Levee Break Spreads River Over Cotton Area

MEMPHIS, April 25.—With more than five feet of water on the streets, 500 homeless in Arkansas City, 20 miles above Greenville, are isolated today and in need of help. This word was received here just before all wires connecting that place went out.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25.—Secretary Hoover arrived here today as President Coolidge's representative to become director of relief work in the flood-stricken Mississippi valley.

MEMPHIS, April 25.—(AP)—The dark record of Mississippi valley desolation continued today as flood waters extended to new towns and farming communities.

The death list is known to embrace at least 100, and is mounting as news trickles in from stricken districts. Officials estimate the total as high as 200 in the delta area of the Mississippi, and the fate of many others far flung was doubtful.

With more than 100,000 persons already homeless and refugee camps swelling almost hourly, grave fears are felt by officials for inhabitants of the delta country between Greenville and Vicksburg.

Thousands of acres in northern Louisiana are going under water from swollen tributaries of the Mississippi.

Refugees from this area are pouring into Natchez.

SHREVEPORT, April 25.—Information from Coushatta said today that the Louisiana Railway Navigation company's levees broke on a southeast point of the Red River parish last night, and that the main stream of the Red river was flooding territory between Crichton and East-point.

The water will flood a large cotton producing area.

TEXARKANA, April 25.—Three spans of a Cotton Belt trestle at Spiritlake, 30 miles east of here, went out today.

Little Hope Held For Paralyzed Boy Barely Kept Alive

(By The Associated Press.)
ROANOAKE, Va., April 25.—Physicians today held little hope for the recovery of Walter Boothe, 18 years old, who since last Thursday has been kept alive by artificial respiration administered by friends. Hospital attendants said that paralysis which has rendered his body useless below the waist would inevitably exhaust the remaining strength of his body.

Prairie Well Is Flowing Heavily In Pampa Field

Making about 125 barrels an hour, the Prairie Oil and Gas company's well on the J. W. McConnell property is another boost to the northwest Pampa field. It came in Sunday afternoon.

The well is situated in section 67 block 4, and is about a half-mile south of the old Prairie discovery well. The main flow was reached at a depth of 3,150 feet. The Prairie company has two more wells in that neighborhood nearing the pay.

The Empire company's well on section 174, block 3, is showing oil at a depth of 3,150 feet, and looks like a good well, according to the drillers.

This well is on the SW corner of the NE quarter of section 174, on the C. W. Archer property.

Two Pampa Boys Win First Honors In School Meet

Albert Lewter was Pampa's star athlete at the Canyon Interscholastic league meet and will go to Austin for state competition.

He won the shot-put with a heave of 44 feet 1 1/2 inches, and took the discus throw with a mark of 109 feet 1/2 inch. For his work he received two gold medals at Canyon.

Lawrence McMurtry won honors in the literary events taking first in the junior declamation contest and getting a medal and a loving cup.

Waldo Kretzmeyer was third in the senior declamation contest.

Of the 28 counties represented at the meet, Pampa was fourth, Amarillo was first, Clarendon second and Canyon third.

On account of illness, some of Pampa's best entrants could not take part in the meet. Many of those who were unable to win medals made excellent showings. More than 800 pupils took part in the meet.

Lester Russell of Dallas spent Saturday here on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson of Lefors spent Saturday here shopping.

WHITE DEER LINE PROPOSED

Santa Fe Asks Right To Extend Road 21 Miles

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 25.—A 21-mile extension of its line in Texas would be made by the Panhandle and Santa Fe railroad company under terms of an application submitted today to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The new line would run through Carson and Hutchinson counties from the main line at White Deer, and would tap a rich oil-bearing area.

This move by the Santa Fe is no surprise here, having been known to be contemplated for several weeks.

The distance given in the application is considerably longer than the line expected to be built, and would take the terminal past the northwest pool of the Pampa field.

An application already is on file asking the I. C. C. to permit construction of a line from Cheyenne, Okla., to Pampa.

The railroad committee of the Chamber of Commerce is seeking to interest other railway companies in building a "through-line" intersecting the Santa Fe at this city.

and driving their livestock, made for the highlands.

More than 4,000 victims of the flood waters congregated in the residence section of Hickman, where a special relief corps of the American Red Cross has set up an emergency station. The business section was under eight feet of water.

Churches, schools and homes were thrown open to the refugees gathered from an area of approximately 1,250,000 acres.

Boats were used to gather those who succeeded in reaching isolated high ground. Many of these saved only the clothing they wore and were without food for hours.

At Dorena, Mo., 600 persons were made homeless when the Medley levee gave way under the crush of the flood.

Two ferry boats, brought from Birdspoint, were used to gather refugees and lives too.

Chambers of Commerce Help Special Agencies, Never Replaces Them

This is the first of a series of four articles prepared by Scott Barcus, secretary of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

A chamber of commerce is an organization of business men, and others who share their viewpoint, to promote the commercial, industrial, agricultural and civic interests of the community. It is based upon the well-recognized principle that more can be accomplished by working together for a common purpose than by individual effort.

The chamber of commerce does not attempt to usurp the functions of local city government, but cooperates with and assists government and all other proper agencies authorized for special purposes. Its work is to ascertain what the local problems are, formulate plans for their solution and then proceed to solve them. The problems as ascertained and determined upon form its program of activities, and committees are appointed to make the program effective—o better conditions found to need improvement and to eliminate evils found to exist. In order to attain its maximum efficiency, the organization must have wise counsellors, aggressive leadership and enthusiastic workers.

Policy Formation
The policies of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce are in the hands of men chosen by the membership. If these men were in charge of some

LeFors Woman Accidentally Shot Sunday Afternoon

The gun with which she was learning to shoot was accidentally discharged in the hands of Mrs. Kelly Patterson of LeFors yesterday afternoon, and she was wounded in the shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. S. McKee, with whom she was at the time of the accident, brought her to Pampa for emergency treatment. The wound is not considered dangerous.

Dale and Moore To Seek Severance Of Bribery Cases

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, April 25.—Selection of a jury to try F. A. Dale and H. H. Moore on charges of bribe taking began in criminal court here today, with indications that a severance will be sought for the trial of Moore first.

Dale, a Bonham lawyer, and Moore, a Cooper farmer, are under joint indictment charging them with accepting $1,000 from W. W. Chamberlain of the Texas Optometric association to secure defeat of a bill to tax stationary optometrists.

MISSING MAN IS THOUGHT TO HAVE BURNED

C. B. Gordon Has Not Been Seen Since Blaze

LOSS ESTIMATED ABOVE $14,000

Stag Hotel Practically Ruined In Fire Today

Officers and firemen are searching this afternoon in the ruins of the Grande theatre for the body of C. B. Gordon, who has been missing since the blaze leveled the structure early this morning.

Gordon, who roomed in the front of the second story, was sleeping near where the flames were first seen, and all efforts to locate him had failed up to press time today. The debris of the fire was too hot to permit rapid search.

Loss is $14,000.

The South Side theatre was entirely destroyed with a loss of about $14,000, partly covered by insurance, and the adjoining brick building under construction was damaged more than $1,000. C. W. Dipboye owned the building, and M. A. Dixon the fixtures and equipment of the theatre. Cobb and Woods are building the business structure that was damaged.

The blaze was discovered by a nightwatchman a few minutes after 3 o'clock. He rushed to the telephone exchange to put in an alarm. The siren was sounded and firemen, who heard it made the run as rapidly as possible. There was plenty of water at the start and after the water department placed all pumps in motion, according to firemen, but without the pumper the pressure was not great enough to be effective. The pumper truck did not have sufficient capacity to control the blaze after being put into use. More than 800 feet of hose had to be strung to make connections with the mains.

Louder Siren Needed.

Firemen and city officials said today that a louder siren and a new truck are absolutely necessary to make fire-fighting effective here, and that a man should be at the station ready to make the runs.

Roomers living above the theatre lost most of their personal property, having time only to escape. A few were slightly burned. Among those who suffered losses in the fire are:

Mr. and Mrs. H. Vater and four children; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dipboye and three children; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilkerson and one child; Mrs. S. Gibson and one child; Mrs. L. V. Lovell, and several others.

Two small cottages in the rear were practically destroyed, although the furnishings were saved.

Work of the firemen was hindered by the crowds which rushed to the scene, and the remarks of wisecrackers were not appreciated, it was said.

The cause of the fire is unknown, and opinions differ as to whether the flames started above, in front or below.

STAG HOTEL BURNS

Starting possibly from defective wiring, a fire about 10 o'clock today gutted the Stag hotel on East Foster. Most of the furnishings of the structure were saved, residents being favored by the fact that the blaze started near the roof.

The fire department made a very fast run and through much commended work, brought the flames under control, leaving the walls standing.

... And have not charity."

It often happens that poverty exists in the midst of prosperity, and in such cases it is very easily overlooked.

Oil, prolific of millionaires, also attracts many poor people who seek work and possible wealth. Any cessation of boom conditions brings suffering to certain classes of oil field followers, largely common laborers.

Moreover, any large population is apt to have a small percentage of unfortunates; indeed, misfortune always overtakes some individuals of a large group.

Pampa, with nearly 10,000 people in and near about the city, has an acute need for a charity organization. Today's fires show the need of a fund for emergency use, in addition to other instances which develop from day to day. People who barely manage to escape from a burning building are rightly charges of the public until they can re-adjust themselves. But Pampa has no available fund.

Moreover, disease is widespread in the city, with several cases of contagious disease. The latter must be quarantined under instructions not to leave the house, yet to people in nearly destitute circumstances these are almost impossible orders.

Charity to be effective must be fully adequate but restricted to worthy cases. Investigations are absolutely necessary to prevent abuse.

A charity organization is one of Pampa's greatest needs.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — Radio programs are often charged with being dull and low-brow stuff.

Perhaps they could be made more interesting by hiding microphones to transmit certain confidential conversations. There are many persons here who would pay substantially for the privilege of listening in on such intriguing tete-a-tetes as:

Senator Borah discussing foreign problems with President Coolidge.

Secretary Kellogg arguing with Mexican Ambassador Tellez.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover arguing against present foreign policies with Coolidge and Kellogg.

Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter taking orders from Wayne B. Wheeler.

W. G. McAdoo talking with former political and financial supporters who aren't quite so sure about 1928.

Senator Dave Reed reporting on the Varc situation to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

And many more highly private conversations one might mention.

One wonders how polite some of these gentlemen are when they get together behind closed doors. Borah with Coolidge and Kellogg, for instance, and Kellogg with Tellez.

Kellogg is nervous and irritable and Tellez has been said to be the most astute diplomat in Washington. But the atmosphere is undoubtedly more serene than some of the scenes in which the late former Secretary of State Philander C. Knox is said to have figured.

During the troubles that followed the end of the Diaz dictatorship in Mexico, when presidents were changed frequently and violently, there was one particularly tense period when it appeared that the United States might intervene. The State Department was receiving hourly bulletins on conditions in Mexico from the Mexico City embassy, which in turn was kept constantly informed by American consuls and other American representatives. The Mexican embassy here received summaries from the Mexican foreign office every 24 hours.

The American version grew daily more serious and the Mexican version daily more optimistically divergent.

Finally one warm morning as the Mexican diplomat came to tell Knox the latest summary of developments, Knox blew up.

"You lie!" he shouted at the astonished Mexican, waving his reports in the air. "You lie and you know you lie and you know I know you lie!"

Knox said much more. It wasn't diplomatic language, but it was very effective. The ambassador left for home almost immediately. "What," he asked the existing Mexican government and the Mexican people, "can you do with a man like that?"

But things have changed since that incident. Mexico has a much more stable government and Tellez is the best ambassador who ever represented her here.

PRESS FORUM

YOUTHFUL SUICIDES

Various writers and publicists have endeavored to read into the record of recent suicides by boy and girl students some sinister portent of a decadent generation. There is little to warrant such somber conclusion.

Life is full of coincidences, which if taken too seriously may become unduly disturbing. As a fact, the recent youthful suicides represent such an infinitesimal percentage of youth that it is in the larger view relatively unimportant.

As Collier's recently pointed out, some of the greatest characters in history have contemplated suicide during times of depression, as was the case with Napoleon and Lincoln. Most of them thought better of it and decided to fight life's battle to its normal end.

Suicide has always been, and perhaps always will be, the resort of a certain portion of human beings. Perhaps if we were to know how many had at one time or another furtively considered such a step we might be appalled by the possibilities. That more who think about it do not in a moment of aberration actually attempt the "rash act" is really the remarkable thing.—Spearman Reporter.

Cyclonic conditions, which have been quite general the last few weeks, now seem to be gathering around the state highway department. Shoo 'em away, Henry.—Chickasha Express.

Once more Tulsa has scored over Oklahoma City, and easily, at that. Its union depot project was assured at the very first meeting with the railroad executives.—Shawnee News.

NEWS JABS

Another reason why it might be well to treat everybody in this vicinity with due respect: One of these days an oil strike—perhaps several in Pontotoc county—will make a whole bunch of millionaires overnight. Just now it is uncertain who it will be, but to be on the safe side and in a position to touch some of the newly rich for a loan occasionally, it is a good idea to be very cordial to everybody while they are still poor.—Ada News.

The editor of the Oklahoma News hit the nail on the head when he said that it wasn't anybody's business but the Baptists' how their university was run over at Shawnee. Every man or group of men ought to be allowed to run their own affairs—but there are plenty of people who never attend to their own business because of being too busy trying to dictate those of others.—Altus Plain-Dealer.

Increase in the postal receipts of the Lawton office during the usually slow first quarter of the year is just another indicator that Lawton is moving forward.—Lawton Constitution.

If the people were decent enough to make law enforcement possible there wouldn't be any need of enforcement.—Chickasha Express.

The Grays have hit their stride and now are ready for the best the Panhandle can produce. It wasn't how bad the Wheeler boys were; it was how good the Grays were.

Clark can hit the ball as well as pitch. Five safe hits and first on an error make up one day's work.

Reynolds got his second homer Sunday in his only time at bat and Weeks his fifth two-bagger. Guess the boys are hitting now.

Wheeler Nine Is Victim of Grays Sunday, 19 to 2

The Wheeler baseball team was a disappointment to the fans yesterday and the Grays defeated them by the lopsided score of 19 to 2.

Led by "Big Bob" Clark with 5 hits, the Grays slugged out an easy victory over the Wheeler nine. Clarke not only hit the ball, but pitched a nice game, and his support was the best yet seen.

The Grays started their run getting in the first inning, when four runs crossed the plate on two hits, a walk and an error. The next came in the third when Clayton hit a triple scoring Gober. Clayton scored on a single by Clarke.

The big innings was the seventh when seven runs were made. Scoring up twice, got a single and a triple. Shaw also got a triple, and Cahill and Clarke doubles. Reynolds' home run came in the eighth and was a mighty wallop inside the park.

Wheeler showed their best in the first two runs, and would have had more but for the good work of Weeks and Cahill.

Summary of game: Two base hits, Wilson, Weeks 2, Cahill, Clarke 2, and Britt; Three-base hits, Clayton and Shaw; home run, Reynolds; double play, Clarke to Clayton to Gober; struck-out, by Stagg 7, by Clarke 7, first on balls, off Stagg 2, Clarke 1; left on bases, Wheeler 10, Pampa 13; hit by pitcher, Clarke (Craig and Young) errors, Wheeler 6, Pampa 2.

HINTS FOR FARM and HOME by THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Farm accounts are necessary in analyzing and reorganizing the farm business along profitable lines.

Low farm profits may result as well from poor judgement in selling as from poor judgement in growing the crop.

It is unsafe to crib corn containing more than 25 per cent of moisture, without providing special but simple devices for drying it.

A hog will find shade in hot weather if he can, but if the shady spot he discovers is also hot, he does not seem to realize it and will stay there and die from overheating. It is best therefore to close any buildings that are not cool.

Farmers who have marshy places on their land that they contemplate draining should first consider the possibilities of these low spots as places for producing muskrats, growing fish, or attracting water fowl.

Do not use soda in making cream of tomato soup. It changes the flavor and affects the vitamin content.

A new hog cholera poster in red and black typifying a hog lot scene of swine in various stages of cholera has been issued. Its purpose is to urge farmers to immunize their pigs with serum.

Milk should be kept at or below 50 degrees F.

Quits Society for Jungle

Mrs. DIANA STRICKLAND

LONDON, April 25. (AP)—Mrs. Diana Strickland, who prefers the jungle to jazz, is going into the wilds of Africa again with the hope of capturing pygmy elephants.

Mrs. Strickland became an explorer because she tired of the social life of London and "the dinners and dances, and the constant striving to wear prettier dresses than the other woman."

"Some people like it, but I prefer the forest and the great outdoors, the camp fires, the rough life and the swamps of the Nile, where there are colossal water snakes, some of them 40 feet long," she said.

Mrs. Strickland already has led two expeditions of adventure. Upon returning home she soon found herself being swept along in the social whirl at full speed, so she has begun preparations for a trip across Africa in an automobile, which will take up eight or 10 months.

"I cannot explain that longing for the jungle," she said. "When one is there one feels sometimes one would give anything in the world to be back having a cocktail at the Ritz, and when you realize that wish and sit sipping that cocktail you pray for a magic wand to whisk you away right into the heart of the desert again. It is irresistible."

"While I am there I hope to try for some pygmy elephants. They are very rare and comparatively few of their tusks are on the market."

Two women companions will accompany her on the next trip.

Deep Philosophy Of Personality In "It," Coming Movie

Are you free from all self-consciousness?

Have you an irresistible magnetic appeal?

Are you a masterful lover? Unless you're all of the above—and much more—you simply haven't "IT."

"IT," that quality about which Elinor Glyn's newest theory revolves—has all America agog and is the main topic of conversation wherever people gather—has finally been explained by Madame Glyn.

For months "He or she has IT" has been a conversational phrase when referring to one who is attractive. So much interest has been aroused on the subject that Paramount has produced a picture called "IT," starring Clara Bow and written by Madame Glyn herself, which arrives at the Rex Wednesday.

The real meaning of "IT," according to the English author, is—an invisible emanation which exudes from certain human beings rendering them irresistible to the opposite sex. It's a peculiar quality possessed by some persons which draws all others to them.

To make her explanation clearer Madame Glyn has compiled a list of ten things you must have to possess "IT." Unless you score 100 per cent on each of them, you're definitely out of the running!

You must have that magnetic sex appeal which is irresistible.

You must have complete self confidence.

You must—if you are a man—give the impression unconsciously that you would be a masterful lover.

You must be indifferent to public opinion—but quite firm about your own.

You must give an impression that nothing on earth could influence or hold you unless you wished it.

You must have individuality.

You must be absolutely fearless.

You must be perfectly true to yourself, whether that self is good or bad, for no sham of any kind can have "IT."

According to Madame Glyn, the quality of "IT" is extremely rare among women—thousands of physically attractive creatures who fascinate certain men, have no touch of "IT." On the other hand, a girl considered homely by the usual standards of beauty may have "IT" for "IT" is a quality of mind and actual beauty has nothing to do with it.

Wins Debate

CLARENCE DARROW

NEW YORK, April 25.—Clarence Darrow, 70 years old April 18, had the better of a clash on prohibition with Wayne B. Wheeler here Saturday night.

The formal subject of the debate was: "Resolved, that the prohibition of the beverage liquor traffic is detrimental to the public welfare."

Darrow had the affirmative, Wheeler the negative. Each spoke 50 minutes by periods. Darrow made a frank appeal for nullification of the Eighteenth amendment, and declared it was not only the right, but the duty, of free men to refuse to obey the prohibition law.

Wheeler, representing the Anti-Saloon league, called this attitude anarchy and demanded that those who dislike prohibition agree to its enforcement while it is on the statute books, and to work for legal means for its repeal if they so desire. Darrow suggested governmental control of liquor. The "dry" spokesman emphasized his repeated declaration that neither Darrow nor any other "wet" has yet suggested a constructive platform to take the place of prohibition as it now obtains.

business corporation you would be willing to invest all your savings in it on the strength of their standing. They are investing their time as well as money in this effort to develop Pampa into a better place in which to live and transact business.

Organized community effort and a citizen's responsibility to his community are recognized by the best minds, as witness the following quotations:

What Harding Said

"There has never been a time in the history of America when a Chamber of Commerce program was as necessary as it is today. Whoever cooperates in that direction is a real asset to the Nation."—Warren G. Harding.

"I think it is wise for the business men of an American city to recognize that the roots of city business spread far out into the agricultural land. On the other hand, it is well for farmers on the land to realize that their connection with the world of business is made largely through the city. The function of farming, on one hand, to render a public service in terms of food products, is matched on the other hand by the function of city business to give public service in terms of manufacture and exchange. When the service of the farm community or of the city community is self centered, the public suffers. When these two types of public service, however, are performed as functions of society, with full cooperation on both sides, the public gains."—Henry Wallace.

"I believe that a man should be proud of the city in which he lives, and that he should so live that his city will be proud that he lives in it."—Abraham Lincoln.

Good Citizenship Defined

"A man may labor quietly in his chosen field and never be known to the public generally and still be the best kind of a citizen. He may be engaged in the very lowliest kind of work, but if he does that work to the best of his ability, and labors not alone for his own material welfare but with the ultimate aim of helping others, he is a good citizen. In my opinion, unselfishness is the very foundation of good citizenship and good government."—Hon. Herman C. Baehr.

Cooperation Needed

Who can measure the effect of disinterested public service upon the character and broadened vision of men working together for the upbuilding of the community and this without any thought of direct personal gain of desire for personal recog-ognition? Every successful business is in a constant state of reorganization. It is a sign of weakness rather than strength when the management is completely satisfied with methods and policies for any considerable length of time and this is as true of a chamber of commerce as of any other corporation.

What we are all trying to do is secure cooperation, secure community effectiveness, secure the adoption of sane industrial and commercial plans; secure the adherence to such plans with the avoidance of unnecessary agitation and with the minimum of envy and discord.

Pampa's Future

Two years ago Pampa was a quiet little farming community, with a population of around 1,200. Then the oil play began. Now Pampa has grown to a city of nearly 10,000 and is the center of an oil field 80 miles long. Whether the experience of Pampa will be that of a great number of oil towns—stupendous growth for a while and then a reaction that will ruin the city for years to come—or that of a few towns that have grasped their opportunity and built for permanence, with industries that will continue after the oil play is gone, depends upon the men of our city. By indifference to the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, the first named experience will follow as night follows day. A whole-hearted, cooperative effort is the best insurance against it.

Buick Power is proved on the 24-Hour Hill

Buick knows that the famous Buick Valve-in-Head Engine produces more power for its size than any other automobile engine on earth.

Buick has proved this fact decisively at the great Proving Ground of General Motors, on the "24-Hour Hill"—a mechanical device which faithfully duplicates the pull of any hill for any number of miles.

Test, not guess, is the basis for Buick design. Buick success is founded on this constant search for the new and better thing—on this accurate, beforehand knowledge of results.
