival services for Iglesia Bautista Emanuel October 8-10. Services will be at 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday with the regularly scheduled services on Sunday (Bible study at 9:45 a.m. and worship at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.).

Bro. Nunez has served with International Crusades since its beginnings, over 25 years ago. He has traveled the world organizing and leading in church partnership missions. In every culture and people group, his love for the Lord, the Lord's people and the unchurched has been used to accomplish great things in God's kingdom work.

Living in Mexico, he was first touched by a partnership work being led by the founder of I.C., Ben Mieth. Sensing God's hand in this ministry, he began working in Mexico and ended up coming to Texas in full-time ministry. He is married and has two sons.

Bro. Nunez has a great heart for God and will be a great inspiration to all who attend these revival services.

The members of Emanuel invite you to join them for this weekend of Bible preaching and fellowship. Emanuel is a ministering and growing church with a place for all the family. A new pastor will be on the field soon and the excitement is growing. Now is a great time, not only to attend the revival, but to get involved in a wonderful church fellowship.

Lesters, Toney Brothers in concert

BORGER — Jerry Smith will present The Lesters and The Toney Brothers in concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 4 at Borger High School Auditorium.

The Lesters, known as "St. Louis' First Family of Gospel Music," have entertained audiences over 70 years with Southern Gospel music as well as contemporary country, soulful black gospel and Carpenter's style Pop sounds. The group includes: Brian Lester, lead singer-manager-emcee; Ginger Pitchers, alto singer-base guitar; Dan Pitchers, bass singer; and Trecia Cisneros, soprano singer.

The Lesters have achieved radio success with several songs in the Top 40 Gospel Music charts. Additionally, they produce their own television show, "The Lester Family Sings" and have appeared on numerous radio and television outlets such as Paul Heils' Gospel Greats, The Reach Solid Gospel Network, The Nashville Network, Gospel Music Television Network, Southern Entertainment Television Network, ACTS Network, and Bill and Gloria Gaither's Homecoming Videos.

The Toney Brothers career has spanned four decades and three generations of Toney's have been involved in the group which was formed in 1955. The band members are: Bob Toney, vocalist and original member of the group; Terry Toney, bass singer-emcee and son of Bob; Gary Toney, baritone singer, son of Bob; Keith Gilliam, lead singer; Mike Collier, tenor singer; Jonathan Edwards, keyboard.

The Toney's have recorded more than 50 projects for various recording companies and record labels and have appeared with The Blackwood Brothers, The Statesmen, The Speer Family, The Cathedral Quartet, The Oak Ridge Boys, The Stamps, Bill Gaither and many others in concert across the country. At one time, the group had a weekly television broadcast in Windsor, Canada. Now they can be seen on the Daystar Television Network.

The Toney Brothers career has spanned four decades.

Disabled Wife's Dream House Is Now Husband's Nightmare

DEAR ABBY: I'm 80 years old, living alone and desperately lonely. I have a good wife and five fine children. My present situation is due to a major mistake I made after retirement.

My wife had a lifelong dream of spending our retirement years in the country, "in touch with nature." She had been a fair helpmate and perfect mother for 35 years, so I decided to give in to her dream and let her have her turn at a happy life. I sold our comfortable home located in an ideal midsize city and gave her a free hand at relocating us.

My wife had a major stroke two years ago, and our remote location, with no medical help for 25 miles, made matters a lot worse for her, as it took so long to get her to the emergency room. She is now in a nursing home, and I am alone in our "close to nature" house that still hasn't sold after two years.

The nursing home care is eating away at my savings. All my children live far away, and I'm afraid I can't drive much longer. Depression is setting in.

Abby, please advise seniors to locate close to help. Life can take a sudden sharp turn — mine was destroyed like a flash of lightning. Any advice you can offer would be welcome.

CONFUSED AND LONELY IN CANADA

DEAR CONFUSED: Although your life has taken an unexpected 180-degree turn, you can get it back on course.

Start by discussing your symptoms of depression with your doctor, because prescription medications are available that can lessen them. And waste no time in looking into what services are available for seniors in your area, such as transportation and senior recreation centers. If nothing is available, consider asking your children if they could visit more regularly and perhaps help you solve some of these problems.

Also, ask your Realtor why your home hasn't sold in two years. Have you offered it at current market value? Is it being actively marketed? If the market is slow, consider renting it — that way you may be able to live closer to your children or your wife. Another solution may be to rent a room in your home to another senior so you are not alone all the time.

Please let me hear from you in six months. I'm rooting for you.

DEAR ABBY: I grew up in a house full of siblings. Our father told us he would not tolerate smoking, drinking or cursing under his roof, and if we wanted to do any of those things, we were free to move out.

When I entered the Air Force in 1947, it wasn't long before I was confronted with the old, "Aw, come on — have a drink. Don't be a stick-in-the-mud."

I had several good friends who drank, but I had no desire to start. I finally came up with an answer that worked. I told anyone who asked me to drink or smoke a funny cigarette, "I'll tell you what I'll do: I won't try to make you stop if you don't try to make me start."

In almost 13 years in the Air Force, it never failed me and I still had lots of friends. I still don't drink or smoke that funny weed, and I am over 70 years old.

Abby, why can't young people today use the same line to refuse alcohol, tobacco, drugs — and maybe even sex? They might be surprised how they could influence some of their friends to stop. I'm proud to say I did.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic, 4-Positive, 3-Average, 2-So-so, 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

* Keep your sense of humor, otherwise, you could become aggravated. Chaos reigns. You can have fun with it, however, as it will allow you to rethink plans. Use extra care with a major purchase. You might end up spending more than you had planned, thinking you are getting a deal. Tonight: Why not go out for dinner?

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

* Try as you might, another simply doesn't get your message. It isn't that he is dense, but planetary forces add an element of confusion. Confirm plans. Make sure everyone is on the same page about a meeting. You might want to invite friends over instead. Tonight: At the homestead.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Uncertainty strikes your finances. Money could be streaming out where you don't see it. Play the role of financial analyst. Your instincts might tell you one thing, but you may simply need to get another opinion. Clarity might be hard to come by. Tonight: Be a recluse.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

* Despite your best intentions, others aren't reading you clearly, no matter what you do. Maintain a sense of humor. Don't let anyone get to you. Confirm plans. Friends seem to be scattered, but they certainly want you around. Don't question your popularity. Tonight: Your treat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

* Fortunately, your mood swings from low to high. If you're feeling touchy and overwhelmed by confusion and a possible misunderstanding, retreat is the best course. It's obvious that another isn't grounded. Maintain a sense of humor. Others clearly adore you. Tonight: The moon beams you into the spotlight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Recent socializing might have gotten the best of you. Remain happy about a potential change. Don't allow another's vagueness to get to you. Declare this a lazy day, where you can do whatever you want. You deserve it. Tonight: Lots of news.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

* Others appeal to your need to help. On the other hand, there could be resentment brewing. You might juggle two different messages, not sure which one to believe. Don't count on information from a child or new love interest. Friends have your best interests at heart. Tonight: Hook up with the gang.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

* Listen to news, even though what a friend shares might not please you. Make a must appearance. Stay in control. Others might be testy, especially at home. A boss or authority figure could be vague or confused. Make calls in the afternoon, when you find others more in the mood to play. Tonight: Take charge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

* Though you may be in the mood for togetherness, a friend or relative seems unusually fussy. You could take this personally, but don't. Confusion reigns when you are making plans. Don't worry! Just do what is good for you. Plan to take off on a day trip or go for a visit. Tonight: Try something different.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

* Others appear to be in control. Another is confused and can't seem to get organized. Money drips out of your checking account or wallet. You are on a financial yellow alert. Relate to others on a one-on-one level while relationships light up. Tonight: Add more snap, crackle and pop to your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

* Don't push yourself; stay in control. Listen carefully to others; confirm what you are hearing. Others could change their minds substantially. A family member pitches in. Invite the gang over. A little celebration is in order. Tonight: Let the party begin!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Your best intentions are somehow misread. Listen carefully to another. Try again later in the day to explain what is in your heart and mind. Take time to mellow out in the afternoon; that's when the good times begin. Communication flows much more smoothly then. Tonight: Make it an early night.

BASKETBALL

PAMPA — Coaches are needed for the upcoming Pampa Optimist girls basketball league.

Persons interested in coaching are urged to attend a meeting at the Optimist Club on Oct. 4, starting at 7:30 p.m.

The league is for girls in the third through sixth grades.

Call Monte Covalt at 669-3615 for more information.

PAMPA — The Amarillo Basketball Officials Association is looking for high school referees for the 1999-2000 season.

Interested persons can contact Frank McCullough at 665-7367.

HOCKEY

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Stars return to the ice tonight to open a new season just three months and 11 days after Brett Hull's foot-in-crease goal gave them their first NHL title.

"It was a short summer, that's for sure," goaltender Ed Belfour said. "But we wouldn't have it any other way."

Having 103 days off means cashing in several years' worth of vacation time in the real world. But in pro sports, it's considered a short offseason.

The Stars don't mind, though, because it's a small price to pay for the right to be called Stanley Cup champions.

The Cup and all the other hardware Dallas won last season will be on display as part of a pregame ceremony that will include the raising of their championship banner. Then the Stars will begin defending their title against a Pittsburgh Penguins team now owned by their own former superstar, Mario Lemieux.

BASEBALL

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas Rangers manager Johnny Oates might have to make room for John Burkett on his playoff roster.

Burkett combined with three relievers on a four-hitter as the Rangers won their club-record 95th game with a 7-0 victory over the Seattle Mariners on Thursday.

Oates has said Burkett could be his Game 5 starter if the Rangers meet the Yankees in the first round of the playoffs.

Aaron Sele, Rick Helling and Esteban Loaiza have already been set as the Rangers' top three starters.

"They definitely deserve those nods," Burkett said. "I just hope I've earned some consideration."

Burkett has rebounded from an awful start.

He failed to win in his first 11 starts, including 0-2 with a 12.00 ERA in his first three before being placed on the disabled list with bursitis in his right shoulder. Burkett was banished to the bullpen on May 18 before returning to the rotation in late May.

Burkett (9-8) improved to 5-1 in his last seven starts, allowing three hits in six innings. Tim Crabtree, Jeff Zimmerman and Mike Venafro combined on one-hit relief, completing the Rangers' ninth shutout of the season.

Burkett continued his late surge, giving him a better than .500 record for the first time since he was 4-3 on May 27, 1997.

"Some guys are good in April, but I really feel that I focus better in September," Burkett said. "My arm just feels a lot better. My fastball is better than it was early. I'd like to capture that for an entire season."

Texas (95-64) set a record for victories in a season, surpassing 1977 when the Rangers were 94-68.

The AL West champions, who have won six of seven, also closed ground in their bid for home-field advantage in the playoffs. They began the day two games behind Cleveland and 1 1/2 games behind the Yankees.

9th grade rolls past Valleyview

PAMPA — Pampa rolled to a 28-8 win over Valleyview in a 9th grade football game Thursday night.

The big offensive play in the lopsided win was an 80-yard touchdown run by Derrick Williams that gave Pampa a 14-0 win. Tristan Brown opened the Pampa scoring with a 1-yard run.

Pampa scored one touchdown through the air on Brown's 55-yard pass to Joel Botello.

Pampa's defense also came up with a touchdown when Luis Gonzalez recovered a Valleyview fumble and ran 15 yards to the end zone. Williams scored two conversions, one on a pass from Tim Kettering.

Zach Cobb led an outstanding defensive effort for the Pampa freshmen.

Pampa lost the B team game to Hereford, but no score was available. Arturo Ruiz scored Pampa's only touchdown.

Both Pampa A and B teams play next Thursday at Dumas. The next home game is Oct. 28 against Tascosa Red.

District leader

Pampa sophomore Orlando Madrid (above) leads District 3-4A in punt returns with 15.7 yards per carry in 3 tries. The Harvesters will be in action tonight against Randall. Kickoff is 7:30 in Kimbrough Memorial Stadium at Canyon.

Canadian is at Sudan in high school action

CANADIAN — Canadian travels to Sudan for a non-district game tonight.

The Wildcats, 3-1 for the season, are coming off a 54-6 win over Perryton last weekend.

Canadian quarterback Derek Maupin tossed two touchdown passes and ran for another one in the lopsided win. Running back Clay Evans rushed for 93 yards on four carries and scored one touchdown.

Eric Hall and Nathan Reyes each had a touchdown reception.

Canadian's defense also scored when Coleman Bartlett picked up a fumble for a 28-yard touchdown. Bartlett also scored a rushing touchdown.

George Peyton rushed for two TDs and also kicked three PATs.

Canadian held a 35-0 lead at halftime.

The Wildcats rolled up 355 yards in total offense. Perryton was held to 130 yards and turned the ball over three times. Perry had 14 first downs, Perryton 8.

Perryton's only touchdown was scored by Jeff Williams on a pass play. Perryton is 1-3 for the season.

DALLAS (AP) After passing early-season tests with flying colors, the 50 teams ranked in The Associated Press' high school football poll now head toward district play with hopes of avoiding an upset.

Will Jets or Broncos finally get that victory?

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

Eight-and-a-half months ago, the Jets and Broncos met at Mile High Stadium with a trip to the Super Bowl on the line. This week all they want is a win.

There are reasons, of course, while the two teams that met in the AFC title game last year are 0-6 between them. Here are two good ones: John Elway and Vinny Testaverde.

It's also the ripple effect. Neither Mike Shanahan nor Bill Parcells, who might be the two best coaches in the NFL, is having a good season. Shanahan's sudden switch from Bubby Brister to Brian Griese caught his team off-guard and Parcells seemed flustered and ill-prepared when Testaverde got hurt.

OK, neither team has sparked on offense and the Broncos were dismal on defense until last Sunday in Tampa Bay, when they were playing against Trent Dilfer, who's not far from the Jets' Rick Mirer.

Bottom line? Neither team is going to the Super Bowl. Both certainly have enough to salvage the season, even make a playoff run.

It starts with the first win. 13-13, tie.

Tampa Bay (plus 7) at Minnesota

The Vikings have yet to score 24 points, the fewest they scored in any game last season.

They won't this week either. VIKINGS, 17-13

Buffalo (plus 4 1/2) at Miami (Monday night)

Jimmy Johnson had a week off to get ready for Doug Flutie. DOLPHINS, 20-10

Oakland (plus 3 1/2) at Seattle

SEAHAWKS, 14-9

Tennessee (off) at San Francisco

The "off," of course, is for Steve Young, who will be replaced by Jeff Garcia.

An old rule that applies to Tennessee: if you're not good enough to go 4-0, you won't. Even with Garcia ...

Why does this look like a place where the Rams may stumble? Wait 'til next week, when they'll be going for 4-0 against the 49ers. RAMS, 27-10

Arizona (off) at Dallas

Jake Plummer's in his third season, but he's suffering from the sophomore jinx. COWBOYS, 24-19

Pampa High boys basketball team members climb aboard a brand-new 2000 Chevrolet Z-71 pickup truck from Quality Sales. The new vehicle is one of several prizes contestants can win at the annual Harvester Basketball Golf Scramble Saturday, starting at 9 a.m. at Hidden Hills. A hole-in-one on No. 12 and a golfer can drive away the new pickup. Other hole-in-one prizes are Seiko men's or ladies watch (No. 6), Callaway Biggest Big Bertha Driver (No. 8) and Bose Wave Radio (No. 15). Contestants will also have the opportunity to meet new boys' basketball coach Jerry Schaeffer. Scramble proceeds will go to the basketball program. To sign up for the scramble, call 669-5866.

Limping Texas Tech faces Aggie juggernaut

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — It doesn't take a genius to figure out why oddsmakers pick the Texas Tech Red Raiders to lose by 16 points against No. 5 Texas A&M on Saturday.

The Aggies come to town sporting the nation's top-rated defense — an iron wall that has given up a single rushing touchdown and has 10 interceptions this year.

Texas Tech, on the other hand, has a stop-and-go offense that has trouble producing coherent drives and is short one star running back and Heisman hopeful.

When the two teams collide, Tech coach Spike Dykes says it will take more than a little good fortune for his team to win.

"We know what it means to play a big team," Dykes said. "You've got to look for lucky breaks. But you've also got to believe you can win before you can win. So we believe it. And come Saturday, we'll try to make it happen."

Unfortunately for the Red Raiders (1-2), the Aggies' defense, while untested by a true offensive power, seems to be living up to its billing in the early season.

A&M (3-0) intercepted four passes and returned two for touchdowns in a 23-6 victory over Southern Mississippi last weekend. The Aggies also allowed only 68 yards rushing this season after holding Southern Miss to 18.

Mets in danger of missing National League playoffs, again

By The Associated Press

For the second straight year, a late-season collapse could mean no postseason play for the New York Mets.

The Mets, who held a four-game lead in the NL wild-card race with 12 games left, have lost eight of nine games to reach the brink of elimination from the playoff race.

Thursday night's 4-3, 11-inning loss to the Atlanta Braves at Shea Stadium left the Mets two games behind Houston and Cincinnati for the wild card with three remaining for each team.

To make the postseason for the first time since 1988, the Mets must either sweep Pittsburgh while the Astros or Reds lose at least twice, or win twice and hope Houston or Cincinnati gets swept.

manager Bobby Valentine, whose team lost the final five games last year to fall one game short of a wild-card playoff. "We are going to need some help and we have to take care of our own business."

Brian Jordan tripled and scored on Ozzie Guillen's sacrifice fly in the 11th as the Braves won for the ninth time in 10 games and clinched home-field throughout the NL playoffs.

"This is the next best thing to winning the World Series," said Atlanta's Chipper Jones, the subject of constant ribbing from Mets' fans. "I told them to go home and put their Yankees stuff on."

After New York tied the game at 3 in the eighth on Edgardo Alfonzo's 26th homer, the Braves took the lead in the 11th. Shawn Dunston overran a high fly to right by Jordan leading off the inning, turning a routine out into a triple.

"I got a good jump and I was going to get it," said Dunston, who usually plays center field. "I had a beat on it. I turned to look at the wall and I saw the ball falling on the other side of me. I knew I was in trouble."

Rookie Octavio Dotel (8-3), making his fifth career relief appearance, then intentionally walked Andruw Jones. Guillen followed with a fly to shallow center, and Jordan narrowly beat Darryl Hamilton's throw to break the tie.

Terry Mulholland (10-8) got the final four outs for the victory.

In other NL games, it was Los Angeles 9, San Francisco 4; Philadelphia 2, Chicago 1; Pittsburgh 3, Milwaukee 2; and Arizona 5, San Diego 3.

Dodgers 9, Giants 4
The last baseball game at Candlestick Park drew a host of former Giants greats and 61,389 fans, the largest regular-season crowd in the stadium's history. After 40 years of tormenting players and fans with swirling winds, frigid temperatures and blankets of fog, the 'Stick closed its baseball career on a balmy, sunny day.

Juan Marichal threw out the ceremonial first pitch and Willie Mays tossed out the ballpark's final pitch after the game. The Giants move to $319 million Pacific Bell Park in downtown San Francisco next season, leaving Candlestick — which opened on April 12, 1960 — to the NFL's 49ers.

Phillies 2, Cubs 1

Mike Lieberthal hit his 31st homer and Robert Person held Sammy Sosa homerless as Philadelphia beat Chicago at Veterans Stadium.

Sosa was 0-for-3 with a walk, leaving him with 62 homers. He trails Mark McGwire by one homer going into the Cubs' season-ending, three-game series against the Cardinals, starting tonight in St. Louis.

Lieberthal's 410-foot solo homer gave the Phillies a 2-1 lead in the fifth. Lieberthal was 3-for-4, raising his average to .301. Person (10-5) allowed one run and three hits in seven innings.

Diamondbacks 5, Padres 3

Randy Johnson tied Nolan Ryan's major league record for most double-digit strikeout games in a season, fanning 11 in seven innings as Arizona beat San Diego.

Johnson (17-9) struck out at least 10 batters 23 times this season to tie the record Ryan set with the California Angels in 1973.

He allowed three runs on first-inning home runs by Quilvio Veras and Eric Owens, then shut down the visiting Padres on one hit the next six innings. He allowed four hits and walked two.

The 364 strikeouts by Johnson this season were the fourth-most in major league history. The only pitchers to strike out more were Ryan with 383 in 1973, Sandy Koufax with 382 in 1965 and Ryan with 367 in 1974.

Pirates 3, Brewers 2
Kevin Young's solo homer in the sixth inning spoiled Hideo Nomo's 10-strikeout performance as Pittsburgh won in Milwaukee.

Nomo has 161 strikeouts this season, the most by a Milwaukee pitcher since Cal Eldred had 180 in 1993. Nomo (12-8) allowed eight hits and three walks in seven innings.

Young's two-out homer, his third in four games, broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning. Mike Garcia (1-0) pitched one inning in relief of Pete Schourek for his first major league win, and Scott Sauerbeck got the last out for his second save.

Farewell to the Stick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The fabled winds were quiet, the familiar shroud of cold and fog nowhere to be seen or felt.

Defying 40 years of history, Candlestick Park, home to Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Juan Marichal, was the scene Thursday of a long goodbye on a brilliant day for baseball.

"Adios, Candlestickers, watched some of the greatest players in the game on a day-to-day basis in this ballpark," Giants executive vice president Larry Baer said. "This is closure, but it's also a happy sendoff because we're going to a new ballpark."

Before a roaring crowd, Hall of Famer Marichal, in a business suit and a baseball cap, returned to the mound to throw out the ceremonial first pitch.

That signaled the beginning of the end for Candlestick. Maligned for its bitter weather and isolation, it was also remembered for some of baseball's great moments and its strength in withstanding the October 1989 earthquake that ravaged the Bay area and interrupted the World Series.

The All-Star game was played at the 'Stick in 1961, when the winds blew pitcher Stu Miller off the mound.

Dedicated the year before by Vice President Richard Nixon as "the finest ballpark in America," Candlestick also was the scene of the 16-inning scoreless duel between Marichal and the Braves' Warren Spahn (Mays won it with a homer); McCovey's 500-foot upper-deck homer in a 1966 loss to the Mets and lefty Dave Dravecky's August 1989 miracle comeback from cancer, in which he beat the Reds.

"Juan Marichal's no-hitter, the World Series games..." Hall of Famer Orlando Cepeda said. "And that 16-inning game that Juan pitched and Willie won, I'll never forget that. This was a tough playing field but I spent so many days here and there are so many great memories."

Strangely, the Giants and the rival Los Angeles Dodgers played the final baseball game at the 'Stick under a broiling sun. The temperature at game time was 82 degrees.

"It's unbelievable," said Richard Scimeca, 43, of San Jose, who took the day off from work to be at the final game. "Maybe it's because it's the last game and the baseball gods decided after all these years we're going to give you some good weather. It seems like every other time I was here, it was windy and freezing."

Scimeca remembers coming to the games with his dad, paying 50 cents for bleacher tickets and chasing after home-run balls.

"I never did get one but I sure ran after them," he said. "It's kind of a sad day because there won't be baseball here any more and I wouldn't have missed it. But it's not like they're leaving us. They're going to a new ballpark so at least we'll still be able to see them."

Texas looks for different result vs. K-State

By The Associated Press

Texas players remember the blowout at Kansas State last season, and now all of the Longhorns are looking for payback.

Well, almost all of them. "Revenge is kind of high school stuff," Texas quarterback Major Applewhite said. "I want to win every game."

The 15th-ranked Longhorns take on the No. 13 Wildcats in the teams' first meeting since Kansas State's 48-7 victory last season.

A great deal has changed since then. Texas is favored and Applewhite's confidence is high. "I don't think Major fears anything except God," Longhorns strong safety Lee Jackson said.

Kansas State and Texas are two of five ranked Big 12 teams in action Saturday. Also, No. 5 Texas A&M is at Texas Tech, No. 6 Nebraska plays Oklahoma State and No. 23 Oklahoma is at Notre Dame. Nebraska, Texas A&M, Kansas State and Oklahoma are undefeated, and Texas is 4-1.

In other Top 10 games, it's No. 1 Florida State at Duke, No. 21 Alabama at No. 3 Florida, No. 11 Purdue at No. 4 Michigan, Auburn at No. 7 Tennessee, No. 8 Virginia Tech at No. 24 Virginia, and LSU at No. 10 Georgia.

Elsewhere in the Top 25, it's Wisconsin at No. 12 Ohio State, Iowa at No. 14 Michigan State, No. 16 Mississippi State at Vanderbilt, No. 17 Marshall at Miami, Ohio, No. 19 East Carolina at Army, No. 20 Arkansas at Kentucky, Tulane at No. 22 Syracuse, and No. 25 Oregon at Washington.

On Thursday night, No. 9 Georgia Tech beat Maryland 49-31.

Applewhite, who threw for 239 yards and Texas' only touchdown in the fourth quarter that averted a shutout last season, is 11th in the nation in passing efficiency, throwing for 1,492 yards and 10 touchdowns this season, with only one interception.

"Applewhite is playing as well as any quarterback in the country," Kansas State coach Bill Snyder said. "He is as effective and efficient as any that come to my mind. He can do it all. He's very versatile and they can utilize virtually every receiver they have on the field."

With Ricky Williams gone, Applewhite is the Longhorns' offensive leader. Texas (4-1 overall, 1-0 Big 12) has won four straight and earned its highest ranking since early 1997.

In just his second season with the Longhorns, he is already fourth on Texas' career passing chart with 3,836 yards and third in touchdown passes with 28.

"They were teeing off on me because I was a freshman, just like everybody was," Applewhite said of last year's meeting with the Wildcats. "They came after me. I walked away from that game knowing what to improve on."

Applewhite and his teammates certainly face a challenge Saturday.

Kansas State (3-0, 1-0) is coming off a 35-28 comeback victory over Iowa State, in which it gave up 379 yards of total offense. But the Wildcats have held their opponents to just 391 passing yards in three games this season. Opponents have completed 41.2 percent of their passes.

Kansas State have given up just one passing touchdown this season, ranks fourth in the nation in pass efficiency defense, and has at least one interception in all three of its games.

"Kansas State is still for real,"

Texas coach Mack Brown said. "They're big, fast, and confident."

No. 9 Georgia Tech 49, Maryland 31

In Atlanta, Joe Hamilton threw for 387 yards and three touchdowns, ran for a 41-yard score and bolstered his Heisman hopes to lead Georgia Tech.

Hamilton, the nation's top-rated passer, threw his first two interceptions of the season, but more than compensated with touchdown passes of 80 and 29 yards to Dez White and a 30-yarder to Kerry Watkins.

The senior quarterback completed 19 of 31 passes and also rushed 13 times for 87 yards, finishing with a school-record 474 yards of total offense.

Georgia Tech (3-1, 1-1 Atlantic Coast Conference) shredded the nation's top-ranked scoring defense. The Yellow Jackets scored two touchdowns in the first 6 1/2 minutes, more than Maryland (3-1, 0-1) surrendered in its first three games combined.

Frank Phillips schedules golf scramble

BORGER — The fifth annual Frank Phillips College employee-sponsored Endowment Golf Scramble is Oct. 9 at the Huber Golf Course. Registration and breakfast begins at 8 a.m., and the tournament will begin with a shotgun start at 9 a.m.

Everyone, regardless of skill level, is encouraged to participate. Individual and teams (4 people) may register, and entries should be received by Saturday,

Oct. 6. The format of the tournament is a 4-person scramble, and the entry fee is $15 per person. This fee includes green fees, cart, breakfast and lunch, golf balls and other goodies. Prizes will be awarded on a basis similar to flying and randomly. The Frank Phillips College employees sponsor the tournament, and all proceeds benefit the FPC Student Scholarship Endowment. This endowment was established by the members of the FPC Development Corporation, FPC employees and friends of the college. It currently funds the FPC Development Corporation Presidential, Dean's and Re-Entering Adult Learner scholarships, more than $20,000 annually.

Senate report reaffirms Y2K will not be a disaster

AUSTIN — A recent report by a bipartisan U.S. Senate panel on Y2K reaffirms that Y2K will not be a disaster but warns people to be prepared for minor disruptions. The panel — headed by Sens. Robert Bennett, R-Utah, and Christopher Dodd, D-Conn. — stated that national power grids, phone systems, ATM machines and air travel should all be fine on Jan. 1.

The Senate report is encouraging. It reinforces what we have been telling Texans — that there is no need to panic about Y2K, but also that they should make the panel — headed by Sens. Robert Bennett, R-Utah, and Christopher Dodd, D-Conn. — stated that national power grids, phone systems, ATM machines and air travel should all be fine on Jan. 1.

common-sense preparations," said Shannon Porterfield, statewide Year 2000 project director. "No matter how much work or expertise goes into a project, we must prepare for potential problems that could not be predicted or detected." The U.S. Senate panel report came at the close of Y2K Awareness Week in Texas. Awareness Week kicked-off a statewide communications effort called Readiness 2000 which involves a coalition of state agencies promoting Y2K preparedness in Texas. Its message is "Don't Panic. Be Ready."

Hayden Wade and Tristan Brown in front of the Colosseum in Rome.

DIARY

Roman ruins, which includes the Colosseum. The Colosseum was built around 80 A.D. and is a most impressive structure, especially considering how long it has stood and how tedious it was to build. Ancient Rome holds many interesting, and unique stories and I am glad that we had a guide who brought it alive for us.

After the ruins, we walked to Vatican City, which is considered a separate country and legal entity. The population is 300 people and the total area is only 109 acres. We entered St. Peter's Square which contains the Egyptian Obelisk and Michelangelo's Dome. The Pope delivers his Easter message to up to 2 million people in this square from the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica. We saw where the Pope lives, but he was out of town — we know that because the shutters on his residence were shut.

St. Peter's Basilica was built from 1503 to 1514 and is magnificent. The use of gold and velvet and marble and wood was apparent throughout the basilica. The statues and paintings were so impressive. One of the teens wanted to know if they ever painted or did a sculpture of a person with their clothes ON. St. Peter's was so peaceful and serene. This is also the home of the "Pieta" statue of Jesus and Mary which was sculpted by Michelangelo when he was 22 years of age.

The guards at the Vatican are Swiss guards and their uniforms were designed by Michelangelo. This is the only exception to the Swiss allowing their military to serve in another country.

We had lunch at the Vatican gift shop and bought a few souvenirs. We are spending more money than we had planned. We were often reminded during the trip that you should always pack half as many clothes and you think you will need and pack twice as much money and you think you need!

We walked to the Sistine Chapel, home of the magnificent works of Michelangelo. The paintings and sculptures were too beautiful to describe and we were breathlessly impressed with the work that he had done, especially when you consider the fact that he had to hang from the ceilings to paint. There is no talking or picture taking allowed in the Sistine Chapel, it is a place of reverence and when you see it you will know why.

We boarded the bus to head to the Catacombs. (Each time we boarded the bus, Wanetta counted her sheep — one, two, three ... seventeen, but Stefanie also had to count us — eins, zwei, drei ... etc.)

The catacombs are all underground and represent the burial place of 170,000 Christians. This is not where Christians were martyred, as many believe. It was not a secret place but was well known in its time. The oldest graves were just one level below ground, the newer graves were dug further down until there were several stories underground that had been carved out. The bones of all the dead have now been removed from the Catacombs and moved to another burial place since thieves would come in and steal anything they could find, including bones.

It was a dark, damp place with narrow hallways and artificial lighting. It was difficult to imagine how hard it would be to navigate with torches as they did when it was in use. Tristan Brown managed to scare "the death" out of Steve Porter by jumping out of one of the graves.

After returning from the Catacombs, we visited St. Peter's in Chains Church and saw Michelangelo's "Moses" who bore a striking resemblance to Charleton Heston! The church was built on top of a Roman house where they found Christian writings. The church houses a set of chains symbolic of the chains of St. Peter.

Our supper was at a very nice restaurant and we feasted on pork again. There was a three-hour walking tour scheduled after supper. But, some of us (nine to be exact) just weren't up to walking any more that day and I had a pounding headache. So, we decided to get a cab and return to the hotel. The restaurant owner assisted in hailing a cab and telling the driver where we wanted to go — we divided up into three cabs. Little did I know that my headache was going to get worse — and soon! I must tell you that during the cab ride, I thought I was going to die — it was a wild ride. I was too scared to close my eyes, I was paralyzed and had white knuckles by the time we arrived at the hotel. How do these people live this way? The roads are a free-for-all. It was like playing serious bumper cars.

After the ruins, we walked to Vatican City, which is considered a separate country and legal entity. The population is 300 people and the total area is only 109 acres. We entered St. Peter's Square which contains the Egyptian Obelisk and Michelangelo's Dome. The Pope delivers his Easter message to up to 2 million people in this square from the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica. We saw where the Pope lives, but he was out of town — we know that because the shutters on his residence were shut.

The others who decided to take the walking tour had a nice stroll. They saw a fashion show in progress at the famous Spanish Steps. Further along, they stopped at Piazza Navona and saw Bernini's famous fountain, "The Fountains of the Four Rivers." They also went to the Trevi Fountain. The Trevi Fountain was built in the mid-1700's by Nicolo Salvi, an Italian sculptor. Legend is that if you face away from the fountain and toss a coin in the fountain, you can make a wish and it will come true. But, if you toss a second coin over your shoulder, it means that one day you will return to Rome.

They walked past many street vendors in Rome, and the vendors would yell things such as "Buy now, pay later" or "Cheaper than K-Mart" or "Cheaper than 7-11." After walking past the Pantheon, they returned to the hotel where a former Pampa AFS student, Francesco, visited with the students.

Next morning, up and on the bus early to drive to Florence, Italy. Another gorgeous city to experience.

Source claims break in old yogurt shop slaying case

AUSTIN (AP) — Police are set to arrest four suspects in the 1991 murders of four teen-age girls whose bodies were found in the charred ruins of an Austin yogurt shop.

An official close to the investigation said Thursday night two suspects have given confessions detailing what happened the night shop workers Jennifer Harbison and Eliza Thomas, both 17, were killed. Sarah Harbison, 15, and Amy Ayers, 13, who were at the scene, were also slain.

Nobody was ever brought to trial in the case, which involves the killers having set the "I Can't Believe It's Yogurt" store on fire with the four girls tied up inside.

Of the soon-to-be-arrested suspects, all adults, only two live in the state, said an unidentified law enforcement official in today's editions of the Austin American-Statesman.

The work of detectives assigned to old murder cases and the recent appearance of the suspects' family members before a grand jury led to the break in the case, said the police source, who spoke to the paper on condition of anonymity.

Police refused to comment on record about the impending arrests. It was not immediately clear when the suspects would be taken into custody.

"We know if we had arrested two of them right away, the other two would clam up," the official said, explaining why an arrest has yet to be made.

"We have to bring all four to justice."

Investigators say the four males — two adults and two juveniles at the time — drove up to the yogurt shop the night of the killings and three went inside. Robbery appears to be the motive, police said, but some of the girls were sexually assaulted.

Each was shot in the head before the blaze was set.

Several times, police thought they were close to solving the case.

One man in Mexico reportedly confessed to the Dec. 6, 1991, killings and was sentenced to prison for an unrelated murder. But relatives of the victims believe his statement may have been coerced.

Austin officials also speculated that paroled killer Kenneth Allen McDuff may have been to blame since he was convicted of abducting and murdering a woman at a car wash. McDuff was executed in November 1998 without shedding any light on the yogurt shop case.

To honor the memory of their daughters, the victims' families formed We Will Not Forget SAJE. The group's initials stand for the girls' first names.

In 1994, the families settled a lawsuit with the owners of the yogurt shop and the shopping center for $12 million. They used part of the money to publish a 65-page safety manual, "How to Survive and Thrive at Work," designed for teenagers, parents and employers.

Man released believed worst child molester in Dallas history

DALLAS (AP) — A man believed to be the worst sex offender in the history of this city was moved from a prison cell to a halfway house room Thursday.

Former YMCA counselor David Wayne Jones, 28, will spend 60 to 90 days at the Way Back House, according to a Texas Department of Criminal Justice spokesman.

The Dallas Morning News reported the move in today's editions.

Jones, who was a YMCA youth counselor at the time of the attacks, will be tracked by parole officers through phone calls and an ankle monitor.

After being convicted in 1991 of molesting 16 children, Jones served about eight years of several concurrent 15-year sentences. His release results from a law that takes into account so-called "good time" earned against a prison sentence.

Talk of his release has sparked the outrage of child abuse activists, who argue molesters should not be allowed to return to the streets.

Police said at the time of his arrest, Jones admitted molesting more than 50 children he met through the YMCA. Two children, ages 7 and 8, reportedly came forward about the attacks, which occurred off YMCA property.

Five found dead in North Carolina home

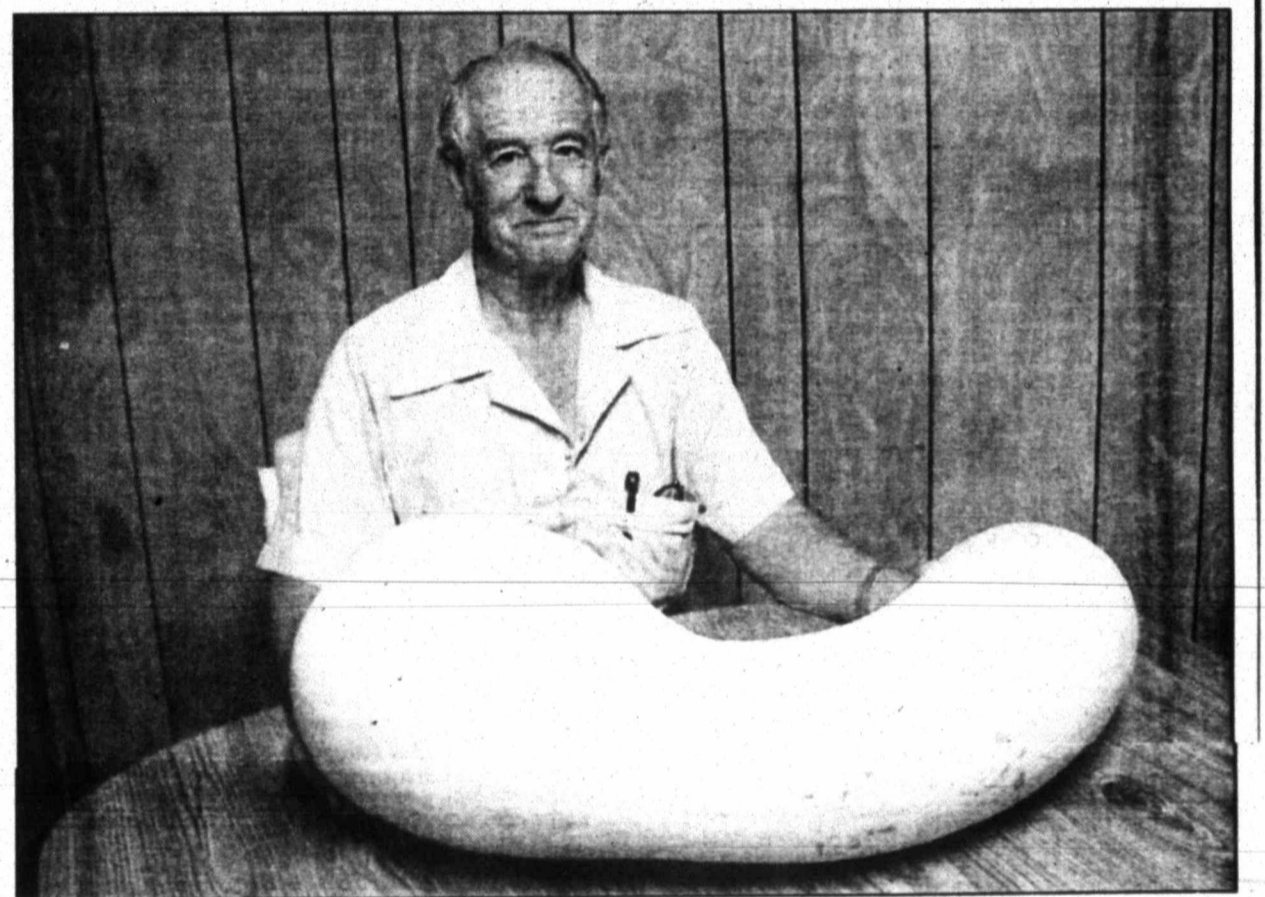

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Authorities responding to a report of a shooting found five people dead in a home, a sheriff's department official said today.

The victims were found late Thursday in a residence near Interstate 40, Haywood County Chief Deputy Jimmy Parton said. He said he didn't know whether they had died from gunshot wounds and provided no other details.

Dorothy Price, who lives a half-mile away from the crime scene north of Waynesville, said she knew the victims and they all were members of the same family. Waynesville is about 30 miles west of Asheville.

"It's a normally quiet area," Price said this morning. "We've never had anything like this happen before."

Everything is big in Texas, and this 38 lb. Striped Cushow Pumpkin grown by Paul Pletcher is no exception. Pletcher grew the pumpkin in a field near the Bowers City highway.
