BORGER, Jan. 3. (P)—A murder warrant was served on Jimmie Brown as he lay in a hospital bed here today for the fatal shooting of J. H. Richey, Hedley night watchman, Monday.

Brown had made a statement in which he admitted participation in connection with the robbery which precipitated a pistol fight, officers said. The alleged statement accused three other men.

City Attorney Overton, Mayor Glenn A. Pace, Borger police, and Donley county officers said that Brown admitted he was wounded in the arm when a shot was fired at him by Richey. His companions then shot at the watchman, he said.

Murder charges also have been filed against Joe Dunwoody and Bert Hall. The third accused accomplice has not been arrested.

Willis Praises Pampa as Clean Oil Community

"Pampa is the cleanest oil town of any I have seen in Texas and the business men are more steady and progressive here, with less dependence upon a boom," said Judge Newton P. Willis. In a talk before the Rotary club at its luncheon at the Methodist church yesterday, "You have a city and country to be proud of, settled by men of good hardy blood, who naturally become boosters for their communities."

In emphasizing practical things for Pampa business men, Judge Willis emphasized work among the boys of Pampa as a means of keeping them out of trouble and the courts. "He stressed teaching them usefulness and work as the means of getting on a firm footing and attaining financial independence and advancing to business men of the future."

The Rotarians were urged to build the city of Pampa. "Use your natural resources, particularly gas, and make it usable for industries and manufacturing interests can be brought here." The need for a city hall for Pampa was also discussed by Judge Willis. He concluded his talk by reading for the club "The Wildcat Drillers Dream."

James Odum was in charge of the program and Odus Mitchell gave an interesting vocational talk on coaching. Visitors included Emil F. Myers, Amarillo Rotarian, F. A. Fannell, Judge Willis and H. E. McCall. Tom Perkins passed the cigars in honor of his young daughter.

W. S. Barron, Brazos county, is expected to arrive today. Ray Holder, one of Barron's campaign lieutenants, has already arrived and opened headquarters. Asserting that he is his own campaign manager, Montgomery said he has secured the pledges of a majority of the House members. Reports from the Barron camp claimed at least 100 votes.

Daring Fliers Off to Alaska Carrying Diphtheria Remedy

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 3. (P)—An airplane was headed into the North today carrying a supply of anti-toxin to two diphtheria-stricken trading posts 600 miles in the frozen wilderness.

Captain "Wop" May, former Canadian army pilot, with Vic Horner as passenger, hopped off yesterday with 500,000 units of anti-toxin in response to an appeal for help from settlements at Fort Vermillion and Little Red river.

The pilot of the mercy plane and his passenger faced the task of locating the posts in the snow covered forests and landing where no plane has been known to have flown before.

The appeal for anti-toxin was sent out by Dr. H. A. Hamman, who said the factor in charge of the Hudson Bay company post at Vermillion river had died of diphtheria and that an epidemic was feared among the 200 inhabitants of the two posts.

At the President's feet is the day's kill—one deer shot by his military aide, Colonel Omond Latrobe.

FIRST BUILDING PERMIT IN 1929 IS ISSUED

The first building permit for 1929 was issued to A. H. Brown, local building contractor, yesterday, according to C. O. Bushy, building inspector.

The permit was issued for the erection of a $4,000 brick veneer home on Mary Ellen street in the Cook-Adams addition. Mr. Brown states that the house will be for sale after it is completed.

An important session of the executive committee of the Panhandle Highway association will be held in the Amarillo hotel at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon to precede the general meeting Tuesday. SCHOOL BUYS EQUIPMENT FOR COMMERCIAL WORK

Three almost new typewriters, six typewriter tables, and 20 bookkeeping tables have been added to the equipment of the commercial department of Central high school through a purchase from the Pampa School of Commerce. The enlargement of the department made it possible for six new students to take up the business courses. Supt. Campbell says the laboratories look like a business college in themselves. The commercial courses are among the most popular offered by the local school.

Public school teachers who are confined to their homes this week by influenza are Miss Loretta Baker and Misses Fannie Florence and Nettie Sims. Miss Mary Stocking is still sick at her home in Clarendon.

Re-Advertising Will Be Necessary, Pollard
Thinks

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (P)—Attorney-General Claude Pollard issued a statement today expressing opinion that Land Commissioner J. T. Robison violated terms of a New Year's day district court injunction by opening bids on some of the Texas university land originally advertised for mineral lease sale yesterday, but said he would try not to have the commissioner "cited for contempt."

"While I am of the opinion that the commissioner has violated the terms of the injunction, no useful purpose would be served by having him cited for contempt and punished therefor, as I feel that the interest of the state can and will be probably protected by legal methods which I propose to pursue, as the occasion demands," Mr. Pollard said.

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (P)—Action of J. T. Robison, land commissioner, in opening bids on some of the University of Texas land oil leases, probably invalidated the sale on the entire lot of land advertised for January 2 and postponed until January 22, the attorney-general's department believes.

Assistant Attorney-General R. M. Tiley said today that opening of some of the bids very likely accomplished more than the injunction suit obtained by the state, joined by the board of regents of the university, to stop the sale.

"There can hardly be a question in law, but that the entire sale is now invalidated and will have to be re-advertised," Tiley said.

"Bidders whose offers were exposed can stop further consideration of proposals, because their figures have been exposed and others could easily submit bids in excess of them to be opened January 22."

Army Plane Is Going Well Today

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, Jan. 3. (P)—Flying over a shortened course, the army monoplane, Question Mark, dropped on today without any faltering sign from its three engines as it neared the end of its second full day in the air.

The plane, which took the air at 7:26 a. m., January 1, entered the 47th hour of flight at 5:26 a. m.

Reports of fog over San Diego forced the plane to keep within a short distance of its base here last night, and although the weather was said to be clearing to the south this morning, the Question Mark kept between here and the San Fernando valley.

Williams in Group to Meet Moody

"It's Like This"

TWO TYPES of minds will take radical views of William Randolph Hearst's offer of $25,000 for the best plan to change the present prohibition amendment to one that "would be better for the country."

While not directly an attack upon prohibition as such Hearst's action will be so interpreted by those extremely opposed to the slightest alteration in the amendment or the Volstead act.

Those who fought for prohibition fear to experiment with a prize so dearly won. Mr. Hearst, from his vantage point in the bigger cities, sees the wealth that bootlegging is pouring into the laps of criminals, and of how members of all classes are making light of law as applied to prohibition.

There are many who never strive beyond shallow living—so many, in fact, that it is not exaggerating to say that he or she who will do better can do so.

One of the detrimental factors in modern life is that so much value is placed on pleasures of the day that anticipation, with consequent husbanding of resources for a later and more brilliant achievement, has lost much of its charm.

SCIENCE and religion will mix, providing the chemist is not inserting the third element—prejudice—with his stirring. The president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science took a commendable stand when he rebuked the Smith college infidel for attempting to analyze sin as a scientific achievement.

ILLITERACY as a problem in many foreign countries has its counterpart in this country. Our own population is not as literate as it should be, of course, and with our education we must carry out the "boiling pot" process of nationalization as well.

With HOOVER in Latin America

By RODNEY DUTCHER. AMAPALA, Honduras (by mail)—"Any flapper seniorita in Tegucigalpa knows more about politics than many American statesmen," said an American business man from the Honduran capital.

To understand the things that happen in Central America it is necessary to get the significance of that assertion. The factors which permit the peculiar condition of politics in this section are intimately bound up with Central American trade with the United States.

Politics, the soup, meat and dessert of these republics, is carried on by a very small minority of wealthy, upper class, educated gentlemen who control the destinies of the vast majority of poverty-stricken people. The latter do all the agricultural and other heavy work—and often no work at all.

Revolutions and Elections

So passionate are the politics that revolutions have time and except during political campaigns, but demands for specific help from official sources are increasing. More discussion of and participation in public affairs seems to us very desirable.

The rank and file of America will be illiterate as far as interest and education in things public are concerned unless the fine art of self-government is stressed. The democratic form of government demands more attention than it is the habit of Americans to give.

TAKING THE IMP

out of impossible was the subject of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement, in a recent London address. Sir Robert, or anyone else, who helps to remove the idea in a boy's mind that he is destined to mediocrity is rendering a worthwhile service.

again followed elections, especially in Honduras and Nicaragua. Resultant disorganization, naturally, has held back the affected countries while more peaceful nations have forged ahead. The revolutionary tendency, however, is not distinctly on the wane. Asked what appeared to be the most hopeful sign of Honduran development, an American girl from Tegucigalpa replied:

"Well, we've just had our very first peaceful election!"

The election result was highly interesting from an American point of view. Dr. Vincent Mejia Colindres, the fusion candidate of the Liberal and Republican parties, was elected over the incumbent conservative or National party. Dr. Colindres is a progressive medical man and an intellectual. Recognizing the pressing need for better transportation facilities in Honduras, which are bound up with future national development and foreign trade growth, he ran on a good roads platform reminiscent of some gubernatorial fights at home.

One often hears the cynicism that the names "liberal" and "conservative" mean nothing at all in Central American politics. But here on the scene one learns differently. The Liberals are not at all radical, but they are the more forward-looking and progressive lot.

U. S. Companies Involved

In the recent Honduran election, the three leading American fruit companies, United, Cuyamel and Standard, are said to have been involved up to their necks; fruit company operations in this country are so heavy that it is not surprising. United Fruit backed the Conservative candidate and lost. Cuyamel and Standard got behind the Liberal ticket and won.

Colindres told your correspondent through an interpreter that he hoped to complete a fine highway from Amapala, the Honduran Pacific port, through Tegucigalpa to the Atlantic. Like other progressive leaders, he realizes the need for American capital in developing his country. The contrast between Colindres and the Tegucigalpanos who came with him to Amapala to meet Hoover and the natives of the town was almost appalling. The former were all snappy dressers comparatively speaking; they appeared cultured, sophisticated persons and one or two spoke as intelligible English as the average American. The latter, chocolate brown, were nearly all shoeless. Tegucigalpa, the capital, without railroad facilities. A coast to coast railroad has been a Honduran dream for many years, but prospects for it are nebulous as there is not yet any economic justification for it in the eyes of investors.

Pictures of the winner of that gabfest show her a small woman. But you cannot judge capacity for words in the human animal by size—"little but loud", you know.

Outfielders Are Being Shifted in Many Outfits

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. (AP)—Uncertainty rests the hand that wears the outfielder's glove in the National league in a season in which many changes of baseball personnel will be made.

Only one outfielder in the senior circuit may be regarded as "set." No suggestion has come that the Chicago Cubs will attempt to improve on the combination of Eiggs Stephenson, Hack Wilson, and Kiki Cuyler. No other club is definitely standing pat.

The Pittsburgh Pirates certainly will not interfere with the outfield activities of the Waner brothers, but Adam Comorosky, who played half a hundred games for the Buccaners last season, may be given added responsibility in 1929.

The St. Louis Cardinals lost the services of the hard hitting Walt Rostiger after 68 games last year but his broken leg has definitely mended and his batting average of .341 will give him first call on right field. Hafey will hold on to left but Ernest Cravitt finally ousted Taylor Douthitt in the world's series and may repeat the performance in the regular season.

Manager John J. McGraw will assign one of his outfield places to Fred Leach late of the Phillies. The rest of the outfield trio will depend somewhat on the health of Ed Roush and the showing made by Tony Kluffman, a reformed pitcher, who batted .383 in 52 games for Rochester last season. The Giants have two brilliant prospects in Veltman and Fultz. Melvin Ott will defend his position when right handers pitch against the Giants, but may have an understudy when southpaws do the firing.

The outfield at Brooklyn is open Harvey Hendrick who looked like a great outfielder at third base for the Robins may move farther away from the batting commode. The Robins purchased or recalled seven outfielders after the National League season closed.

Two Reds who did considerable work in the outfield at Cincinnati last year, Everett Purdy and Martin Callaghan, probably will be even more active in the new season. Wally Christensen, lately of Columbus, will have a chance to do his tumbling in the spring.

The Boston Braves will give an outfield assignment to George Washington Harpel, formerly of the Phillies, Giants and Cardinals, and Young Earl Clark should be about ready for duty.

The Phillies are counting on Homer Peel, procured from St. Louis in the Wilson deal, to take care of one outfield although Peel batted only .281 for Houston in the Texas League.

Frank Snyder Signs Again as Houston Leader

HOUSTON, Jan. 3. (AP)—Frank "Pancho" Snyder today signed for a second year as manager of the Houston baseball club.

Snyder resigned in October after plotting his warriors to victory in the Texas League and Dixie series.

Snyder left the club after the close of the Dixie series as a result of a salary difference with President Anshman.

"Lucky Strike" Maker Chooses Newspaper Ads

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—One of the largest newspaper advertising appropriations ever devoted to a single product will be spent by the American Tobacco company in 1929 to promote the sale of Lucky Strike cigarettes. George W. Hill, president of the company, announced that this year's direct advertising budget for its principal brand of cigarettes will total $12,300,000. This sum does not include sales or trade expenses.

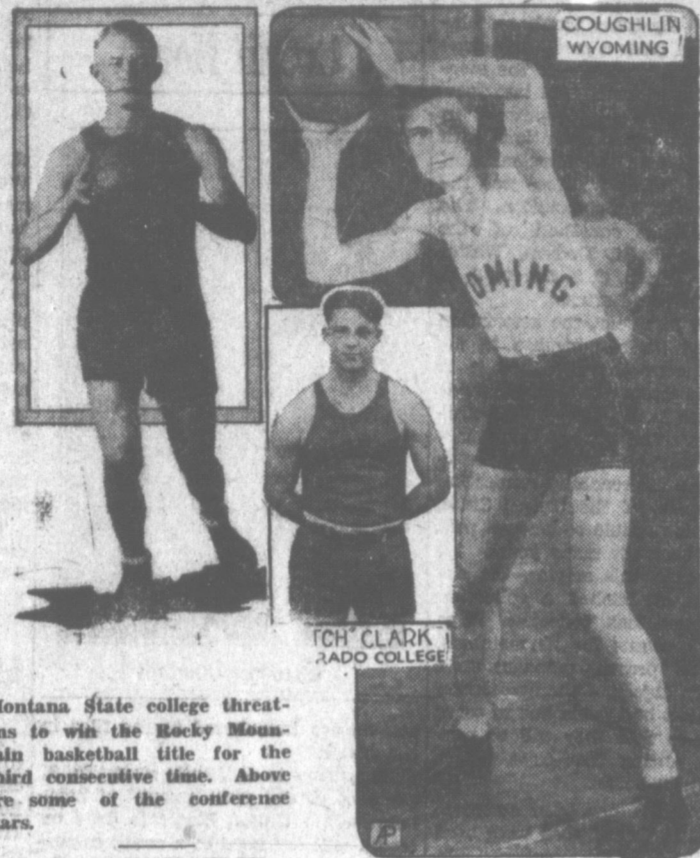

More than half of this entire appropriation will be allotted to newspapers. It will include practically every daily in the United States. The newspaper appropriation will be more than double for the next largest allotment, which is for outdoor advertising, and more than 10 times as great as the amount that will be spent for radio broadcasting in which the company is a pioneer.

Daily Newspapers	$ 5,500,000
Magazines	1,200,000
Billboards	3,000,000
State Helps	1,000,000
Radio	600,000
Total	$12,300,000

"This division of our advertising budget," Mr. Hill said today, "is based on the continued experience of the American Tobacco company with large scale advertising which has satisfactorily demonstrated that newspapers offer the most effective medium of appeal."

Miss Lida Mae Adams of Elcira will arrive this afternoon to visit her sister, Mrs. George W. Appleby.

MONTANA SEEN AS WINNER AGAIN IN MOUNTAIN CIRCUIT

Montana State college threatens to win the Rocky Mountain basketball title for the third consecutive time. Above are some of the conference stars.

By F. H. FRAWLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer) DENVER (AP)—Basketball is at the front of the Rocky Mountain conference once more, promising to be on a high plane again in 1929.

Montana State college, with virtually all its 1928 roster intact, threatens to retain the championship, which it won last year for the second time in succession in a three-game playoff with the University of Wyoming.

The Bobcats have "Cat" Thompson, their great forward; Frank Ward, giant center; "Buck" Bredren, guard, and all others of the championship outfit save the late "Greenie" Worden, guard. Max Worthington will hold down a guard position alongside Bredren.

The Rocky Mountain conference in split into eastern and western divisions for basketball with provision for a play-off between the best quintets from each zone. Utah university, Utah Aggies, Brigham Young university, Utah Aggies, Brigham Young university and Montana State are in the western division. The eastern includes Wyoming, Colorado college, Colorado Teachers, Colorado Aggies, Colorado Mines, Western State, Colorado university and Denver university.

Ernest Simpson, Colorado college forward, who set a conference record for scoring last season, will be missing when the teams go on the boards January 4. He scored 222 points for an average of 15 points a game. Thompson of Montana State averaged 15.3-5 points a game, but was under Simpson for the season's total.

Wyoming and Colorado college appear as favorites for the eastern division championship. Wyoming's material is exceptionally good, with Coughlin as the pivotal man for both the Cowboy attack and defense.

"Dutch" Clark, all-Rocky Mountain center will be the main spring of the Colorado college five. He is a forceful fellow on the floor as well as the football field, and a leading scorer in both sports. He is captain of the basketball team.

Beresford of Colorado university, Day of the Colorado Aggies and Willett of the Colorado Teachers are among the individual stars whom critics consider big factors in the disposition of the 1929 title.

Prize "Bonehead" Is Explained by Tech Player

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 3. (AP)—Coach Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech, who prepared today to lead the victorious Golden Tornado back to Atlanta after two days of sightseeing following Tech's victory over California at Pasadena, has rallied to the defense of Roy Riegels, California center, whose 75-yard run in the wrong direction gave Tech a safety and the margin for an 8-7 victory.

Coach Alexander said Riegels' mis-play might have been pulled by any other player under similar circumstances. He believed the similarity of scenery at each end of the Rose Bowl probably contributed to Riegels' confusion, and suggested that it might be well to mark each goal during a game with distinguishing flag which could be reversed each quarter as the teams changed goals.

"Father" Lumpkin, star fullback for the Southerners, also had a word of sympathy for Riegels. He said the California center was spun around a couple of times on the play and consequently lost all sense of direction.

Billiard Entries Too Few for All to Enter Tourney

CHICAGO, Jan. 3. (AP)—The "who" of the entry list for the international 182 ballline billiard tournament scheduled to start in New York February 4, is more or less speculation. Nine of the world's leading shotmakers from five countries have indicated their desire to play, but the entries are limited to seven.

Only three of the ranking players are counted as in by the National Billiard association, which has the final say as to who shall compete. The trio is: Edouard Horemans, Belgium, the champion and master of the masse; Eric Hagenlacher, German title holder, and Young Jacke Schaefer, Chicago. Whether Welker Cochrane, former title holder, competes depends on his contract with a New York bond house. Cochrane is said to have agreed not to participate in any professional tournaments, when he entered business last summer.

He said a few days ago, "I ain't just got goin' again, that's all."

The chances are that he isn't going to get goin' again. Unless he changes his whole attitude toward his business, he's through. He's not mumbling or stumbling on his heels, and he never will be because he's too smart with stuff that you don't get out of books.

He has more money than he ever thought he would have his hands on. He got tired of training when he got all that wealth. He went through the same experience that Sharkey did when he began to experience the feel of big money. Sharkey went through a period when the ring meant nothing to him and it ruined his chance of becoming the champion.

Sharkey, however, tried to get back into the harness. He had some pride in his art, if you want to call it that. But Risko hasn't any professional pride in his business. He seems to be more than satisfied with what he has.

Pop, they say, gives his squad 90 days at the start of the season. . . . And sometimes they use only six all season. . . . Jimmy Fox, the kid wonder of the A's, told his folks he was going to a dance. . . . So he could get out. . . . And went away and got married. . . . Lord Burgley, the noble hurdler of England, invited H. H. Swarts, assistant graduate manager at Pennsylvania, to attend his wedding.

Maybe He Did— Maybe Godfrey did ruin him. There used to be a legend that a great puncher could ruin every man he punished. It has been told many times that Dempsey ruined every man he ever hit, but the facts do not back it up.

Risko says he was not hurt by Godfrey. "There ain't nothing wrong with me."

Gauge Did It

The beating that Jawn Risko, the Cleveland baker, took from large Gauge Godfrey is being advanced as the reason for his quick descent from the group of ranking contenders for the heavyweight title to the larger and less distinguished class of small club hams.

If you want to look at it that way, Risko hasn't been hurt much since he stopped a dozen or two of Godfrey's hefty body socks. He took a long vacation after the fight and there was no doubt that he needed it, because he had been through a terrific year.

Returning to the ring he picked out old Tut Jackson, the well-known swarthy diver, for a warm-up bout, and old Tut succeeded in surviving, and in the surviving he looked better than the winner.

Risko then went to Boston to fight Jim Maloney, and his manager was warned that it would be a sucker match. The home town boys told him that he could never sneak a decision in Boston unless he knocked Maloney stiff, and that if he did stiffen him there would be little credit gathered in the performance. But they went on to Boston and were licked by Maloney.

Then they went back to Boston to fight Ernie Schauf and Risko got trimmed again. He claimed that the decisions were too close in each fight to be given against him, but that doesn't count on the books.

A Grand Fella Now— This time last year Risko was in what he fondly called the big dough. He was a hundred grand fella. He had licked a lot of good ones and he was heading for a lot more hundred grands even if he never attained the dignity of a champion. Now he is a $1,500 fighter and the home town folks, who always have been more or less critical of the methods of Danny Dynn, his manager, blamed his relapse upon the Godfrey match.

Maybe He Did— Maybe Godfrey did ruin him. There used to be a legend that a great puncher could ruin every man he punished. It has been told many times that Dempsey ruined every man he ever hit, but the facts do not back it up.

Risko says he was not hurt by Godfrey. "There ain't nothing wrong with me."

Mickey Walker Likely to Meet Hudkins Soon

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. (AP)—If matchmaker Tom McArdle can carry through his plans, Mickey Walker will defend his middleweight championship against Ace Hudkins in Madison Square Garden before the end of the present season. McArdle believes he can get Walker's signature on a contract to fight the Nebraska wildcat and announced yesterday that he will ask the approval of the New York state athletic commission for the match at its meeting tomorrow.

Harvesters Too Much for Moose, Winning 48 to 28

An improving Harvester basketball squad was too strong for the Pampa Moose quintet last night, and the lodge men lost, 28 to 48.

In the last half, however, during which Coach Mitchell of Central high used many substitutes, the Moose toilers ran up 20 points to 15 for the school boys. The first half ended 33 to 8 in favor of the Harvester crew.

Stalls and James were the big guns for Central, with Cash and Kahl contributing. Blanche, Stone, Olsen, and Robinson were leading scorers for Moose.

Golfers Trying to Break Hard Par

LA JOLLA, Calif., Jan. 3. (AP)—Over the La Jolla golf course some of the country's greatest players renewed their attack on old man par today in a 54-hole tournament.

Players whose names are bywords in the realm of open play were repulsed by the well-trapped layout in the first 18 holes of play in the $2,500 La Jolla open yesterday, and but two of the field of nearly 200 were able to crack par.

Leading the field was Chet Beer, Bakersfield, Calif., professional, who blazed a new competitive record for the seaside course with a 69, two under par. One stroke behind him was Johnny Golden of Paterson, N. J.

Nurses Reported Missing in Blaze Are Found Alive

DALLAS, Jan. 3. (P)—The death list in the rooming house fire which destroyed three structures here yesterday was definitely set at two today with the discovery that two nurses, reported missing after the fire, had not been in their rooms at the time of the blaze. Both were out on cases.

Baylor Medical college dismissed all classes here today in memory of the two victims of the fire, James H. Martin and Samuel R. Scott, freshmen medical students in the school. Classmates of the men announced that a fund would be raised as a part of the Greater Baylor campaign now in progress, which would be used in perpetuating the names of Martin and Scott and the school.

Girl Is Kidnaped By 'Kind Old Man'

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 3. (P)—A kind old man with a cane was the object of a police search today after parents of Doris Turner, a popular high school girl, had received a letter from their missing daughter saying she had been kidnaped.

The letter said: "I am so nervous that I can hardly write. To make it short I have been kidnaped. The old man with the cane is the one. I was late for school this morning and he picked me up. I sniffed and he gave me his handkerchief and that is the last I remember until he asked me if I wanted to write you."

"Please don't worry, as he is a kind old man about half crazy but not desperate."

Goldie Moon, Doris' chum, told the parents that an old man who had often taken them to school in his car, once said Doris looked like a daughter of his who had died and burst into tears.

Santa Fe Wants Open Competition

DALLAS, Jan. 3. (P)—Two more days are expected to be consumed by the hearing before the interstate commerce commission of the long, drawn out dispute between the Texas & Pacific and Santa Fe railroads over the Santa Fe's application for a permit to construct a spur line from Dallas to Hale, 10 miles distant.

Examiner H. C. Davis, who is conducting this, the third hearing of the controversy, heard testimony of many witnesses yesterday.

The Texas & Pacific has fought the proposed line on the ground that it opened up the territory and should share equally in its exploitation. The commerce commission at a previous hearing granted the Santa Fe a permit to build the road providing the traffic should be divided, but the two roads have failed to agree upon a proper division.

The Santa Fe now asks that the commission either determine the division of traffic or allow open competition, preferably the latter.

Gold Star Mother Dies Before Her Poem Is Published

HUDSON, Wis., Jan. 3. (P)—Unaware that the poem in memory of the unknown soldier had found its way into print, an ambition which she long had cherished, Mrs. Cassandra P. Dyer, 92, of Hudson, is dead after a two weeks illness with pneumonia.

The poem, "A Mother of an Unknown Soldier," written Armistice Day 1921, has just appeared in newspapers throughout the United States through "a Washington Bystander" a column of capitol life conducted by Kirke L. Simpson, staff writer for the Associated Press.

Her interest aroused by an article in which Simpson made reference to the sacrifice of Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Dyer sent the poem to him, saying she was anxious to see it published. The verse was used but Mrs. Dyer died before her wish was realized.

Cruiser Bill and Peace Pact Will Get Ballot Soon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. (P)—The Kellogg peace pact and the naval construction bill took their undisputed places before the senate today with promises pointing the way to first action on the treaty and final action on both within a short period.

The naval bill, calling for construction of 15 new cruisers, was up first by virtue of its position as the unfinished business on the legislative calendar, but the treaty advocates, led by Senator Borah of Idaho, were ready to displace it immediately for consideration of the pact.

With a preponderance of strength, Senator Borah reached an understanding yesterday with Chairman Hale of the naval committee, sponsor of the cruiser bill, whereby he would bring the treaty up and keep it up until voted upon.

Huge Army Bill Reported to House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. (P)—Carrying large increases for flood control army pay, aviation expansion and new construction at military posts, the army appropriation bill was reported today to the House.

Calling for the expenditure of $435,428,415 by the war department during the next fiscal year, the measure was the fifth of the nine regular annual supply bills to come before the House this session, four having been passed before the holidays.

The total, providing $328,338,815 for the national defense and $107,089,600 for non-military purposes, represents an increase of $35,111,774 over the current fiscal year appropriation and an increase of $256,608 over budget estimates.

The largest military item in the bill is $133,550,368 for pay of the army. This is an increase of $3,215,995 over this year's pay fund. The measure contemplates no change in the enlisted strength of the army, now 118,750, but would raise the officer strength from 11,738 to approximately 12,000.

In the non-military provisions, $50,000,000 is included for maintenance and improvement of more than 500 rivers and harbors works, while $30,000,000, an increase of $20,000,000, is provided for Mississippi flood control.

The projects to be covered by the rivers and harbors item are the same as those submitted to congress by the chief of army engineers and made public December 3, last.

Executions Near in LeBouef Murder

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 3. (P)—Only an insanity plea and the state supreme court today stood between the hangman's noose and Mrs. Ada LeBouef and Dr. Thomas F. Dreher, sentenced to death for the murder of the woman's husband, James LeBouef. Gov. Huey P. Long last night declined to commute the death penalty of the pair to life imprisonment.

Counsel for the condemned today planned to appear before Judge James D. Simon, who presided at the trial, and request an inquiry by a sanity commission into the present mental states of Mrs. LeBouef and Dr. Dreher. If this move fails, counsel planned to apply to the state supreme court to halt the execution until a hearing can be held.

The execution is set for Saturday.

The president has instructed military commanders in all zones where insurgents are active to accept their surrender in case overtures are made and to grant them safe conduct to their homes.

The government will pay each insurgent 20 pesos ($10) for his rifle and 30 pesos for his saddle. It will also give him a parcel of land and implements to till it in case he so desires.

Newspaper Paves Way for Liquor Raids in Gotham

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. (P)—Commissioner Grover A. Whalen sent his reorganized police force into a series of raids on speakeasies last night and then made a personal inspection of the results.

Sweeping from Washington Heights to Greenwich Village, police in groups of three raided more than 50 speakeasies and restaurants, arresting proprietors and employes and seizing entire stocks of liquor.

The raids followed presentation to commissioner Whalen of a list of places where representatives of a newspaper said they had purchased liquor. The newspaper said an analysis of 504 samples of liquor purchased showed 55 contained traces of wood alcohol.

Killing Over Boots Revealed in Plea

TEXARKANA, Jan. 3. (P)—Charged with having shot his uncle, M. W. Patterson, to death in an affray which culminated in a dispute over a pair of boots, Horace Adcock was released under $10,000 bond yesterday to await his trial for murder March 18.

At yesterday's hearing Adcock testified he shot in self defense after his uncle had drawn a pistol. The shooting occurred November 6 when the relatives met a highway in Miller county.

Palmer lived 87 days after being stabbed. Barfield, who was at liberty under bond during this period, disappeared when he learned of Palmer's death.

New Broadcasting Process Is Evolved

Radio audiences in all sections of the country are getting new thrills of delight due to the introduction of an entirely new type of radio broadcasting by The Maytag company, washer manufacturers of Newton, Iowa. The introductory programs broadcast recently from K D K A, Pittsburgh, and KYW, Chicago, were successfully presented and so enthusiastically received that the new system bids fair to revolutionize present broadcasting methods.

The new type of radio broadcasting, perfected after two years of study and experimentation, is known as the So-A-Tonic process, and is exclusively controlled by National Radio Advertising, Inc., of Chicago. The new process permits the assembling of talent in the largest cities, where a transcription is made by electrical reproduction and transported to the various stations elected to broadcast the Maytag programs. Some idea of the importance of the new process is indicated by the fact that certain rulings by the federal radio commission were necessary before it could be used.

The 1928 radio program for the Maytag company calls for broadcasting under the So-A-Tonic process from over 50 of the principal stations throughout the United States and in Canada. This constitutes the largest independent radio schedule in the world. The appointment of stations and hours of broadcasting will be announced in newspapers from time to time.

Optimism Guarded as King Lingers

LONDON, Jan. 3. (P)—With King George entering the seventh week of his serious illness word came from the royal bedside today which was encouraging in its general tone, although it continued to indicate his road to recovery was likely to be a long, hard one.

The morning medical bulletin reported no change on the king's condition. His night was a restless one and to this fact his failure to continue the improvement reported last night presumably might be attributed.

'UNLOADED' GUN KILLS

KERENS, Jan. 3. (P)—An "unloaded" 12-gauge shotgun today took the life of Lee Couch, young farmer, who lives near Kerens, when he was preparing for a bird hunt.

Pampa Business Men's Association Has Increased Membership to Nearly Hundred—Scope of Work Is Broadened

The Pampa Business Men's association has grown from a small organization to one of importance to the merchants of Pampa during the last year.

The association was organized in April, 1927 and began operations with 57 members under the management of S. C. Pierson. Tom W. Rose was the first president of the association. The board of directors consisted of the president and J. M. Dodson, Walter Coffey, J. E. Murfee, C. S. Barrett, J. P. York, and Carson Loftus.

During the last year, the association has increased its membership to almost 100. Its primary function is to make detailed credit reports on individuals and firms in the immediate vicinity of Pampa. The bureau is affiliated with the state and national associations, having a far reaching connection with all bureaus of the United States, and making it possible to trace a person's record back for many years.

In addition to this service, the association has established a collection department and has collected large numbers of accounts for its members. Carson Loftus, present manager, says that the main object of the association is not to collect bad debts but to serve its members so that they will be protected from getting that class of accounts on their books.

"The association has been active in getting by-laws passed that have been of great benefit to its members," Mr. Loftus says. "The greatest handicap this association has had to contend with is its lack of sufficient funds to properly carry on its work. Bills are numerous and expenses eat up all the income so that there is no reserve capital to fall back on."

The bureau also puts out each Saturday a complete transcript of court records, giving land transfers, oil lease transactions, royalty deeds granted, suits filed, and chattel mortgages recorded. The records of the above transactions are transferred to the files in the office.

"According to authentic statistics, 87 per cent of the gross amount of business in the United States is done on credit, and the need of a credit organization in every town and city is paramount," Mr. Loftus says. More associations were organized during the past year than any previous year.

Merchants must cooperate, and many are said to fail to realize the importance of reporting to their local credit bureau detailed information on the promptness with which customers pay their bills," Mr. Loftus says.

Hoovers Carefree as U. S. A. Is Neared

ABOARD U. S. S. UTAH, En Route to Hampton Roads, Jan. 3. (P)—Still clipping off fifteen and a half knots an hour, this battleship bearing Herbert Hoover home after his good will tour of Latin-America was approaching home waters today. It was approximately nine hundred miles due east of Florida and only a little more than a thousand miles from the Virginia Capes.

Entirely carefree, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover seem to be enjoying the trip more as they swing toward the United States coast. They have a few guests in to each meal, and Mrs. Hoover serves tea on deck daily while she and the president-elect stroll about chatting with members of their party or watching the deck games.

OATMEAL COOKIES, FOUR DOZEN

1 cup fat, 2 cups dark brown sugar 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup sour milk, 1 cup chopped dates, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1-1/2 cups oatmeal flakes, 2 1-2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon baking powder. Cream the fat and sugar thoroughly. Add the eggs, vanilla, spices, salt and milk and beat for three minutes. Add the rest of the ingredients and break off small pieces of the dough and flatten down, three inches apart on greased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven for 12 minutes. To give a better flavor to oatmeal used in cookies, sprinkle it over a shallow pan and brown in a moderate oven. To insure the oatmeal being mixed the milk may be placed on the oatmeal and allowed to stand for five minutes before being added to the rest of the ingredients.

COCONUT DIVINITY

2 1-2 cups sugar, 1-2 cup white-corn syrup, 1-2 cup water, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 1 cup coconut, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix the sugar, corn syrup, water and salt. Blend thoroughly. Cook over a moderate fire, without stirring, until a small amount of syrup when poured in cold water "clicks" and forms a very hard ball. Pour into the egg whites and beat until thick, cold and creamy. Add the rest of the ingredients and pour on to a buttered plate. When "set," cut in bars or squares. Divinity candies require much beating, stirring and mixing, so do not become discouraged if the candy does not stiffen quickly.

SOPHIE TUCKER HAS HER FACE "LIFTED"

CHICAGO, Jan. 3. (P)—Sophie Tucker stopped in Chicago yesterday "to have a little fat taken off my face" and incidentally to reveal that she had been married, for the third time, last December 14 at Newport, Ky. Reporters found her at the office of a plastic surgeon, strips of tape plastered in front of each ear. "The operation? Just a little fat and loose skin off the face," she explained. "Only a small cut in front of each ear. Had to look a little younger for the films." Miss Tucker is 40 years old.

Orchid by ELEANOR EARLY COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE INC. THIS HAS HAPPENED ASHORETH ASHE, a beautiful stenographer from Boston, is having an exciting time on ship-board. JACK SMYTHE, an Englishman whom she meets aboard, makes immediate love, and kisses her during the first five minutes of their acquaintance. She snubs him after that—but he wins her, just the same. Her friend, a romantic—MORTON DE MUSSET, a glorious and mysterious indy. Mona has been very good to Ashtoreth, presenting her with any number of beautiful gifts. Smythe tells Ashtoreth that the respectable women on board will have nothing to do with her if she continues to be intimate with Mona. "You mean," she demands, "that she is notoriously immoral?" Smythe inclines his head gravely. But Ashtoreth is becoming accustomed to accepting gifts from women of doubtful morals. There are four instances of this. MORTON, who extorted $10,000 from HOLLIS HART, Ashtoreth's millionaire employer. And Ashtoreth has taken quite a few things from Sadie. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII "PROBABLY," Smythe was saying. "You do not quite understand, Miss Ashe." Ashtoreth drew angrily from his fingers on her arm. "Oh, yes, I do," she flared. "I understand perfectly." "I mean about Mademoiselle de Musset," he persisted. "It isn't quite the thing for me to tell you, perhaps—but—" "No," agreed Ashtoreth testily. "I don't think it is. Mona has been perfectly sweet to me. She has a heart of gold. And I don't know that I'm particularly concerned about her morals. They're not any of my business, I mean. . . ." "But you don't want the holler-than-thou sitherhood arrayed against you," he interrupted. "Women have to run together. The pack makes it too tough for those who don't. You can't afford, for instance, to antagonize every respectable woman on this boat in order to take up the cudgels for a girl like Mona de Musset. It simply isn't done, that's all." "But Mona has been my friend!" cried Ashtoreth. "And what do I care about these other women—wretched old cats!" "Mona leaves the boat at Guadeloupe," he reminded her, "and the wretched old cats are making the round trip. You won't have even me to fall back on. I go, as you know, to Antigua. It will be more than a week before I rejoin the ship. You'll be dreadfully alone." Ashtoreth tilted her chin defiantly. "I don't care. I guess I can stand it. I'm certainly not going back on Mona!" "And you mean to go ashore with her this afternoon?" "It she'll go." IN her heart Ashtoreth began to hope that Mona might be indisposed. It was fearfully hot, and she had complained at luncheon of a headache. They had stopped to land against the rail. Flying fish raced along the side of the boat, like white flames dancing in the sunshine. The jade ornament that she wore about her neck swung out into the sunshine. She beat her hands excitedly on the rail. And the bracelets on her wrists clinked merrily. Smythe took the ornament between his fingers. "Mona's jade, isn't it?" he remarked. Ashtoreth flushed. "Yes," she said defiantly. "And I have one of her hats on. And this wreath is hers. Ashe, in one of those things of her! She fondled Mona's jade tenderly. It was cold as ice in her hands. She knew that real jade is always cold, and she thought, fantastically, that if she had millions and millions of dollars she would live in the tropics, where it was always warm. And she would have jade to keep her cool. A couch, like Cleopatra's, to sleep on. And jade things all about, to put her warm hands on. Medallions to wear on her breast. And bracelets to reach from her wrists to her shoulders. . . . Oh, wouldn't it be wonderful to be rich! And have just everything you wanted! The thought of Sadie. Trivial, inconsequential little Sadie. Sadie had everything she wanted—or almost everything. Sadie was awfully generous, too. She had, for instance, given Ashtoreth a perfectly marvelous negligee, and a nightgown, and those darling little mules. And then she had loaned her that stunning camel's hair coat, and the suede hat to match. Ashtoreth's face grew suddenly hot. She held Mona's jade to her cheeks to cool them. And all the time she was thinking, "Jack Smythe told the truth! I'm like the woman he said. I said my friendship . . . Sadie. And Mona. I've taken everything they've given me—both of them. I've given nothing in return. . . . And in my heart I despise them both. Why, I'm just as bad as he said!" Retrospection may be salutary. But Ashtoreth seldom found it pleasant. Dismissing the hateful notion, she picked up Mona's book. There was something on the fly leaf in Mona's writing. She wrote a broad, untidy hand, and Ashtoreth recognized it immediately. A bit of doggerel. A whimsical little thing. It sounded exactly like Mona. This was it: "Talk to me tenderly, tell me lies; I am a woman, and time flies. I am a woman, and out of the door Beauty goes to come no more. Talk to me tenderly, take my hand; I am a woman, and understand. I am a woman, and must be told Lies to warm me when I am old." ASHORETH smiled. She wondered how old Mona was. And if she really felt that way. Twenty-eight, perhaps. Or 30. It must be awful to know that you were growing old. Everybody was, of course. Ashtoreth turned the pages. Here was something panned! Something probably that Mona liked. She read it slowly: "From too much love of life, From hope and fear we free, We thank with brief thanksgiving Whatever gods may be, That no man lives forever, That dead men rise up never, That even the wisest ruse Winds somewhere safe to sea." Ashtoreth closed the book, and shivered. . . . From too much love of living. . . . Saint Thomas, the first of the Virgin Islands, lay ahead. Its land in the sea. And mist hanging ever its mountains. The passengers were looking to the rail. Where was Mona? (To Be Continued) Smythe makes more love to Ashtoreth and this time she likes it. In the next chapter.

'SHOW PEOPLE'

BEHIND the screens of Hollywood this astounding galaxy of talent takes you in a dazzling picture of Film-Com's life, loves and laughs.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE REX

King Vidor used five different motion picture companies in one day's direction of "Show People," the new Marion Davies-William Haines co-starring picture, which comes to the Rex theatre Friday and Saturday.

The sequence showed Miss Davies visiting one of the big stages at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio for a screen test. It was desired to show other directors working on adjoining sets.

As a result, the audiences, if they look carefully, will be given a quick look at William Haines and Anita Page working in a scene from "Telling the World"; Joan Crawford, John Mack Brown and Dorothy Sebastian in "Our Dancing Daughters"; and Louise Lorraine and Lawrence Gray playing with "Flash," the dog star, while making "Shadows of the Night."

All these companies were filmed incidentally, of course, as Miss Davies walks by them on her way to the set where she is to have a screen test.

The real cast of "Show People" includes: Polly Moran, Dell-Henderson, Harry Gribben, Tenen Holtz and Paul Rall.

SIR HARRY LAUDER

Immediately following the successful opening of "Huntingtower," Sir Harry Lauder's first moving picture venture, American producers, recognizing the universal appeal of the picture, began negotiations for the showing of the film in this country. Paramount secured the American distributing rights and the Crescent theatre was successful in negotiating an early showing of the picture for today. As a result of these efforts, "Huntingtower" will have one of its first showings in the United States in this city.

For years and years, Sir Harry Lauder has been a popular star of the American concert and vaudeville stages. He has drawn his public from all classes and conditions of American life. He has established himself as the Scotch songster and comedian of all time and has drawn millions to his performances for every one of his numerous tours of this country.

Harry Lauder's comedy is as well known as that of Charlie Chaplin. There is surely no place in the United States where the inimitable art of this lovable comedian has not penetrated.

Now, after many years of public acclaim, this unique personality has been transferred to the screen. Many scouted the idea that a silent Harry Lauder could be Harry Lauder at all. Many felt that the subtleties of his art would be lost by the camera. That these predictions have proved unfounded is evidenced by the acclaim

A study in the book of Hebrews, to which several weeks' time have been devoted, was completed yesterday by the Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. T. D. Mrs. J. E. Chapman is seriously ill with influenza.

Mrs. H. M. Bryant of McKinney is the guest of her brother, T. C. Ward, and his family.

which greeted his first appearance on the screen in London and other cities of England. Thousands flocked to see Harry Lauder on the screen. Thousands went to review the picture. Harry Lauder was already a cinema star before his first picture ever reached the United States.
