Ford Asks Voters To Go To Polls

IS WINTER ALREADY HERE? — Tena Waters, left, and Kim Crouch bundled up this morning as they headed to school at Travis Elementary in the freezing weather that greeted residents today after dropping a touch of snow across the area. The children are daughters of Mrs. and Mrs. Gerald Waters and Mrs. and Mrs. Jim Crouch. Warmer weather is predicted for Tuesday.

AND MORE MOISTURE

Winter Storm Deposits First Snow On Vicinity

Winter isn't due to arrive until next month, but the weather gave a preview of what's to come as a cold front swept across the Texas Panhandle Sunday night, leaving a light snow cover behind it.

Pampa recorded .22 inch of moisture Sunday from the rain and snow that fell following 28 inch recorded Saturday from rain and hail.

The cold front dropped the Pampa temperatures from a chilly high of 44 Sunday afternoon to an overnight of 32 this morning. The sun broke through the clouds early in the morning and the temperature had climbed into the low 40s by forenoon.

Decreasing cloudiness was forecast for the rest of today, becoming fair and warmer Tuesday. High expected to reach low 60s tomorrow.

Moisture for the year is now at a total of 16.93 inches. In UPI reports:

Heavy thunderstorms ranged across much of Texas today and a cold front moving into the state brought freezing temperatures and a trace of snow to the Panhandle.

Lows were in the 20s in the Panhandle and rose into the 30s during the day. Skies were partly cloudy after a night of light rain mixed with snow.

"It's just a nice brisk morning," said a Dalhart police dispatcher.

Thunderstorm warnings were issued in Southeast Texas. The National Weather Service reported a severe storm in the Silsbee area and warned persons in Hardin and Jasper counties of rough weather.

More heavy weather hit the Texas coast from Palacios to Galveston. The NWS warned of heavy rain, high winds and hail. The Matagorda County sheriff's office reported that a heavy rain hit Bay City and the Palacios area during the morning and caused some street flooding. But there was no hail or damaging winds and the rain moved on after about 90 minutes.

The bad weather predicted by the NWS ran through Hardin County early in the day without much effect but more was expected.

"We had no real rough wind but a lot of rain," said Hardin County communications supervisor Martin Wilson in Kountze. "Right now the sun is trying to come out, but the weather bureau says we could expect more. The front hadn't really got down this far yet."

The weather, he said, was changing fast.

"I came over from Silsbee about 6:20 (a.m.) and it was just spotty cloudy then. About 30 minutes later it was darker than when I left Silsbee."

Wilson said Pine Island Bayou and Village Creek in the county were at bankful and could flood during the next 24 hours. If the streams did flood, he said, they could spill water into some pretty nice neighborhoods.

MINERS STRIKE EXPECTED

Coal Negotiations Break Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William J. Usery Jr., the White House's chief labor trouble shooter, expressed hope today that both sides in the coal negotiations could be brought together soon to avert a nationwide strike Nov. 12.

But others in the industry were not as optimistic after negotiations between the United Mine Workers union and representatives of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association broke down Sunday over a procedural issue.

The present contract for 120,000 miners in 25 states expires Nov. 12 and since union rules require a secret ballot by every member it was doubtful a ratification could be completed by that time. The union has a "no contract, no work" tradition — meaning miners would walk out even if they were voting on a contract.

Usery has been in touch with both sides since talks stopped and although no new negotiations have been set up, he was hopeful today of getting the sessions started again.

"I think we can get it going again," Usery said. "I hope so."

A bloc of union delegates voted to go back to the mines and prepare for a strike. UMW President Arnold Miller said Sunday the outlook was "pretty grim," but said a strike was not inevitable.

According to sources close to the negotiations, both sides were close to a contract but there were still major economic questions to be worked out. Negotiations broke down when it could not be decided what issues to negotiate, they said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today warned eligible voters that by failing to cast ballots in Tuesday's election they will be "actually voting 'no' on our system of self government."

In a statement delivered in the White House Rose Garden, Ford said that some surveys predict a turnout of only 40 per cent of the voting population.

"If this is true," he said, "the Congress with which I must work here in Washington to control inflation, strengthen the economy and preserve

Watergate Lost Memo Disclosed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prosecution in the Watergate cover-up trial today disclosed a long lost memo it said showed the seven original burglars knew they were being paid for their silence and expected to be pardoned by the Nixon administration in return.

Prosecutor James F. Neal told the cover-up trial of five former aides to Richard M. Nixon that the new evidence—a "bombshell" memo written by bugging conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. on Nov. 11, 1972—was surrendered Saturday by attorney William O. Bittman.

Hunt's former counsel and an indicted coconspirator in the cover-up plot, repeatedly denied the existence of the memo over the past two years. Hunt admitted to it only recently.

Neal made the disclosure, which he described as a "sad chapter" in the cover-up plot, before former Nixon campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magruder resumed his testimony.

"Half measures will be unacceptable," the Hunt memo said. "This should not be misinterpreted as a threat but a reminder that loyalty should always be a two-way street."

"The defendants have followed all instructions meticulously and are maintaining their part of the bargain," Hunt said in the memo.

The administration, however, remains deficient. It said the White House had not met its "commitments" which included: 1. financial support; 2. legal defense fees; 3. pardons; 4. rehabilitation.

The memo noted that some of the original Watergate defendants had engaged in "highly illegal conspiracies" prior to the Watergate bugging orders of "senior officials at the White House" and demanded that commitments to aid them be met no later than Nov. 27, 1972.

The memo apparently hurt the defense of cover-up defendant Kenneth W. Parkinson, whose attorney immediately moved for a mistrial. Hunt testified earlier that Bittman read it to Parkinson shortly after it was written.

peace in the world could be elected by only 21 per cent of the voters.

"I don't think anyone wants that kind of minority decision. So I ask you, my fellow Americans, to make the time tomorrow to go to the polls and vote for the candidates of your choice."

"You will be voting for your future and exercising the power vested in a free people which has carried this country forward for nearly 200 years."

Ford completed his last campaign swing through the West Saturday in an effort to boost the candidacies of Republicans. Ford's chief of staff said the President thought his trips were worthwhile and helped the GOP despite indications that the Democrats might make major gains in the election.

In his message today, Ford did not support either party, saying the public would not just be voting for Democrats or Republicans.

"You will be casting your vote of confidence in the United States of America," he said.

Those who vote—whether they vote for Republican or Democratic candidates or for others—will be voting 'yes' for our American tradition of government by the people and for the people.

"Everyone who can get to the polls and fails to go, who refuses to exercise the precious right of a free citizen to vote his or her honest conviction, is actually voting 'no' on our system of self government."

Betty Ford, still recuperating from breast surgery, stood with her husband in the Rose Garden. Ford and his wife have already voted by absentee ballot in their home district of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Ford's final swing through the West was designed to aid some candidates who were considered to be running behind.

"I think one of the things that has been of concern is that there's been a great deal of talk about the fact that there is a disinterest in the country in politics and government and voting," presidential aide Donald M. Rumsfeld said in a broadcast interview.

"I know the President believes, and certainly I believe, that it's important that human beings all across the country participate in that process, and if in fact by campaigning he's been helpful in interesting more people in casting their votes

Kissinger Appeals To Israel, Arabs

BELGRADE (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger appealed to the Arab and Israeli governments today to make an effort to bring their positions closer to each other in the interests of achieving a Middle East peace settlement. He also moved to patch up the United States' quarrel with Turkey.

After talks with President Tito of Yugoslavia, Kissinger pledged in a carefully worded statement that "the United States would like to do its best to prevent a stalemate from developing" following the headline decisions of the Arab summit conference in Rabat.

Emerging from his meeting with the 82-year-old Yugoslav leader, Kissinger told newsmen that his forthcoming Middle East peace-seeking mission "requires that all of the parties on both sides understand the special necessities of each other and make an effort to bring their positions closer to each other."

As Kissinger breezed through his seven-hour stopover in Yugoslavia, he announced that he would make a peace-seeking mission to Turkey Nov. 8-9 in search of a settlement of the Cyprus conflict. He will seek to convince the Turks to make a peace gesture — possibly by removing some of their 40,000 troops from Cyprus.

He also will try to placate the Turks who have been angered by the action of the U.S. Congress which adopted a Dec. 10 deadline for cutting off aid to Turkey. Congress acted on the grounds that Turkey violated U.S. regulations by using American equipment in its July invasion of Cyprus.

Kissinger is due to arrive in Cairo Nov. 5 at the start of a lightning swing through five Middle East capitals aimed at discovering whether there is any room left to maneuver following the recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization by the Rabat summit conference.

TML AFFILIATE

City Requested To Join Utility Advisory Council

By TEX DEWEESE
The city of Pampa has been asked to join the Texas Utility Advisory Council, an affiliate group of the Texas Municipal League formed to assist cities in developing information and programs that would make local utility rate regulation more effective.

City Manager Mack Wofford said he mailed today copies of a letter from the TUAC president and the TUAV constitution to Pampa city commissioners for study and possible consideration at next week's regular meeting of the commission.

Wofford said the TUAC is not a group intent upon opposing just anything proposed by utility companies.

"It is not an 'Anti' group," Wofford said. "Rather it is a council set up to assist TML cities in working together and negotiating to keep 'quality utility service in Texas Cities.'"

Each member city would pay annual dues in the amount of half its TML dues.

It would cost Pampa $405 a year to affiliate with the Texas Utility Advisory Council.

According to the TUAC constitution purpose of the council are:

(A) to develop and distribute information that will better equip Texas cities to control local utility rates and services. (B) To provide city officials the opportunity to gain greater expertise in using available utility information to the best advantage. (C) To formulate guidelines for processing rate cases, and (D) to coordinate regulatory action among the cities.

It is set forth in the constitution that the overall objective of the Council is to serve Texas cities in utility matters with advisory and educational services and serves as a clearing house for current information.

Officials to the TUAC are hopeful the council will serve as an alternative to the proposal rejected at the recent TML annual conference for the formations of a State Utilities commission.

Mayor R. Dan Matkin of Irving is chairman of the Texas Utility Advisory Council which has been in existence for a little over one year.

Man Stabbed At Local Club

Dale Scott Carr, 19, Canadian, is free from Gray County jail after posting $5,000 bond set as a result of an incident which left a Pampa man wounded by a knife early Saturday.

J.B. Samples Jr., Pampa, was allegedly stabbed with a pocket knife during an incident at the Catalina Club on S. Cuyler where he had gone to service a cigarette machine.

The vending company employe told police he was at the club to service a machine when a young woman, unidentified by police, suffered an alleged seizure. Samples told officers he accompanied the woman outside the club to obtain fresh air.

According to reports, when the pair attempted to re-enter the building the door was blocked by the alleged assailant. Samples was found behind the bar when officers arrived, suffering from a stab wound in the lower left side of the back.

He was transported to Highland General Hospital for treatment and released.

The suspected assailant turned himself into police at 1:15 a.m. Saturday. He was arrested at that time for intoxication and jailed. A statement from the Carr man was later obtained and Samples lived charges Sunday.

Justice of the Peace E.L. Anderson set the $5,000 bond during an arraignment today.

Second Thought Needed

Operating the federal government on fiat money — that is, money that does not come from productive enterprise — creates an inflationary situation. That should be easy to understand since it is obvious that there will be more paper money in the hands of consumers and less goods and services to buy. If 10 persons each have $10 to spend for gasoline, and there is gasoline enough for only five, chances are the gasoline will be sold to the five willing to pay the highest price. Each potential buyer has his own idea of what gasoline is worth.

The free market works that way whether there is an inflated price situation or not. Individuals always differ on how much they are willing to pay for things. The seller simply tries to fit his product to the greatest portion of the market. But when politicians enter the picture, free market adjustments are more difficult and sometimes impossible to come about. In a free market situation, cash in hand is mostly indication that the holder has created something for the market. Usually, he has created more than the value of his cash in hand. He has had to produce enough to pay his own wage plus something to help pay the costs and something more to provide a fund for investment in new tools, etc.

With this cash in hand he becomes a buyer of other commodities and competes with other buyers each of whom has provided something for the market. In such a situation, the cash in hand has a tangible value — it represents labor and productivity. There is still the subjective value each individual places in the cash in hand.

But still he has the dollars he earned because he put something in the pot. Now examine what happens when the marketplace is provided dollars which come not from productivity but from political fiat. Here we have potential buyers who have produced competing with potential buyers who have not produced. That simply means more dollars chasing fewer goods and services. The political meddlers in the economy surely must recognize the problem because the "solution" that has most recently been proposed is to drain away some of those dollars. And how is it proposed that this be done? Simple, just take five per cent more away from what the people have left after paying their taxes.

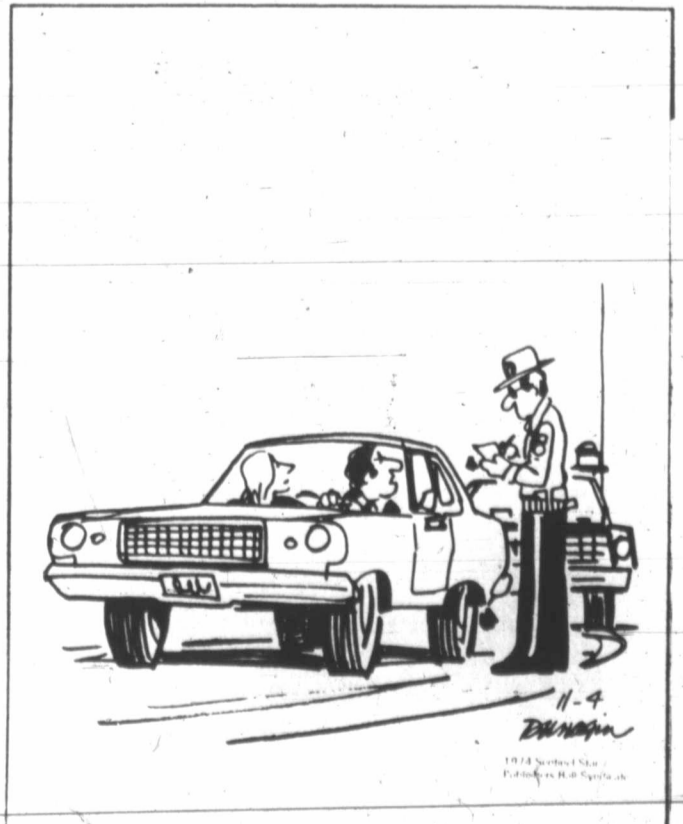

President Ford's idea here seems to be that if people can't afford to buy because their money already has been taken away by taxes, prices will have to come down. That seems to fit our explanation of the problem, there are too many dollars chasing too few goods and services, so

ON THE EDGE

OUTRIDER Taxpayers' New Museum

By GARRY WILLS
WASHINGTON — There are big lines to get into the federal court house for the cover-up trial. But a couple of blocks over, the lines are almost as long to get into Washington's new museum the Hirshhorn. Gordon Bunshaft's building has been called a concrete doughnut, with a Mussolini balcony facing north toward another new monument, the FBI's almost-finished Hoover Building. Joseph Hirshhorn put up only one-seventeenth of the money for the building that bears his name. We taxpayers built the rest, with money channeled through the Smithsonian Institution.

There was some criticism of the introduction of this aggrandizing note into the federal pie — slice of patriotically urban-renewed territory around Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues. After all, Mellon built the National Gallery without naming the whole thing after himself. And, in New York, the Morgan collection was used for the Metropolitan and the Rockefeller's for the Museum of Modern Art. Joseph Hirshhorn, who claims he does not have the "lettuce" of Mellon, seems to have pulled a fast one on Lyndon Johnson when he got the taxpayers to raise a monument to his name at America's hub of government.

But the astonishing collection of six thousand artifacts now contained in the museum itself and scattered around its terraced garden makes it clear that this is one of the best bargains the United States has struck in years.

And if the works came with their egotistical collector's name attached to them, that may not be so bad. After all, the parenting institution is named for a man, Mr. Smithsonian, who was not even an American — just a British scientist who left us a lot of money attached to his name. And no use of a private citizen's name in the governmental row could match for effrontery and insult the bigger, dumber monument going up across from this — the Hoover Building. Hirshhorn got into us for several millions, and gave us a priceless collection in return. J. Edgar Hoover made us pay for our own dossiers, taxing us to spy on us for decades and to pay for the public relations effort that made such spying look respectable.

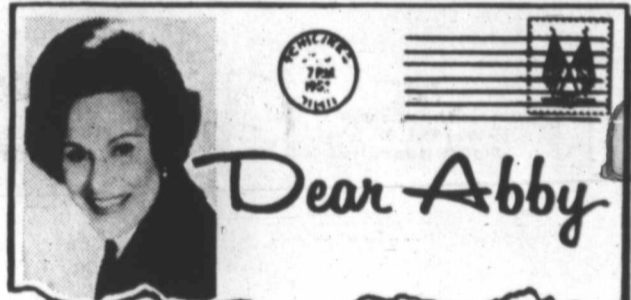

Inside the simple round Hirshhorn building there are complexities. Under it, legs, grids, groins hide statues in niches, like a cathedral turned upside down, emptying its gargoyles out below. Up through the circling galleries, politicians leer and grimace — Daumier's sharpies, Francis Bacon's mad papal insolence, Ben Shahn's judges, Man Ray's crazed chess machine. It is a Washington turned upside down and inside out. Jack Levine's "Miami Reception" mocks not only the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, but egotists like Hirshhorn and Hoover. LBJ and RMN. Art seduces power to pay for its own ridicule. Hirshhorn did not win the last trick in the great structure that bears his name. Levine, did, and Daumier, and Rodin, and Shahn. The citizenry paid in taxes for the show being played out in the federal court house — paid too much for too little; the show admits few spectators, and it will shortly close. But the taxpayers are coming in crowds to the Hirshhorn, and getting their money's worth.

Dear Abby She shouldn't fleece sleeping sheep

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: When I was a little girl, I remember seeing my mother tiptoe into the bedroom where my father was sleeping and she'd take some money out of his pants pocket.

Now that I'm married, I do the same thing to my husband. Sometimes he misses what I took and sometimes he doesn't.

My question: Is it wrong to take money this way? I get an allowance to run the house, but sometimes it's not enough. PICKPOCKET

DEAR PICK: If you need more money than your husband gives you, ask him for it when he's awake. To fleece him when he's asleep should make you feel sheepish.

DEAR ABBY: I will never be able to make amends to my wife for what I did to her, but if you choose my letter for your column it might keep someone else from making the same mistake. I'm an average, 33-year-old man, married for six years. We have one child.

One night I went out alone and picked up a nice-looking girl in a bar. Believe me, she looked and acted as nice as any girl I had ever met. She was immaculate and ladylike. That girl gave me gonorrhea. I, in turn, infected my wife with such a severe case that she had to have a complete hysterectomy. She is only 30 years old, and now she'll never be able to have another child, and she wanted one so much.

The doctor had to tell her the truth and it nearly broke her heart because she had never looked at another man, and knew it had to be my fault.

She says she's forgiven me, but I don't think I can ever forgive myself.

Abby, please tell your readers not to take foolish chances like I did. I'm not a tramp, Abby. I went out on my wife only once, and God forgive me, it was the most foolish thing I've ever done. HATING MYSELF

DEAR HATING: I'll print your letter as a reminder to women as well as men that venereal disease is still one of society's most serious problems. Be careful!

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 22, and married. I quit my job as a beautician because I don't like that kind of work. My friends, neighbors and relatives think that because I'm not working right now I have lots of time on my hands, so they come over and ask me to do their hair — for nothing. I'm not pushy and I hate to hurt anyone's feelings, so I go ahead and do their hair. It's a lot easier than making up some kind of excuse. Besides, I don't want any trouble.

Now I've had it. Will you please give me a good excuse to use when relatives, neighbors and friends ask me to do their hair? RETIRED

DEAR RETIRED: You don't need an "excuse" — you have a legitimate reason. Use it. Simply say: "I quit being a beautician because I don't care for that kind of work." And if you haven't got the courage to stand up and speak your mind because you don't want "trouble" — you're already in a lot of trouble!

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 — "Unity" and "harmony" sound good, but key question is whether there is anything more than wishful thinking behind them.

Still to be tested is the durability of that "Let's work together" arrangement Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss laboriously patched up to avert factional brawling at the mini-convention in Kansas City in early December.

Despite his fervent "peace" efforts, assorted militant elements are aggressively organizing for showdown clashes at the unprecedented party confab.

In their backstage machinations, they are making it clear they are determinedly bent on writing into the Democratic Charter (first in the party's history) the "quota system" and "unit rule."

These devices were used by McGovern and his radical allies to maneuver him into the 1972 presidential nomination. After the South Dakotan's crushing defeat, party regulars and laborites banned these two minority-favoring gimmicks. But the extremists are still unyieldingly conniving and agitating to regain them.

Actively involved in this are McGovernite radicals, black activists, militant women liberals and various leftist splinter factions — some definitely Marxist.

Revealingly illustrative of their "rule-or-ruin" tactics are the following: The uproarious disruption of a Charter Commission meeting in Kansas City — which was deliberately broken up by a carefully arranged televised walkout led by Willie Brown, black California state assemblyman, and white radicals.

Shortly thereafter, at a meeting of the executive committee of the National Committee, Mayor Richard Hatcher, Gary Ind., truculently challenged national chairman Strauss on the quota issue. Hatcher was noisily backed by Arnold Alperstein, Colorado radical.

Strauss forestalled a blow-up by promising to "consider" the Hatcher-Alperstein demand for more black delegates. Significantly, the leading centers of the backstage dissension are in the two states with the largest delegations — California with 181, and New York with 113, already chosen.

Playing leading roles in these disruption-threatening factional operations are:

CALIFORNIA — John Burton, far-out leftist who in addition to being a recently elected member of Congress, is also state Democratic chairman, Ms. Wallace Albertson, vice president south of the California Democratic Council, who Burton installed as "public relations officer" of the state committee. Like him, she is ideologically way out in left field.

Both are aggressively bent on gaining control of the California delegation.

NEW YORK — Rep. Bella Abzug, one of the most radical and clangorous members of Congress, has sent a letter to the women of the state delegation urging them to attend a conference she is calling to "formulate plans and policies" for the Kansas City meeting. From this unpublished communication, two things are evident:

(1) "Bellowing Bella," as she is unflatteringly known in the House, has ambitions to head the big New York delegation. (2) As a loudly vocal women's liberber, she wants to restore the quota system to mandatorily insure more women participants.

Mrs. Abzug makes no secret she has national aspirations — of some kind. WHAT THEY'RE SAYING Vigorously supporting these radical factionalists is Alan Baron, short, Beefy boss of the so-called "Democratic Planning Group" — which he set up as a handy vehicle for his agitational and propaganda operations.

"Angeling" him is a group of millionaire radicals — among them Stewart Mott, General Motors heir; Harold Willens, Los Angeles realtor; Daniel Noyes, Indianapolis; Lilly Drug heir; Mrs. Maya Miller, unsuccessful candidate for Senator in Nevada.

Early this month, Baron wangled $65,000 from his wealthy "sugar daddies" to finance his efforts to put the leftists back in the saddle at Kansas City.

Most of his activities are centered in California, where he is working closely with Burton and his hand-picked radical press agent, Ms. Albertson. Through their control of the California Democratic Council, they are waging an all-out drive to dominate the state delegation to Kansas City.

Nature of the type of virulent propaganda they are disseminating is the latest issue of the "Grass-Roots Democrat," official publication of the California Democratic Council.

The lead article, by Ms. Albertson, vehemently defends Willie Brown and his bread-up of the Charter Commission's meeting in Kansas City when he was voted down on a quota demand; another prominent article, by David Gordon, political action chairman south, scathingly blasts national chairman Strauss for "succumbing to the outrageous pressures from the right wing establishment of the party." Declains Ms. Albertson: "The Strauss-Barkan combine became frightened that the underrepresented, the excluded and the oppressed would gain some power through the new charter. So when Strauss-Barkan moved to remove all references to affirmative action, the response to this overkill was a walkout on the part of members of the reform caucus — blacks, Latinos, women, youth ethnics, led by Assemblyman Willie Brown."

"Doomsayers within the party wrung their hands at exposing our dirty linen in public. Many others, however, felt that the action clarified the polarization within the party in a meaningful way." Gordon, in exhorting Strauss, writes that the "C.D.C. Board unanimously approved a resolution calling for censure of the national chairman."

According to Gordon, the resolution charged Strauss with "deliberately aiding and abetting the conspiracy to turn back the clock in the Democratic party and to use the staff and researchers of the party in these actions... C.D.C. proclaims that there is nothing automatic about loyalty to the Democratic party or any other party."

Addendum: There will be 2,061 delegates at the mini-convention. In addition to delegates elected at state caucuses and conventions, all Democratic governors, Senators and Congressmen are automatically delegates. Also, 15 Democratic mayors have been empowered by the National Committee to fill vacancies of absentees from their states. National Committee officials claim they have already had overtures from Los Angeles for the 1976 presidential convention. Last time the Democrats met there, in 1960, they nominated the winning Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

By J. SHUTTLEWORTH

At least 90 percent of the cases I see should never have been brought in. If today's young parents would just use a little common sense and treat minor ailments at home, they'd save themselves a bundle and I'd have more time to spend with the 10 percent of my patients who really need my services."

That's what John Starr, M.D. — a pediatrician who was practicing in Cleveland, Ohio, a couple of years ago when I lived in the area — used to tell me. Frequently, with some passion.

I have only to think back to my growing-up days on an Indiana farm to understand the point that Dr. Starr was making. With nothing more complicated than a flaxseed poultice, my mother frequently cured boils and cases of blood poisoning (usually mine!) that would have a "modern" parent bundling his or her child off to a hospital.

And well do I remember the repeated treatment of a few drops of kerosene mixed into a spoonful of sugar with which she nursed me — and a bad case of whooping cough — through a long winter's isolated night out in the Hoosier countryside.

And the thick crust of water and baking soda that took the swelling out of my hand after I accidentally stuck it through a hornet's nest.

And all the other remedies that cured our family's aches and ailments during the late depression and World War II years when we didn't have the money, the gas or the tires that it would have taken to get us into town.

Maybe John Starr is right. Maybe what this newfangled society of ours needs is fewer trips to a specialist and more down-home "kitchen medicine."

"That's what we use," says Marj Watkins, of Burton, Washington. "Good, old-fashioned kitchen medicine. My family has found that a combination of common sense, the right foods, vitamin therapy, exercise and home remedies will quickly clear up many minor ailments and prevent most major ones."

"This kitchen-medicine saves us money we'd otherwise spend on doctors' and dentists' bills and prescriptions. And the time we'd have wasted in drugstores and physicians' offices goes, instead, into happy living and creative work."

"Another point in favor of our natural remedies is that — sensibly applied — they can do us nothing but good. Even aspirin, which sometimes causes an upset stomach or internal bleeding, can't make that statement, and many stronger drugstore or prescription medicines, as you know, have even more severe potential side effects."

Marj says that the kitchen medicine favored by the Watkins family includes lore handed down from a "quick-witted, innovative" grandmother, herbal and other information contributed by Oregon and Washington Indians and ideas gleaned from the writings of Adelle Davis, Euell Gibbons and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Here are some samples: "To clear a stuffy head," says Ms. Watkins, "apply hot wet packs to the forehead and cheekbones. Gargle with hot salt water and use a weak, sterile salt solution as nose drops. Sip hot onion soup, mint tea or a mixture of one bouillon cube and one-fourth teaspoon of powdered kelp dissolved in a cup of boiling water. If you drink the latter, be sure to stir and sip and sip and sip. Don't let the kelp sink to the bottom and lie there."

Marj favors the same bouillon-kelp brew just described as a decongestant drink for members of her family who suffer allergies.

She also feeds them more fresh fruits and vegetables and high-protein foods...and less starch and sugar.

"The best starch dishes for an allergic person seem to be whole-grain cereals and flour other than wheat, potatoes cooked with the skins on, soybeans, brown rice and millet. Sweets can consist of dried fruits and honey...which supply natural sugars, minerals, vitamins and enzymes."

Burn victims around the Watkins household get ice cubes or a chunk of frozen food gently pressed over the injury. Sometimes a capsule of natural vitamin E is punctured and the oil inside is spread over the hurt. In the case of very large, deep or electrical burns, Marj also administers vitamin E D-alpha tocopherol and 1,000 milligrams of vitamin C orally.

Folks with a fever of less than 102 degrees F get chilled custard, jello, applesauce and small amounts of lean beef. Every two hours they're also given apricot juice, lemonade, fresh or reconstituted frozen orange juice or chilled rosehip tea laced with 1,000 milligrams of vitamin C. The patients are kept warm and out of drafts.

Individuals with a fever of over 102 degrees F are allowed to sip cool liquids reinforced with 1/2 teaspoon of powdered ascorbic acid or dissolved vitamin C tablets (1,000 milligrams per cupful). They're kept in bed and their faces, hands, arms and necks are lightly washed with a cloth that is continually recoiled in a basin of cold water.

A doctor is consulted if sore throat, vomiting, abdominal pain or chest congestion are also present.

Yes, Marj Watkins does call in a doctor for the 10 percent of her family's ailments that really do need medical attention. But her common sense kitchen medicine is all the treatment she needs for the remaining 90 percent of the upsets, sniffles and pains that strike her brood.

Dr. John Starr, meet Marjorie Watkins, a lady after your own heart!

Town Watches For Diphtheria After 1 Death

CORTEZ, Colo. (UPI) — Laboratories in Cortez and Denver, alarmed by the diphtheria death of a 4-year-old girl whose parents said their religion prevented them from immunizing her, today analyzed throat cultures from members of their religious group, the Church of the First Born.

The unidentified girl died late last week, the first diphtheria victim in Colorado in many years. A judge in Cortez later ordered the girl's two brothers hospitalized when it was determined they also had the disease.

Dr. Thomas Vernon, chief epidemiologist for the Colorado Health Department, flew to Cortez Sunday and persuaded about 35 sect members to submit to throat cultures.

"The taking of throat cultures apparently does not conflict with the group's stand against medical treatment," Vernon said. "They said they did not wish to trespass on the community if the community did not trespass on them."

Vernon said Health Department staff and local physicians in the town of 6,000 persons were watching for any further outbreaks of the disease until the results of the throat cultures were known. He said that would take about 48 hours.

"There may be many carriers of the disease who will not actually show any symptoms," Vernon said. "But we are keeping a close watch on the situation in case any new cases appear."

Rogers' Barbs Still Fit Today

United Press International...the unemployed here ain't eating regular, but we will get around to them soon as we get everybody else fixed up O.K."

The stock market drops several hundred points, unemployment increases, cattlemen are killing their livestock because they can't afford to raise them for market, the nation has seen prosperity fade, scandals rock Washington and a Republican administration comes under increasing criticism as the economy reels.

"Ninety per cent of the people in this country are not satisfied. It's just got so that 90 per cent of the people in this country don't give a damn...S Mr. Ford should not mistake apparent

'Replace Butz!'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Texas congressmen have asked President Ford to replace Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz with "someone who will be more responsive to food producers."

Reps. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, Wright Patman and Jim Wright, all D-Tex., called for the resignation of Butz, charging he is not responsive to food producers.

However, a White House spokesman said, "President Ford is very pleased with Secretary Butz's performance."

"There have been about 432 requests for the President to fire Butz in the last year, but I'm sure the President has no intentions of doing so," said presidential agricultural adviser John Carlson.

prosperity for satisfaction. There is more mortgages in this country than there is votes. This country right now is operating on a dollar down and a dollar a week. It ain't taxes that is hurting this country, it's interest."

It was the 1920s in America, and the man who brought some humor to a time of fear and despair was a rope-twirling cowboy from Oklahoma. The "Mr. Ford" was not Gerald, but Henry, who decided not to run for president in 1924 because he felt 90 per cent of the people were satisfied.

A lot has changed since then — but much remains the same.

Will Rogers was killed in a plane crash in 1935. Today is the 95th anniversary of his birth. It is also the day before election day — one of Will's favorite times — and, with a little mental name-changing, the comments he delivered in his drawl, then are startlingly relevant today.

"There is only one way to get even with Harding now and that is to leave him in there for another term. Besides, the Democrats come nearer getting what they want when they have a Republican President than they do with one of their own."

Remember the European and American economic conferences?

"The world has just conferred itself into bankruptcy. A conference is just an admission that you want somebody to join you in your troubles. The world can't improve till it gets so poor that it can't send delegates to a conference. Then it will begin to improve by depending on itself."

Will always had something to say about the Republicans:

"If the Lord can see his way clear to bless the Republican Party the way it's been carrying on, then the rest of us ought to even get it without asking for it."

But he had a few barbs for his own party, too:

"I don't belong to an organized political party. I'm a Democrat."

Campaigns often brought out the best Rogersisms:

"Well, the promising season ends next Tuesday, and at about 8 o'clock that same night the 'alibi' season opens and lasts for the next four years. This campaign ends Tuesday, but it will take two generations to sweep up the dirt."

Then, as now, everyone had advice about the stock market:

"Oh, it was great while it lasted. All you had to do was to buy and wait till the next morning and just pick up the paper and see how much you made, in print. But all that has changed...Somebody has to do some work."

Politics, especially during an election year, was one of Will's favorite subjects:

"Every time we have an election, we get in worse men and the country keeps right on going. Times have proven only one thing and that is you can't ruin this country ever with politics."

"Once a man holds a public office, he is absolutely no good for honest work."

"The Democrats are having a lot of fun exposing the Republican campaign corruptions, but they would have a lot more fun if they knew where they could lay their hands on some of it themselves for next November."

"To the Senate and the House, a Merry Xmas. May the literacy test never be applied to your constituents."

But Will tempered his comments with one he applied even to himself: "Everybody is ignorant...only on different subjects."

Directors Showing No Love At Field!

DALLAS (UPI) — If the directors of the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport want to help the cities of Fort Worth and Dallas put pesky Southwest Airlines out of business at Dallas Love Field, it will cost them another $50,000.

The board Tuesday will consider the proposed $50,000 increase in funding for a lawsuit against Southwest Airlines.

The recommendation would allow attorneys to continue with the case through appellate procedures.

U.S. District Judge William M. Taylor has ruled Southwest can use Love Field instead of the new regional airport as long as the city keeps it open as an airport. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans upheld the ruling.

Briscoe's kept pace without adding new taxes — I voted Republican in 1972, but I'm voting for Briscoe this time.

We need new jobs and more income in this state and Governor Briscoe is helping us get them.

I think Dolph Briscoe is a Governor you can believe in. I'm looking forward to voting for him in November.

In times like these when the economy is so shaky, I'm going to stay with Governor Briscoe.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5
 Your birthday today: The "new" outnumbers the "old" all about you this year. In the early months you close out long-existing ventures, in conditions never dreamed of when you started them. The last quarter sees you into a whole new set of enterprises, something different to learn every day. Today's natives have intense magnetic qualities, a strong inclination to pursue secret work.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Expect confrontation, mainly on matters of principle. Be firm, but make concessions once you see what's practical. Make sure you record your choices!

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Associates are out of sorts, so there's nobody to rely on just now. Things pertaining to culture suddenly become very expensive. Travel is held up.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Personal plans stall. Fulfill your most urgent responsibilities. If you can't avoid serious negotiations, keep them to an absolute minimum.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Keep out of secret deals. So-called facts aren't necessarily complete or accurate. Your concern for associates' feelings makes all the difference.

Virgo [Aug 23-Sept. 22]: If you fuss with tiny details today, you'll miss the main idea. Any combination of friends and finances runs to impractical complexity.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Business is subject to odd conditions, overreactions. Make no hasty decisions. The less you depend on mechanical equipment, the better.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Make sure you have your facts straight. Put off legal actions where feasible. Concentrate on basic issues, recognizing previously unknown factors.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Discretion is hard to maintain. Contain your urge for drastic action; a "cure" today can be worse than the illness.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Make no endorsements, sign no contracts. Hasty action brings immediate results, much harsher than expected. Outside help is nil today.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Everybody strives to keep his distance, and you manage best by minding your own affairs. Decisions made now have lasting impact.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Face limitations, close out unprofitable ventures. Avoid speculation, stick with what you know. Keep purchases within your means.

Arabs Planning Oil Discussions

BEIRUT (UPI) — The United Arab Emirates has talked on Persian Gulf oil producers to meet in Abu Dhabi Saturday to discuss oil matters, two Beirut newspapers said today.

The pro-Iraqi newspapers Beirut and Al Liwa, quoting Arab diplomatic sources, said United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Maneh el Uteibah had extended invitations to the meeting during the recent Arab summit conference in Rabat.

Beirut said it was not clear whether the meeting was connected with current efforts by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger aimed at reducing the price of Arab oil.

Persian Gulf oil producers are the United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Bahrain, Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Iran.

The Shah of Iran told a news conference in Tehran Saturday after a meeting with Kissinger that he favors a single oil pricing system which could result in lower gasoline prices. He agreed with Kissinger on the need to check inflation and avert a major worldwide economic crisis.

It was not immediately clear whether other Gulf producers had accepted the invitation to meet at Abu Dhabi.

Kuwait said Sunday it supported a rival Algerian call for a world oil producers meeting in Algiers later this month. Press reports said Kuwait would send an envoy to Algiers to seek more details of the plan.

Algerian President Houari Boumediene called for such a meeting Saturday, saying it was necessary to plan long-range policy in dealings with the Western bloc of oil-consuming nations.

IN TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS

Survey Predicts Demo Victories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A United Press International survey of Tuesday's election prospects shows Democrats gaining five governorships, five seats in the Senate and at least 20 in the House.

The survey, covering all 50 states in the last week of the 1974 campaign, also indicated the Democrats could make far bigger gains — up to 40 House seats, eight Senate seats and nine governorships, if there is a

FOR REPUBLICANS

Albert Foresees Terrific Beating

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert says the voters have inflation on their minds and they blame the administration for it — despite President Ford's "hard sell" campaigning.

The Oklahoma Democrat predicted in an interview that the Republicans will take a terrific beating Tuesday at the polls.

"We're going to have a solid victory," Albert said. "Better than average. We'll pick up 25 seats at least, probably more, maybe 30."

Democrats now occupy 248 of the 450 House seats.

"Economic issues are on the minds of the biggest segment of the population," said Albert, fresh from a two-week campaign swing through Nebraska, Illinois, West Virginia, Texas, Ohio and Oklahoma.

"Their pocketbooks have really been clipped and they blame the administration."

Albert has been checking voter sentiment aboard an Air Force plane provided on a pay-as-you-fly basis by President Ford.

Ford was criticized by Democrats recently for campaigning for Republicans aboard Air Force One, so he replied by offering Albert the use of a government plane to do, in effect, some equal time stumping for the Democrats.

The money comes out of Democratic campaign funds.

Both Ford and Albert started campaigning in earnest after Congress recessed Oct. 17. In one speech, the President said a top-heavy Democratic strong anti-Republican tide in the first post-Watergate national election.

The predicted Democratic wins would give the party, already firmly in control of both Congress and a majority of state houses, 37 of the 50 governorships, 63 of 100 Senate seats and 268 of 435 House seats.

Even if they won all contests rated as "tossups" by UPI bureaus — four for governor, three for the Senate and 25 for the House — the Democrats still would fall short of winning a "veto-proof" Congress, two-thirds of each house.

The survey showed Democrats expected to capture seven governorships now held by Republicans, in California, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Oregon, Wyoming and Arizona.

The Republicans were expected to take Democratic seats in Alaska and Kansas, for a net GOP loss of five. Tossups were called in South Carolina, now Democratic, and in Colorado, Michigan and Tennessee, all held by the GOP.

Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Texas.

Republican pickups were expected to be one seat each in Florida and Utah.

House tossups in districts now held by the Republicans included three in California, two each in Wisconsin and New Jersey, and one each in Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Mainly About People

It showed Democratic Senate wins in Colorado, Florida, Kentucky, North Dakota and Utah. Rated as tossups were the contests for the Democratic Senate seat in Nevada and the Republican seats in Kansas and Oklahoma.

In the House, Democratic pickups were shown in the following states: three in Illinois; two each in California, Connecticut, Indiana, Michigan and New York; and one each in

Curt Beck Gets Football Prize

Curt Beck, 1940 Fir, correctly predicted all eight winners and missed the Pampa-Borger tie breaker by only five points, winning the weekly Pampa Daily News Football Contest and the $15 first prize.

Beck picked Canyon over Perryton, Sanford - Fritch over White Deer, Claude over McLean, Texas over SMU, Baylor over TCU, Oklahoma State over Kansas, Dallas over St. Louis and Oakland over Denver. He said Pampa would win, 20-0 and the actual score was 25-0.

Jackie McMinn, 528 Hazel, captured second place by not missing a winner and picking Pampa to win 21-6.

Roy E. Morris, 1515 N. Faulkner, won third place by missing White Deer and Claude, while predicting Pampa, 27-0, over Borger.

Lefors Youth Blood Donors Date Scheduled

LEFORS — The Coffee Memorial Blood Bank mobile unit will be at Lefors Civic Center Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Blood donors wishing to give blood to replace units used by Johnny M. Rowe Jr., Lefors senior injured Sept. 29 in a fall from a horse, have been asked to contact Margie Prestidge, 835-2323 for an appointment with the unit.

Fifty donors are needed, according to John Mitchell, spokesman for Coffee Memorial. The Rowe youth is a patient in St. Anthony's Hospital Intensive care unit.

Mitchell stated, when assigning the unit to Lefors, another donation date could be scheduled if more donors enroll than can be handled by the unit Friday.

If more than the required units of blood are replaced, those donors will automatically be enrolled in a blood insurance plan which will entitle members of their immediate families to any blood replacement needs for one year, Mitchell said.

The blood insurance plan can be set up with any community with Coffee Memorial. The mobile unit can be dispatched annually to reinstate donors enrolled in the program.

Federal Task Force Studies Disappearances From Yacht

HONOLULU (UPI) — A frustrated federal task force returns to Honolulu today from Palmyra Island without any clues to the mysterious disappearance of a couple who were last heard from two months ago aboard their yacht Sea Wind anchored off the atoll.

The $50,000 yacht arrived in Honolulu last week, repainted, its identification numbers obscured and occupied by Stephanie Stearns 27, and Buck Duane Walker, 37.

When authorities boarded the yacht to question the pair, they arrested Miss Stearns after her vain attempt to escape and booked her on suspicion of boat theft. Walker, who the FBI identified and said was a convicted robber, escaped.

Miss Stearns, who formerly lived in a Hawaiian commune, told authorities the yacht's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Graham, of San Diego, Calif., drowned while fishing off Palmyra and they had sailed the ownerless Sea Wind 916 miles north to Honolulu as their own boat was unseaworthy.

The federal task force of FBI agents, Coast Guardsmen and U.S. attorney's officer flew to Fanning Island Thursday, and took a tug to Palmyra, 200 miles to the south, where they searched for clues that might account for the disappearance of the Grahams.

In a radio report monitored by Honolulu yacht broker Freeman

Lang, the federal officers said they had found no evidence to indicate the couple were "either dead or alive."

The last contact with the Grahams was in August when they reported by short wave radio that they had met Miss Stearns and Walker at Palmyra and helped pull Walker's boat off a reef.

The last radio report from Graham described a planned dinner party of the two couples aboard Sea Wind that evening.

Graham failed to keep a regularly scheduled radio contact with a Hilo, Hawaii, amateur operator, and an alert was broadcast asking that a lookout be kept for the Sea Wind.

Police Raid Creates New Crisis For Thieu

SAIGON (UPI) — A police raid in a small South Vietnamese village touched off a new crisis today for the troubled regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

An opposition senator accused police of killing three persons and wounding 10 others at an anti-Thieu protest in the village, but government officials insisted the shooting involved a search for draft dodgers.

Sen. Doan Van Luong said he received reports of police opening fire on anti-Thieu protesters last Saturday during a meeting in the village of Chinh Tam, 70 miles east of Saigon.

Luong said survivors of the shooting told him police sprayed rifle fire into a meeting of about 1,000 persons protesting corruption in South Vietnam.

The senator said two groups of villagers came to him at different times Sunday with reports of the shooting and the names of three persons allegedly killed at Chinh Tam.

"I hope this whole report is wrong," he said. "But now the government must prove to me the report is wrong by showing me these three people still walking around Chinh Tam."

A government spokesman in Saigon and a senior province official near the village called the reports false, but differed about what happened.

The officials said the shooting broke out during a police search for draft dodgers. The Saigon spokesman said there were no deaths, but the province official said a teen-age boy died.

News men tried to reach Chinh Tam today, but combat police cordoned off the area, saying draft dodgers were still holed up in the village church.

Luong's witnesses said police gunfire smashed the church's statue of the Virgin Mary, but the government accused the young village priest of hurling the statue to the ground.

The senator said villagers told him rifle tracer bullets ignited and burned down at least 10 homes and damaged much of the church.

The Saigon spokesman criticized UPI and the senator for "giving a bad image of the government" by publicizing the incident.

The truth was considered crucial to the fate of Thieu, who has been fighting in recent weeks to save his political life in the face of growing antigovernment protests.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

At the lower echelons of play, it is not uncommon for a player to discover belatedly that he did not see one of his cards originally — that it was hidden behind some other card. But things like this also happen (on rare occasions) at even the highest echelons of play. Today's deal, which came up during the International Trials (to determine the team that would represent North America in the 1975 World Championships) serves as a case in point.

Both sides vulnerable South deals.

The bidding:
South West North East
Pass (1) ♦ Pass Pass
Dbl. Pass 1♥ Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

South's original pass was, of course, an oversight — he did not know that he possessed the ace of spades; it was hidden behind the spade ten.

After West had opened the bidding, and North and East had passed, South made a take-out double. With North responding one heart, South now tried to recover by jumping to three notrump. South fully realized that North might have a horrendous hand for this forced response of one heart. But South felt that he had no choice except to gamble, since scientific bidding was no longer available to him.

West elected to open the queen of spades, which was permitted to win the trick. Had South known that West had started with the doubleton Q-J, he would have won the trick. But he assumed that West was leading from a four-card suit.

At trick two, West led the four of diamonds, South taking the trick with his ten. He next led a low heart, but West climbed up the with king. West now cashed the ace of diamonds, and followed up by leading another diamond, dummy's king capturing the trick. Declarer was now lost, since West's fourth diamond had just become the sole surviving diamond in the deck. When play had entered declarer had lost one spade trick, one heart, two diamonds, and one club. When the deal was replaced, South opened with one notrump — and South, bidding normally, suffered a one-trick set!

The Pampa Daily News The Women's Page

Pampa, Texas 68th Year Monday, Nov. 4, 1974

Century Speaker Tells Of 'Better City, USA'

The Twentieth Century Club met Tuesday, Oct. 22, in the country home of Mrs. Paul Harbaugh. The meeting was called to order by vice-president, Mrs. Rex Lloyd Hamilton. Mrs. Rex Rose led the group in the Club Collect and the Pledge to the American and Texas Flags.

The roll was called and the minutes were read and approved. Treasurer, Mrs. John Rankin, presented the budget for the club year, and it was accepted as amended. There was no other new business.

Miss Elsie Cunningham, Community Improvement Chairman, led an interesting discussion, "Better City, USA." She mentioned the improvements being made in Pampa in preparation for the Bicentennial such as the new improvements in the White Deer Land Museum, the minting of commemorative coins, and planned plantings of red, white, and blue flowers in the parks.

Mrs. Rex Rose reported that the citizens of Pampa had a reputation for being friendly, hospitable, charitable and enthusiastic. We have many features that we can enjoy and be proud of such as the beautiful M.K. Brown Auditorium where the Community Concert group and Fine Arts group both bring excellent programs, and the activities of the Chamber of Commerce, Pampa has 102 civic clubs and organizations and 45 churches. Lovett Memorial Library is rated as one of the best in the state, she stated.

Mrs. C.E. Steel reported on areas that needed some improvements if Pampa is to continue to grow rapidly. Pampans need to encourage more industry to bring plants here, but a shortage of labor has been a problem so far. Adequate housing facilities for all groups, particularly for minority groups which large companies need to employ in executive positions, is another problem which we now have. Citizens need to be more aware of and take more action on the drug problems which we face. Places for teenagers to go on dates and in groups is needed. Pampa is limited in the number of restaurants for families and for entertaining, and uses need to be found for the old buildings which are now not in use in the downtown area such as the old hotel and the old jr. high school building.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments of fresh coconut cake, coffee, tea, and nuts were served to the following members and special guest, Mmes. Suzanne Patterson, Harbaugh, Roy Braswell, Jerry Carlson, F.M. Culberson, Lloyd Hamilton, Lloyd Harvey, Fred Neslage, John Rankin, Rex Rose, R.H. Sanford, C.E. Steel, Icie Harrah Jones, J.W. Gordon, and Miss Elsie Cunningham.

3 Types Of Blood Disorders Unrelated

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain the difference between polycythemia, hypoglycemia and hemochromatosis? — Mrs. H.J.B.

Except that they all will have an effect on the blood content, there is no connection. They are unrelated disorders.

Polycythemia is an excess in the number of red blood cells, due to any of various causes.

Hypoglycemia means periods of low blood sugar. The blood sugar level usually is pretty much normal most of the time, but there are unpleasant episodes when, from time to time, the level falls too low or too rapidly.

Excess insulin by injection (as with diabetics) or from a tumor of the pancreas or comparable condition can cause these episodes; but so can faulty function of the pituitary, adrenal; or thyroid glands. Or certain nervous disorders may be involved.

Hemochromatosis is a liver disorder involving excess iron deposits in that organ, and demands skillful attention as the condition can result in diabetes and impairment of the liver itself.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Enclosed is 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet on "Lost Secrets of Reducing."

I am a happy, contented wife and mother but have been about 15 pounds overweight for years. I have tried every fad diet. Weight Watchers, etc. I lose and then in no time gain my weight back again — P.K.

Yes that's one of the very much - lost secrets, and you'll find it emphasized - getting rid of excess weight is only half the battle. It's wasted effort unless you learn how to keep it off once you've shed it. You'll find that discussed at some length in the booklet.

It's my impression that Weight Watchers and TOPS are pretty successful in getting the idea across of keeping weight off, but with only 15 pounds to lose, maybe you didn't stay long enough to learn that important part of it.

Read my booklet carefully and see if it doesn't give you a successful method of keeping weight off.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain the difference between a proctoscopic examination and a sigmoidoscopic exam? — M.A.T.

Three tubular instruments are commonly used to examine the lower bowel. The anoscope is a short one, and covers the area just beyond the anus (outlet of the rectum). The proctoscope is longer, hence permits examination higher up.

And the sigmoidoscope is longer still and, of course, allows still more extensive observation. More recently a flexible instrument which can cover the entire colon has been used.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 46 and a year ago had an operation for cancer of the uterus. I was advised at the time that I would never be able to take hormones.

I am starting to notice a bagginess under my eyes and sudden aging signs, and am wondering if there is any replacement for hormones I might be able to take. I have been told by friends that raw wheat germ oil taken daily is a form of natural estrogen — Mrs. L.B.

I is true that estrogen (female hormone) is not given to patients after surgery like yours. Male hormones might be tried judiciously — they have an anabolic effect that can perk you up a bit. But don't dismiss the possibility that the bagginess may be due to some loss of weight plus the passage of time.

Wheat germ oil contains vitamin E, is not estrogen, and won't hurt you if you want to try it.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 for a copy of his booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way to Stop It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Dallas, Buffalo Snatch Wins

United Press International
No one, not even the star-struck St. Louis Cardinals, can hope to outwit Father Time forever.

As a result, when the clock finally ran out on the Cardinals Sunday, they found themselves unceremoniously dumped from the most exclusive club in the National Football League and back to worrying about their future.

The Cardinals were the only one of the 26 teams to go through the first half of the season with a perfect record, and they did so by pulling out five of their seven victories in the final minute of play. On Sunday, though, St. Louis got its comeuppance when Elfen Herrera of Dallas kicked a 20-yard field goal with four seconds left to give the Cowboys a sweet 17-14 victory.

Significantly, when Dallas had suffered through a four-game losing streak, three of the losses were inflicted on last-minute field goals.

"It may appear to some that we are still in the driver's seat," he said. "But I don't feel that way. It's nice to be on top but when you consider that six of our eight games have been decided in the closing minute or two, you can see what I mean."

The loss reduced St. Louis' first-place lead in the NFC East to two games over the Washington Redskins, who whipped the Green Bay Packers, 17-6, and gave Cardinal Coach Don Coryell cause for concern.

"It may appear to some that we are still in the driver's seat," he said. "But I don't feel that way. It's nice to be on top but when you consider that six of our eight games have been decided in the closing minute or two, you can see what I mean."

Dallas, now riding a threegame winning streak following the disastrous slump, evened its record at 4-4 and is tied for third place in the NFC East with the Philadelphia Eagles, who dropped a discouraging 27-0 decision to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

With the loss by St. Louis, the Oakland Raiders now own the most secure position in the NFL, boosting their record to 7-1 with a 28-17 triumph

Sunday over Denver. Oakland is the only team in the AFC West with a winning record and owns a 3-1-2 game lead over the runnerup Broncos.

In Sunday's most significant game, Buffalo moved into undisputed possession of first place in the AFC East by overcoming the New England Patriots, 29-28. The Bills, with a 7-1 record, now hold a tenuous one-game lead over both New England and the Miami Dolphins, who ripped the Atlanta Falcons, 42-7.

Elsewhere on Sunday, the Minnesota Vikings maintained a two-game lead in the NFC Central by beating the Chicago Bears, 17-0. The Detroit Lions turned back the New Orleans Saints, 19-14. The New York Giants staved off the Kansas City Chiefs, 33-27. The Cincinnati Bengals beat the Baltimore Colts, 24-

14. The San Diego Chargers edged the Cleveland Browns, 36-35, and the Houston Oilers beat the New York Jets, 27-22.

Redskins 17 Packers 6
A rock-hard defense shut Green Bay out in the second half and Billy Kilmer, substituting for the injured Sonny Jurgensen, pulled Washington from behind with a 22-yard touchdown pass to Frank Grant midway through the third quarter. The Redskins added a clinching TD in the final period when linebacker Harold McClinton ran back an intercepted pass 14 yards.

Steelers 27 Eagles 0
Philadelphia went into the game with the lowest point yield in the NFL—86—but the Steelers rushed for 238 yards and gained another 146 in the air. The Pittsburgh defense set up three scores, including a 52-yard return of an interception by cornerback Mel Blount for a touchdown.

Raiders 28 Broncos 17
Ken Stabler had a hand in all the Oakland scoring in a game played in near freezing temperatures and a steady downfall. He threw for four touchdowns, two to Fred Biletnikoff and two to Cliff Branch. Stabler passed for a total of 217 yards.

Bills 29 Patriots 28
John Leybold's third field goal of the game, a 47-yarder early in the fourth quarter, provided the margin of victory for Buffalo. The Bills then saved the game by blocking a late field goal attempt by John Smith. Mack Herron scored three touchdowns for New England, two on passes of 43 and 25 yards from Jim Plunkett and the other on a two-yard run.

Dolphins 42 Falcons 7
Substitute runners Bennie Malone and Don Nottingham led the Dolphins to their highest point total of the season while dealing Atlanta its sixth loss in eight games. Nottingham scored three touchdowns on short plunges and Malone surpassed 100 yards for the second consecutive week.

Vikings 17 Bears 0
Willie Rodgers smashed over from the one with 1:56 left to give Houston its second straight victory and hand the Jets their sixth consecutive loss.

Oilers 27 Jets 22

Temple, Tech's Bowl Hopes All But Vanish With Losses

United Press International
Those dreams that looked so attainable last week have suddenly vanished for Temple and Texas Tech.

Temple, seeking to earn a bid to a post-season bowl for the first time since 1935, all but lost that chance Saturday when the Owls had their 14-game winning streak snapped by the University of Cincinnati, 22-20, on a 25-yard field goal by the Bearcats' Dan Shepherd with only 10 seconds remaining.

It was the first loss in seven games for the Owls this season, but even if they win all of their remaining contests their chances of earning a bowl invitation appear to be over. The Owls' schedule is not of the caliber that bowl committees prefer but had they maintained an unblemished record and a first place standing in the Lambert Trophy race it might have persuaded one of the committees to give them a chance.

Temple, despite having four passes intercepted and losing three fumbles, had taken a 20-19 lead with 2:24 remaining on an eight-yard touchdown run by Henry Hynoski, but Cincinnati quarterback Tony Miller engineered a brilliant drive in the final 2:29 that set up Shepherd's game-winning kick.

"Cincinnati kept bringing it to us," Temple Coach Wayne Hardin said. "They came back and played super after being down."

"We wanted revenge for the way they beat us last year," said Cincy Coach Tony Mason, whose team dropped a 16-15 decision to the Owls last year on a field goal by Don Bitterlich in the waning seconds. "I reminded my kids before the game of the way they beat us last season."

"Sure I'm happy about us being the team that ended Temple's winning streak, but that's just icing on the cake. We wanted this one today to make up for last year."

Texas Tech, which was hopeful of winning the Southwest Conference title and a berth in the Cotton Bowl, had its hopes all but dashed by previously winless Rice, which surprised the 13th-ranked Red Raiders, 21-7.

Texas Tech seemed a likely choice for the conference crown when it demolished Texas earlier this year, but the loss to Rice was the second for the Red Raiders in conference play and their title hopes now seem remote.

Rice, the poorest offensive team in the SWC, got 124 yards rushing from Gary Ferguson and a 12-yard scoring pass from quarterback Tommy Kramer to Eddie Loftin in downing Texas Tech.

NEVER GIVE UP SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The oldest fighter to win the tight heavyweight title was Bob Fitzsimmons, who was 41 when he won the title by beating George Gardner, Nov. 25, 1903.

WITH TREVINO, BERRY Randy Matson Among Sports Hall Selectees

DALLAS (UPI) — Golf great Lee Trevino, former Olympic shot putter Randy Matson and one-time Baltimore pro football ace Raymond Berry were selected Saturday for induction into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

The late Bill "Jitterbug" Henderson, whose versatility enabled him to earn 11 varsity athletic letters at Texas A&M, also will be enshrined in the Hall of Fame Dec. 31 during the annual luncheon during Cotton Bowl week in Dallas.

The luncheon is cosponsored by the Texas Sports Writers Association, whose 20-man committee selected this year's nominees, and the Salesmanship Club of Dallas.

Trevino, a one-time $35 a week hustler on the Dallas public links, has been a tour sensation since his 1968 triumph in the U.S. Open. He has since won the Open again, captured the British Open twice and won the 1974 PGA title in a duel with Jack Nicklaus, the links giant Trevino defeated in a playoff for the 1971 U.S. Open and the man he conquered both times in Britain.

Matson, a product of the Texas Panhandle town of Pampa, was the first weight man to shatter the 70-foot barrier with the shot as a Texas A&M trackster. He later boosted the world mark to 71 feet 5 1/4 inches and earned a gold medal in the 1968 Olympics.

Matson hit his peak in 1967 when he exceeded, on one day, 70 feet three times with the 16-pound shot and bettered 200 feet with the discus four times while setting an American discus mark of 214-9 1/4.

of the contest will wind up in the Cotton Bowl.

Baylor still has an outside shot at the host spot in the Cotton Bowl, but the Bears will have to upset Texas this week and hope A&M loses twice. Should Baylor win the rest of its conference games and should A&M lose only to Texas, giving the Bears and the Aggies identical 6-1 final conference standings, the Aggies would go to Dallas New Year's Day because they defeated Baylor in their matchup earlier this season.

A&M started the season with the conference's most explosive running games, but lately it's been the Aggie defense that has carried them through. Following two successive shutouts — 17-0 over TCU and 20-0 over Baylor — the Aggies held off Arkansas 20-10 Saturday to remain the only team with a perfect conference record.

"They had a good team," Arkansas coach Frank Broyles said. "Defensively they were strong and they really punished our backs. The A&M defense was extremely quick and extremely well coached."

It will have to be this type of quickness on defense that will be needed to stop the Longhorns' Texas' last two opponents — Rice the week before last and SMU this past Saturday — concentrated on stopping the Texas fullbacks, John Campbell and Roosevelt Leaks, allowing quarterback Marty Akins to run for more than 100 yards in each of the two games.

The blocking of the line and the halfback gave me the yardage again this week," said Akins who took so much punishment from SMU's defense in Texas' 35-15 victory he required five stitches to close a cut lip.

"They (the Mustang defense) were clogging up the middle so I just went outside. Their halfbacks were sliding outside with the pitchman, they just kept sliding so I'd run outside."

So, although there is almost a month to go before the Nov. 29 clash between Texas and A&M, it appears to be shaping up as the conference showdown that will pit A&M's defense against Texas' offense.

SMU coach Dave Smith, whose team lost to top-ranked Ohio State earlier this year but held the Buckeyes to their lowest point output of the season, said Texas has a better offense than Ohio State.

"Texas and Ohio State are both very fine teams, but we played Ohio State a lot better," Smith said. "I think Texas offensively is a lot better than Ohio State." But a lot can happen between now and Thanksgiving, Texas Tech, which figured in Cotton Bowl plans early in the season following a convincing victory over Texas, was jolted Saturday by its second conference loss, a 21-7 decision to Rice. For the

National Studies Indicate Diet Can Treat Disease

To AM's, Wed., Oct. 30, 1974

Diet and exercise are being used today to treat high blood pressure, arthritis, diabetes, gout and heart ailments.

And early reports indicate that many of the patients have shown dramatic improvement.

Some of the results show that diet and exercise can replace drugs, pills, aspirins, tranquilizers—even insulin.

That's the implication of a national study involving more than 40 physicians and 1,000 patients, which was reported on in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Nathan Pritikin, coordinator of the national study, told the Health Insurance Institute there were hopes that the research could lead to a "breakthrough in man's search for longer life."

The diet aims to eliminate fat, oil, salt, sugar, cholesterol, coffee and tea, and strictly avoids foods in which something is added or taken out.

The emphasis in the diet is simply eating foods as grown—rice, wheat, grains, fruits and vegetables and a moderate amount of animal protein. But no eggs are permitted.

"The main thing in this diet," says Pritikin, "is to avoid butter, margarine, oils, added fats and sugars. Why if you can do this, this is about 80 per cent of the diet." He adds:

"Many of the breads in our super markets today are no longer capable of maintaining human life because of processing. Given the large amounts of sugar many contain they are worse than simply neutral; they are actually harmful to health."

The exercise portion of the program consists basically of daily excursions of walking, jogging or running, at the individual's pace, for distances of from 1 1/2 to 10 miles.

Three miles is the distance recommended if you are healthy and in good condition.

Initial reports concerning hypertensives, said Pritikin, show the new regimen results in a 10- to 30 per cent drop in both systolic and diastolic blood pressure in five weeks.

These results confirm a Department of Agriculture study where the subject's blood pressure was reduced 10 to 15 per cent in two weeks on a similar diet. Blood cholesterol levels were also lowered.

The researchers expect even more dramatic results in control of diabetes, both for insulin-dependent diabetics and those treated with orally administered drugs, according to Pritikin.

The study coordinator said that based on three years of study and research, the results were not in the least bit surprising.

"Why medical science has known of the value of diet in degenerative disease for years," he said, "the sad part is that doctors keep forgetting."

He explained: "Forty years ago, in Canada, the first diabetic reversal study through diet was done with 1,000 persons. It's in the records. But many of us just seem to forget."

A prize patient in the program is Mrs. Eula Weaver, 85, winner of two gold medals in the 1974 Senior Olympics at Irvine, Calif.

A year before she joined the low-fat exercise program at 81 she was being treated for congestive heart failure, hypertension, angina, arthritis and atherosclerosis. She could barely walk.

Since the age of 82, adhering strictly to the program, she has not needed any drugs and she has shown no symptoms of her former ailments.

Mrs. Weaver's exercise program includes a daily jog of more than 1 mile and 10 to 15 miles of stationary bicycling.

She also works out in a gymnasium twice a week.

"And there are dozens of people in our study with equally dramatic results," says Pritikin.

He said the study has been enlarged with two controlled tests dealing with diabetes and heart problems now going on at the medical centers of two universities.

Pritikin said the study group planned to release further findings in the near future.

Accent on Health

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Recently, Accent on Health described the emergency ambulance service now being operated by the Dallas Fire Department. A crucial factor in the success of the ambulance operation is the training of the ambulance attendants.

The Texas State Department of Health is an active partner of ambulance service operators, whether local governments or private companies, in training ambulance personnel. A representative of the Emergency Medical Services Division answers some questions that are often asked about this program:

QUESTION: What kinds of emergency medical services are available around the State of Texas?

ANSWER: There is a wide range, beginning with the very advanced systems in a few of the major metropolitan areas—such as Dallas, Houston, and San Antonio—down to some part-time volunteer groups in small towns. And, of course, several counties in Texas have no ambulance service at all.

QUESTION: Is there any requirement for ambulance services to be licensed or registered with a state agency?

ANSWER: Yes, there are requirements both for the registration of ambulances and for maintaining certain levels of training for the people who work on the ambulances.

QUESTION: What is the primary characteristic that makes the difference between a minimal-service and the advanced kind of service that some cities provide?

ANSWER: The one element that we feel is most important is the training of the ambulance personnel. Having the right equipment is important, of course, but good equipment is useless unless the personnel know how to use it properly. On the other hand, well-trained personnel can do a great deal with minimal equipment.

QUESTION: Is there a minimum level of training that an ambulance service can have and still be licensed?

ANSWER: Yes, there is. The state law requires that at least one person on the ambulance be trained at the Emergency Medical Technician, or EMT, level. Because of the recent development of more advanced programs, we have broken down the class "A" level into two categories—the basic EMT, which includes those who have completed 120 hours of training; and the advanced EMT, which is those who have gone beyond the basic course for at least 200 additional hours of training. These are the ones often called paramedics.

QUESTION: How is the State Health Department involved in the training of emergency medical personnel?

ANSWER: Until recently, we were directly involved in teaching the ECA, or "B" level, course, and also in coordinating the establishment of EMT courses throughout the state. Recently, we have had to discontinue our direct involvement in the ECA courses and become more involved in the EMT courses due to the increased demand for the type of training.

What we are doing at this time is to concentrate on the training of instructors for the EMT course, and also providing the final examination for the students as they complete the course.

QUESTION: Does the State Health Department also assist communities in planning and starting up emergency medical services?

ANSWER: Yes. As another service of the EMS Division, these services are made available to the local communities for planning and researching the type of ambulance service that might be best suited for each community.

FEISTY JOGGER. Mrs. Eula Weaver, 85, is shown jogging her daily mile. She is also using a fair-fee diet to help control degenerative ailments which had her down only a few years ago. She also does 10-15 miles of stationary bike riding every day.

The 22-mile long portion of Table Rock Lake in southwest Missouri between a dam and a powerhouse dam faces a lowoxygen problem that threatens one of the nation's best trout fisheries, says the Missouri Conservation Commission.

WANTED THE PLACE TO LOOK

SHOCKING TOOLS

Keeping a radio away from the bathtub is always a life-saving idea, but electrical safety shouldn't stop there. It's important around the workbench, too. While power tools are designed for maximum safety, improper use means trouble.

Most power tools sold in the United States have only a single inner layer of insulation to protect against shock. If this layer fails and the tool housing is metal - ZAP.

Recently, designers have turned to a nonmetallic nonconductive material for tool housings - fiber glass reinforced plastic. It insulates against heat as well as shock. And, the fiber glass reinforced plastic housing, itself, forms a second or "double" layer of insulation, virtually eliminating the hazard of shock.

Fiber glass plastic electrical tools have advantages over metal - safety. A fiber glass power tool housing is just as economical and durable as metal. It's lighter too.
