COOLIDGE HAS CONFERENCE IN FORMING PLAN

Organization Sets Aside $50,000 of Its Funds

Chapters in States of Middle States on Duty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—With its task growing hourly as additional appeals for aid were sent in from the storm-swept West Indies, the American Red Cross today issued an appeal to the American people for funds and set aside $50,000 of its own money for relief and rehabilitation.

Mobilization of resources was demonstrated at a conference between President Coolidge and John Barton Payne, chairman of the organization. Messages from chapters in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands added to the serious condition of the catastrophe as pictures yesterday by the chancellor of the University of Porto Rico in the first word received from the stricken island.

Relief Work Starts

The naval destroyer Gunner left Charleston today for Porto Rico carrying Henry M. Baker, national disaster relief director and four associates. Relief work already has been started there. Manuel Mendia, acting chairman of the island chapter, called national headquarters, but it is "impossible as yet to obtain data of extent of disaster."

News of the disaster continued to come. The Red Cross was informed by cables from its Virginia Island chapters, which at St. Croix that there was no communication with St. Thomas, the capital and largest city, that hundreds were homeless and that clothes and money were needed. The navy has radio transmitters at these two points and at St. Johns but had received no information of conditions on the island.

All large Illinois units were asked to render assistance to the Rockford sufferers and assistance was proffered also to Governor Small of that state. Chapters in Nebraska, North and South Dakota have organized to aid in relieving Nebraska sufferers, national headquarters was informed.

Educators Help

The National Education Association joined in the movement to extend help to the sufferers. J. W. Crabtree, secretary, instructed heads of public instruction in the stricken areas to "give all possible organized assistance of the Red Cross in making relief effective."

The death list in tornado torn sections of Illinois, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Wisconsin rose to nineteen Saturday as workers reduced the number of missing to six at Rockford; hardest hit of the Illinois cities. In the other three states crops suffered from wind and water. Damage was approximated at several millions.

REWARD FINALLY OFFERED FOR MISSING CHILD

FOR MISSING CHILD

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—(AP)—With police in a fruitless search and his own efforts to rescue a kidnapped son proving equally futile, A. Frank Banier today abandoned his lone game and offered a reward to any one who would bring home his ten-year-old boy, Billy.

For nearly a week the Italian father had hidden the secret of the kidnaping and for three days more he had resisted every attempt of police to trail the boy.

REID IS HEAD OF NEW HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION

Representatives From Many Points Met in Wheeler

The Oil Field Highway association No. 41 extending from Oklahoma City to points in Colorado, was organized at a meeting of road enthusiasts in Wheeler Friday afternoon. F. P. Reid of Pampa was chosen president of the new association, and Harold Eldridge of Sayre, Okla., was made secretary.

A vice-president was chosen from each of the towns represented at the meeting. Lewis O. Cox, commissioner-elect of precinct 2, was the Pampa man chosen for the office. The vice-presidents chose Pampa as their next meeting place and set the date for 1:30 p. m. October 5. The meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Towns represented at the meeting were Pampa, Borger, Dumas, Stinnett, Mobeetie, Wheeler, Sweetwater, Okla. Sayre, Okla., Cordell, Okla., Binger, Okla. and Elk City.

The route of the proposed highway is from Oklahoma City to Sayre and across the line into Texas on Highway 41 to join Highway 33-A and follow it to Pampa. The road would then follow the Borger road through to Dumas and points in Colorado.

In this way a direct route would connect the east with the resorts in Colorado and materially boost the towns through which it would pass.

Rural Schools Have Larger Enrollments

Enrollment in the rural schools of Gray county and LeFors will exceed the census enumeration by more than 100, John E. Hesse, county superintendent, announced yesterday. He made a trip over the county visiting most of the rural schools last week and delivering books and checking the enrollment.

County enrollment was placed at 526, but owing to the increase of population at LeFors the increase will be great.

"A conservative estimate of the increase in county enrollment including the independent districts of Pampa, McLean, and Alameda will be 500," the county superintendent estimated after he had made a check on the enrollment thus far. "This increase will bring the total county enrollment to more than 2,800 scholars or the greatest in the history of the county," he continued.

Briggs Assembles Produce Fair Gray's

Secretary George Briggs of the local Chamber of Commerce is devoting almost his entire time to the Gray county exhibit which will be placed at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo September 22 to 29. He made a trip to McLean and Alameda Friday and Saturday and with the aid of citizens of those places gathered pumpkins, fruit, and hedges.

Mr. Briggs is delighted with the assistance he is receiving in the other towns of the county, and is sure that the Pampa booth will take a worthy prize at the fair.

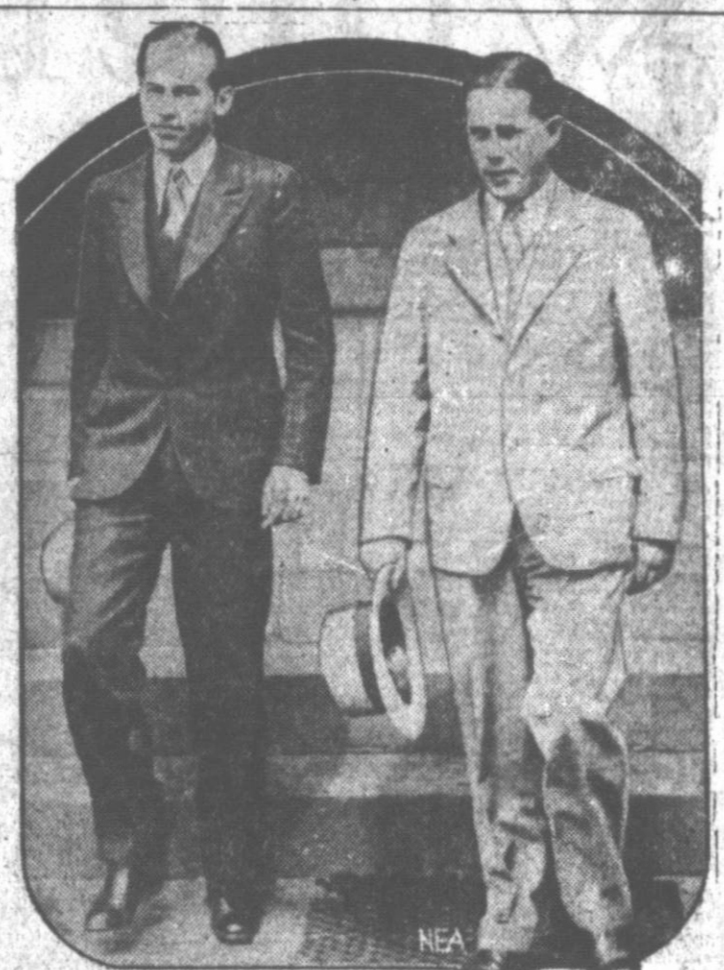

Considerable produce is stored in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and the secretary would appreciate any assistance local members could give him in preparing the bundles for show purposes.

Citizens' Gifts Used by School Children

August Gordon, of the Gordon stores, outfitted two boys with school clothes in answer to the appeal of Mrs. M. P. Downs, welfare nurse, for clothing for children who were unable to attend school because of the lack of proper clothing. Mrs. Downs also reports that the partially fitted four girls with clothing yesterday morning with clothing given by local citizens.

"I appreciate the response to my appeal for clothing, made through the columns of the papers of the city," Mrs. Downs said yesterday morning, "and can use more clothing in my work."

COOLIDGE, CLERK, HAS BODYGUARD

Though John Coolidge, son of the president, took a $30-a-week job as a railroad clerk in New Haven, Conn., just as many other young fellows have done, John still has a bodyguard. Here are John (left) and William Wood of the U. S. secret service, leaving the railroad office at the close of a busy day. The secret service will keep an agent with Coolidge as long as his father is in the White House.

GRAY JOINS HUTCHINSON IN CRUDE PRODUCTION DECLINE AND ENTIRE AREA IS SHORT

With Hutchinson county leading the landslide with a daily decrease of 1,516 barrels, followed by Gray county with a drop of 965 barrels, Panhandle production hit the toboggan during the week. Moore county also showed a slight drop in production.

Carson, with a gain of 10 barrels, and Wheeler with a rise of 45 barrels in daily production, did not aid the report much.

Paraffin in holes, pinched production, and the decrease in the flow of several wells are said to have been the causes of the big drop, the greatest in many months.

The total daily production was 63,000 barrels, as compared with 65,245 barrels of the previous week. The total daily drop amounted to 2,240 barrels.

Production by counties: Carson—6,655 barrels, a gain of 10 barrels. Gray—2,815 barrels, a loss of 665 barrels.

Hutchinson—32,730 barrels, a loss of 1,516 barrels. Moore—995 barrels, a loss of 120 barrels.

Potter—20 barrels, a loss of 5 barrels. Wheeler—315 barrels, a gain of 45 barrels.

CHICKEN RANCH SEARCHED FOR YOUNG VICTIMS

Evidence Tending to Prove Assertions of Youth

TORTURES ARE THOUGHT USED

Woman and Son in Canada Sought in Mystery

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Officials tonight began to express doubt as to the veracity of the story of the Northcott murder ranch crimes, as told to them by fifteen-year-old Sanford Clark. The boy, brought to juvenile court from the Pomona chicken ranch of George Cyrus Northcott, accused Mrs. Northcott and her 21-year-old son, Sissart, of kidnaping, torturing and killing with an axe four boys.

Tonight N. H. Winslow, of Pomona, father of two of the alleged victims of the asserted degenerate, young Northcott, stated to investigators that reports made to him of his two sons having been apprehended in Texas were true.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—(AP)—As sheriff's officers hurriedly dug up the soil on a chicken ranch in the citrus belt near Riverside today in an effort to substantiate the assertions of Sanford Clark, 15, that four boys had been tortured and murdered there, fears grew that the number of victims might prove even larger.

These fears chiefly were in homes of parents of missing children.

Officers reported late today that gruesome evidence had been found tending to bear out young Clark's charges. This consisted of a boy's hand, a boy's clothing and a boy scout's hat buried in quick lime on the Northcott farm where the murders allegedly were committed.

Tells Gruesome Story Clark, who claims he was forced through fear to yield the axe that took one life, and finally escaped after being tortured, told the sensational story last night and added to it today. He said that Gordon Cyrus Northcott, 30, and his mother, Mrs. Louisa Northcott, kidnaped the four boys and brought them to the Northcott ranch. Northcott and his mother are missing and are alleged to have fled to Canada.

Orders for their arrest have been issued. Cyrus George Northcott, 37, father of young Northcott and owner of the ranch, was being held here today as a material witness.

According to young Clark's story, the four boys kidnaped and murdered were: Walter Collins, 10, of Glendale, who disappeared last spring; Louis and Nelson Winslow, 12 and 10, respectively, of Pomona, and an unidentified Mexican about 17 years old. The murders, Clark declared, were preceded by tortures such as only a degenerate would think of inflicting. The story is believed by police to have solved the mystery of the disappearance of the Collins boy. The lad was believed found recently in Illinois and was returned to his mother here. She was suspicious and said the lad was not her son. Only yesterday Mrs. Collins returned the boy to Juvenile hall, saying she was positive the boy was not hers.

Empty Graves Found Clark said it was the younger of the Winslow boys he was forced to slay to save his own life, and to obtain permission to leave. He said the murders took place in and around an old hen house and that the bodies were all buried. Traces of graves were found by investigators but it was apparent that any bodies they had contained had been removed, supposedly through fear of detection.

Clark was brought to Juvenile hall several days ago after a sister had come from Saskatoon, Canada for a visit on the Northcott ranch. Threatened, she said, by the Northcotts, the girl feared to tell what she knew of the murders.

New Ruling on Well Drilling to Be Enforced Now

A recent field order issued by the oil and gas division of the railroad commission and received here yesterday is as follows:

"In keeping with the purpose of the laws of the state governing the conservation of crude oil and natural gas it is ordered that all wells drilled in the Panhandle field where gas is encountered above the oil pay and has been cased off in accordance with the laws of Texas and the existing rules of the railroad commission, all brackishheads must be closed as soon as possible after the gas has been cased off and drilling tools are below the casing shoe."

According to J. M. McDonald, deputy supervisor here, this ruling will be enforced in this territory. He states that the commission placed the ruling into effect some time ago but had not strictly enforced it, thinking drillers would comply.

"A Looming Issue"

Under the heading of "A Looming Issue in Texas," the Wichita (Falls) Daily Times carried this editorial: "A lively contest is in prospect in Texas next year over the state-wide road bond issue proposal sponsored by Highway Commissioner Sterling. The idea has already met with wider favor than might have been expected, but it has a long way to go, with the chances, of course, against its success."

"At the meeting of the Panhandle-North Plains division of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce this week at Pampa, resolutions opposing the bond issue were adopted. These resolutions are the first that we have seen that put the objections to the bond issue into definite form. One objection is that a five-cent gasoline tax is too much. Another is that the taking over of county bond issues by the state would mean that the state pays out good money for roads that will soon have to be replaced because worn out. Another objection raised at Pampa was that the highway commission cannot efficiently spend more than $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 annually and that to make a larger amount available in a lump would mean that much interest would be paid before the roads were built."

"The chief obstacle to the bond issue is the fact that it must take the form of a constitutional amendment, first passing both houses of the legislature by two-thirds vote and then obtaining popular approval at the polls. As for the wisdom of the bond issue itself, that is resolved into a question of arithmetic. It may be that there is a way to obtain a state-wide system of roads without issuing bonds. From Wichita county's standpoint, the question of reimbursement for the two and a quarter millions this county has already spent (not including Electra's district bond issue) is a vital one. This county's voters would steadfastly oppose any plan which took additional money out of this county to build highways elsewhere. This county, as one largely dependent on the oil industry, would likely oppose a five-cent gasoline tax. Yet Wichita Falls and Wichita county fully realize the value of a state-wide, connected system of good roads, and would be willing to go as far as almost any other county to bring it about."

The Times of Wichita presents an interesting angle when it says that Wichita county would oppose any plan which would take any money out of the county for highways elsewhere. The voters would raise no objection, however, should the State assume the outstanding bonds on the projects which required $2,250,000. The Wichita Falls editor is somewhat in error in attributing specific opposition in Pampa to the resolutions adopted by the Panhandle-North Plains Chamber of Commerce. The resolutions declared against burdening any business or commodity, alone, with road building and upkeep, having in mind the placing of the entire financial burden upon the oil business. Specific objections mentioned came from President Andy Bourland of W. T. C. C., speaking unofficially. West Texas is desirous of cooperating with the state in connecting the roads in the various areas, but, knowing that it has been imposed upon in the past, is exercising an expedient caution in helping to guide the legislation that is now taking form.

WASHINGTON — In the election year of 1920 the cost of living was higher than at any other time, before or since. That was the year of the first of the last two Republican landslides and the voters turned out the party in power. It seems likely that many voters were good and sore about the high cost of living and that if running expenses had been lower than usual at the time the Democrats still might be in control. But this is only speculation based on the assumption that the average voter reacts politically according to what happens to be biting him most and worst, without particular regard for basic causations. Living costs have been pretty well stabilized for the last six years, so they're not likely to figure in the present campaign except, perhaps, in the case of the farmer, miner or mill worker who isn't receiving the wherewith to meet them.

The latest figures, assembled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, show that the cost of living, as accurately as it can be determined, is exactly 70 per cent higher than in the last pre-war year of 1913. That is, it was 70 per cent higher June 15 and has had little chance or reason to fluctuate since.

The high mark was 116.5 per cent, reported for June, 1920. There is nothing to show that the Wilson administration, rather than the war, was responsible for that, especially since 25 or 30 per cent was looped off that figure before it went out of office. At the end of 1921 we were still paying 74.3 per cent more to live and as the post-war deflation went on we got down to 66.3, but that's rock bottom since 1913.

For more than six years now, living costs have run from two-thirds to three-fourths above prewar. Subsequent per centages taken for June in each year, have been: 1923 69.7, 1924 69.1, 1925 73.5, 1926 74.8, 1927 73.4 and 1928 70. From June, 1927 to June, 1928 decreases of from .5 to 4.2 per cent were shown in 32 of the principal cities. The largest decrease was shown in Jacksonville, Fla. Between June, 1920 and June, 1928 Kansas City showed the largest living costs decrease, 26.4 per cent.

Cost of various articles of food at retail showed an average drop of 3.7 between June last year and June this year. All kinds of beef kept going right up, increasing in price from 12 to 22 per cent. Pork chops remained about stationary, bacon and ham were 8 and 7 per cent cheaper, while lamb and fowl were up 3 and 2 per cent.

Other notable decreases by percentage were: Bread 1, potatoes 52, rice 7, onions 27, cabbage 43, prunes 13, raisins 5 and bananas 3. The principal increases were: Canned salmon 9, milk 1, butter 4, eggs 16, cheese 3, flour 4, beans 32, coffee 3 and oranges 27.

WHIRLWIND BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED SYBIL THORNE, Boston society girl, had married RICHARD EUSTIS, a fascinating rake. After a five-day romance the wedding in Havana harbor culminated Sybil's maddest and grimmest adventure. For years she has been the delicious scandal of Havana's elite. Her romantic adventures began at 18, when she fell in love with JOHN LAWRENCE, who was sent to France with the A. S. F. on the eve of their marriage. When she received notification that her sweetheart was missing in action, Sybil—lame with grief—began to seek forgetfulness. Finally she becomes engaged to CRAIG NEWHALL, a wealthy and desirable bachelor, but—sure of her love—she takes a trip to Cuba with MABEL BLAKE, a social snob. Before making the promise Craig a decision on her return. At the time she is generally upset because of the death of her father and the subsequent marriage of her brother, FRED, to VALERIE WEST, a girl whom Sybil instinctively disliked. On shipboard she meets EUSTIS, who wins her wildly, and finally sweeps her into an impetuous marriage. On their wedding night he becomes intoxicated and Sybil, in the morning, threatens to leave him. A reconciliation takes place, however. Then—far too late—Sybil discovers that EUSTIS is already married and has a young child. She is left with a broken heart and a ruined reputation. Until at last Sybil determines to leave him. NOW ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX SYBIL bit the tip of her pen holder, and drew her brows together. Then, dipping the pen resolutely, she began to write rapidly.

Dipping the pen resolutely, she began to write rapidly. "Dear Richard..."

"Dear Richard," For a moment she considered the salutation. Then, drawing her pen bravely through it, tossed it aside, and took another sheet. But presently she wrote again, "Dear Richard," and after it, as though suddenly determined, scrawled rapid words, one after the other as if they flowed of their own accord from a suddenly volatile pen.

"Dear Richard, There are some things a woman cannot stand—not even if she loves the man who hurts her. And I am beginning to wonder, Rich, if I ever DID love you.

"The scene in the foyer tonight was horrible. I had rather die than spend another night with you—like this. Two weeks—and over other night of them hell. I am going to Mabel now. I suppose when you wake up, and sober off, you will try to find me. I hope that we will be on the way home by then. If we cannot get passage immediately, I can only beg that you will leave me alone. I wish these weeks might be like a closed chapter in a book one could lay away—and try to forget.

"Please, Rich—if you love me be kind. Mab will keep our secret, if only you'll let it BE a secret. Good-by. She blotted it without reading it. Locked the trunk, and put the key in her bag. "I'll send for it," she decided. "In the morning." Deliberately she powdered her nose, and touched her cheeks and lips with rouge. Stopped for a moment to spray black nailvarnish from her little enameled atomizer, and buffed her nails vigorously, while she surveyed her recumbent husband. There were so many things about him she had learned to dislike. "Drunk or sober," she reflected dimly.

But it was liquor that made him altogether impossible. At first he became stupidly sleepy. Then when she roused him, he grew amorous. And that was worse. Oh, much worse!

"Let him! Anybody'd think I led them to him. You know perfectly well, Mabel Blake, that I've apertis when Sybil found them. "Well, well," boomed Moore, "here comes the bride!" and his large unburned hand devoured hers warily. He was a big man with merry blue eyes and a pink bald spot million times. And taken off his shoes every night I've been with him. I've fanned him till my arm ached. M'love, addressed him. And put him to bed. And stood for his drunken lovemaking."

"She ran the back of her hand heavily across her mouth, and shuddered, whispering—"Now I'm through."

Her voice ended in a little wail, and her head pitched forward on the table. Sybil had fainted. THEY put cold cloths on her face, and forced whisky between her lips. And, almost before she could sit up, they began to argue—to beg and to reason.

"Oh, please," she besought them, "please—please!" Then Mabel took her hand, and sitting beside her, began to plead. "You can't," she insisted, "duck marriage like that. You are Richard's wife now. And you've got to stick to it. For better, or worse, you promised, Sib."

"Give him another chance," besought Jack. "He's simply come off his head. Liquor hits some men like that. You've brought him to his senses now. Don't be a quitter, little girl. Your husband needs you more than anyone ever needed you before. Straighten him out in the job you've bargained for."

Wearily Sybil fought. "But you're only thinking about him! How about ME? Don't I count? I can't go back to Richard. I CAN'T. How CAN I—and keep my own self respect?"

And when Mabel talked of duty, she fared out, angrily. "But in the end they had their way. It was a chastened little bride they led back to the hotel. "We'll go up with you," offered nothing but beg and see ever since we were married. "Let him! As if I could stop him!" "But I'm through now. I've left him. I've fed him aspirin all I'm good for. I've bathed his head ten million times. And taken off his shoes every night I've been with him. I've fanned him till my arm ached. M'love, addressed him. And put him to bed. And stood for his drunken lovemaking."

She ran the back of her hand heavily across her mouth, and shuddered, whispering—"Now I'm through."

Her voice ended in a little wail, and her head pitched forward on the table. Sybil had fainted.

They put cold cloths on her face, and forced whisky between her lips. And, almost before she could sit up, they began to argue—to beg and to reason.

"Oh, please," she besought them, "please—please!" Then Mabel took her hand, and sitting beside her, began to plead. "You can't," she insisted, "duck marriage like that. You are Richard's wife now. And you've got to stick to it. For better, or worse, you promised, Sib."

"Give him another chance," besought Jack. "He's simply come off his head. Liquor hits some men like that. You've brought him to his senses now. Don't be a quitter, little girl. Your husband needs you more than anyone ever needed you before. Straighten him out in the job you've bargained for."

Wearily Sybil fought. "But you're only thinking about him! How about ME? Don't I count? I can't go back to Richard. I CAN'T. How CAN I—and keep my own self respect?"

"I feel," sputtered Sybil, "like a downtrodden old scrub woman." "Rich lay sprawled as she had left him. Sleeping listlessly. "There's my note," said Sybil, "where I left it."

"Your girls go downstairs," suggested Moore; and Mabel glowed at the competent way he assumed charge. "I'll wake him, and give him a good talking to. Shall I show him that note of yours, Sib?" "Go as far as you like," she murmured listlessly. "Till him my trunk's packed. And you might mention that I'd never have come back if it hadn't been for you and Mab."

In the lobby the girls sat, side by side. "Well, Mab, why don't you ask 'told you so?'" "Sh, dear. Don't talk like that." "Well, you were right. You told me I'd be sorry."

"I know, honey. But that doesn't help matters now." In miserable silence they watched the happy throngs along the Prado.

"Till me, dear," Mabel's voice was very gentle, "don't you love Rich any more?" Sybil shrugged. "Oh, I don't know."

She pondered listlessly. "I don't believe it's love. I don't believe it ever was. You'd think, wouldn't you, that a girl like me wouldn't have been so easily fooled? Rich, by his own admission, could fool a hundred other women. The world's full of them, he says. Girls with bodies as lovely and brains as keen. Those were his own words, Mabel. Any girl of my type, he declares, could satisfy him. God Almighty, why did I marry him?" Presently Moore came down. (To Be Continued)

More Than Two Score of Young Pampa Folk Are Preparing to Enter College This Week—Many Institutions Chosen

"The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," is being said if not sung many times in these days, as parents and friends bid goodbye to departing college students. Not always in the words of Texas University's beloved song, to be sure, but in the same spirit the thought is expressed. For when a certain famous old governor of this state stood before the students of the University of Texas and said, again and again, "Young ladies and young gentlemen remember that the eyes of Texas are upon you," thus inspiring the school song, he might have been addressing every boy and girl in Texas, of his generation and this, who accepts the privileges of a college education.

The message is the same, however it may be expressed, whether the student goes East to a famous college or school, to one of the great universities of the West, to some other college in this state or another, or to Texas university, where five or six thousand happy young hearts will soon be thrilling to "The Eyes of Texas." Upon every college career expectant eyes are turned, high hopes are pinned here, as elsewhere, college students occupy the limelight just now. Between forty and fifty boys and girls of the city will be in universities and colleges this year, a number of whom Pampa may justifiably be proud. Some have already left for their schools, but today tomorrow, and Tuesday there will be a general exodus.

Okla. university at Norman will claim six of the number. They are Miss Molesta L. Fors, daughter of Mrs. Emma Le Fors; Alfred Gilliland, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gilliland; Kenneth Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Ferguson; Pat Danney; Tom Cubbage; and Everette Poe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Poe.

Four Pampa boys will go to Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater. Edna and Oris Cobb go for their senior year, while their brother, Bruce enters for his freshman work. Welder Jolly, who has been with the local office of the Central States Power and Light company, has been transferred to the Stillwater office and will enter A. & M.

Miss Christine Campbell, daughter of Supt. and Mrs. E. C. Campbell; Miss Susie Belle Smalling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Smalling; and Willard Johns, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johns, are to be students in the University of Texas at Austin.

Pampa will have three students in A. & M. college at Bryan. They are Haskell Glover, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Glover, who is an outstanding student in the civil engineering department of the school; Preston and Burnam Briggs, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs.

The Pampa girls have chosen the College of Industrial Arts at Denton as their school. They are: Miss Cleora Starnard, daughter of Mrs. Alta Starnard; Miss Lillian Kealy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kealy; Miss Vivian Prescher; Miss Leora May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. May, and former society editor of the Pampa Daily News; and Miss Devera Abernold.

Miss Frankie Barnhart, daughter of Mrs. H. F. Barnhart, returns to Texas Tech at Lubbock. Clarence Cobb and Ward Hicks also will attend Tech this year.

Miss Clara Brown, Miss Donna Lee Stroope, Miss Lillian Muffinax, and Miss Rosie Hagerman will represent Pampa at West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon, this year.

Miss Ruth Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Henry; Calvin Whaley, who has spent the summer in Pampa; and Clifford Solomon will attend Simmons University at Abilene.

Thomas Clayton son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clayton, has gone to Wazara-hachia to enter Trinity University. Miss Elizabeth Corson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Corson, will return to Trinity for her second year's work, leaving Tuesday.

Mrs. Verdie Dickey, who was formerly Miss Lucille Mooney, and Miss Pebble Casey are students in Kidd Key college at Sherman.

Miss Emma Lasater has gone to Ft. Worth to enter Texas Women's College. Miss Thelma Qualls will attend Abilene Christian college. Miss Winnie V. Hames will be a student in North Texas State Teachers college at Denton. HARVESTERS EASILY DEFEAT QUANAH ELEVEN, 30 TO 0

Sixteen of Fast Fort Worth Team Arrive to Do Battle With Pampa Grays Here Today

Many of Locals Get Into Game in Last Portion

BY HARRY E. HOARE

Displaying surprising early season dash and line-opening ability, which caught the visitors unprepared for such an onslaught, the Central High school Harvesters Saturday presented their school with a decisive 30 to 0 victory over the Quanah eleven.

More than a thousand fans were at Hayes field to catch the stimulus of a home victory at the season's opening. The Harvester machine gleaned two touchdowns in the first quarter and three in the closing one, and one point was added by kicking.

The game in detail:

Gain at Ends

Pampa won the toss and elected to defend the east goal with Quanah kicking. Hall punted to Walstad who fumbled but recovered to make ten yards to his 20-yard line. On the first play Tracy, formerly with Sayre, Okla., made 28 yards around left end. He was followed by Walstad, who made 23 yards around the same place. Pampa lost 15 yards on a penalty, but made it up when Roberts went through tackle for 22 yards, to be brought down by a brilliant tackle by Lovell. Maness followed with 16 yards and Roberts went through tackle for 5 yards and a touchdown. Walstad failed to make the extra point by dropping it.

Passing Falls

Pampa tried two line plays and a forward pass but failed to gain. Walstad punted out of bounds on the Quanah 74 yard line. Quanah returned the punt to Quanah's 40 yard line. Central then started a march down the field. Roberts and Walstad carrying the ball to Quanah's 12 yard line when Maness went over for a touchdown. Walstad failed to add the point with a dropkick.

After the kick-off Quanah made her first first-down of the half when Hall and Hurst carried the ball 11 yards on two downs and had, one yard to go for a second down when Tracy broke through and threw Fraser for a three yard loss. Stalls threw Hall for a three yard loss and the ball went to Pampa on her 37-yard line. Pampa made another first down before the quarter when Roberts went over for 11 yards.

Creed Rips Line

Pampa completed a forward pass Tracy to Walstad, but after that the ball changed hands rapidly as Creed was breaking through the Pampa line and breaking up the Harvester plays. Pumps were exchanged with Pampa making another first down on line plunges.

At this point in the game Coach Mitchell pulled his first string backfield replacing them with Saltzman, Chastain, Lard and Jones. The new backfield continued to press down the line on plunges by Chastain and Lard. Trwin replaced Mullin in the line and Carson replaced Seitz.

An exchange of boots kept the ball moving up and down the field. Carson, recovering a fumble to save the Harvesters at a critical time. Chastain held the ball on an attempted forward pass and lost the ball to Triplett when tackled hard behind the line.

Offside Penalties

On the next play, Salsbury broke through and recovered a fumble but Pampa was penalized twice when Salsbury was offside. Quanah then received a 15-yard penalty for roughing. An exchange of punts left the ball on Quanah's 40 yard line at the half.

Quanah made a first down after the kick-off on four off-tackle plays, but failed to continue their advantage. Pampa got the ball on her 35-yard line, but failed to make first down. Quanah completed a forward pass Creed to Fraser 9 yards over the chain with a 3 yard run.

Pampa took the ball on the next down, but failed to gain. Quanah gained first down on three line plunges by Hall, who was doing all the work in the visitor's offensive. The ball was on Quanah's 48-yard line in their possession at three-quarters whistle.

March to Goal

The Harvesters came out of their slump and started a march down the field that couldn't be halted. It started with Walstad making 13 yards around left end. Maness then replaced Tracy. Roberts added 25 yards on a sensational run around left end to be followed by another first down on line plays by Maness and Roberts.

The ball was on Quanah's 10-yard line when Lard made a hole for himself and went through for a touch-

HOT RACE AHEAD FOR COAST TEAMS; STANFORD IS AGAIN THE FAVORITE

They'll soon be set for the whistle on in the Pacific Coast Conference where, as usual, Stanford appears just a bit superior to the others. The Cardinals' offense will be built around Captain Bill Hoffman, full. Other coast stars back this year are Phillips, California, end; Hughes, Oregon State, full; Carroll, Washington, half, and Rohwer, Washington State, half.

...Harvestings...

BY TWINK

The firm of Roberts, Maness, Lard, Lard & Jones, Bell Luggers, won the contract for yesterday's ball game. They had the backing of capable associates, and altogether they were just too much for Quanah et al. Each of the above named young men made a touchdown, and Roberts lost a goal when the whistle blew as a sub was sent in by Quanah.

Coach Mitchell was shown plenty of fight by his youngsters, and it is going to take a fighting team to put them down. That last quarter spurt was good to look upon.

One thing is certain in Harvesters.

down which Walstad failed to convert. Quanah failed to gain on three downs after the kick-off and booted to Walstad on Pampa's 37-yard line. On the next play Walstad made a beautiful 30-yard run around his favorite left end. He was aided by nice interference. Lard, new man on the team, then covered himself with glory when he made the prettiest run of the day. He took the ball behind his own line, outran his interference and by broken field running equal to a veteran made 33 yards for a touchdown. He also went over for a touchdown. He also went over for a touchdown. He also went over for a touchdown.

Then Third String

With this advantage Coach Mitchell sent several of his third team into the fray to have Lewter, brother of Chuck Lewter, starting for Baylor, recover two fumbles for his team. Quanah lost the ball when Fraser fumbled, Lewter falling on it. Jones fumbled but Lewter was again on the spot to recover. He is just a midget, but was in all the plays.

Line plunges failed on both sides, Quanah making a poor punt on their 25-yard line. On the first play Jones took the ball and by smart running and clever interference ran 28 yards through left tackle for another touchdown. He failed to make the extra point.

The Harvesters collected two more first downs before the end of the game when Lard made another sensational 30-yard run through a broken field and Chastain made 11 yards on heady running around left end.

The ball was on Quanah's 30 yard line when the final whistle sounded.

The Line-up:

PAMPA (30)

Ayres, le. Stalls, lg. Mullins, lt. Kohl, c. (Captain) Willis, rg. Sells, rt. Salsbury, re. Roberts, lb. Tracy, rh. Maness, fb. T. J. Ennis, fb. (Captain) Walstad, p. Substitutes—Pampa; Barnard, Chastain, Jones, Lard, Saltzman, Green, Lewter, Irwin, Carson.

land—that no man on the team has a berth cinched. The fast little backfield with Lard running it made many wonder which quartet was first-string. There is no first team yet, and not less than fifteen men are apt to see action in almost every game.

That parade was good stuff, and the pep display guided by Paul Camp and Hazel Fletcher was o. k. And among the rosters ought to be mentioned John B. Hessey, county superintendent, one of those gentlemen who never need messages.

Citizen Gene Shackleton came near missing a football game, but thought of it in time to grab a bath and half a shave. He missed a lot of whiskers, but that didn't matter, just so he didn't miss the game. We don't criticize his tonsorial art, for Mrs. Shackleton sent us a box of delicious peaches which were fine for the interval between halves. Mrs. Shackleton remembered The News scribe earlier in the season with another variety of peach.

"Get No. 2" was the Pampa cry. Triplett, left guard, went through our gang with considerable regularity, and Hall Quanah halfback, was no slouch either.

Quanah is said to have been overconfident of whipping our Harvesters, and started without some of her stars. She called on her best posthaste, however, but that best was not good enough.

Mitchell's tedious work with the line showed results from the first play yesterday. That the backfield galloped over the line was often due to opening of great holes. Quanah's secondary defense had a hard day of it, and caught many a Harvester's arm. More coaching and playing should get some brilliant work out of our fast-stepping backs.

Coach Mitchell knows his stuff, but he can't compete with Coach Jim Bradford of Quanah in noise. Bradford is the loud and vociferous type of mentor, an dhis complaints carried pell beyond the ears of his team. He gets his team told.

Tracy and Chastain, newcomers, did some great backfield work and their names are already well established in the minds of the rabid fans.

Roberts and Stalls have length, which doesn't look fast in action but gets over the ground. Captain Kohl, rood humored center and accurate passer, keeps a close watch on the line across the way. His linemen took a world off worry off Coaches Mitchell and Fox, for early season defensive work is usually ragged.

That third quarter was pretty close, and Quanah showed signs of scoring ability. Fumbles cost her an opportunity, however, and her team did not show up as well as it obviously is capable of doing. Quanah made six first downs to fifteen for the locals.

Walstad did a variety of things, among them kicking safely but sometimes too close to the sidelines to per-

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The team that wins the 1928 Pacific Coast Conference championship will have to travel a more rugged route than ever before.

Not only has competition been broadened by the addition of another contender—the University of California at Los Angeles—but the distribution of man power is more even. Teams that were weak last year have more potential stars glimmering in the ranks and early season "dope" promises a terrific scramble for honors by the ten grid squads.

Adding to the keen conference rivalry will be three important inter-sectional games. They bring together, Stanford and Army in New York City; Oregon State College, and New York University on the latter's home grounds, and Notre Dame and Southern California in Los Angeles.

Stanford conference champion for two years and victor over Pittsburgh in the East-West game last season, will be a slight favorite again; this year. Foxy Glenn "Pop" Warner, whose perennial and amazing formations have caused the rules to be changed many times, is counted on to come up with several new plays as usual.

Coach Warner's first gesture has been to add power to his backfield. He plans to use heavy quarterbacks. The Cardinal's offense, always spectacular, will be built around "Bill" Hoffman, captain and fullback. Southern California will bear watching. With Captain-elect, Jess Hibbs, who was chosen as tackle on many All-American teams last year, as the nucleus, Coach Howard Jones has seasoned material for every other position on the line. To replace Morley Drury, All-American quarterback, Jones is grooming three 1927 regulars—Russ Saunders, Don Williams and Rocky Kemp—and Marshall Duffield, a newcomer.

mit the ball from rolling down the field without going out. Dependability, however, is good enough in the first game. His dropkicks failed, but a place kick went over.

"Look at the little fellows!" Pampa substitutes beat a patch to the line of scrimmage toward the final whistle, and the little tots of those trying out got a chance to rough up their hair and get bodily contact with the opposition.

The coaches, as coaches will find plenty to criticize in the Harvesters' antics. Plays that gained ground sometimes did so because the visitors failed to take advantage of their opportunities to smear them. Interference went astray and passing wasn't protected. So the Harvesters will get so much work in the next few days that cockiness should be worked off before the game next Friday with Clarendon Junior college.

The Harvester crew faces a hard test, and all strength will be needed to play another game on Sept. 24, following hard upon the college game, with Texoma at the Tri-State fair. This game will begin at 10:45 a. m. at the fairgrounds, and it would be fine if the entire high school could get a day off, just the game, and look at the fair exhibits. Berger and Canyon schools will dismiss one day each during the fair.

Cards Move Up, Taking 2 Games to Giants' One

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15—(AP)—The pace-setting Cardinals gained half a game on the runner-up Giants by sweeping both ends of a double-header against the Phillies here today by scores of 3 to 2 and 8 to 6. Both games were won by late rallies, the second a drive for five runs in the eighth.

A tiny flash of the drama of 1926 was added to the second clash when Grover Cleveland Alexander entered the box to defeat a two-run lead the Cardinals hurled in their big rally. Old Alex stopped the home boys and brought the game safely home.

The clan McGraw rode into a 4 to 4 tie with two out in the ninth, and finally earned the decision in the thirteenth.

Rain Prevents Play-Off Game

Atz Is Expected to Start Either Pate or Johns

The Fort Worth Cats, sixteen strong, arrived here last night in readiness for their game with the Pampa Grays; this afternoon at Grays park, on the Miami road. The game has been called for 3:15 o'clock and will start promptly on time.

Gus Ketchum, star hurler of the Grays, will be in the box for the locals, with the veteran Tom Clayton behind the bat. The local hurler received a letter from Roger Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, stating that he had seen an account of Ketchum's playing with the Pampa team in the Amarillo tournament and asked him to report to Boston for a try out with the Braves in the spring. Ketchum also received a letter from the Columbus team in the American association stating that they would send him a contract.

The Grays' field has been freshly graded and will be lightning fast for this afternoon's encounter with the Cats. Guber has a fast stepping, hard hitting crew, centered around Seitz and Close, two of the most valuable youngsters in the Amarillo tournament. With the veterans Ketchum and Clayton in the line-up to steady the youngsters, the Cats will meet a formidable array of players.

Jake Atz will start either Pate or Johns in the box against the local boys, with Walkup in reserve. He has a bunch of veterans with him that have seen service in the big leagues.

The Pampa team is known all over the Southwest and many teams are anxious to schedule games with the Amarillo tournament winners. Guber is still anxious to meet the Texon nine, winners of the Denver tournament, and is in the hopes that some local men will consider the advertisement the team is giving the city and provide transportation to Texon in the near future.

Baseball fans can realize the kind of a game they will see this afternoon from the line-up of the two teams:

Jones Overwhelms British Contender

For National Title

BRAE BURN COUNTRY CLUB, Newton, Mass., Sept. 15—(AP)—The rather stoutish but exceedingly business-like young man who dominates American links strode up and down hills of Brae Burn today, wielding a niblick dealing destruction to hopes of British golf in general and the ambitions of Thomas Philly Perkins in particular.

While a pop-eyed gallery of some 6,000 scattered to watch him in astonishment, Bobby Jones crushed the champion of Great Britain, 10 up and 2 to play, in the most one-sided match for the amateur championship of the United States in thirty-three years.

'Twas a Sad Day for Mack

Sunday, Sept. 9, was a sad day for Connie Mack, the aged leader of the Philadelphia Athletics. When his pennant hopes took the field that afternoon to battle the New York Yankees they were leading the league by a half-game margin. When the smoke of battle had cleared away from a thrilling double-header which 85,000 fans watched, they were back below the Yankees, one and a half games.

Here are some scenes from that crucial double-header:
Above—Combs, Yankees' star, scores the first run of the day on Gehrig's hit in the sixth inning. Catcher Cochrane of the A's stands nearby.
Below—Lazzeri, who begged to play despite his illness and starred in the two games, is caught between third and home in the fifth inning of the first game. Cochrane is tagging him out.
Inset—Haas of the Athletics is out at second on an attempted steal in the sixth inning of the first game.

COCHET AND HUNTER WILL MEET MONDAY
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 15.—American tennis is to have one of those battles of the rapier and the bludgeon. The blade of Henri Cochet, France, is to be pitted against the jugging power of Francis T. Hunter, lone surviving American, in the final for the national singles championship here Monday.

Cochet and Hunter went through semi-final rounds late today, before a howling, cheering, applauding crowd of almost 19,000. Hunter defeated George Lott, Chicago, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, and Cochet, outfenced Frank Shields, national junior champion, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4.

Guiding Your Child

BY MRS. AGNES LYNE

When the child walks into school for the first time he walks into his first impersonal life situation.

It is extremely important that he should like school, that he should make friends there, that he should achieve a creditable record. The way he acts in school is a pretty good indication of the way he will act all his life.

Here for the first time he must stand on his own feet, getting recognition only for what he does, being liked only when he is likable. Here there is no mother to act as a buffer between him and the unbiased judgment of the world. It is a great step.

The child who responds well to the varied demands of school life speaks volumes in favor of his home training. Yet many a child who has back of him a wise mother is so temperamentally constructed that unless the situation is shrewdly handled he is sure to find the first weeks of school something of an ordeal.

For most children the first day of school is a great event prepared for by new clothes suitable to the dignity of daily public appearance, by conversation over the dinner table, by the importance attached to the proceeding by older brothers and sisters or by the children next door.

The little one should be started out equipped not only with his new outfit and his family's good wishes, but with the proper frame of mind. First and last his thoughts and feelings should be focused on all the new and interesting things there will be for him to do. He should think of school as a place where he will hear stories and learn to read them, where he will play games with other children, where he will find more things to work and play with than he ever knew existed.

Too often the child, from parents and playmates, gets the impression that school is a kind of battlefield of competition for grades and honors. The usual school tends naturally to emphasize these things. Parents at least should start the child with his interest where it belongs—in doing, in making and in learning.

Girls Run Away From Home To Help Their Mother

ROSEDALE, Kas., Sept. 10—Marjorie and Dorothy Houston, whose respective ages are 11 and 9, have been brought up to believe they should help their mother all they can.

Their mother, the widow of a war veteran, was in ill health and had three other children, all younger than Marjorie and Dorothy. It wasn't any too easy to make both ends meet, and Marjorie and Dorothy, being bright little girls, discovered that fact.

So, one morning not long ago, the two girls got up before daylight and cut out to walk all the way to the home of their grandparents, who live in Colorado, several hundred miles away.

They were clad in their nightgowns, and carried a basket of potatoes and onions—their provisions for the jour-

Tenor Who Drives Rivets Dreams of Singing in Opera

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—A structural steel worker who sings in a tenor voice as he drives red-hot rivets into their slots hundreds of feet above the roaring traffic of the city has been

"found" here. The "find" is Maximilian Bradoc, 33-year-old German-born American citizen, who served in the United States navy during the World War.

Victor Soudak, Pittsburgh orchestra conductor and radio artist, discovered Bradoc. While passing a skyscraper under construction he was amazed to hear a tenor singing ballads. Waiting on the spot until the noon whistle released the workers for lunch, he sought out the aerial vocalist. Since then Bradoc has sung at civic club meetings and over the radio.

While working in New York, "Max" gave recitals in The Little Church Around the Corner and in the First Presbyterian church.

Bradoc's "heart's desire," he says, is to sing in grand opera, and he sees the concert stage as a stepping stone to his goal.

But in the meantime, he says, he'll continue to drive rivets from his perch high above the earth.

JURISDICTION DISCLAIMED IN ELECTION CONTEST

No decision in the election contest brought by H. G. McCleskey, defeated candidate for commissioner in Precinct 3, was rendered yesterday by the county Democratic committee.

The committee disclaimed jurisdiction, and the case probably will be taken into Judge Reese Ewing's district court.

Charles Cook attended court in Miami yesterday.

TORNADO KILLS THREE

YANKTON, S. D., Sept. 14 (AP)—A check-up today of casualties in a tornado which yesterday cut a narrow path of death and ruin through North Central Yankton county, left the total dead at three, with perhaps a half dozen people receiving minor injuries. Two farms completely wiped out, a dozen others more or less damaged and several hundred head of live stock killed.

District Attorney Clifford Braly of Panhandle was a visitor here Saturday.

Behind Your Telephone

The telephone instrument upon your desk is, in itself, the smallest part of the equipment required to meet your telephone needs. Behind that little instrument is the vast network of switching apparatus which is necessary to give you telephone service.

Let's look behind your telephone. The new central office building in Pampa is filled with the most intricate and sensitive apparatus. Serving this central office—and you—are 2,224 miles of wire in underground conduits, cables and open wires.

In addition to this volume of equipment, there are thirty-one Telephone Company employees in Pampa who are a necessary part of your telephone service.

The Spirit of Service

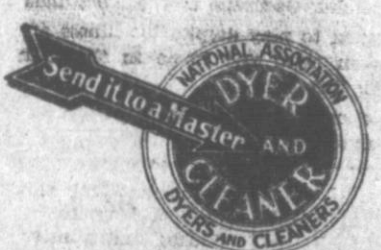

This system of wires and cables and switchboards has become an instrumentality of human service—but has become so only because the men and women have endowed it with life; have breathed into it something of their own spirit of loyalty and devotion.

An operator with her jacks and plugs; a wire chief and the swaying needles of his testing apparatus; a lineman and his spurs, his cross-arms and his shining threads of copper—all these are partners—your partners—in the performance of an essentially important public service.

Boosters for Port Aransas in Pampa

T. B. Lyster, publicity agent of the Aransas Holding company at Port Aransas and a party from that place are here in a large passenger bus in the interest of the development of Port Aransas as the leading shipping center on the Gulf of Mexico. Large industries, especially cement factories are locating in Port Aransas, while the Humble Pipe Line company has made it the headquarters for its foreign trade.

Not only in a commercial way is the new city beneficial as the best hunting and fishing in the state can be found around Port Aransas. The location of the city is just 2 1/2 miles from the gulf or the nearest point to deep water in the state, according to representatives visiting here. A channel 30 feet deep leads to the ship docks which will harbor the largest vessel afloat.

The city is located on the Gulf about 30 miles northeast of Corpus Christi and at the mouth of the bay leading to that city.

The purpose of the visit to the Panhandle is to acquaint the citizens of this community with the advantages of shipping to Port Aransas.

But Chevrolet performance is no less impressive than Chevrolet beauty and style. Never before was a low-priced car so easy to handle—for the steering mechanism is fitted with ball bearings throughout... and big non-locking 4-wheel brakes give a measure of braking control that is more than equal to every occasion.

Come in and see the car that has won the approval of more than three-quarters of a million buyers since January 1st. Learn for yourself why it is scoring the greatest success of this great automotive year!
