Volcano spews rocks

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Popocatepetl volcano spewed red-hot rocks late Thursday, its crater lighting up against the night sky.

The two-minute explosion, which happened at 9:36 p.m., launched some red-hot rocks for a small radius near the 17,886-foot volcano, but presented no immediate danger to residents living on its flanks, Mexico's National Center for Prevention of Disasters said.

The volcano, located about 40 miles south of Mexico City, has been closely monitored since Dec. 18, when the volcano staged its most violent eruption in 1,200 years.

Child found naked, alone

Man, 37, charged with endangering

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

A 19-month-old Pampa child is safe in a foster home today. A 37-year-old Pampa man is in Gray County Jail. Matthew Lynn Schiffman, 37, 401 N. Banks remained in jail this morning on charges of child abandonment, a state jail felony, and endangering a child, a felony.

Following up on an anonymous report around 10 p.m. Thursday night, Gray County Sheriff's deputies discovered the female toddler left alone at a residence located at 401 N. Banks at 10:15 p.m.

Deputy Randy Langwell said officers were dispatched to the residence. Finding the doors locked, they shined flashlights through the windows.

He said the officers saw the 19-month-old lying on the couch without any clothes on.

Langwell said officers contacted him at home as well as Child Protective Services workers.

The front door was kicked in by the officers and the child was found alone in the residence.

Langwell said the CPS workers immediately took the child to Pampa Regional Medical Center Emergency Room to be examined. After receiving medical treatment, she was later placed in a foster home by CPS workers.

Langwell said the home was in disarray. He said there was old and (See CHILD, Page 2)

In with the new...

(Pampa News photo by David Bowser) Brad Hoover rakes and levels the dirt around a sprinkler head as ground crews prepare Pampa's high school football field for next fall's season. Denver Bruner, facilities management director, said the new sod - a hardy Tifton 10 bermuda - replaces grass that had been "worn out" in the center of the field. West Texas Landscape of Pampa, lowest bidder, is providing the sod, he said. Funds to replace the grass which cost less than $5,000, came from savings in the facilities management grounds budget, Bruner said.

Officers probing mishap

LAKE MCCLELLAN — Law enforcement officers continue to investigate an incident at Lake McClellan this weekend in which a four-year-old child suffered severe head injuries after being struck by a motorcycle.

Gray County Deputy Randy Langwell said Thursday that the Gray County Sheriff's Department and the U.S. Forestry Service are continuing to investigate the incident and are withholding the names of persons involved until officers decide whether or not charges will be filed.

Langwell said the incident occurred about 8 p.m. Saturday when an 18-year-old man, riding a dirt bike, used a loading ramp located at a camping and picnic area on the northwest corner of Lake McClellan as a jump (See PROBE, Page 2)

 Schiffman was located at a local bar in the 100 block of East Craven around midnight, Langwell said. He said when officers arrested the 37-year-old man he said, "Oh, I forgot about my little girl."
 He was arrested and taken to Gray County Jail.
 According to information received by the sheriff's deputies, the child's mother has been gone about four months and the child has been living with Schiffman, said Langwell.
 Langwell said the officers are searching for the toddler's mother.
 Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Joe Martinez set bond of $1,000 on each charge this morning.

 Martinez said today that the recommended bond range for these charges is between $4,000-$7,500. "Bond is not based on punishment," said Martinez. "It is set to be sure they will appear in court."
 "His family are long-time residents here," he said, "and he's not a flight risk."
 Martinez said setting the bond "is not retribution," explaining that he was not given any prior record on Schiffman to base the bond on anything in the past. "Understand, bond is discretionary," said Martinez.
 Langwell said the case is being referred to the District Attorney's office. District Attorney Richard Roach was out of town today.

 "A little girl was bent down in front of the ramp, and he apparently didn't see her," Langwell said. "People were waving at him and trying to warn him, but I guess he didn't see them. The little girl stood up just as he went over and the bike hit the girl in the head."
 The deputy said it appeared that the child was struck by the frame of the motorcycle as it passed over her.

The little girl suffered a deep laceration to the right side of her head that exposed the skull and there appeared to be a depressed area of the skull, he said.
 Gray County Deputy Jim McDonald of McLean responded to the accident. The child, accompanied by her mother, was rushed to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo by McLean ambulance, officials said.
 Officials said the child was in critical condition, but had showed slight improvement Thursday afternoon.

Bush says "War on cancer" can be won

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush welcomed breast cancer survivors to the White House on Friday, declaring that advances in medical research give him "some measure of confidence that the war on cancer is winnable."
 "I hope, I believe and I pray that we are on the verge of great victories against breast cancer," Bush told dozens of women who will participate in the National Race for the Cure on Saturday.

"As long as there is a reason to wear pink," the first lady said, "my husband will be on our side."
 Bush's budget includes $766 million for breast cancer research, prevention, screening and education programs.
 "In your suffering you have shown dignity and determination. Grit and Grace. Courage and character," the president said.

President Bush signed law that has daughters in trouble

AUSTIN (AP) — President Bush himself signed the tough zero-tolerance underage drinking law that has his twin 19-year-old daughters in trouble.

Austin police on Thursday cited Jenna and Barbara Bush for violating state alcoholic beverage laws. It was Jenna's second offense and Barbara's first.

Then-Gov. George W. Bush on June 19, 1997, signed the law at a public ceremony. The federal government had threatened to withhold highway funding unless states adopted "zero-tolerance" underage drunken driving laws.

Texas' law also strengthened the state's alcohol code by creating a separate offense with stiff penalties for people under 21 who are caught with or trying to get booze.

The law put in place the three strikes and you're out policy that also requires busted underage drinkers to have their driver's licenses or permits suspended, attend alcohol awareness classes, pay a fine up to $500 and perform up to 12 hours of community service.

That means Jenna Bush, who pleaded no contest to charges of underage drinking just over two weeks ago, could have her license revoked for up to 90 days for the second offense. Her sister faces a possible 30-day suspension.

A third conviction under the law could result in up to six months in jail.

Jury deliberates punishment phase

AUSTIN (AP) — Jurors took two days to convict Robert Burns Springsteen IV of capital murder. Deciding his sentence has proven just as difficult.

Jurors broke off deliberations Thursday night without deciding his punishment for killing 13-year-old Amy Ayers in 1991: life in prison or death by lethal injection.

Springsteen's lawyers urged the jury to spare his life.

"It takes a great amount of courage to spare a life," attorney Joe James Sawyer said in his closing arguments.

Springsteen was convicted Wednesday of killing Ayers during a yogurt shop robbery that turned into murder on the night of Dec. 6, 1991.

Three other girls also were killed. All of them were bound, gagged and shot in the head. The store was then set on fire.

Springsteen, 26, confessed in 1999 to killing Ayers. Two other suspects, Michael Scott and Maurice Pierce, await trial.

Despite his attorney's pleas, prosecutors urged jurors to think of his victim's parents and to sentence Springsteen to die.

Danforth says FBI was reluctant to turn over papers for Waco probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. John Danforth said the FBI was so uncooperative in his Branch Davidian investigation that he threatened FBI Director Louis Freeh with a search warrant to gain access to relevant documents, Danforth told The Washington Post.

As special counsel, the Missouri Republican conducted a 14-month investigation into the deaths of about 80 Branch Davidians near Waco, Texas, in 1993.

His inquiry was aimed at determining whether the FBI started a fire that led to the deaths of those inside the religious sect's compound and whether FBI agents opened fire. Danforth's investigation concluded that the FBI did neither. The process of gaining information from the FBI was harrowing for him, Danforth said. He told the Post that the agency had a "spirit of resistance" to outside authority.

While Danforth said it is possible the FBI did not turn over all of its documents on the subject, he doubts that documents were withheld that had any bearing on his investigation.

CCAs celebrate Community Action Month in Texas

AUSTIN — Community Action Agencies (CAAs) celebrated their achievements during Community Action Month (CAM) in Texas during the month of May. CAM is part of a national effort designed to gain support for and raise awareness of community action and its impact locally and nationally.

Texas Gov. Rick Perry issued a proclamation recognizing the accomplishment of CAAs and their invaluable role they will continue to play in Texas. In addition, Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos and Rep. Elliott Naishtat sponsored resolutions, which were approved in their respective chambers, acknowledging CAAs' contributions to individuals and families and recognizing CAAs as an integral part of the human services delivery network.

CAAs were created in 1964 to fight poverty under the Economic Opportunity Act signed by President Lyndon Baines Johnson. Since that time, the Texas network of 46 CAAs has been providing a bridge to self-sufficiency for many Texans and their families.

The mission of Community Action is based on the principle that everyone who can work should work, those who do work should earn sufficient income to provide for their families' basic needs, and those who are unable to work, or who work but do not earn enough to provide for their families, should be assisted by policies and programs to meet their basic needs and secure safe and decent housing.

In fiscal year 2000, over 340,000 people were served across the state, nearly 1,400 people were assisted with the transition from poverty into self-sufficiency and over 100,000 households were assisted with utility bills.

Throughout May, CAAs showcased the work of community action and honor volunteers, public officials and others who have worked diligently on behalf of low-income residents in the community. In addition, CAAs showcased community action success stories. CAM activities included open houses, awards ceremonies and job fairs.

"This is a great opportunity to communicate the success stories of our CAAs, and to commend the staff, board members and volunteers of CAAs who are undoubtedly passionate about making a difference in the lives of less fortunate people," said Stella Rodriguez, executive director of the Texas Association of Community Action Agencies (TACAA).

TACAA Board President Johnny Raymond said, "CAAs provide for the largest source of varied services than any single organization. Our 37 years of success in Helping People Help Themselves has provided millions a better and happier life."

For more information about CAAs in Texas, visit the TACAA website at www.tacaa.org, or call 1-800-992-9767.

Minister's musing ...

Did you hear about the guy that walked up to the counter at an auto parts store and said, "I'd like to get a new gas cap for my old car."? The clerk said, "Sure, sounds like a fair exchange."

The value or worth of something is always a question. How much we're willing to pay for something, or how much time we are willing to invest in something or someone depends on the worth we attribute to that item or commitment. It seems the worth of something is in the eye of the beholder.

The Bible tells us that even if we gained the whole world (lots of us are killing ourselves trying), but failed to do that which secures our soul, we have lost all things that matter. Many of us deny that. We are convinced that if we have enough we can fill the void of our life. When that doesn't work we turn to other substances to fill the emptiness. In fact, far too many sell their souls for the world and it always ends the same...they get short-changed.

God has placed an incredible value on each of us. If we could ever understand that, we would never be satisfied with the temporary and puny things of this world. We would desire the wondrous abundance found in Jesus Christ.

The Bible tells of a man who found a treasure in a field and went and sold all he had in order to purchase the field and possess that treasure. It also tells of a man who found a pearl of such value that he sold all in order to have the pearl. Often we talk of that possession being salvation and man giving up all for the gift. Maybe we need to reconsider. We don't have anything we could sell that would even come close to being valuable enough to purchase salvation (can't buy it with money, works, morality, religion or anything else man tries to use).

By Dr. Derrell Monday

It seems to be saying that God, in Christ, came seeking to save that which was lost (us) and having found us, determined to pay the ultimate price that we might be set free of our bondages and given eternal and abundant life. God held nothing back. He made the most extreme sacrifice ever made that we might be redeemed.

If value is determined by the price paid or the time given, then God has made a truly wondrous statement about the value

He places on each of us. We can sell ourselves short, as unfortunately most do, or we can redeem our lives for the highest possible potential and abundance of life. That redemption takes place at the cross and all are welcome.

I recently heard the story of some men who purchased an old store in order to put in a new business. The store had a huge front window. As they were cleaning out the store, they placed things in the window area to be hauled off. One of the men noticed that people would glance in the window as they were passing to see what items were there and try to determine the kind of store it would be. He decided to try something. He placed ridiculously high price tags on the items (all junk). Now as people passed by, they stopped and stared at the pieces thinking them to be antiques and of great value. The price tag made all the difference in their perspectives, in the way they viewed the "stuff" in the window.

No matter how hard we try to convince ourselves otherwise, the world will always consider us "stuff" to be used and discarded. But God has a different opinion (the only one that matters). He has placed a new value on you...the life of His Son, Jesus Christ. In God's eyes, you're of the utmost value. Why not give yourself to Him?

Redeeming Grace Mission events scheduled

Redeeming Grace Mission has two special events scheduled for this weekend. Evangelist Durand Sculthorp will be speaking Friday evening, June 1, at 7 p.m. Durand has previously pastored in Vernon and San Angelo, Texas and comes from generations of ministers. His grandparents were missionaries in the Philippines for many years.

On Saturday, June 2, there will be a Singpiration at 2 p.m. featuring Emet Gomez, recording artist and pastor. He and his wife, Norma, presently minister in Amarillo. Other singers will be singing as well. Refreshments will follow. These events at Redeeming Grace Mission, 422 N. West St. in Pampa are open to the public.

Central Baptist readies for VBS

An exciting week has been planned at Central Baptist Church for June 4-8 from 9 a.m. - noon. "Truth Trackers and the Secret of the Stone Tablets" is the theme of this year's school.

Paula Gilreath (preschool division director) invites those children 4 (by September 1, 2000) thru kindergarten age and Brenda Palmateer (VBS children's division director) invites those children who have completed grades 1-6 to a fun filled week of Bible activities, crafts, recreation, missions, music and snacks.

Each day we will have a special emphasis and on Friday we will have a hot dog lunch for each child. Central Baptist Church is located at the corner of Starkweather and Browning. For more information you can call 665-1631.

Vocalist, author Paschal will perform here June 4

A free concert featuring inspirational vocalist and author Janet Paschal is coming to M.K. Brown Auditorium at 7 p.m., Monday, June 4.

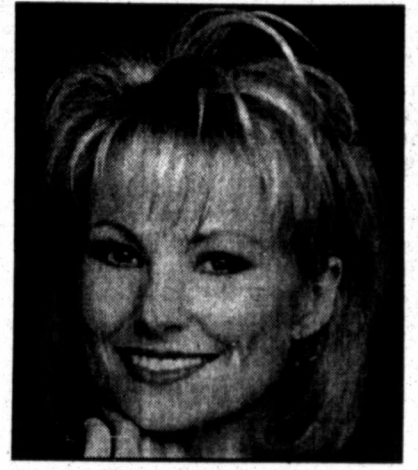

Harmony Music Outreach (HMO), a Pampa-based non-profit organization formed to provide high quality, family-oriented music to the Pampa area, is sponsoring Paschal in concert - the first major HMO musical event.

Paschal's performance of "Take These Burdens" reached No. 1 on the Inspirational charts. Her "One Rock" reached the Top 5 Inspirational songs in the national and she has performed seven other Top 10 Inspirational hits.

Since 1986, she has produced seven inspirational albums. In 1997 she published her book, "The Good Road."

Paschal has earned three Dove Award nominations for Southern Gospel Song of the Year, Female Vocalist of the Year and Album of the Year. She's also received two Grammy Award nominations for Best Traditional Performance and has made guest appearances with the Rev. Billy Graham, Bill and Gloria Gaither, and former President George Bush.

After moving to Nashville in 1992, Paschal became official spokesperson for Mission of Mercy, an international Christian relief organization. She also serves as a member of the Mission of Mercy advisory board. Paschal credits her singing family for her unrelenting desire to sing.

"I used to pray that God would give me the courage to walk through the doors He opens," she explained. "I still pray that prayer, but with an addendum. I now ask Him to keep me from standing and staring at the doors He closes for so long that I miss the ones He's opening."

"I conclude simply that, for me, there is no other way but to follow Christ, to study Him, to pursue Him," she added. "He has carved a place in my heart that yearns for Him."

Paschal's concert is open to the public. No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be taken to help support Harmony Music Outreach's efforts to bring more quality musical entertainment to Pampa.

Churches feel pinch of soaring utility prices

By RICHARD VARA
Houston Chronicle

HOUSTON — The recent surge in power prices is shocking Houston's religious community and forcing some churches and groups to cut or curtail programs and services.

The utility bill increases also are compelling churches, synagogues and other religious institutions to consider forming alliances to negotiate low-cost, long-term energy contracts when electricity deregulation takes effect in Texas Jan. 1.

Thomas O'Toole, fiscal officer of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Galveston-Houston, said parishes, schools and other diocesan institutions are experiencing a 50 percent increase in electric and natural gas prices since Jan. 1.

"Our combined utility costs for the entire diocese probably runs $5 million plus," O'Toole said. "But if it keeps going the way it is going, it is projected to go to $7 million to $7.5 million."

"They (increases) are going to hurt; it is inevitable. Something has to give, one way or another," he said. O'Toole and a committee of priests and church members are studying the option of uniting the diocese's 151 parishes, 60 schools and other institutions into a negotiating association to attract a low-cost, long-term electricity contract.

For the short term, the churches will have to depend on increased giving from parishioners who themselves are experiencing higher utility costs at home, O'Toole said.

The Rev. Eric Pitre, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church in La Porte, is preparing to bring up to congregants a projected $7,000 increase for electricity costs for this year.

"This is a parish of very modest means," Pitre said. "What we are going to do is ask everyone to contribute an extra dollar each week to help us with utilities."

Pitre said the parish allocates only a few hundred dollars for natural gas annually. But that was entirely wiped out with the January bill.

"My bookkeeper was convinced we had a gas leak," Pitre said. But a check of the gas lines found it was not a leak.

The Rev. James W. Clark, pastor of Park Place Baptist Church in southeast Houston, has had to dismiss three full-time and two part-time employees, including the church's three-member kitchen staff because of utility price increases.

The first-quarter natural gas bill grew from $3,500 in 2000 to $7,500 this year, he said. Clark is dreading the electric bills during Houston's notorious hot, muggy summers. The air-conditioning bill will be especially steep for a sanctuary that can seat 2,000 but now only sees only 350 members in attendance on Sundays.

The combined gas-electric utilities budget for the Southern Baptist church is expected to exceed the budget by $40,000 for the year, he said. The unexpected increases emerged after the church had set its $860,000 annual budget.

"It can't get a whole lot worse from my perspective," Clark said. "There is no fluff and no fudge in our budget."

The kitchen's staff dismissal means there will be no meals for the 100 senior citizens who attend Wednesday-night services and choir practices. The workers also provided meals to a dozen homebound congregants.

"We stopped the food service because that was one of the big consumers of utilities," Clark said.

Before gasoline prices climbed, the church also provided its two vans to transport senior adults to stores on Monday mornings. Now, volunteers use their personal cars for the service, Clark said. The church vans will continue to pick up congregants without a way to get to church on Sunday mornings and Wednesday nights, but how long that will last depends on gasoline prices, Clark said.

At First Baptist Church of Pasadena, Pastor Charles Redmond is facing unexpected monthly utility bill increases of $6,000 to $7,000 in the midst of his $2.5 million budget year.

The April 2000 bill was $43,593. This year, the April bill totaled $51,382. The price hike impact could be worse if the buildings were old, but First's 1,000-seat worship center and 1,000-student educational wing are less than 2 years old.

Ranking Lutheran bishop resigns before term ends

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California's ranking Lutheran bishop announced he would resign a month before his term ends for participating in the ordination of a non-celibate lesbian.

Admitting "ecclesiastical disobedience," Bishop Paul W. Egertson said Tuesday he would step down July 31. His six-year term ends Aug. 31; he had not been expected to seek re-election.

Last month, Egertson, whose son is gay, became the first active bishop in the 5.1-million-member Evangelical Lutheran Church in America — the nation's largest Lutheran body — to join in the ordination of a non-celibate gay or lesbian.

Presiding Bishop H. George Anderson, who had asked Egertson to resign, called his decision honorable.

"I respect Bishop Egertson's integrity and his beliefs," Anderson said. "I do, however, regret that he participated in the ordination of a candidate who was not approved for ordination in the church, and therefore, violated church policy."

The church ordains homosexuals only if they remain celibate. Anita Hill, who is in a relationship with another woman, was ordained by Egertson and others in St. Paul, Minn., where she has led a ministry to gays and lesbians for two decades.

Houston Baptist University is also considering allying with other institutions to negotiate a lower rate, said Richard Parker, vice president for financial affairs.

It is an approach Redmond favors for Baptist churches and institutions.

"We all need God and lower utility bills," he said.

"Everything I have is state-of-the art energy-efficient," Redmond said.

He has hired consultants to find ways to cut energy consumption. "We won't be as cool this summer as we normally would be," Redmond said. "We won't be uncomfortable, but we won't be chilly, I guarantee."

Redmond is also concerned that the high utility prices will affect the second phase of his construction program set to kick off in late summer. The church plans to add an additional 1,000 seats to its sanctuary and another educational wing for 1,000 students.

Grace United Methodist Church in the Heights has already spent half of its annual utility budget in the first quarter of the year, said the Rev. Milton Jordan, pastor of the 350-member congregation. The church budgeted about $11,000 for utilities, but the new projected cost will be about $20,000, he said.

"It won't sink the ship, but we will have to make some adjustments," Jordan said.

"We will pay the bills," Jordan said. "This congregation has never been stingy when the bills come. We are not going to curtail our ministry."

The higher utility costs became evident to church officers during the first three months of the year. "We looked at our first-quarter's statement and said 'Good night, this is big,'" Jordan said.

Jordan said the church's facilities are popular meeting centers for many community groups. "Almost every day there is a community group or church group that uses our building," he said. The church does not charge nonprofit groups, but it is now asking for voluntary contributions to cover utilities.

Like church staffs across the city, the employees of First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) near Rice University are more conscious of turning off unneeded lights and checking thermostats, the Rev. Max Hickerson said. The church is considering major repairs to its air-conditioning system to trim the utility bills.

Tallowood Baptist Church in west Houston has increased its budget allocation for electricity by $100,000, said Beverly Samu, business manager for the 4,500-member church. The church has an annual budget of $6.1 million.

"It is something that was discussed pretty seriously during our budget talks," Samu said. Members are strongly supporting the church with contributions, and there will be no impact on programs and services, she added.

The Jewish Community Center on South Braeswood, however, will limit access to the building on Saturdays beginning May 26, said Debra Shniderson, marketing director. The center's facilities currently open at 1 p.m. on Saturdays, but utility costs have made it impractical for the center to continue opening on Sabbath afternoons. The center's pool and health club facilities will not be affected, Shniderson said.

"It's hard for a community center (to close)," she said. "People need to have access to the building for one reason or another."

A few miles away, United Orthodox Synagogues is experiencing increases of 40 percent to 50 percent in its electrical bills, Rabbi Joseph Radinsky said.

"Many people feel this is a rip-off," Radinsky said. But "it is not going to cause us to shut down. We are an established synagogue. We will have to dig into our resources."

The cost surge is prompting the city's synagogues and Jewish community groups to consider banding together to negotiate a lower rate, he said.

Houston Baptist University is also considering allying with other institutions, said Richard Parker, vice president for financial affairs.

It is an approach Redmond favors for Baptist churches and institutions.

"We all need God and lower utility bills," he said.

Man of Her Dreams Refuses To Make Marriage a Reality

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old divorced mother of three. "Jeff," the man I am seeing, is kind, patient, understanding and generous. He is a gentleman. There isn't anything I want or wish for that he does not get for me. Jeff sends me flowers several times a month. He loves my children dearly. I could not ask for a more perfect man.

The problem is: He's still married. Jeff and his wife have been separated for 10 years. He refuses to see a lawyer, even for consultation, because he says he can't afford a divorce. He's convinced his wife will take "everything." How can he be certain if he doesn't talk to someone?

I love Jeff with all my heart, but quite frankly, I am tired of waiting. I want to be his wife. I know Jeff loves me with all his heart, mind, body and soul — but maybe not enough to get married.

Abby, how much longer do I wait? EVERYTHING EXCEPT THE RING

DEAR EVERYTHING: The gentleman you are seeing may love you with his heart, mind, body and soul — but he loves his current economic status more.

Ask yourself: Can I live like this indefinitely, or should I push for a commitment with the risk of "losing" him? Only you can answer that.

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office where people often bring food: doughnuts, casseroles, birthday cake, etc., for special events. On these occasions, "Cora" will fill an extra plate with food and say, "I'm taking this home for 'Susie'" (her 5-year-old daughter).

I wouldn't mind if Cora couldn't afford to feed Susie. But that isn't the case. Cora owns her own home, has a nice car, and frequents restaurants several times a week.

I think Cora is rude. I often want to say to her, "I didn't know Susie worked here," hoping it will stop her from pilfering our food for her child. Can you think of anything we can say to her to get the point across that what she is doing is wrong?

NO FREE LUNCH IN OHIO

DEAR NO FREE LUNCH: Oh, come on! How much can a 5-year-old consume? I'm sure it makes the child happy to feel remembered. In the interest of office morale, refrain from criticizing and being so possessive about the leftovers.

DEAR WANTS TO HELP: What a horror story! The lesson here is that people who blindly trust get robbed blind. A safer way to handle such a situation would be for the credit card owner to call the pharmacy (or store) and give the card number when the item is being picked up.

FOOTBALL

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A $500 million stadium could be the Dallas Cowboys' new home, but team owner Jerry Jones says taxpayers would have to help finance the project.

Jones has been considering what it would take to relocate the team's venue to the Dallas-Fort Worth mid-cities. The city of Arlington is considered a leading contender for the team's home.

"We're moving quickly now, and Arlington is obviously close to the center of the Metroplex," Jones told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in Friday's editions. "This would be a focal point of sports not just here, but nationally. This would not just be a place for the Cowboys to play."

The new stadium, Jones said, should have 100,000 seats and a retractable roof and should host the Super Bowl within a year or two of opening. He wants a 300-acre site that could accommodate projects such as a Cowboys Hall of Fame or art gallery.

GENERAL

PAMPA — Coaches or scorekeepers in the Optimist baseball and softball leagues can pick up scoresheets at The Pampa News sports department.

The scoresheets should be filled out as soon as possible and turned into the newspaper so the game results can be published on the sports pages.

Call 669-2525 or 669-2527 if more information is needed.

HOCKEY

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — After more than 22 years of anticipation, Ray Bourque might not have to wait too much longer to drink from the Stanley Cup.

Bourque, who has played more games in NHL history than any player who hasn't won the cup, scored on a power play early in the third period, breaking a tie and leading the Colorado Avalanche to a 3-1 win over the New Jersey Devils on Thursday night.

The victory gave the Avalanche a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series and moved the Avalanche and Bourque within two wins of taking the cup from the defending champions.

"You could say it was the biggest goal of my career," said the 40-year-old Bourque, whose bid for a cup has been one of the focal points of the postseason.

Any time you walk into the Colorado locker room, someone seems to be either talking about it or asking a question about it.

"If Ray wins, that means we all win," said Colorado captain Joe Sakic, who set up Bourque's goal by beating John Madden on a faceoff deep in the New Jersey end.

"That's something we have strived for since the beginning of the year. We still have a got a ways to go," Sakic said. "You have got to get two more wins against the defending champs. It's not going to be easy."

That's somewhat debatable heading into Game 4 on Saturday night at the Continental Airlines Arena.

For the first time in the playoffs, New Jersey is facing a team that is as talented and as physical as it is.

The Avs have matched the Devils hit for hit, beaten them at their own game in the neutral zone and taken them out of their game.

Flashback

1960: Dixie Parts beat Windsor 8-3 to win the Eastern Little League championship.

Rick Maxey had two hits to lead Dixie batters. Troy Edwards had three hits to lead Windsor.

The winning pitcher was Bobby Everson.

PAMPA — Glo-Valve Service squeaked by Pampa Cyber Net 4-3 Wednesday to remain percentage points behind Duncan, Fraser and Bridges Insurance Agency in the tight Optimist Cal Ripken 11-12 League.

Robbie Dixon with help from Jonathan Carr and Brett Ferrell outdueled Pampa Cyber Net's dynamic duo of Sameer Kelley and Shavius Kelley.

Glo-Valve's Dixon earned the win by permitting one unearned run and two hits. He struck out six while walking three in three plus innings of pitching. Carr started for Glo-Valve. He surrendered two runs, one of which was earned, on one hit in two innings. He walked one and struck out five. Ferrell came on in the sixth inning with the tying run at the plate and struck out three batters in a row to get his third save of the year.

Shavius Kelley pitched the first two innings for Pampa Cyber Net. He allowed one earned run on four hits. He had no walks or strikeouts. Sameer Kelley relieved in the third inning and struck out nine batters while walking two. He surrendered one unearned run and one hit.

LeKeith Towles was the leading hitter for Glo-Valve. He had two hits, a run scored and one RBI. He led off the first inning with a single. He stole second and continued to third on a throwing error. He gave Glo-Valve a 1-0 lead by scoring on a passed ball.

Pampa Cyber Net took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the first. Dean Brown walked and was forced at second by Shavius Kelley. Ryan Adams unloaded a triple off the right fielder's glove to plate Kelley and scored on an overthrow of third.

Glo-Valve came right back in the top of the second when Craig Crowell was safe on an error. Travis Marsh slugged a double to right field scoring Crowell and motored home on Towles' second hit of the night. Glo-Valve led 3-2. The winners added another run in the third inning when Dixon walked, went to second and third on passed balls and scored on a double by Craig Crowell.

Pampa Cyber Net threatened almost every inning. They wasted walks to Jacob Jenkins and Shavius Kelley in the third inning as Dixon pitched himself out of trouble. Glo-Valve's Crowell made the defensive play of the game in the fourth inning by picking off a runner at first base to end the inning as Dixon began to struggle.

In the fifth inning, Chase Wheat led off with a single and advanced to third on a passed ball and a wild pitch. Dixon struck out the next three batters.

In the sixth inning, Shavius Kelley walked which brought on Ferrell. Kelley scored on three passed balls, but Ferrell struck out the side to preserve the win.

Glo-Valve improved its season record to 9-1, for an .818 winning percentage. Duncan, Fraser & Bridges Insurance Agency is technically a half-game behind Glo-Valve, but clings to first with a 7-1-1 record for an .875 winning percentage. The regular season ends next week.

In the early game, Rusty Snider ended no runs or hits in two and one-third innings as Rotary Club blasted Bill Allison Auto Sales 23-1. Marcos Campos slammed a three-run inside the park home run for Rotary.

Mon Corp wins 7-8 game

PAMPA — Mon Corp defeated Enron 6-4 in the 7-8 year-old Pitching Machine League earlier this week at Optimist Park.

Mon Corp was led defensively by Reid Miller on the pitching mound and Latigo Collins at second base in a game that saw Enron score only four times.

Mon Corp also had some standout defensive plays by left fielder Christopher Smith, shortstop Tyler Coats and third baseman Ian Smith.

Offensively, Mon Corp was led by Cole Engle, Miller, Brennan Dickinson and Caanan Rhodes. Engle had two doubles, a single, and scored once and drove in one run. Miller singled three times, driving in two runs and scoring once.

Dickinson singled twice and scored twice. Rhoads and Coats each had two singles and an RBI.

It was a close game all the way with Enron leading 3-2 at the end of the fourth inning. Mon Corp did the most damage in the top of the fifth when they scored four runs to take a 6-3 lead.

Enron made the game interesting when they loaded the bases in the bottom of the fifth, but only managed one run to finish the scoring.

Coach Chris Engle congratulated both teams for a well-played game.

Top track athletes

Pampa High's top track and field athletes this season were honored in an awards ceremony. They were (l-r) Ashleigh Patton, Lady Harvester Most Valuable Athlete; Teryn Stowers, Lady Harvester High Point Winner; Tanner Dyer, Harvester High Point Winner and Tony Beck, Harvester Most Valuable Athlete.

Aaron Sele, Mariners strike again

Sele, Mariners strike again
By The Associated Press

The big numbers keep stacking up for Aaron Sele and the Seattle Mariners.

Sele posted his 100th career victory, and the Mariners won their eighth in a row, beating the Baltimore Orioles 2-1 Thursday night at Safeco Field.

Sele (8-0) leads the league in victories. He is the first Mariners pitcher to open a season with eight straight wins.

"The biggest key to my start is that our club is doing so well," he said. "This is pretty nice."

The Mariners head into June with a 40-12 record — they're already assured of going into July with a winning mark, too. The last team in the majors to do so well after 52 games was the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers.

In other AL games, Boston beat Toronto 11-5, Anaheim downed Minnesota 5-4 in 12 innings, Oakland defeated Tampa Bay 10-1 and Kansas City beat Texas 8-2. The Detroit-Chicago game was rained out.

The Mariners beat Baltimore for the 10th straight time. Edgar Martinez hit a sacrifice fly and John Olerud had an RBI single for a 2-0 lead in the third inning.

Cal Ripken homered in the Orioles' seventh.

"I left a fastball in the middle of the plate and Cal's been around long enough not to miss it," Sele said. "I didn't have much breathing room before the home run and I didn't have much breathing room after it, either."

Sele left in the eighth, and Olerud preserved the lead later in the inning by fielding Brady Anderson's grounder to first base and throwing out Melvin Mora at the plate.

Kazuhiro Sasaki pitched the ninth for his major league-leading 21st save in 24 chances.

Angels 5, Twins 4
Pinch-hitter Scott Spiezio singled home the winning run in the 12th inning, lifting Anaheim over visiting Minnesota.

The Angels loaded the bases with no outs, and Spiezio, batting for Glenallen Hill, lofted a fly ball over the drawn-in outfield.

Rookie Ben Weber pitched three scoreless innings as the Angels ended the Twins' four-game winning streak. He struck out Denny Hocking with the bases loaded to end the 10th.

Red Sox 11, Blue Jays 5
Jason Varitek hit a solo homer and a two-run single as Boston beat Toronto at SkyDome.

The Red Sox rallied for four runs in the eighth inning, capped by Varitek's single, for an 8-5 lead.

Manny Ramirez broke an 0-for-14 slump with a two-run homer for Boston.

Athletics 10, Devil Rays 1

Jason Giambi homered twice and drove in four runs to lead Oakland over visiting Tampa Bay.

Terrence Long and Miguel Tejada also homered for the Athletics, who scored 15 runs a day earlier against the Devil Rays. Giambi had eight RBIs in the three-game series.

Winner Tim Hudson gave up four hits in eight innings.

Royals 8, Rangers 2

Rey Sanchez extended his hitting streak to a career-high 18 games, going 4-for-5 as Kansas City won at Texas.

Sanchez has the longest current hitting streak in the majors, and the best ever by a Royals shortstop. He is batting .372 (29-for-78) during the streak.

Services are set Saturday for former Wheeler coach

WHEELER — Former football coach Preston Smith, who led Wheeler to state championships in 1977 and 1987, died Wednesday afternoon in a farming accident.

The 57-year-old Smith was trying to pull out a tractor stuck in the mud when his own tractor flipped, pinning him underneath and killing him instantly, according to the Wheeler County Sheriff's Department.

Smith coached nine seasons at Wheeler and eight at Amarillo

Caprock before resigning three years ago. He was farming and ranching near Wheeler at the time of his death.

He was named the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame coach of the year in 1977 and 1987. The Texas Sportswriters Association named him the Class 1A coach of the year in 1987.

Services for Smith are set for 11 a.m. Saturday at Nicholson Football Stadium in Wheeler. Burial will be at The Porter Ranch, southwest of Wheeler.

Expos lose, Marlins win under new managers

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

While the Montreal Expos got off to a stumbling start under Jeff Torborg, the Florida Marlins looked positively inspired by Tony Perez.

The Expos, who fired manager Felipe Alou earlier in the day and replaced him with Torborg, fell behind when Philadelphia's Doug Glanville homered on the second pitch of the game Thursday night.

First baseman Lee Stevens' error with two outs in the ninth inning allowed three runs to score, giving the Phillies a 5-2 victory at Olympic Stadium.

The last-place Expos dropped to 21-33. Even so, Torborg stayed upbeat.

"I was really impressed with the way our guys kept working at it, putting pressure on their pitchers," he said. "They kept coming back in tough situations. I liked what I've seen."

The Marlins, meanwhile, rallied for five runs in the seventh inning and beat the New York Mets 5-3. A few hours before gametime, Perez changed his mind and agreed to manage Florida for the rest of the season.

Perez took over as interim manager when John Boles was fired Monday. At the time, Perez said he did not want manage for more than a few weeks.

The Marlins improved to 3-1 under Perez.

"This is the best way to start, a comeback win at home," he said.

Pinch-hitter Ryan McGuire's grand slam lifted the Marlins.

"With all the excitement in the dugout, you just knew we were going to bust out any minute," winning pitcher Ryan Dempster said. "It was huge for me, but it was really huge for us."

In other NL games, Milwaukee beat St. Louis 6-2 and Houston defeated San Diego 8-4.

Alou was the winningest and longest-serving manager in Expos' history. But with the team struggling, Torborg was picked to take over.

It was 2-all in the ninth when the Phillies loaded the bases with no outs. After Pat Burrell and Gary Bennett struck out, Marlon Anderson hit a sharp grounder that got past Stevens and rolled into the right-field corner.

"I missed it," Stevens said. "It cost us three runs and cost us the game. Nobody feels worse about it than I do, that's for sure. It's kind of like hitting. When you do it at the right time, it's not a big deal. If you do it at the wrong time, it costs you the game. I made an error and it cost us the game. I take full responsibility for that."

McGuire hit the Marlins' second pinch-hit slam of the season, joining Charles Johnson.

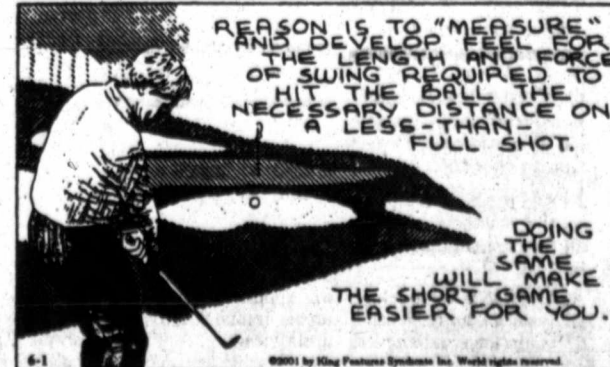

McGuire, who briefly played for the Mets last season, connected off Turk Wendell for his first home run of the season.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 * Don't push so hard to get a project completed. Give up efficiency, and join your friends and loved ones. The Ram might be getting too serious about work and responsibilities right now. Have a key discussion now, or you will need to put it off for several weeks in order to make your points heard. Tonight: Order in.
 This week: Challenges mount all week, and others confuse information. If you can take the week off, do so. Avoid controlling people before you become one as well!
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 * Others know how to pick up your interest, and they do just that. Sometimes the Bull might be hard to move in a new direction. Your hesitancy might be one of the reasons others try to manipulate you. Lighten up, and toss away habits that might restrict you. Tonight: Respond to someone's request. This week: You can try to deal with others and with finances, but you might see red as a result. Why not defer this issue for several weeks while others cool off?
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 * You might be too distracted to complete a project. Why fight trends? Your mind often wanders, as Gemini's seek to solve the universe's problems. Brainstorm with buddies over a meal. Some Gemini might pick up their pens and do some writing. At the same time, catch up on mail. Tonight: Don't make anything more complicated than it needs to be.
 This week: Just when you thought you cleared all the power plays — bang! A full moon on Tuesday adds more problems. Try not to be overly sensitive or uptight.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 * Your bright ways and happy manner bring a loved one or potential sweetie a lot closer. Allow the romantic in you to emerge. Someone delights in seeing you like this. Take a walk by the water or perhaps picnic in a favorite forest or outdoor spot. Walk away from recent stress, and relax. Tonight: Ever playful.
 This week: Pace yourself. If you let frustrations and problems get to you, you could pull your hair out. Think about scheduling an early weekend, starting maybe on Wednesday!
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 * Others confuse plans, but you don't really care. You are quite happy doing little just now. Be the powerful Lion. Don't allow someone to talk you into doing something you don't want to do. Confusion surrounds wishful thinking, rather than reality. Take off your rose-colored glasses. Tonight: Whatever works.
 This week: Test your creativity Monday when you are bowled over by news. Examine solutions Tuesday when others pull on you. Wednesday, you find solid answers.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 * Though clarity is a Virgo's strong suit, what you say — no matter what it is — somehow gets misinterpreted. You could choose to get upset, or you could decide to not overreact. Accept an invitation for brunch and visit with someone. Catching up on news seems like the business of the day. Tonight: Listen to a neighbor carefully.
 This week: You cannot understand why everyone is fussing, but you know it adds up to a bad hair week. Be smart. Look past the immediate. Think about an upcoming treat.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 * You might not be able to curb expenses right now, but you will in the near future. Be realistic about the limitations of a risk. A child or loved one has very different ideas from yours. Certain people know how to flatter Libras to get what they want. Don't fall prey to this game unless you absolutely want to. Tonight: Treat another to dinner.
 This week: What you say gets misinterpreted. Before you know it, you could be in the middle of a hassle. Curb the nasty comments and the fighting. Everyone is out of sorts — you, too!
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 * You might be oblivious (and happily so) to the undercurrents around your home. Not everything is as it seems, and you might not care. Develop a game plan today that works for you. Your strong Scorpio personality bowls over a difficult friend. Make peace. Tonight: Whatever puts a smile on your face.
 This week: Be especially cautious with finances. What might be wisest is to not sign on any dotted lines for the next few weeks. Others test limits. Work on saying no.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 * You aren't getting the whole story. Rather than demanding the truth, step back, and ultimately you'll gain another perspective. Sometimes being aloof — which certainly isn't like the bold and direct Sagittarian — works in your favor. Try it. You just might like the results. Tonight: Get a good night's sleep.
 This week: You might be more controlling than you realize. Others have a strong reaction to you. Slow down, and give yourself and others space.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 * Aim for what you want. Though you might want to discuss the costs and implications, you will not get the information you seek for several weeks. Kick back, and worry less about what is happening. Get together with friends, and let the good times flourish. Tonight: Be with others.
 This week: Don't take someone personally. Avoid judgments, as hard as it might be. On Wednesday, your generosity of spirit pays off. Let your creativity surge.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 * Too much play (which the Aquarian loves!) might be taking its toll. Still, you prefer to stay for at least one more day in this oblivion. Don't ask for details. Simply go along with someone's plans. If you feel like staying close to home, do just that. Check in on your mother or a mother figure in your life. Tonight: Get a head start on tomorrow.
 This week: Friends and associates change their tunes, which puts pressure on a key situation. Wait this out. Don't decide or rush to judgment. It will work out.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 * You find that not only are you confused, but others are as well. Don't worry about sorting everything through. Go to a concert or movie, where clarity doesn't count. Let your mind relax and take in different thoughts. Be exotic. Opt for a different restaurant or cuisine. Tonight: Don't worry about tomorrow. Stay up as late as you want.
 This week: Others go topsy-turvy Monday and Tuesday, no matter which way you turn. Even your happy cat acts up. Keep telling yourself that this, too, will pass.
