Few hunt along river on 'last' weekend

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Saturday was the first day of hunting season for white tailed-deer. It was also the last weekend hunters could hunt along the Canadian River in two Texas Panhandle counties.

Barring last-minute legal decisions, the land reverts to the landowners at 5 p.m. today.

Over the weekend, not many hunters bothered to show up in the area, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Officer Win Bishop. He said there weren't nearly as many hunters in the area as have been in past years.

For many hunters, the Canadian River area was the only place they had to go hunting, said Bishop. He said hunting is rapidly becoming a wealthy man's sport.

"Sadly, it's getting to where middle and low income people can't afford hunting anymore," said Bishop.

After a decades-long battle, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Oct. 9 in a 9-0 decision that the 13,000 acres hunters had used for years is land owners' property. The decision was based on gradient boundaries which the court defines as belonging to the land owners of the adjoining property.

For many hunters, the Canadian River area was the only place they had to go hunting, said Wildlife Officer Win Bishop. He said hunting is rapidly becoming a wealthy man's sport.

Although Land Commissioner David Dewhurst asked the Attorney General's Office to request the Supreme Court rehear the case, the hunters are not optimistic about the decision being reversed.

Attorney General John Cornyn told media representatives in Amarillo Thursday he will request a rehearing before the Supreme Court prior to the 5 p.m. deadline today.

Andrea Horton of the Attorney General's Office in Austin said this morning the request by the AG's office has not been filed this morning, but it would be filed by 5 p.m. today.

"Hunting opportunities in the state of Texas are very slim," said Bishop. Texas only has 1.2 percent public lands, according to the U.S. General Services Administration, and falls in the bottom of the 50 states. The state is the second largest in total acreage with a total of 168,217,600 million acres.

Bishop said hunting leases can go as high as $5,000, and sometimes higher.

He said that many of the hunters who have hunted the Canadian River area aren't bothering to purchase hunting licenses this year, saying there is no point to it.

Bishop said the weekend hunting went very smooth. "Most of the hunters came out by midday Sunday," he said. "They didn't report much luck due to the exceptionally warm weather. Others complained about the four-wheelers scaring off any potential game. The outdoor recreationists were also in the area for one last time Sunday.

A way of life for many area people has gone with the land reverting to the land owners.

Hunting club raises $40,000 for leases

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Hunters in the Texas Panhandle have formed a hunting club and leased 36,000 acres of private land near Clarendon.

The group of interested hunters met last Monday night in Borger and formed the B&L Hunting Club, according to Billy Reeves of Borger. There is already a waiting list for interested hunters.

Reeves said the membership is limited to 240 members which was reached by 2-p.m. Tuesday. Over $40,000 was raised by Tuesday to acquire the hunting lease.

He said hunters from across the Panhandle have paid the $200 annual fee for the lease. Reeves said there are numerous Pampa residents who have joined the group. Residents from White Deer, Panhandle, Dallas, Borger, Stinnett and as far away as Tennessee have joined the club to have a place to hunt.

The formation of the hunting club was the result of the Canadian River lands which hunters had utilized in the belief it was public

First American to start Thanksgiving food drive

In the spirit of the season, First American Bank will conduct its annual Thanksgiving food drive starting Wednesday and running through Nov. 22.

Non-perishable food items and cash donations from customers and area residents will be accepted at bank locations at 221 N. Gray and 2500 Perryton Parkway.

The bank is working with Good Samaritan Christian Services and Salvation Army to coordinate the distribution of Thanksgiving dinner baskets to needy families in the community.

Employees will donate food for the dinners and First American will also furnish turkeys and collection baskets.

"In previous years, our food drives have been a success due to the generosity of our customers and the citizens of Pampa," said Dennis Godwin, branch manager. "We're looking forward to celebrating another season of giving!"

Business continues a family tradition

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

"Family-owned, family-managed business" — that is a phrase that is becoming obsolete as multi-generation family businesses are already rare in this day of buyouts, takeovers, and corporate consolidations.

In the days of national chains expanding to even the smallest communities, Jiffy Cleaners is an exception.

While the name of the business is new to the Pampa community, the family is not new. And the location of the dry cleaning business of the new owners is the same. Kelly and Lana Miller are continuing in the professional dry cleaning business which Kelly's grandparents, Gene and Alice Gates, started 40 years ago.

The Gates couple was the first generation of three to own their own drying cleaning business.

Their daughter and her husband, Ken and Carol Miller, continued in the steps of her parents as they have owned a dry cleaning business in Woodward, Okla., for the past 35 years.

Their two children, Kelly and Melissa, worked in the family-operated business as they grew to adulthood. The two children learned all about the business and the importance of customer satisfaction from both their parents and grandparents.

Kelly and his wife, Lana, opened the two Pampa stores two months ago. They moved to Pampa from Woodward to return the cleaning business to family management.

land being declared private property by the U.S. Supreme Court on Oct. 9. The legal wrangles have endured for several decades over ownership of the land.

White-tailed deer season began Saturday and will continue through Jan. 2. Turkey hunting will be legal during the same time frame. Quail is now in season and will be legal until Feb. 27, 2000.

Mule Deer will not be in season until Nov. 20.

The leased land in Donley County is ranch land. Reeves said the club negotiated a three-year lease, and they are working on obtaining an additional 30,000-40,000 acres for hunters.

The land was leased at $1 an acre with the hunters providing liability insurance.

He said there are over 100 hunters on the waiting list, with more calling daily to get into the organization.

Membership is $200 per year for hunters 18 and over. Hunters 17 and under will be charged $50 membership annually.

Reeves said there is no connection between his store, B&L Outdoor Headquarters located in Borger, and the hunting organization. "They just both happened to be named B&L," he said.

The group will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Elks Club in Borger to elect officers and a board of directors. He said anyone wanting additional information on membership is welcome to come.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Reeves at 274-3041.

years of experience in the dry cleaning business. Shirley Wyche has been employed at the business 35 years while Janie Lumna has been employed 17 years.

Business has grown since the Millers assumed ownership of the business Sept. 1. Also, the local business offers one hour dry cleaning service.

Kelly and Lana Miller are the parents of three daughters: Courtney, 5; Krysten, 4; and Cashion, 2.

Gene and Alice Gates opened their first store in Pampa in the late 1950s. Located at 824 W. Francis, the store grew so much the couple opened another store in 1964. The second store was located in the 1800 block of North Hobart. The stores were called One Hour Martinizing.

Gene Gates loved people. He got to know his customers and cared about them and their families.

"Everyone in town knew Gene," said Lana Miller. "When you walked in the front door, you were a friend."

He was active in many Pampa-based organizations. Among the many organizations in which he was active were Downtown Kiwanis, Masonic Lodge, Chamber of Commerce, Shriners, Model T Club, Crippled Children's organization and

Central Baptist Church

The active businessman was also a director of the Texas Dry Cleaning Association and active in the National Dry Cleaning Association.

"We had a really good business at the time we sold it in 1988," said Alice Gates, widow of Gene Gates. The couple enjoyed 10 years of retirement together before he died in January, 1999.

She related her late husband was always anxious to please the customers, and apparently this desire was one of the major reasons for the couple's successful business.

Mrs. Gates said their customers wanted clothes cleaned and ready to wear as quickly as possible, and the Gates always tried to oblige. Cost of the services was important to the customers, too, she said.

She related the couple experienced cleaning many types of fabrics, including wash 'n wear, double-knit, cottons, wool, rayon and linen.

The couple always tried to help their community by purchasing from Pampa-owned businesses, and the Millers plan to continue this practice.

Jiffy Cleaning on North Hobart is open 7 a.m. Monday through Friday. On Saturday their hours are 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

The store on Francis is open 7 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Saturday hours are 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Alice and the late Gene Gates were owners of One Hour Martinizing for over 40 years in Pampa. Their grandson, Kelly Miller and his wife, Lana, recently purchased the business.

Texas man's body found in submerged car

ZWOLLE, La. (AP) - The body of an East Texas man was found inside a car pulled from Toledo Bend Reservoir south of Zwolle, Sabine Parish authorities said.

Fishermen spotted the car almost completely submerged off Lanan Bridge about 10:45 a.m. Saturday. The body of Keith E. Small, 35, of Hemphill, Texas, was discovered in the car after it was pulled from the lake, Deputy Coroner Ron Rivers said Sunday.

The car had been standing straight up in about 12 feet of water with only part of its back bumper visible. It apparently ran off a straight stretch of road, Rivers said.

Small left his home around 5:50 p.m. Friday headed to a supermarket just across the Texas-Louisiana line. His family reported him missing Saturday morning.

Trial for alleged Columbian drug smugglers opens on Tuesday

HOUSTON (AP) - Six men accused of stuffing at least 10 tons of Colombian cocaine into cargo ship sewage tanks in a botched drug delivery are set for trial Tuesday.

Sergiy Kurdyukov was the captain of the China Breeze; Oleg Khmyznikov, Sergiy Kruglyak and Sergiy Lyubikovsky were crew members on what appeared to be a raw sugar carrier. But according to the Drug Enforcement Agency, the men collaborated with alleged co-conspirators Nikolaos Pappimitriou and Edilson Bustos-Uesche to ferry loads of cocaine from the Caribbean Sea to Europe.

Authorities believe the China Breeze was part of a Greek drug running network, the Houston Chronicle reported. Greek smugglers have sneaked more than 50 tons of cocaine into Europe and the United States over the last two years, head of Houston DEA operations Ernest Howard said.

Drug officials in Greece have arrested eight accused co-conspirators and have seized more than $4 million, the paper reported.

Weather focus

PAMPA - Partly sunny today with a high of 80 and south winds at 10-20 mph. Tonight, partly cloudy with a low of 50 and south winds at 10-15 mph. Partly sunny tomorrow with a high in the mid 70s and south winds at 10-20 mph. High yesterday 77; the overnight low 49.

STATEWIDE - Unseasonably warm temperatures are expected to continue through much of this week across Texas. Skies across the state were mostly clear to partly cloudy today as an upper-level low pressure system in Oklahoma moved off to the east.

Winds varied from easterly to southerly at 5 to 15 mph, with calm conditions at many locations.

Early-morning temperatures remained mild, ranging from 46 degrees at Dalhart, Lufkin and Midland to 65 at Alliance Airport near Fort Worth. It was also 44 degrees at Junction, 56 at Fort Stockton and 65 at Port Isabel.

Heavy fog formed along the South Texas coast from Houston to Victoria for the third morning in a row. Dense fog was reported at Victoria and Palacios, with visibilities restricted to as low as a quarter-mile.

Highs through Wednesday should range from the mid 70s to lower 80s, with overnight lows in the 40s and 50s, except for 60s along the Rio Grande and along the gulf coast.

Some patchy early-morning fog was expected through Tuesday in the far west and most areas east of the mountains. Highs through Tuesday will be in the 70s except for 60s over the southwest mountains and mid 80s along the Rio Grande.

Preacher, others arrested in church blaze

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A minister and three other people are accused of setting fire to a church that was covered by a large insurance policy.

Arrests of the Rev. Theophilus Thompson, pastor of the Full Gospel Power House Church of God in Christ, and the others in the 1996 blaze came less than two weeks before a three-year statute of limitations ran out on the case, investigators say.

Thompson was free today after posting a $150,000 bond. He is accused of engaging in organized criminal activity-arson along with Wilma Monday, Dusty Dean Williams and Christopher Charles Johnson.

Held at Wichita County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bonds are Ms. Monday, former church owner and ex-beneficiary of a $270,000 insurance policy; Williams, 25, and Christopher Charles Johnson, 22.

Thompson formed the predominantly black church in 1960. Ms. Monday, along with her husband James, purchased the Full Gospel Power House Church of God in Christ in January 1993 from the United Methodist Church for $112,500, according to the Wichita Falls Times Record News.

Ms. Monday, as part of the purchase agreement, took out an insurance policy from Preferred Risk Insurance on the church for $270,000, of which she was originally the beneficiary.

When the blaze was set on Nov. 20, 1996, more than 100 predominantly black churches — mainly in the South — had been burned within less than two years. Federal law enforcement officials had also investigated a number of suspicious fires at other houses of worship and predominantly white churches during the same time period.

The U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms had determined that the Full Gospel Power House blaze had been set at several locations in the two-story building.

The FBI and the National Church Arson Task Force had also joined the investigation. One year following the blaze, an ATF agent who was then the lead investigator said authorities had ruled out race and revenge as possible motives for the fire, in which flames reached 80 feet high.

Fire Chief Ronnie James confirmed the arrests Sunday night by the Wichita Falls Fire Department, but declined additional comment about the case.

A telephone number for Thompson was unlisted and he could not be reached today by The Associated Press.

Nobody was hurt in the blaze. But ATF Special Agent Steve Steele had estimated loss of the building and its contents at $250,000.

At least one witness reported seeing two people at or near the Full Gospel Power House shortly before the flames were spotted, he said.

At the time of the blaze, the church was two months behind in its payments to the North Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church, conference spokesman Gary Regan said. The church paid $850 a month toward a $125,000 note owned by the conference.

Thompson, who presided over the church, said at the time of the blaze that the loss was "pitiful" and that he had put a lot into the institution.

Seven surviving octuplets make appearance

HOUSTON (AP) — Nearly a year after their birth made history, the seven surviving Houston octuplets have made their first public appearance.

More than 100 people attended a celebration in their honor Saturday at Sugar Creek Baptist Church. The infants, each seated in the lap of a volunteer, bounced, emitted an occasional "Da!" and chewed on their fists.

The five sisters — Ebuka, Chidi, Echerem, Gorom and Chima — wore lacy, white gowns and caps. Brothers Ikem and Jioke wore white satin suits.

Conceived with the help of fertility drugs, the octuplets were born Dec. 8 and Dec. 20 at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital to Nkem Chukwu and Iyke Louis Udobi.

Illegal collecting of artifacts more common, say officers

DALLAS (AP) — Amid yesterday's treasures, investigators are sorting out present-day crimes that pose an increasing threat to preservation.

A Dallas man with a penchant for American Indian artifacts and two of his friends have faced prosecution for taking arrowheads and pottery shards from lake-bottom mud in Northeast Texas.

"People are stunned to find out that this kind of activity is criminal," lawyer Ron Wright said.

Gary Priesing and his friends, Alvis Don Rattan and Wayne Shults, were arrested Aug. 14 while trying to remove about 100 Caddo Indian artifacts from federally owned Pat Mayse Lake in Lamar County.

The trio pleaded guilty in October to misdemeanor charges in Sherman, acknowledging violations of a law forbidding excavation and removal of archaeological resources at least 100 years old from Indian or federal lands.

Wright said his client, Shults, "had no intention of selling the objects" and did not understand the implications of his actions.

Priesing, 33, along with the 44-year-old Rattan of Bedford and Shults, 40, of Keller could have been charged with felonies under the 20-year-old law that permits collection of artifacts found on the surface of land. Each now faces up to a year's imprisonment and a $100,000 fine.

Archaeologists say areas of historic and prehistoric occupation face renewed threats from collecting for private or financial gain.

"The economy's good. There's money in people's pocket," said Louis Voegele, an archaeologist with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Tulsa, Okla., who helped investigate the Pat Mayse case. "And a lot more is being paid for it. With the value of these things, you get a lot more people willing to take a risk."

He estimated the items taken from Pat Mayse to be 700 to 1,300 years old. They included weapon and tool projectile points and parts of ceremonial clay pipes, indicating possible burials at the site.

The University of Texas at Austin will get the artifacts as a donation.

Learning to Manage Anger Is Skill That Should Be Taught

DEAR ABBY: Anger — a normal human emotion when dealt with positively and assertively, not negatively and aggressively — can advance mankind.

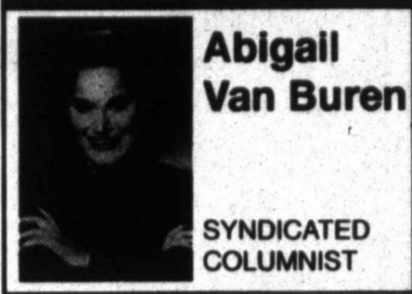

However, many people don't have the skills to positively deal with anger because they've never been taught the skills.

Anger-management skills classes should be part of the curriculum in all our nation's schools and prison systems. This would help eliminate some of the depression, domestic abuse, divorces, alcoholism, drug addiction, crime and murder in our country. I believe the benefits would far outweigh the costs.

For people who recognize their anger-management problems and want to learn the skills to enable them to deal with those problems positively, our society should make it "politically correct" to seek help through counseling. In other words, we should drop the stigma, as we have in the last 10 years or so in regard to alcoholism and drug addiction.

CARL FOX, HURST, TEXAS

DEAR CARL: Although I'm not sure I agree that the "stigma" in regard to alcoholism and drug addiction has been erased, I do agree that anger-management classes in schools could be helpful in lowering levels of violence. A step in the right direction are the peer mediation programs that are being implemented in many schools, which help to defuse problems before they become serious.

DEAR ABBY: You goofed when you advised "Tony's Mom" to buy earplugs if counseling couldn't keep her husband from yelling at their 10-year-old son. All that yelling will only harden the child, and when he reaches his teens, it could become explosive.

I, too, was a "yeller" and found my teen-ager becoming increasingly angry, hateful and disrespectful. Instead of trying to force him to change, I decided to change myself.

I focused daily on adhering to the following goals:

1. I showed my love for my son by touching him gently at least 10 times a day with hugs, pats, or just resting a hand on his shoulder when he talked to me.

2. When I wanted his attention I went to him, touching him gently and speaking very softly, looking him in the eye.

3. I listened attentively to his stories, remarks, comments, etc., without judgment or criticism.

4. I stayed in control of my emotions and stopped yelling, which eliminated the power struggles.

This calmer, nicer approach reduced the arguments and resistance to what I asked. It was amazing how quickly I got my sweet, loving son back.

WISER IN NORTH TEXAS

DEAR WISER: Your suggestions are certainly worth trying — and in many cases could go a long way toward establishing a more loving family atmosphere.

However, I recommended family counseling because it can provide insight into how these disruptive patterns began, as well as methods for eliminating them and improving the level of communication between all parties.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old boy who likes to read Dear Abby. I would just like to say that not just girls read Dear Abby. Please print my letter because I do not want boys to feel left out!

PATRICK S., CAMARILLO, CALIF.

DEAR PATRICK: You're right. My readership includes all ages and both sexes.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Early-morning dreams and thoughts give you direction. A friend might be instrumental in making what you want happen. By looking at life through a telescope, you gain healing insight. As a result, your point of view transforms. Discussions with associates give you a whole new point of view. Tonight: Browse through a bookstore.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 People are important to you. Emphasis is presently on the quality of your relationships and getting back to basics. You might discover that others are far more ready to share than usual. Be willing to work through a problem and dream up solutions together. You inspire those around you, especially at work. Tonight: Togetherness counts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Popularity builds. You have a distinct vision of what could happen in a special relationship. Don't settle for less than you think you are capable of. Be a dreamer; step up to the plate and dare to create more of what you want. Associates are full of news. Tonight: Out and about.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Focus on improving your professional life. Share your ideas with bosses and those you work with. Though you are focused on your career, don't forget to schedule an overdue doctor or dentist appointment. You might also opt to change your diet and health patterns before the holidays hit. Tonight: Yes, exercise time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Creativity soars because you listen to the dreamer within. You might not always understand what others want and need, but discussions amplify your knowledge. As a result, your view of another changes substantially. Trust builds. Tonight: Be playful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Your determination helps you change a domestic situation and grow. Don't let yourself be stuck. Move with creativity. Ideas you receive in a dream or in the early morning are worthwhile. Check out a real estate investment. Tonight: Happy at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Discussions bring out another point of view. You feel happier because of understandings you gain in conversation. Reach out for others. You'll gain if you stay flexible. Release a rigid position. Flow and grow. Tonight: Visit with a pal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 Your expenses need evaluation before you go off and spend more than you can afford. Someone really doesn't see eye to eye with you, but through discussion you can make a solid decision. Another might not be able to grasp what you visualize. Tonight: Your treat!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 You surprise yourself, sometimes, with your creativity and ability to transform yourself and situations. Many messages come to you through your dreams. What seems like intuition has already been worked through! Tonight: Extend yourself to another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

 You are processing a lot in your intuitive mind. Not everyone understands the way you think. Your goals, friends and immediate circle are changing. Be aware that this is a reflection of you. Take extra time for reflection. Tonight: A friend needs your ear.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

 Follow your goals; make time to do needed work. Right now isn't the time to get bogged down in details. Maintain an overview. A boss has some great ideas for you. Listen. Discuss long-term needs. Someone at a distance really cares. Tonight: Where your friends are.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Be responsible when dealing with others. How you visualize a work project could be radically changed by discussion. Seek out an advisor; let him give you his opinion. The more open you are, the better the long-term product will be. Tonight: Be willing to put in the extra hours.

GROOM — Groom prepared for the playoffs by capturing one final win for regular season play. The Tigers routed the Higgins Coyotes 58-8 on Friday in a Six-Man game that was halted in the third quarter by the 45-point rule.

The outcome was never in doubt as the Tigers scored ended the first quarter 30-0, and added 22 more points in the second, taking a 52-8 lead at the half.

Tiger quarterback Grant Weinheimer completed 8-of-12 passes for 197 yards and six touchdowns, with three going to Evan Crowell. With one final touchdown by Chris Ollinger in the fourth, Groom left the score 58-8.

Groom finished the regular season with a 9-1 record, including 5-0 in district play. Higgins finished 4-6 overall and 2-3 in district play. The Coyotes were held to four yards rushing and 65 total yards.

BASKETBALL

PHOENIX (AP) — Not even the Phoenix Suns were pleased after their latest victory over San Antonio — the 10th in 14 regular-season meetings with the Spurs.

The 77-74 win Sunday night marked only the third time in their history that the Suns have won while scoring fewer than 80 points. And the memory of having to come back from a 15-point deficit in the third quarter was jarring.

"Our defense kept us around," said Jason Kidd, who hit two crucial baskets in the final minute and finished with 23 points. "Every time we'd go six or four in a row, they went on a run or they made some shots and we missed some shots. But we stayed around to the end."

The loss denied the Spurs what would have been a franchise-record 4-0 start. The Spurs also won their first three in 1984-85.

Kidd gave Phoenix its first lead with a 17-foot jumper from the top of the key with 57 seconds remaining and hit another one 14 seconds later that gave Phoenix a 71-67 lead.

He got the ball seconds after his tiebreaking basket because teammate Penny Hardaway tipped the inbound pass from Tim Duncan of the Spurs directly to him.

On the Spurs' next possession, Avery Johnson missed a layup, Duncan failed to tap it in, and Luc Longley of the Spurs rebounded with 33 seconds left. That led to a layup by Tom Gugliotta and a 73-67 lead with 27 seconds to play.

The Spurs fought back, with David Robinson making a layup and Terry Porter hitting a layup and 3-pointer over the next 22 seconds. Porter's last basket cut the lead to 75-74 with 5.1 seconds to go, but Kidd added two free throws for the final margin.

"When you lose like this it's hard, because you know every little play down the stretch that didn't get done," Robinson said.

Duncan, who had 15 points and 17 rebounds, missed two free throws with 1:53 remaining and the score tied at 67, and Kidd hustled into the lane to get the rebound.

"I think we gave it away," Duncan said. "They're a streaky team, and they get a lot of shots up and make things happen in transition." Rodney Rogers of the Suns had 12 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter.

"The fourth quarter we played very well," Rogers said. "What we've got to do is play 48 minutes and not get behind like that. But this time we came back on them and pulled it out."

Hardaway had 11 points and 10 rebounds.

Robinson was in foul trouble most of the way, finishing with 12 points.

Lady Harvesters capture regional cross country title

Next stop is state 4A meet for PHS girls

LUBBOCK — The Pampa girls' cross country team just missed going to the state meet a year ago. It won't happen this year as the Lady Harvesters turned in a solid performance in capturing the Region 1 cross country title Saturday at Mae Simmons Park.

The Lady Harvesters collected 53 points and had three runners finish in the top 10. Stephenville was second with 87 points and Hereford third with 92.

Beth Lee of Lady Harvesters led the charge for her team with a third place finish at 11:43.4. Rebecca Fatheree was seventh (11:58.3) and Samantha Hurst eighth (11:59.2). Also producing for Pampa were T'Andrea Holmes, 17th place (12:27.60), Anna Resendiz, 20th place (12:32.80), Vanessa Orr, 31st place (12:48.8) and Amanda White, 48th place, 13:09.80.

Individual winner was Hereford's Brionne Yosten, who recorded a 10:49.7 time.

The top three teams and 10 individuals advance to the University Interscholastic League state meet at Old Settler's Park in Round Rock next Saturday.

The Lady Harvesters are ranked No. 2 in the state in Class 4A. Coach Mark Elms' squad won the state championship in 1995.

In the boys' division, Pampa's Javier Solis had qualified for the regional meet, but failed to place.

Fobens defeated Canyon 68-99 to win the boys' championship. Individual winner was El Paso's Marco Gallegos, who had a time of 15:15.3.

Senior Beth Lee finished third individually as the Lady Harvesters won the regional cross country title.

Broncos roll past Chargers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The bumbling, fumbling San Diego Chargers found another way to give away a game.

Four San Diego turnovers led to 17 Denver points, including linebacker Bill Romanowski's slapstick touchdown, as the Broncos beat the Chargers 33-17.

Rookie running back Olandis Gary scored twice and rushed for 108 yards.

Jason Elam kicked four field goals.

Tory James intercepted Jim Harbaugh in the end zone on the final play.

Romanowski's interception of Harbaugh in the second quarter and receiver Chris Penn's two fumbles in the second half killed the Chargers.

Romanowski made a leaping interception at the 18, bobbled the ball, stumbled a bit and returned it to the 1, where he was hit by Harbaugh and tackle John Jackson and fumbled. He recovered in the end zone for a 10-0 lead 1:40 into the second quarter.

Pampa advances to playoffs despite loss to Borger

PAMPA — Borger used a big play offense to beat Pampa 21-7 to end the regular season Saturday at Harvester Stadium.

Despite the loss, the Harvesters will represent District 3-4A in the playoffs as the third-place team with a homefield advantage. Pampa plays Frenship at 7:30 Friday night in Harvester Stadium in the Division Two bi-district round of the playoffs.

It looked like Pampa and Borger would go into halftime in a scoreless tie. But with 57 seconds left in the second quarter, Borger quarterback Kevin McNellis hit Brady Herbert with a 57-yard touchdown strike.

Leading 7-0 at intermission, the Bulldogs would score on their next two possessions of the second half. Tailback Eron Hayes broke loose on a 52-yard scoring run with 9:41 left in the third quarter. Late in the third quarter McNellis tossed another TD pass, this one to Brandon Blommaert covering 33 yards.

The Harvesters battled back and got on the scoreboard with 4:50 to go in the contest. Pampa ended a 7-play drive with quarterback Kaleb Snelgrooves throwing a 7-yard touchdown pass to end Johnny Cortez. Snelgrooves and tailback Ramon Martinez each had 11-yard runs in the drive to help move Pampa deep inside Borger territory.

Pampa had other scoring opportunities that would come up short. On a Borger punt late in the first quarter, Russell Robben's 22-yard return put the Harvesters inside Bulldog territory.

However, four plays later a Pampa fumble put the ball into Bulldog hands on their own 10. Late in the second quarter, a 13-yard run by Thomas Long and a 15-yard personal foul penalty on the Bulldogs 21. The Harvesters stalled and a field goal attempt came up short.

With Borger ahead 21-7 Pampa had a chance to creep closer when Snelgrooves teamed with tailback Terrance Lemons on a 55-yard pass to the Bulldog 8. Pampa's offense would stall again and Borger gained possession on the 11.

Pampa's defense appeared to have Borger's number for much of the first half and Harvester defenders also made some big stops in the second half.

Linemen Cody Shepard and Jeff Warren, along with linebackers

Nathan Arnn and Jason Burklow and safety Orlando Madrid were among the Harvesters who came up strong in the tackle department. Cornerback J.J. Roark also had a pass interception, his fourth of the season.

Pampa goes into the playoffs with a 5-5 record. Borger improves to 8-2.

Imagine this: Florida vs. Tennessee for national championship

By RICHARD ROSENBLATT
AP Football Writer

Here's an intriguing scenario: Tennessee, a team that can't even win its own division of the Southeastern Conference, gets a chance to defend its national championship against Florida, its hated rival which ends up winning the SEC crown.

Maybe, maybe not. With the way this wild and woolly college football season is playing out, don't be surprised if it's Vols vs. Gators — again — in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 4.

No. 4 Florida (8-1, 6-1 SEC) beat No. 3 Tennessee (7-1, 4-1) 23-21 on Sept. 18.

If both win out — the Gators have the toughest roadblock in No. 1 Florida State on Nov. 20 at The Swamp — they just might be rated ahead of an undefeated No. 2 Virginia Tech in the final Bowl Championship Series standings. The BCS standings are based on polls, computer ratings, strength of schedule and losses.

"I have to believe if we continue to play as we have, we'll be one of the teams that has an opportunity, and that's all you can ask for," Vols coach Phillip Fulmer said Saturday after his team's 38-14 win over Notre Dame.

Listening to coach Steve Spurrier after Florida's 13-6 victory over Vanderbilt, winning a national title may be the last thing on his mind.

"This is a team that's not nearly as good as everyone thinks we are," Spurrier said. "But that's OK. That might help us win these games, because a lot of times people come in thinking they're not supposed to beat the mighty Gators."

All this theorizing was made possible with Penn State's 24-23 loss to Minnesota on Saturday. It dropped the once second-ranked Nittany Lions from the national title scene, leaving Virginia Tech (8-0, 4-0 Big East) at No. 2, the Vols at No. 3, the Gators at No. 4 and Kansas State (9-0, 6-0 Big 12) at No. 5. Penn State (9-1, 5-1 Big Ten) fell to No. 6.

Florida State (9-0, 7-0 ACC) was off Saturday, and plays Maryland next Saturday before its regular-season finale at Florida.

The Gators play winless South Carolina on Saturday, with a win assuring them a spot in the SEC title game on Dec. 4, most likely against the winner of the upcoming Mississippi State-Alabama matchup.

If the Vols win out against Arkansas, Kentucky and Vanderbilt, they would be prime contenders to defend the title they won by beating Florida State in the Fiesta Bowl.

Of course, Virginia Tech will have much to say about all this. The Hokies play host to No. 19 Miami on Saturday after keeping their perfect season going when Shayne Graham kicked a 44-yard, last-play field goal for a 22-20 win over West Virginia. Tech also has games against Temple on Nov. 20 and Boston College on Nov. 26.

Because a weak schedule could hurt them in the BCS standings, the Hokies could finish undefeated and still lose out to the one-loss Gators and Vols.

Crucial games remain, though. And like last season, which played out to a dramatic final day finish when Kansas State and UCLA lost perfect records, this one could see another thrilling, and perhaps controversial, finish.

Even Penn State linebacker LaVar Arrington isn't convinced his team is out of it.

"Call me selfish," Arrington said, "but I only want to play in the Sugar Bowl. I hope we can still find a way to get there."

Among Saturday's other top matchups are No. 5 Kansas State at No. 7 Nebraska (8-1, 5-1 Big 12); No. 16 Michigan (7-2, 4-2 Big Ten) at No. 6 Penn State; and Iowa (1-8, 0-6 Big Ten) at No. 9 Wisconsin (8-2, 6-1), with Ron Dayne needing 99 yards to pass Ricky Williams and set the major-college career rushing record.

In other Top 25 games Saturday, it was No. 5 Kansas State 20, Colorado 14; No. 7 Nebraska 37, Texas A&M 0; No. 9 Wisconsin 28, No. 22 Purdue 21; No. 10 Texas 34, Oklahoma State 21; No. 11 Alabama 23, LSU 17; No. 12 Marshall 28, Kent 16; Virginia 45, No. 13 Georgia Tech 38; No. 15 BYU 30, San Diego State 7; No. 16 Michigan 37, Northwestern 3; No. 17 Michigan State 23, No. 25 Ohio State 7; No. 18 Mississippi 38, Arkansas 16; No. 19 Miami 33, Pittsburgh 3; No. 21 Southern Mississippi 20, Memphis 5; and Alabama-Birmingham 36, No. 24 East Carolina 17.

On Thursday, No. 8 Mississippi State beat Kentucky 23-22.

No. 2 Virginia Tech 22, West Virginia 20

At Morgantown, W.Va., Michael Vick's 26-yard run set up Graham's game-winning field goal. On the run, Vick appeared to be going out of bounds for a short gain but turned upfield and made it to the WVU 36.

"That's a move I work on all the time," Vick said. "The defender turned his head too fast. He made a mistake and I made him pay."

West Virginia (3-6, 2-3 Big East) took a 20-19 lead on Brad Lewis' 18-yard TD pass to Khori Ivy with 1:15 left.

No. 3 Tennessee 38, Notre Dame 14

At Knoxville, Tenn., Tee Martin threw three TD passes and ran for another, and Travis Henry rushed for 132 yards and a TD for the Vols. The Irish fell to 5-4.

"They beat us," Irish coach Bob Davie said. "This game was played at a different speed by the team in orange."

No. 4 Florida 13, Vanderbilt 6

At Gainesville, Fla., the Gators had only 269 yards, but Earnest Graham had 124 and a TD against the pesky Commodores (5-4, 2-4 SEC), who had the ball at the Florida 19 in the final minute but were unable to score.

Warriors drop final contest

FOLLETT - Josh Robinson tossed eight touchdown passes to lead Follett into the Six-Man playoffs as the Panthers rolled past Miami 60-31 Friday night.

Miami took a short-lived 2-0 lead in the first quarter, scoring on a safety. But after that, Robinson took over.

Robinson tossed TD passes of 36 and 27 yards to Lidj Hunter for a 12-2 lead after one quarter. He connected with Hunter again on a 25-yard scoring pass, and threw 60 yards to Waylon Presley for another as the Panthers built a 24-10 halftime lead.

Robinson threw four more TD passes in the second half, one received by Clint Montgomery on a 34-yard drive in the third quarter as Follett took a 38-31 lead.

Robinson once again hit Montgomery on a pair of 45-yard scoring tosses as well as a 14-yarder to Presley in the final period, leaving the final score at 60-31.

Trey Rogers scored three times for Miami, including a 40-yard kickoff return and a 12-yard run. He also caught a 7-yard TD pass from Justin Cox. Lucio Moreno scored Miami's other TD on a 46-yard run.

Miami did have more total yards than Follett, 348 to 247. The Warriors also more first downs, 11-5.

The victory left Follett 8-2 overall and 4-1 in district play. Miami ended its season 5-4 and 2-3.

Dolphins "D" hurls another shutout

MIAMI (AP) - Damon Huard threw two touchdown passes and the Miami Dolphins' defense pitched a shutout.

Sam Madison intercepted Steve McNair three times and Miami won again without Dan Marino, beating the Tennessee Titans 17-0 Sunday night in a showdown of AFC co-leaders.

The shutout was the first for the Titans in 156 games since they lost 34-0, as the Houston Oilers, at Kansas City in 1989.

Huard improved to 3-0 as a starter since Marino was sidelined Oct. 17 by a pinched nerve in his neck. The Dolphins, with their best start since 1990, joined Jacksonville as AFC front-runners at 7-1. Tennessee fell to 6-2.

Huard was 15-of-25 for 210 yards with four sacks but no interceptions. He became the first quarterback other than Marino to start three consecutive Miami victories since David Woodley in 1982. Marino might return to the lineup Sunday at Buffalo.

Huard threw touchdown passes of 6 yards to Stanley Pritchett and 43 yards to Tony Martin, giving Miami a 14-0 lead midway through the second period. The defense did the rest.

The Dolphins' defenders haven't allowed a touchdown in 14 quarters, and they recovered from a slow start to smother Tennessee. Eddie George rushed for 55 yards in his first six carries but gained only 10 yards in eight carries the rest of the game. McNair was 22-for-42 for 205 yards with four sacks.

Three times Madison stepped in front of passes near the left sideline, but only one turnover led to a score. Olindo Mare kicked a 46-yard field goal at the start of the fourth quarter for a 17-0 lead.

Tennessee reached the Miami 3-yard line in the final minute, but McNair threw incomplete on fourth down. Until then, the Titans' best threat came with the game scoreless. They drove 72 yards before Al Del Greco's 33-yard field goal bounced off the left upright.

Two lucky plays on the next series helped Miami take a 7-0 lead. Oronde Gadsden caught a deflected, fluttering pass for a 29-yard gain, and after Huard recovered his own fumble, he improvised a 20-yard pass to O.J. McDuffie. Those gains set up Pritchett's touchdown.

George was stopped on a fourth-down run at the Dolphins' 33, and two plays later Martin weaved through the secondary on his scoring reception for a 14-0 lead.

The lopsided result was unusual for both teams. Six of Tennessee's first seven games were decided by three points or less, and Miami's previous five wins had been by a total of 17 points.

Notes: Dolphins safety Calvin Jackson strained his left hamstring in the first quarter. ... Tennessee guard Benji Olson hurt his right leg and missed much of the second half. ... Madison became the first Dolphin to intercept three passes since Louis Oliver in 1992 at Buffalo. ... Miami had shutouts last year against St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

Fort Elliott closes football season with victory

BRISCOE - Fort Elliott quarterback Curt Smith tossed 9 touchdown passes as the Cougars defeated Lefors 63-34 in a six-man game Friday night.

Smith completed 30 of 38 passes for 484 yards. Michael Steele scored three times for the Pirates. Fort Elliott led at halftime 31-14. For the game, Fort Elliott had 549 yards of total offense. Lefors finished with 263 yards of offense. Fort Elliott had 18 first downs compared to 12 for Lefors. The Pirates made two turnovers while Fort Elliott was turnover-free. Fort Elliott finished 6-4 for the season and 2-3 in the district standings. Lefors was 3-7 and 0-5.

Where red-hot Tiger goes from here

By JIM LITKE AP Sports Writer

He started the day on foreign soil. The local hero was in front of him, a pack of fellow pros was nipping at his heels, and the galleries awaiting him at almost every hole behaved like they'd stopped off on the way home from the bullfights.

Tiger Woods won, anyway. He had to chip in for eagle at No. 11 to build a lead, come back from a triple-bogey at No. 17 that lost him that same lead, then roll in a 12-foot birdie on the first playoff hole against that same local hero with floodlights going, and the Spanish Civil Guard keeping the fans at bay in the fairway.

Yet Tiger didn't seem the least bit surprised when the putt dropped. A quick fist-pump for the few people seemingly on his side, a cold-eyed stare for everybody else. Another big check pocketed and a promise Woods made in his first victory speech echoing through his latest one: He can get better still.

His victory in the American Express Championship in Sotogrande, Spain, was Woods' fourth in a row and eighth of the season. No one has strung that many together since Ben Hogan in 1953. No one has won eight in a single campaign since Johnny Miller did 25 years ago. Someone asked afterward whether Byron Nelson's incredible 18-win season of 1945 was out of reach. Woods did not give a whimsical answer.

"Hopefully, next year I'll play the same type of golf, and we'll see about the number of victories," he said.

The kid refuses to put a limit on his upside. After this result, the rest of us would be wise to follow suit. Every time it seems Woods can't get bigger, he does.

His season would have been big enough if it ended at the PGA Championship. There, playing just outside Chicago in August, Woods was cast as the heavy when teen sensation Sergio Garcia stole the crowd with a go-for-broke style and a few spectacular shots down the stretch. Woods won, anyway.

Just as he did Sunday, again cast as the heavy, but this time in Spain. He was trying to beat Miguel Angel Jimenez, a late-blooming journeyman who grew up near Malaga, about an hour from the Valderrama Golf Club, and had already won twice this year on home soil. At times, Woods probably counted more tees in his pockets than he had fans. He won, anyway.

In between those two wins were several, others and a reminder of how much we treasure athletes who can promise AND deliver. At the end of August, Woods renegotiated a five-year endorsement deal with Nike that probably doubled his pay, to between $80 million and $90 million over the life of the pact. Fittingly, the new deal was struck because of a clever commercial that most people originally believed could not have been shot "live."

In the ad, Woods bounces a ball on the face of a club - between his legs and behind his back - for nearly 30 seconds before whacking it, like a baseball player, into the distance. Turns out he needed only four takes to get the thing in the can.

There is no doubt that at the tender age of 23, he is already an accomplished showman, someone who like former Olympic speed-skater Bonnie Blair and especially Michael Jordan, can rise to the occasion. The question is whether like those two, or more appropriately in this context, like Hogan and Jack Nicklaus, Woods can do it long enough to make those comparisons stick.

Is it premature to open the discussion? Some people will instinctively cover their ears. For all of his wins all over the world, Woods still has exactly two professional majors. He's tied with Greg Norman and Andy North, trailing Nick Faldo by four, Hogan by seven and Nicklaus by 16. Could he burn out? Certainly. Lots of guys get off to great starts and wind up as TV commentators - see Bobby Clampett and Jerry Pate - when their heads or their shoulders wear out prematurely. Some guys go on competitive hot streaks every bit as sizzling as the one Woods is riding - Nick Price and Fred Couples earlier this decade - only to find out they don't really like the heat. Early though it may be, Woods looks like someone built for the long haul.

Celebrating holiday baking traditions; Bakeline open through Christmas

AR DEN HILLS, Minn. — Ringing in the holidays with seasonal treats is a time-honored tradition. This year, with the millennium approaching and hectic holiday schedules, people don't have time to mull over a recipe or make baking mistakes. Getting help with holiday baking is fast and easy with the Land O'Lakes Holiday toll-free hotline (1-800-782-9606) that opens for the 10th consecutive year from Nov. 1-Dec. 24.

The Bakeline's trained home economists will be available to assist callers from 8 a.m.-6 p.m. (CST), seven days a week. Consumers can speak with one of 27 Land O'Lakes baking experts, request recipes and get great baking tips and advice. In addition, 1999 brings a sprinkling of new Bakeline features including a special gift offer, a festive recipe leaflet and an extended on-line contest with great prizes.

New this year, Land O'Lakes will reward early bakers with a special gift. From Nov. 1-10, the first 10 callers each day with baking questions will receive a collectible Land O'Lakes recipe box, commemorating the bakeline service with recipes from Land O'Lakes test kitchens.

"The Bakeline has become a tradition for thousands of Americans. Whether callers have baking stories to share or need help making a batch of cookies, our experts are here for them," said Lydia Botham, director of consumer affairs and the Land O'Lakes test kitchens. "Last year was a record year for the Bakeline, with more than 65,000 calls, and this year, given millennium celebrations and people's busier-than-ever schedules, we anticipate even more calls."

In honor of the many traditions of the season, Land O'Lakes offers "Baking Traditions to Last a Lifetime," a new leaflet chock-full of time-saving tips and traditional recipes such as Santa's Sandwich Cookies and Festive Triangle Tarts. All Bakeline callers will receive a free copy of this leaflet, which also can be downloaded from www.landolakes.com.

In addition, Land O'Lakes is hosting a 10-day, national on-line contest, "Baking Advice to Last a Lifetime." From Nov. 1-10, consumers can visit www.landolakes.com to e-mail in their contest entries. To enter, contestants simply need to answer, in 50 words or less, "What's the best baking advice you've received?" and "Who gave it to you?" Entries will be judged on originality and the importance of their baking advice. One winner will be selected at the end of each day, for a total of 10 winners. The price packages include a 19-piece ultimate bakeware set containing a variety of premium pans and utensils, $100 cash for baking supplies and coupons for 10 pounds Land O'Lakes Butter.

The Land O'Lakes website is an excellent resource for holiday baking information, offering seasonal recipes and baking tips. Visitors to the site can e-mail baking questions to the experts at the Bakeline and receive a response within 48 hours.

Land O'Lakes has been helping families bake delicious treats since 1921. This year, the company celebrates the 10th anniversary of its Bakeline. This toll-free hotline has helped over a quarter of a million callers through the past nine holiday seasons.

Understanding seizures vital for people with epilepsy, TDH official says

AUSTIN — Liz Newhouse of San Antonio has followed a long and rocky road in the two decades since her son Scott had his first seizure. It's a stressful trek that many parents of children with epilepsy as well as those with the disorder themselves make daily.

"Chronic illness such as epilepsy brings stress for the family," Newhouse said. "There is no predictability; the condition changes daily. And with epilepsy, families also deal with a lot of old wives' tales, ignorance and fear." This ignorance and fear are what make greater awareness of and education about the disorder essential to treatment, according to Betty Flores, director of the Epilepsy Program at the Texas Department of Health.

The term epilepsy itself is a generic one, used to define a variety of seizure disorders disturbances in the brain's electrical activity. Approximately one in 10 Americans will have a seizure at some point in life. About 30 percent of people with epilepsy are 18 and younger.

For most people, epilepsy is a long-term chronic condition successfully handled through drug therapy and sometimes brain surgery, electronic nerve stimulation or a special diet. Scott Newhouse is among the relatively few of the more than 200,000 people in Texas with epilepsy with no way to control the seizures.

The youngest of three children, Scott began having seizures when he was 2-years-old. "I didn't know anything about epilepsy at first," Newhouse said. "We went everywhere, tried every type of drug and medical therapy." When Scott started school, Newhouse met with his teacher to explain the seizures. "I came back to school later and found him seated on a rug by himself, away from all the other children." Fear and ignorance.

"The problem isn't always epilepsy itself," Flores said, "but the attitude of others. People with seizure disorders are found in all walks of life and at all levels in business, government and the arts. Many are successful and productive in challenging careers. We aren't always aware of the problem because, even today, many people do not talk about having epilepsy."

Newhouse agrees. "Often people, including some doctors, do not want to say the word epilepsy."

Scott, who is now 27, has had brain surgery, electronic nerve stimulation and is on four anti-convulsant drugs. He also has mental retardation and lives weekdays in a group home in San Antonio, spending weekends with his family. And Scott, with the help of his mother, is still searching for a job.

"Scott works as part of the men's breakfast team at our church," Newhouse said. "He is willing to do a good job. But we cannot predict when seizures will occur or what mental condition he will be in afterward. People are afraid of what might happen."

Each child with epilepsy is unique. "Most children with the disorder can remain in a regular classroom because their range of intelligence, ability and achievement is the same as other students," Flores said. "Some children with epilepsy need special education programs, just as do some other children. And," she points out, "epilepsy is never contagious."

Many parents worry about the cause of epilepsy, but, Flores said, "about 70 percent of the time there is no known cause." Most frequent of the identified causes are head injury, especially from automobile and sports accidents and falls; brain tumor; lead poisoning; infections such as meningitis and viral encephalitis; and problems in brain development before birth.

As Newhouse knows so well, epilepsy follows no schedule. Seizures can occur at any time, in a variety of forms and at different levels of severity for each individual. They may or may not be visible to others.

Convulsive seizures often are not difficult to recognize. This type of seizure, lasting from several minutes or longer, usually starts with a cry and loss of consciousness. The body becomes rigid, followed by massive jerking movements. Breathing is shallow, then becomes louder as the person relaxes. Seizures are followed by fatigue and confusion.

Non-convulsive seizures are more difficult to spot. Some of the signs that may mean a person is having seizures include:

- Short attention blackouts that look like daydreaming;
- Sudden falls for no reason;
- Lack of response for brief periods;
- Dazed behavior;
- Unusual sleepiness and irritability when awakened;
- Head nodding or rapid blinking;
- Frequent complaints that things look, sound, taste, smell or feel "funny";
- Clusters of grabbing movements with both arms by babies lying on their backs;
- Sudden stomach pain followed by confusion and sleepiness;
- Repeated movements that look unnatural.

Seizures that begin in the teen years may be especially hard to recognize. Some behaviors may be mistaken for signs of drug or alcohol use. Among indications of a seizure are a blank stare followed by chewing, picking at clothes, mumbling and random movements; sudden fear, anger or panic for no reason; muscle jerks; odd changes in the way things look, sound, smell or feel; memory gaps; and a dazed behavior including being unable to talk for a short time.

To prevent injury, don't hold the person down but do remove hazards in the area. Roll the person onto his or her side to help prevent choking. Loosen tight clothing. Put something under the person's head such as a pillow or folded jacket. After the seizure, make sure the person is breathing normally. Do not call for an ambulance unless the person is having several seizures in succession without regaining consciousness or a single seizure lasting more than 5 minutes.

"One of the myths about epilepsy is that people having seizures can swallow their tongue," Flores said. "It's not possible. Never put anything in someone's mouth who is having a seizure. Also someone having a seizure is not a danger to others. Restraint is not necessary and could cause injury." Her recommendation is to try to stay calm.

"Epilepsy is just one small piece of who a person is," Newhouse said. "It does not define the person. Yet that is what it becomes. People need to see someone with epilepsy as a total person. Some people see only the negative. I want people to see Scott's capabilities."

For people just learning about epilepsy, Newhouse suggests they see a neurologist who knows about epilepsy. "People need to arm themselves with knowledge about medication and about medical care. There are many knowledgeable support groups. Families can get overwhelmed. It's a hard balancing act. That happens with many chronic health problems. Asking for help is a sign of strength. It's not about being dependent but interdependent."

"There is so much hope now," Newhouse said. "Dream for your child. Dream for all our kids. Look for gifts, not what the person cannot do."
