Main Line of Denver Is Cleared at 2:30 Today

AMARILLO, Dec. 10. (P)—The death of Dave J. Lynch, Amarillo, passenger train fireman, today brought the death list in the Fort Worth & Denver train wreck near Dalhart yesterday to three.

D. W. Robinson, passenger train engineer, and T. W. Molesworth, freight engineer, were killed instantly when the "Red Ball" freight and passenger train No. 2, crashed head-on.

Others injured were reported improved. The main line of the railroad was cleared of wreckage at 2:30 a. m., today, and officials continued their investigation. Confused orders are believed to have caused the crash.

DALHART, Dec. 10. (P)—D. J. Lynch and L. C. Ross, railway firemen, injured in a head-on collision of two trains here yesterday which cost the lives of two men, will recover, hospital authorities said here today.

D. W. Robinson and T. W. Molesworth, engineers on the trains, were killed in the crash which occurred when a southbound Fort Worth & Denver fast passenger train met a northbound freight train. Officials said the freight train was supposed to have been on a siding when the passenger train passed.

Both locomotives were reduced to junk and 14 cars of the freight train, the baggage and mail car, and a special car were burned when a gasoline tank exploded.

Other members of the train crew were injured less seriously and some of the passengers were badly shaken up.

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 10. (P)—One unidentified person, believed to have been a negro, was burned to death and six other persons were injured, one seriously, when a Southwest Missouri Railroad company passenger car ran head-on into a Southwest Missouri freight and burned near Lowell, Kan., 14 miles west of here last night.

Joe Davis, motorman of the passenger car, bound for Joplin, was dazed by the impact and lay in the burning vestibule of his car until rescued by Elmer Clark, member of the freight train crew. A charred torso, burned beyond recognition, was taken from the wreckage. A negro passenger on the car was unaccounted for and it was believed the body was his.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Lawrence of Borger were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Rutherford yesterday.

Burke Mathis of Fort Worth visited friends here last evening.

2 ASSAULTERS BELIEVED HELD; ONE WOUNDED

DALLAS, Dec. 10. (P)—Two men whom police sought for questioning in connection with the assault of three girls near here Sunday were arrested today.

One of the men, Le Roy Merriman, 24, of Caddo, was shot in the head by Detective Captain Leonard Pack while resisting arrest. Merriman's wound was not considered serious. The bullet struck him in the forehead, pierced his scalp and came out at the back after creasing the skull.

The second man, Bennie Aldredge, also attempted to resist arrest, but was overpowered by Detective Bob Jones, and handcuffed.

In addition to several pistols and shotguns found in the rear seat of the automobile in which the two men were riding, officers found overcoats, rain slickers and overalls, answering the description of those the girls said their attackers were wearing, and two envelopes full of stamps, bearing a Cheney, Okla., postmark.

An hour after the arrest, an overcoat stolen from Ruben Rosenthal, one of the attacked girls' companions, was identified by him. The overcoat was found in the rear seat of the automobile. He also identified a photo of Aldredge.

Bass Clay Well Flowing at Second Pay in Section 177

The United Eight Oil company's No. 1 E. Bass Clay in the southeast corner of the west half of the southwest quarter of section 177, block B-2, is flowing about 20 barrels every time the bit is pulled out of the hole. Second pay was topped yesterday afternoon while drilling ahead at 3,125 feet.

First pay was encountered two weeks ago at 3,010 feet when the well sprayed heavily. It was shut in while storage was erected. This well is located six miles southwest of production in the Bowers-McGee pool. It is being watched with interest by oil operators in this section. If brought in it will open up many miles of unproven territory.

Poultry Meeting to Be Tomorrow

Poultrymen and persons interested in poultry raising will meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The advisability of organizing a poultry association and of having a winter poultry show will be discussed.

"There are many fine flocks in this territory and I believe we can organize an association here and stimulate an interest in the poultry business," George Briggs, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and an ardent chicken raiser, said. We can also have a show of fine poultry."

A special invitation is extended to farmers in this territory.

F. M. Gwyn, city manager, is out again after being confined to his home for a few days by illness.

J. L. Johnston, an employe of the Coltex corporation, sustained injuries to his hand which necessitated the amputation of one finger. He is in the McKean & Connor hospital.

BOLIVIA DEMANDS WAR

Easy Now!

When Mrs. Vera Jackson, of Pampa, entered the Daily News big subscription contest, she wasn't just sure which of the three big automobiles she wanted. But a few ads ago, when the Buick arrived fixed everything. One look at the handsome, shining car in the Pampa Buick Co. company's showroom settled it.

"Don't let anybody else sit in the front seat of that Buick," she told the C. M. "I want to break it in myself." Now what do you know about that? And from the way she is going after votes this week, Mrs. Jackson is in a fair way to upset all the records on the race. The old saying about "won in the home stretch" is liable to come true, when the official judges meet next Saturday night and award the prizes.

PAMPA LIONS AT SPEARMAN

North Zone Meeting Will Welcome Oklahomans

Representatives of the Pampa Lions club left here early today for Spearman to attend a convention of the north Panhandle zone of the organization.

Those making the trip are President Ivy Duncan, George Briggs, W. A. Bratton, Carson Loftus, and Horace Parks.

G. G. McBride of Borger is chairman of this zone. Oklahoma Panhandle clubs have been invited to attend the Spearman meeting. John A. Earhart, district governor, planned to be present.

Car Licenses for 1929 Available Now

Deputy Ray Wilson has announced that car owners who registered their automobiles and trucks in 1928 may purchase 1929 licenses. The licenses will be sold with the understanding that they will not be used until January 1, 1929.

"By selling the licenses now it will prevent congestion at the first of the year," Deputy Wilson said. "It is strictly necessary that lights be tested before a license will be given. In the case of new cars, it will be necessary to register for the last quarter of 1928 up until January 1," he added.

"The new licenses for Texas will have black figures on an orange background.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (P)—Swinging into action immediately after it convened, the Pan-American conference on conciliation and arbitration today adopted a resolution pledging co-operation in any more toward amicable solution of the Paraguayan-Bolivian border dispute.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 10. (P)—Popular demonstrations demanding war with Paraguay made the situation in regard to that country more tense today. Diplomatic relations between the two countries were severed as a result of a border clash between troops on Thursday.

"If war is necessary, we will all go," President Hernando Siles told a crowd that gathered before the presidential palace and shouted "we want war, Mr. President."

Congress met in secret session and endorsed the foreign policy of the government and applauded the stand that had been taken. Two commissions of leading statesmen were named to advise the government and were drawn up in a continuous session to draw up emergency measures.

President Siles warned the people in an impromptu speech, that both serenity and firmness were necessary in the present situation.

When the cheers that followed the president's declaration had died down, President Roman Paz of congress said that the legislative bodies would collaborate with President Siles until victory was assured. He added: "We will obtain sovereignty of our rivers, which have always been ours."

(The disputed territory of Gran Chaco in which the clash occurred, lies between the Pilcomayo and Paraguay rivers.)

Officers Get Eleven on Gaming Charges

City officers made five arrests over the week-end, all on charges of drunkenness.

Chauffeur Wanted

Friends of Mrs. H. M. Anderson of Grccm, declare they are going to put her up behind the wheel of the big Buick to be given when the Daily News contest ends at 9 o'clock next Saturday night. Mrs. Anderson, who formerly lived in Pampa, is known to practically every man, woman and child in Gray county, and is receiving support that is going to count heavily in the finals. Years ago, Mrs. Anderson and her husband operated one of the first mercantile establishments in this part of the country, right here in Pampa. She can remember "away back when" in Gray county's history. And friendships formed in those earlier days are playing a large part in her success in gathering votes.

Mrs. Anderson admits she gets a big thrill out of voting. While she can drive with the best of them, she doesn't want to take any chances with the Buick.

"Do you know where I can get a good, reliable chauffeur?" she asked the Contest Manager.

So it looks like she must be figuring on riding away from the News office next Saturday night!

LINER CELTIC IS ON ROCKS—CREW RESCUED TODAY

COBH, Ireland, Dec. 10. (P)—The White Star Liner Celtic, which left New York on Dec. 1, with 253 passengers, ran on the rocks off Roches Point at the entrance of the harbor today and at low tide was held fast in 15 feet of water with the possibility that she might break up if she did not get off on the next tide.

All of the passengers were rescued, being debarked safely in tenders despite rough water around the stranded liner. A British destroyer cooperated in the work and aided in bringing the passengers to safety.

The grounding of the great ship took place in miserable weather conditions, with a cold rain and biting wind adding to the discomfort of the removal of the passengers through the harbor to the Cobh docks.

White Star officials this afternoon said the Celtic was in no immediate danger. There was a heavy ground swell and a light southeasterly wind blowing.

Rounding Southeastern island in a gale, the Celtic made for Cork harbor and Cobh, her first port since she touched at Boston after leaving New York on the first of the month. The pilot could not be taken aboard because of weather conditions and the liner made for the harbor entrance which requires the utmost skill to navigate even under normal conditions particularly for a 21,000-ton ship like the Celtic.

Instead of clearing the entrance, the liner moved at a very slow speed, thus probably averting disaster, and rammed a ledge known as Cow and Calf rocks being received and spent."

Talking over the telephone to the Associated Press, Johnston, the lighthouse keeper, gave a graphic description of the disaster.

"It was a melancholy sight to see the great liner hard and fast on the rocks as if she were held by a hundred anchors," declared Johnston, who knows every inch of the rugged coastline.

"She is entirely on the rocks, lying on a flat spur 300-yards from Roches Point. Her head is due west and she is so firmly wedged that there is hardly a trace of motion of her hull."

"The liner struck at high water and four hours afterward with the tide receding, there was hardly more than fifteen feet of water around her hull. Only for the fact that the liner was going at slow speed there would have been a terrible disaster. Despite this she has been badly damaged and it remains to be seen whether she can be floated. I am afraid it will be necessary to jettison her cargo to lighten the ship as much as possible before this can be achieved."

"Fine weather is essential to the saving of the Celtic. If the sea becomes bad I don't think it is any exaggeration to say that she will become a total wreck. It all depends on the weather."

The passenger list of the Celtic comprised 87 cabin passengers, 47 tourist class passengers, and 119 third class passengers.

EXTRA! SANTA CLAUS WANTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE BY POLICE

Jolly Old Fellow Not So Jolly When Lad Pulls Whiskers—Boy Dodges and Haymaker Lands in Mouth of By-Stander—Warrant Issued.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. (P)—If all the children are out of the room, here's a bit of news for the grown folks: There's a warrant out for Santa Claus. Jolly old Kris Kringle punched a man on the jaw and knocked some teeth out. The man, Albert Cohen, went to the police about it and inasmuch as he didn't know St. Nick's real name, the warrant simply called for the delivery to the jail house of "Santa Claus."

Cohen was standing at State and Randolph. So was Santa. So was a little boy. The little boy was consumed with an irresistible urge to investigate Santa Claus' whiskers. He wanted to twine his little fingers in the snowy mane and pull. He did. The whiskers, attached to a rubber band, left a great gap below Santa's chin, then suddenly snapped back into place.

Jolly old St. Nick cut loose with a haymaker at the little rascal with the irresistible urge. The lad ducked neatly. Not so Mr. Cohen, who was standing directly behind, smiling broadly. Cohen's failure to dodge was responsible for the loss of several of his teeth.

Santa, with whiskers askew, fled.

LONGER TERMS ALSO CITED IN TALK TO JURY

Will Ask Legislators to Combine Part of Schedule

STRICTNESS IS URGED TODAY

Search Warrants Often Worthless, Judge Asserts

The need for longer terms of district court in Gray county and the advisability of having a county auditor were among points stressed by Judge Newton P. Willis of the 84th District court in charging the grand jury this morning. Judge Willis instructed the jurymen to do their duty rigidly and be strict in their investigation.

"I am going to recommend to the Legislature that Gray county be given a longer term of courts," Judge Willis said. "I believe that more cases could be dispensed with in one long term than in five short ones. Since I have been judge of this district, I have never held a court term in Gray county that has not been interrupted by a holiday or an election. In each instance, it has meant the loss of from three to five days of court."

In speaking of a county auditor the judge said "Gray county is becoming one of the most prosperous in the Panhandle and vast sums of money are being received and spent."

Judge Willis stated that search warrants issued in Texas are often not worth the paper on which they are written. "They are full of loop holes through which the criminal slips," the judge said. "An officer cannot enter a building without a search warrant and then the case can be beaten."

He touched on each class of crime and its frequency, charging the jury to take strict measures with cases of persons arrested with a pistol in their possession. "Such men are menaces to society," Judge Willis said. "They may be carrying a gun for self-protection as they style it, but the pistol will, eventually lead them to commit crimes. Also, in the cases of minors charged with hold-ups, hi-jacking, and misdemeanors, be strict in your investigation."

In closing, Judge Willis mentioned the disrespect shown for law in the United States. He stated that not even in Japan and China are there such conditions as in the United States.

The grand jury selected is composed of the following: J. A. Ashby, foreman; J. B. Barrett, Chas. T. Nicholson, John Turcotte, W. R. Campbell, E. M. Osborne, W. E. Archer, W. J. Brown, Chris baer, B. E. Glass, Andy Word, and W. S. Willis.

Mrs. Oldfield is not the first woman to raise this question. In general and many of Arkansas, Democrats and Republicans have decried the idea of sending widows to Congress on a "rain check".

Industrial South If you would know the modern South, you must give due regard for industrial development, the end of which may astonish the most optimistic. Take our mineral resources for instance. We have learned from our parents and even our geographies and histories that the South was chiefly agricultural and without great mineral resources. This is only comparatively true.

During the last year, more than 32 per cent of the nation's minerals, valued at more than $2,000,000, came from southern mines. Ninety-nine per cent of the nation's sulphur was shipped last year from two southern ports and an equal amount of the country's phosphate was produced by two southern states.

Holland's, which is doing a service by helping the South to realize her achievements, gives a valuable group of statistics through a series of articles by Arthur Coleman. Here is a pungent extract from one of them:

"The New South produces 99 per cent of the country's graphite and carbon black, 98 per cent of its asphalt, 85 per cent of its fuller's earth, 63 per cent of its petroleum, 57 per cent of its zinc, 50 per cent of its quicksilver, 45 per cent of its lead, 44 per cent of its feldspar, and 39 per cent of its coal. In short, of 56 minerals produced in this country in considerable quantities the South alone gives the Nation 30, in quantities ranging from 25 to 100 per cent of the country's whole."

"There's 200 in the hills of the Virginia of Kentucky and Tennessee. Beneath those 2000 feet, ragged though they be, may lie many honest coal deposits. In fact, it is practically certain they do lie there; for while the South mined more than 273,000,000 tons in 1927, it left beneath the surface, as far as can be estimated, well over half a trillion tons. Enough for more than 2,000 years' supply, it would appear."

"Several years ago, the iron and steel centers in Pennsylvania declared that the South could never compete with the East in the quality of iron and steel. But two years ago, when the Steel Corporation's plants in the latter section were running at but half capacity, the Alabama plants of the Steel Corporation were running day and night, at full capacity, to care for their trade."

But of course the victor looks only at the score and the losing fans at the statistics and the "moral victory". As we recall, Hereford defeated Memphis in the subsequent play-off, and we are wondering what the Democrat's next headline will be.

The majority rule is lauded to Heaven in a nation which requires unanimity for a jury verdict in even minor civil cases.

Second Basketball Practice Will Be Held Tonight

Thirty basketball enthusiasts from former days, not so far distant, gathered at the high school gymnasium Saturday night for the first practice called for the town team. The boys went through a light workout, getting their wind and practicing shooting.

Some mighty promising material was out, and it is going to be no easy job to pick a team to represent Pampa. Ex-college men and former high school stars were in evidence. Some of them have been out of the game many years.

The team was organized last week. Suits have been ordered. The first team will have red and white uniforms and the second team blue and white. On each jersey will be a white steer's head with long horns.

Another practice will be held tonight at 8 o'clock.

Tech Game at Pasadena to Be of Main Interest

BY ALAN J. GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Except for a few echoing post-season shouts in the Far West, the college football tumult for 1925 is stilled.

The experts as soon as they have finished dodging the All-American re-bounds, may turn their attention from now on, among other affairs of sport, to baseball player as well as such burning questions as whether Dempsey will stage a come-back, Nurmí turn pro, or Tilden be reinstated.

The South has had the last few words in the football debate, so far as the regular season is concerned, but also will have a full share of interest in the main post-season argument as well. Georgia Tech is going to Pasadena New Year's day to play California and attempt to succeed where no outfit east of the Mississippi has done this far this year against far western opposition.

Tech figures to do better than any entry from this side of the country for it goes west with as fine a record of achievement as any team has shown this season. There are only a half dozen major teams with unbeaten records and Tech's powerful array has a strong claim to the top of the list. Here's how this select half dozen finished:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Pts.

Boston College	9	0	0	263	39

Michigan School Teacher Victim of Fiend Sunday

SHERIDAN, Mich., Dec. 10. (AP)—Jimmy Deakin, 15, son of the janitor of the school in which Miss Flossie Carter taught here, confessed today, state police announced, that he attacked and killed Miss Carter, whose body was found yesterday in her car on an abandoned road near here. She was beaten to death.

SHERIDAN, Mich., Dec. 10. (AP)—Miss Flossie Carter, pretty Sheridan school teacher, was found beaten to death yesterday in her small coupe parked on a little travelled road. She had been criminally attacked, there were marks on her throat and face, and her clothing had been torn nearly away. The 27-year-old teacher's head had been crushed, apparently with an axe.

Beside the body, which was found by Ray Collier, 14-year-old hiker, there was a note: "Don't blame no one for this. I did it myself." The note was signed "Miss Carter."

The ungrammatical sentence, the masculine handwriting, and the circumstances of the slaying itself convinced state police and sheriff's officers that the note was a crude attempt by the killer to forestall an investigation.

Lee Bracy, a 19-year-old Olivet college student, had an engagement to meet Miss Carter Friday night—the night she was last seen alive. Bracy, who was taken into custody last night, was unable to aid officers in their investigation, satisfying them that he was at the college at the hour Miss Carter left Sheridan to drive to her home, four miles away.

Tramel Defeated Varner in Battle Some Time Ago

Duke Tramel, Fort Worth's noted fighter, will be seen in action here Thursday night for the first time. Tramel is one of the most noted boxers in the Southwest and is expected to give Walter Varner, local boxer, one of the hardest battles of his career. The Pampa and Roxana boy has not tasted defeat this season, but Tramel says he is due for a good one Thursday night at the Pla-Mor auditorium.

The Fort Worth product has met the best and put most of them away by the K O route. He has done that very thing to Varner in years past. He holds a knockout over Irish Marty Flaherty, Cowboy Jack Dillon, Pug Humphries, and others.

The local boxer needs no introduction when it comes to a Pampa audience. Although a youngster, he is a veteran of the ring and knows all the tricks of the game.

In the semi-final, Frankie Farrell will endeavor to make a comeback when he meets Young Kid Stewart, red-headed boy from Eldorado. Both boys will enter the ring at 132 pounds and both are small sticks of dynamite when it comes to throwing boxing gloves.

As one of the opening attractions a battle royal has been arranged.

King's Condition Still in Doubt

LONDON, Dec. 10. (AP)—King George's condition is still causing anxiety. The king's physicians made this clear in their bulletin this morning which otherwise was of a somewhat more encouraging character than those of the last day or two. They reported his temperature was somewhat lower despite a restless night and his general condition was slightly improved.

The admission with which the bulletin closed, however—that anxiety must continue—held the warning that the royal patient's case was still a very serious one with the outcome in doubt.

The general public seems already to have been convinced, however, reluctantly, by the tenor of recent official reports that this is the real situation and one effect was to bring a large number of anxious people to the plaza before Buckingham palace by the time this morning's bulletin was posted.

National League Meeting Expected to Be Peaceful One

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—If there are any fireworks at the National League's annual meeting, the experts will have lost the last measure of what self-confidence remains to them.

They have taken it on the chin with monotonous regularity when they attempted to pick winners in actual sport competition. But most of them predicted, and with show of confidence, that all would be calm and peaceful at the meeting of the National League, opening today at the Waldorf-Astoria.

At the minor league meeting in Toronto, it was indicated the majors completed several outstanding deals that they preferred to keep under their collective hat until time came for their own league meetings. These may come to light in the next two days. There is at least one trade, either made or in the making, by which the New York Giants would add a good righthanded pitcher to their somewhat shaky mound staff. Rumor has had it that John McGraw would not object to finding Pete Donohue or Dolf Luque, or both, in a Giant uniform next season. The Pittsburgh Pirates also are on the hunt for pitchers and may be persuaded to part with Glenn Wright, a great shortstop no more than two years ago. The Chicago Cubs, it is supposed, will make a grab for any third baseman than can hit.

Air-Minded Dayton Honors Orville Wright Today

DAYTON, Ohio, Dec. 10. (AP)—The "Cradle of Aviation," today paid tribute to the man who rocked the cradle during the trying years of aviation's early history.

Orville Wright, who with his late brother, Wilbur, perfected and flew the first successful flying machine, was the center of a civic celebration to demonstrate that the first man to fly is not a prophet without honor in his own country.

Regardless of whether anyone ever questioned the ability of the Wrights to fly in those early days, today found a thoroughly "air-minded" city ready to honor its first citizen. Seventy-five delegates from foreign nations; including many diplomatic officials and aeronautical experts, joined in the full day's celebration.

A trip to the army aeronautical laboratories at Wright field, named for the air pioneers, led the officials past an old barn-like hangar and flying field which the Wright brothers used in their early flying days. It was there that they set up a shop to improve their plane after their first successful flight at Kittyhawk, N. C., just 25 years ago this month.

Flip of Coin to Decide Game

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (AP)—Port Arthur and San Antonio Main Avenue high schools will flip a coin to determine winner of Saturday's 6-6 deadlock for bi-district championship.

Where the score is tied and each team has the same number of 20-yard penetrations to its credit, rules provide that the contenders shall resort to casting lot for a decision.

Roy Henderson, secretary of the Interscholastic League, Monday morning had not received formal presentation of the controversy.

Teachers College Made Depository for U. S. Records

CANYON, Dec. 10. (Special)—A telegram received from Congressman Marvin Jones to President J. A. Hill carries the information that the West Texas State Teachers college has been designated as the depository for government documents in this district.

This depository was formerly located at Clarendon college. When that institution was discontinued steps were taken to have it located at Canyon which now has the only senior college in this territory.

According to members of the college faculty, the depository is one of the greatest assets which could have come to the Teachers college.

All the publications of the departments of government and special reports of congressional committees, reports of consuls and of the diplomatic corps will be sent immediately to the college.

Publications of the departments of Commerce, Agriculture, Interior, State, War, Navy, the Treasury, the Post Office, Labor, and of the Attorney General are some of those included. These publications are invaluable to teachers and students of economics, history, government, agriculture, home economics and education. There is almost no subject which can be mentioned on which the government has not printed exhaustive and accurate information. All this will be received at the depository.

Not only will current publications of the government be received, but many valuable documents which have been published in the past will also be available.

The Teachers college already has a great deal of material which is valuable to students and others who are doing research work. The materials of the Panhandle Plains Historical society have been extremely useful to many persons, but the designation of Canyon as the government depository increase the material many times in amount and in variety of subjects on which information may be had.

The materials will be catalogued to facilitate their use, as rapidly as the library force can get the work completed.

Beat the Champ?

Santiago Zorilla, a San Blas Indian fighter from Panama, made his first important start in the United States in a recent bout against Tod Morrah, the junior lightweight champion of the world. The contest was called a draw, but the critics thought that Zorilla, pictured above, won the decision easily after the first few rounds.

Pyle to Stage Another Race, But on Changed Plan

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—C. C. Pyle, plans a second cross-country marathon run, starting from New York tentatively, on March 31. Just where it will finish Pyle can't say at the moment except that some Pacific Coast city will get the honor.

Pyle, or his backers, were reported to have dropped considerable cash on the first derby, won by Andy Payne of Claremore, Okla., last spring. This time he plans to charge each contestant an entree fee of $300 and furnish neither meals nor lodging as he did in the first race. Some $60,000 in prizes are to be distributed, says the promoter, with first prize again $25,000.

OBJECTS TO SUITOR AND SHOOT HIM

DALLAS, Dec. 10. (AP)—Because he objected to the attentions his daughter received from a young man, S. V. Renner, 45, must face a charge of murder.

Chester William Ponder was shot and killed at a filling station here yesterday, and Renner surrendered to police, saying Ponder had been visiting Renner's daughter against the father's wishes.

Great Welcome Greets Hoover on Arrival in Chile

VALPARAISO, Chile, Dec. 10. (AP)—Welcomed by a 21-gun salute, Herbert Hoover landed at Valparaiso about 8 a. m., today. He left shortly afterwards on a special train for Santiago.

Mayor Lautaro Rosas of Valparaiso and a large party of local officials welcomed the president-elect. A group of American residents cheered him as he passed through double lines of soldiers and sailors standing at attention to a special train.

Mayor Rosas presented Mrs. Hoover with two beautiful pieces of old colonial silver.

Warm Climate Aids Matrimony

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 10. (AP)—The single girl living in the warm breezes of Florida is more apt to get married than her sister in chilly Wisconsin, it was indicated by a survey announced today by the school of commerce at the University of Wisconsin.

Girls between 15 and 24 years of age were included in the correlation of temperatures and wedding bells, which revealed that warm climate, especially in non-industrial centers, goes hand in hand with a high percentage of married women.

Only 27 per cent of the native white women were found single in 12 southern cities of 100,000 or more, while in a dozen northern cities, where the thermometer averages 15 or 20 degrees lower, 33 per cent were found unmarried.

He wheeled upon Alester and in a cutting voice asked him if it were true. "Are you taking Jerry to Leontine Lebaudy's place?" he demanded.

Alester did not answer him directly. He spoke to Jerry. "Please go and get dressed," he said. "Dan and I will wait for you in the car."

"Wait a minute," Dan spoke up as Jerry started to leave them. Then, to Alester: "Surely you aren't in earnest? You can't take the girl you're going to marry out there!"

Alester's eyes shifted furtively, then settled upon Dan's face with a challenging defiance. "Well, are you coming?" he asked gratingly.

Dan studied him at length before replying. He recognized a desperate bravado behind Alester's defiance—knew that Alester was not to be turned from his purpose—a purpose that held a menace.

"All right," he said tersely, "I'll go."

Jerry turned away without a word and hurried to the dressing room, where she slipped into her new evening gown. She had thrilled to the purchase of the lovely satin creation, but tonight she did not give it a thought.

Here makeup had been removed quickly, but now that she stood before her mirror, ready, except for the drop of perfume on her del-

Miss Lula Hutchins Becomes Bride of Roy West Sunday

Miss Lula Hutchins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hutchins, and Mr. Roy West, were married at 1 o'clock yesterday in a simple wedding at the home of the bride's parents, 1019 East Francis. The Rev. James Todd, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated in the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely afternoon dress of navy blue chiffon and embroidered net, with matching accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and calla lilies, interspersed with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley.

Miss Hutchins was graduated with the 1928 class of Central high school. In her two years residence in Pampa, she has made many friends in student, church and social circles. She has a unique talent for whistling and graciously assists in many home-talent programs and entertainments.

Mr. West is a rig builder with the Mahan, McCarty & Besse company. He came here a few months ago from his home in Cincinnati, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. West will make their home in Pampa.

The wedding was attended by a group of relatives and friends of the bride and the groom, including: Mrs. Marshall Johnson, sister of the bridegroom, and her little son; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hutchins and their little son; Mrs. James Todd and her daughter, Emma Boone; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Marbaugh and their sons, Max and Miles, and Miss Willette Cole. They were guests at a delightful luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins, following the ceremony.

Writer Says Many of Married Women Have to Work

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Twice as many married women work in the United States now as in 1890 not because they want to but because they have to, is the conclusion reached in the annual report of Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau.

"The number of married women who work solely because they do not like to stay at home or because they desire to follow some chosen occupation is so negligible as to be scarcely worth considering," the bureau's statement said. Census figures show that of all the married women in the country, one in 11 worked in 1920, as compared to one in 22 in 1890.

approximately 22 feet by 22 feet in size and one pressure machine, located in Block No. 2 on Foster Avenue in the town of Pampa, Gray County, Texas, said property being known as the Hood Property and, also, as the Pampa Auto Laundry.

A. C. POWELL, C. W. TAYLOR

made no reply. "Oh, well," Evelyn thought, realizing that he had caught what she had said, "what's the difference?"

"What do you mean?" Dan asked as she remained silent.

"I mean that Jerry is just idiotic enough to stick to her word when she's already given it if she finds out that she's made a horrible mistake."

"She's had plenty of time to make up her mind," Dan returned dully. "I guess she knows what she's doing."

"I'm sure she didn't really know before tonight," Evelyn exclaimed. "Don't forget that she's just an untrained kid who longed for the moon. Alester is the moon and the stars, too, in his world. You can't blame Jerry for being dazzled."

"I'll never forget anything about her," Dan replied miserably. "I happen to love her."

"Yes, I know," Evelyn said softly. "Yes, I don't say 'happen.' It might sound sappy, but I do believe that real love is ordained. Some of us can't escape it."

"Or get over it," Dan replied. "I've tried to."

HE looked across her shoulder at the table they had left and saw that Jerry was not there. His gaze swept over the room; he did not see her among the dancers.

Evelyn felt him lose step and glanced up to catch him frowning.

"What's the matter?" she asked. "Jerry's not around," he said; "and I don't like it. To tell you the truth, Miss Starr, I've had a queer feeling about Alester all evening. He's not himself."

"You've noticed it, too," Evelyn admitted. "Do you suppose we ought to look for them?"

"Let's take a turn around the grounds," Dan suggested, and they walked over to one of the half open French doors that looked upon the garden.

They did not go about stealthily, but they covered the grounds thoroughly before starting back to the inn. There had been an intermission and another dance since they had come out. They could see the dancers through the French doors, and Jerry and Alester had not returned to join them.

She leaned over to read what was written on one of them:

"Miss Lebaudy invites Miss Estelle Agnew to sit here and partake of the promissory feast she is giving in honor of Miss Jerry Ray and Mr. Alester Carstairs."

Evelyn straightened and looked at Jerry. But the latter was standing before a place where Leontine had laid a spray of orange blossoms. Her eyes were downcast, staring at the significant decoration.

Evelyn moved on in search of her own card. A waiter was placing an extra chair for Dan. Shortly Evelyn found herself beside him. She wondered how he felt over this surprise. But his face was a dead mask that revealed nothing.

Leontine had greeted him with no sign of displeasure at his unexpected arrival. Dan would not have minded had she protested. He was no longer sensitive over small matters.

Leontine made a supreme effort to bring a festive spirit to the occasion. Her guests immediately took up the cue, except those she was honoring and their friends.

Jerry was frightened. Full realization of the meaning of her promise to Alester seemed to come to her here. And marriage—marriage was no longer an indefinite thing, but a concrete fact that she was fully aware of at last.

She could not touch the food before her, and only the mineral water that she had requested could she force down her dry throat.

She dared not look at Dan or Evelyn lest they divine her terror. Once she spilled a few drops of water on her gown. Leontine wiped the little accident and smiled.

SOON afterward a waiter appeared at Jerry's elbow with a note on a silver salver. She glanced at Alester and saw that he likewise was receiving a message.

She read the contents. Leontine wished her and Alester to go upstairs during the next dance and receive in the privacy of her boudoir the gift she had prepared for them.

Down the table Leontine nodded to Jerry's interrogating glance. Alester, too, sent his hostess a questioning look. . . . she smiled at him with serene indifference.

Dan and Evelyn had been dancing, but when the music blared out again she jumped impulsively to her feet and exclaimed: "Let's dance! I can't sit still another instant!"

Her voice was raised almost to shrillness with suppressed hysteria. She knew now, beyond a question of doubt, that Jerry had got herself into a mess. The girl's face was white, and utterly devoid of its usual bright glow. . . . it made Evelyn's heart ache to look at her.

"And she's such a quixotic little fool!" she thought she said to herself as Dan swung her into the rhythm of the dance. Actually she was speaking aloud, just barely escaping broken utterance.

Dan bent his head nearer but

 DAN was plainly dumfounded by Jerry's words. She saw in his decision, amazement and anger struggling to take control of him, though she understood only that he was disturbed.

He wheeled upon Alester and in a cutting voice asked him if it were true. "Are you taking Jerry to Leontine Lebaudy's place?" he demanded.

Alester did not answer him directly. He spoke to Jerry. "Please go and get dressed," he said. "Dan and I will wait for you in the car."

"Wait a minute," Dan spoke up as Jerry started to leave them. Then, to Alester: "Surely you aren't in earnest? You can't take the girl you're going to marry out there!"

Alester's eyes shifted furtively, then settled upon Dan's face with a challenging defiance. "Well, are you coming?" he asked gratingly.

Dan studied him at length before replying. He recognized a desperate bravado behind Alester's defiance—knew that Alester was not to be turned from his purpose—a purpose that held a menace.

"All right," he said tersely, "I'll go."

Jerry turned away without a word and hurried to the dressing room, where she slipped into her new evening gown. She had thrilled to the purchase of the lovely satin creation, but tonight she did not give it a thought.

Here makeup had been removed quickly, but now that she stood before her mirror, ready, except for the drop of perfume on her del-

made no reply. "Oh, well," Evelyn thought, realizing that he had caught what she had said, "what's the difference?"

"What do you mean?" Dan asked as she remained silent.

"I mean that Jerry is just idiotic enough to stick to her word when she's already given it if she finds out that she's made a horrible mistake."

"She's had plenty of time to make up her mind," Dan returned dully. "I guess she knows what she's doing."

READ THESE FINAL RULES AND INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY
 As a matter of precaution and to guard against possibility of loss to candidates through misunderstanding through these last days of the campaign, herewith are appended the final rules and instructions that must be observed. All candidates, particularly those residing in outside towns should read and weigh every line carefully.

1. The campaign will end promptly at 9 o'clock p. m., Saturday, December 15, 1928.
2. All subscriptions, reserve ballots and remittances must be in the News office at Pampa by that hour. The doors of the office will be closed and be locked promptly on the stroke of the hour, but all contestants who are inside at that time will be waited upon, and given ample opportunity to turn in subscriptions and votes, even though several hours are consumed. No one, however, will be allowed to enter the office after 9 p. m., until after the official judges have taken charge of the ballot boxes.
3. If you live outside Pampa and intend to mail your votes and final remittances, take precautions to find out exactly what time your local postoffice closes, and concerning train service to Pampa. Positively no remittances received by mail later than 9 p. m. Saturday, December 15, 1928, will be included. All remittances sent after Thursday should come special delivery in order to insure their reaching us in time.
4. All letters containing votes and remittances should be addressed plainly: Campaign Manager, The Daily News, Pampa, Texas. The Daily News or the Campaign Manager will not be responsible for remittances sent by mail which do not arrive in time.
5. Examine your vote ballots carefully and see that the proper number of votes have been given. If there is any error notify the campaign manager in writing before Thursday, December 13. Neither The News nor the Campaign Manager, will be responsible for any clerical errors unless notice is given before the final count commences.
6. Be sure your name and district number is on every ballot before turning it in.
7. UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES WILL VOTES BE TRANSFERRED FROM ONE CONTESTANT TO ANOTHER. THIS IS AN ABSOLUTE RULE AND WILL BE STRICTLY ENFORCED.
8. Second payment must be marked as such on the subscription stub, also the amount of the first payment, in order that the proper difference may be credited. Neither The News nor the Campaign Manager, will be responsible for errors in second payments credits unless notice is given before the final count commences. The decision of the judges on the votes as issued will be final.
9. Subscriptions will receive votes according to the Final Vote Schedule which will never change. The scale on the receipt book will never change.

Both districts are seething with the bustle of preparations for the final dash. Excitement is keyed to the highest pitch.

TUESDAY

Riding on the crest of the wave of enthusiasm are ambitious contestants from every section of the News wide territory, exerting vigorous efforts to capture the beautiful prizes that will be awarded a few days hence. In both districts is gathering the storm of votes that will descend upon the campaign office in the last few days. Never before was such a glittering array of splendid gut presented—never was such a battle waged to win them.

On this page appears the Final Vote Schedule, effective at 8 a. m. Monday, until the end of the campaign. All subscriptions turned in during the final week will receive votes according to this scale. The schedule was compiled in accordance with the original announcement of the campaign which appeared in the News on October 12. It is positive and conclusive and will not change.

Study this new scale carefully. Note the tremendous vote value of subscriptions now. It's the last chance, and the one sure way to victory and an automobile. Present indications point to a hair-breadth finish and it is certain that the prizes will be won by small margins. No one contestant can appear certain of victory, and there is abundant speculation as to the outcome. This final week will decide. It is only those who buffet the waves with a stiff upper lip, brushing aside every obstacle that may arise that have the best chances of winning an automobile. It seems to be unanimous, this preservation that is characteristic of the contestants, and this final week will undoubtedly witness the most spirited battle that has yet taken place. All the territory is being raked as with a fine tooth comb, and the rush of subscriptions is sending vote-totals to almost colossal figures.

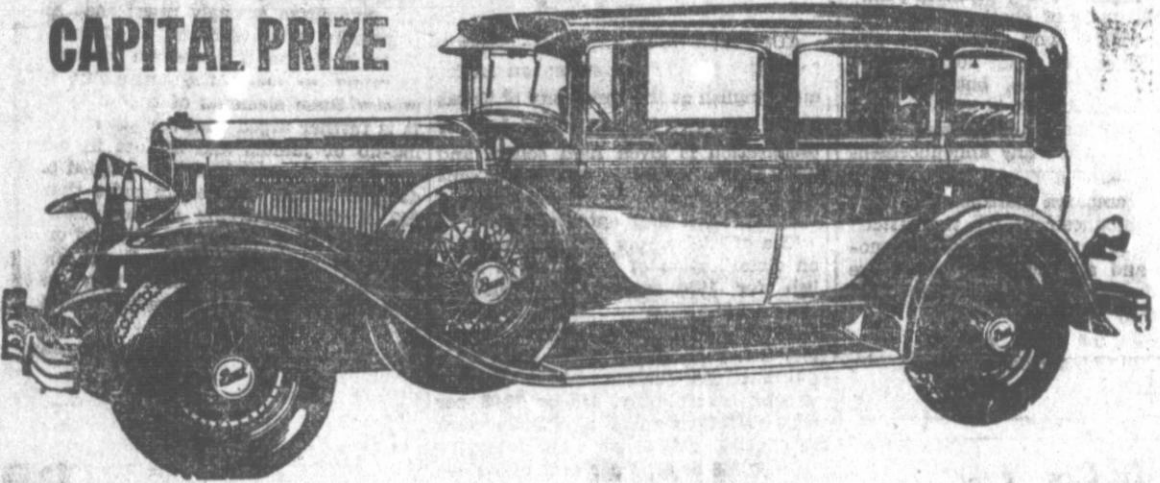

It now behooves every candidate to put fresh vitality into the work. These last six days of the campaign, during which the final vote scale is effective, will be the deciding factor in determining the winners.

The race is too close to bank upon any possibilities, and there are too many persons interested in every candidate to insure anyone else an easy winner. Over confidence loses battles. Relaxation at this stage of the campaign is suicidal to success. Determination to win, coupled with relentless activity in vote gathering will make a winner out of a contestant. This is no time to hesitate. What is intended to be done must be done NOW. To temporize it to let some other candidate forge ahead and claim the prize that would have been yours.

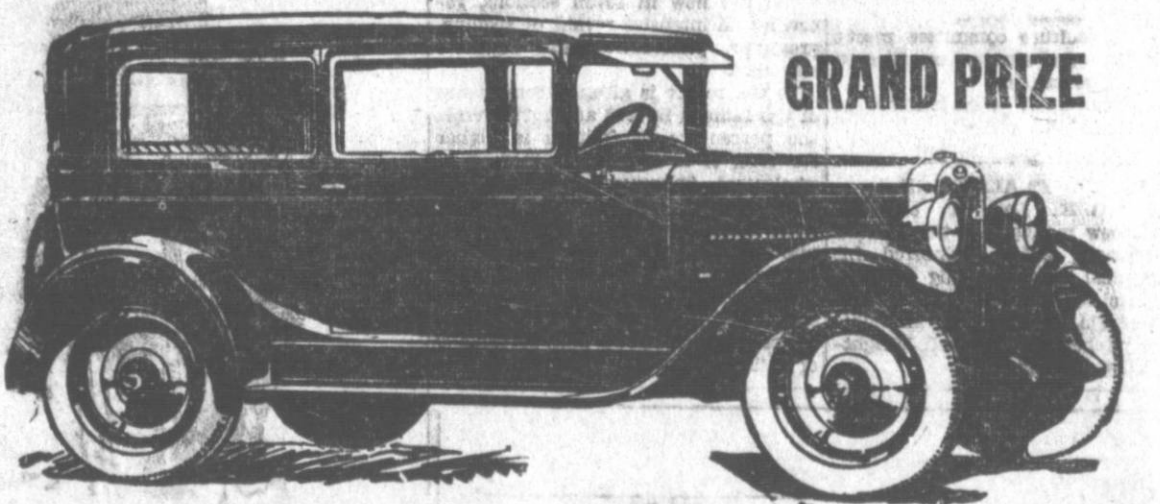

It is perhaps, needless to state the holding back of subscriptions now is of no avail. The ballot box has been locked and sealed, and all votes held by candidates, and the votes obtained during this last week may be deposited any time up to 9 o'clock Saturday night, December 15. The seal on the ballot box will be broken only when the official judges begin their final count preparatory to announcing names of the winners.

In conclusion, let it be stated that the time of all times has its inception at 8 o'clock, Monday morning, when the final vote schedule becomes effective. The date of the close, December 15, 9 p. m., looms big on the horizon, and every tick of the clock bring it closer. Read again the vote schedule—victory is there.

And what does victory in this campaign mean? The realization of your fondest dreams—ownership of a big powerful, luxurious motor car. This is your eleventh hour chance to make a whirlwind dash to the finish—a chance to get your share of the $5,000 worth of happiness and riches that the News will spread broadcast with a lavish hand in a few days. Votes secured during final days determine prize winners. It's now or never—Work—Fight—to the last ditch!

Church Used Last Time Sunday

Illustrations with this story are interior and exterior views of the old Christian church building which has been abandoned by the local congregation.

Three charter members of the Christian church yesterday sat in the pews of the old building for the last time, since the congregation will occupy the new plant in East Pampa beginning with next Sunday. These charter members are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lippold and Mrs. Frank Meers.

The new building will be the scene of an "open house" social gathering Friday evening for members of the church and their friends. There will be a brief program, and refreshments will be served by members of the church.

Next Sunday morning the congregation will meet at the old building to have pictures made, then will go to the new church home for other pictures and the services. The present frame building was dedicated on April 16, 1911.

Speaking of the history of the local church last evening, the Rev. James Todd, Jr., minister, said the building of the new plant in East Pampa is in keeping with the policy of the denomination. When a church reaches a membership of 700, he said, 200 of its members should move to another portion of town and organize a new church. He said this plan has the approval of the Christian church, as opposed to the idea of building great church buildings and large congregations.

Hoover's Address Rouses Hope in Federation Meeting

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. (AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation was advised today by its president, Sam H. Thompson, to hold in abeyance any specific plan for farm relief and "wholeheartedly meet President-elect Hoover on an open basis and consider on their merits any proposals advanced by the incoming administration to obtain equality for agriculture."

In his annual address, which opened the federation's convention today, Thompson asserted that the most heartening thing that has happened since the organization started its battle for farm equality was the statement of Mr. Hoover that the farm problem "is the most urgent economical problem in our nation today," and his promise of an extra session of congress if the present session arrives at no solution.

Announcement of the cash prize winners of the two $100 awards on the special offer in the News contest which closed at 9 o'clock Saturday night is being withheld pending clearance of checks at the various banks. The result was apparently quite close—not so close as the other time, but with the final finish coming in such a short period of time it was deemed inadvisable to make any announcement which might prove premature.

The campaign manager will leave this announcement for the official judges to make when the automobiles and all the other prizes are awarded in front of the office next Saturday night.

Names of these official judges will be announced in tomorrow's paper.

English in High Schools Found to Be Woefully Bad

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (Special)—Reports from the faculty committee on freshman English at the University of Texas reveal the fact, that a woeful lack of preparation is given high school and preparatory school students for continuing their study of their "mother tongue" when they enter college.

The official report of the committee on classification of freshmen in English for 1928 carried the following statement: "Of the 1,178 students who took the test this year, given in the form of a uniform examination, aided by the writing of an essay, 448 or 38.05 per cent failed to make a passing mark of 60; 226 or 19.18 per cent failed the theme; 368 or 31.24 per cent failed one and passed the other; and 153 or 12.98 per cent failed both the theme and test. Of the 368 in the doubtful group, the 41 who had the lowest grades were combined with the 153 to constitute the members of the non-credit course in freshman English. These 194 students are now in seven sections, receiving an intensive review of spelling, grammar, punctuation and sentence structure."

In the report is given a comparison of the failures in 1928 and 1927. While the percentage of failures is higher for 1928, it is noted that there is a wholesome improvement among the students of the larger cities. Some of these cities have recently taken definite steps to meet the demand of the colleges for better prepared students. Attention is also directed to the fact that the private schools and schools out of the state have a high percentage of failures; but the highest is found among those students admitted on "individual approval." Among the larger cities, Galveston leads in standing as to English tests with only 18 per cent failures, followed with Austin with 24 per cent and Dallas with 28 per cent. San Antonio comes next with 30 per cent; while Fort Worth with 43 per cent and Houston with 46 per cent bring up the rear.

"It may be of interest to the teachers of Latin in our high schools," it is declared in the report, "that 154 of the 194 students in Zero English had never studied Latin; 33 had had two years of language; six had had three years; and one had had four years. The highest grades among the students in Zero English were made by students who had never studied Latin."

A number of suggestions are made by the committee for the teacher who is instructing high school or preparatory school students in preparing them for college English. Among these are the following:

"Disabuse the student's mind of the idea that spelling is a matter of 'native' gift. Teach him that spelling can be learned by careful enunciation and pronunciation, by thoughtful observation of the formation of the word and by learning and applying useful rules.

"Teach him that punctuation is, generally, exact and logical, that its sole purpose is the interpretation of the sentence. Do not have him memorize rules, but have him learn the elements of the sentence, the relation of its parts.

"Urge the need of grammar—plain, practical grammar in abundance but grammar learned in practice, not by rule.

"Require themes frequently throughout the four years in high school. At least one short paper should be prepared each week and carefully corrected and returned to the pupil. Some papers should be written in class. Occasionally pupils should be allowed to correct each other's work."

In conclusion, the committee makes the following plea:

"As freshman English at the University of Texas is a course primarily in theme-writing and as reasonable correctness in spelling, grammar and punctuation is expected of each student at the beginning of the course, the committee strongly urges that all principals and teachers of English throughout the state advise students planning to enter the university to master these elements of theme work. It is further urged that a rigid checking-up of juniors and seniors in our secondary schools should be warned of dangers ahead. There are more than 200 students entering the university each year who are unable to carry on. It would be fortunate for them, and the university alike could they be "found" before they reach Austin.
