GIRL'S SLAYER NOW IN SEATTLE

McCaughey No. 1 J. Morse, Section 2, Finds Good Pay

WELL MAKING 1,000 BARRELS IN S. E. GRAY

Bit Drops But Foot Into Formation Early Today

PROVES LEASES IN 2 DIRECTIONS

Bowers Activities Will Be Opened After Holiday

With production only one foot in the pay the H. C. McCaughey et al's No. 1 J. Morse in section 2, block 26, H. and G. N. Survey, in the southeastern part of Gray county, is making more than 1,000 barrels a day from 2,510 feet.

Production was reached at 5 o'clock this morning when the bit dropped into pay. Lime was topped at 1,770 feet followed by about 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas between 2,305 and 2,320 feet. The elevation at this point is 2,580 feet.

This well is more than three miles north of the Travis-Back location, the discovery well in that territory, and is 5 miles from the Texas Oil company's No. 1 Chapman in section 51, block 26, which was drilled in last week for 750 barrels.

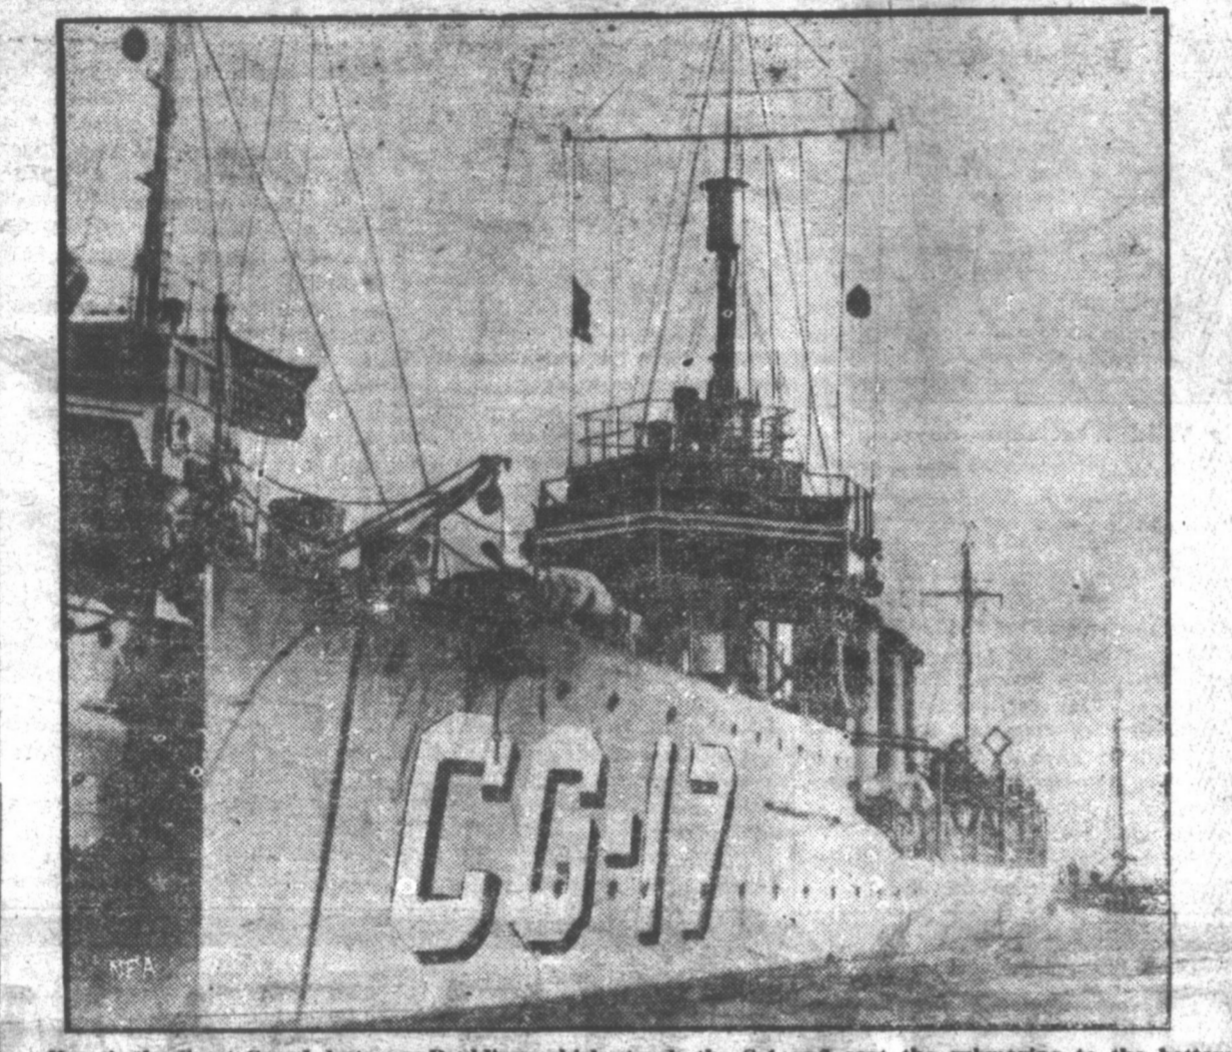

The bringing in of this well extends production in three directions in the southeast Gray county pool and proves up production in two directions. This well has been watched with interest, as it will mean considerable drilling activities in that field.

The Dancier and Phillips companies in the south Pampa pool will shut down for Christmas, but will resume work after the holiday and bring in the wells which have topped pay.

Chairman of Big Oil Company Resigns

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 22—Amos Beatty, chairman of the board of the Texas Corporation, one of the largest so-called independent oil companies in the United States has announced his resignation as chairman and member of the board of directors. Beatty has held the post of chairman for two years and prior to that had been president of the corporation. He declined to make any statement regarding his reasons for his resignation.

The Ship That Sunk The S-4

Here is the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding, which struck the S-4 and sent the submarine to the bottom. The Paulding, badly damaged by the collision, was barely able to reach shallow water close to shore, and is now resting on the bottom. In the background at the left can be seen the U. S. S. Tucker, standing by.

LIONS CLUB DRIVE SUCCESSFUL IN OBTAINING MANY PLAYTHINGS

Successful completion of the Lions club toy drive was announced today at the club's luncheon, when it was said that the basement of the Methodist church holds a large number of playthings for the children of Pampa.

The toys are being conditioned by a repair man employed by the club. Tomorrow evening Lion Tom Ebrahim will have charge of dividing the toys into packages for distribution. Another committee will help him Saturday evening, when Lions in costume will gather to go on their cheerful errands.

Committees have canvassed the city to get the names and addresses of worthy children, and other names have been obtained from school teachers and others. The Lions club wishes to express its great appreciation to the people who have contributed toys and services to make the drive a success.

Considerable funds will be needed to buy fruits and candies, and the Boy Scouts are selling theatre tickets to help raise this fund. They are keeping 40 per cent of the amount received from the ticket sale. Precaution to the people who have been active in carrying out the toy drive, and Lions Duncan, Clark, Brabham, and Curry believe that Santa Claus will be unusually thorough in his rounds this season. Persons having toys which they have not yet donated may take them directly to the Methodist church.

HUMAN OSTRICH DIES

(By Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22—Sidney Barnes, 51 years old, known as the human ostrich, died today after an operation in which a cigar box full of bolts, carpet tacks, razor blades, nails and washers were removed from his stomach. For 27 years he had swallowed various articles of hardware as a side attraction in circuses and carnivals.

Hope for Submarine Crew Is Abandoned; Weather Again Bad

(By the Associated Press.)

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 22.—Rear Admiral Frank Bramby, in charge of salvage operations at the sunken submarine S-4, admitted today that there was no longer hope that life existed on board the submarine.

The admiral said he was unable to announce when the rescue operations would be suspended, that it was up to the navy department in Washington.

The wind veered to the northwest today threatening heavy weather and it was believed that conditions would be unsuitable for salvage work for some time.

Two Inches More on Women's Dresses Would Use 500,000 Bales of Cotton

HOUSTON, Dec. 22—Two inches added to the length of women's dresses, coupled with a custom of wearing silk and cotton thread hose, would add at least 500,000 bales of cotton annually to consumption, according to Pale C. Rogers, Houston advertising man, wrote Ernest L. Tutt, manager of the Department of Commerce Houston office.

Mr. Tutt distributed letters asking for suggestions which might increase the uses for cotton and thus tend to maintain a reasonable price level for the staple.

E. S. Carr Became Fourth Mayor of Pampa in 1917

In 1917 E. S. Carr, now a prominent stock raiser, became the fourth mayor of Pampa. Mr. Carr moved to Pampa in 1915 and took a prominent part in the interests of the city.

Following his term as mayor Mr. Carr was unanimously elected town marshal in which office he faithfully served until his resignation a year later.

Mr. Carr was born in Wabasha, Minn., but at the age of nine moved with his parents to Texas, settling in Sherman. He later moved to Claude, where he owned a store. In 1915 he moved to Pampa, but purchased a ranch 18 miles south of Pampa where he raised stock.

During Mr. Carr's term as mayor the first automobile parking ordinance in Pampa was inaugurated. During 1917, automobiles became numerous in and around the town.

Rotary Club Gives Eight Boys Fine Gilt to Raise

Eight enthusiastic members of the Agricultural class of the Pampa high school received a gilt apiece yesterday afternoon, presented by a committee from the Rotary club. One more gilt will be presented when it is old enough to be weaned.

In order to create an interest in hog raising in this territory, the Rotary club took this means to get the boys on the farms interested. The pigs are presented with the understanding that one gilt from each of the first two litters is to be returned to the club, which will present them to other boys.

The gilts were purchased from Alie Byrum, who lives north of Kingsmill. They are big-boned Poland-China hogs of the famous Jayhawker strain, and are being registered in the names of the boys to whom presented. The pigs will be raised under the supervision of Professor J. L. Lester, teacher of agriculture at the high school.

The boys who received gilts were: Finley Barrett, Harley Kennedy, Albert Nichols, Chas. Thomas, M. D. Eagle, Robert May, Autrey Holmes and Howard Holmes. Bruce Cash will receive his gilt later.

Amusing Comedy Is Given by Players Club Wednesday

A large crowd attended the play, which began at 8 o'clock, and the receipts will be given to the annual

The plot of the play, well interpreted to the audience, portrayed the manner in which advice usually comes back to the one who is so kind as to give it. The cast, which included the most experienced members of the Players club, is to be complimented on the unusual ability shown in making the play an amusing entertainment of high moral standing.

The cast included Dr. Gerald Sumner, Bob Kahl; Bud Woodridge, Tommie Robinson; Preston DeWitt, Tom Clayton; Emile, Jack Stone; Hartley, Vernon Lawrence; Virginia Zelva, Lucilly Mooney; Grace Tyler, Angela Bailew; Marian Sumner, Theima Qualls; Gertrude Ludlow, Lula Hutchens; Mrs. Grayton Woodbridge, Lottie Schafer, and the guest at the party.

Between the acts, several specialties proved humorous and enjoyable to the audience. Miss Catherine Vincent and a group of small boys gave a selection in negro dialect and costume. Jack Stone sang "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and was accompanied by the whistling of Miss Lula Hutchins. This was given with an attractive tableau effect. Miss Lula Hutchins favored the audience with several songs, and was cheered a number of times to whistle.

The music for the entire evening was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Prof. Otto Schick.

Kolb Funeral to Be Held Friday

The funeral of E. C. Kolb, who died Tuesday of pneumonia, will be held tomorrow at 3 o'clock. It was announced today.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. James Todd, Jr., at the First Christian church. The Masonic order will have charge of burial.

Relatives of Mr. Kolb not already here will arrive this evening for the funeral.

and the ordinance was necessary, Mr. Carr says.

PASSES BILL THEN ELUDES 600 OFFICERS

YOUTH FADES INTO DARKNESS

Vigilance Slackens in Los Angeles Today

SEATTLE, Dec. 22.—A red hot trail of William Edward Hickman, suspected kidnaper and murderer of little Marian Parker of Los Angeles, picked up by police a few minutes after he presumably left a haberdashery here led through Seattle today with 600 officers only a few minutes behind him.

The search for the friend who mutilated the little girl switched from California to Seattle last night when the excited haberdasher showed police a $20 bill identified as one of those which Perry Parker, father of the girl, had given the kidnaper.

Seattle's police force of 600 was mobilized and set on the trail only a few minutes after the suspected youth made a purchase at the clothing store and slipped into the night.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—The Southern California officer who has been following what now appears to have been cold trails in his hunt for William Hickman, accused slayer of Marian Parker, settled back for a brief rest today while the Seattle police took up the battle of wits with the youth who has eluded one of the greatest man hunting machines ever set in motion on the Pacific coast.

Chief of Detectives Herman declared that he was confident that the man who had paid the Seattle clothing store with the 75 $20 gold certificates given the girl's slayer for her dismembered body was none other than the slayer himself.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—The belief that William Hickman, suspected abductor of Marian Parker in Los Angeles, had eluded the police set for him here and had headed for Canada was admitted by officers here today after a night of search for the youthful fugitive.

Hickman is believed to have held up and robbed F. R. Peck in Hollywood Sunday night, taking his green Hudson sedan, which was seen yesterday by two Portland youths who identified Hickman as the driver, speeding into Oregon.

Daily News Finds Lost Articles

The lost-and-found department of the Daily News is becoming one of the most dependable recovery agencies in West Texas. Both losers and finders are learning that the News is the best medium representing both parties.

Last night a local man lost the keys to his car; this morning he was informed by the Daily News that the lost was found. A Roxana woman recovered a bag and pearls worth $125 by the use of a cheap "lost" ad in the News. Scores of similar cases might be cited.

If you lose something, advertise in the News; if you find something, bring it to the News office that it may be returned to the owner.

THE STORY THUS FAR

The story is laid in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the '80's, when a fight was being waged by the "Boomers" for the opening of the territory to settlement.

Chief characters are:
Tony Harrison, orphaned at 13 when his father was murdered in a poker game;
Pawnee Bill, adventurer, Indian interpreter and showman;
Joe Craig, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live;
Titus Moore, owner of the Bar K;
Rita Moore, his little tomboy daughter.

When Tony is 15, Rita and her mother depart for Virginia and the boy learns for the first time how much he cares for the little, red-haired, arrogant miss.

Word is received that David Payne leader of the "Boomers," and chief agitator for the opening of Oklahoma, is dead. Pawnee Bill is one of Payne's sympathizers, and so is Tony, although his benefactor, Titus Moore, opposes the opening with all his might. When Pawnee Bill goes out the following year with a wild west show he takes Tony along.

CHAPTER XXVII

Enterprising showmen of the day were awakening to the possibilities of the American Indian as a drawing card; especially in the east, where the red man was a rarity and a curiosity.

The Healy and Bigelow company of New Haven and New York, decided to test the box office value of the Indian and augment their already rather elaborate medicine show with a wild west act. Pawnee Bill was commissioned to gather together a large company of Indians and fetch them to Philadelphia. When he arrived in the Pennsylvania metropolis Tony Harrison was with him.

Titus Moore at first had been doubtful about it, but a few words from Craig had converted him.

"All of a sudden he swung right in line with the idea," Tony informed Pawnee Bill. "I don't know what came over him to make him change his mind."

The other smiled. He could explain it very easily, he was thinking but he chose not to.

Tony's chief regret at leaving the Bar K arose with the necessity of parting with Cherokee, his horse. The son of Black Diamond and Fancy was a beautiful, spirited thing and the boy was his slave. Titus Moore himself had to promise to look after him.

"Don't you worry, Tony, I'm as proud of him as you are. The first son-of-a-gun that looks at his crossed I'll personally scalp."

Pawnee Bill's recommendation had obtained for Tony a job as cowboy in the wild west show. The boy was the best horseman in the outfit and he could handle a rope as well as most of them. As for Tony's sponsor, the long-haired Indian interpreter was quite the most picturesque figure, red or white, with the show. He and Tony roomed together and wherever they walked through the streets of Philadelphia people stopped to gaze after the broad-shouldered figure with the flowing mane and the wide hat.

"That's showmanship," he informed the youth, when questioned as to whether it was not embarrassing to be the object of so much curiosity. "I don't mind it and it increases my value to the show."

He had in mind, he said, going into the business for himself some day. "I'm studying costs and trying to profit by my experience. I won't be working for other people very long. If they can make money off me I ought to be able to make it for myself if I keep my eyes open."

That evening Pawnee Bill was not to be found when Tony looked for him after the performance. He waited, for it was their custom to go to a restaurant for something to eat and then walk together through downtown Philadelphia before going to bed.

A ticket seller saw him waiting and called to him. "You're just too late," he laughed. "I saw Pawnee Bill walkin' off with a pretty gal."

"You're sure? He didn't say anything to me about having a date."

"I saw him with my own eyes."

Tony laughed and walked off and promptly forgot about it. Later that night Pawnee Bill explained.

"I met a nice little girl, Tony, a little beauty. She came to the show with some friends and somehow we got to talking and I took her home. I guess I made a fool of myself."

"How's that?"

"Why, her mother and father came in the parlor and talked to me and I didn't know what to talk about. They're Quaker people. I think, and sort of sedate, and they kept looking at me as if I was a curiosity."

Tony laughed. "I thought you didn't mind that sort of thing."

"I don't, as a rule, but this was kind of different. Besides, I forgot myself and spit on the floor and the old man sort of raised his eyebrows at me. Of course," he hastened to add before Tony could speak. "I know it isn't right to spit on people's floors in a nice house like that, but I got fused and there wasn't any cuspidor around and so I let her go without thinking."

"That's sure too bad," Tony commiserated. "I'll just bet you haven't got the nerve to go back again now."

"Is that so?" the other retorted defiantly. "Well she's coming to the show again tomorrow night and I'm walking home with her again. What do you think of that?"

"I'm not saying a word. My advice to you is to sit near a window."

The girl's name, it developed, was Mary Emma Manning. "She's just 16, but pretty as a picture. Black hair and brown eyes and—"

"Sure, I know. Well, give me an invitation to the wedding." He grinned, and ducked quickly to avoid one of Pawnee Bill's boots. From the door he called back, "If she's got a good looking sister you might take me along with you. I'm getting right starved for romance myself," and gathered from Pawnee Bill's retort that he would find a welcome in a hotter climate.

His own thoughts later that night were not so facetious. He couldn't help thinking of Rita, wondering how she looked, what sort of men she was meeting. Of course, this was nothing more than a brief infatuation of Pawnee Bill's. A pretty girl, probably stage-struck. . . . A few weeks from now and both would have forgotten it.

Rita, though, was more than that. It was not easy to forget her down on the Bar K when every week brought one of her letters to her father. He thought of something Titus Moore had said when he had returned the previous winter from his visit in Virginia. "You'd hardly know her, Tony; she's not a little girl any more."

Very likely not, he told himself. Rita was 17 and he had not seen her for two years. His mind grasped eagerly at the thought of taking the train to Washington, only a few hours from Philadelphia, and calling on her at her school. But it was summer, he recollected, and the school would be closed; she would not be there.

The next day he got a letter from Joe Craig. Rita had arrived at the ranch to spend her vacation.

"Her mother's with her," Craig wrote, "and Rita seemed right put out when she learned you had left. She told me to send her regards. She's sure pretty, Tony, and she's fell in love with Cherokee."

The information made him very unhappy and restless. Not to be present when Rita got her first glimpse of Cherokee; not to be there to ask her to ride him and to ride beside her along some of the familiar trails.

They left Philadelphia not long afterward and toured through the east. Tony was surprised to learn that Pawnee Bill was exchanging letters with little Mary Manning—or May, as he called her. He twitted him about it, but Pawnee Bill no longer could be embarrassed.

"I expect I'll marry her if I ever get the nerve to ask her," he informed the youth calmly. "And providing of course, she'll have me. She's the only girl I ever met that I'd marry."

Tony with great difficulty overcame a sudden temptation to blurt out his own hopeless story to his friend.

The show closed before the summer's end, and they traveled together as far as Wellington. There Pawnee Bill left him, promising him the opportunity of another tour in the fall.

"Probably along the west coast. Buffalo Bill's got a show called the Flying Dutchman, with Jules Keene playing the lead. He thinks he'll want me to bring him some Indians again, and it'll be a nice trip for you. Take care of yourself."

At Caldwell Tony was met by Joe Craig, who had brought another horse with him. "Cherokee being kind of young, I didn't bring him along, Tony. He's not strong enough yet for heavy duty. You'll be just in time to see Rita before she goes back. She's just got a few days more to stay. Tell me about yourself. What kind of a time did you have? Reckon you'll go into the show business?"

"I don't know. It's all right, but it's kind of uncertain. You clean up in one town and don't make expenses in another. What's Rita like? Does she still ride around and get in everybody's way? He was masking his interest behind a tone of indifference.

Craig shoved back his hat and scratched his head. "Well, yes. She still runs things; in the respect she hasn't changed much."

"Does she talk the same?"
Craig regarded him with an amused stare. "Well, she's picked up a Virginia accent, I guess you'd call it. Sort of soft and lazy-like. And she don't say 'ain't' any more. What else do you want to know?"

Tony reddened furiously. "Noth-

T. I. A. A. Votes to Use Freshman Rule After Next Year

(Special to the News)
CANYON, Dec. 22.—The Freshman rule will be enforced by all colleges which are members of the T. I. A. A. and also of the Southern Association, and by all other members of the T. I. A. A. under certain restrictions, according to an announcement made by D. A. Shirley, president.

This decision was made public Saturday, following Shirley's receipt of the vote of Professor L. I. Smith of the East Texas State Teachers College, who was present at the T. I. A. A. Meeting, but was called away before the adoption of this rule was voted upon.

The Freshman rule means that after Jan. 1, 1929, no freshman will be allowed to play in games played by member-teams of the T. I. A. A. The majority of the member-College believe that this rule is a good one; has been in use in other conferences for several years. Freshmen, as a rule, need to give careful attention to their class work, with a minimum of distraction by outside interests.

Something unusually has to give when Ed Hake, Pennsylvania captain and All-American tackle, starts to open a hole in the line.

In the Penn-California game here December 31 he's likely to find his path blocked by Captain Fritz Coltrin, All-American honorable mention and something of a tackle himself.

Cap Hake carries 100 pounds, 23 years and an attitude of six feet. Cap Coltrin towers six feet two, packs 200 pounds and has seen 22 Decembers. Neither man ever was injured seriously and both have been regulars for three years. This will be their last college game.

VOICE MASON'S

in order to successfully bridge the gap between high school and college. The Freshman rule means a high standard of scholarship, more easily maintained by athletes.

Buffaloes to Open Season With Home Games at Canyon

CANYON, Dec. 22.—The Buffalo basket ball season will open January 3, 1928 when the West Texas State Teachers College team will meet Texas University at Austin.

Great interest in the home game of the Buffaloes is already manifest over the Plains regions.

Games to be played on the home floor are:

- Jan. 9-10, Southwestern Teachers (Okla.)
- Jan. 16-17, Texas Tech.
- Jan. 23-24, Daniel Baker.
- Jan. 27-28, Abilene Christian college.
- Feb. 6-7, McMurry college.
- Feb. 15-16, Simmons university.
- Feb. 24-25, N. M. M. I.

Granite Knocks Out McLarnin at Borger

Kid Granite, the boy who has pleased Pampa boxing fans in all his bouts here, last night kayoed Mickey McLarnin of Amarillo in the main event at the Borger Athletic club match sponsored by the American Legion.

McLarnin took the count in the third round from a crossed right to the chin. He was out for fifteen minutes. He is the boy who boxed Speedy Snow here last Monday night when Granite met Wildcat Monte in the main event.

Granite has been matched to meet Eddy Murdock in the near future at the Pampa Athletic club.

Johnson's Great Feat

It is fitting and proper that Walter Johnson should be the hero of the greatest pithing feat of all time when viewed from every possible angle.

In this connection, it is rather interesting coincidence that I made my debut in the American League just one year ahead of Johnson, that I umpired his first game, that I worked in his outstanding effort and that we both retired from active service on the field almost at the same time.

It was back in 1908 that Johnson turned in a three-game performance that I doubt will ever be equalled, particularly in these days of the lively ball.

The feat that I have reference to was the shutting out of the New York club in three successive games. In those days we had the single umpire system, so I was the only official in charge of Johnson's record-breaking performance.

What makes the performance all the more remarkable is the fact it really happened in his first year, for he served only a few months in 1907.

How Walter Did It

As I recall it, the first game was played on Friday, September 4, 1908. Washington won the game, 3-0, because Johnson was in great form, allowing only six hits.

Shutting out the Yanks in three days wasn't a miracle by any means, so Johnson's very excellent performance received only passing consideration from the scribes.

On the following day, Saturday, Joe Cantillon, manager of the Washington club, hard pressed for pitchers, sent Johnson back at the New York team. He pitched another impressive game, allowing only four hits, Washington winning, 6-0.

Since Sunday ball wasn't legalized in New York state at that time, Johnson enjoyed a day of rest after the shut-outs. The second shut-out caused the experts to give Walter much space for his two meritorious performances.

Two games were scheduled for Monday, which was Labor Day, both to be played in the afternoon. Cantillon set New York to talking when he announced in Monday's papers that Johnson would pitch both games.

Might Have Been Four

New York sent the famous Jack Chesbro against Washington in an effort to break the Johnson shutout epidemic. All Walter did was pitch his best game of the three, this time blanking New York, 4-0, allowing only two hits.

In about the seventh inning of the third game, Johnson was hit on his pithing arm with one of Chesbro's fast breaking spitballs. The game was held up at least five minutes while the Washington trainer gave Walter first aid. It was evident that he was in great pain during the rest of the game.

To me those three shutouts in successive games, with the pitcher getting better in each game, allowing six hits in the first, four in the second and two in the third, is the greatest hurling performance I have ever seen, all things considered.

In my next article I will discuss the most courageous exhibition of pitching I have ever witnessed.

Two Men Murdered Near Galena, Illinois

GALENA, Ill., Dec. 22.—The bodies of two unidentified men, tied together, were found in the woods near here today.

Indications were that they had been murdered last night.

A machinist's Union card made out to Harold McGrath was found in the clothing of one of the men.

Down—But Far From Out

You see Tod Morgan of Seattle on the canvas in this picture and Joe Glick standing in the corner. But Morgan, junior lightweight champion, won the fight, which was in Madison Square Garden, New York. The photo was taken in the second round; in the fourteenth, Glick was disqualified for fouling. The referee is Eddie Forbes.

ing, I reckon, I—I was just figuring that two years might make a powerful change in a girl and I was curious.
his heart kept pounding against the ribs as they rode along. What would she be like? Would she be the old, carefree, impudent Rita, the Rita that used to issue commands like an imperious little queen? Or would she be another person—reserved, dignified, conscious of her place and of his?

(To Be Continued)

Rita Moore has changed. Tony learns, and it adds nothing to his peace of mind.

Roses Where Once Cactus Grew Before

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The Hon. Thaddeus H. Caraway, senator from Arkansas, doesn't agree with Vice President Dawes in his desire to change the Senate rules, but he has proposed to Dawes that the order of business in the Senate be changed.

He suggested to Dawes, who presides over the Senate, that immediately after the opening prayer each day, a period be devoted to the announcement of presidential candidates. Caraway recalled that nearly all senators were receptive if not active candidates.

"I guess he didn't take me seriously," complains Caraway.

Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota seems to deserve some sort of a prize for originality. He's up for re-election next year and may have trouble, because he was elected on a Farmer-Labor ticket out there and the Farmer-Labor organization is reported rather shaky. In effect, he has been conducting an independent campaign, for he made nearly 150 speeches in every part of Minnesota before he returned for this session.

Instead of toting a set of canned speeches along with him and belaboring Wall St. and the corn borer by turn, he asked his audiences what they wanted him to talk about and they named the subject.

Naturally, in Minnesota it generally had to do with farm problems, but Shipstead reports that his constituents demanded economic discussions instead of partisan speeches. He found that the farmers and the business men, whose prosperity was dependent on the present. But we live in the present; why not know more about it?

farmer's, wanted more than anything else an analysis of agriculture's economic position. Among other things, he told them that farm income had dropped 42 per cent since 1920 while market value of 25 leading corporations had increased 70 per cent. Meanwhile, he said, the total national payroll had dropped 30 per cent and so on.

One feels instinctively that Shipstead is an honest man when he admits that he does not believe the assertions of aviation enthusiasts that airplane riding is safer—or as safe—as automobile riding. Shipstead was flown about considerably during his visit to Haiti last spring. "A friend at Port au Prince invited me to lunch with Admiral Hughes on the battleship Seattle," he recalls. "It was only a 90-mile flight, he said, and perfectly safe. Safer than an automobile. I agreed that it probably was safe and, anyway, I'd go. But he saw I wasn't convinced. He assured me of the safety over and over again.

"When we got to the hangar he asked me to sign a paper and when I looked at it, I saw it made me agree that if I were killed the government wouldn't be responsible for damages. Then they started to tie a package onto me and I asked what that was; they said it was a parachute and told me how to work it 'if anything happened.' Just as we were ready to fly, a fellow came along with a coop full of homing pigeons and they explained to me that 'if anything happened' I could write a note and send it back to my friends.

"After we were in the air my friend explained that we would go to the battleship over the mountains and return by flying over the sea. I asked, 'Will this thing on my back keep me afloat?' He replied, 'No, when you hit the water, you'll just have to start to swim.'

"Well, I can go out in an automobile without signing any papers, without wearing any parachute and without having to be prepared to swim."

How can you tell a college man? We give up, they just won't listen.

TWINKLES

As a fitting tribute to the Christmas spirit and also as a token of conservation, a New Jersey city has planted a Christmas tree in a central location to do away with the necessity of buying a new one every year.

If you knew you had but one more year to see, what would you look at during that time? An Iowa school teacher is racing over Europe seeing its beauties of art and scenery. Think it over.

This is the season of fires, despite the fact that we have not had one in Pampa for a long time. Don't break our good record through Christmas carelessness.

If Oklahoma did not act that way often, she would be suspected of advertising a favorite son for president through dramatic proceedings.

Since Cal has decided not to give himself to the nation, he can merely extend best wishes and let it go at that.

Siler Faulkner, Jr. Is Given Surprise Dinner Wednesday

The thirteenth birthday of Siler Faulkner Jr., was celebrated with an enjoyable surprise dinner given him by his mother, Mrs. Siler Faulkner, Wednesday evening. His friends presented him with a number of nice gifts, and games were enjoyed following the serving of a most delightful dinner.

The group went to the play given by the Players club, "The Boomarang," as entertainment for an enjoyable evening. Those present were H. L. Ledrick, Joe Kahl, Wiley Reynolds, Noel Reynolds, Leo Sausbury, Benton Doucette, and Siler Faulkner.

Mrs. W. L. Woodward, Miss Betty Blue, and Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbery left today for Santa Anna, where they will spend the holidays with relatives.

Social Calendar

All members of the Lone Star Bridge club will meet at Mr. Lavender's office on West Foster Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for an important business meeting.

The Amusu-Bridge club will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Kingsbery, with Mrs. W. L. Woodward as hostess.

The Baptist W. M. U. will hold a general meeting of the various Circles Wednesday afternoon in the church at 2:30 o'clock.

The Ladies Aid of the Christian church will meet Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. A. Shackleton, with Mrs. Roy Tignor as assistant hostess.

The members of the Bachelor's club will entertain in the Schneider hotel with a dance Thursday evening.

General Meeting of Baptist W. M. U. Is Held Wednesday

A general session of the Baptist W. M. U. circles met Wednesday afternoon at the church with seventeen present. The business session was conducted by Mrs. Harry Barnard, President of the W. M. U.

A program, taken from the manual of study, Royal Service, was beneficial and enlightening to those present. Those taking part in the program were Mrs. E. F. Brake, Mrs. McAllister and Mrs. T. B. Solomon. The devotional was led by Mrs. G. C. Stark.

Christian Aid Discusses Plans For Coming Year

The Ladies Aid of the First Christian church met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. A. Shackleton with ten members present. During the business session a nominating committee was appointed for selecting the officers for the coming year, the election to be held at the next meeting in January. Those comprising committee are Mrs. Alva Duenkel, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Alta Stanard.

Plans for the year 1928 were discussed including a church calendar that will be held throughout the year for the purpose of raising a building fund. This calendar will employ the service of practically every woman member of the church giving every one the opportunity to help. Progressive teas will also be given during the next few months.

Christmas decorations were used in keeping with the season, and delicious refreshments were served those present.

Christmas Holidays To Bring Activities For Young and Old

With dear ones coming home from college and married children returning to the home with their families to spend Christmas with their parents, and parties, dinners, and clubs heralding the glad Christmas with many delightful affairs, Christmas Day in Pampa promises to be one of the most joyously welcomed of any of the past years.

Society turned attention to Christmas festivities several weeks ago, and every club in the city has had a share in the round of entertainments. A long list of homecoming boys and girls will be a double inspiration next week for celebrations, and teas, dinners, and dances will furnish delightful playtime for everyone.

Santa Claus promises to be more generous than ever this year, and every stocking is expected to be full and running over with good things. Clubs and benevolent societies, as well as many individuals who always assume their share of alms giving, are searching out for everyone whom Santa Claus may not be aware of, and no one will be intentionally left out.

Frank Williams, superintendent for the Panhandle district of the Bent Concrete Pipe company of Amarillo, is in Pampa today in connection with the installation of his product in the sewer project. Two-thirds of the 15-inch pipe has been delivered. The Amarillo factory is producing about one-half mile of this pipe per day.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Carr spent Wednesday in Wheeler with relatives.

Miss Moleta Lefors is returning home today from Austin, where she has been attending the Texas university.

Mrs. Chester Carr is visiting relatives in Claude.

Miss Elizabeth Corson returned today from attending school in Trinity university at Waxahatchie.

Mother's Cook Book

We have not fulfilled every duty unless we have fulfilled that of being pleasant.

SEASONABLE FOODS

THERE is no vegetable nicer than well-baked Hubbard squash. If one tries of that try:

Squash Souffle.

Take two cupfuls of mashed cooked squash, add gradually one cupful of cream; when well mixed add two well-beaten egg yolks, seasoning to taste, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in a moderate oven in a well-buttered pan.

Ice Box Rolls.

Dissolve two compressed yeast cakes in one-fourth of a cupful of water. To two cupfuls of boiling water add four tablespoonfuls of sweet lard, one-half cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful of salt. When cool add two beaten eggs and the yeast with four cupfuls of flour, mix and beat well and add two more cupfuls of flour, stirring well with a spoon until well mixed. Do not knead. Set away in the ice box, well covered. Three hours before the rolls are needed, take out bits of the dough; it will be hard to handle but grease the fingers well and handle quickly, using very little flour. Make into flat buns, leaving plenty of room to rise and spread. Cover well with melted lard; this keeps them moist and the tops from forming a crust and the rolls rise better. Bake in a hot oven. Properly made they will be as light and delicate as angel food.

Chili Con Carne.

Take one and one-half pounds of fresh lean pork with some fat, one and one-half pounds of round steak all put through a meat grinder. Brown three good-sized sliced onions, add the meat, a dried chili pepper, two quarts of tomato, two or three tablespoonfuls of chili powder with salt and pepper to season. Simmer for three hours, then add two cans kidney beans and cook another half hour. Serve hot.

Curry of Rabbit.

Cut up the rabbit as for fricassee, brown well, add two medium-sized onions chopped and two teaspoonfuls of curry powder. Cook 15 minutes in a little fat, add a very little water, cover and cook until the rabbit is tender. More water may be added to keep the meat from burning, but only a tablespoonful at a time.

Markets

KANSAS CITY Stock Yards, Dec. 21—Hog prices after falling to a new low level for the year last week, rallied 10 to 25 cents. The advance restored quotations pretty well on the 3 cent level. Receipts will be light the rest of the week. Cattle prices were quoted weak at the recent decline. Receipts were the smallest on any Monday since early July, and were below normal for this season of the year. Congestion in the eastern beef situation has resulted in a slow demand for fat cattle. Butcher cattle were lower. Veal calves showed last week's decline. Lambs were 25 cents lower and sheep steady.

Receipts Monday were 15,000 cattle, 5,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep, compared with 19,500 cattle, 9,000 hogs and 8,000 sheep a week ago, and 15,200 cattle, 8,800 hogs and 5,150 sheep a year ago.

A material reduction in receipts of fat cattle at the principal western markets compared with preceding Mondays was not sufficient to bring a rally in prices. In some cases fat steers were slightly lower than last week's close but most sales were considered steady. Packers complained of a dull eastern beef market. However receipts of fat steers will continue light until after the first of the year and it should take only a short time to clear up the temporary congestion. Good to choice steers are bringing $12 to $16. Nothing with outstanding finish was offered and strictly prime kinds would probably bring $17 or better. Plain to fair short fed kinds are bringing $9 to $11. Cows and heifers were 15 to 25 cents lower than the high point two weeks ago. Canner and cutter cows have declined moderately and are still in active demand. Veal calves have declined $1.50 in the past two weeks.

Receipts of stockers and feeders showed a material reduction over preceding Mondays and the runs for the next few weeks will be light. Prices have eased off some, but relatively less than fat cattle. There is still a fairly active demand.

Hog prices rallied 10 to 25 cents today, mostly 15 cents. Last week took the market into the lowest position in more than three years. The country cut down shipping to market as well as shut off selling direct, making total supplies materially less than on recent Monday's. Indications are that receipts will be light the rest of the week and there should be a further advance in the market. Today 180 to 350 pound hogs sold at $8 to $8.00; 140 to 180 pounds $7.50 to $8; packing sows $6.75 to $7.75; stock hogs and pigs $7.50 to $8.

Lambs were 25 cents lower than last week and the lowest of the season. Sheep broke 25 cents last week, but were steady today. Best fat lambs are bringing $12.60 to $12.85; yearlings $9.50 to $10.75; wethers $7.35 to $8 and ewes $6 to $6.25.

Demand for horses and mules remains liberal proportions for this season of the year. Prices show no quotable change.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20—For many years many forwarding organizations have been developed throughout the country for the more economical and efficient handling of various commodities in moving them from one point to another.

These forwarding organizations have gotten their systems down to a point where they virtually cover the transportation of every commodity with the exception of livestock. That is, when the shipper has a small quantity or freight in some particular section he may take it to a designated concentration point and have it pooled with other small shipments forwarding to the point which he wishes to reach.

In the forwarding of livestock from small producers, this plan has been worked out to some extent through the medium of local shipping associations and other endeavors along this line but to date there has been no concerted movement working toward a definite goal.

Activities along this line are of primary importance to the small producer of livestock as it has been proven that the small producer does not always fare satisfactorily at the hands of the country buyer and that he seems to have been pretty much left out of the picture in the organization of various marketing associations. It is essential that this class of producer have an outlet for his livestock production upon a party with larger producers and this is not only of importance to the small producer himself but to the entire industry and all channels through which livestock and its products pass down to ultimate consumer.

Soldiers Keep Legislators From Entering Oklahoma Capitol

Here is a scene in Oklahoma's "insurrection," when Governor Henry S. Johnston called out the national guard to prevent what he called an illegally-summoned legislature from considering charges of impeachment against him. This picture, taken on the front steps of the capitol building at Oklahoma City, shows Gen. McPherron, commanding the national guardsmen, holding back legislators who sought to convene at the state house. The white-haired man at General McPherron's right is E. E. Hill, speaker of the house. Barred from the capitol, the house met secretly in a hotel room and voted six charges of impeachment.

This is true because of the constant trend toward the development of a supply of meat food animals from small producers, rather than having the production in the hands of a few large operators as has been the case, particularly in the West, in years gone by. Future plans for marketing and distribution of livestock must be built around the small producer and the sooner this is recognized generally and followed out the quicker an adequate organization for the handling of livestock originating in this manner will come about.

It is understood that a plan is now being formulated for the bringing about of a livestock forwarding organization which will be designed to cover the territory lying West of the Rocky Mountains. In its setup, no doubt, there will be a coordination of local forwarding agents, transportation facilities, marketing agencies through the central markets and any other units which may be necessary to the successful carrying out of such a plan. This plan is immense in its scope and if properly launched and carried on, the aggregate would, no doubt, within a comparatively short time form an important factor in the movement of a large volume of all classes of livestock than any other distributing or marketing plan.

The plan of an organization of this character is of such magnitude that it is difficult to foresee just how far it might go. At the outset it would seem to be a step in the right direction as it has long been apparent that the small producer of livestock in the West is coming into the lime light and his aggregate production will eventually overshadow the larger scale producers. With a distributing and marketing plan of this character at his disposal it is likely that his position as strong as the largest operator from a marketing standpoint and at the same time will give him the benefit of a well-gauged distribution through established marketing channels.

Horse Meat in Demand for Zoo

DALLAS, Dec. 21—Directors of the Dallas Park Board are seeking a substitute for horse meat with which to feed animals and fowls of the local zoo. The report for November submitted to the board by Park Director W. Foster Jacoby revealed that the horse meat bill for the month was $110.

"We get the horse meat for practically nothing, and one horse goes a long way, I will admit," Mr. Jacoby said, "but the finding of a sufficient quantity of this food is becoming a problem."

The zoo family during the past eleven months also has consumed eighty tons of hay, which was purchased from the city of Dallas at bargain prices of $12 a ton, Mr. Jacoby pointed out.

Oklahoma Builds Up Big Pecan Industry

OKLAHOMA CITY—A new agricultural industry—pecan growing—has been developed in Oklahoma in the last decade.

A state pecan growers' association has just held its first convention and exhibition, where it demonstrated the use of pecans in candies and cakes. The association will urge farmers to plant more of the nut-bearing trees.

In 1920 Oklahoma raised 1,900,000 pounds of pecans valued at $228,000 and in 1926 the output reached 10,000,000 pounds, netting farmers $1,000,000. The 1927 crop has been estimated at 4,550,000 pounds. The board of agriculture attributes the decline in production to the fact that many buds were destroyed when the heavy crop of 1926 was shaken from the trees.

try, so it is not peculiar to America alone.

Figures of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company also show that adolescent girls constitute the only group in their statistics in which the tuberculosis death rate has not declined.

During this period of the year when public attention is focused upon the subject of tuberculosis through the Christmas Seal Sale, these facts should be borne in mind by all thoughtful citizens, says the Texas Public Health association, which directs the annual sale of the seals in this state.

The state association points out that all of the proceeds from the Seal Sale are used to carry on the year-round campaign of preventative work against tuberculosis. 95 per cent of the money raised in Texas being spent in this state for such activities. The remaining 5 per cent goes to support the nation-wide campaign against the great white plague, which is directed by the National Tuberculosis association.

Reports received from the Texas Public Health association at Austin indicate that Texans are more responsive this year than ever before in supporting the tuberculosis movement through the purchase of Christmas Seals.

Catch Insanity?

Whether or not insanity is "communicable" has become an issue in the case of Ivan M. Hart (above), young bank clerk of Eureka, Kas., convicted of second degree murder for killing his wife by slashing her throat. His attorneys will appeal for a new trial. Alonista called Hart's wife a paranoic, and said she would so strongly that he kill her, that her influence temporarily robbed him of his own will power and her insanity was "communicated to him."

Flapper Age Has Tuberculosis Danger, Statistics Reveal

The "jazz or flapper age" is the danger age according to information recently given out by the National Tuberculosis association, which points out that one of the most puzzling phenomena of today, to those who are active in the study and promotion of public health, is the increase of tuberculosis among young women between the ages of 15 and 24.

Although the death rate from this disease has been more than cut in half during the past twenty years, the number of deaths among young women has been increasing at an alarming rate since the war, while among men in the same age group it has been noticeably less. Recent English statistics have called attention to a similar condition in that coun-

NUMBER TWELVE

THE SPOTLIGHT

A FAITH FULFILLED

By Susie Belle Smalling

The following story won first place in the Christmas story contest.

Little Margaret Donley sat on the front door step of the tenement house in which she lived, listening with certain inward sadness to the happy voices of a group of children playing in the street—children of her own age, and of the neighborhood—children impossible for her to play with, for little Margaret Donley was blind. She could not play the games, run and do the things they could.

"Mag, oh, Mag!" called a little voice from the top of the staircase. "Did ya know it's almost Christmas? Bobby Stewart says he wrote Santa Claus to bring him a wagon. I want a doll though, don't you?"

Margaret said not a word, but looked, or appeared to look, straight ahead of her. Finally she asked, "Mamie, what does Santa Claus look like?"

"We-ell, I ain't never seen him, but Mamma says he's real fat and has a big snowy-white beard and white hair."

Margaret said not a word, but doozed long after Mamie had gone—her head and arms resting on her knees. Her black curls, neatly brushed into ringlets, fell about her, hiding several of the large patches in her old worn out dress, once a dark blue, but now faded to a sickly white. Her little form shook with violent sobs.

A well-dressed passing pedestrian, a big, burly German with gray hair and a thick gray mustache, paused beside the small pathetic figure. His twinkling grey eyes saddened as he bent over her and inquired her trouble.

"What is the matter, little girl?" he asked kindly with only a very slight foreign accent. "Don't you know Santa Claus doesn't come to little boys and girls who cry?"

Margaret raised her head and revealed the many tears trickling from her useless blue eyes.

"That's—that's just the trouble. I try to be s-so good, but Santy—Santy just seems to forget."

The man merely shook his head in pity. "What do you want him to bring you this year?"

"A—a good pair of eyes. I asked for them last year, but he brought me a stick of candy instead."

The big German was astonished. Was the child's grief as bad as this? Finally he offered an excuse.

"But perhaps Santa didn't receive your letter last year, and didn't know what else to leave you. Wipe away your tears now, and run along home before you take cold. Your mother and father will soon be calling you."

"I ain't got a mother or father. I live with a woman who has eight children besides me. She's the one that dropped me when I was little and made me blind. She's nice though," she added, fearing to do her kind benefactress an injustice.

Her unknown friend slipped a five-dollar bill through her fingers as she turned to feel her way up the stairs. Margaret gave the money to "Auntie McCarthy" who received it joyfully.

"Be gory, be gory, Moike, if it ain't five whole dollars," she cried to her husband.

Faculty Members Extend Greetings to Pupils of District

We, the faculty members, wish to express our appreciation to the student body, to the patrons, and to the school board, for your interest and your untiring efforts in putting over a building program, in building up a good school morale, and in your assiduous labors in bringing our school to its present high standing in the state and in the nation.

We dedicate and consecrate to you our full and undivided service in putting over in the Pampa Independent District as good as the best school in the land.

To you we extend best wishes for Christmas and the New Year. Signed, Supt. R. C. Campbell and Faculty.

MANY HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS WILL VISIT

Miss Irma Crowe left Wednesday for Indianapolis, Ind. where she will visit friends and relatives.

Supt. and Mrs. R. C. Campbell will spend the holidays with their daughter at Crowell.

R. B. Fisher will spend the holidays with his father and mother at Aline, Okla.

Miss Bernice R. Whiteley will visit her father and mother at Bangs.

Miss Mable Gene Campbell plans to visit her parents in Sanger, and friends in New Orleans.

Miss Addie Lee Smith plans to visit her father and brother in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lester plan to spend a few days with their sister-in-law, Mrs. J. S. Bruton, at Plainview.

Miss Harriett Rieves will visit her sister at Menard.

The other high school teachers expect to remain in Pampa for the Holidays.

God's Gift

I sometimes wonder when at night I watch the stars above, if there still shones o'er a manger That beautiful star of love, The star that tells the story Of a Savior born to earth, To whom we sing our carols, The songs of joy and mirth.

Are we true to the Christmas Spirit And to the songs we sing? Do we give presents to please Him Or because we love our name? Does money count for the present Or is it the love therein? Was Christ brought upon this earth As only a gift to men?

The Savior whose life was lowly, Who taught the children of men How to live and love their fellows, How to die and live again.

The Savior who walked through shadows That mankind might bask in the light; Who brought faith to a sinful nation To guide the just and the right.

The Star of Bethlehem has vanished; Yet in our hearts we bear The story of Christ and how he came That we his love might share. That is why we hold true to Christmas

And scatter our gifts of love, In memory of the birth of Christ, The gift of God from above—Lillie McMillan (Senior)

SPANISH CLUB MEETS

The Spanish club met December 14th, in the Central high school building. Roll call was answered by giving a sentence in Spanish. The president, Vernon Culverhouse, gave an interesting speech in regard to the new members.

Five new members were brought into the club. They are Gladys Carter, Myrtle White, Fern Hughey, Lala Hutchins, and Harvey Anderson. They were given the club colors to wear.

Sixteen Members of Football Squad Receive Sweaters

Tuesday morning at a special chapel program the football boys were awarded their sweaters. Enthusiastic talks were made by Prof. Fisher, Prof. Dial, and Supt. Campbell. Coach Dickey awarded sweaters to the following boys: Edward Heilacher, Bob Kahl, Elmer Hardin, Archie Walstad, Thomas Clayton, Russell Kennedy, Sam Carlton, Jones Seltz, Skeet Roberts, Troy Stalls, Tommie Robinson, Troy Maucens, Donald Salsbury, Floyd Mason, Kenneth Bishop and Bill Greene.

Lamar School Girls Again Beat Central

The Lamar school basketball girls were again victorious Friday in a game with the girls of Central high. The score was 20 to 18.

Louise Press was high point "man" on the Lamar team, and Avis Heskell for Central high school. Miss Carter refereed in the first half, and Miss Robinson in the second.

Baker School Notes

Marion and Pauline Colgrove have gone to spend the holidays in Dallas.

A number of pupils are absent from the sixth grade because of severe colds.

The principal of Baker school says that the high-school should be proud of their English teacher, as she is also a fine doctor.

The principal and teachers regret to lose the sixth and seventh grade teachers and pupils as they will be transferred to the Lamar school after the first of the year. The two primary teachers will also be absent from Baker school, as they will be at the Central building, which is close to their homes.

Baker School will also have three new teachers after the first of the year. Hurray! We are beginning to have plenty of heat in our building.

The fifth grades are planning a short program for Friday morning. Trees are decorated, and gifts arriving.

Several students who were absent last week on account of illness are back this week.

One new student, Clyde Scorberrry of Wheeler county, enrolled Monday morning.

Mrs. Cockerill's third grade is very busy just now making Christmas presents and getting ready for Santa's visit Friday morning. There will be a short program for our mothers and if Santa hurries he might bear it too.

The third grade pupils in Miss Anderson's room are expecting old Santa Claus to visit them Friday morning. They are going to entertain their mothers with a short Christmas program while they are waiting for Santa to arrive.

They wish everybody a merry, merry, Christmas.

Paul Kemp had the misfortune of breaking his arm last week and is having to miss school.

Miss Whiteley wishes to thank the boys of the Vocational Agriculture Department and their instructor, Mr. J. L. Lester, for remodeling her book case.

Prof. R. B. Fisher has moved his office into the old book-room. The old office will be used as a teachers' conference room.

Meanings of Christmas

The word Christmas has a different meaning for nearly every one. Webster, in his dictionary, defines it as, "The 25th of December, a day for feasting; widely celebrated as the date of the birth of Christ." Of course, this is a scholastic definition and is not used by everyone. For myself, I will say I did not know how Christmas was defined until I looked in the dictionary yesterday. Of course, some use the dictionary more than I do, but I believe I can say, without fear of successful contradiction, that hardly anyone uses or even knows this definition. Here I am rambling again (as I always do when I get started on something that does not concern my story), but if you will pardon me, I will go back where I left off and try to stick to my subject a little closer.

As I said before, Christmas has very many different meanings according to who is thinking about it. To some people who are owners of very large fortunes it merely means a chance to give some of their surplus cash to charity and get their pictures in the paper with some printing underneath telling how much so and so has given to charity and the good he or she is doing for the poor. There is no feeling behind this giving, and though the gift may be large it is really no Christmas gift. It is advertising for notoriety.

To other people Christmas is a period of shoving and pushing at the bargain counters to get presents to give. Thus it is a strain and a worry that does more harm than good.

To some children Christmas is the time that they get lots of toys and candy. They enjoy the time of year called Christmas—more than anyone else in the world. This does not apply to children whose parents are wealthy and give them everything they want anyway. Neither does it apply to the children of the slums, for they get nothing in the way of toy and are lucky to get enough to eat and wear. The children that enjoy Christmas most are those whose parents are neither wealthy nor poor. They do not have everything they want at anytime, and when Christmas comes the parents buy quite a few toys and the child, being well fed and clothed, is able to enjoy them.

To the merchant Christmas is the time to hold a sale; and by giving so called bargains to the people, induces them to buy Christmas presents. In that way he is able to sell his old stock of goods with a goodly profit. Of course, this does not apply to every merchant, for as you know there are exceptions to all rules.

To other young people (such as the vaguely defined High School Student) Christmas means a week or probably two weeks of freedom from study ("preferably English for most pupils) and nothing to do but have a good time.

The word Christmas also looks good on Bank advertisements telling people to start a saving account for next Christmas and have money to buy your dear ones presents. I admit savings accounts are good things; but I always had to borrow money to keep one up and therefore when I would draw it out I would not be any better off financially than I was before.

To some people, such as the people and hearty eaters, Christmas means a time for eating and gorging themselves to their full capacity. Thus their definition is something like Webster's "A day for feasting."

I have endeavored to give an idea of the different things Christmas may mean, and of course these meanings I have given are not all by about 50,000,000 more or less, so you see what a job I would have if I undertook to look up everyone and see what Christmas meant to them and then write it all down.

Though I admit that this story is not as good as some writers could do, I would appreciate it very much if you who do enjoy it would send a letter or telegram saying as much. All so all presents will be gladly accepted, and if this (the sending of presents) is responded to properly, I will tell you what Christmas means to me.—Sammie Henton (Senior)

Vivian Vicars has been absent from school for the last few days on account of illness.

George Eldridge of Rocky Ford, Colo., has enrolled as a freshman here.

Many Graduates of Central High Are Here for Holidays

Quite a number of the boys and girls who were graduated from Central high school last year and the preceding year are spending the holidays in Pampa. Many of these are making wonderful records in the various colleges and universities of Texas and other states.

The following are some of the students who are at home for the holidays:

Margaret Buckler, Hockaday School for Girls, Dallas; Albert Lewter, Baylor University, Waco; Elizabeth Corson, Trinity University, Waxahatchie; Minnie V. Haynes, Trinity University, Waxahatchie; Frankie Barnhart, Texas Tech, Lubbock; Clara Brown, West Texas Teachers College, Canyon; Hallie Gantz, Christian College, Cisco; Ruth Henry, Simmons University, Abilene; Mable Lester, Draughton's Business College, University of Oklahoma, Norman; Eurltha Henry, West Texas Teachers College, Canyon; Willard Johns, University of Texas, Austin.

Christine Campbell, University of Texas, Austin, plans to meet her parents at Crowell for the holidays.

This Present Had Come to Stay

Jack and Jill had fewer clothes than their playmates, and fewer toys. Indeed they had less of everything, except happiness. No one, looking into their bright, merry little faces could doubt that these two children had enough happiness to spare. Ah, they were right to be such happy children, with a mother and father like theirs they could hardly be anything else they thought. For mother was so beautiful and so gentle, and father was so brave and so strong.

"Bet you won't get such nice things Christmas as us," boasted Timothy, the little boy in the big house next door. "I'm going to get an electric train, truck and all."

"And I," his little sister chimed in, "am going to get a great big, big doll's house with real curtains in the windows, and a chimney that has real smoke coming into it out of a real stove."

"Bet we'll get something lots better than either of those things," laughed Jill.

"Bet we will, too," echoed Jack.

"What? What?" screamed the little neighbors.

"How do we know? That's Santa's secret. But you just wait and see." And the little children in the big house next door did wait to see what Jack and Jill's Christmas would bring them almost as eagerly as what their own would, for they had learned by experience that Jack and Jill were of the fortunate of the earth. They always had cause for happiness.

Early Christmas morning they ran over to the little white house and rang the bell. Jack and Jill both came dashing to the door. Their faces were one beam of joy. "Merry Christmas," they cried in one breath. "Oh, it's better than we even dreamed. The best Christmas present anyone ever had. Come and see! Come and see!"

The four children started eagerly up the stairs. Jill stopped suddenly and put her fingers to her lips. "We must steal over so softly," she whispered. "It's asleep."

So they stole into a room at the end of the upper hall, and slipped to a bed where Jack and Jill's beautiful mother lay smiling at them. In a alpha basket on the table at the side of her bed lay the Christmas present—fast asleep. It was an adorable new baby. "It's our very own," Jill whispered. Then she boasted—"Come to stay!"

And the children from the big house next door, although they were too proud to say so, knew in their tiny hearts that Jack and Jill did have the Christmas present that was incomparable.—Eloise Copbaugh, (Junior)

Kenneth Bishop, who has been visiting in Fort Worth, is back in school.

Frankie Barnhart, Willard Johns, Albert Lewter, Sadie Cravoy, Hallie Gantz, and Walter Hardin were visitors at the chapel program Wednesday.

Faith--

Margaret was openly excited. She did little things in preparation for the "big day" and thought she did much to help. Mrs. McCarthy her head and sighed whenever she caught sight of the happy, smiling face, so confident of happiness the next day.

Run across the street, Mame, and borrow a cup o' sugar from Mrs. O'Hara. Real quick now," she commanded, entering the kitchen.

"Let me go too," begged Margaret.

"We-el, a'right, but hurry along." Mame grabbed her friends' hand and led her down the steps into the dark night.

They had almost reached the center of the street when a fast moving automobile turned the corner and bore down upon them.

"Run, Mag, run," screamed Mame.

But Margaret ran in the opposite direction directly in front of the car.

A man in the rear of it stood up. "God! Did you hit her?" he asked. It was Margaret's friend, the German—the nice gentleman who had reassured her belief in Santa Claus.

The chauffeur carried the little limp body to his master.

"Right over her head, sir."

By this time Mame had arrived on the scene and was crying and wringing her hands.

The big, burly man motioned to her.

"Tell them that I, Dr. Steinberg, took her to the Steinberg hospital."

At the hospital an X-ray picture was made of Margaret's skull.

Dr. Steinberg seemed much relieved after examining the negative. "My chauffeur must have been mistaken; she is only stunned. But there is a great pressure on her optical nerve. I'm going to operate right now!"

Margaret suffered misery all night, but about day-light she fell into a restful sleep. When she did awake, she was calm and passive. As she opened her eyes she saw only darkness. Some one approached the bed and gently removed the bandage from over her eyes. At first all was blurred and she felt dizzy, but gradually her vision cleared, and she gazed upon the room and its occupants in astonishment. Finally she perceived the doctor bending over her.

"Merry Christmas, Margaret," he greeted.

She stared at his gray hair and

McCauley No. 1 J. Morse, Section 2, Finds Good Pay

WELL MAKING 1,000 BARRELS IN S. E. GRAY

Bit Drops But Foot Into Formation Early Today

PROVES LEASES IN 2 DIRECTIONS

Bowers Activities Will Be Opened After Holiday

With production only one foot in the pay the H. C. McCauley et al's No. 1 J. Morse in section 2, block 26, H. and G. N. Survey, in the southeastern part of Gray county, is making more than 1,000 barrels a day from 2,510 feet.

Production was reached at 5 o'clock this morning when the bit dropped into pay. Lime was topped at 1,770 feet followed by about 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas between 2,305 and 2,320 feet. The elevation at this point is 2,580 feet.

This well is more than three miles north of the Travis-Buck location, the discovery well in that territory, and is 5 miles from the Texas Oil company's No. 1 Chapman in section 51, block 26, which was drilled in last week for 750 barrels.

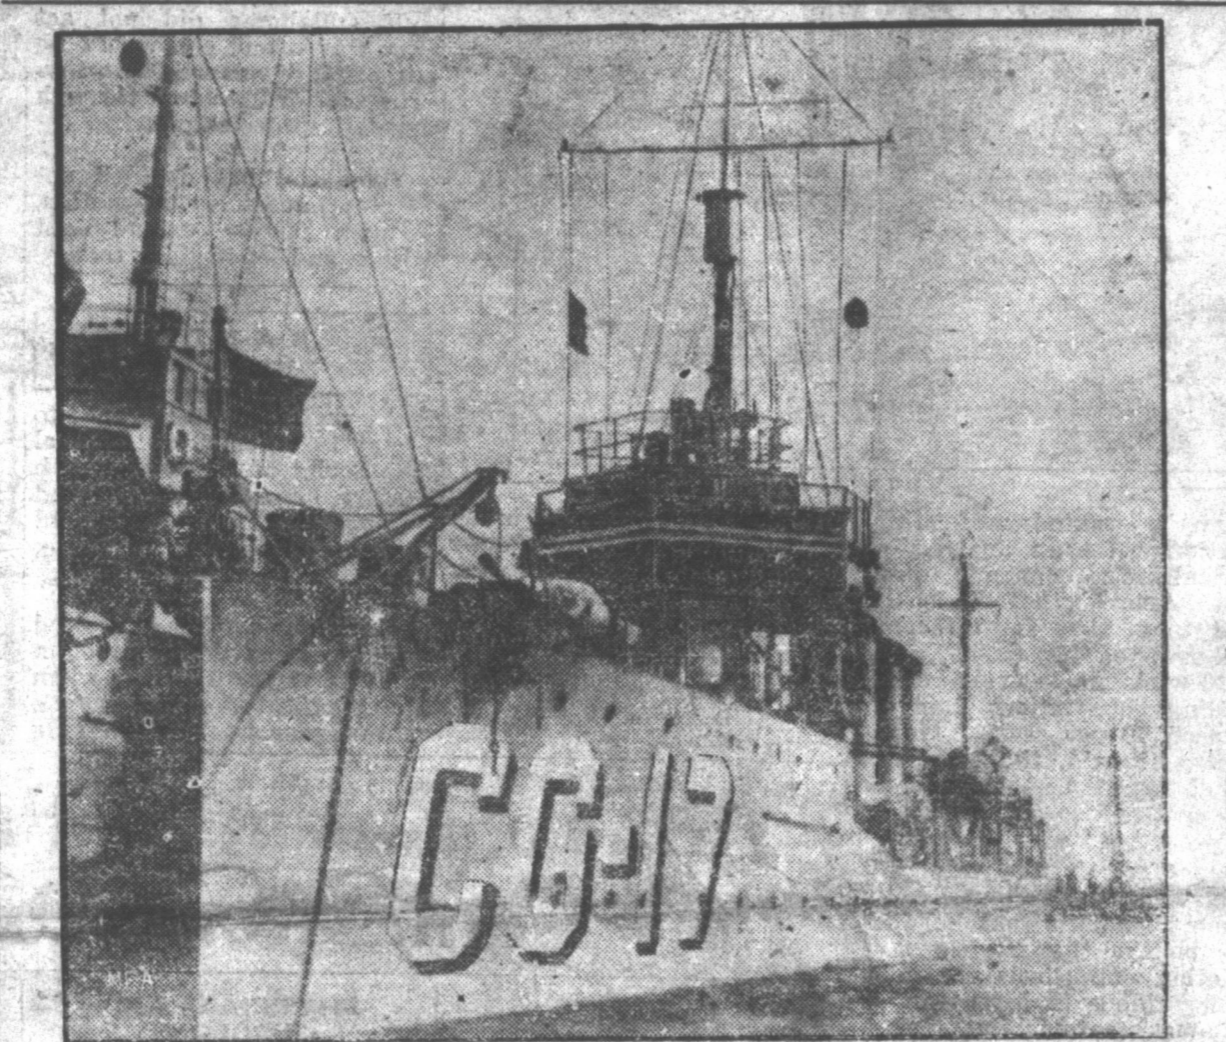

The bringing in of this well extends production in three directions in the southeast Gray county pool and proves up production in two directions. This well has been watched with interest, as it will mean considerable drilling activities in that field.

The Danciger and Phillips companies in the south Pampa pool will shut down for Christmas, but will resume work after the holiday and bring in the wells which have topped pay.

Chairman of Big Oil Company Resigns

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—James Beatty, chairman of the board of the Texas Corporation, one of the largest independent oil companies in the United States, has announced his resignation as chairman and a member of the board of directors. Beatty has held the post of chairman for two years and prior to that had been president of the corporation. He declined to make any statement regarding his reasons for his resignation.

The Ship That Sunk The S-4

Here is the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding, which struck the S-4 and sent the submarine to the bottom. The Paulding, badly damaged by the collision, was barely able to reach shallow water close to shore, and is now resting on the bottom. In the background at the left can be seen the U. S. S. Tucker, standing by.

LIONS CLUB DRIVE SUCCESSFUL IN OBTAINING MANY PLAYTHINGS

Successful completion of the Lions club toy drive was announced today at the club's luncheon, when it was said that the basement of the Methodist church holds a large number of playthings for the children of Pampa.

The toys are being conditioned by a repair man employed by the club. Tomorrow evening Lion Tom Brabham will have charge of dividing the toys into packages for distribution. Another committee will help him Saturday evening, when Lions in costume will gather to go on their cheerful errands.

Committees have canvassed the city to get the names and addresses of worthy children, and other names have been obtained from school teachers and others. The Lions club wishes to express its great appreciation to the people who have contributed toys and services to make the drive a success.

Considerable funds will be needed to buy fruits and candies, and the Boy Scouts are selling theatre tickets to help raise this fund. They are keeping 40 per cent of the amount received from the ticket sale, precaution to the people who have been active in carrying out the toy drive, and Lions—Duncan, Clark, Brabham, and Curry believe that Santa Claus will be unusually thorough in his rounds this season. Persons having toys which they have not yet donated may take them directly to the Methodist church.

HUMAN OSTRICH DIES

(By Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22.—Sidney Barnes, 51 years old, known as the human ostrich, died today after an operation in which a cigar box full of bolts, carpet tacks, razor blades, nails and washers were removed from his stomach. For 27 years he had swallowed various articles of hardware as a side attraction in circuses and carnivals.

Rotary Club Gives Eight Boys Fine Gift to Raise

Eight enthusiastic members of the Agricultural class of the Pampa high school received a gilt apiece yesterday afternoon, presented by a committee from the Rotary club. One more gilt will be presented when it is old enough to be weaned.

In order to create an interest in hog raising in this territory, the Rotary club took this means to get the boys on the farms interested. The pigs are presented with the understanding that one gilt from each of the first two litters is to be returned to the club, which will present them to other boys.

The gilts were purchased from Alie Byrum, who lives north of Kingsmill. They are big-boned Poland-China hogs of the famous Jayhawk strain, and are being registered in the names of the boys to whom presented. The pigs will be raised under the supervision of Professor J. L. Lester, teacher of agriculture at the high school.

The boys who received gilts were: Finley Barrett, Harley Kennedy, Albert Nichols, Chas. Thomas, M. D. Eagle, Robert May, Autrey Holmes and Howard Holmes. Bruce Cash will receive his gilt later.

Amusing Comedy Is Given by Players Club Wednesday

A large crowd attended the play, which began at 8 o'clock, and the receipts will be given to the annual.

The plot of the play, well interpreted to the audience, portrayed the manner in which advice usually comes back to the one who is so kind as to give it. The cast, which included the most experienced members of the Players club, is to be complimented on the unusual ability shown in making the play an amusing entertainment of high moral standing.

The cast included Dr. Gerald Sumner, Bob Kahl, Bud Woodridge, Tommie Robinson, Preston DeWitt, Tom Clayton, Emile, Jack Stone, Hartley, Vernon Lawrence, Virginia Zelva, Lucilly Mooney, Grace Tyler, Angela Ballew, Marian Sumner, Thelma Qualls, Gertrude Ludlow, Lula Hutchins, Mrs. Grayton Woodbridge, Lottie Schafer, and the guests at the party.

Between the acts, several specialties proved humorous and enjoyable to the audience. Miss Catherine Vincent and a group of small boys gave a selection in negro dialect and costume. Jack Stone sang "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and was accompanied by the whistling of Miss Lula Hutchins. This was given with an attractive tableau effect. Miss Hutchins favored the audience with several songs, and was encored a number of times to whistle.

The music for the entire evening was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Prof. Otto Schiek.

Kolb Funeral to Be Held Friday

The funeral of E. C. Kolb, who died Tuesday of pneumonia, will be held tomorrow at 3 o'clock, it was announced today.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. James Todd, Jr., at the First Christian church. The Masonic order will have charge of burial. Relatives of Mr. Kolb not already here will arrive this evening for the funeral.

and the ordinance was necessary, Mr. Carr says.

He has watched Pampa grow from a small town and sees a bright future for the city.

Miss Clara Brown, who has been attending school in Canyon, returned home today.

PASSES BILL THEN ELUDES 600 OFFICERS

YOUTH FADES INTO DARKNESS

Vigilance Slackens in Los Angeles Today

(Associated Press.)

PENDLETON, Ore., Dec. 22.—William E.

Hickman of Los Angeles, murderer fugitive, was arrested east

of Echo, Ore., by State Officer Buck Lieuallen

and Tom Gurdane, chief of police of Pendleton.

Money found on his person corresponded to that said to have been received by Hickman at Los Angeles.

SEATTLE, Dec. 22.—A red hot trail of William Edward Hickman, suspected kidnaper and murderer of little Marian Parker of Los Angeles, picked up by police a few minutes after he presumably left a haberdashery here led through Seattle today with 600 officers only a few minutes behind him.

The search for the fiend who mutilated the little girl switched from California to Seattle last night when the excited haberdasher showed police a $20 bill identified as one of those which Perry Parker, father of the girl, had given the kidnaper.

Seattle's police force of 600 was mobilized and set on the trail only a few minutes after the suspected youth made a purchase at the clothing store and slipped into the night.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—The Southern California officer who has been following what now appears to have been cold trails in his hunt for William Hickman, accused slayer of Marian Parker, settled back for a brief rest today while the Seattle police took up the battle of wits with the youth who has eluded one of the greatest man hunting machines ever set in motion on the Pacific coast.

Chief of Detectives Herman declared that he was confident that the man who had paid the Seattle clothes store for one of the 75 $20 gold certificates given the girls slayer for her dismembered body was none other than the slayer himself.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—The belief that William Hickman, suspected abductor of Marian Parker in Los Angeles, had eluded the police net set for him here and had headed for Canada was admitted by officers here today after a night of search for the youthful fugitive.

Hickman is believed to have held up and robbed F. R. Peck in Hollywood Sunday night, taking his green Hudson sedan, which was seen yesterday by two Portland youths who identified Hickman as the driver, speeding into Oregon.

E. S. Carr Became Fourth Mayor of Pampa in 1917

In 1917 E. S. Carr, now a prominent stock raiser, became the fourth mayor of Pampa. Mr. Carr moved to Pampa in 1915 and took a prominent part in the interests of the city.

Following his term as mayor Mr. Carr was unanimously elected town marshal in which office he faithfully served until his resignation a year later.

Mr. Carr was born in Wabasha, Minn., but at the age of nine moved with his parents to Texas, settling in Sherman. He later moved to Claude, where he owned a store. In 1915 he moved to Pampa, but purchased a ranch 18 miles south of Pampa where he raised stock.

During Mr. Carr's term as mayor the first automobile parking ordinance in Pampa was inaugurated. During 1917, automobiles became numerous in and around the town.

Hope for Submarine Crew Is Abandoned; Weather Again Bad

(By the Associated Press.)

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 22.—Rear Admiral Frank Brumby, in charge of salvage operations at the sunken submarine S-4, admitted today that there was no longer hope that life existed on board the submarine.

The admiral said he was unable to announce when the rescue operations would be suspended, that it was up to the navy department in Washington.

The wind veered to the northwest today threatening heavy weather and it was believed that conditions would be unsuitable for salvage work for some time.

Two Inches More on Women's Dresses Would Use 500,000 Bales of Cotton

HOUSTON, Dec. 22.—Two inches added to the length of women's dresses, coupled with a custom of wearing silk and cotton thread hose, would add at least 500,000 bales of cotton annually to consumption, according to Dale C. Rogers, Houston advertising man, wrote Ernest L. Tutt, manager of the Department of Commerce Houston office.

Mr. Tutt distributed letters asking for suggestions which might increase the uses for cotton, and thus tend to maintain a reasonable price level for the staple.

Another man suggested cotton awnings such as used on automobiles and over windows. An artificial limb manufacturer advocated wall paper printed on cotton cloth. A merchant suggested cotton cloth coverings for expensive clothing and a vegetable oil manufacturer thought the increased expense in manufacturing legal papers of cotton would be offset by the more permanent record they would make. A doctor urged the United States child health bureau to advocate increased use of cotton underwear and hosiery for children on the theory that infants and children do not wear enough of it. A. P. Strude would use cotton canvas for linoleum backing, because, he said, it would be stronger than the usual burlap and R. F. Grow, head of a cotton oil company thought cotton curtains in Pullman cars would be cooler if not actually cleaner than those now in use.

Mr. Tutt announced that he is open to suggestions from anybody; anyone were to further the department's efforts to increase the use of cotton.

Roses Where Once Cactus Grew Before

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The Hon. Thaddeus H. Caraway, senator from Arkansas, doesn't agree with Vice President Dawes in his desire to change the Senate rules, but he has proposed to Dawes that the order of business in the Senate be changed.

He suggested to Dawes, who presides over the Senate, that immediately after the opening prayer each day, a period be devoted to the announcement of presidential candidacies. Caraway recalled that nearly all senators were receptive if not active candidates.

"I guess he didn't take me seriously," complains Caraway.

Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota seems to deserve some sort of a prize for originality. He's up for re-election next year and may have trouble, because he was elected on a Farmer-Labor ticket out there and the Farmer-Labor organization is reported rather shaky. In effect, he has been conducting an independent campaign, for he made nearly 150 speeches in every part of Minnesota before he returned for this session.

Instead of totting a set of canned speeches along with him and belaboring Wall St., and the corn borer by turn, he asked his audiences what they wanted him to talk about and they named the subject.

Naturally, in Minnesota it generally had to do with farm problems, but Shipstead reports that his constituents demanded economic discussions instead of partisan speeches. He found that the farmers and the business men, whose prosperity was dependent on the present. But we live in the present; why not know more about it?

farmer's, wanted more than anything else an analysis of agriculture's economic position. Among other things, he told them that farm income had dropped 42 per cent since 1920 while market value of 25 leading corporations had increased 70 per cent. Meanwhile, he said, the total national payroll had dropped 30 per cent and so on.

One feels instinctively that Shipstead is an honest man when he admits that he does not believe the assertions of aviation enthusiasts that airplane riding is safer—or as safe—as automobile riding. Shipstead was flown about considerably during his visit to Haiti last spring.

"A friend at Port au Prince invited me to lunch with Admiral Hughes on the battleship Seattle," he recalls. "It was only a 90-mile flight, he said, and perfectly safe. Safer than an automobile. I agreed that it probably was safe and, anyway, I'd go. But he saw I wasn't convinced. He assured me of the safety over and over again.

"When we got to the hangar he asked me to sign a paper and when I looked at it, I saw it made me agree that if I were killed the government wouldn't be responsible for damages. Then they started to tie a package onto me and I asked what that was; they said it was a parachute and told me how to work it. 'If anything happened. Just as we were ready to fly, a fellow came along with a coop full of homing pigeons and they explained to me that 'if anything happened' I could write a note and send it back to my friends.

"After we were in the air, my friend explained that we would go to the battleship over the mountains and return by flying over the sea. I asked, 'Will this thing on my back keep me afloat?' He replied, 'No, when you hit the water you'll just have to start to swim.'

"Well, I can go out in an automobile without signing any papers, without wearing any parachute and without having to be prepared to swim."

How can you tell a college man? We give up, they just won't listen.

TWINKLES

As a fitting tribute to the Christmas spirit and also as a token of conservation, a New Jersey city has planted a Christmas tree in a central location to do away with the necessity of buying a new one every year.

If you knew you had but one more year to see, what would you look at during that time? An Iowa school teacher is racing over Europe seeing its beauties of art and scenery. Think it over.

This is the season of fires, despite the fact that we have not had one in Pampa for a long time. Don't break our good record through Christmas carelessness.

The rugged raw material, often the finer the finished product; don't judge a person or thing too quickly.

If Oklahoma did not act that way often, she would be suspected of advertising a favorite son for president through dramatic proceedings.

Since Cal has decided not to give himself to the nation, he can merely extend best wishes and let it go at that.

BARBS

(By N.E.A. Service Inc.)

A professor has gone to Egypt to translate a medical manuscript of the seventeenth century before Christ. And suppose that should turn out to be only another lady telling about her operation!

Marion Talley has expressed a desire to settle down on a "a little farm in Ohio" when she gets tired of opera. That's another reason why Panhandle farms should be more widely advertised.

If there is nothing in a name, why is rabbit fur priced differently to 75 names?

General Motors and Ford are not fighting one another.

The business man who left most of his estate to a lawyer probably figured he'd save his relatives a lot of trouble.

A college girl had 3000 guests at her wedding. What will she do with all those candlesticks?

Some people persist in paying rent and buying food, with not a single automobile in the family.

The only thing Oklahoma needs to get pretty well mixed up these days is a couple of Burns detectives.

they have told us again and again. Each is merely peacefully trying to sell the same type of car to the same people.

Christmas shoppers' faces must be all the style this year, the way they're worn.

The barbers now call themselves chirotonors. But talk about the weather we had last Christmas would sound as sweet by any other name.

Siler Faulkner, Jr. Is Given Surprise Dinner Wednesday

The thirteenth birthday of Siler Faulkner Jr., was celebrated with an enjoyable surprise dinner given him by his mother, Mrs. Siler Faulkner, Wednesday evening. His friends presented him with a number of nice gifts, and games were enjoyed following the serving of a most delightful dinner.

The group went to the play given by the Players club, "The Boomerang," as entertainment for an enjoyable evening. Those present were H. L. Ledrick, Joe Kahl, Wiley Reynolds, Noel Reynolds, Leo Saulsbury, Benton Doucette, and Siler Faulkner.

Mrs. W. L. Woodward, Miss Betty Blue, and Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbery left today for Santa Anna, where they will spend the holidays with relatives.

Social Calendar

All members of the Lone Star Bridge club will meet at Mr. Lavender's office on West Foster Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for an important business meeting.

The Amusu Bridge club will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Kingsbery, with Mrs. W. L. Woodward as hostess.

The Baptist W. M. U. will hold a general meeting of the various Circles Wednesday afternoon in the church at 2:30 o'clock.

The Ladies Aid of the Christian church will meet Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. A. Shackleton, with Mrs. Roy Tignor as assistant hostess.

The members of the Bachelor's club will entertain in the Schneider hotel with a dance Thursday evening.

General Meeting of Baptist W. M. U. Is Held Wednesday

A general session of the Baptist W. M. U. circles met Wednesday afternoon at the church with seventeen present. The business session was conducted by Mrs. Harry Barnard, President of the W. M. U.

A program, taken from the manual of study, Royal Service, was beneficial and enlightening to those present. Those taking part in the program were Mrs. E. F. Brake, Mrs. McAllister and Mrs. T. B. Solomon. The devotional was led by Mrs. G. C. Stark.

Christian Aid Discusses Plans For Coming Year

The Ladies Aid of the First Christian church met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. A. Shackleton with ten members present. During the business session a nominating committee was appointed for selecting the officers for the coming year, the election to be held at the next meeting in January. Those comprising committee are Mrs. Alva Duenkel, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Alta Stanard.

Plans for the year 1928 were discussed including a church calendar that will be held throughout the year for the purpose of raising a building fund. This calendar will employ the service of practically every woman member of the church giving every one the opportunity to help. Progressive teas will also be given during the next few months.

Christmas decorations were used in keeping with the season, and delicious refreshments were served those present.

Christmas Holidays To Bring Activities For Young and Old

With dear ones coming home from college and married children returning to the home with their families to spend Christmas with their parents, and parties, dinners, and clubs heralding the glad Christmas with many delightful affairs, Christmas Day in Pampa promises to be one of the most joyously welcomed of any of the past years.

Society turned attention to Christmas festivities several weeks ago, and every club in the city has had a share in the round of entertainments. A long list of homecoming boys and girls will be a double inspiration next week for celebrations, and teas, dinners, and dances will furnish delightful playtime for everyone.

Santa Claus promises to be more generous than ever this year, and every stocking is expected to be full and running over with good things. Clubs and benevolent societies, as well as many individuals who always assume their share of alms giving, are searching out for everyone whom Santa Claus may not be aware of, and no one will be intentionally left out.

Frank Williams, superintendent of the Panhandle district of the Bent Concrete Pipe company of Amarillo, is in Pampa today in connection with the installation of his product in the sewer project. Two-thirds of the 15-inch pipe has been delivered. The Amarillo factory is producing about one-half mile of this pipe per day.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Carr spent Wednesday in Wheeler with relatives.

Miss Moleta Lefors is returning home today from Austin, where she has been attending the Texas university.

Mrs. Chester Carr is visiting relatives in Claude.

Miss Elizabeth Corson returned today from attending school in Trinity university at Waxahachie.

Mother's Cook Book

We have not fulfilled every duty unless we have fulfilled that of being pleasant.

SEASONABLE FOODS

THERE is no vegetable nicer than well-baked Hubbard squash. It is one of the best of that try:

Squash Souffle.

Take two cupfuls of mashed cooked squash, add gradually one cupful of cream; when well mixed add two well-beaten egg yolks, seasoning to taste, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in a moderate oven in a well-buttered pan.

Ice Box Rolls.

Dissolve two compressed yeast cakes in one-fourth of a cupful of water. To two cupfuls of boiling water add four tablespoonfuls of sweet lard, one-half cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful of salt. When cool add two beaten eggs and the yeast with four cupfuls of flour, mix and beat well and add two more cupfuls of flour, stirring well with a spoon until well mixed. Do not knead. Set away in the ice box, well covered. Three hours before the rolls are needed, take out bits of the dough; it will be hard to handle but grease the fingers well and handle quickly, using very little flour. Make into flat buns, leaving plenty of room to rise and spread. Cover well with melted lard; this keeps them moist and the tops from forming a crust and the rolls rise better. Bake in a hot oven. If properly made they will be as light and delicate as angel food.

Chili Con Carni.

Take one and one-half pounds of fresh lean pork with some fat, one and one-half pounds of round steak, all put through a meat grinder. Brown three good-sized sliced onions, add the meat, a dried chili pepper, two quarts of tomato, two or three tablespoonfuls of chili powder with salt and pepper to season. Simmer for three hours, then add two cans kidney beans and cook another half hour. Serve hot.

Curry of Rabbit.

Cut up the rabbit as for fricassee, brown well, add two medium-sized onions chopped and two teaspoonfuls of curry powder. Cook 15 minutes in a little fat, add a very little water, cover and cook until the rabbit is tender. More water may be added to keep the meat from burning, but only a tablespoonful at a time.

Lace's Grace

Very feminine and exceedingly graceful is the new lace gown with long streamers that decorates a modish gown. Silk roses scatter color about it.

TO THE PAMPA HARVESTERS.

You may not have been victorious, You may not have gotten the "breaks," But you've got the fighting spirit, And that is what it takes.

You may not have won in numbers, Or in glory had a part, But the way you fought and held the line, Will remain in Pampa's heart.

Faith---

Margaret was openly excited. She did little things in preparation for the "big day" and thought she did much to help. Mrs. McCarthy her head and sighed whenever she caught sight of the happy, smiling face, so confident of happiness the next day.

Run across the street, Mamie, and borrow a cup o' sugar from Mrs. O'Hara. Real quick now," she commanded, entering the kitchen.

"Let me go too," begged Margaret.

"We-el, a'right, but hurry along." Mamie grabbed her friends' hand and led her down the steps into the dark night.

They had almost reached the center of the street when a fast moving automobile turned the corner and bore down upon them.

"Run, Mag, run," screamed Mamie.

But Margaret ran in the opposite direction directly in front of the car.

A man in the rear of it stood up. "God! Did you hit her?" he asked. It was Margaret's friend, the German—the nice gentleman who had reassured her belief in Santa Claus.

The chauffeur carried the little limp body to his master.

"Right over her head, sir."

By this time Mamie had arrived on the scene and was crying and wringing her hands.

The big, burly man motioned to her.

"Tell them that I, Dr. Steinberg, took her to the Steinberg hospital."

At the hospital an X-ray picture was made of Margaret's skull.

Dr. Steinberg seemed much relieved after examining the negative. "My chauffeur must have been mistaken, she is only stunned. But there is a great pressure on her optical nerve. I'm going to operate right now!"

Margaret suffered misery all night, but about day-light she fell into a peaceful sleep. When she did awake, she was calm and passive. As she opened her eyes she saw only darkness. Some one approached the bed and gently removed the bandage from over her eyes. At first all was blurred and she felt dizzy, but gradually her vision cleared, and she gazed upon the room and its occupants in astonishment. Finally she perceived the doctor bending over her.

"Merry Christmas, Margaret," he greeted.

She stared at his gray hair and
