Barcus Says Court of Nations Will Be Elegant

The Chamber of Commerce quartet composed of Maddy, Rose, Bathrop and Oakley, will be sent to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, and along with Miss Moleta Lefors, sponsor, and Miss Catherine Vincent, "Home Town" speaker, will publicly represent this city.

This quartet is made up of excellent voices and is working on lively songs for the occasion.

The official representatives must leave Saturday to arrive in the convention city in time to make all necessary preparations, but the other delegates will likely leave by automobile Sunday evening.

Returning late yesterday from Wichita Falls, where he completed plans for Pampa's part in the convention, Secretary Scott Barcus of the local Chamber of Commerce declared that the meeting probably will have twice as many registrations as any former convention. This indication was supported by conversations with other secretaries who were in Wichita Falls last week.

"The court of Nations," Mr. Barcus declared "will be one of the most gorgeous affairs ever seen in Texas."

A street of nations, lined with booths appropriately decorated, has been set aside and work began yesterday in this department. The booths will be 14 by 16 feet in size, and there will be one for each town representing a nation.

The court of nations will be held in Spüder park.

Many Wounded In Storms Die And Toll Reaches 228

KANSAS CITY, May 11.—Prospects of a steadily increasing death list in the Middle West as a result of a series of storms in which at least 228 were killed and more than 900 injured, today added trials to relief workers.

Physicians said that more than a score injured in Missouri and Arkansas had slight chance to live. Relief agencies estimated the dead at probably 250.

WHITE HOUSE CAFE OPENED THIS MORNING

Under the personal management of W. W. Haskin, former district manager of the Frank Zahner company, the White House cafe again opened for business this morning.

Mr. Haskin is very optimistic about the future of Pampa and is looking forward to a growing business.

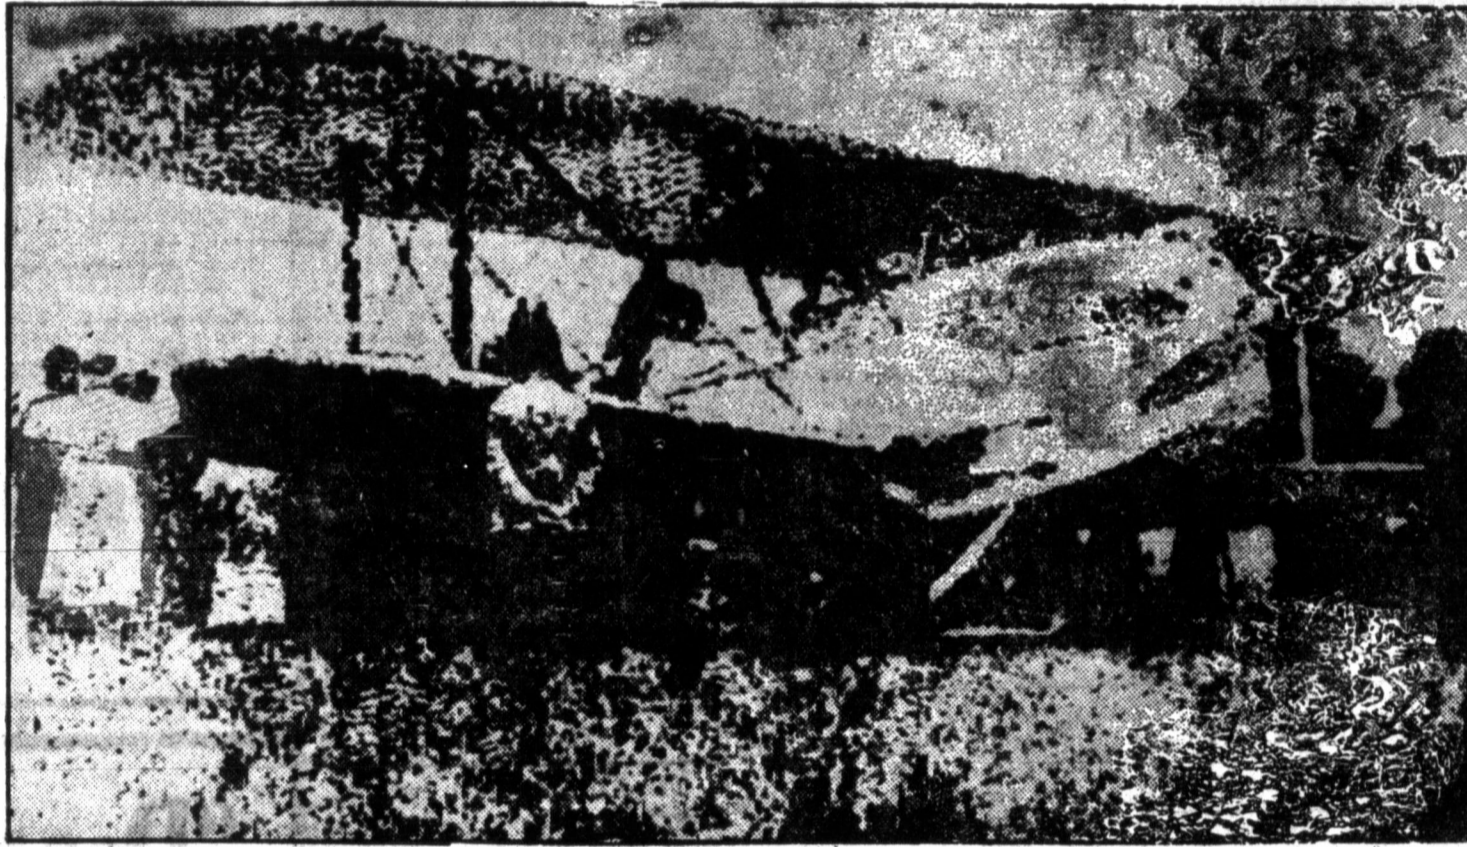

Hotel Guests Wire Fund for Relief Of Homeless In Mississippi Flood

A fund of $52 for Mississippi flood relief was wired yesterday to radio station WSBM at New Orleans by guests of the Adams hotel here.

The fund was solicited by Charles E. Going, formerly of Lake Charles, La., but now connected with the Pure Oil company here. Mr. Going requested the radio station to announce the receipt of the relief money in tonight's broadcast. It is believed the announcement was made last night, but reception was so poor that the station could not be tuned in efficiently here.

Besides Mr. Going, contributors included W. A. Adams, Cad A. Roney, J. W. Ensign, A. R. Pribble, Frank L. Robinson, Mrs. B. Barker, Mrs. F. A. Taylor, G. B. Holloway, C. G.

NEA "RADIO-TELEPHOTO" SHOWS START OF FRANCE-NEW YORK FLIGHT

The NEA radiophoto-telephoto picture above shows the start of Captain Charles Nungesser's attempt to fly from Le Bourget, France, to New York, a distance of approximately 3,500 miles. The picture shows Nungesser crawling into the cockpit for the take-off while French soldiers are guarding the single-motored plane. All records for the speedy transmission of news pictures were broken by NEA Service in getting this picture to The Pampa Daily News. Nungesser and his navigator, Captain Francois Coli, both of whom are French war veterans, took off from Le Bourget at 5:19 a. m. (French time) on the morning of May 8. This picture, taken just before the plane roared off toward America, was rushed to London and there transmitted to New York by the Radio Corporation of America. It reached New York in approximately 15 hours after the flight started and then was placed on the A. T. & T. telephoto wires for distribution over the country. It was on the Pacific coast before the two intrepid flyers reached New York.

HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR WINS IN OWN HOME TOWN CONTEST

Miss Catherine Vincent, junior high school student, yesterday won "My Own Home Town" oratorical contest and will go to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Wichita Falls to present Pampa's fine points before the delegates.

Her speech was memorized, and traced the history of the city from its founding to the present time, with a recital of the principal assets.

Others taking part in the local contest were Miss Mildred Fahy, second; Jack Stone, third; and Donald Zimmerman, fourth.

The judges were J. M. Dodson, Mrs. J. I. Bradley, and Olin E. Hinkle. Competition for first place was keen, being decided by a single grade point.

Each of the speakers had made a careful survey of Pampa, from the standpoint of history, people, agriculture, oil, schools, churches, building, population, growth, sports, amusements, newspaper, paving, highways, location, white way, clubs, permanency, spirit, law and order, hotels and similar other advantages.

Old Fort Elliott Chair Yet In Use

(Special to The News.)
MOBETTIE, May 11.—An old-time stool chair, much worn and repaired, and sold in the Fort Elliott sale here in 1895, has been found in use at a Texola filling station, it has been learned here.

A. B. Hutto, who now owns this historic chair, obtained it from his father, on whose ranch it was left by Robert Hamilton, the man who bought it at the famous sale.

"Sugar Bowl" Of Louisiana Is In Danger of Flood

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—Levees at Bayou des Glaises were expected to collapse anytime today, allowing a rush of water across "Sugar Bowl" of Louisiana, where most of the domestic cane is grown.

The fight, however, was not given up, and should the crasse occur, it is believed the strain on levees along the Mississippi would be relieved, minimizing the danger of additional breaks along that line.

The Eighth Wonder of the World

"OUR HOME TOWN"
 It would have been fortunate had every citizen of Pampa heard the "Our Home Town" orations in the try-out yesterday.
 It may be said that the young high school students knew more facts about the city and made a better presentation of them than could the average taxpayer. It would be well for such contests to be conducted frequently in local communities, for they would not only arouse community pride, but would interest students—the coming voters—in the needs and assets of a locality.
 Knowledge of the exact facts of a community does not necessarily follow months of residence. A person may live in a place for years and know less about it than a wide-awake newcomer. It is also easy to bury one's mind in local conditions and fail to recognize the possibilities that are apparent to newer people or visitors.
 The young folk grasp community facts very quickly when interested. They are able to contrast the good with the bad, and their decisions are not biased by personalities or habit. Their interest should be cultivated and they should be given opportunities for self expression. Then lots of us would be surprised at the result.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON.—President Calvin Coolidge is among those who do not call Pullman porters "George."
 The porter who takes care of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge during their travels is Herbert G. Williams and the president calls him "Williams."
 Few men are heroes to their valets, but the man whose wants are simple and whose disposition is agreeable is the greatest man in the world to his porter, and that's what Mr. Coolidge is to Williams.
 On the other hand, Williams is just about the world's greatest porter else he would not have been assigned to serve the president on every trip since he was just a vice president. Between presidential trips Williams works on private cars for millionaires.
 "One of the easiest men to wait on you ever saw," says Williams of President Coolidge. "You can tell when he's pleased when he doesn't say anything. Never says a word except he'll tell you when he wants anything."
 "He don't want no airs. He don't want no unnecessary like a lot of people. If he wants anything he wants that, but he never puts on any airs."

Williams also recommends J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller and W. L. Mellon, whom he has also served. Not that the bigger they come the nicer they are, for Williams finds some of the wealthiest to be the meanest.
 "Only time I ever heard him complain was when the car was too warm," Williams said, getting back to Coolidge. "He never calls for anything at night except two years ago when he asked to open a ventilator. Yes sir, when that man goes to bed he's gone!"
 "Lots of men you got to keep a running and jumping and making all kinds of fuss over 'em. Most Mr. Coolidge wants is a glass of water, or me to get his valet or for a menu, because he always writes his order before he goes to the dining car."
 You mustn't get the impression that Williams is gossipy. He told all this in answer to questions after being assured that it was all right with his superiors. Williams is a very intelligent colored man.

"Wonderful woman!" he exclaimed when asked about Mrs. Coolidge. "Just pleasant comments always. I never seen her in my life without a smile on her face. Always a pleasant smile and that goes a long ways when you have to wait on 'em. You never get tired as long as you live doing things for that lady. Very little she asks for. Always says thank you for the least little things."

 How did Williams get this super-portering job and what does he think of as he sits through the days and evenings waiting to be called to his high duty?
 "I'll tell you how come," says Williams. "I never in my life done nothing but give service and first-class work. They want men for a private car that knows how to do all kinds of service. You have to be refined and polite on the job and know your place. A private car porter has to do washing, ironing and cooking and everything else down to washing the baby's clothes."
 "But the president wasn't any trouble even when he had a private car—not the least in the world."

PRESS FORUM

Nearly 15 million cattle were required to furnish the national beef ration in 1926. That is the figure supplied by the United States department of agriculture from federal inspection reports and from estimates of slaughter on farms and in local plants. In addition the slaughter of calves totaled 9-1-2 millions. The estimated per capita consumption of beef was 63.4 pounds and of veal 8.2 pounds.
 Twenty years ago the per capita consumption of beef was 77.5. If the national appetite had been as good last year as it was 20 years ago we would have consumed 1,663,800,000 pounds more beef or the equivalent of 3,343,600 more cattle. But that would have affected our balance of trade adversely because in 1926 we imported three million pounds more of beef than we exported.
 In 1907 when the per capita consumption of beef was 77.5 pounds the United States produced 7,193 million pounds and exported 354 million pounds. Production, exports and per capita consumption dropped steadily until 1913 when we became an importer of beef, although only twice in the 20 years have imports exceeded exports. In 1914 we exported 93 million pounds and imported 253 million pounds. In 1915 we exported 387 million pounds, the greatest amount in the two decades and on one of the smallest productions of the period, 5,779 million pounds. Our imports that year totaled 125 million pounds.

TWINKLES

The British "won't press demands on China"—probably they can't find the right spot to press.

A tornado struck Herrin, Ill., last week and escaped after killing one man.

A lot of teams may yet bring home the bacon this week, but it is apt to be spoiled.

Health hint: Don't try to beat our new fire truck to a fire when the energetic young vehicle gets here. This is in the way of psychological preparedness.

WATER

Amarillo is to be congratulated on turning into her mains a water supply which gives promise of being sufficient for a city of much greater size.
 The whole Panhandle has watched the struggle for water and the attendant circumstances that developed, and will get a measure of satisfaction from the final solution of the problem.
 It has been well said that a county can be measured in progress by its roads, and a city by its water supply. These are factors which are of primary importance in the progress of a community. The Plains city is extremely fortunate which lies above ample water stratas.

The total slaughter, 7,453 million pounds, was the greatest last year in the history of the country. Consumption was right on its heels with 7,429 million pounds. All of which indicates that we are getting to be quite a country. Even though every person did eat 77.5 pounds of beef in 1907 there were enough people to consume only 6,780 million pounds. With the lower per capita consumption but with the increased population the beef eating record of the country was broken last year. A new record in pounds consumed has been set every year since and including 1923. Per capita consumption has been gaining since 1921, when it was 56.9 pounds. The lowest was 54.5 pounds in 1915.—Capper's Farmer.

Golf Ball Inventor Is 76 Years Old
 STAMFORD, Conn.—Golf is "an ancient and honorable game," but the ball with which it is played today is the invention of a man still living. Fully 95 percent of the golf balls on modern links are made by molds and machinery invented by Francis H. Richards of this city, whose factories are in New York. Mr. Richards holds about 100 patents on golf balls. Besides these, he has about 100 patents on typographic machines, 200 on machine shop tools and 250 on weighing machinery. The inventor is 76 years old.

OIL ROYALTIES TO WYOMING SOLVE EDUCATIONAL PROBLEM

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—(AP)—Oil and the little log school house are solving the educational problem in the great open spaces of Wyoming. If it were not for their irregular shapes the states of West Virginia, Maryland, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Delaware and Rhode Island could be all placed within the boundaries of Wyoming with room to spare. That's how big it is. Wyoming's estimated population is now 225,000, or less than that of the city of Denver. That how open it is. Wyoming has 1,100 schools, of which 230 have one to three pupils each, and 400 with four to six pupils. Less than 100 of its schools have more than 15 pupils.

Woman Holds State Jury Job

CAMDEN, N. J.—Miss Marie V. Kelly, secretary of an automobile sales corporation here, is the first woman to become jury commissioner in New Jersey. She has charge of the preparation and investigation of jury lists and the supervision of the drawing of juries. Miss Kelly laughs at the notion that there is anything unusual in her position. "I am not in the least bit uncomfortable in working with men in court," she says. "I've been selling automobiles to men for years, and business is business no matter where you are."

Naturalist's Widow Finishing His Fight

ESTES PARK, Colo.—The title of "militant crusader" has been conferred upon Mrs. Enos Mills, wife of the famous naturalist for carrying on her late husband's fight with the Colorado assembly. Years ago, Enos Mills, known as a lover of nature, started his struggle against governmental supervision over Estes Park of which he was one of the developers. The question of the state ceding exclusive jurisdiction over the park to the federal government was one of the paramount issues at the recent session of the Colorado general assembly. Mrs. Mills in continuing her husband's activity, appeared before joint-sessions of the assembly and before various committee meetings. When the bill finally was killed in the closing days of the session, many of the legislators who voted against it praised Mrs. Mills for her successful efforts.

Evangelist Points Out Opportunities Of Local Church

A large and appreciative congregation greeted Evangelist Truhitte last night at the Baptist Revival. The subject was, "Possessing the Land." He pictured the Children of Israel coming out of Egypt up to the border of Canaan, of spies being sent out and their two reports. "Caleb stilled the people before Moses and said, Let us go up at once and possess the land, for we are well able." The evangelist pointed out the opportunities this church has of taking Pampa for the Lord. Some of the evangelist's best sermons will be preached this week—you cannot afford to miss a single service. The day services are proving to be the most enjoyable and the most profitable. Make your arrangements to hear Rev. Truhitte each night and day this week. Repeatedly he has expressed his appreciation for the co-operation of the Churches and City in this campaign, and has spoken in the highest terms of the support given by the Pampa Daily News. Mr. Allen continues in his great way of leading the congregation in the singing of the good gospel songs, and in directing the Boosters. The evangelist said the meeting will close Sunday evening, May 15, and he urged all Christians to do their best through the remainder of the campaign. Rev. Truhitte invited sinners to come to the meetings and hear the gospel of Jesus Christ. Many have taken their stand for Christ and in the church in the meetings.—Reporter.

Raising of Supply Of Feed Stuff Is Urged by A. & M.

There is still plenty of time to plant feed crops wherever the continued wet weather this spring has prevented the planting of corn at the usual time, advises E. A. Miller, Agronomist for the extension service of the A. and M. college of Texas. He further states that during the years of low-priced cotton it is even more important to raise sufficient feed and that every effort should be made to raise all the feed that it needed. Such crops as grain sorghums, including feterita, milo, hegar kafr and darso may be sown as late as July, as emergency crops to take the place of corn. Even quickly maturing varieties of corn, such as the sure-cropper type and June corn may still be planted. To guard against blasting of grain sorghum heads by the sorghum midge, pure type seed should be used on account of the uniformity in heading; all heads which form before the main crop should be cut off. The seed should also be planted at least 300 yards away from sweet sorghum, and Johnson grass should be kept down. Sudan grass, red top sorghum, cow peas and millet are other good feed crops to grow. Sudan grass furnishes excellent grazing when planted in 3 ft. rows at the rate of 10 to 15 pounds per acre and will be ready to cut for hay in from 6 to 8 weeks. A good combination is Sudan grass for grazing and red top sorghum for hay. Millet such as German millet is also a quick maturing crop and is fairly drought resistant. Millet should be cut for hay right after blooming and should not be allowed to go to seed, especially when it is to be fed to horses and mules. It is best to sow the seed broadcast at the rate of about 30 pounds per acre. More cow peas should be grown as they make excellent hay when properly cured, being almost equal to alfalfa in feed value. They can also be used for grazing or plowed under for building up soil fertility. Some of the best varieties are the Groat, New Era, whip-poor-will, and chinese red.

The black-eyed pea is a good variety for table use. Soy beans and mung beans are also good summer legumes, but unfortunately soy beans are often badly damaged by rabbits. Mung beans are valuable because they can stand a great deal of dry weather. Velvet beans are recommended only for East Texas as they require a good deal of summer rain.
