POLO GROUNDS, New York, Sept. 20.—(P)—George Harper's bat having served death and destruction to the New York Giants in the first game of today's doubleheader, the St. Louis Cardinals set out to snare the second fray, which would all but wreck the Giants' hope for the National league pennant.

Path of Porto Rico-Florida Storm

The swath of death and destruction cut by the hurricane that swept Porto Rico, the Bahamas and struck the Florida east coast with unabated fury is graphically shown in the map above. In devastated Porto Rico, hundreds were killed, half the population is homeless and 30,000 people face the danger of famine. Warnings of the storm had been broadcast and, therefore, Jupiter, West Palm Beach and other Florida points dotting the east coast down to Fort Lauderdale, were ready for the gale. Miami, on the edge of the storm, was lashed by the hurricane, but was reported to have emerged without serious damage.

THREE HUNTSVILLE CONVICTS STAGE "STORY BOOK" ESCAPE

HUNTSVILLE, Sept. 20.—(P)—After executing a "story-book" escape, three convicts from the state penitentiary here were enjoying freedom while guards searched nearby highways for them. Seizing their guard, F. A. Harris, while they were working in the prison canteen, the trio stripped him and gagged and bound him. One of their number then disguised himself as a guard, using Harris' clothes, and lining his two companions up marched them out of the prison past several other guards. Three blocks from the prison they commandeered an automobile and when last seen were at Waverly 18 miles south of here moving rapidly. James Gillespie, sentenced to 35 years for assault to murder in Tarrant county was one of the prisoners who escaped. The others were J. C. Parker, Hill county, forgery and Styne Weathered, Johnson county, four years burglary.

Water Shortage Delays Paving

Paving operations are at a standstill because of the scarcity of water here to a broken pump at well No. 6, formerly supplying more than half the city's water supply. The Stuckey Construction company was ready to begin paving of Frost street when the breakdown occurred. While operations are delayed, fine grading is being completed and paving prepared for opening to traffic. Parts for the pump have been ordered out of Los Angeles and should arrive here by Saturday. Installation will begin immediately upon arrival and abundant water supply should be available by Monday.

Ver Likely to Receive Reprieve

JUSTIN, Sept. 20.—(P)—One, and only two men who are scheduled to be executed at Huntsville shortly after midnight tonight, seemed certain of obtaining a reprieve today. Governor Moody announced that J. Iver of Fort Worth would not be executed until he had had an opportunity of examining the report of the pardon board on the case. He also seemed to make another investigation of the case of Tom Ross, condemned to the chair for the killing of a paymaster of a lumber camp in Nacogdoches county. Silver was sentenced for the killing of a Fort Worth theatre cashier.

Daily News Will Take Short Poll on Next President

Straw votes are being taken in all parts of the nation, and a nationwide poll is in progress under the direction of the Literary Digest. The returns will be canvassed by impartial judges before the result is announced. The straw vote will have no relation to the policy of this newspaper, and will be taken simply for its news interest. Watch for the ballot in Sunday's issue and issues to follow.

Death Toll in Florida Now 300

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 20.—(P)—The known death toll from Sunday's tropical hurricane mounted above 300 lives today. A. G. Parker, city manager of West Palm Beach, said an official check showed that 35 white person and 250 negroes all victims of the hurricane have been buried here. Seventeen were known dead in the vicinity of Okeechobee City, while reports from field workers said bodies were piled at several places in the lake region awaiting transportation to high ground for burial.

BRIBERY OF POLICE TOTALS 2 MILLIONS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—(P)—An envelope containing $5,100 in $100 bills was in the possession of District Attorney Monaghan today as representing but a small portion of the $2,000,000 which he declares has been paid to police in a year by bootleggers and rum rings. Introduction of the money into the trial of Police Captain William C. Knoll came yesterday after the grand jury, investigating possible collusion between police and bootleggers and gang murders, had obtained information tending to show the acceptance of protection money by certain police officials. After the district attorney had caused the arrest of Captain Knoll and

The youth was arrested at Vernon, B. C., yesterday and was subsequently taken to Kamloops. He neither admitted nor denied he was the man sought as the California murder man suspect. The woman was in jail at Calgary, Alta. She was taken off an eastbound train at that city. Although she repeatedly denied she was Mrs. Northcott, Chief of Police Ritchie pronounced he was positive she was the woman sought.

Cole carried the exhibit to Amarillo. The Gray county booth will be in the center of the agricultural building along the south wall and in one of the most prominent spots in the building. The background of the booth will be composed of an oil derrick placed on top of the names of each town in the county, all made of grain. Along the top of the booth will be a sign in grain reading "We grow food for the world and cook it." Everything in the exhibit was grown in Gray county and gathered by Mr. Briggs. Local citizens are urged to attend the fair and realize what is grown in Gray county.

The first letter arrived a week ago today, but news of the extortion did not leak out until yesterday after five letters had been received. Twice in the last week officers have accompanied the professor to rendezvous which the letter writer had made, but in both cases no one appeared to claim the money. Dr. Downer has three daughters, Corneille, 17, Lucy, 15, and Belle, 9.

DELEGATIONS ON HAND FROM EVERY COUNTY

Governor Is Resting for Important Speech Tonight

PARTY LEADERS JOIN TRAIN

Candidate Told Opposition Is Melting as at Houston

BY HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 20.—(P)—Arriving in the capital of Oklahoma today, Governor Smith immediately found himself the center of a monster state-wide demonstration. A great crowd which had been waiting since early morning sent up a tremendous shout of welcome as the Democratic presidential nominee's special train pulled into the Rock Island depot at 10 a. m., an hour late. Delegations from every county in the state, which the Democrats carried in the last presidential election, were included in the reception throng, as well as thousands of citizens of Oklahoma City, all dressed up for the New York executive.

Big Parade Arranged
Lining the streets on the route to the governor's hotel were additional thousands, waiting for a huge parade which had been arranged in honor of the nominee and which he was to lead. Tonight, Governor Smith will make the second speech of his campaign in the west in the capital's coliseum. By working late last night while his train moved through South Central Kansas he had completed a rough draft of his address, expected to be one of the most important of his series of six in the Middle and Far West. Since daybreak, when an extra car carrying 16 members of a reception committee joined the 11 car Democratic special at Enid, crowds had watched the Governor's train speed by. At El Reno, a stop of ten minutes was made while Bruce Kremer, Democratic national committeeman from Montana and a member of the governor's party, spoke to a large group that had been waiting to give the first real Oklahoma greeting.

Governor Smith Rests
Charles W. Berry, comptroller of New York City and Governor Smith's physician on his two weeks' tour also addressed the El Reno citizens, expressing regret that the governor could not appear because he had been up late working on his Oklahoma City speech and needed rest. Mrs. John A. Warner, Gov. Smith's daughter, went to the rear platform and greeted the group on behalf of her father. She was presented with a basket of flowers.

Among the 16 who joined the special at Enid were three former governors of Oklahoma, Cruce, Walton, and Trapp; Scott Ferris, Democratic national committeeman from the state; George Key state chairman, and Otis Lorton, publisher of the Tulsa World, which has come out for Smith.

"Conditions Improving"
Mr. Ferris, who also is a vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee and a former member of Congress from Oklahoma, advised Gov. Smith and members of his party of the political outlook in the state, declaring conditions from the Democratic standpoint were steadily improving with victory for the Smith-Robinson ticket a certainty. "I've been all over the state delivering speeches," said Ferris. "Things didn't look so good a while ago, but there is a pronounced trend our way. Three weeks from today the situation will be twice as good as today, and by election time Oklahoma will be safely Smith's."

Opposition Dissolves
"It's just like the pre-convention period. A long time before the convention there was opposition in Oklahoma to Gov. Smith, but is gradually dissolved as the Houston convention drew near."

More Federal Laws?

In the development of American government, the newness of the country and the sparsity of population has resulted in provincialism of law enforcement, or, to put it differently, has placed the burden of enforcement in the small community, county, or state where individual liberty is supposed to repose.

A citizen who does a lot of thinking along law enforcement lines suggests the need for more federal laws, as opposed to smaller jurisdictions and restricted methods. Break a federal law, and theoretically the whole nation hunts for the offender; break a state law and the man-hunt grows weaker as the fugitive passes from one state to another.

Individual liberty is a great thing, but the point has come in our complex development where it cannot be controlled by local means alone, and a judicial and law enforcement system giving less heed to county and state boundaries is needed. The story of Norfolk as a detective illustrates the possibilities where search for offenders does not weaken at every state line.

With airplanes reducing state borders to actual imaginary lines, it is not apparent that law enforcement by states as units must pass into a more closely knit system? Offenders are using the latest weapons that science affords. Their communications give instant contact between the ramifications in the various large cities. For there to be no more efficient federal plan to cope with this situation than there is seems highly illogical, and it explains the obvious inefficiency for which this nation is becoming notorious. Our officers, in their spheres, are perhaps as good as the average the world over, but they are not as well organized, fortified, and supported as are the crooks of that lower world. How long will it be until identification of transient criminals is accomplished by telephoto or television? How long will it be until every large police force can instantly and officially communicate with any other similar body in the country? How long will it be until county officers are taken out of their relative isolation and given the instruments, mechanical and legal, which would make real efficiency possible?

With prosecuting officers often looking more to personal profits than enforcement of law, with commissioners courts winking at violations in the interest of economy, and with weak-kneed grand juries turning in vacillating reports on conditions long unproved, how can the county or district make a record for efficient government?

The federal plan, as it now exists, is little better. One branch of the federal service pays no attention to violations in another. Prohibition agents ignore customs violations, and vice versa. In liquor law enforcement, which is a national issue if the people ever wake up, federal officers are in number about one to every hundred offenders. Recently a high Texas prohibition official told the writer, in the office where this is written, that he did not have enough men to control the road houses of one of the larger Texas cities, much less handle the situation by counties. He practically confines his activities to the larger cities, answering county calls only when sheriffs make requests, which are few. Were the county officers coordinated in their activities and given the help of centralized authority, enforcement would take on a different aspect.

Such a change in the fundamental law is, of course, revolutionary, and these words will be offensive to many personal theories readers have been grounded in from the primer on up. But a judicial revolution is coming.

When law breaking, such as bootlegging, spreads its ramifications from coast to coast; when veritable armies are organized to man and defend choice areas for illicit sales; when the wealthy wholesalers protect their retail clients with bonds, lawyers, bribery of officers, and other extra-legal means, it is time for constituted authority to take the steps necessary to cop with the situation. Despite the raids made upon some offenders, nearly every community has "prominent" law breakers with which officers have "understandings". These are no secrets, but are common knowledge and conversation wherever one goes.

This newspaper stands for prohibition, not merely in the theoretical sense, but in the actual enforcement sense. If the agitation now current over the country for perpetuating the Eighteenth amendment were diverted as well to enforcement in individual communities, much good would result. No candidate, for or against the amendment, is big enough to obscure local enforcement problems.

In the Panhandle, jammed dockets make efficient enforcement of any law difficult. With respect to prohibition, present restrictions on search warrants make raiding highly ineffective, since the evidence and often the offenders disappear by the time all the preliminary work is done and the warrants issued. Legal procedure should be studied by every responsible citizen. Passing the blame to the officers is all right, where the blame belongs, but the failure of Texas citizenry to support judicial reforms is going to bring the responsibility home to the electorate.

Let us have no less adherence to principles, but a great deal more attention to methods and means of carrying out these principles. The system of yesterday will not fit the needs of today, especially since public interest in government seems decreasing, rather than increasing. Think it over.

WHIRLWIND by ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED SYBIL THORNE, bride of two weeks, has deserted her husband in Havana. RICHARD ENSTIS, fascinating and unusual, swept her into an impetuous marriage after five days' courtship. They met on shipboard and were married in Havana harbor. On their wedding night Richard became intoxicated, and despite constant promises, he continues to drink. Following a particularly vivid scene, Sybil leaves him to spend the night in another hotel. In the morning, she returns to their apartment. Richard lies in a drunken stupor across the bed. On the floor there is an empty bottle and the card of one of Havana's notorious women. Completely disillusioned, Sybil seeks MABEL BLAKE, a Boston social worker, with whom she had made the trip to Cuba. Mabel, meantime, has become engaged to JACK MOORE, an American salesman visiting in Havana. Sybil tells them of the real break with Richard, and begs Mabel to return to Boston with her. They sail that afternoon, leaving Sybil still weeping. On the way home Mabel surprises Sybil by suggesting an immediate divorce and advancing the possibility of marriage with CRAIG NEWSHALL. Craig is a Boston young man—the most eligible bachelor in Boston—and very much in love with Sybil. She was in fact engaged to him at the time of her mad marriage with Enstis. Sybil becomes ill and Mabel, thoroughly alarmed, seeks the advice of Dr. Henderson, a passenger on their boat. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

MABEL had never felt so uncomfortable in her life. A brick red flush intensified her unbecoming surliness. She felt that all the blood in her face had rushed to her blistered nose. Even her eyes smarted with painful embarrassment. "And I'm a social worker," she reminded herself sternly, "and supposed to be hard boiled!" Dr. Henderson was regarding her curiously. "If there is anything I can do—" he repeated, and smiled in an amiable, professional sort of way. "It isn't about myself I wanted to ask you," she stammered. "It's a friend of mine. Oh, Doctor, won't you sit over there for a few minutes so that I can talk without anybody hearing us?" They found deck chairs while poor Mabel murmured distractedly, "You're very good." And when they had seated themselves she began to talk rapidly. "I don't know how to begin. Perhaps I'm foolish to bother you, but I'm so worried. You see—it's this way, Doctor—" and she launched into the story of Sybil's marriage.

"It would be worse than that. They'd never believe Sybil had been married at all." DOCTOR HENDERSON twirled his thumbs upon his little round stomach. "And how," he asked, "did you think I could help you?" Mabel explained. "But you see I may be making a mountain out of a mole hill. But she's perfectly miserable. She hasn't been able to eat a thing since we came aboard. Do you suppose, Doctor, that she is going to have a baby?" "Thoughtfully the little physician gazed upon the ocean. "Well, now, that's a very difficult thing to say—at this stage of the game. There are no hard and fast rules for the condition you contemplate. None at all—unfortunately. "In any case, I should advise that you keep your misgivings from her. Divert her mind. Get her out on deck if you can."

"Would you be willing to drop in and see her, Doctor?" "It wouldn't do a particle of good, my dear young lady." THAT night Sybil slept fitfully. Mabel never closed her eyes. The dreadful uncertainty of it! In four days they would be with Craig and the family. Mabel pounded her pillow fiercely and moaned in silent misery. "Of all the horrible complications!" The next morning Sybil went to breakfast in the salon. But it was the last time she essayed it. She had luncheon and dinner brought to her on deck, and announced her intention that evening of having all her meals in her deck chair. "It's really much pleasanter," she said. "It's so stuffy in the dining room."

think real love can forgive most anything. "But I couldn't forgive Rich." "Of course you couldn't. That was different. He innated you—outraged you—oh, my dear, there isn't any comparison at all." "Perhaps Craig will think I treated him as horribly as Rich treated me. In a way there's a sort of parallel." "There isn't, Sib. Craig will understand."

After that she spent most her time in the open, even sleeping one hot night on the boat deck. And so the days passed, lastly and pleasantly enough, until the journey home was over. THEY were getting in in the afternoon. Sybil, in a deck chair, munched an apple meditatively. "Well, Mab," she confided, "I've made up my mind what I'm going to do. I'm not going to say one single word about Richard to anybody. "If Craig still wants to marry me, after the shameful way I've treated him, I'm going to wait until I'm altogether sure of myself. Then, if I know I want to marry him—and, oh, my dear, I'd be sure this time—I'll make a clean breast of everything. Perhaps it will kill Craig's love, but I guess that would be my punishment." "As if you hadn't had enough now!" interrupted Mabel. "Life's all punishment for me." "Oh, don't be morbid, dear. It isn't exactly a bed of roses for any of us, you know. Makes you wonder what it's all about, doesn't it? Life's so hellish—it seems as if there ought to be something good somewhere." "Well, I'll have my little heaven, if I ever patch things up with Craig. If he cares enough, Mab, I could get a divorce after a while." "Of course you could, dear. What did I tell you?" "Well, there wouldn't be any sense in it. It wasn't going to do some good. Do you suppose Craig will want me, Mab—when he knows?" "Oh, I'm sure he will, Sib. I

MABEL tried to sound confident, but her heart was full of misgivings. Suppose Craig did love Sybil, just the same. Suppose he did want to marry her. But suppose Sybil was going to have a baby—Richard's baby. How would Craig feel about that? And how about Richard? It would be his baby, too. Mightn't he want it? That was a new idea. Mabel pondered it silently. Perhaps Sybil would let him have it. If she didn't love Rich, perhaps she wouldn't love the baby—his baby. Sybil interrupted her train of thought. "Mab, I was talking with the captain yesterday," she demanded. "He says that all life is accidental, and that everything is chance. He had the thing pretty well-doped. I think I rather agree with him. "Take me for instance. I'm sure Mother was satisfied enough with Tad before I ever came along. All my life I've thought she half-resented me." "Sybil!" Mabel's laughing protest was rather shocked. "Well, I have," insisted Sybil. "Might as well be frank about it. Now suppose you forget your outraged sensibilities for a minute, Mab, and listen to me." Two Harvesters in No Condition for College Game

With enough material for four teams, Coach Mitchell and his assistant, A. M. Fox, have a job on their hands. The first team, meeting Clarendon college Bulldogs this afternoon, was put through a light signal practice yesterday.

Oran Barnard will be unable to be in the line-up because of a broken nose. It is likely that Walstad will only play part of today's game, as he is suffering from a boil on his knee. Otherwise, the team will be the same as started against Quannah last Saturday afternoon when the Harvesters won, 30 to 0.

With boys of all sizes and degrees of experience out, the coaches are having considerable difficulty in picking a second team. The youngsters are working hard, putting everything into their practice. There are some exceptionally good passers and receivers among the youngsters that should make excellent first team material next season, when several of the veterans will be lost by graduation.

In all, 46 boys were in uniform last night and the field looked like a beehive with the fast moving elevens driving up and down the gridiron. Three new men appeared for practice last night and will be given a chance on the first team.

Women of Texas University to Have Physical Training

AUSTIN, Sept. 20.—Dr. D. K. Bruce, professor of physical education at the University of Texas, will assist the department of physical training for women in registration this year by giving the girls motor ability tests.

"These tests will be given in groups," said Dr. Bruce, "and will determine the girls' abilities in certain fields of activity. They will be grouped in classes according to their ability and this will aid the instruction in grading them. Some girls put very little into physical training, yet they do everything so easily that they get a much higher grade than those who are working harder with less ability. With this system of grading, the girls will receive a grade which takes into consideration their natural ability."

"These tests are to be under my supervision, but they will be given for the benefit of the physical training department for women. The physical education department is an entirely separate organization from the physical training department; in fact, that is one reason why the University still clings to the term physical training when such activities are more properly known as physical education. Nearly every enterprise has come through periods of development and change, and so has the teaching of gymnastics, sports and so forth. At first such activities were known by the name of physical culture, later they came to be known as physical training, but now they are called physical education."

"In our department of physical education, we instruct the men and women on the needs, development and structure of the body as well as the method of teaching physical education in other institutions of learning. Boys wishing to coach athletics in later years should take the course offered here in coaching even though they may not take a degree in the department."

"The degree in physical education has only been offered two years and during that time we have awarded five degrees. At present we have from 60 to 70 majors in this field, including 90 to 95 women and some 12 or 18 men, which makes about two-thirds as many majoring in this as in education."

Plains Specials

B. L. Caldwell, who lives in Hall county, 2 1/2 miles west of Tell, has a farm of 200 acres, about 165 of which are in cultivation. They moved on this farm fourteen years ago, having bought it the summer before from J. J. Land's father. They came here from Elida, New Mexico, where they had formerly lived.

When they bought the place they paid down about $750 on it and owed the balance. They purchased 160 acres at a cost of $18 per acre. The balance was placed in 300 equal payments. One year they failed to make the payment—in fact could hardly pay the interest to the First National bank in Childress.

They first started in the dairy business the first of July a year ago. They had sold a little cream before this time but did not get a separator until the second day of July a year ago. Their object in getting some dairy cows and selling cream was to try and get out of debt. They now have the land all paid for and in addition, about seven or eight year ago, they purchased 40 acres for $22 per acre.

They started dairying with five cows, but they had to get a separator. They are hereby given that the Flick Construction company will not be responsible for any debts contracted by anyone employed in the construction of the O & C. W. Railroad except on an order from the Flick Construction company signed by Z. C. Mitchell.

Epworth League is Well Represented at Union Meeting

Twenty-three members of the Epworth League took part in the meeting of the Northern Union of the Pampa district at the Methodist church in Groom Tuesday evening. Mr. Strother, educational director of the Pampa church, conducted the devotional of the evening. W. C. Williams, who is president of the Epworth League, was elected president of the union. A musical program was given by the Groom League.

The Union meetings are held monthly in the various towns in this section of the Clarendon district for the purpose of creating a closer contact among the young people of the churches for carrying on the work and increasing the membership of the league are exchanged. At each meeting the host chapter gives a program and entertains the visitors with a social affair. The next meeting will be held at Alameda.

Presbyterian Women Guests at Reception Wednesday Afternoon

One of the season's loveliest affairs was the reception given yesterday by the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary for all women of the church. The auditorium of the church, where the affair was held, was arranged as a living room for the occasion. The curtains were drawn and the room was softly lighted by floor lamps. Bowls of flowers gave a final touch to the charming, home-like setting.

Sixty-one guests attended the reception, which was informal and by way of a "get-acquainted" meeting. Old members greeted new members with the local auxiliary or church. Mrs. McDonald, president of the auxiliary, graciously welcomed the guests in a short talk. Shortly afterward a delightful program was given. Mrs. F. L. Elliott played two selections on the piano. Her numbers were followed by a vocal solo, in the Garden of Tomorrow, sung by Mrs. Robert Chafin. Mrs. Carson Loftus read two humorous readings. Mrs. McKimling gave piano solos. Vocal duets by Mrs. A. H.

Doucette and Mrs. Elliott added much interest to the program. Their selections were How I Love a Summer Day and In the Evening, Miss Ruth Abramson, one of the new faculty members and an accomplished reader, gave two humorous character skits. A piano solo by Dorothy Dodd and a vocal solo by Dorothy Doucette were enjoyed. La Verne Twiford played a beautiful violin solo, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. H. G. Twiford, at the piano, as the closing number.

Punch was served throughout the afternoon and a refreshment plate was passed at five o'clock.

Mrs. Grover Morris and Mrs. Esther Smith are in Amarillo this afternoon.

H. T. Hampton is a business visitor in Chickasha, Okla., today.

A. T. Patton of Amarillo was among the business visitors in this city yesterday.

Green Jacket Club Costumes to Cost More Than $600

Drill practice for the Green Jacket club, Central high pep squad, will be held every Monday and Wednesday afternoons south of the school building. It was announced by Sponsor L. K. Maxey at a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Costumes for the club will cost $650, and will make it the best dressed organization in the Panhandle, members say. Costumes for the boys will cost $6 each, and for girls $8 each. A carnival will be held in November, the proceeds of which will be used in reimbursing those who buy costumes, with the refund not to exceed 50 per cent of the total cost.

After today, no one will be admitted to the club except football boys who do not play basketball and faculty members.

The official club song is "Dear Old Pampa High School," the words of which are by Prof. E. B. Fisher to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." The song:

"Dear Old Pampa high school We're in love with you. Dear old Pampa High school We will be true blue. Keep your colors flying As we stand by you. Dear old Pampa High School We're in love with you."

Curtis "Mixes It" With His Hecklers

CURTIS PRIVATE CAR IN NEBRASKA, Sept. 20.—(P)—Readiness of Senator Curtis, Republican vice-presidential nominee, to mix it with hecklers as shown in Iowa yesterday, has won the candidate the plaudits of the crowds of the Middle West.

After three strenuous days of campaigning across Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa, the senator today faced a long cross country drive from his private car to visit the Sioux Indians who are celebrating their fiftieth anniversary of encamping on the Rosebud reservation in South Dakota with an old time pow-wow. He was on the back platform this morning greeting those along the route in Nebraska.

T. C. U. Has Nucleus of Veterans Around Which to Work

FORT WORTH, Sept. 20.—Light scrimmage is the order of the day at the Texas Christian university football camp this week, with Coach Matty Bell perfecting his offensive plays through dummy signals and passive blocking. Only once did Matty demand rough action when he supervised a rehearsal on the part of the ends and halfbacks in their assault on the tackles. The squad worked every day until dark, tacking and blocking the dummy, running signals and snaring passes.

Several new prospects for center underwent the inspection of line-coach Edwin Kuhale with the hope of discovering likely material for the position. The graduation of both letter men at that position last year left the Frogs rather weak in the middle of the line. However, with Noble Atkins, 198-pounder from Crystal Falls, and John Hirstine, former Fort Worth North Side high star, reporting, Bell feels pretty secure on that score.

Atkins, who was a squadman last year, showed up so well as a center during spring football training that he is almost a cinch to land the job. Besides being an accurate passer, Noble is a good defensive man with plenty of speed and ability to break up passes, tossed into the Frog flanks. His greatest ability however lies in his "educated toe." Several times during practice last season, Atkins scored field goals from the 40-yard line, and his aim is deadly inside the 30-marker. Bell will use him for all three tries and for kick after touchdown.

Hirstine is a veteran ball passer but is handicapped by his weight. Jimmie tips the scales at 160, rather light for a conference pivot man. He has plenty of fight, however, and is fast. Roberts "Sanddipper" George of Van Alstyne, a last year's squadman, is also out for center but he too is hindered by lack of weight.

Coach Bell, working with the largest squad ever to report to him since he has led the Purple, there being over forty aspirants on the field, has been busily engaged in whipping the men into shape, and, with two work outs daily, has made great progress.

Seven of last year's letter men are reporting. They include Lester Drum-below, Jackboro, guard; Fain Reynolds, Aldo, guard; Milford "Buck" Barr, Kaufman, tackle; Captain J. C. "Jake" Williams, Fort Worth, tackle; Bell is building his 1928 contenders.

Giants to Meet Cards at Home in Double-Header

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Giants prepared to defend their home citadel against a double onslaught from the Cardinals today, although the weather-wise thought rain would halt action. Moisture might blur the glory of the greatest national league pennant pageant in this city since the Giants and the Pirates had it out for the 1925 pennant late in August of that year, but rain today would not be altogether unwelcome to John McGraw.

A postponement today would mean merely that the two games would be played tomorrow, an otherwise open date, and this would enable the little Napoleon to pit Carl Hubbell, Larry Benton, and Fred Fitzsimmons against Wee Willie Sherdel, Alex the Great and Clarence Mitchell. McGraw seems to have weakened on Joseph Genevich, late of Boston, although the manager intimated Joe would start with Benton today.

It is known, however, that the Giant chieftain was considering the plan of working out of turn with the sorrel top. The lead of the Cardinals remained at two games this morning, and nothing but a clean sweep of three would land the New York team on top in the current engagement.

Two out of three for the home forces, victors eleven times in eighteen games against the Cardinals this season, would leave the Giants in a fighting position, one game from the top and might defer decision of the National race until the last day of the season when the Cardinals are scheduled to return to the Polo Grounds for a single game—on September 30.

This location is the mystery of the Panhandle. While being drilled ahead at 5,285 feet last week, a show of high grade oil was encountered.

This is the second deepest in the Panhandle and is being watched with interest. Drilling ahead is progressing slowly, as the fluid is being bailed from the hole regularly to protect the well.

GOVERNOR SMITH'S TRAIN EN ROUTE TO OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Happy with recollections of another hectic day of "meeting and retreating" campaigning, carried well to the night through the Kansas arm belt, Governor Alfred E. Smith was in the "Border" state of Oklahoma today for his second formal bid for the presidency tonight at Oklahoma City.

The Democratic presidential nominee had made up his mind on the line of "back he will follow in his second speech in the West, having worked to last night on an advance manuscript between welcoming demonstrations at more than half a dozen Kansas cities, including Topeka, home of Senator Curtis, Republican vice-presidential candidate.

Just what the nominee planned to say had not been announced. There were indications, however, that he intended to make his stand there one of the most important of his western tour, probably taking a shot at party "outlets and countering against critics of his public record.

The religious question, one which has stirred Oklahoma politics in recent years, also was on the lips of many a possible theme.

After stops at Lincoln and Fairbury, Nebraska, yesterday, Gov. Smith's train was halted again for rear platform appearances at Belleville, Clay Center, and Manhattan, Kansas.

Mickey Conley, C. A. Schafer, and A. W. Pollard of Pampa are in Oklahoma City today to hear Governor Smith.
