JOHNSTON STOPS HOUSE MEETING

Plan To Rob Local Stores Is Revealed In Confession

ARRESTS HALT ACTIVITIES OF PAIR IN PAMPA

Bonds of $3,000 and $1,500 Set in Cases

YOUNG MAN SIGNS CONFESSION

Admits Three Lootings and Ideas for Others

Bonds of $3,000 and $1,500, respectively, were set by Justice of the Peace I. S. Jameson in the cases of Jack Doyle and E. F. Carey, arrested here yesterday morning on a charge of burglary.

The two men are alleged to have entered the DeLuxe Cleaning plant and Fatheree Drug Store No. 2 Thursday morning. Money and merchandise amounting to more than $1,500 were taken. Practically all the loot was recovered when the two men were arrested in a rooming house.

A purse, containing about $50, and some fountain pens are among the articles not yet recovered by the officers.

When arraigned before the Justice of the Peace yesterday, Doyle whose home is in Elk City, Okla., and who was apparently the leader of the pair, refused to make a statement. He waived an examining trial. Carey, whose home is in Fort Worth, is only twenty years old. He made a complete confession stating that they also planned to rob Dunaway Brothers Hardware store and procure guns to hold up the Rex theatre.

In a later confession, Carey stated that they robbed the Crystal Palace Confectionery store Monday night by prying open a rear window and taking between $50 and $40 in cash, cigarettes, and candy from the store.

He further stated that they robbed the DeLuxe Cleaners first. They took the merchandise from the drug store to the cleaning plant and made two trips to their room on foot in carrying all the loot which was found by the officers packed in a trunk in their room.

Lindbergh May Fly to Central America Next

(By Associated Press) MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16—Central America is on the schedule for the next air conquests of Col. Charles Lindbergh unless present plans are changed.

The flier intends to fly from Mexico City to Guatemala City, San Salvador, Honduras, Panama, and possibly Nicaragua, then probably visit Havana.

The time of his departure from here has not been announced.

Col. Charles Lindbergh himself, in telling his plans in an interview, said the order in which he will visit the four Central American countries had not been decided. He said he would fly from Central America to Havana, then from Havana directly home to St. Louis.

In the course of the interview, the colonel indicated that he might go to a bull fight Sunday. When asked about protests from the United States against his going to the fight, he replied:

"I think Mexico is perfectly capable of choosing its own national sport."

He Hasn't Changed a Bit

Lindbergh, same, unaffected hero, paid Congress a visit and conferred with aviation officials while in Washington preparing for his Mexico flight. Here you see him in interested conversation at Bolling Field with F. Trabee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation, who has just landed in his plane. Inset, are Lindbergh and Speaker Longworth, of the House, who was his host when he trekked to Capitol Hill.

Harvey Haines Dies of Pneumonia Following Stroke Wednesday

Reuben Harvey Haines, 47 years old, died at the Pampa hospital last night at 10 o'clock. He suffered an attack of apoplexy Wednesday and pneumonia followed.

He was born in 1880 at Red Oak, Texas, where he lived until he was 21. Then he moved to Miami, where he remained two years moving from there to Pampa. He has since made his home here. He married Miss Lulu Parker of Henderson, Texas, in 1909. Besides his wife, two daughters, Minnie V. Haines, attending Trinity College at Waxahachie, and Claudine, at home, survive him.

Three sisters, Mrs. J. I. Davis of Red Oak, Texas, Mrs. J. A. Lee of Miami, and Mrs. Minnie Jackson of Lubbock, were with him at his death. A brother, the Rev. A. B. Haines of Houston, arrived this morning.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Baptist church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock by the Rev. D. H. Truhitte, his pastor at the Baptist church, assisted by the Rev. W. L. Evans, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Interment will be at Fairview cemetery.

LeFors Townsite Well Taken Over by New Drillers

Bill Collins of Collins and Gardner, drilling contractors of Wichita Falls, is taking over the LeFors townsite well and will attempt to complete the hole to production.

They will have to fish out or drill by several joints of casing. The hole was bottomed at 2,650 feet, but has about 200 feet of cave at this time.

A very heavy flow of gas was cased off, and oil pay is expected when the well is deepened.

Government Wins Over Sinclair Staff

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—The government won a victory over the counsel for Sinclair and his associates today when Justice Siddons ruled that the defense could not cross examine Frank O'Reilly, detective, regarding the conversations he had with the parents of Edward Kidwell, juror in the Fall-Sinclair oil trial.

Soviet Citizens of Hankow Hunted Down and Arrested by Nationalists

(By Associated Press) HANKOW, Dec. 16—Chinese authorities raided the Soviet consulate here today, and all Russian and Chinese occupants were arrested.

The authorities then proceeded to round up all the Communists and all of those suspected of being Communists throughout the city. Hankow was the scene of intense excitement when Chinese troops occupied former Russian and German concessions and carried out a systematic house to house search for Communists. Even dancing halls frequented by Russians were visited. It was estimated that by morning virtually every Communist or suspect had been rounded up.

Early rising foreigners saw Russians of both sexes being marched off to jail in night attire, some barefooted.

Hijacker Gets $60 From Lone Motorist Thursday

A. Cline, returning to Pampa from Panhandle at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, was robbed of $60 in cash. He was driving on the detour between Panhandle and White Deer when two men in a Dodge coupe stopped him and at the point of a gun demanded his money.

One of the men was about 30 years old, slim and weighing about 160 lbs. He was also the possessor of a red mustache and a large cowboy hat.

Sheriff E. S. Graves says that this description does not fit any of the hi-jackers who have been operating south and east of Pampa the past two weeks.

Football

Waco and Abilene high schools were tied at the half, 7-7.

Abilene scored in the first quarter on a 46-yard pass, Waters to Andrews. Waco came back in the second half with line drives to tie the score. In the first half Waco made seven first downs and Abilene 5.

The stands at Waco were full, with thousands standing up. The weather was cold.

One of Robbers of Carbon Bank Is Identified

(By Associated Press) WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 16—C. E. Penix, Young county attorney, announced today that the suspect arrested at Graham by Sheriff Jim Foster last night had been identified by officials of the First State bank of Carbon, Eastland county, as having been one of the pair who held up and robbed that bank of $5,000 Tuesday.

Six New Teachers For Duty After Holidays Chosen

Schools of the Pampa Independent school system will adjourn for the holidays at noon December 23, and will reconvene January 2.

At a meeting of the school board last night, six additional teachers were elected for duty after the holidays. Some of them will occupy the Central high school annex now being completed.

Those elected: Mrs. J. S. Bradley, who taught here last year and was re-elected but declined, will take a first grade.

Miss Jettie Mae Barber, now a junior at Canyon Teachers college, will take a sixth grade. She has had two years of previous experience.

Mrs. Ralph Dunbar of Pampa will take the sixth grade work. Miss Carroll Moore of Waxahachie, a bachelors degree graduate of Trinity university, will have a second grade.

Mrs. Elbert Thomas, now teaching at Elk City, will have a second grade. She is of the Southwestern State Teachers college of Weatherford, Okla., and has been teaching six years.

Mrs. L. C. King, former student of Canyon Teachers college, will also have a place in the grade schools.

The registration of Miss Laura V. Brown was accepted.

Enrollment in local schools has been gradually increasing, and the new annex is badly needed. The increase is especially heavy in the lower grades.

"Arizona Cowboy" Given at Miami

Despite the cold weather, the cast of "An Arizona Cowboy" had an enjoyable evening in Miami yesterday, when the play was presented to a small audience at the Pastime theatre.

This was the second performance, and members of the cast were pleased to present it at the neighboring city. The play was prepared by the Friendship class of the Methodist church under the direction of Mrs. Carson Loftus.

PIONEER RESIDENT BACK HERE FOR SIXTH TIME

Mr. and Mrs. John Tate and son Don, for the past four years residents of Los Angeles, Calif., returned to Pampa yesterday to make their home.

They could hardly believe the change that has taken place since they moved to California.

Mr. Tate owned the second barber shop that was located in Pampa. The well known "Hootie" Harrah, now of White Deer, operated the first shop here.

In talking with a News reporter, Mr. Tate said that this was his sixth return to Pampa and that he plans to stay this time in the coming city of the plains.

GUARDSMEN AT STATE SENATE CHAMBER ALSO

Representatives Are Forbidden to Convene at Capitol

SOLONS MET AS CITIZENS

Drastic Steps Are Imminent in Sooner Strife

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 16—National Guardsmen today again were stationed at the entrance to the state Senate chamber by Governor Henry Johnston, preventing members of the House of Representatives from accepting the invitation of the Senate to meet in its rooms.

The governor withdrew the soldiers from the Senate chamber Wednesday to allow the Senate to meet as citizens.

Before adjourning yesterday, it issued an order that the House members use Senate rooms as meeting places.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 16—Eleven witnesses testified today before the investigating committee of the state House of Representatives, which has announced that it is contemplating bringing a seventh impeachment charge against Governor Henry Johnston.

Barred from its chambers in the Capitol by National Guardsmen the committee met downtown in a hotel room.

Star Witness in Murder Case Is Shot Down Today

TEXARKANA, Dec. 16—Virgil Grigson, 45 years old, former constable of Garland township, was shot and almost instantly killed here today.

He is said to have named the man who shot him. Grigson was a star witness in the Henry Adams murder trial.

Tax Paying Time Here Is Set By County Collector

County, state, and automobile taxes may be paid in Pampa on December 27, 28, 29, and 30, according to E. S. Graves, who will transfer the records here on those dates. Local people are urged to take this opportunity of paying their taxes.

It also is held imperative that all residents pay their poll taxes. These may be paid at any time at any office of the sheriff, including the local headquarters.

Mr. Graves also points out that motorists should have their headlights tested at once, because the test receipt must be presented when a new license is obtained.

Dave Warren of Panhandle was a business visitor here today.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Lemons were in Amarillo yesterday.

Morris Levine made a business trip to Amarillo yesterday.

A Christmas Play

Time—Christmas eve night.
Place—In bed room.
Characters—Jimmy, Mary, Mother, and Santa Claus.
Mother—Children now this is Christmas eve; and Santa will soon be here so you must lie down and go to sleep.
Jimmy—All right, Mother.
Mary—I will too, Mother, so Santa will bring me a nice big doll.
Jimmie—Soon as Mother and Father go to sleep we'll watch for Santa Claus.
(Mother leaves and children watch)
Mary—Oh, Jimmy be real quiet, see him coming?
(Santa comes down the chimney and is very busy filling stockings when he spies two little eyes peeping through the door)
Jimmy—Hello, Santa, I haven't seen you in a long time.
Santa—Well, I guess I'll have to take all the toys away.
Mary—Oh, Santa, please don't do that. We will promise never to do this again. Won't we Jimmy?
Jimmy—I'll say we will.
Santa—Well all right but never do it again.
(Santa leaves and morning comes)
Mary—Oh, Mother, look what a pretty doll Santa brought me.
Jimmy—And look at my tinker toys and gun.
(Children play with their toys just as if nothing had happened at all.)

VOCATIONAL BOYS MAKE CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

The boys in the Vocational Agricultural department of the Central high school are very busy just at this time making Christmas presents and other useful conveniences and equipments for the home. Some of the many shop projects that they have completed and are still working on are cut-offs for water pipes, hall-trees, flower stands, center tables, sewing cabinets, sleds, rabbit traps, tie racks.

THE FACULTY.

Students, if you are not clean, we can Whiteley wash you;
 If you are irregular, or slow, we can time you with our Dial.
 If we cannot properly Reed you, we can cook you with our fiery Cook; or Bring you to the eligible state, by cultivation through our farmer, great.
 Then, if you are not reconciledly Meek, we can crow over you with I. Crowe, or our Edith Cockerill, with fiery beak.
 If you can't be carried on a Platter, we can fish you out with our Fisher, just a little later.
 If you reach the desert of despair, or tangle in the treamsels,
 You may be carried out on the backs of our Campbells.
 If you cannot be shapely formed by all the above bluffs, we will send you to the shop, and weld you by our Smith.
 But, finally, if the school fabric does not fit,
 We will take you to our Taylor.
 And, if all this will not suffice, we will Nail you to the Cross.
 —R. C. Campbell.

MYSTERY OF THE SEA.

Through the clouded skies, I saw waning
 The man that hung overhead;
 'Tis a mystery, yes, to all who see,
 As the mystery of the dead.
 But the moon can be solved like a problem,
 While the dead can never be;
 But the only thing I worry about
 Is the mystery of the sea.
 The sea is as wide and as deep as the air
 And can never be done without;
 For the sea is used for holding ships
 As well as for fish, such as trout.
 The sea can never be seen all at once
 While the moon can be seen by me,
 But the things that it does as all well know
 Are called the mystery of the sea.

"THE MEASURE OF A LIFE IS ITS SERVICE"

I take for my subject the oft repeated words of Carr Pritchett: "The measure of life is its service."
 Is higher education worth the time and cost?
 The most important knowledge to be acquired by mankind is to know how to live and what to live for. Fortunately is he who finds this talisman, and still more fortunate is he who by his efforts demonstrates its truth, changing theory into practice, and finding within this mortal sphere the satisfied realization of the dream of life.
 A higher education is worth the time and the effort for the sake of the person who acquires it. Character is more precious than wealth. People may interpret life in terms of dollars and become rich. They can interpret life in terms of intellect and get truth. Again we may interpret life in terms of heart and get joy and exaltation. On the other hand, one can interpret life in terms of conscience and get righteousness and duty. Again we may interpret life in terms of the aesthetic faculties and get beauty and appreciation.
 Each of these results is better than wealth. Treasures in oneself are better than treasures outside oneself. For treasures in oneself are lost only by losing oneself, while treasures outside oneself may be torn away.
 It is well to discipline the character and enrich the soul by knowing, and feeling the noblest that man has thought, experienced, and expressed. It is well to know what have been the problems of man in the successive stages of his development; what methods he has found useful in solving them; and what results have followed the solution.
 To lift a person out of his own individuality into the sphere of reason; to cause him not only to recognize that he is born under laws, but also to give aid in appreciating the beneficence of laws, and to make obedience to these laws easy and cooperate with them natural, to put one in possession of the accumulated treasures of the race; to help one to know what he is, where he is, what he should do, whence he came, whither he is going, and what he may become; to train one to set just values on all possession; to estimate movements, conditions, forces at their real value—these are some of the purposes which the right kind of higher education tries to help the student to gain.
 To think truthfully! to choose in righteousness and wisdom; to appreciate beauty; to feel nobly; to increase the number and worth of one's relationships; to give self-knowledge, self-control, self-development, and self-enrichment; to foster social efficiency; to promote reverence for all goodness and for God; to give graciousness without weakness, and strength without severity; to extend the boundaries of human knowledge; to make the thinker, the scholar, the great liver and the great doer—these are intimation of the large human relations which education, of the right sort, seeks to foster.
 Education seeks to make character vigorous without making it harsh or boisterous, patient without indifference, conscientious without being hypocritical, efficient without ostentation, symmetrical and impressive, noble and self-reliant, but sympathetic with the less fortunate; rich in self, but without selfishness.
 The problem of education, as I see it, is not to teach us how to make the bow of Ulysses: that bow is made without difficulty; but it is to create men of strength who can bend the bow. The problem is not altogether to teach how to acquire

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The High School faculty will appreciate cooperation from the churches and civic clubs of the city in not interfering with the regular meetings of the clubs of the school.
 Please remember that the Forensic club meets every Tuesday evening and the Spanish club meets every Wednesday evening.
 An outside reading chart has been made for the tenth and eleventh grade English room. Most of the students are doing more than the required assignments. Some have read seven books this semester.

The Spotlight staff wishes to use this means of thanking Olin E. Hinkle, editor of the Pampa Daily News, for the interest he is taking in our school and in our school page. Mr. Hinkle has not spared himself nor his efforts in making the paper a success. He has even given $12 in cash prizes in putting over a Lamar contest.

The Sophomores are sorry to lose their reporter, Mary Louise Hill, who has moved to Sweetwater. Vivian Vears, who has taken her place wishes the support of the Sophomores.

SANTA'S VISIT.

Santa Claus comes at night,
 When our eyes are shut tight,
 So we do not know
 When he comes over the snow.

He leaves things for Mother and Dad,
 And he makes them very glad.
 But Santa forgets little Tad
 And makes him very mad.

He comes to Jack and May,
 And leaves them a sleigh,
 Then he comes to Billy and Otto,
 There he leaves a game of lotto.

He leaves a doll and a gun,
 To fill us with fun,
 For little dog, Sandy,
 He leaves some candy.
 —Otto Rice (Fourth Grade)

JIMMIE'S PUNISHMENT.

Old Santa Claus came down the Chimney;
 The first thing he saw was little Jimmie,
 And Jimmie thought he would take a peep
 Instead of being fast asleep.

Old Santa Claus grabbed his pack,
 And up the chimney he went back;
 And Jimmie now is very sad
 Because he was so very bad.
 —Twila Thomas (Fourth Grade)

wealth, though this is very important, but the real problem is to teach us how best to use riches after we have acquired them, how to avoid being crushed by their soft pleasures, or torn to pieces by their distractions.

Education of the right sort seeks to make individual of resource, of power, of initiative, of honesty and honor, in whom the vision of truth is united with the power of doing one's duty; in whom tenderness of heart for suffering is justly joined with capacity for moral indignation. It seeks to train leaders, intellectual, ethical, religious, and civil. It also seeks to lift the whole level of the race to broader and clearer vision; to finer thinking and nobler appreciation.

The results upon personal character are the richest gifts of a higher education. These results are secured in manifold ways. Linguistic studies train in discrimination and interpretation; scientific studies, the power of observation; mathematical and philosophical studies, the power of abstract reasoning; historical studies, the quality of comprehensiveness; economic studies the power of analysis and synthesis; and all literary studies, the power of appreciation.

The cultured person is, by contact with great minds, past and present, set free from pettiness, prejudice, and passion; is sustained and comforted by the vision of eternal truth; is admitted to the fellowship of the ages, poets and teachers of the world, and is gifted with insight into the things really worth while.

New Champions Crowned at S

Indian Women of Oklahoma Are Active Workers in Clubs

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 16—Indian women have had a share in the westward spread of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, an organization that came out of the east.

Many states have on their club membership rolls a few women with Indian blood, a few have clubs made up wholly of Indians, but Oklahoma has the largest number of these colorful women.

Mrs. Czarina C. Conlan of Oklahoma City, a Chickasaw-Choctaw, was the organizer and first president of the Indian Territory Federation of Women's Clubs. When statehood came, the organization was amalgamated with the Oklahoma federation, but the interest and activity of the Indian women continued and increased. Particularly are they active in movements looking toward bettering conditions among their own people.

Mrs. Conlan is chairman of Indian welfare in the Oklahoma federation and this committee, in co-operation with the health and maternity bureau, is responsible for the health and hygiene instruction by a trained nurse now given to girls in all Indian schools of the state.

Artistic and educational Indian programs have been presented throughout the state and the club women have encouraged bead and basket weaving so that these primitive arts may not be lost. Indian hospitals and sanitariums are supplied with books and magazines and a motion picture machine was installed in the Indian sanitarium at Shawnee.

Mrs. Conlan's most notable work is that of supervisor of the Indian department in the museum of the state historical society, a position which she has filled for eight years.

"It is quite true my Indian blood has given me entree into homes that others could not have," says Mrs. Conlan, and they have had faith in what I am trying to do, namely the building of a true and worthy collection reflecting the early Indian life of the state.

"One of the greatest thrills I ever had was when the state board of agriculture and the state department planted 100 trees a few years ago each in honor of a citizen who had rendered outstanding service in the development and uplift of the state. I had the honor to be one of the five women thus honored and the only Indian woman."

Mrs. Conlan was educated in a private school for Indian girls and at the Mary Baldwin Seminary at Satauton, Virginia. Fond of travel, she has been abroad twice and has traveled extensively in this country, Canada and Mexico.

Hides Tablet in Lindy's Honor

The house in Detroit where Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was born was honored last summer when a "Hides" tablet was placed there. Now the place is a rooming house and the landlady, annoyed, she says, by curious visitors, has placed the "Rooms to Rent" sign over it, as indicated above.

(By the Associated Press.) CHICAGO, Dec. 16—Farms and feed lots of the midwest rode to new triumphs at the 1927 International Livestock Exposition. Royalty that rides in box cars, crowned at the show, came mostly from the central section of the country.

Don Degas, owned by G. A. Dix of Delaware, Ohio, was crowned grand champion Percheron stallion. The grand champion barrow, over all breeds, was a Chester White owned by Albert Stewart of Newhall, Iowa, and Iowa was high winner of total awards.

The North Dakota Agricultural College took away the honors for grand champion Shropshire wether, over all breeds.

One of the major honors went to the far west. California Stamp, shown by the University of California, was acclaimed grand champion steer.

SAYS FARM CONDITIONS BEST FOR MANY YEARS

FORT WORTH, Dec. 16—Better farming conditions this year than in the past 21 years are seen by G. W. Orms, district agent with the extension Service of Texas A. & M. college.

"I have never seen a time since I have been connected with this kind of work that the farmers have been in better condition, taking every thing into consideration, than they now are," Mr. Orms said.

"There is plenty of feed and money is plentiful. Of course cotton prices are only fair, but we have had good weather and most of the Fall plowing is done."

Mr. Orms said that the only danger he could foresee was that the farmers would increase their cotton acreage next year. He expressed the opinion that cotton acreage should not be increased.

OIL PROGRESS — Competition in the oil industry is marked in production, but when it comes to marketing it appears that real rivalry exists in few places. Despite the oil slump, retail figures have remained practically stationary, and the consumer has benefited little.

Yet there are many signs of achievement in the oil industry which commend it as a well organized and efficient activity. We refer particularly to progress in standardization of methods, cooperation in handling big field operations, and accomplishment of better working conditions.

"The men of the oil industry are being schooled in cooperation," points out E. W. Clark, president of the American Petroleum Institute. "I do not believe it is too much to hope that a time will come when an industry like ours, confronting the peculiar difficulties which we now face, will be able to lay its troubles frankly and fully, and without fear of unwarranted regulation, before appropriate governmental agencies, and secure measures calculated alike to help us and to promote the true public interest."

The sincerity of the last clause rests upon the presumption that the future is meant, because oil corporations wish above all things to keep out of politics. The government thus far has concerned itself with prevention of violations of the anti-trust laws and preventing waste. Beyond these phases are the newer ones of overproduction and market manipulation. These are some indications that the industry itself will handle the production problem, although it is here that the chief competition has existed.

The public is concerned with conservation of the natural supplies of oil, with the prices to the consumer, and with the general stability of the industry. That overproduction is not the only cause of the present depression, and that something drastic should be done about it is a widespread conviction, yet one so intangible that there are few indications that legislatures will give much time to the matter.

From the standpoint of oil resources for the future, it is interesting to note the prospective supplies that are being estimated. When a scarcity makes the price great enough, old fields will be developed, some deepened to untapped pays, and better methods will recover much of the store of 26,000,000 barrels of crude oil estimated to be in old sands.

Thousands of wells will be drilled in the Panhandle area before production becomes unprofitable, and it is likely that there will be drilling activity 50 years from now.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The jolly old sport of robbing the Indians was long ago abandoned, according to popular impression, either because the Indians had nothing left to be stolen from them or because none were left to be plundered.

The seventieth Congress, however, will be told that the Indians are still being robbed, not only of property, but sometimes even of their lives through the neglect of those who are supposed to take care of them. It will be told that they have also been robbed of their liberty and the right to enter productive industry and the pursuit of happiness.

Although America has almost unanimously forgotten its original inhabitants and has left them to the mercies of the bureaucracy of the Indian Bureau, they have a few good friends down here who are willing to fight for them. Every so often, someone not too busy making money or votes discovers what he considers the real plight of the Indians and flies into a permanent rage at the injustice of it.

Congressman Clyde Kelly of Pittsburgh was one who had that experience when he became a member of the House Indians Affairs Committee back in 1920. He has been working for the Indians so hard ever since, despite the fact that there isn't one in his district, that when an Indian thinks of the Great White Father in 1927 he is apt to think of Kelly or Congressman

James A. Frear of Wisconsin.

Kelly and Frear are fighting in the House for abolition of the Indian Bureau, while at the other end of the Capitol Senator Burton K. Wheeler is expected to demand an investigation of the Bureau. Kelly and Frear, incidentally, are Republicans. There were other congressmen who fought the Indian Bureau under the last Democratic administration but who now support it.

"I found 200,000 Indians under a little central bureaucracy which dealt with them in arbitrary and autocratic fashion," Kelly says. "Indian property to the amount of $1,600,000,000, withheld from its owners, was handled by this bureaucracy—often wastefully and sometimes dishonestly."

"The Indians would be better off today if the bureau had been wiped out 25 years ago. They would now be members of the community, facing the world as free men. Instead, they now have no constitutional rights whatever, and are dealt with as children. In 1924 we passed the Indian citizenship act, but it meant nothing because they have none of the rights of citizens. They don't have the right of jury trial and can be thrown into jail for months without even having their accusers appear before them. They have no constitutional rights of free assembly. They are judged and sentenced by Indian Bureau employes.

"The Indian Bureau gets away with its high-handed activities because of the general lack of interest in the Indians. It will take some public pressure to abolish it."

"We are now trying to lop off some of its activities and Congressman Frear and I hope to obtain legislation which will take the health and education out of its bureaucratic hands."

Kelly credits Secretary of the Interior Work with a desire to remedy the situation. He and

CHURCHES

CHURCH OF CHRIST
 Preaching is at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m., on the first and third Sundays of each month.
 Bible study is held each Sunday at 10 a. m., and there is communion at every morning service.
 You are invited to attend these services at the church six blocks east of the high school.
CHARLES BANKHEAD, pastor.

MACEDONIAN BAPTIST CHURCH (Negro)
 There will be a special program and blackboard demonstration at the Macedonian (negro) Baptist church Sunday at 3 p. m., on "How We May Know We are Born of God," conducted by Bro. A. J. Williams, district president of the Sunday School and E. Y. P. U. convention of West Texas.
 There will be a paper on Sunday school work by Miss Alma Mitchell and a paper on B. Y. P. U. work by Miss Mamie Tullis. The choir will take care of the song services.
 We are inviting our white friends and special-seats will be arranged for them.
C. W. WILLIAMS, Pastor, SISTER LAVATA TULLIS, Secretary.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH
 "A Man Who Didn't Care," will be the subject Sunday evening at 7:30. The cause underlying the man to be discussed are still active in the lives of men today. Hear this discussion and learn what these causes are. The hour of service has been changed from 7 to 7:30 o'clock to meet the convenience of many. Bring a friend and come early and have part in the song service.
 The morning service at 11 o'clock, Bible School at 10 o'clock, with classes for all members of the family, and three young people's meetings at 8 p. m. A meeting of the official board of the church for the election of officers for the new year will be held at 6 o'clock also.
 A hearty welcome awaits all who attend the service of this congregation. Strangers and visitors are urged to make this church your place of worship.
JAMES TODD, Jr. pastor.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
 Our attendance last Sunday was a little above that of the Sunday before, and we are glad to see so many men interested in the church work. The sermon by the pastor last Sunday on "Close Communion Made Plain," was very helpful to all who heard it.
 We invite you to worship with us if you are not in services elsewhere, for it is not our purpose to build our church at the expense of others.
 The pastor will speak Sunday December 18: Morning, "The Winning Church;" Sunday evening, "The Ark a Type of Christ."
 The Sunday school begins at 9:45; and the training service at 6:15. You are invited to attend all or part of these services. Baptismal services will be held at the close of the evening sermon.
D. H. TRUHITE, Pastor.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
 Sunday school, with B. E. Finley as superintendent, will begin at 9:45. If possible, let all the teachers and pupils be present Sunday. The Christmas tree committee will make a report. Our new song books have come and we want to have good singing for the Sunday school.
 The morning worship and sermon begin at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be "A Man Who Made His Life Count." There will be special music by Prof. Otto Schick.

"CHANG," COMING TO REX, UNUSUAL PICTURE

"Chang" is in town. If you miss it you have only yourself to blame. This department recommends it with hearty praise! "Chang" is the Wildest of the Wind and Mightiest of the Mighty!

Paramount can well cut another notch in its belt. Producers Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack win places in the film hall of fame. It is not very often that a picture of the magnitude, entertainment value or true epic bigness of "Chang" come along. Because of this, it towers head and shoulders above practically everything which has come to local screens during the past year.

"Chang" tells no ordinary tale. There is nothing at all stereotyped about "Chang." It is just one thrill after another, a whole series of them; one gasp after another, a whole parade of them.

If you should ask that "Chang" be described in one short, terse phrase, we'd call it a mighty melodrama of the wild.

A leopard leaps over a high wall into the hero's home; a tiger hurls itself right into the eye of the camera; four hundred ponderous, stampeding elephants attack a native village, leaving nothing but desolation and death in their wake—that only starts to tell what "Chang" holds in store for moviegoers. It holds one punch after another and your attention is never allowed to wander.

When "Chang" was given a preview in New York, critics acclaimed and called it a road show picture. "Chang" will be shown at the Rex Sunday and Monday at popular prices. Don't pass it by!

Social Calendar

The Child Study Club will hold its session Friday afternoon with Mrs. A. H. Doucette, with Mrs. C. M. Bryson as leader.

The young people's class of the Methodist church will have a winter roast Friday night. All will meet at the church at 5:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. McKay is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Attorney Burke Mathes was in Amarillo on business today.

Christmas goods are being especially displayed at the various stores in Alameda, and old Santa is preparing his presents for Christmas.

Miss Blanche Palmer is ill this week.

Mrs. Chester Carr, Mrs. Mark Long, and Mrs. Ernest Eslick.

The young people's meeting of the Christian Endeavor will be at 6:30 o'clock. A good program has been prepared and all our young people are cordially invited to attend.

The evening preaching services will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Ralph Dunbar has taken the leadership of our best choirs in Pampa. Mr. Dunbar will lead the choir and congregation in a gospel service before the evening sermon. Mr. Dunbar and Mrs. Doucette will sing. The subject of the evening message will be "Jesus Christ in His World and the Living Influence of Christmas."
 We extend a cordial invitation to the people of Pampa to attend any or all of these services.
W. L. EVANS, Pastor.

Dinner Dance Is Given by Club Thursday Evening

The members of the Ace High Bridge club entertained their husbands and guests at a delightful dinner dance in the Coffee Shop of the Adams hotel Thursday evening. The hours from 5 to 8 o'clock were spent by the members in a regular club meeting on the mezzanine floor of the Adams hotel with Mrs. James Ensign as hostess. Holiday decorations were effectively carried out in the table accessories, and favors. Mrs. Raymond Hartell held high score, while Mrs. Carl Taylor received consolation.

Following the bridge games, Christmas gifts were exchanged from a previous drawing of names. The opening of these gifts afforded much pleasure and excitement among the guests and added a realization of the nearness of Christmas Day.

The bright glow of candles and the gaiety of holly welcomed the guests who arrived for the lovely dinner served at 3:30 o'clock. The table was unusually beautiful with the center of attraction a miniature Christmas tree from which brightly colored ribbons were placed to the edge of the table, each streamer holding a favor for the guest. Red candles in silver holders shed a lovely glow over the holiday table on which a delicious Christmas dinner was served.

The hours following the dinner were spent in dancing to music furnished by the radio in the hotel. Those present were Mrs. Leo Porter Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hartell of Shamrock, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. James Ensign, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chafin, Mr. and Mrs. Don Davis, and Mr. L. Each officer gave a written report of her year's work which proved very interesting. Dues and pledges were collected, also the individual assessments for the student secretary fund were made to Mrs. Fred Cary who is chairman of that fund.

The following officers were elected for the year, 1928: President, Mrs. W. Purviance; vice-president, Mrs. Fred Cary; recording secretary, Mrs. Joe Shelton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Carol Kingsbery; conference treasurer, Mrs. Edwin Vickers; local treasurer, Mrs. Fannie Hardin; voice agent, Mrs. Irvin Cole; superintendent of Bible study, Mrs. Charles Nicholson; Supt. of mission study, Mrs. T. K. Underwood; Superintendent children's work, Mrs. Cravey; Superintendent of supplies, Mrs. Z. H. Munday; Superintendent of local work Mrs. J. E. Ward.

At the close of other business transacted, the members, of which there were seventeen present, were served tea and wafers by the hostess.

Wayside Club Is Organized Tuesday For Coming Year

The Wayside Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tom Clayton.

An election of officers was held and the following were elected; President, Mrs. L. R. Taylor; vice-president, Mrs. Tom Clayton; secretary, Mrs. E. W. Hogan; treasurer, Mrs. Hugh Isbell; Corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. T. Hudgel, press reporter, Mrs. Billie Taylor; parliamentary and critic, Mrs. H. B. Taylor. Mrs. E. W. McJunkin was received as a new member.

Plans for the work of the coming year were discussed. All members are urged to be present at the next meeting, which will be held the first Tuesday in January at the home of Mrs. Hugh Isbell.

The visitors present were Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. Ernest Crane, and Mrs. Noah Kite.

The hostess served delicious refreshments to the following guests: Mrs. J. E. Corson, Mrs. Ernest Crane, Mrs. E. W. Hogan, Mrs. F. J. Hudgel, Mrs. Hugh Isbell, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. Noah Kite, Mrs. E. W. McJunkin, and Mrs. Billie Taylor.

It seems the question of drafting ball players is again to be the source of considerable argument between the majors and minors.

As I talked with perhaps 100 minor league club owners at Dallas, Texas, during the recent convention, the thing that struck me most prominently was the inability of the minor leaguers to agree on just what they wanted.

Some strongly favored major league ownership of minor league clubs. Others just as strongly opposed it. Some favored the draft, others were just as desirous of severing relations with the majors.

Relative to having working agreements with major league clubs, a certain clique was delighted to work hand in hand with the big leaguers in taking players on option, while other owners frowned upon the proposition and insisted on outright ownership of every player on their club.

With such condition existing, it is very easy to see why it is difficult to work out a satisfactory agreement between the majors and minors.

In discussing the project with President E. S. Barnard of the American League on the way north from Dallas, he was convinced that the majors were doing everything in their power to be fair with the minors.

For several hours President Barnard went over the disputed points between the two factions and, in practically every one of the debatable points, it seemed to me as if the majors had given ground in order to have the minors perfectly satisfied they were getting an even break.

With the scarcity of star ball players on the market for the past ten years, or since the war, it behooves the majors and minors to get together in order to make the proper development and advancement of the available material.

Under the conditions now existing in a number of leagues the chances of the player to reach his goal, the majors, is greatly handicapped by the conditions that now prevail.

Instead of a friendly feeling that should exist towards the majors, there seemed to prevail a belligerent attitude against the big fellows in many quarters.

To me one of the most interesting characters at the Dallas meeting was Jakey Atz, manager of the Fort Worth team of the Texas League. Any time I tired of listening to arguments—I have had my share during 22 years as an umpire—I hunted up Atz, and he never failed to give me a laugh.

During the meeting he slipped me one of the funniest race track stories I have ever heard. Residing in New Orleans during the winter, Atz spends much of his time at the track trying to pick the winners.

Speaking of a certain horse and a bet he had made on him recently, Atz remarked:

"After putting down the bet it occurred to me I hadn't taken the precaution to inquire as to the condition of the track. I learned it was raining and the track was heavy."

"Did that condition suit you?" I inquired.

"I should say it did," replied Jakey, "for that baby was a real mudder. Why, if that horse was hungry and you placed a pail of mud and a pail of oats in front of him he just naturally would eat the mud."

Abilene College Opens Sub-Division About New Campus

ABILENE, Dec. 16—"Abilene Heights" a recently opened residence sub-division here is a unique suburban development.

Before the exact location of the district had been announced more than 200 people had bought and paid for one or more lots in the section. The lots were bought sight unseen and none of the purchasers knew where lots would be located. Attention to that detail was left until after the formal opening of the property.

This 140-acre tract, which contains 500 residence lots, adjoins the 80-acre campus to which Abilene Christian college will be moved soon. All proceeds from the sale of this property will go to the college to be used either for erecting new buildings or to start an endowment fund for the institution.

Abilene Christian college has outgrown the five acre campus on which it was started 21 years ago and several months ago trustees of the school acquired a 680 tract east of the city limits. An 80-acre block in the center of the tract has been reserved for the college campus and within two years the school will be operating there.

Construction work on a $150,000 administration building will be started soon at the new location. The buildings being used at the present campus will be torn down and moved gradually so that no part of the school's work will be disturbed in moving.

Decade Brings Women Honors in Swimming; Many Life Guards

Girls can be as expert as men at life-saving, Red Cross officials say. Two members of a Red Cross life-saving crew are shown at the top. Below are two young swimmers learning to break a "stranglehold."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—The short space of a decade has brought the modern woman to the front in aquatics as well as in other fields of activity.

Arrayed for a frolic in the waves, a pre-war bathing beauty was encumbered by more clothes than a 1927 debutante tucked out for reception at the Crawfish court for re-naturalization. She did not attract serious attention on the part of those engaged in organizing the Red Cross life saving service.

Times and women have changed, however. In 1920 members of the so-called weaker sex began to qualify as swimmers and life-savers and were admitted to the Red Cross corps.

In the eight years following their debut 27,816 women and more than 35,000 girls passed the rigid test of the organizations and became full-fledged life-savers and life-saving examiners. Championships have followed, including many previously held by men, so that swimming is becoming known more and more, Red Cross officials say, as a woman's sport.

Captain Harold Bryant of the life saving staff at national headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington, declares that "girls and women make better divers than men because they are more graceful."

"Men and boys require long practice and training to become graceful divers," he says.

H. F. Enlows, director of the life saving service at Washington, adds that women make better swimmers than men.

Commodore W. E. Longfellow, who organized the corps, finds that "women are more interested in improving themselves physically than men," and uses this to explain their eager activities.

Age is no bar to women swimmers. Last year Mrs. Helen Merker, 60, of San Francisco qualified as a senior life-saver, then organized a class to train girls in effecting rescues. Her incentive was seeing a child drown while a helpless crowd of bathers stood by.

Many women are serving as instructors and guards at beaches and pools. Last year two of the four Red Cross prizes for the most heroic rescues effected during the swimming season were won by women.

Monte Will Meet Granite Monday in Athletics Club Bout

The two favorites of the Pampa ring will be seen Monday night at the Pampa Athletic club in the main event. Wildcat Monte, who is making Pampa his home, will meet Kid Granite, now living at Roxana.

Tommy O'Brien was to have boxed Beck Beckwith here but O'Brien underwent an operation in Dodge City, Kansas yesterday and will be unable to appear here until after the new year.

Monte and Granite put up the kind of fight the fans of Pampa enjoy and this bout is sure to be a Christmas treat for boxing fans of the city. Granite is training under Walter Varner, a veteran of the ring, and is expected to give the title holder a real battle.

Young McLarnin of Amarillo one of the toughest boys in the ring will box Speedy Snow of Pampa in the eight-round semi-final. Both these boys are fast and hard hitters and will put up a fast bout.

Battling Mills, the Fort Worth wildcat, will meet Jimmie Hudson of Amarillo in the special event while Bill Barnett will meet his old rival Young Sherrod after the midgets have put on their exhibition.

Mythical Bird

TOPEKA, Kas.—The jayhawk's picture does not appear in ornithological books, but the bird has become a conspicuous one in Kansas. It is seen not in flight nor perched on tree boughs, but on billboards, in newspaper advertisements and on the covers of booklets.

The term "Jayhawker" has been applied to Kansas since the territory was a battleground of proslavery men and free-soilers in early days. The name was incorporated in the "Rock chalk, Jayhawk, K. U." year of the University of Kansas, and cartoonists were inspired to draw a crow to represent the University football team. The crow was chosen, some authorities say, because its "Kaw, Kaw!" reminds Kansans that the state derived its name from the Kaw Indians.

But the first crow which was the university symbol has experienced an evolution at the hands of artists and now it has become a full-fledged jayhawk—a mythical bird with a big bill resembling a football. It has made its way, too, into advertisements of Kansas products. The original word "jayhawk" was evolved, some believe, from a combination of blue jay sparrow hawks, two real birds which have their habitat in Kansas.

THE STORY THUS FAR

When Jeff Harrison, gambler, is killed in a poker game in Caldwell, Kas., his 13-year-old son, Tony, is taken to the Bar K. ranch in the Indian territory by Joe Craig, who appoints himself the boy's guardian.

There Tony is welcomed by Titus Moore, owner of the Bar K brand, and his little daughter, Rita. Another who has befriended Tony is Gordon W. Little, who later becomes known as Pawnee Bill, when he teaches school at the Indian reservation in Pawnee.

In the months that follow, reports come to the Bar K of the activities of the now notorious Benton gang, Tom Benton being the murderer of Jeff Harrison. Craig and Tony depart for Pawnee to visit Pawnee Bill. There they learn that he is going to take a bunch of Indians with him and join Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show.

Rita Moore and her mother depart for Virginia to spend the summer, and Tony, now 15, learns for the first time what it is to miss someone. That year, 1883, the Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association is formed. It sets up a lobby in Washington to fight the attempts being made to open the territory to settlement.

Dr. W. F. Carver

CHAPTER XXII

Joe Craig met him near the corral, his face wearing an anxious expression.

"I was thinkin' of organizing a scouting expedition to bring you in," he mildly scolded. "Boy, you oughtn't to make me worry like that; I didn't know but what you had stumbled onto some drunken Cherokee bucks in search of a stray scalp. Where've you been?"

Tony essayed a bashful grin. "I was resting under some trees and must have fallen to dreaming. I felt sort of in; maybe a touch of the sun."

He had managed to keep within the broad bounds of truth in his explanation. That those dreams he spoke of had been wide-awake ones, he did not care to mention. In most of them his imagination had pictured Rita in distress, and he had ridden boldly to her rescue just in time to snatch her from the clutches of a bearded villain and strike him to earth with a fierce blow. In others there had been a delicious agony; he had pictured himself dead—struck down in her defense by overwhelming odds—and Rita mourning beside his bier.

He was glad that Craig did not question him further. Instead he looked at him keenly and advised him to keep out of the sun. "I've been telling you that you were tired and needed a change. If you don't take my advice and ride over to the 101 for a few days I'll go direct to the colonel and tell him that you're plain insubordinate."

"I've got some good news for you," he added. "The colonel's decided to race his mare at the Caldwell fair next month and"—he shot a keen look at Tony—"he's gonna let you ride her."

The boy uttered an exclamation of joy. "No, really, Joe?"

"I mean it. There's a Kansas farmer up around near Caldwell who owns a black stallion and brass about him considerably. It's sort of got under Titus' hide the way the man's claiming the finest piece of horseflesh in the country. You know the colonel; he don't think the horse is living that can show a pair of heels to Fancy in anything under a mile. A cowboy dropped off at the ranch today with the news that there's to be a free-for-all race at the fair and that Jones—that's the farmer, I'm talking about—is looking around for anybody that's foolish enough to bet against his stallion."

He paused. "Think you can bring her in, Tony? If you don't you'll break Titus Moore's heart."

"By golly, Joe, I'll sure try."

"The colonel would ride her himself," Craig pursued, "but he carries too much weight. You'll weigh around a hundred and thirty-five yourself, which is more than enough for an animal her size."

The colonel himself hove in sight from the house. "Tony," he roared, "where is the devil have you been? Did Craig tell you—"

"I sure did, Colonel. He's rarin' to go."

Titus Moore strode up to them, full of business. "I've got a light saddle on Fancy now, Tony. Come along with me and climb onto her; I want to see what she will do for you."

With numerous gestures of his one arm he pointed out to Tony the course he should ride Fancy over on her trial run. "Near as Craig and I could figure it out, it's three-quarters of a mile, and that's what the race is to be."

He talked earnestly to Fancy as Tony climbed into the saddle. "Old girl, there's a strange rider gettin' on your back, but don't fret; just let out and carry him, Tony," he said in a sharp voice, "there's just one thing I want you to remember; whenever you want more speed out of Fancy, ask her for it. She doesn't know the feel of whip or spur."

"I'll be sure to remember it, Colonel." The boy patted Fancy's beautiful neck with a loving hand as Titus Moore led the mare over to the starting line of their rudely-charted oval course.

The owner of Fancy had one more word of advice. "I'll let you ride this first one in your own way. Use your head now, and let me see what I can expect, Ready?"

"Ready," Tony answered.

Titus Moore's upraised hand fell. "Go!" The boy leaned forward over the mare's withers, his knees urging her forward. Fancy, as if she knew what was expected of her, shot forward like an arrow released from the bow. She stretched out her beautiful nose, nostrils quivering, and ran in a way to delight Titus Moore's heart.

Joe Craig stood just beside him, the colonel's thick hunting-case watch in his hand; and Titus Moore would look first at the speeding mare and then glance at the watch, thence to the mare again and once more to the watch.

Between times he noticed that Tony Harrison was riding easily and masterfully. At the last quarter mark the boy bent forward over the mare's neck and spoke in her ear, and Fancy responded with a snort that brought her over the finish line and evoked a solid grunt of satisfaction from Titus Moore as he looked up from a final glance at the watch.

"Tony, you did mighty well. Isn't the little lady a wonder?" and he laid his cheek against Fancy's muzzle and began to whisper to her little phrases of endearment.

There would be one such workout for Fancy every evening until a week before the race, Colonel Moore announced. "Then we'll let her rest up, with just enough exercise to keep her on edge. Tony, I'm going to raise those stirrups a little. Well, Craig, what do you think of her?"

"Every cent I've got will be on her when she runs," replied Joe Craig. "She's showed me enough speed today to win any man's horse race."

"But they say this Jones stallion is a wonder—a big fellow, too; must weigh twelve or thirteen hundred pounds."

Craig shook his head dolefully.

Buffalo Bill in Early Show Days.

"Don't give a damn. It's a short race, and Fancy's got plenty of heart to turn him back."

Titus Moore appeared to be pleased. "You hear that, Tony?" he demanded triumphantly. "Craig, don't let the boy eat too much between now and the race. I don't want any extra pounds in that saddle." He laughed. "Bread and water for you, Tony."

The forthcoming race became the one topic of conversation about the ranch. The Bar K men were back of Fancy as a unit; if the mare should lose there would be empty pockets beneath every pair of chaps on the range. They formed an excited group every evening to watch Tony ride the mare over the three-quarter-mile course, and they pressed eagerly about Joe Craig as he announced the time.

"By golly, Joe, she was three seconds slower tonight."

Or, "Why, you idjit, couldn't you see Tony was holdin' her back? The boys not lettin' her out."

Ten days of this and Titus Moore called a temporary halt. Fancy should be permitted to rest up thoroughly for the race and Tony must take things easy himself; at Craig's suggestion the colonel virtually commanded him to ride over to the 101 ranch.

The next day the mail was brought from Caldwell. There was a letter for Tony from Pawnee Bill, a lengthy epistle in which he described, in minute detail, his adventures since joining Buffalo Bill's show.

His second glimpse of Will Cody had been terribly disappointing as contrasted with his first boyhood impression back in Bloomington, Illinois. "I collected about twenty-five Indians in Pawnee and drove them back to Wellington in the wagon train. From there we proceeded, after several mixups, to Council Bluffs, Iowa, and there I met Buffalo Bill. You must remember that I had been carrying around in my mind for a dozen years or more, the picture of Buffalo Bill as I had first seen him, a fine looking man, well groomed, the famous Dr. Carver, then billed as the "champion all-around shot of the world."

"We opened in Omaha," Pawnee Bill wrote, "and the performance made an instantaneous hit. We did an enormous business and received an ovation everywhere we went. Every Iowa we struck entertained us with banquets, receptions, lunches, etc. Some of this entertainment was provided by city or county officials, but most of it was furnished by the saloons. I had an awful time keeping the Indians sober enough to ride in the show, and nearly everyone around the show was drunk the greater part of the time. I'm not doing any drinking myself, but I'm one of the few exceptions. Colonel Cody was drunk every day for our first five weeks out."

"Once or twice we almost got arrested for disturbing the peace as we moved between towns in our train. We have a song—

I saw the train come round the bend,
Good-by, my lover, good-by,
All loaded down with wild west men,
Good-by my lover good-by.

"The custom is, after getting pretty well loaded up, to sing this at the top of our voice, with the band playing an accompaniment.

The sheriffs of one or two small towns objected to so much noise at 3 o'clock a. m., and it did put a stop to our getting off on the depot platforms and slings.

"Colonel Cody is a wonderful showman and a splendid character, despite the fact that he drinks more than is good for him. This leads him sometimes to take foolish and unnecessary risks. The show business came near losing him in Indianapolis."

(To Be Continued)

The next chapter tells what happened to Colonel Cody when he rode a wild buffalo bull.

Arrested on Wedding Night

Pat Somerset, famous English actor, matinee idol and figure in numerous divorce suits, was arrested with his bride a few hours, Shelby Worrall, Texas beauty contest winner, at a bungalow in Hollywood, Calif., where police said the party was a little too wild. Somerset has been married twice before.

Panhandle Schools Progressing Rapidly

CANYON, Dec. 16.—The schools of the Panhandle-Plains region are making greater strides toward efficiency and a high standard of work than those in any section of Texas, if entrance into the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern states may be interpreted as a correct indication.

At the recent annual meeting of the Southern association, which is one of the strictest accrediting agencies in the United States, Olton, Slaton, and Pampa were admitted to membership. The superintendents of these schools are H. P. Webb, C. L. Sone, and R. C. Campbell, and under their leadership each has made rapid progress.

Panhandle-Plains schools, which are shown by the State Department of education to have been member-schools before the last meeting are Amarillo, Lubbock, Memphis, Canyon, Panhandle, Plainview, Tulla, and Ralls. There are only 118 such schools in the State of Texas. Ten per cent of them are Panhandle-Plains schools.

Olton is probably the smallest school in Texas which is a member of the association. It is a rural consolidated school having about 160 pupils in the high school. All children outside of Olton are brought to the school in trucks. This school is known throughout the State as one of the strongest of its kind. The practical subjects are taught as well as purely academic subjects.

150 TEXAS SCHOOLS GRANTED AFFILIATION

AUSTIN.—One hundred and fifty Texas high schools were admitted to membership in the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges in its recent annual meeting held in Jacksonville, Fla., R. M. Blackman, chief Texas state supervisor of high schools announced.

The association's next convention, he said, will be held in Fort Worth in December, 1928.

"The meeting," Blackman added, "comes to Texas in recognition of the fact that more than 16 per cent of the organization's high school members and 18 per cent of its college members are found in Texas and because the total membership in

Highway Commission Commended in Letter

FORT WORTH, Dec. 16.—A letter commending Cone Johnson of Tyler, member of the Texas highway commission, for his stand on highway measures in which he advocates legislative action and constitutional amendments urging changes in the policies of the state body, was forwarded by W. T. Wheeler, general manager of the Highway club of Texas.

"The statement shows conclusively that Mr. Johnson has given the subject of highways considerable thought which proves a far sighted vision," Mr. Wheeler said. The policies advocated by him is in accord with the legislative program of the Highway Club of Texas which was adopted in October 1926 and in March 1927.

Mr. Wheeler also pointed to the address of President Coolidge before Congress in which he also advocates similar policies to those sponsored by the Texas club.

"The only resolution adopted by the Highway club of Texas at its annual meeting in Fort Worth on November 29 was along these lines," Mr. Wheeler said.

Pampa citizens are urged to pay their poll taxes in order that they may be eligible to vote on important civic issues from time to time. The poll tax may be paid at the Sheriff's office at any time.
