PRICE FIVE CENTS

SECOND SHERIFFS' RACE IS PROBABLE

Governor Dan Moody Holds Big Margin Over Field of Opponents

MAYFIELD HAS BUT ONE JUMP ON CONNALLY

Senator Love Probably to Force Run-Off With Miller MARRS TO BE KEPT IN OFFICE

"Lon" Beating "Other Smith" on Rail Body

Texas Democrats went to the polls of the first primary Saturday to roll up a majority for Governor Dan Moody...

Moody had 165,102 votes, Warlaw 92,561, Hawkins 12,116, and Mrs. Wilmans 6,583.

The senatorial race developed into a sprint between Earle B. Mayfield and Tom Connally.

For Lieutenant Governor, Darwin had 16,296 votes, Love 68,305, McCall 13,274, Miller 11,387, and Parnell 28,856.

Lon Smith evidently will be returned to the railroad commission. He was given 165,194 votes, while J. C. Morrow of Hill county received 138,654 votes for judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

No disturbances of any consequence were reported over the state, and general rains in North Texas probably cut the state vote below the expected 700,000.

The names of Hawkins, Mrs. Edith Wilmans, for governor, and State Senator Tom Love were left off the ballots of seven counties as "bolters."

Candidates who fail to receive a majority over all their opponents will contest with the runners-up in the August or second primary.

The Amuse bridge club will meet in the home of Mrs. George Walstad on Tuesday afternoon, July 31. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

THE WEATHER

Flash System "Cut Over" Last Night by Telephone Company—New Plant Adequate for Big City

Several Wells in LeFors Area to Drill-in Soon

All wells in the LeFors area, offsetting or near the LeFors Petroleum company's No. 2 Shaw, in the T. Leach survey, which came in last month for about 2,600 barrels and since increased to hold at 2,300 barrels, are drilling ahead and within the next two weeks several will be drilled in.

The Prairie test is the deepest, having struck gas Friday. Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Thut in the southwest corner of the Thut pre-emption survey encountered first gas last Friday while drilling ahead at 2,300 feet.

The Gulf Production company's No. 1 A. Zweig, northwest of the LeFors Petroleum company's No. 1, a gasser, is drilling ahead at 1,440 feet.

The LeFors Petroleum company's No. 3 Shaw in the T. Leach survey near the same company's No. 2 gusher, is setting 10-inch casing in line and standardizing.

The Danciger Oil and Gas company's No. 1 LeFors township, within the town limits of the LeFors Development company's land, is drilling at 250 feet.

After deepening 50 feet into granite wash, the Wilcox Gas and Fuel company's No. 28 Worley-Reynolds, in section 61, block 3, I and G. N. survey, is making 275 barrels of 44 gravity oil a day.

The Prairie well is flowing 350 barrels a day from 3,070 feet. The Wilcox company has made a location to drill No. 29 Worley-Reynolds, in the northeast corner of the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 61, block 3.

Instead of plugging their No. 1 Chapman as stated, Travis and Smith will drill deeper. The test is in section 50, block 25, of the H and G. N. survey, six miles southeast of LeFors. It was drilled to 2,820 feet without a show of oil and was to be plugged but according to drillers, the officials of the company decided to drill deeper.

AMARILLO, July 28.—(Special)—Former Sheriff Burton Roach was leading in the sheriff's race at midnight with 1,603 votes. Other candidates' votes were: Sheriff Wiley Polard, 1,062; W. N. Thompson, 1,282; Gus Albright, 171.

Potter county had 6,000 votes with 4,100 counted at midnight. For district attorney, W. J. Fisher, incumbent, had 2,773 votes over the district to 2,850 for E. W. Thomerson, 257 votes to 1,810 for E. C. Nelson Jr. County Judge Sam E. Motlow had 2.

Returns from over the district show Congress Marvin Jones leading J. Ross Bell 16,000 to 7,000 votes. Senator Earle B. Mayfield is leading in Potter county and Tom Connally is second.

From Illinois to Sweden?

A new conquest of the Atlantic is the aim of Bert R. J. Hassell (left) of Rockford, Ill., and Parker D. Cramer (right) of the United States Bureau of Aeronautics. They'll try to go from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden, with one stop at Greenland.

The brick work started yesterday morning on the new Wynne building on North Cuyler street, adjoining the new Clem building.

Practically all the brick work on the new Clem building has been completed. F. W. Woolworth and company will occupy the entire building when completed.

The brick work is rapidly nearing completion on the Bradford building across the street from the Panhandle Lumber company. The structure is 62 1-2 feet wide by 100 feet long.

Electrician "Takes" 6,600 Volts But Likely to Recover

T. B. Wilson, an employe on the line gang of the Southwestern Public Service company who "took" 6,600 volts late Friday afternoon, is still alive. He will recover, according to physicians.

The local office handles an average of 400 long distance calls a day and received approximately 500 long distance calls. A check on the daily local calls brings the total to more than 11,000.

In some unknown manner his right arm became hooked over the high line, the charge coming out his left heel. He was given treatment here and then rushed to Amarillo where he is doing nicely, according to late reports received here yesterday.

Much Wheat Is Held by Farmers

It is the belief of local elevator men that one-third of the wheat crop in the Pampa trade territory is still in the fields, or granaries. Because of the drop in the price of wheat, many farmers are holding their grain hoping for an advance.

A complete report of the wheat shipped is not available, but an estimate places it at 600,000 bushels. That is from the Pampa elevators and does not include Hoover or Kingsmill. A complete report is expected by August 3.

Graves Well in Lead But Not Expected to Obtain Clear Majority

Election of Ivy Dunacan as County Judge Likely—Studer Has Majority in Early Count

Probable election of Ivy E. Dunacan for county judge, a run-off between E. S. Graves and John V. Andrews for sheriff, and several close races were high points in Democratic primary returns for Gray county at Saturday midnight, when 1,150 votes out of nearly 2,000 cast in Pampa had been counted and partial county-wide results were available.

No local returns on state races were available last night, the judges having confined their efforts largely to county and district races. John F. Studer apparently has a chance for re-election as county attorney without a run-off. Miss Mabel now is the time for all good men to get ready. The News will receive further election returns today at one-hour intervals from 2 o'clock to 6 o'clock. These will be posted on the bulletin board in front of the office, along with later counts from the Pampa box.

Davis seems to have a safe lead over Joe M. Smith for county treasurer, and A. H. Doucette has a margin over Warren T. Fox for surveyor. A run-off between Lewis O. Cox and W. A. Taylor for commissioner of precinct No. 1 is indicated, and another similar contest is assured between G. H. Parrish and Herman Wachtendorf for constable of this precinct. E. C. Cary appears sure of the office of justice of the peace.

The vote complete from Alameda, Laketon, Farrington, and Hopkins, but partial from other boxes, follows: For county judge—Ivy Dunacan, 991 votes; Pampa 871, McLean 15, Alameda 16, LeFors 15, Laketon 30, Farrington 35, Hopkins 19. T. M. Wolfe, 653 votes; Pampa 268, McLean 148, Alameda 102, LeFors 61, Laketon 49, Farrington 7, Hopkins 20.

Studer, 867 votes; Pampa 602, McLean 77, Alameda 50, LeFors 48, Laketon 50, Farrington 21, Hopkins 19. F. A. Cary, 592 votes; Pampa 424, Laketon 67, Alameda 52, LeFors 18, Laketon 13, Farrington 9, Hopkins 9.

For sheriff, tax collector—S. A. Hurst, 372 votes; Pampa 211, McLean 64, Alameda 69, LeFors 14, Laketon 6, Farrington 7, Hopkins 1. E. S. Graves, 684 votes; Pampa 491, McLean 47, Alameda 19, LeFors 22, Laketon 10, Farrington 17, Hopkins 18. Jim C. King, 113 votes; Pampa 93, McLean 14, Alameda 4, LeFors 1, Laketon 1, Farrington 0, Hopkins 0. John V. Andrews, 418 votes; Pampa 277, McLean 43, Alameda 32, LeFors 41, Laketon 46, Farrington 9, Hopkins 13. Tryin ga New Aerial Road to Europe

A new aerial route to Europe will be tried soon by Bert R. J. Hassell, Rockford (Ill.) aviator. Hassell (shown upper left), flying the monoplane Rockford, pictured here, will be accompanied by Parker D. Cramer (at right). The projected route is shown on the map. The first leg of the flight will be over the great circle route to Mt. Evans, in Greenland; the next jump will be to Stockholm, Sweden, with a possible stop in Iceland if it is found a full fuel load cannot be taken over the Greenland mountains. The longest water jump in this route is only about 500 miles, and Hassell for this reason believes the route safer than any other across the Atlantic. The total distance to be spanned is approximately 4200 miles.

Scout Council Named After Battle Now Celebrated as One of Leading Pioneer Events in Panhandle Lore

Adobe Walls Council of Boy Scouts takes its name from the battle of Adobe Walls, perhaps the most famous Indian fight in the history of the Panhandle. The site of the battle is one of historical interest, and is visited by many people every year.

The fame of Adobe Walls, however, antedates the battle. As far back as 1848 men were wondering about the origin of certain mysterious ruins on the Plains. Bits of wall made of adobe brick were standing then, and nothing was known of the history of the place or of the men who once inhabited it. By some it was thought to have been the deserted home of a Pueblo Indian tribe. Others imagined it to be the remains of some Spanish or Mexican mission. Billy Dixon says in his biography that soldiers and buffalo hunters rode many miles off their trails to visit this deserted village, which excited the curiosity of all men.

New Adobe Walls, where the battle took place, was built by buffalo hunters and traders at a point about a mile and a quarter north of the ruins. The place had the advantage of good pasture for stock and running water. It was built in 1873, when buffalo hunting was in its most prosperous period. A number of pioneering merchants and freighters came out from Dodge City, Kan., and established a trading post for buffalo hunters. In a few short weeks they built several stores. Every house was built of adobe bricks and covered with a roof of logs and sod.

On the night of June 26, 1874, there were 28 men and one woman at the walls. Only eight or nine of the men lived there, the others being buffalo hunters who happened to be there. The woman was Mrs. William Olds, who had come from Dodge City with her husband to open a restaurant. The greater number of the hunters were planning to leave at daylight to follow the buffalo herds. Some rumors of Indian depredations had been heard, and accounts of the murder of buffalo hunters in their camps had caused temporary uneasiness among the men at the walls. However, there was no thought of imminent danger that night as the men celebrated their leave taking.

About 2 o'clock in the morning, two men were awakened by the cracking of the ridge pole in Hanrahan's saloon. As the falling of the ridge pole would endanger the lives of all inside the building, they roused several of the men to assist in repairing the roof. In a short time fifteen men were up and at work. By the time they had completed the task it was almost dawn, and most of them did not go back to bed, but began preparations to leave. Dixon says the incident saved the lives of all those in the walls. His own comment is as follows: 'Providential things usually are mysterious. There has always been something mysterious to me in the loud report that came from the ridge pole in Hanrahan's saloon. It seems strange that it should have happened at the very time it did, instead of at noon or some other hour, and above all, that it should have been loud enough to wake men who were fast asleep. Twenty-eight men and one woman would have been slaughtered if the ridge pole in Hanrahan's saloon had not cracked like a rifle shot.'

For even while the men were at work, Indians were gathering in the surrounding hills and preparing for an attack. Dixon and another man from the walls who were bringing horses to the pasture, discovered their presence. In the dusky dawn they saw a few forms vaguely advancing. Their first thought was that the Indians intended merely to drive off their stock and kill anyone they found away from the walls.

They were not long in perceiving their error. With a blood curdling war-whoop, hundreds of warriors charged from the hills. The number of Indians in the attack has been variously estimated at from 700 to 1,000. They were the flower of the fighting men of the Kiowas, Cheyennes, and Comanches and they were led by such formidable chieftains as Quanah Parker, of the Comanches; Lone Wolf of the Kiowas; Little Robe and White Shield of the Cheyennes; and Big Bow of the Comanches. Charging down the hills, straight for the little adobe settlement they made a splendidly barbaric sight. Dixon's colorful description of it could hardly be equaled.

'Hundreds of warriors, the flower of the fighting men of the southwestern Plains tribes mounted upon their finest horses, armed with guns and lances, and carrying heavy shields of thick buffalo hide, were coming like the wind. Over all was splashed the rich colors of red, vermilion and ochre, on the bodies of the men, on the bodies of the horses. Scallops dangled from bridles, gorgeous war-bonnets fluttered from their plumes, bright feathers dangled from the tails and manes of the horses, and the braided, half-naked bodies of silver and brass. Behind this headlong charging host stretched the Plains, on whose horizon the rising sun was lifting its morning fires. The warriors seemed to emerge from this glowing background.'

Hardly had the men within the three adobe houses seized their guns until the Indians had shot out every window pane and come to the very walls of the buildings. During the first hour of the attack the Indians were bold enough to ride up and strike the doors with their guns, uttering taunts and waving bloody scalps of victims, all the while. Within a very short time, however, the fine marksmen among the besieged whites were picking off the warriors with such speed and accuracy that the Indians fell back to a safer distance, from which they poured a constant fire upon the houses. Early in the afternoon they retired almost out of range of the white men's guns. Not, however, before fifty or more of their number had fallen about the walls of the little buildings. They made brave attempts to rescue the wounded and carry off the bodies of their dead, being willing to risk their very lives rather than let even a dead body fall into the hands of their enemies.

Early in the battle it was discovered that the Indians were maneuvering and charging to the sound of a bugle. The walls were those used in the United States army, perfectly sounded by a mysterious, unseen bugler, whose identity was never learned. He had the warriors well drilled, for they responded to every call. Two soldiers within the walls interpreted the sounds, for their enabling the men to defend themselves.

By some miracle, the little garrison of white men lost but three men during the long summer day of the battle. The Shadler brothers, two freighters were caught outside the walls. They were scalped and their bodies mutilated. A man named Tyler was killed in the stockade early in the fight. These three were buried in a single grave, as soon as their comrades could venture into the stockade.

Those who fought within the wall tell of many heroic acts on the part of their companions. Again quoting Billy Dixon: 'All of my comrades at Adobe Walls that day showed much courage. It is with pride that I can recall its many incidents without the feeling that there was the slightest inclination on the part of any man to show the "white feather." To be nervous or fearful of death is no sign of weakness—sticking at one's post and doing the thing that is to be done is what counts.'

Even with the Indians withdrawing from the immediate vicinity of the walls, the whites were in desperate straits. They did not know at what moment the warriors might return and make a concentrated charge upon them. Furthermore, they were utterly without means of escape if the Indians settled down to a siege. Every horse had been killed, and it was hundreds of miles to help. There was little danger that the Indians would attack in the night, for such was not their custom, but it was well known that no man, however brave could steal past the far flung picket of Indian scouts to traverse the distance to Dodge City on foot.

Evidently the Medicine Man who had instructed the warriors to attack at dawn found his medicine bad. The white men were not so wholly unprepared as the chieftains had anticipated and their brave and effective defense dealt a blow to the courage of the redskins. They did not resume the fight the following day nor the next, satisfying themselves with sending small parties back at intervals to keep the white men within the walls. A few days after the fight, buffalo hunters and freighters began pouring into Adobe Walls from all the surrounding country. More than a hundred men had gathered there by the fifth day following the fight.

Adobe Walls was the chief battle of a campaign waged by the Kiowas, Cheyennes and Comanches, who were on the war path to drive the buffalo hunters off the plains and to avenge the wholesale slaughter of buffaloes in the past. The battle practically ended buffalo hunting in this section of the country, just as the Indians intended that it should.

Mexican Mayor Says Countrymen in Laredo Mistreated

LAREDO, July 28.—(AP)—Pablo Pena, mayor of Nuevo Laredo, today issued a statement in which he condemned the treatment of Mexican consulate officials in Laredo and pledged his assistance and co-operation to the United States consulate in his city.

'I do not think it just that the Mexican consulate be treated on the American side as it has been,' Mayor Pena declared. 'I understand that the personnel of the consulate respects all the laws of Laredo and that its only view is to try to establish harmony between Mexicans and Americans.'

Mayor Pena's remarks were occasioned by the arrest this week of Macias Malia, attache of the Mexican consulate here, after he had been accused of making threatening remarks about a Mexican political speaker and refugee from Mexico. Macias' arrest caused Mexico City to threaten removal of the consulate to Eagle Pass, Texas.

The mayor of the Mexican city suggested that District Attorney John A. Valls of Webb county had mistreated members of the Mexican consulate because they had attempted to aid Mexican citizens who were on trial in Laredo. Judge Valls was a record of 100 per cent convictions since his election as district attorney 25 years ago. Approximately 90 per cent of offenders brought before the state court are Mexicans.

THE NEW TELEPHONE BUILDING

Was designed by some of the best engineers in the country. Its plumbing and heating specifications called for the most up-to-date equipment. Inspection standards were strict and all work must be accepted by telephone engineers. It was a source of satisfaction to us to have this highly technical job accepted without protest of any kind.

We are always glad to offer the benefit of our experience to prospective builders—furnish plans, estimates, or advice as to just what types of plumbing or heating fixtures will best serve the type of building planned.

How old do You think this Packard is ?

If you are motor-wise and a keen observer, you will say that it is three years old—but that it looks like today's car because cowl lamps have been added and the visor changed to the cadet type. And you will be right.

This car is three years old, well past the time when the ordinary car is definitely a back number both in looks and performance.

The Packard Six owner usually keeps his car four years or more. He does so because it is not heavily depreciated each year by radical changes in the appearance of new models.

Yet occasionally an owner turns in a Packard Six like this on a Packard Eight or a different model of the Six. We have such cars for resale.

Why not buy a used Packard Six and enjoy fine car transportation at moderate cost? We have an excellent assortment at attractive prices and terms.

Posse Is Hunting Escaped Convicts Through Swamps

HOUSTON, July 28.—(P)—One hundred and fifty armed men late today were lunging through swamps near Richmond, 20 miles from here, behind 35 bloodhounds in an effort to close in on four escaped convicts, members of a band of eight which shot its way to freedom from the Sugarland Imperial State prison farm No. 2, yesterday, killing one officer and wounding three others.

As the possemen, many of whom deserted ranches and farms to join the hunt, drew tighter their cordon about the lowlands, the injury toll mounted. So far the outbreak has resulted in the following casualties.

Dead: Dog Sergeant Henry Ward Imperial farm No. 2.
Critically wounded: Deputy Tom Davis.

Slightly wounded: Jim Geter, prison farm guard, and Deputy Frank Bell.
Captured Convicts: R. H. Tucker, held responsible for the slaying of Ward; R. B. Carter, Alvin Ireland, Bill Thompson.

All of the convicts were wounded. Convicts still at large: Irvin Davis, Harvey Williams, Johnny Collins, Fred Burkett.

Only one of the escaped men was captured after daylight today. Tompkins was freed by a bloodhound and wounded in the left ear and leg when he refused to jump to the ground.

Fast Progress on Paving Is Made

Twenty-four hours after the Stuckey Construction company's large cement mixer was set on Kingsmill avenue, the entire block between Frost and Somerville streets had been laid with 6-inch vibrolithic paving. Work then commenced on North Somerville street where five-inch pavement will be laid.

The north four blocks of North Somerville street to be paved will have a 16-foot center boulevard. The street on each side of the boulevard will be 22 feet wide. When completed, Somerville street will be perhaps the most beautiful street in the city, and if the center boulevard is planted with grass, trees and shrubs as expected will be a street of real beauty.

Booster Station to Be Enlarged Others Planned

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., July 28.—(P)—The Cities Service Gas company today announced two new compressor stations would be built and the capacity of two others enlarged along the route of its 20-inch pipeline from Pampa, Texas to Ottawa, Kan. Near Higgins, Tex., a 5,000-horsepower station will be erected and another of the same capacity will be built at Corwin, Kan. The present stations at Mooreland, Okla., and Pampa will be enlarged by the addition of 1,000 horse power units in each.

Compressor stations at Ottawa and Wichita have recently been enlarged. The improvements will provide a larger supply of natural gas from the Texas Panhandle to Northern Kansas and Western Missouri.

Mrs. Clyde Stuckey and children of Wichita Falls, will spend the remainder of the summer in Pampa with Mr. Stuckey.

LeFors Oil Field by Night

With a thousand lights aglow Flaring, dying, flickering low, See the rigs against the light Like ghostly skeletons in the night!

Blow-fires flash with maddened roar bursting from the boiler door, The shriek of loosed high-pressure steam, The steady creak of the walking beam, There's mor'n a thousand sounds of toil In this feverish game of getting oil, And sounds and noises drive one hoarse At night in the oil field of LeFors.

See the quiver of that rig? It seems to dance a ghostly jig, As the bit drops in with many a jerk, And what odors filter thru the murk!

And then as the brake-band clamps the reel And is stopped by the friction of the steel Thru sounds of roaring, hiss, and thud, There comes the scent of burning wood.

Hear the steady pound and shock As the drill bites thru the rock, A continuous jar, and then—"Time to clamp the line again!"

The jar and pounding ceases too, They have drilled another screw, And thus they work on thru the night With LeFors' Lamps in distant sight.

See the gleam of glowing lights Twinkling from the distant heights? They're homes of men who in this strife Are fighting bravely the fight of life.

These homes till now so dark and still Sleeping deep on plain and hill, But old LeFors is wailing now And sleep is gone from every brow.

Alarmed by this surrounding strife The village now has come to life, Life's not sleep but work and thrift; Get out there men, on the midnight shift!

Steadily the drill goes on, From the spudding in, till the hole is done, And we never know what a well may bring, A cause to curse or a cause to sing.

The operator hazards on the hole, He's never a piker, and oft shoots the roll; He's always human, (may his tribe increase) I wish him luck on every lease.

But let us go on our homeward way 'Tis well high dawn and the break of day, For when dawn creeps up and day's revealed, field.

From all the night-time glamor flees Dust and derricks are all one sees To see the LeFors field as a sight, In its glory and beauty, see it at night.

English Girl Goes Long Way Seeking Her Sailor Husband

HOUSTON, July 17.—(AP)—Vengeance led an English girl many thousands of miles in an eight-year search for the American sailor who married and deserted her. Sympathy forced thoughts of revenge from her mind after she found him in Houston.

The English girl married her sailor in January, 1920. They lived together a short time and then he deserted her. A baby was born, only to die three years later.

For several years she sought her husband. First attempts to enter the United States were futile for while he had become an American citizen by her marriage she couldn't produce birth certificate to prove her husband's nationality. Finally she was allowed to enter Canada under a promise that she wouldn't slip into the United States. She went to Winnipeg and told her story to immigration officials. They sympathized and sent a man to her husband's home in North Dakota where he got a birth certificate.

Her nationality established, she was allowed to continue her hunt in the United States. She traced her husband from Michigan to New York, thence to Galveston. Then she found him in Houston. He was remarried and living with his second wife and two children. The English girl filed a charge of bigamy against him, but before he was arraigned she released, saying she did not want the sailor's children to suffer.

"I don't want him sent to jail now," she said. "I want my freedom from him and I want to see him remarried to his second wife. She is just a girl as I was eight years ago."

KANSAS CITY, July 28.—(AP)—Trade on killing cattle around the 11 market circuit this week was somewhat uneven. Miss Addie Bradford Becomes Bride of Mr. J. B. Dean

An event of wide social interest was the marriage of Miss Addie Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bradford, and Mr. J. B. Dean of Iowa Park, which took place in the office of the Methodist church Wednesday evening. The Rev. Tom Brabham, pastor of the church, officiated in the ring ceremony. Only relatives and a few friends of the bride and groom were present.

Baskets of paste-toned flowers and ferns were grouped around the room to make a pretty setting for the service. The bride wore a beautiful tea gown of white georgette and lace over satin. Her hat and other accessories also were white. She was attended by Miss Avis Haskell, maid of honor. S. J. Dean of Iowa Park was best man.

Mrs. Dean is a member of one of Pampa's oldest and most prominent families. She was graduated from Pampa high school in the class of 1924. She took a leading part in many school activities throughout her high school years, and will be remembered as a member of the Harvester Girls organization.

Mr. Dean is well known in Pampa. He was formerly with the Johnson hotel of this city as a clerk. He now owns a furniture store in Iowa Park. He and Mrs. Dean will make their home in Iowa Park. Shortly after the wedding they left for an extended visit in Oklahoma.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Peebles on June 27. Mr. Peebles is chief lineman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

Many Employes of Utility Company at Work in Vicinity

Five gangs of Southwestern Public Service company linemen are at work in Pampa or Pampa territory this week, according to W. H. Curry, manager of the local office. New lines are being installed and equipment overhauled.

A switch board crew is here at the present time overhauling and rebuilding the switch board at the local substation. Another crew is at work on a 6,600-volt line to the Western Carbon company's plant in the south field. Smoke houses are under construction and it will only be a short time until the line is connected and Gray county's third carbon black plant is in operation.

A shipment of $5,000 worth of transformers has arrived at the local plant and will be installed where necessary.

A new 6,600-volt feeder substation, to handle the manufacturing interests surrounding the city, will be installed immediately to lighten the present load.

Theodore Roosevelt visited the Wichita Mountains on a hunting trip in 1906, and his book, "Winning the West," contains an interesting account of his trip and of John Abernathy, who astonished the great hunter by riding down wolves and killing them with his bare hands.

The same picturesque beauty and wildness that thrilled Roosevelt is still there to thrill the vacationist. He will find the same interesting historical points, the same legendary touches. The Wichita country is one of the Southwest's most alluring playgrounds. TWINKLES

Those candidates who appealed to "common sense" support and lost probably will agree today with that class of cynics which believes the common people have little.

By the time this is before you Old Twink will have dropped several adjectives about the new telephone system. If interesting, we'll publish them tomorrow.

Well customers, it looks as if the oldtimers have so many new ways and the newcomers have become so well Pampanized that we're just one big family.

We make little claim to fame, but at least we do not write poetry.

We wrote a piece that went round the world, and we came near having to go along with it.

Why worry about Mexico; she has weathered enough assassinations to know how to recuperate.

In the news of the week were two interesting items of scientific nature which, taken together, give an idea for reflection. One was about a demonstration showing the radio-telephone to be satisfactory as a means for communicating between the engine and the caboose of a train.

While it is not wholly essential that there be such a method on every train, it is somewhat remarkable that this has not been accomplished and put into use. In this age of gigantic, super-powered engines drawing more than one hundred cars, the conductor may be out of light and sound of his engineer.

The other item leads one to suspect that had the ancients cared to take up flying they would have had better natural models to pattern after than does modern man. Not men, but reptiles engaged in early flying attempts. A research expedition financed under the auspices of the University of Oregon reports finding fossil remains of huge reptiles which had membranous wings twenty feet across. Imagine a bat, having a wing-spread of more than 20 feet, and a body to match. These flying dragons had structural characteristics which modern aviators would be glad to study.

Nature has given her creatures instinctive and structural dominion over many things which the mind of man has not entirely fathomed. It is this achieving of harmony between mechanical and other laws and man's vehicles that enables him to conquer the air and other worlds. Some of nature's ancient creatures seem to have preceded him in a few fields.

Al Smith declined to pose laying bricks but Herbert Hoover caught up a day or two later by refusing to kiss a baby.

Scotland Yard Challenged Scotland Yard, marvel of fiction and fact, has been debunked from a not unexpected source—that of the Chicago city hall. Commissioner of Police Hughes comes out with the declaration that Scotland Yard's famous detective force would be "as helpless as rank amateurs if they were moved to Chicago."

Considering that Mr. Hughes is a henchman of Mayor Bill Thompson, who sees King George in his nightmares and slays him after the fashion of a crusading Don Quixote, this attitude is not surprising. But there may be a grain of truth in it. Says Hughes:

"We have an entirely different situation to contend with, handicaps that we cannot overcome, but have to meet every day. To begin with, there are more than 50 racial groups in Chicago, each with its own customs and attitude toward the general scheme of things. Over in England the population is overwhelming English."

"Anyone convicted of murder in England is hanged within three weeks. Here the murderer is first convicted, then he gets a delay to have his case appealed, he has his execution deferred pending a rehearing, next it is postponed to examine him as to his insanity, later he might win a new trial on some technicality and finally he either is acquitted or his sentence is changed to a few years in the penitentiary."

Remembering that rich gangsters wield machine guns in the Windy City, one is inclined to recognize the difficulties of Chicago police, even if he isn't sure of Scotland yard methods.

There are going to be a lot of funny speeches in this campaign," says a dry southern Democrat, who has held political control of his state for years.

"In some states and many congressional districts it's going to be pretty hard to explain where we stand on the national ticket. I know some candidates who aren't going to dare say a word all through the campaign."

Smith and Raskob have said more than enough to embarrass many bone dry congressmen and some bone dry senators. All sorts of tight rope walking and delicate balancing is necessary when one promotes his own candidacy as a dry and that of the national candidate as a wet. Some sort of an explanation is likely to be demanded by dry voters unless the minor candidate repudiates the ticket, which few care to do.

Senator Dill of Washington is meeting the problem by explaining that Smith is all right on everything except liquor and that if the voters will elect Smith and dry members of Congress like himself, they can depend on the said dry members to hogtie President Smith whenever he attempts to put over any modification legislation. Everything will then be lovely. Other candidates for re-election will follow Dill's solution, stressing the point that prohibition isn't being enforced now, anyway.

CAPITOL News

WASHINGTON—Governor Al Smith, when he refused to pose for the photographers laying bricks with the remark "That's bologna", only made it unanimous.

Hoover won't pose for any "bologna" photographs, either. Smith has posed with his coat off, time and again, but if the photographers ever get Hoover in his shirt sleeves they can call it a good day's work.

Which calls to mind the unfortunate dilemma of the Hoover publicity staff. These boys have photos of Hoover fishing and fishing pictures of a candidate are obviously fine campaign staff.

But when Hoover goes fishing he wears those frightfully tall stiff collars which he wears at all other times and it doesn't look quite natural. All the Hoover fishing pictures show him with that funny collar.

The publicity men, recalling certain strange photos of Cal-

A woman was hit by lightning on the golf links the other day. It seems there is justice after all.

Eureka! Just the job for Senator Heflin—president of Mexico!

An aviator, to revenge himself upon truck drivers who splashed him with mud at the airport, flew down at the drivers on the road, frightening them into ditching their trucks. Too bad he wasn't a tank driver.

It seems a shame to wear those bright new red suspenders where they won't show.

The party of New York detectives who went to Chicago on a slaying case probably craved experience.

Dr. Benedict Lust was keynote speaker and Benjamin F. Loos was a prominent figure at the National Progressive party convention in Omaha. We're crazy to see the platform.

All dry agents on highway patrol service will wear a distinctive blue cap with a large shield on it, says Commissioner Doran. The aim is to distinguish them from hold-up men.

George Washington used to go fishing, too, and his diary mentions a night when 30,000 were caught. And they say George Washington never told a lie!

All the nations seem to be agreed on Kellogg's pact to outlaw war, but of course it may become necessary for some to defend themselves occasionally.

Dr. C. H. Myers of Cornell university says farmers are wrong in trying to produce enormous cabbages, and that the smaller types are more desirable. Judging from the size of a modern apartment, the tenants don't eat anything larger than peas, anyway.

A Massachusetts woman made a hole-in-one, played the course again and made the same hole-in-one. Maybe Amelia Earhart didn't do so much after all.

Football Stars Boost Candidacy of Their Father

DALLAS, July 28.—If Mike Higgins, candidate for sheriff of Dallas county, wins his race today he will owe much of his success to his three stalwart sons, Ox, Jimmie and Frank, all three of whom are well known in Texas athletic circles.

A paid political advertisement in a Dallas newspaper today carries the following appeal to the voters:

"Our Dad, Mike Higgins, is a candidate for sheriff of Dallas county and we want you to vote for him. He has worked 14 years as an officer, the last two years as William McGraw's chief criminal investigator. Out of his pay as an officer he sent us boys to school. We are trying to repay him."

"We have five yards to gain and it will be a touchdown for Dad. Help us carry that ball."

Frank and Ox Higgins attend Texas university, while Jimmie entered Southwestern Methodist university here. Ox has been a prominent member of Longevity of long standing—a visit to the Hawaiian Islands. "Happiness Ahead" is that rare picture that leaves the audience in doubt as to the finish until the actual face-out.

Rain Halts Plan as United States Net Stars Wobble

By THOMAS T. TOPPING
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
AUTEUIL, France, July 28.—(AP)—France and the United States, deadlocked thus far in play for the Davis cup, renewed their challenge round battle today with the important double match, only to have play interrupted by rain after five games of the first set.

When the downpour came the French were leading by three games to two. The players will continue at 3 o'clock tomorrow from where they left off today. The two remaining singles matches in which Bill Tilden meets Henri Cochet and John Hennessey takes on Rene Lacoste, which were scheduled for tomorrow, were set over until Monday.
Both teams produced a big surprise by sending in different doubles pairs from those announced the day before. American strategy hit on the plan of using Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter the veteran combination, instead of John Hennessey and George Lott. But when the Americans took the court they found the French had matched strategem for strategem and had arrayed against them, not Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, whom this same pair beat in the Davis cup play of last year, but Cochet and Borotra.

Mrs. M. A. Finney and her sister, Miss Margaret McDonald, Mrs. Thurman Clark, Mrs. J. W. Cram, and Mrs. A. Holloway spent Saturday in Amarillo.

Using That Putter

Dr. Samuel F. Nabers
"there are some points in his method certainly worthy of study by golfers to cultivate standardized style of putting."

"as the ball is struck it is permissible to roll the head toward the hole as the club proceeds provided that the axis of the neck is not moved."

Dr. Samuel F. Nabers of Birmingham will tell you he is a most inadequate golfer and his friends will tell you he is utterly diabolical with the putter, which is a peculiarly useful implement with which to be diabolical. I asked him recently to outline the method on which he has worked for years, in the laudable effort to simplify the mechanics of putting and thus give the variable human element a better chance to standardize itself.
Dr. Nabers agrees with the late Walter Travis and many other experts that the wrists should be absolutely opposed, to afford a true "hinge," working only backward and forward. He departs somewhat from the dictum of those who aim the left elbow at the hole, however.

"I employ a putter with an upright lie," he said. "The ball is only eight inches from the line of my hands. Thus I have concluded that the left elbow should be pointed not at the hole but at a point eight inches to the left of the hole. The line of the putter and the line of the hinge-action thus are parallel."
Further details are summarized as follows:
In the backward and forward swing, the top of the shaft remains a fixed point, like the pivot of a pendulum. The club is swung backward by the left hand and started forward by the right.
There is no "stroke" or "hit." The ball is propelled by the forward motion of the club swinging with its naturally gathered momentum from the top of the backswing.
The line of the putter is determined (1) by squaring the face of the putter with the desired line, and (2) by the pointing of the left elbow.
The left wrist is "locked" by holding the left forearm up nearly parallel with the ground.
The length of the putter is determined solely by the length of the backswing, since there is no "hit" imparted.
There are some points in this method certainly worthy of study by golfers striving to cultivate a standardized style of putting—which most of them are. The aiming of the left elbow at a point as far to the left of the hole as the ball is in front of the hands seems to me a new idea. Dr. Nabers overlaps in putting with the third and fourth fingers of the right hand, thus bringing the wrist-hinges closer together than in the plain two-handed grip, or even

Dutch Gatekeeper Hits Frenchman and Causes an Uproar

By ALAN J. GOULD

AMSTERDAM, July 28.—(AP)—All because one obscure Dutch gatekeeper punched one French secretary in the eye and named French athletes from practicing in the Olympic stadium, the shadow of international controversy hung for hours today over the whole picturesque pageantry of the ceremonial opening of the ninth Olympiad.
The world's greatest athletic carnival, surrounded by the most impressive gestures of peace and good will, was thrown into sudden uproar when the French, after what they considered successive insults yesterday and today, withdrew their athletes from the actual games unless "satisfactory reparations and apologies" were forthcoming.
They were forthcoming this evening, were accepted, and the French will send their stars into the thick of the athletic battle tomorrow.
The whole sensational affair had its birth Friday when the French athletes, accompanied by Paul Mericamp, secretary of the French Athletic federation, went to the stadium where they had been promised the use of the Olympic track, only to be barred by a gatekeeper who aggravated the argument by hitting Mericamp with his fist and key.

Mrs. B. W. Crawford and children, Marjorie and Billie, of Panhandle were guests of Mrs. J. C. Phillips Thursday. They were en route home from Canadian, where they had been visiting for some days.

Tennis Players From Big Area Entering Tourney

AMARILLO, July 28.—Probably the largest single tennis event to be staged annually in the Southwest will take place on August 3, 4, and 5 in Amarillo, under the head of the Tri-State Invitation Tennis tournament. This is an annual event and is the second to be staged in Amarillo.

Applicants for entry should address the Amarillo Daily News-Globe Tennis Editor. The entrance fee is one dollar, which entitles player to both the singles and doubles events. A junior tourney for entrants under sixteen will be held and the entry fee is fifty cents. No women's play will be held at this time, but it is hoped that there will be enough interest in the Tri-State event to warrant a women's tournament later.

For players wishing to come from out of town, it has been arranged to hold the singles contests on Saturday and Sunday, August 4 and 5, so that they will not be necessary for visiting players to spend more than two days in the city, if they are pressed for time.

The final date for registration has been set for Thursday evening August 2.

More than forty entries have already been accepted and interest is running high, due to the fact that the 1927 titleholder has left town, and there is no generally conceded successor.

This year's contest will be refereed by Kenneth W. (Red) Brooks, who engineered the contest last year under the auspices of the Amarillo Tennis club.

Five silver loving cups will be presented to the winners and a cup for the consolation tournament has been added to the list.
Play will be staged on the eight Elwood park courts and extensive work has been done in preparing them for the tourney.

Entries have been received from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Texas, and it is expected that more than sixty-five or seventy entries will be recorded before the final date for registration.

THAT TUNNEY MAY RETIRE IS MUCH RUMORED

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—The heavyweight division of the athletic world, dominated more than ever now by Gene Tunney, may lose its ruler within the next few days.

Through friends in Greenwich, Conn., where the heavyweight champion has been in semi-seclusion since he crushed Tom Heeneby, New Zealand challenger in the Yankee stadium ring Thursday night, Gene said he would make an announcement of the greatest importance in New York, probably Monday.

Although Tunney could not be reached directly, the Associated Press learned that the announcement will be one of retirement from the ring. Gene feels that he has conquered all before him in the ring, has piled up all the wealth he can ever need, and faces a long period of inactivity through dearth of qualified challengers.

No mention of contemplated marriage will be made in the announcement it was learned, although friends of the titleholder are aware that Gene considers entering matrimony after completing his walking trip abroad with Thornton Wilder, the novelist Tunney will sail for Europe and the hike through Germany Aug. 16.

Goslin's Prestige is Threatened by Simmons, Gehrig

CHICAGO, July 28.—(AP)—"Goose" Goslin, the Washington outfielder who can hit but not throw, is finding his hitting leadership in the American league in a precarious position. At least that is what the figures released today and including games of Wednesday shows.

The reason that Goslin's leadership is in danger is because Al Simmons, a member of Connie Mack's famous aggregation of old timers and youngsters, has started to hit. During the week Simmons played in eight games and collected 14 hits to boost his average from .309 to .378, only 14 points less than the average of the mighty Goslin, who slipped a few points.

But Simmons is not alone in his drive on Goslin's honors. Lou Gehrig of the Yankees has been steadily climbing and is now only two points behind the Athletic outfielder.

Following Goslin, Simmons and Gehrig among the regulars were Manush, St. Louis, .354; Lazzeri, New York, .348; E. Miller, Philadelphia, .347; Myer, Boston, .336; Cobb, Philadelphia, .331; E. Rice, Washington, .325; and Fonseca, Cleveland, .325.

In accord with Simmons' rise in the individual hitting column the Athletics have moved within striking distance of the New York Yankees in team batting. Only five points separates the league leaders. The runner-up, the Yankees having an average of .302, three points less than last week.

Unable to lay claim to much of anything else in the league the Boston Red Sox are tied for top honors with St. Louis in team fielding. Both the Browns and the Red Sox are playing defensive ball with an average of .975. In contrast the Yankees again dropped to a tie for sixth place, six points below the leaders.

Alvin Crowder of St. Louis, who a week ago held leadership among the moundsmen, now ranks second. Hoyt of the Yankees has won one more game. Hoyt's record is 12 and 2, while Crowder has dropped a like number and won 1.

In stolen bases, Johnny Mostil of the Chicago White Sox has an advantage of one over Myer of Boston and Rice of Detroit with his 16.
