COUPLE BEAT MAN TO DEATH WITH HAMMER

Wife Is Slugged And Left In Corn Field

DIAMONDS AND MONEY TAKEN

Two Men Were Riding With Victims Near Miami, Okla.

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 31.—(P)—Ottawa County officers today were investigating a gruesome murder and holding in which Walter Harp, believed to be from Bierling, Colo., was beaten to death with a hammer and his wife slugged into unconsciousness and left in a corn field ten miles northeast of here today.

The woman, suffering from severe wounds about the head and covered with blood, crawled a half mile to a farm house, where she told of being attacked and robbed of $200 and two diamonds by two men who had been riding with her and her husband.

Her condition was said to be critical. A blood stained business card near the scene of the attack bore Harp's name and the address of a Sterling Colo. business firm.

OLYSSSES, Kas., Aug. 31.—(P)—Walter Harp, who was beaten to death early today near Miami, Okla., was well known wheat grower of this vicinity. He had extensive wheat lands in Stanton County, west of here.

Governor Smith Returns to Desk At the Capital

BY D. HAEOLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer
ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(P)—What Governor Smith will do next to further his cause for the presidency still was a debatable question today as the Democratic nominee returned to his desk at the capital.

The first week of his travels since taking over the party leadership Aug. 22, was a matter of record and yet no inkling has come from him, although there have been several unofficial reports, concerning the territory he intends to invade and just when he will start on his campaign jaunt.

From now until Labor Day and possibly for a few days thereafter he plans to give his attention principally to matters of state concern and to rest up for the trying days ahead. The state's budget for next year is one of the chief tasks confronting him and he has called meetings of his cabinet and several committees to counsel with him on prospective appropriations.

Suspect Released As Alibi Proves He Was at Home

DALLAS, Aug. 30.—(P)—Establishing an alibi that could not be torn down, a suspect arrested in connection with the fatal shooting here Monday night of Clarence E. James, country club watchman, has been released by officers.

Officers said the suspect was the man whom James accused of the shooting just before his death. Relatives of the suspect, however, proved to the satisfaction of investigators the man was at home when the shooting occurred.

James was shot to death as he and Mrs. Charley Anderson sat on a bench on grounds of the club. While gasping his last breath, he explained to officers he had taken Mrs. Anderson to the bench with him as a decoy in hopes of capturing a hijacker who had been robbing couples in the neighborhood.

Although fatally wounded, James emptied his pistol at the assailant.

GENE CHATS WITH PRINCE

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(P)—The prince of Wales had a fifteen-minute chat with Gene Tunney at St. James's Palace today. The meeting was purely informal.

The prince heard the retired champion was staying in London and made the suggestion that Tunney drop in for a few minutes' talk.

Gene took the opportunity today and talked with the heir apparent on a variety of subjects.

Parade Will Open Labor Day Program 9:30 a. m. Monday

The Pla-Mor auditorium will be the center of activity Monday at the big Labor day program being held under the auspices of the organized labor parties of this city. The big program of events will open at 9:30 a. m. with a monster parade including members of all the labor parties in the city and their guests, the American Legion, fire department, city officials, members of the Business Men's association, central labor union officials, carpenters, hotel and restaurant employes, barbers local, painters local, meat sutters, machinists, tailors and cleaners and oil field workers.

Led by the Pampa band the parade will leave the Labor hall and march through the business section of the city including North and South Cuyler streets, West Foster avenue, West Kingsmill avenue and other streets in the business section. The parade will disperse at the corner of Foster avenue and Cuyler street.

Following the parade there will be a free picnic show at the Crescent theatre commencing at 10:30 a. m. "Eight halves of beef, one lamb and one pig have been purchased and will be barbecued for the big free feed at the Pla-Mor auditorium at noon. Speaking will follow the dinner in the auditorium. The afternoon will feature the "aces-and-athletic events in the auditorium.

At night a big free dance commencing at 9 o'clock and lasting into the night will be held at the Pla-Mor auditorium.

Two Sandinistas Killed and Five Held By Marines

MANAGUA, Nic., Aug. 31.—(P)—Two Sandinistas were killed, one wounded and five captured when a patrol of twelve Marines led by Captain Geo. F. Stokes routed a band of forty Rebels near Macuelizo Tuesday. There were no casualties among the Marines.

Details of the engagement have been obtained by Marine headquarters here with great difficulty. Since there is no other means of communication, Captain Stokes conveyed the news to airplanes flying low over his encampment, by means of messages printed on a large panel spread upon the ground.

Miguel Angel Ortiz, who led the Rebel band, attempted to ambush the Marines. The attack took place at 7 p. m., and despite facing a superior force armed with machine guns Stokes' men routed the assailants and captured them through the night.

Several of the Marines' pack animals were killed but this loss was offset by the capture of a greater number of the enemy's mules.

County Exhibits To Be Shown at Tri-State Fair

The public is invited to visit the Chamber of Commerce rooms any time after today to view the background for the Pampa booth at the Tri-State fair to be held in Amarillo September 22 to 28. Secretary George Briggs and his two sons Preston and Burnham and niece Miss Ellen Pengra have been donating their time for the past two weeks preparing the background and sorting the grain to be displayed.

The background is of grain and is composed of an oil derrick over the names of the four towns in the county, Pampa, LeFors, McLean and Alameda, in grain.

J. L. Lester and George W. Briggs made a trip to McLean and Alameda yesterday in the interest of the Gray county exhibit and appointed committees to assist in gathering the necessary produce for the booth.

P. P. Reid appeared before the county commissioners yesterday in the interest of the Gray county exhibit at the fair and received a check for $250 to defray expenses. The commissioners are anxious that the farmers of the county will assist the fair committee in every way by supplying products for the exhibit.

ENGINEER EXPECTOR HERE

Word was received at the Chamber of Commerce this morning that W. A. French of Amarillo, divisional engineer of the highway department, would be present at the Panhandle-Plains division of West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here September 10. Gibb Gilchrist of Austin, state engineer, has also been invited to attend and an early acceptance is expected.

The other members of that body who will be present and take an active part in the gathering will be Judge Ely of Abilene.

Fort Worth Man Is Charged With Murder of Wife

FORT WORTH, Aug. 31.—(P)—Verdict that Mrs. Gertrude E. Hall, who was fatally injured Wednesday night when she fell from an automobile in which she was riding with her husband died "from injuries received from probably being thrown from an automobile" was returned today by Justice of the Peace H. B. Balch.

R. L. Hall, husband of the dead woman, late Thursday was charged with murder in connection with Mrs. Hall's death. Bond in the sum of $50,000 will be recommended for Hall, according to Arthur Lee Moore, Assistant District Attorney, who filed the charge. However, bond had not been set Friday morning.

In a statement to Justice Balch, Hall said he and his wife had been quarreling and she jumped from the car.

Man Hanged Today For Murder of His Daughter In June

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 31.—(P)—Wallace C. Gaines was hanged at dawn today at the penitentiary here for the murder of his 22-year-old daughter, Sylvia, in Seattle two years ago.

His last words were, "get it over with as quick as possible."

The murderer of Miss Sylvia Gaines, 22-year-old Smith College graduate and daughter of Wallace C. Gaines, by his first wife, Mrs. L. E. Maynard, of South Lynnfield, Mass., occurred here on the night of June, 1926. Miss Gaines disappeared from her father's home about 8 p. m., after a quarrel with her mother. The next day her mutilated body was found on the shore of Green Lake.

In outlining the state's case, county prosecutor Colvin told the jury that the daughter had been the object of Gaines' "strange, unnatural affections," and that Sylvia, resolved to break the relationships was slain while Gaines was drunk. Gaines offered an alibi.

Wheel Identified As Belonging to Lost St. Raphael

PARIS, Aug. 31.—(P)—The Havre News Agency says an airplane wheel found off the coast of Iceland is understood to have been identified by the tire manufacturer as coming from the St. Raphael which disappeared while on a Trans-Atlantic flight just a year ago with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, Captain Leslie Hamilton and Colonel F. F. Minchin.

The St. Raphael left Upavon, England, on August 31, 1927, on a trans-Atlantic flight to Ottawa, Canada. It was only while the plane was being prepared to take off that the Princess, who financed the flight, suddenly announced that she would make the journey.

Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim was a sister to the Earl of Mexborough. She became a German subject by her marriage to Prince Ludwig Lowenstein-Wertheim of 1897 but regained her British nationality in 1918.

Hoover Finishing Detail Plans for Waging Campaign

BY JAMES L. WEST
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(P)—Herbert Hoover rapidly is finishing up the job of familiarizing himself with all details of the Republican campaign organization and ironing out rough spots which frequently are found after the setting up of such an extensive machine.

Soon he will be able to devote a greater part of his time to larger matters of policy and his own work in the fight he is waging for the presidency.

After an unusually strenuous day yesterday, the Republican standard bearer had only a few engagements for today, chief among those invited to see him being F. M. Prince, of Boston, a close friend of the late George B. Harvey, a power in Republican party affairs.

Six Men Killed In Coal Mine Explosion

FERNIE, B. C., Aug. 31.—(P)—Six miners were dead today as the result of an explosion yesterday in the number one east mine of the Coal Creek Collieries here.

The blast believed to have been caused by a blow of gas, occurred while the crew of two hundred except the six asphyxiated, had left the mine at noon.

World Roving Linguist and Pioneer- ing Lawyer In Pan-American Group

Pampa's only woman lawyer, Clara Gonzalez (right), is in this country to study its government and courts, while also serving on the Inter-American Commission of Women, which will make a survey of the legal status of women in the American republics. Elsie Ross Shields (left), a linguist, is secretary of the commission.

By SUE MCNAMARA
(Associated Press Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON.—Senator Clara Gonzalez, LL. B., small, slim, dark-eyed, the only woman lawyer in Panama, has left the pink and blue-roofs and sapphire sea of her native country and come to Washington in the interest of all American women.

Here, too, for a similar purpose, Elsie Ross Shields, who claims a dozen different world ports as home and speaks six languages. The mission of Senorita Gonzalez is really three-fold. She has been sent to study government here for three years so that she may teach the subject upon her return to Panama. She also has been commissioned by her government to study the juvenile court system in this country. And what she regards as most important of all, she is a member of the Inter-American Commission of Women created by the Pan-American conference to study the legal status of women in the 21 American republics.

Like the senorita, Miss Shields is connected with the Inter-American Commission of Women. She is a "find" of Doris Stevens, ardent feminist, who met her at the Pan-American conference in Havana and brought her to Washington as secretary of the commission.

Miss Shields with a soft-spoken, gentle manner and her linguistic ability, will be the go-between for foreign speaking women and officials Washington.

She comes of a roving and talented race. Her grandfather, Gilbert Ross, a Scotchman, went to Calcutta as an accountant. He too was a linguist and compiled a dictionary of Indian dialects which he presented to the government. Miss Shields' mother was born in Calcutta. She later lived in London and went to Brazil as a governess. There she met and married an Englishman who died soon after Elsie was born.

Mother and daughter went to Greece, where they lived for some time, then started for Havana via Italy, Switzerland and France. Miss Shields speaks Portuguese, English, French, Spanish, German and Greek.

Senorita Gonzalez, who is only 27 years old helped organize the National Feminist party in Panama. It now has 500 members. Panama has great advantages for women, she says in educational opportunities and the availability of careers.

That the time had come "when an economic adventure is justified in behalf of the millions of farmers throughout the nation."

He passed from farm relief to prohibition.

"There has always been room in the Democratic party," he said, "for those who differ as to the best means of promoting temperance and of suppressing the traffic in alcoholic beverages."

"The conviction recognized that the Democratic party is neither a prohibition nor an anti-prohibition organization but if entrusted with power its duty would be to enforce all laws."

As to the American merchant Marine, he said that the Democratic party looked upon an "adequate" fleet as essential to the safety of the nation and the independence of the country.

He concluded with a denunciation of political corruption, holding that honesty in public affairs is of transcendent importance and that corruption is the red signal of decadence.

Today, first thing on his program was appearance in Lonoke, Ark., his birthplace, for a home coming celebration and to fill this engagement he retired early last night after attending a reception in the Arlington hotel ball room where he, Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, Mr. Bowers and other national party leaders mingled with hundreds who had journeyed far for the occasion.

LATEST CENSUS SHOWS MORE THAN 1900 SCHOLASTICS IN THE PAMPA SCHOOL DISTRICT

Children To Be Seven Years Old Before January 15, 1929 May Attend Classes By Paying

The latest scholastic census shows more than 1,900 scholastics within the Pampa Independent School district and more than 3,000 in the county. In the Pampa schools there will be 67 regular teachers and four substitutes.

Two new eight-room ward school buildings are under construction and will be ready to occupy by October 15. The old auditorium in the high school is being divided into two class rooms and a study hall to make additional class room space.

Children living within Pampa Independent School district who will be seven years old on or before January 15, 1929, will be permitted to attend the Pampa public schools during the ensuing term by their parents paying $4 a month tuition until the child becomes that age. It was decided at a meeting of the school board last evening. Several requests have been made to the board asking an extension of age limit for underscholastics but because of the crowded condition of the schools it was not deemed advisable at the present time.

A board of equalization composed of L. C. McMurtry, A. E. Williams, Silvester Faulkner and W. B. Saulsbury will meet tomorrow morning in the office of the White Deer Land company to total valuations and adjust claims of company representatives will be heard first by the board.

Four new teachers were employed and four substitute teachers appointed. The new teachers are Miss Jessie Ingram of Clarendon, who will teach expression, she is a graduate of Clarendon college and has more than three years in University of Southern California in expression.

Earl W. Lewis B. A. of White Deer will teach Spanish and history in the high school. He is a graduate of the West Texas State Teachers college.

Preston Wahlford, B. A. of Delhart has been elected to teach chemistry and biology at the high school.

Miss Josephine Thomas of Clinton Okla., was appointed to teach in the grades.

The four substitute teachers appointed were Mrs. W. F. Campbell, high school; Mrs. W. C. Upton, primary; Mrs. J. A. Barker, intermediates, and Mrs. Earl Lewis, general.

Truck drivers hired were LeRoy Price, Harold Holmes, M. D. Eaeles, Ivy Goff, Floyd Coffin, Albert Nichols, Oman Barnard and Charles Locke. Students outside the Pampa Independent School district will be allowed to attend the Pampa schools by paying $75 and furnishing their own transportation. There are some children of school age at the Phillips Petroleum company's camp south of here and other places just out of the local district and near no other school.

"Katy's" Time To Expire Tomorrow

If you are walking down the street tomorrow and suddenly your straw hat disappears, don't get mad, step into the nearest clothiers or hatters and purchase a fedora or a cap. Why? Well, tomorrow is the day that you are supposed to bid good-by to the straw "kats" but because of the very hot weather it should be permissible to wear the old "sun-shade, a while longer.

Local clothing stores have received their fall shipments of hats and caps and are displaying them in their windows. There is very little change from the style of last year, as per usual because the man is not as particular as the woman who must have several different styles each year. Light gray and dark brown seem to be the popular styles in mens headgear this fall.

Mother Pleads For Man Charged With Murdering Her Son

AUSTIN, Aug. 31.—(P)—Mrs. Ollie M. Wilson, mother of Roscoe Wilson, who was killed in the Majestic theatre robbery at Fort Worth, was at the capital today to plead against a commutation of the death sentence of J. R. (Bob) Silver, imposed in that connection.

Mrs. Wilson said she, with her counsel, would appear today before Governor Dan Moody and the state board of pardons.

Silver originally scheduled to be electrocuted September 3, was given a reprieve until September 21, Wednesday by Governor Moody in order that the board of pardons might hear protests against commutation and might investigate possible new evidence.

Enormous Sums Paid By Liquor Ring To Police

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—(P)—Records of graft payments in black and white today linked police officers and police officials to a bootlegging ring credited with banking $10,000,000 in seven years.

These records were revealed in the books of Marks, Weinberg & Co., public accountants, seized by District Attorney Monaghan last Wednesday to aid the grand jury in its investigation of gang warfare in Philadelphia.

The district attorney in a statement said: "An investigation of the accounts of the bootlegging concerns whose audits and records were subpoenaed for the grand jury from the offices of a firm of accountants show that these records disclose enormous sums paid to police officers and police officials."

In declining to enlarge upon this statement, the district attorney explained: "Anything additional would tend to weaken our plans for the objective we are seeking."

The investigation, in charge of the district attorney, was begun by the grand jury after the shooting within a week of Hugh McLoon, cafe proprietor, and Daniel Joseph O'Leary, reputed gang leader and at the time of his death sought in connection with the death of McLoon.

A round up of gangsters and men connected with the bootlegging ring was one of the first acts of police who in turn were among the first to be interviewed by the grand jury.

The police arrested several men and women, some of whom were released under bail.

Judge Lewis charged the jury to investigate the criminal conditions in this city, urging them to pay particular attention to the directing heads of the bootlegging ring.

Among the persons called before the grand jury was Max "Boo Boo" Hoof, manager of prize fighters, and charged by District Attorney Monaghan with being the emperor of Philadelphia's bootlegging dynasty.

Prairie No. 1 That Makes 205 Barrels In First 24 Hours

During the first 24 hours it was on the swab the Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 That in the southwest corner of the That pre-emption survey at LeFors, made 205 barrels of high grade oil. The well is bottomed at 2,747 feet, being 75 feet deeper than the well it offsets making a steady 2,800 barrels a day.

This location has been watched with interest since it struck the big gas when the logging failed to follow that of the LeFors Petroleum company's gusher.

The same company's No. 2 in the same section is setting pipe at 2,840 feet after picking up a spray of oil when cleaning out at 2,520 feet.

An unverified report received here at press time this afternoon stated that oil had been picked up in the LeFors Petroleum company's No. 3 LeFors townsite, while drilling ahead in top of the lime. This well is being watched with interest as many local men hold stock in the company.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Girard of Norman, Okla., will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell and their daughter, Miss Ruth Anne, for the week-end. Mr. Girard, who is head of the music school of Oklahoma university, was Miss Mitchell's piano teacher when she was a student in the university.

Business Houses Are Requested To Close for Parade

A request for the business men of the city to close their places from 8 to 11 o'clock Monday morning was endorsed by the Business Men's Association and the Chamber of Commerce today. The request is made in order that all members of the labor union can participate in the parade to be held at that time.

Million Dollar Explorations

The expedition to the South Pole, headed by Commander Richard E. Byrd, will cost a million dollars, perhaps more, but that should neither surprise nor shock us.

Facts of importance about the manner and means radio uses in its jump around the world are among the probable results of Byrd's brave dash.

New chapters in the earth's history also will be sought by Byrd's geologists. The movement of the continents is one of geology's most engaging problems today.

Never has a Polar expedition been organized with so many things to find out and this is the most carefully planned dash toward the world's southern extremity ever conceived.

There is no need to ask the "why" of the Byrd expedition.

The Call of the City

In addressing a conference of the Williamstown Institute of Politics a few days ago, David J. Malcom, a superintendent of rural schools in Western Massachusetts, voiced the opinion that the gradual movement from the farms to the cities was caused by the lack of economic opportunities in the country districts of the nation.

the bright lights which promise lurid pleasures unknown in the hamlets of their forefathers as by the chance to advance higher in the economic scale of living.

During the past century, the rural drift to the cities of the nation has been noticeable and highly alarming to those sober observers who see America going the way of Rome, with the concentration of population in a few large industrial centers and the abandonment of the farms.

During the late world war the prices of land and produce skyrocketed. In the Middle West many farmers are laboriously endeavoring to pay off heavy mortgages with which they burdened themselves ten years ago.

Mr. Malcom in his address made one point which too many overlook, namely, the fact that modern science has brought to the farmer's door all urban comforts and conveniences, plus those mechanical inventions so necessary to the pleasure of America today.

Today those born in rural sections of the country do not pound city pavements through pleasure. They join the swelling throng at the factory gate because we have been too eager to turn America into an industrial paradise.

he must receive justice from a nation made great by his efforts throughout 300 years of patriotic service.

Chemical weapons are the most effective, the least expensive and the most humane, and the next war will find chemistry playing a major part.

This was the conclusion stated at a recent convention of the American Chemical Society in Chicago.

Despite treaties forbidding poison gas, another war would find great use of it, the Society believes, since the probability of a breach of treaty becomes greater as the effectiveness of the weapon increases.

Five Women To Seek Husbands While Touring

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Somewhere between Washington and New York there is a man around that age range of forty who had better catch up because, if he's the right one, Miss Helen Davis is going to find him and marry him.

And what Miss Davis intends to be accompanied on her forthcoming matrimonial barnstormer by four other young women who know exactly how they want in the husband line.

Now, Miss Davis concocted her plans without any thought of getting into the headlines. It was just because she was lonely for "the right kind of a man" and believed other girls in the same fix that caused her to do this advertisement to the want columns of the Washington papers:

"WANTED—Four women who have found their ideal mate to drive to Los Angeles in a sedan, stopping en route. They must each have $200. Address Box 162."

Does Miss Davis seem forward and bold? Then listen to what she says about that:

"You know," she confided to a reporter who saw her ad and sensed a story, "it has always seemed to me that the women who get the best men are a little bold. The nice, timid little women usually get the worst of it in marriage. Anyway, I decided that I could be a go-getter and get the right kind of a man than have the wrong one."

Miss Davis is no longer what you might call a flapper. She is 37. But the picture of her that the Washington Post prints on the first page this morning reveals a decidedly attractive woman and gives strength to her assertion that she has had "plenty of chances."

As to the man she is looking for, he must be at least 30 and can be as old as 60. He must be a brunette, fairly well-talented and fond of traveling. Last, but very important, he must put up $5,000 for the education of her eighteen-year-old brother. She said she "wouldn't hold a million dollars against a man" but that money was not the first consideration.

"If he is the right man, I would be glad to step out and earn $250 a month myself," was her comment on that.

State Banquet For Kellogg Attended by Three Thousand

DUBLIN, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Citizens of Dublin are making the stay of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg here a memorable one. The American secretary of state and party probably will remain in Dublin till Monday, going then in the cruiser Detroit to Cherbourg to take the Levathian for New York.

The state banquet held in Mr. Kellogg's honor at the Shelburne hotel last night was the most remarkable gathering of its kind since the free state was established. The attendance included every man high in the country's service who was present in Dublin. All were presented to the secretary.

Among the guests was the singer John McCormack.

Nearly three thousand guests participated in the reception and ball at the plaza, Dublin's largest hall, which followed the banquet.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topics: Paul in Thessalonica.

Scripture Lesson. Acts 17: 1-12.

1. Now when they had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews:

2. And Paul, as his custom was, went in unto them, and three Sabbath days reasoned with them from the scriptures.

3. Opening and alleging that it behoved the Christ to suffer, and to rise again from the dead; and that this Jesus, whom, said he, I proclaim unto you, is the Christ.

4. And some of them were persuaded, and consorted with Paul and Silas, and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5. But the Jews, being moved with jealousy, took unto them certain vile fellows of the rabble, and gathering a crowd, set the city on an uproar; and assaulting the house of Jason, they sought to bring them forth to the people.

6. And when they found them not, they dragged Jason and certain brethren before the rulers of the city, crying, These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also;

7. Whom Jason hath received; and these all act contrary to the decree of Caesar, saying that there is another king, one Jesus.

8. And they troubled the multitude and the rulers of the city, when they heard these things.

9. And they had taken security from Jason and the rest, they let them go.

10. And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea; who when they come thither went into the synagogue of the Jews.

11. Now these were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, examining the scriptures daily, whether these things were so.

12. Many of them therefore believed; also of the Greek women of honorable estate, and of men, not a few.

Time—The middle of the second missionary tour, A. D. 50-52.

Place—Thessalonica; Berea, about forty-seven miles to the southwest; Athens, 250 Roman miles south of Berea by land.

Golden Text—The opening of thy words giveth light.—Ps. 119:130.

Introduction

In our last lesson, we studied about the first preaching of the gospel in Europe. Under the influence of Paul's preaching to a prayer meeting group of women, Lydia, a merchant woman, was converted and baptized, being the first Christian convert in Europe. A half crazy demon possessed slave girl was healed by a miracle. Her owners were so incensed because of the loss of their influence and financial profit through this girl's supposed powers of fortune telling, that they caused Paul and Silas to be seized and beaten by a mob and thrust into a dark, filthy underground prison. Even in prison and in great suffering they prayed and sang praises to God, by a great earthquake the prison doors were opened, the jailer was convicted of his sins, sought and obtained salvation through personal faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Leaving the prison and Philippi, Paul and Silas journeyed southwestward toward Athens, passing through the coast cities Amphipolis and Apollonia, and came to Thessalonica. Here they found a Jewish synagogue, apparently the first one they had found since coming into Europe. Paul, according to his custom, went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day and preached to the Jewish congregation. This he did for three consecutive Sabbath days, proving from the Scriptures "That shi Jesus, whom, said he, I proclaim unto you, is the Christ." vs. 2, 3.

Old Testament Prophecies. v.3 "Opening and alleging that it behoved the Christ to suffer." Paul op-ned the meaning of Old Testament passages and alleged that they proved the necessity of the death and resurrection of the Messiah, in the fulfillment of ancient prophecy. The Jews expected a Messiah who would reign as a glorious monarch, overcoming all the enemies of the Jews and extending their domain over all nations. "And to rise again from the dead." In proof that Christ must suffer Paul would use such passages as Isa. 52: 13-53:12, and in proof that he must rise from the dead, he would use such passage as Ps. 16:10. Without the resurrection, indeed, the preaching of the cross would be a proclamation merely of death and despair." It was the resurrection that transformed the crucifixion into glorious victory.

"But the Jews, being moved with jealousy." They had been leaders in the synagogue, and now saw strangers coming into their places of leadership. "Gathering a crowd, set the city on an uproar." It is easy to raise a mob in an Eastern city, and a mob is often all the more excited and violent the less it knows about the origin and purpose of the turmoil. "And assaulting the house of Jason." Evidently the apostles were lodging at a son's house, but were not there at the time of the assault. In his letter to the Romans, written from Corinth, (Rom. 18:21), Paul refers to a Jason who is a "kinsman," perhaps the same man, who in that case was a Jew.

"Turning the World Upside Down" v.6 "Crying, These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also." This is high praise, especially as coming from the enemies of Christianity. The religion of Jesus must already have obtained a formidable influence in the Roman Empire when this could be said of it. The people of Thessalonica had heard of its triumphs, but coming had been heralded from afar. It was known to be on its conquering way over the world. And it was realized that wherever it came it would accomplish many great reforms, setting right terrible wrongs and abolishing horrible iniquities. Christianity had maintained this reputation ever since.

"Paul in Berea." v. 11 In Berea "they received the word with all readiness of mind." "The word" was the word of God, the divine teachings of Jesus Christ set forth by the apostles. Readiness for truth and eager search for all that will enlarge the domain of the mind and soul is the first quality of real nobility because without it there can be no other gain, no progress toward the best, no development of the individual or of society. "Examining the scriptures daily, whether these things were so." The Bereans did not take for granted even the teachings of so great a man as Paul, but tested them for themselves, of their own judgment. "Open your mouth and shut your eyes, and swallow what I give you" is not the language of Christianity, though it has sometimes been the demand of its professed missionaries; and not the teacher only, but the taught also, have been too ready to exercise blind credulity instead of intelligent examination and clear-eyed faith."—Alexander Maclaren.

Christianity has gradually done away with the cruelties of the ancient world. The social changes wrought by Christianity are nothing less than marvelous.

"Ancient cities flaunted their licentiousness in the light of day. Some of the most shameless haunts of impurity were within the temples, and some of the worst offenders were the priests and vestal virgins who represented religion. Children, when they happened to be female, or were not wanted, were exposed, so that cold or hunger, or cruel beat or bird might put an end to their existence. Slavery existed on a larger scale, and in more terrible forms, in the ancient than in the modern world. Five hundred was not an uncommon number to be owned by one person, Pallio, a Stoic, amused himself by loading his fish with fragments of his mutilated slaves. Many were furnished to the amphitheatres to be killed in public festivals. Old and infirm slaves were abandoned to die of hunger. Human life, when it ceased to be of value to the state, was reckoned unworthy of care. No provision existed for the sick among the poor, or for the blind, the deaf, the crippled, the idiot, the insane. The world is still very far from being a kingdom of God, but it is immensely nearer than it was when Christ came into our midst."

YANKEE DOODLE MUSIC!

Whenever a Bank "BUSTS"---Do the Yankee Doodle!

That's the reason the Clarence Saunders Store is able to weather all storms. That's the reason that the glib tongue of the not too truthful never bother us with their tales. Of course, we understand a few nasty tales has gotten out about us, but let 'em rip and snort, we laks' that stuff. We's little and small yet, but we's BIG ENOUGH to look over the none too truthful. That's the reason that every day is Yankee Doodle

Day with us. That's the reason that we give you all of these bargains. We can't help it if banks do "bust" but we can help charging High Prices and that's why some competitors would rather that the "bust" had been us than the bank, as was gotten out. To such nasty BUNK, we pay no attention. Come and git 'em folks. They're HOT!

Numerous Bridge Parties Mark Closing Days of Summer Vacation, With Thursday Featuring Five Enjoyable Gatherings

Yesterday was a day of much pleasant activity in Pampa society, morning, afternoon, and evening featuring delightful gatherings for bridge games. Two parties were given by Mrs. John V. Andrews, who entertained in the morning and again in the afternoon. Mrs. Marion Howard also entertained during the morning hours, giving a bridge-breakfast for members of the London Bridge club and other friends.

Parties for the younger set included an afternoon party given by Miss Myrtle White, and an evening bridge at the home of Mrs. De Lea Vicars. Mrs. Andrews entertained an attractive yellow and white color scheme in all details of her parties. Golden rod and marigolds predominated in the bouquets of garden flowers which decorated the entertaining suite. An ice course served at the conclusion of the game was in the favored colors.

Guests at the morning party were the following: Mrs. M. A. Finney, Mrs. J. M. Dodson, Mrs. Squires of Dallas, Mrs. Ellen Faulkner, Mrs. George Waldstad, Mrs. A. H. Doucette, Mrs. Cullam, Mrs. James Todd, Jr., Mrs. Leo Ledrick, Mrs. P. C. Ledrick, Mrs. James White, Mrs. W. M. Craven, Mrs. E. C. Carr, Mrs. L. C. McMurry, Mrs. Dick Walker, Mrs. Clinton Henry of Palo Alto, and Mrs. J. W. Vasey. A cut favor was given at each table, top cuts being made by Mrs. Squires, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Vasey, and Mrs. Walker.

Four Tables in Game The afternoon party in Mrs. Andrews' home was attended by the following: Mrs. De Lea Vicars, Mrs. Joe M. Smith, Mrs. Ivy E. Duncan, Mrs. R. W. Mitchell, Mrs. I. B. Hughey, Mrs. J. H. Lavender, Mrs. Edwin Vicars, Mrs. Cliff Vincent, Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Henry Thut, Mrs. Carson Loftus, Mrs. George Wolfe, Mrs. George Kahala, Mrs. Robert Chafin, Mrs. Clinton Henry and Mrs. W. M. Craven. Fortunate in the afternoon cut for favors were the following players: Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Thut, and Mrs. Chafin.

Breakfast Given for Club The bridge-breakfast given by Mrs. Howard was a pleasant digression from the usual afternoon meeting of the London Bridge club. A delicious two-course meal was served at the small tables, which were prettily appointed and centered with pink and orchid asters. Combination place cards and tallies gave a further note of color to the tables. Each guest received asters in the club colors, pink and orchid, as a favor.

The game was played at four tables, with Mrs. E. W. Blair scoring high for special guests, and Mrs. W. C. Upton for club members. Low score was made by Mrs. Otto Studer. Charming favors were awarded.

Club members and guests, other than those mentioned above, who attended the party were: Mrs. Walter Coffee, Mrs. P. O. Sanders, Mrs. R. G. Hughes, Mrs. H. H. Eicks, Mrs. I. B. Hughey, Mrs. H. W. Johns, Mrs. John Studer, Mrs. J. D. Sugg, Mrs. W. T. Frazier, Mrs. Wade Duncan, Mrs. Zelma Arnold, Mrs. Earl Lewis of Hereford, and Mrs. Frank Catterton.

Brides Honored at Party Talk of recent weddings, whispered rumors of others to take place within the coming weeks, and plans for the approaching school year and the departure of college students enlivened the game at Miss Myrtle White's lovely afternoon party.

The guests at this enjoyable affair included two brides of the month, Mrs. J. O. Patten and Mrs. Tom Robinson, to whom the hostess paid a gracious compliment in souveniring her party. Each was presented an exquisite favor. Mrs. Patten was formerly Miss Mildred Pally and Mrs. Robinson was before her marriage Miss Joan Leath of Roswell.

The guest list included the following names: Mrs. Lloyd Bennett, Mrs. Patten, Mrs. Robinson, Miss Elizabeth Corson, Miss Claudine Pope, Miss Virginia Faulkner, Miss Frankie Barnhart, Miss Ruth Henry, Miss Euriha Henry, Miss Pauline McKean, Miss Edna Baird, Miss Thelma Qualls, Miss Susie Bell Smalling, Miss Dorothy McKinney, Miss Mattie Belle Roberts, Miss Denna Lee Stroope, and Miss Jean Squires of Dallas. High and low cuts were made by Miss Frankie Barnhart and Miss Virginia Faulkner, respectively. Miss McKean received high score favor.

Miss Kinard is Honored Miss Leora Kinard was named as honoree of the bridge party given last evening by Mrs. De Lea Vicars. Little gum-droy boys and girls made colorful and amusing favors at this party, and when refreshments were served at midnight, the card tables were laid with decorative crepe paper covers.

The game of the evening was unusually interesting and was enjoyed by the following players: Miss Kinard, honoree, Miss Zelma Sellers, Miss Bonnie Jo Pool, Miss Hazel Campbell, Miss Wilma Behrends, Miss Wilma Chapman, Miss Dee Breeding, Miss Louise Miller, Miss Josephine Rorex, Mrs. J. R. Crawford of Amarillo, Gordon Bain, Weldon Jolly, Pete Short, Frank Ford, of Amarillo, Harry E. Hoare, Dick Cook, Ray Wilson, P. S. Morsly, and Perry Powell.

Favors were given to Miss Zeller and Mr. Worley for high scores; to Miss Campbell and Mr. Short for low cuts; and to Miss Sellers and Mr. Jolly for high cuts.

...Social Calendar... The University Study club will meet at the Schneider hotel at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. All members are urged to be present at this, the first meeting of the new club year.

WHIRLWIND BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED SYBIL THORNE, Boston society girl, returns from a date in the country with CRAIG NEWELL to find that her father has died during her absence.

In order to please her father, whom she adored, Sybil had just consented to marry Craig, the most eligible bachelor in town. His death in a fearful shock to Sybil and her father's mother. But they rally bravely for Tad's approaching marriage.

Tad, Sybil's handsome brother-in-law, engaged to VALERIE WEST, an exuberant little debutante. The wedding is fixed weeks off and Sybil fearfully approaches the wedding.

"Anybody," she reasons, "marrying a three weeks' away wedding is a thing to be proud of. I shall go on with the story."

CHAPTER VII MRS. THORNE, engrossed in her preparations for the marriage, was busier than the bride's mother. The monogrammed Tad's handkerchiefs and napkins, and the delicate embroidery on the problem of a "nice wedding gift."

Almost every day she made the very round of shops and stores, picking silver and glass, rugs and calicoes, comparing values all the way from Copley Square to South Street. Finally, in an antique shop on Charles Street, she compromised on a match secretary and a high boy with a bulging front.

"But, Mother," remonstrated Sybil, "Valerie doesn't like old things." Mrs. Thorne bristled defensively. "They're extraordinarily fine pieces," she said, "and there's nothing could be in better taste than antique."

Craig had chosen a silver casket set, a tray, and a mammoth snaker and many goblets. Poor Craig—he tried so hard to be one of the family. Sybil's heart went out to him, when he discussed with Valerie the advantages of a wedding breakfast as against a buffet luncheon, very solemnly, like a wise old uncle.

He listened patiently to Mrs. Thorne, who was hemming curtains for Valerie's kitchen. Did he think yellow checked gingham would be cut, or would he like plain white, banded with delft blue? The blue would match any ordinary linoleum mat, of course, but then, wouldn't the yellow afford a pleasing contrast?

Craig was confident and looney for the lot of them. He ran errands for Valerie, made reservations and bought tickets for Tad, Mrs. Thorne, when she took to weeping, found his shoulder always accessible. Even Mrs. West sought his advice.

"Where'd you get all these ideas?" Tad persisted. "What's got into you, Valerie?"

It was to be a very simple ceremony at St. Margaret's-by-the-Sea, the little stone chapel where Valerie's grandmother had been married 50 years before. Not that there was anything sentimental about the Wests, but only that St. Margaret's afforded such an admirable solution. It was much smarter than had been in the days of Valerie's grandmother, and the pastor was very High Church.

It was quite the thing to be churchy about a marriage. Just weddings were distinctly passé. Dignity had become a sacramental thing, and Valerie, who six months before had contemplated carrying a swagger stick to the altar, fished now for subtlety.

St. Margaret's was austere. It was, indeed, the very place for a "little family wedding." There seemed to be nothing even faintly disrespectful to the memory of Mr. Thorne about getting married at St. Margaret's. A city church, of course, would have been different.

Tad was beginning to wonder if he had ever really known Valerie before. Her conversation was entirely exclamatory. She was either "simply furious," or "thrilled to death." She "despised" things or "adored" them, knowing no half-way emotions.

"You'll be a wreck by the time I get you," he told her gently, when she came to him one evening from the dressmaker's, exhausted and in tears. "Caveman!" she retorted, and he knew she had misunderstood.

VALERIE had forgotten to bring a gift from Paris for her maid of honor, and Tad had driven her down to find something. He cruised around the congested streets, seeking a place to park while Valerie ran into a jeweler's.

"I shan't be a minute," she promised. "Any old thing will do for Bertha. She hasn't an idea in the world what's what. It won't take me a sec."

Tad parked the car in front of a cistern. Valerie was to leave an order there for pastries for a luncheon she was having the next day, and Tad was to wait outside.

An hour passed. A policeman requested him to move on. He drove West street and down Temple Street and slowly along Washington street. He was beginning to worry about Valerie. Probably they had missed each other, when he had to move. Perhaps he had hurried to back to the jeweler's. Tad would be annoyed if he kept her waiting. She had so much to do—poor kid!

He left the car at a garage in Park Square and took a taxi back. Almost two hours. Wow! Valerie'll be having a fit. He saw her first. Hanging over a counter, where precious stones rested on velvet pillows of white and royal purple. She was holding her hand to catch the light. And on her little finger a diamond ring sparkled and gleamed. A man was bending above her. A stick hooked over his arm, and a glass in his eye. He was smiling fondly and twirling a small blond mustache.

Tad had never seen Valerie look happier, nor more beautiful. He wanted to shake her as though she were a naughty child. Yet he felt a contradictory impulse to crush her to him, and kill the rest of the men who sought her smiles. He had an absurd desire to slap her foppish companion across his smiling crimson lips.

THEN Valerie saw him, and had the grace to look guilty. "Oh, Daddy! I want you to know Lord Montford. And, Monty, this is my darling fiancé—don't you love him, Monty? Isn't he beautiful! Mother and I met Lord Montford in London, Tad. . . ."

The men were bowing stiffly. "I'm sorry I kept you waiting, dear—but Monty just insisted upon buying me a wedding present. And he simply MADE me choose it myself. Wasn't it the funniest thing, running into him like this? The Levastian is! In this morning, you know, and Monty hasn't been in town an hour. I think it's just the screamingest thing!"

"See my lovely present, Daddy!" Valerie held out her hand. Gravely Tad took it, and bent to look. He must be able to control his voice before he spoke. He wondered if Valerie and her Monty had noticed how completely the dazzling thing eclipsed the solitaire on Valerie's third finger. Of course they had. No wonder the idiotic sap looked so complacent.

"YOU are very kind, Lord Montford," he said, and every word was heaped with the tenderness that choked him when he tried to speak quietly. "You are exceedingly generous. I am sure. But I cannot permit my fiancée to accept so valuable a gift."

"Why, Tad?" Valerie sounded like an outraged exponent of all the conventions. "Why, Tad Thorne, what do you mean—talking like that? I will, too. The very idea! Anybody'd think. . . ."

"But if Miss West wishes," began Lord Montford smoothly, "I'll gladly understand. . . ."

"Valerie, give Lord Montford back his ring." The astonished clerk had melted discreetly into the background. A curious customer edged a little nearer. "And tell him, Valerie, that you do not wish to accept such trinkets, because your husband will not be able to afford them for you."

"Is not that reason enough that Miss West SHOULD wish to accept them?" Lord Montford settled his glass, and gave his stick a victorious little swing. "No offense intended. I assure you, my dear chump. . . ."

Valerie's face was crimson. "But Tad. . . ."

"This is no place for a scene, Valerie. Please. . . ."

American Finds Peep Hole In Old Turkish Harem

CONSTANTINOPLE (AP)—An American woman, the first foreigner whom the Ottoman government permitted to enter the harem of Seraglio palace, has just completed an exhaustive study of that mysterious labyrinth.

She is Dr. Barnette Miller, head of the history department of Wellesley college, who returned to Istanbul this year to complete the investigations she began in 1907. Aided by a young Turkish girl, Mehrouke Hanem, a member of the staff of Constantinople College for Women, Dr. Miller is the first American to delve deeply into the shadowy history of the vast 500-year-old palace where Turkish padishahs and sultans and their hundreds and thousands of slaves lived hidden lives.

Her studies have been concerned chiefly with the women of the imperial harem. Great women some of them were, such as Kosem Sultana, so beautiful that she was surnamed "Body of the Moon," who when old abrogated so much power that the reigning sultan, her son, ordered eunuchs to strangle her at night with the cords of her bed-curtains.

Dr. Miller has made a study, too, of the lives of the palace slaves and has discovered such picturesque details of their existence as the existence of a law that no slave could be whipped more than once a day with more than 90 lashes. She found also that slaves were not allowed to wear coats, for how cold the dark draught of the palaces, so that the bodies must be covered.

Another peep hole into the harem was an other than sultan and their guardian eunuchs. In the wall of the palace where the sultan and his masculine followers worshipped, Dr. Miller found a tiny window covered with a golden lattice and discovered that this window connected with the room in the museum where the women gathered to pray.

During her final investigations this year Dr. Miller was given permission by the new republican Turkish authorities to enter every one of the hundreds of palace rooms save one. No human except the sultan, not even the sultan's harem, religion-defying Mustafa Kemal has ever entered that august sanctuary where the beard of the Prophet reposes. Outside the heavily barred window of that room 40 turbaned priests, in groups of four, chant prayers from the Koran day and night, year after year, century after century.

Forecasting a Greater Southwest

Millions consulted fortune tellers, soothsayers and other mystics when they wished to anticipate the future. But today those Southwesterners who expect their home territory to show a prosperous development are studying its past and present record and measuring its capacity for growth.

As the season carries within itself the pattern for the growth of the soil, so the young Southwest carries within itself the pattern of the Greater Southwest to come.

Agriculture forms a firm foundation for future growth of the Southwest, as shown in the value of the agricultural crops for 1927 of one billion, three hundred seventy-three million dollars. The largest single factor in this total is the cotton crop, which represents over one-half the cotton crop of the United States. Second in importance to agriculture in the Southwest are the mineral resources, of which the petroleum industry alone developed 593,022,000 barrels in 1927.

In addition to its petroleum deposits the Southwest offers a basis for future industry in mineral resources, which include vast deposits of sulphur, lignite, potash, valuable mica, coal and precious metals.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has a common cause with the other industries and institutions which are building the Greater Southwest. The company was organized in 1911 and began business in a small way, growing as its opportunities developed. It now represents an investment of over three hundred fifty millions of dollars and pays approximately eight millions of dollars in taxes each year to the treasuries of Southwestern States.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has approximately 15,000 employees, with an annual payroll of over $25,000,000. It has five refineries and owns and operates many gasoline plants. Magnolia Pipe Line Company owns and operates over 3,000 miles of trunk pipe lines and over 1,900 miles of gathering lines. Magnolia Gas Company owns and operates more than 600 miles of gas line, with a capacity of over 100,000,000 cubic feet daily.

These facts tell the story of but one company in one of the growing industries of the Southwest. Similar facts concerning other institutions and industries, which prove the industrial health and show the industrial opportunity of the Southwest, could be quoted in numbers which would dull the imagination. The resources of the Southwest are beyond reckoning. The determination of the Southwest to develop a Greater Southwest is set. The Magnolia Petroleum Company welcomes new industries which find opportunity here and reasserts its belief in the Southwest as a land of great opportunity for wise industrial investment.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company produces, refines and distributes Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline, Magnolia Motor Oils and Lubricants and regular Magnolia Gasoline and related products constituting a complete line of petroleum products.

First Dope Has Been Shattered In Major Leagues

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The open season on permanent contenders is here again. The last month or so of the baseball season usually is rich in drama for it's then that cellar or near-cellar dwellers delight in knocking the props from under pretenders to baseball's two major crowns.

The Bostonians crushed the New York Giants in three straight games this week in a series that saw most of the hope from the Clan McCraw just when it needed a few victories to bolster its shattered confidence. The fall of the Cincinnati Reds from the heights they held earlier in the year in the National League dates to a series they played against the last place Phillies.

Yesterday the Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Yankees, fighting a two-club battle for the American League pennant, were cut down by foes they should defeat with little trouble. The Yanks bowing to the Washington Senators and the A's to the last place Boston Red Sox.

"Sad Sam" Jones, who once did his pitching chores for Miller Huggins, was the immediate cause of the Yankees' defeat at Washington. Sam allowed the champions 7 hits, won his game, 3 to 1, and would have had a shutout had not George Herman Ruth took it into his head to hit his 47th homer in the year in the seventh inning.

Relief pitchers decided the issue at Philadelphia where the A's were forced to accept a 3 to 2 reverse by the Red Sox.

Detroit took the final game of the season from the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 3, clubbing Willis Hudlin for three runs in the first inning. The Tigers thus gained twelve victories in the 22 games they've played against the Indians.

The National League's crucial series between the St. Louis Cardinals, the leaders, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, developed into a fizzle temporarily for rain halted the clash after the first inning had been played. The Cards were leading, 2 to 0.

Chicago took undisputed possession of second place and advanced to within five games of the Cardinals by mowing Cincinnati, 2 to 0, in a battle ended by rain at the end of six innings.

The Braves kept up their winning streak by defeating the Phils, 6 to 5, Bell's double with the bases full in the sixth inning being the decisive blow of the game.

During the day, Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves announced that Rogers Hornsby had signed a contract to manage Boston for the next six years.

Dallas Steps To First Division In Double Headers

By the Associated Press

By winning two baseball debuts yesterday Dallas used the collective neck of the Fort Worth Cats to step up into the first division and shove the Cats down to an ignominious seventh place.

The Steers took a double-header, 7 to 6 and 2 to 1, and the Young Herd recruit from Akron, Irvine Jeffries, stimulated the local sport appetite, somewhat jaded by banging out something 'bree times out of four up in the first game.

For Wichita Falls it was the old old story. The Spudders beat out Shreveport, 1 to 0. It was Lapan's single in the ninth, with two out that filled the Spuds with the customary supreme content.

The Houston Buffaloes took a couple of tricks from Beaumont 2 to 0 and 3 to 1. Penner and Whitworth performed to the gratification of Houston.

The Houston-Beaumont affair was run off in a clicking manner. Baile for Beaumont who once worked for the Buffs, was burgled of a pair of hits.

It was a dewey day for San Antonio and Waco. Rain eliminated their date and each presumably went for a walk along its separate ways.

Dundee Is Knocked Out by Negro Last Night In Chicago

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Closest approach to the immortal Joe Goss flashed menacingly over the pugilistic horizon today.

The new star is Young Jack Thompson, young San Francisco negro, who last night caused a startling upset by knocking out Joe Dundee of Baltimore, world's welterweight champion in the second round of their scheduled ten round battle in the White Sox Park. Thompson is the welterweight titleholder in fact if not officially on because of a weight technicality.

The only reason Thompson is no proclaimed champion today was because Dundee forced him to weigh 147 pounds, one-pound over the welterweight limit.

Young Jack used up the first round in feeling out the champion. In the second, Thompson swarmed all over the titleholder. A right hand shot to Dundee's chin sent him reeling. Another terrific right knocked Dundee sprawling on his face.

The champion got up at nine but was helpless. Thompson measured him, banged over another fury of punches and Dundee went down again—this time on his back. He pulled himself to his feet at the count of nine, but his arms hung limp, his eyes were glass, and his legs stiff as he stood there reeling and waiting for the advance of his conqueror. He was defenseless and referee Purdy waved the negro to his corner.
