Col. Lindbergh and Noonan were in the ship, with the former at the controls, warming up the motor when the flames burst out. Noonan fell off the plane backwards in his efforts to escape the sheet of fire. Lindbergh was uninjured.

THE STATE HEALTH OFFICER, Dr. J. C. Anderson, and the Texas Restaurant association have launched a worthwhile movement to obtain a standardized state food control law governing public eating places.

The present laws are inadequate, but their chief weakness is in administration. Enforcement is difficult, and the state lends too little aggressive support to the program.

The restaurant business has made tremendous strides in the last decade and the number of establishments which boast modern equipment, skilled employes, and efficient methods is growing steadily.

Restaurants also are notoriously careless with respect to their personnel. Some are careful, but others obtain fraudulent health certificates for their employes, often through telephone calls.

Matter of Strategy

Need for a third party was proclaimed by keynote speakers at the Prohibition-Farmer Labor conventions in Chicago. Commonly advocated but practically never successful, third party movements have been of brief life in American history.

The farm problem is not sufficient to give rise to a strong third party nor to keep one alive for any large number of years.

The prohibition issue, however, unless it can be decided for a considerable period and put aside, is going to alienate the influence of heavy blocs of voters, depending upon the trend of the time.

There is no denying that the breach in ideals and ideas between the South and the East is deep and broad.

of the Democratic party. The theoretically dry Republican group, brewer controlled but shrewdly managed, appears more solid because the North is not so radically opposed to modification of the Volstead act.

The South's only national weapon is the Democratic party, and a split with the Eastern branch means the weakening of that weapon.

Will the South find itself without a chance at national control? It is a question for strategists, not impulsive persons acting upon their prejudices.

Platforms are in the making, which is, after all, largely through interpretation. Not recently in American history has such a problem presented itself.

There is no doubt that the South is dry. Until recently its dryness had not suffered through party politics.

A platform, for instance, is even more flexible than the famous "choose" utterance. In fact, Mr. Coolidge could hardly have caused more speculation.

And our weather—as the southern folks say, it ain't the heat, it's the humidity. Only we are having a good bit of both.

Our ad: Wanted—An extra large waste basket. This sanctum ordinarily supports an ample Simon Legree, but political bunkum has us swamped.

CAPITOL News

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The political history of this presidential year dates back to last August, when Calvin Coolidge said he didn't choose to run.

Up to that time Coolidge had held the key to his party's nomination. The funniest thing about the whole show is that he continued to hold it from that time on.

Nobody seems to know to this day just why the president insisted on forcing a great national guessing contest which wasn't definitely decided until the night before the Kansas City convention.

The only reasonable plausible explanation that comes to hand is that this was just happy, jolly little Cal having his little joke on the boys; that he immensely enjoyed his position, which found Andy Mellon and the brethren from Wall Street, along with hundreds of smaller fish, imploring him to save the country by staying at the helm four years more.

Now there is good reason to believe that when Coolidge made his first statement he wasn't dead certain that he wouldn't be the party's next candidate.

TWINKLES

Political boneheads are getting so frequent among the big boys these days that they are going to desert a lot of supporters if they don't watch out.

In the zoos the keepers hang up the food for the animals to jump at and get exercise. Life treats most human individuals that way.

Weather forecasters have a hard time in this territory, but we weather observers are not overworked measuring the rainfall.

Harvest seems to us a great game, but then our function in it is merely in an advisory capacity.

Cincinnati In Runner-Up Notch as Giants Lose

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The West, with its many pitfalls for the unwary, has no booster in John McGraw, the "Master Minded" pilot of the New York Giants.

After taking three straight on the field at Pittsburgh, the Giants moved into the even more dangerous territory of St. Louis Tuesday and encountered a storm of home runs that gave the league leaders an easy 5 to 1 victory in the first game of the series.

Their defeat dropped the Giants into third place. Cincinnati moved up into runner-up position by its 12 to 4 defeat of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Reds, making a gallant come-back after a slump that sank them into the second division for a time, are now four and a half games back of the Cardinals, with the Giants another full game to the rear.

Joe Genewich pitched pretty ball for McGraw until the sixth inning, Andy High's home run in the fifth being the only Cardinal score. The Giants tied it up in their half of the sixth and then the storm broke. High started off things with his second homer of the game. A walk gave him Bottomly and circuit drives by Chick Hafey and George Harper ended the four-run rally. Clarence Mitchell, aged southpaw exerted his usual spell over the Giants, giving up only five hits.

The Reds pounded three Dodger hurlers for 14 hits in their seventh consecutive triumph at Cincinnati. Pete Donohue held a tight rein on the Dodger sluggers until the late innings, when the Reds had piled up a long lead. George Kelly, the long first baseman, was the hitting star with four out of five.

Hartnett's single with the bases loaded in the ninth gave the Chicago Cubs a 7 to 6 decision over the Boston Braves in a wild battle at Wrigley field. Roger Hornsby's sixteenth homer of the season had given the Braves a tie in the first half of the last frame. Kent Green fielded put the Cubs for out in front in the fifth inning when he walked five men. This generosity with a triple, double and single accounted for six runs.

The Warner boss drove in the tying and winning runs in the Pittsburgh Pirates' 5 to 5 victory over the Phillies. The Phils took a one-run lead in their half of the ninth, but singles by "Little and Big Poison" enabled the Corsairs to register their fourth straight win—the second time this year they've put together a streak of that strength.

The Washington Senators moved up to a tie for fourth place in the American league by beating the Cleveland Indians in both games of a double header, 9 to 5 and 9 to 7. The nightcap was something of a freak for the Indians got no fewer than 14 hits off Mill Gaston, yet could not score a run.

Lou Blue and Frank O'Rourke led the St. Louis Browns to a 4 to 2 triumph over the Boston Red Sox in the opening game of the series.

Dazzy Funny On Bench But Serious On Mound; Afraid Of Riling Them

DAZZY-VANCE

Batsmen dance and jiggle about the plate in back-breaking efforts to connect with Dazzy Vance's delivery, but their fumbling antics do not amuse the great strikeout pitcher. The inset shows how Dazzy grips the ball for the fast one which bewildered batters say, explodes over the plate.

By JAY R. VESSELS
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
BROOKLYN (AP)—Dazzy Vance, with the best strikeout record in the major leagues, can't see anything funny in fanning a batter.

Out of the game Dazzy is the funniest man on the Brooklyn bench, but on the mound he has the face of a sphinx. He whiffed 15 batsmen in a recent game and never cracked a smile.

"Why", snapped Dazzy, "should I laugh? Those fellows are in there trying just as hard as I. If I laugh in their faces the next man might get parkus and knock the ball out of the park."

That's the philosophy of one of the greatest speed ball pitchers the game has ever seen.

"They're in there trying just as hard as I am"—that, say his teammates, is Dazzy through and through. And that's why he is one of the most popular players, yet the most feared batters, in the big show.

Dazzy has fanned 1,233 batters in the 1,673 innings he has pitched since joining the Robins in 1922. At 35 he has as much speed as ever, declares Hank DeBerry, Dazzy's batterymate.

The great Vance is being crowded hard as the hero of the 1928 Dodgers because a younger player, one of the modern type of slugger with as much color as any of them, is bidding for the fans' favor. He is Del Buscassette home run hitter extraordinarily.

But Dazzy has his following and his baseball public is just as fickle as any. Brooklyn fans have become a bit used to seeing Arthur—that's his first name—drive opposing players back to the bench with three burning strikes.

So they have become somewhat critical of his pitching, for instance, for his slow, shuffling pace between the dug-out and box.

Fans and umpires alike can't budge the big six-footer, though, if the home half of an inning ends abruptly, leaving the Dazzier in the wrong mood to take up his position promptly.

There's one thing about this big, sandy-haired hurler whose pitches in the pinches streak across the plate like bolts of lightning. He is never accused of doctoring the ball or nicking the cover to improve his grip.

In fact, Dazzy is more particular about the ball than the most fastidious batsmen. He has been known to lose out as many as three balls while pitching to one man.

Vance is just as particular about his windups. His is the full old-fashioned Walter Johnson style. One big swing of the arm upward around and back upward to catch the full

Pennant Chase Hard on Hurlers in Texas League

(By The Associated Press)
Texas league batsmen are having a great time at the expense of the hurlers under stimulus of a pennant chase that as yet is not quite the runaway for Houston that it was in the first half of the season. Good pitching was seen in some games Tuesday, but in most the sluggers had a field day.

Waco and San Antonio stood toe to toe and batted each other, driving out fifteen safeties each, but the Bears had the heavier bludgeons and the better eyes and won 13 to 4.

Houston and Beaumont met in a hitting match in the first game of a double header, lambasting opposing hurlers for 13 hits each, but an early lead helped the Exporters to a 12 to 6 victory. The second game, featured by a better type of mound work, also was won by Beaumont, 5 to 2. Hubbell, who toiled for the Exporters in the first game, chalked up his ninth straight victory. Glenn Darrough set the leaders down with six hits in the nightcap.

By virtue of an attack that would not be denied, Dallas defeated Wichita Falls, 7 to 4. They hammered out thirteen safeties, which brought in five runs in the seventh inning, while Charlie Roberson held the Wichitans to seven safe blows.

One of the best pitched games was at Fort Worth, where the Panthers won from Shreveport, 4 to 2, largely a result of the excellent twirling of Dennis Burns and their own bunched hits.

Great American Olympic Team to Sail for Europe

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Intent on international athletic conquest, the American Olympic team, 268 strong, sails for Amsterdam today.

Track and field stars, fencers, swimmers, cyclists, carmen, gymnasts and entrants in other branches of Olympic sport will have a ten-day voyage aboard the President Roosevelt.

Recruited from every section of the country, this argosy seeking not the golden fleece but the laurel wreaths that wait Olympic victors, should return to the United States in September bearing more than its share of athletic honors. No other country can assemble a group of record-holding athletes to match the American expedition.

Comparative performances indicate that the United States should win championships in at least five of the eleven branches of Olympic competition—track and field, swimming, rowing, boxing and wrestling. In all of these the red, white and blue will be defending team championships gained in the 1924 games at Paris.

In the other sports—fencing, gymnastics, cycling, modern pentathlon, equestrian competition, yachting and lacrosse—America is sending strong teams that will give other nations a fight of it if nothing more.

Champion Favored to Hold Junior Crown Tonight

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—If rain holds off, Tod Morgan and Cannonball Eddie Martin will get together for their much-delayed junior lightweight championship battle at Ebbets Field tonight.

Humbert J. Fugazy, who is promoting the 15-round bout, has not had a whole lot of luck with the weather so far in the outdoor season. The Morgan-Martin affair alone has suffered three postponements, twice because of rain and once because Fugazy figured July 4 was no time to hold a fight.

The Seattle champion is favored at odds of 6 to 5 to retain his crown.

Resignation of George Wightman "Deeply Regretted"

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Resignation of George W. Wightman of Boston from the American Olympic committee because of the paddock case was received with "deep regret" by Major General Douglas MacArthur of Baltimore, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Wightman, who was vice-president of the committee, announced his resignation yesterday in a telegram in which he severely criticized the committee for permitting Charley Paddock, veteran California sprinter, to accompany the American team to Amsterdam. Paddock, charged with professionalism in connection with a motion picture-personal appearance tour, was cleared of the accusation by the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union.

"I cannot conscientiously retain membership on any committee," Mr. Wightman said, "which on technical or other like grounds permit an athlete to represent the United States when he is notoriously under suspicion as an amateur and who therefore may be the cause of destroying the fundamental purpose for which the Olympic games are held."

ROOKIE NOT SEASONED
DALLAS July 11.—(AP)—Walt or Hamburger, rookie infielder of the Dallas steers, has been sent to the Corsicana club of the Lone Star league for seasoning.

ANOTHER BALLOT CASE
ATLANTA, July 11.—(AP)—The announced intention of former Congressman W. D. Upshaw to work for the defeat of Governor Smith today had been made the basis of an effort to declare the dry crusader ineligible as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the fifth district.

THIS HAS HAPPENED BERTIE LOU STARED, on the eve of her wedding to ROD BRYAN, receives a paper knife as a gift from LILA BARKER, who had turned Rod down because he was not wealthy. The feel of the metal chilled Bertie Lou, and she thought that it was a dagger to pierce her happiness. Bertie Lou's anticipation turned to miserable foreboding. But she courageously resolves not to be jealous of Rod's past love affair. His future is in her keeping.

Bertie Lou receives a second blow to her spirit when she accidentally overhears one bridesmaid ask another if she thought the bride liked being second choice. She goes through the ceremony in a daze, but when Rod whispers "My wife with a world of adoration in his eyes, she knows that she would rather be second choice than to give him up." They spend an ideal honeymoon in a mountain resort, and Bertie Lou almost forgets the shadow cast by the predatory ex-sweetheart until they return and find Lila setting the detector in their apartment on the ground that she knows what Rod likes. Both the bride and her mother resent Lila's efforts to annoy and Mrs. WARD advises Bertie Lou to try to avoid meeting her in the future.

CHAPTER VI IT WAS JUST as she feared. Bertie Lou admitted the fact as she lay staring out of the open window at the street lamp on the corner. It made the room too bright. "But if I pull down the shade there won't be any air," she reflected. Sleep was impossible anyhow, she knew. Marcella's remark kept her awake. It proved to Bertie Lou that everyone was aware of the situation that troubled her. That Lila wasn't to be invited to a surprise party for her former sweetheart and his bride could have been taken for granted. But that it was considered best to keep her in ignorance of the affair revealed the town's knowledge of her still active interest in Rod. Marcella's tactless admission confirmed the fear that Bertie Lou had expressed to her mother. Her marriage was going to be like a three-ring circus for her friends. "I wonder if I am afraid of her?" Bertie Lou asked herself with an honesty she did not hesitate to indulge in. Secretly she well understood finally with the question unanswered.

"Looks like we'll need a new budget," she said, striving to speak lightly. she saw the bowl. "Gretzel's old public utility," she mused. "Gone forever. Oh, Rod, we'll have to pay for it. And you know what the last one that got broken cost Tommy White!" "What's a bowl?" Rod was magnificently unimpressed by cut glass. "You might have broken your neck, Bels." "I've broken $40. That's at least a w-i-l-o-w." She referred to the house they hoped to build. To have it soon was one reason why they had taken this flat over the Busy Bee. It was cheap and near Rod's work. Saved car fare. When they got out to Willow Heights, where they wanted their house, he must ride in on a bus or have a car of his own. They'd need to save almost penuriously to "make" the Heights.

President's Doctor, Idle, Heals Fish

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 11.—(P)—Good health is so general at the summer White House that President Coolidge has turned his physician over to the treatment and care of the Cedar Island Lodge trout. The fish in the famous hatcheries in the Lodge estate developed a strange gill-like ailment that deformed them and sapped their vitality. Hatchery attendants were helpless and watched with dismay the growth swell on the trout's necks. It remained for Col. James F. Coupan, White House physician, to diagnose and cure the evil. Col. Coupan put three drops of iodine solution in the vats containing the small fish. Within five minutes the little trout, which previously had not had enough energy to fetch their food, were darting hither and thither full of energy.

ATLANTA, July 11.—(P)—With few witnesses remaining to be heard here, the Senate committee investigating alleged irregularities in administration of post office patronage by the Republican organization in Georgia was ready to transfer its activities temporarily to Washington. Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, said the Georgia hearing would be closed during the day and that the committee next would meet in Washington to hear postmaster general New before proceeding with hearings in other states where complaints similar to those in Georgia have arisen.

Hert, a vice-chairman of the national committee. She has been called upon to organize activities of women campaign workers, a post which she filled in 1924, and turning at once to the eastern section of the country where an intensive drive for votes is planned. Confessions in 'Liquor Milking' Lead to Arrest

NEW YORK, July 11.—(P)—A man described by government authorities as "one of the biggest in the liquor game" was sought today in connection with the siphoning of $8,000,000 worth of government whiskey and alcohol from a warehouse in lower Manhattan. Robert B. Watts, assistant United States Attorney, said confessions had been obtained from three of the six men under arrest as conspirators in the thefts. He said the man sought as their leader was well known in sporting circles and had attracted attention as a liberal spender. The confessions, said Watts, revealed that the liquor was shipped through a window from the government barrels into barrels on trucks in an adjoining yard.

Injunction Hearing on Dallas Church Is Deferred Today

DALLAS, July 11.—(P)—The hearing set for today in Judge Towns Young's court to determine if an injunction restraining work on the Fundamentalist Baptist tabernacle here should be made permanent was continued indefinitely by agreement of both sides. While it would be impossible for the church group to complete the tabernacle as matters now stand, there is nothing to prevent holding services in the partly-completed structure. The church people will do so at their own risk, however, as the building was condemned two days ago by the city building inspector.
