Buffalo Wallow Battle Site Being Marked Today

Dedication of the monument erected to the heroes of the Buffalo Wallow fight of September 12, 1874, is taking place today at the site of the battle. At this place Billie Dixon, Amos Chapman, and four others withstood the repeated attacks of a band of 125 Indians for 48 hours before aid arrived. Billie Dixon crept for the shelter where the men were camped and got aid in time to avert a massacre.

INSTRUMENT TO BE PUBLISHED

Special Provisions Are Improvement Over General Law

An election on the proposed city charter was ordered for November 8 by the city council last night following the presentation of the instrument by the charter commission, which completed its work earlier in the evening.

Calling of an election was mandatory upon the city council, which merely acts as an executive body in appointing the commission and calling the vote.

The new charter, embodying tried and proven methods and provisions of several other cities, will be printed in booklet form and placed in the hands of every citizen.

T. D. Hobart, chairman of the charter commission appointed a few weeks ago by the city council, submitted the official report, and said that each provision had been adopted by a quorum of the commission. The councilmen thanked the commission, ordered the election, and the body was automatically disbanded. Procedure throughout was as provided by the state laws regulating the adoption of charters.

The report submitted along with the charter is as follows: To the Honorable City Council of the City of Pampa:

The Charter Commission of fifteen heretofore elected to prepare a special Charter for the City of Pampa, beg leave to respectfully herewith submit a draft of the charter as finally constructed and adopted by said Charter Commission, and in such connection beg to report as follows: First, in the process of making this Charter, we have had before us a large number of charters of cities, and have endeavored in this instrument to combine what we conceive to be the best features of the various charters we have had under consideration, as well as some original ideas not found in other charters, and in the opinion of this body we herewith present a charter which will serve the best interests of this city, if adopted.

Second, we beg to call your attention to the following features of this charter, which distinguishes it from the general law under which the city is now operated. (a) Change from form of government by mayor and six aldermen to that of three commissioners, elected by the people; (b) All other officers appointed by the Commission, and subject to disapproval by the city council. (See CHARTER—Page 8, Col. 1)

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Markham has his friend Vance, a wealthy idler and art connoisseur, accompany him to the scene of Alvin Benson's murder. Benson has been shot through the head while reading in a chair.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

Heath, who had remained standing on the threshold, seemed a little impatient.

"There's only one other room on this floor," he said, leading the way down the hall. "It's a bed-room—for guests, so the housekeeper explained."

Markham and I looked in through the door, but Vance remained lounging against the balustrade at the head of the stairs. He was manifestly uninterested in Alvin Benson's domestic arrangements; and when Markham and I went up to the third floor, he sauntered down into the main hall way. When at length we descended from our tour of inspection, he was casually looking over the titles in Benson's bookcase.

We had just reached the foot of the stairs when the front door opened and two men with a stretcher entered. The ambulance from the department of welfare had arrived to take the corpse to the morgue, and the brutal, business-like way in which Benson's body was covered up, lifted onto the stretcher, carried out and shoved into the wagon, made me shudder. Vance, on the other hand; after the merest fleeting glance at the two men, paid no attention to them. He had found a volume with a beautiful Humphrey-Milford binding and was absorbed in its Roger Payne tool work and powdering.

"I think an indicated interview with Mrs. Platz is indicated now," said Markham; and Heath went to the foot of the stairs and gave a loud brisk order.

Presently a gray-haired, middle-aged woman entered the living-room accompanied by a large plain-clothes man smoking a large cigar. Mrs. Platz was of the simple, old-fashioned, motherly type, with a calm benevolent countenance. She impressed me as a highly capable woman and as one little given to hysteria, an impression strengthened by her attitude of passive resignation. She seemed, however, to possess that tactful shrewdness that is often among the ignorant.

"Sit down, Mrs. Platz," Markham greeted her kindly. "I'm the district attorney, and there are some questions I want to ask you."

She took a straight chair by the door and waited, gazing nervously from one to the other of us. Markham's gentle, persuasive voice, though, appeared to encourage her; and her answers became more and more fluent.

The main facts that transpired from a quarter-of-an-hour's examiation may be summed up as follows: Mrs. Platz had been Benson's housekeeper for four years and was the only servant employed. She lived in the house, and her room was on the third, or top, floor in the rear.

On the afternoon of the preceding day Benson had returned from his office at an unusually early hour—around 4 o'clock—announcing to Mrs. Platz that he would not be home for dinner that evening. He had remained in the living-room, with the hall door closed, until half past six, and had then gone upstairs to dress. He had left the house about 7 o'clock, but had not said where he was going. He had remarked casually that he would return in fairly good season, but had told Mrs. Platz she need not wait up for him—which was her custom whenever he intended bringing guests home. This was the last she had seen of him alive. She had not heard him when he returned that night.

"Sit down, Mrs. Platz," Markham greeted her kindly, "I'm the district attorney and there are some questions I want to ask you."

She had retired about half past ten, and, because of the heat, had left the door ajar. She had been awakened some time later by a loud detonation. It had startled her, and she had turned on the light by her bed, noting that it was just half past twelve o'clock by the small alarm clock she used for rising. It was, in fact, the early hour which had assured her. Benson, whenever he went out for the evening, rarely returned home before two; and this fact, coupled with the stillness of the house, had made her conclude the noise which had aroused her had been merely the backfiring of an automobile in Forty-ninth street. Consequently she had dismissed the matter from her mind, and gone back to sleep.

At 7 o'clock the next morning she came downstairs as usual to begin her day's duties, and, on her way to the front door to bring in the milk and cream, had discovered Benson's body. All the shades in the living-room were down.

At first she thought Benson had fallen asleep in his chair, but when she saw the bullet hole and noticed that the electric lights had been switched off, she knew he was dead. She had gone at once to the telephone in the hall, and, asking the operator for the police station, had reported the murder. She had then remembered Benson's brother, Major Anthony Benson, and had telephoned him also. He had arrived at the house almost simultaneously with the detectives from the West Forty-seventh Street station. He had questioned her a little, talked with the plain-clothes men, and gone away before the men from headquarters arrived.

"And now, Mrs. Platz," said Markham, glancing at the notes he had been making, "one or two more questions, and we won't trouble you further. Have you noticed anything lately in Mr. Benson's actions that might lead you to suspect that he was worried—or, let us say, in fear of anything happening to him?"

readily. "It looked like he was in special good-humor for the last week or so."

"I notice that most of the windows on this floor are barred. Was he particularly afraid of burglars, or of people breaking in?"

"Well—not exactly," was the hesitant reply. "But he did use to say as how the police were no good—begging your pardon, sir—and how a man in this city had to look out for himself if he didn't want to get held up."

speaking frankly. Then she replied in a low voice:

"In that hidden drawer there in the center-table. You—you use that little brass button to open it with."

Heath jumped up, and pressed the button she had indicated. A tiny, shallow drawer shot out; and in it lay a Smith and Wesson .38 revolver with an inlaid pearl handle. He picked it up, broke the carriage, and looked at the head of the cylinder.

FIVE RING CIRCUS POSITIVELY COMING

Yep, youngsters, it's really true! Meaning that a rumor heard some time ago is now confirmed by the official announcement that the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined shows will positively exhibit at Amarillo Thursday, Sept. 22.

At that time the world's first and only five-ring circus will be within easy reach of local sawdust fans. With it will come the only genuine white elephant ever brought to America. He is "Pawah" the world-famed sacred white pachyderm from Burma, who will be the foremost feature of a menagerie composed of more than a thousand animals.

The big show is now a third larger than it was when it last visited this locality. Enormous new displays have been introduced such as ninety zebras, camels and horses performing at one time on a mammoth pedestal. On a similar series of circular raised platforms thirty-two of the show's forty-three elephants dance, run and perform in unison with the topmost of the ponderous actors twenty feet above the ground. Prior to this gigantic display five herds of elephants appear in the five separate rings. At another time the rings are given over to five companies of liberty horses. At still another juncture of the program two hundred of the show's 900 horses each ridden by an expert, are seen in brilliant maneuvers.

Of the sixteen hundred people carried on tour this season more than eight hundred are the world's foremost aerialists, bareback riders, ground and lofty gymnasts, high-wire artists and super athletes. These are now seen in extensive groups and troupes, each displayed by its particular champions, a new method of presentation that is in keeping with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey 1927 plan of extending the acts in equal number over the entire length of the mammoth main tent. Little folks will be delighted to learn that the bringing of a score of European clowns to America has increased the funmakers to more than a hundred.

Hollywood's Venus

ALICE ADAIR

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., Sept. 19. (AP)—Fashions in goddesses, as well as garments, change with the years.

Alice Adair, the Paul's Valley, Okla., brunette who was chosen from among all of the extra girls in Hollywood to be Venus, the goddess of love and beauty, in a satiric screen version of the life of Helen of Troy, is five feet, five inches tall, weighs 114 pounds and has the boyish figure so much admired in screen heroines.

Although Alice's academic training included no course in Homer or any instruction in Greek and Roman mythology, she did study dancing in Dallas, Texas. She danced on the stage here for a year before appearing in dance sequences of several motion pictures.

Twin Buckles

A jaunty little black satin turban has twin platinum buckles at each side of the front panel to give it double chic.

Amusements

In giving to the world a new modern version of "Camille," Norma Talmadge realizes one of her most cherished ambitions and gives a characterization which her admirers claim surpasses her work in such outstanding successes as "Smilin' Through," "The Lad," and "Kiki."

"I waited for several years to bring a new interpretation of the younger Dumas' most celebrated heroine to the screen," declared the star, "and when Joseph M. Schneck, my producer, thought the time was ripe, we assembled the finest talent available and spent several months filming the picture."

Mr. Schneck, known throughout the motion picture world as a canny producer and one never given to extravagant statements, is unusually enthusiastic over "Camille" in modern form.

Fred Niblo, a director with few peers, whose list of successes includes "Ben Hur," "Blood and Sand," which the late Rudolph Valentino ranked as his greatest picture; "The Three Musketeers," and "The Mark of Zorro," two of Douglas Fairbanks' triumphs; "The Temptress" and others believes that "Camille" will go down in screen annals as Miss Talmadge's and his most popular film achievement.

Modern "Camille" reflects all the gay, sparkling atmosphere of present-day Paris. The gowns worn by the star are the last word in the mode.

"Camille" marks the bow of Norma's new leading man, Gilbert Roland, a dashing young Spaniard who within the space of a few months has climbed from obscure actor to international screen hero.

Other noted players in the First National picture are—Lillian Tashman, Rose Dione, Alec Francis, Helen Jerome Eddy, Harvey Clark, Albert Conti, Evelyn Selbie, Eitta Lee and Michael Viseroff.

Even the "bits" in modern "Ca-

Typewriter Alarms Chinese Soldiers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Chinese soldiers, thinking an American typewriter to be an instrument of war, threatened to bombard a boarding school conducted by American missionaries. Mrs. Anna Salquist, reports in a letter to Minnesota Baptist headquarters.

Mrs. Salquist was in the midst of fighting at Yachoyin, West China. The school was between the invading army and a town under bombardment. Chinese soldiers reached the institution and started searching it.

"I finally persuaded them that we were peaceful missionaries," Mrs. Salquist wrote, "and they left after I proved to them that my typewriter was not some deadly gun."

BILLY EVANS Says

Every reform has its good and bad features.

Some years ago the powers-that-be in baseball decided on a drastic change in the sharing of the world series receipts. It was agreed that the first four clubs would cut in on the melon.

Prior to that shift, only the two pennant winning clubs, the real contenders, had any interest in how large the crowds might be. And, if the race was a lopsided affair such as the American league campaign has been this year, there was little of no incentive for the other clubs to keep going at top speed.

It was hoped that the rule permitting the first division clubs to get a share, in keeping with their position, would make for continued effort on the part of all clubs having a chance to finish inside the money.

Since finishing second ordinarily means about $1,000 to each player and fourth place means about $300, it is easy to understand why the athletes would battle for the money positions to the very end.

No Trials Given Rookies
 In this respect, the rule has worked out fine. It has kept the teams with a chance on their toes while the clubs outside of the money seem to get a keen delight in knocking the others off.

However, in another way, the rule has worked to the detriment of the best interests of the game. It has, in a sense, retarded the chances and development of the rookies. Since baseball is sadly in need of new material of merit, that angle is unfortunate.

In the old days, when only the pennant winning clubs had any interest in the gate receipts, the moment a club was mathematically out of the race for the flag, it began to experiment with most of the talent the scouts had picked up during the sum-

Chick Too Much For Turk, Taking Two Rapid Falls

Bobbie Chick, from Borger, and his favorite headlocks were too much for the terrible Turk last night at the Pampa Athletic club wrestling bout. Chick is now "Champion of Turkey."

The preliminary between Elmer Rigdon of Pampa and Bull Young went the scheduled 20 minutes to a draw, with the Pampa boy having it all over the Borger special.

Rigdon, wrestling with a broken rib, the result of a fight from Battling Walker's fist last Monday night, showed a world of speed and endurance. Young was all in at the end of the bout from repeated head locks. The Pampa wrestler is one of the best in his class and is ready to step at any time.

Hanson Hussan entered the ring first and Chick as usual followed some time later. The first fifteen minutes were all for Turkey. He used a series of toe holds and head locks. Chick seemed dazzled by the speed of the Turk, and let him get a split for the first fall in 20-1/2 minutes.

The second and third falls were Chick's with ease. He came out for the second ready to rough it and seemed too much for the Turk. After two arm bars, things got rough and the man from Turkey seemed to wilt and went down after 9 minutes under a headlock and body scissors. For the last fall Chick got rough as only he can do and decided to win in a hurry, but had a tougher customer than he figured on. He used five headlocks in succession before he could get the Turk to the mat for the count. The last fall went 10 minutes.

The fans were for the Turk all the way for his clean wrestling.

Leo Chase, Roxana mat artist, was the third man in the ring, and was acclaimed a real referee when it came to watching things on the mat.

Texas University Student Killed

(By The Associated Press.)
 LAREDO, Sept. 19.—Leo Howard of Houston, student of the University of Texas, was killed when his car went into a ditch near here last night.

It was not at all unusual for clubs to present an entirely new line-up during the month of September. The veteran stars, whose ability was well-known to the manager, would be permitted to sit on the bench, while the unknown, promising rookies were getting a chance to perform.

This system had two distinct advantages. First, it gave the clubs a chance to get a pretty good line on the minor league material purchased, and second, it provided the fans with new faces, thereby keeping up interest.

Clubs Must Build to Stop Yanks
 Now it is different. Even if a club is definitely out of the race for first place but has a chance to finish in the first division, the rookies are just out of luck.

Rather than throw in a bunch of youngsters, who might jeopardize the chances of the club finishing in the money, the manager of the clubs having such a chance, stick to their veteran line-up, while the recruits who have reported sit around for a month more or less, as spectators.

Of course, the new players are looked over in morning practice, but after all there is no way one can get a better line on a player's real value than seeing him perform in actual competition.

The Washington club is one of the few in recent years that is experimenting with some of the youngsters on hand. Regardless of what effect it may have on where the club finishes, Manager Bucky Harris is throwing some of his promising young infielders into the line-up.

Drastic action is needed in the American league on this score. If the reign of the New York Yankees is to be halted, a number of the clubs must start rebuilding at once.

Gotham Fetes Lazzeri, Italian Star

Young "Poosh-em-up-Tony" Lazzeri had his day in New York recently when Gotham Italians paid homage to the young Italian star with the New York Yankees. Here is Humbert Fugazy, fight promoter, congratulating the Yankee star on his brilliant play with the Gotham club.

Millions of Words Will Be Sent Over Telegraph Lines Describing Tunney-Dempsey Fight At Chicago

When Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey clash for the heavyweight championship title of the world at Chicago on September 22, in the neighborhood of two million words descriptive of the encounter will be transmitted by telegraph and cable throughout the United States and to foreign countries. The Pampa Daily News will receive the blow-by-blow account by telegraph from the ringside.

All of this huge total will be transmitted within the space of approximately two hours, and assuming the fight goes the scheduled 10 rounds, the greater portion will be handled within a period of approximately 40 minutes, while the fight actually is in progress.

This vast volume of material will go to newspapers throughout the world and will be presented through the medium of the bulletin board and printed newspaper page to millions of fight fans who cannot be present in person. It will consist of the regular leased wire services of the great press associations, of stories by staff writers assigned by individual newspapers to cover the event, and of the "syndicated" articles of special feature writers, some of whom will serve a hundred or more papers.

The Western Union Telegraph company will have more than a hundred special wires manned by picked operators, available at the ringside and adjacent stands. The company also has installed one of the specially constructed switchboards used only for extraordinary occasions, such as World Series baseball games, championship fights, and sensational murder trials such as the Hall-Mills case or the Gray-Snyder trial. With facilities made available by these arrangements, it is stated, the company could handle 5,000,000 words on the Chicago set-to if necessary.

When the gong sounds at Soldiers' Field on the night of September 22, both Tunney and Dempsey may be expected to be busy. But there is another man vitally interested in the fight who also will be reasonably busy. He is the General Wire Dispatcher of the Western Union. To him is assigned the job of allotting nearly 2,000,000 miles of telegraph wires under emergency conditions. As the brain is the center of the human nervous system, sending out volitions and impulses, prompting movements here and arresting action there, so the General Dispatcher is the nerve-center of an elaborate network of copper strands reaching their akin-like lengths between New York, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, New Orleans, and other great metropolitan areas, and connecting with every city, town, and village in the country.

Not only must he keep his hundreds of special circuits intact for carrying news of the great championship fight to the news papers and thus to millions of fight fans, but he must also see that the usual cuts are maintained for carrying with no delay the normal lead of telegrams which flow at the rate of nearly a million a day regardless of world championships. In case of storm, a railway wreck, breaking pole line, or other emergency, he must at an instant's notice re-arrange his routings in such a manner that the steady flow of news and messages is continued without interruption.

The largest total volume of words of press handled over the Western Union in connection with a single

Farley Says Champ Feeling Fine And Disregarding News Stories He Reads from Dempsey and Flynn

By CAL FARLEY
 (Special to The News.)
 LAKE VILLA, Ill., Sept. 19.—Gene Tunney took his last real workout today behind closed doors, allowing only sports writers and few friends in camp as he went through six rounds of boxing with two sparring partners and punched the bag for another three rounds.

The champion seemed to be able to work up a sweat even though most everyone present wore an overcoat and still were chattering their teeth most of the time.

The champ seemed to be feeling pretty good today, smiling to his friends as he went through his workout and posing for pictures with his former stable mate, Benny Leonard and the former heavyweight battler, Tom Sharkey.

Bob Fitzsimmons' widow was at the ringside and seemed to take a great deal of interest in Tunney's work. Tom Mix, the boy that rides them coming and going, was also giving the champ the once-over.

Gene declared himself ready for the gong, and while he is bubbling over with confidence, there doesn't seem to be any sign of overconfidence. There has ruined many an athlete. This is one thing sure, if Jack Dempsey continues to hand out the stories he did yesterday there is going to be a real fight when the two come together. After reading Jack's outburst, it is impossible to figure out what he really is.

He is accusing Gene of doing things to him before the Sesqui fight. I don't know what Tunney did before the fight but I do know that he did plenty to him on the night of the fight, and, according to Gene, he is going to do it over again this time with a little interest on the principal. It doesn't really seem like Dempsey to be writing anything like that, as he has always been a regular follow regardless of what his enemies have said about him.

Judging from all the dope around Tunney's camp, Leo Flynn is the boy who is putting out all the poison pen stuff, trying to get Gene hostile so he will tear into Dempsey like Sharkey did, which would mean sure defeat for the champion, but Tunney is too level headed to try anything like that, regardless of what Dempsey or Flynn says. They will have to beat Tunney in the ring, and not through the papers, because he refused to be bothered about who gave Dempsey the dope last year.

SPORT TALK

The dope in the National league was upset yesterday when the Pirates took a bad beating at the hands of Brooklyn, 3 to 0. It was a case of too much Dazzy Vance and not enough Hill. Even the Waner brothers could only collect one hit apiece.

The Cardinals also kept pace with the Giants when Frankhouse won his fourth straight victory to win from the Phillies, 13 to 6. The Cubs won another also when Artie Nehf, pitching his first game for the Cubs, held Boston to six scattered hits.

Five errors in the same number of innings saw Washington down the Indians in a five inning battle. The game was called on account of rain.

There is to be a big fight in Chicago, Ill., Thursday night and believe me the man who is prophesying, as to who will take that diamond studded belt is like a newcomer to Texas who says it is going to rain when he sees a dark cloud on the horizon. So far, the battle of words is about even, but Gene should have the advantage as he reads and should have the knack of slinging ink, while Jack goes in for prize fighting. Should be able to tell you Friday who won the big fight, or better, come out to the Sport Party in front of the office.

GETTING AHEAD — A few years ago a French youth attended all the tennis matches possible and played at every opportunity.

After every decisive stroke in an important match he would turn to a certain page and make a hurried note. Some sports writers poked fun at this book worm tennis player.

Several years passed and the notebook was almost forgotten as the scholarly one became one of the French regulars. Today the book worm is in a position to hold the book up as something worthwhile.

The Frenchman offers some sound advice to anyone who would excel. He is a keen observer, noting his obstacles in every phase; measuring strength, testing for disguised weaknesses.

The road to superiority is sometimes long to a man of Lacoste's not too robust powers, but sure even in such a specialized activity.

The Corn Must Have Gone Crazy With the Heat early fatigue make up the difference.

The high school student who looks beyond the daily recitation in civics to a time when he will actually be participating in bond elections, taking part in civic movements and serving on the school board perhaps is laying a foundation which will mark him as a leader in his community.

STRAIGHT OF IT—If out of the American Legion convention there comes a better relationship between the people of France and those of the United States, the Paris journey will have been exceedingly worthwhile.

It will never be known how much Lindbergh, as a personal representative of an American ideal, prepared the way for the second A. E. F.; certainly he had a wholesome influence on the impressionable French people.

And now the Legionnaires have gone back where buddies fell in the bloody days of the war. French spokesmen are recalling the events of the war and reinterpreting America's entry into the conflict.

Poincare recited the series of insults and defiance which Germany evidenced and which brought America into the war.

The premier recognizes specific causes for the American attitude, and does not blame this country for not entering the struggle sooner. At the same time, however, he did not omit the ideals of America in that "you derived your inspiration not only from your sense of patriotism, but from your feeling of honor and your devotion to mankind."

The premier said that he did not wish to keep war hatreds alive, but was determined to keep history straight when detailing German actions that sent American soldiers to France.

Much of the misunderstandings of the war period have grown out of misconceptions, which American expatriates and some similar living in this country have participated in forming. Nearly every history written immediately after the war was prejudiced and inaccurate, but the right perspective is gradually being reached.

TWINKLES

A contributor says "the wise guy who used to boast of being a 'cradle snatcher' has probably found by now that he married a 'check snatcher'."

That sounds remarkably like the utterance of a poor manager matrimonially speaking, despite the fact that it came from a bachelor.

Lindbergh has been molded in wax, but even then we bet it cannot be said that he "waxed eloquent."

Environment is the cause of much evil, which makes it follow that a lot of people have too many friends of a type. Friendship that lifts is rarer than most people suspect.

ceeds the general election vote, in 13 others it appears to be the determining factor in the election and in six or eight of the other 14 primary states the issue is seldom in doubt after the primaries.

Mr. Michelet shows that the primary vote has increased from 3,456,159 in 1920 to 19,829,215 in 1926, when the general election vote for the 40 states was 17,167,314. This was a gain of 60 per cent. The gain from 1920 to 1924 was 50 per cent, while there were only 10 per cent more votes in the general election in the entire 48 states.

In this study, Mr. Michelet has dealt only with state-wide primaries for nomination of state official, and U. S. senators and congressmen. Just such primaries, of course, as produced the lamentable Vare and Smith scandals in Pennsylvania and Illinois and led such staunch friends of the people as Secretary Mellon, Senator Dave Keed and Vice President Dawes to suggest that primaries were very bad things for the public's morals.

As soon as the important facts in the Michelet analysis begin to sink in on politicians and others who are interested in such things, argument will begin as to what they mean and the pro-primary folks will use the figures to prove one thing and the anti-primary folks to prove another.

With admirable restraint, Mr. Michelet himself has kept propaganda out of his analyses, but as he is the founder and guiding spirit of the National Get-Out-the-Vote Club it seems likely that he deplores the thought that many people are voting in the primaries and abstaining from the general election.

The significance of the figures, however, seems to attach to the fact that the primary system has given the voters themselves a chance to pick their candidates and has made it much more difficult for the professional politicians and machine bosses to hand-pick them.

Doggone the styles which make a lap dog out of a human pug, say we.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — Mr. Simon Michelet, the indefatigable analyst of voting statistics, has found that the primary vote of the 40 states which have primaries is increasing about six times as fast as the general election vote.

From this, Mr. Michelet deduces that the primaries are coming more and more to take the place of the election. In 13 states the primary vote ex-

PRESS FORUM

"LET THE SKY RAIN POTATOES"

From the Atlanta Journal: Fallstaff's ardent wish, "Let the sky rain potatoes" (and he meant sweet potatoes, not Irish, as the scholars assure us), has virtually come true in Georgia.

The state bureau of markets, which is seeking, with the able cooperation of the women's clubs, to promote home consumption of this wonderful crop, should find the mission an easy one. Above a score of recipes for mouth-melting dishes made of the sugary yam have been culled by the bureau and its gracious counselors from a list which probably would run into hundreds.

In a land where such dishes are eaten there can be no peril of anarchy. In a home where such savors abound there will be no bandying of sharp or bitter words. In a man to whom such contentment is given there will remain not one dim nook for "treasons, stratagems and spoils." If it is health one desires, commend sweet potatoes rich, as the dietists tell us, in essential vitamins. If it is joy, a thousand times commend them. Yes, "Let the sky rain potatoes."

Markets

In the past the feeling has prevailed among range cattlemen that the promotion of feed lot operations was opposed to their best interests; the theory being that feed lot cattle would be placed in competition to the grass cattle, to the detriment of the range interests.

A program of livestock feeding in no way injures the range cattle business. In reality it helps, because it affords an assured outlet for stocker and feeder cattle, and as the practice of feeding becomes more general, no doubt the bulk of the range beef cattle will be sold to feeders, to be finished out, at prices as satisfactory as those now realized from turning this class of cattle to the packers. This too, has the added advantage of absorbing seasonal movements in a more regular way without the danger of glut through excessive supplies at certain seasons going beyond the point where the demand can make proper absorption.

There is a constantly increasing demand for better beef and the west is no exception. With the bulk of western range cattle going to middle western feeders and the Pacific coast

Eighty-Six Employees Needed To Handle Mail At Nuevo Laredo Post Office Across Rio Grande

(By The Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, Sept. 20.—It takes 86 employees to handle mail in the Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, postoffice, while 26 handle 60 times as much in the Laredo, Texas, office across the river in shorter time, Carl W. Besserer, postal inspector reports to his superiors of the Austin federal postal division headquarters here after three weeks inspection at Laredo.

He said the Texas postoffice is in first class shape and shows an increase of 500 per cent in business.

A redeeming feature of the Mexican postal service he said, is that it has several admirable systems of bookkeeping, requiring the continual services of a host of bookkeepers, one reason for the large force.

There is no civil service in Mexico. Prospective employees are recommended to the postal heads in Mexico City by the inhabitants of the various towns where positions are to be filled. No kind of intelligence examinations is required.

The Nuevo Laredo postoffice is a frame shack with some wood floor, but mostly dirt, Besserer reported. It covers an area of approximately 1,600 square feet, but has no protection against burglars. This usually is not needed, however, Besserer said, since the Mexicans seem to be leary of transgressing against the government.

Educational Facilities for Negroes Show Remarkable Growth In Last Few Years; Foundation Is Large Asset

(By The Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, Sept. 20.—Remarkable growth of negro educational facilities in Texas is brought to light in a complete published report for the first time by William Eilers, rural supervisor of the state department of education, for the Farm and Ranch magazine.

During the last seven years, 207 school buildings and shops for negro teachers, and 11 teachers homes have been built at a cost of $1,142,236, of which $221,242 was contributed from funds provided by Jules Roswald, Chicago philanthropist, the article says.

"The Roswald foundation," Eilers commented, "places a premium on local initiative, and has been the means of awakening interest in education progress of Texas negroes, among whites, as well as the negroes. The state department of education took advantage of provisions of the Roswald foundation in 1920 although it has been available since 1912. Eleven training schools erected with aid of the fund as 'feeders' for the Prairie View Normal college, negro state school, are located in the following counties: Cherokee, Ft. Bend, Guadalupe, Houston, Lee, Navarro, Hunt, Henderson, Harrison, Milam and Limestone.

One of the best high school buildings erected with aid of the Roswald fund is located at Woodland in Limestone county. It is an eight-room brick structure costing $25,000.

You want your check to be as good as your United States currency and you feel a resentment if someone questions it's being good. But there is a condition in Pampa which makes a check questioned in over half the cases.

charge for sufficient cause at any time;

(c) All elective officers subject to recall;

(d) Initiative and referendum feature on grants of franchises and on adoption or repeal of ordinances;

(e) Abolishment of fee system in corporation courts;

(f) A substantial broadening of the city's power and authority to own, buy, build and operate all its public utilities;

(g) City manager plan;

(h) Board of City Development plan;

(i) A limitation upon the amount that may be levied in the way of taxes for specific purposes;

(j) The above enumeration does not include very many of the special features and advantages of this special charter over the present system of government, and an examination of the instrument will show that the city's power and control over matters affecting the public health and peace have been largely extended by the terms of this special charter.

In view of the fact that this special charter fixes the date of election to determine whether or not it shall be approved by the voters for the second Tuesday in November, we respectfully suggest to the city council the necessity of having the same at once printed and sent out to all the qualified voters of the city, so that it will be in their hands the full 30 days required by law before election for its adoption. In this same connection we also respectfully suggest that this charter should be printed in the form of a booklet, so that it will be permanent in its nature, and more conveniently examined than if printed on newspaper sheets.

In conclusion, the Commission confidently recommends the adoption of this to the people of Pampa, believing that it embraces within its terms conservative and excellent provision for an economical and efficient city government, and that no voter of the city will ever regret that he has cast his vote in favor of it.

Women First To Offer Ocean Flight Prize

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Sept. 20.—It was Mrs. Victoria Woodhull Martin, the American woman who once ran for president, who offered the first prize for a flight across the Atlantic ocean. British feminists are pointing out. At that time she was regarded as eccentric.

For half a century Mrs. Martin lived in England. She joined the Ladies Patriotic Aerial League in 1913. Shortly afterwards she offered through the league 1,000 pounds and a trophy to the first aviator to fly the Atlantic.

The only condition was that the flight should be from any point in America to any point in Great Britain, or vice versa.

Mrs. Martin rejoiced in Col. Lindbergh's flight before she died at the age of 89.

Ft. Leavenworth Sees Famous "Third" Again

(By The Associated Press.)
FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kas.—The "founders" of Ft. Leavenworth have completed a month's visit to the army post after a lapse of 100 years.

In the spring of 1827 General Henry Leavenworth led the Third Infantry here from Camp Miller, Mo., and founded the post.

The Third infantry did not return until last month, when detachments from the famous regiment came from Fort Snelling, Minn., for duty as enlisted personnel at a citizens training camp.

The Third is one of the oldest regiments in the service, its history dating back to the original Pennsylvania infantry, organized by Congress in 1774. It earned the sobriquet "The Old Guard of the Army" with General Scott at Mexico City.

Texas Exes Furnished 4,830 Men to U. S. Army During War

AUSTIN, Sept. 20.—There were 4,830 men contributed by the University of Texas from her student body to the army of the United States during the Great War period, according to a thesis study recently made by John A. L. Scarborough, a University graduate.

The University furnished 2.55 per cent of the total army personnel from the state, Scarborough found by comparing the records which he obtained for both. He also found that this percentage represented a little more than 48 per cent of the school's eligible man power, while the state at large furnished only 18.9 per cent of her potential strength. Scarborough's monograph covered about 450 pages and was limited to a study of the army alone.

Austin Negro Is Happy, Though He Bears 106 Years

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, Sept. 20.—Isaac Nichols, negro, is 106 years old, and that is the main reason his name is in the paper.

He does nothing much now except draw a government pension and park his patriarchal bulk of 200 pounds on the front "gallery" of his home, and recall the days when mint julep was served like iced tea is now back in Kentucky where he was born.

Isaac has had his days, though. He was born in Clark county, July 14, 1822, it is shown by papers that come from relatives of his master, Jeff Nichols.

He has seen Robert E. Lee, Southern General in the Civil War, and Abraham Lincoln at Paducah, Kentucky. Leaving the old plantation in 1863, Isaac joined the Union army at Harrisburg, and was with the Northern heavy artillery at Gettysburg. After the war, Isaac came to Galveston with United States troops, then moved up the Rio Grande by boat to old Brownsville, where his outfit set out inland for the Indian frontier.

Isaac came from San Antonio about 13 years ago.

One cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup boiling water, 3 cups milk, 1 cup whipping cream, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 junket tablet, few grains salt.

Melt sugar in an iron frying pan, stirring constantly until the color of maple syrup. Add boiling water and cook until thick and syrupy. Let cool and add to milk which has been heated until lukewarm. Stir in junket tablet crushed and dissolved in 2 tablespoons cold water. Add vanilla and salt and let stand in a warm place until set. (The temperature of the average kitchen is "warm") Turn into freezer mold, pack in ice and salt and let stand 15 minutes. Scrape down sides of mold with wooden spatula and beat in cream whipped until stiff. Let stand two or three hours, scraping down sides of mold several times to insure even freezing.

This recipe is for a crankless freezer.

EARN $1000 A MONTH BY TEACHING BRIDGE

CHICAGO, Sept. 20. (AP)—A futile search for gold in Alaska brought Mrs. Virginia Tubbs and her husband to Chicago 12 years ago. Six years later, widowed and inexperienced in business, she turned to bridge as her only means of support.

Today Mrs. Tubbs earns more than $1,000 a month teaching Chicago's gold coast residents how to play bridge. She had learned the game during the long evenings in their isolated Alaskan home. Her mastery of cards now causes leading men bridge experts to commend her as "the only woman who knows anything about bridge."

The first few years she taught for 50 cents an hour and often had to take long, cross city street car rides in order to obtain pupils. Now her lowest price is 10 dollars a lesson and she never lacks luxurious transportation, either in her own car or in the automobiles of her "students."

Teaching bridge, she says, is much like educating a child. It requires infinite patience, and an ability to refrain from belittling the efforts of those who are learning.

Export Slump Alarms Chinese Tea Merchants

(By The Associated Press.)
SHANGHAI—In an effort to help revive the disrupted tea export trade of China, the Nanking government has virtually abolished the export tax on all classes of China teas. The action has been taken as a result of protests by Shanghai merchants that the tea exports have decreased alarmingly.

The Nanking officials, while allowing abolition of the taxes, point out that the qualities of China tea have not been maintained recently and that this undoubtedly is partly responsible for the falling off of the trade.

The government instructs the merchants to form an organization which will guarantee the quality of exported teas.

The marine school in Paris has begun to placard the country with the French equivalent of the American slogan, "Join the navy and see the world." The professors, in grading papers, may look from the school's windows upon the peaceful Seine, whose Parisian bosom supports nothing more important than tugs, barges and excursion boats.
