ROME, Feb. 7. (P)—Official announcement of an agreement between the Holy See and the Italian state was made today by Cardinal Casparri, papal secretary of state, before the diplomatic body accredited to the vatican.

The agreement settling the Italo-Roman question will be signed Sunday, in the Lateran palace, one of the places outside the vatican where extraterritoriality was insured by a law of 1871. Cardinal Casparri, papal secretary of state, will sign for the pope, and Premier Mussolini for King Victor Emmanuel.

Their signature will end an estrangement between vatican and Italian state which began in 1870 with the investing of Rome by the troops of King Victor Emmanuel I of Italy and subsequent self-imposed imprisonment of the Pope at the vatican.

Extra Land Declined
While there is to be only a small addition to the vatican grounds—the pope having refused the Villa Doria enlargement offered him—the pope is to be ruler supreme within its confines.

He is to have the power of coining money, issuance of banknotes, postage stamps, and other prerogatives of a sovereign state. He will have his own railway station, telegraph and telephone, post, wireless station and aviation field. His domain is to be known as the "vatican City" or the "vatican State."

A monetary indemnity of two million lire (about $195,000,000) of which one billion lire is payable in cash or Italian government bonds immediately is allowed.

Church Laws Retained
It is in the concession of the Italian state, binding itself to secure enforcement of the Roman Catholic canon law throughout Italy, that many see the greatest victory for the church. The canon law contains 2,414 canons, or rules, regulating faith, morals, conduct and discipline of church members.

Italy's agreement to secure its enforcement throughout the country is an entirely new experiment in any modern country, and is one for which the Holy See has fought to obtain from various Italian governments for more than a thousand years. During the whole period of the temporal power, 1,116 years—the Italian governments resisted the move, and received reinforcement from the emperors of France and the German rulers who wished to free themselves from any further restriction of their sovereignty by the church.

WASHINGTON (P)—Naturally the girls would like to have the governor of Connecticut do as the governor of New Jersey purposes—walk in the inaugural parade instead of riding. Mr. Trumbull will be attended by his prospective son-in-law, Major John Coolidge.

Next Secretary?

Colonel Henry L. Stimson, above, now governor general of the Philippines, is rumored to have been offered the post of Secretary of State in the Hoover cabinet and to have accepted. Colonel Stimson will sail from Manila in time to reach Washington for the inauguration of Mr. Hoover on March 4.

SNOW IS LIKELY TO CONTINUE FOR ANOTHER NIGHT

Last night was, according to many citizens, the coldest of the winter. Temperatures of from one below zero to eight degrees above were claimed today.

A light snow fell at intervals last night, and intermittently today, but the total was not over two inches in this immediate vicinity at noon. Toward midday the weather was slightly moderated, and snowflakes fell lazily and not very thickly from a lighter sky.

Cold wind last night added to the discomfort of travel in the cold. Business and social activities slowed down, but yesterday afternoon sleigh riding was popular. Riding behind automobiles was shifted to the country when Police Chief J. I. Downs ruled the practice too dangerous and told W. J. Turpin, traffic cop, to stop it.

The forecast for tonight favors more snow, with possibly snow and continued cold tomorrow. Rains are predicted for the South Plains.

Jensen Forced Down by Rain and Ice Today

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 7. (P)—A "Hoodoo" that trailed Martin Jensen from the time he took off yesterday in an attempt to break the solo endurance flight record finally forced him down at 2:10 a. m., today with less than half his goal achieved. He had been in the air 17 hours, 6 minutes.

He declared the combination of ice and rain that he had faced all day and night culminating in a series of petty annoyances caused him to give up the attempt.

A minor break in a gasoline pipe, the breaking of the thermostat and the bad weather caused him considerable annoyance. When a gallon earthen jug of water crashed to the floor of the cabin sending fragments of the jug into his eyes, he decided he had enough.

"Would Destroy State to Get Rid of Governor"

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 7. (P)—The resignation of Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, confidential secretary to Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, before them, legislators today speculated on what effect her exit from the state's political arena might have on the present situation.

Anti-administration forces led by H. Tom Knight, representative from Rogers county, branded Mrs. Hammonds' move as a political gesture seeking sympathy for the governor's cause.

Leading the administration forces, Johnston voiced "perfect confidence" in the outcome of his case, adding that should he be acquitted in the senate court, Mrs. Hammonds "is not going to return to the office in any capacity whatsoever—this with the full approval and agreement of both parties."

In her letter of resignation, Mrs. Hammonds declared her loyalty to Johnston, saying "I want you to know that I have full confidence in the justness of your cause, that I believe in you and that I am standing squarely back of you in this trying hour."

She attacked foes of the administration, declaring "it has been apparent for some time that state government would be destroyed, if necessary, to destroy individuals who have thwarted the schemes of designing politicians in their endeavors to control the revenue of the different departments."

She said evidence adduced by the investigating committee "proved beyond a doubt that no honest investigation was desired," and branded the "entire record" as "a lot of foolish statements and misrepresentations to create propaganda that would be sensational enough to throw smoke screen over their purpose, all with the ultimate aim of accomplishing and carrying out their selfish aims."

"Statements Distorted"
In his statement, which followed Mrs. Hammonds' resignation, Johnston said he dealt with the impeachment charges, saying the action was "based upon prejudice, misrepresentation, and distorted statements."

"It has been asked," his statement then concluded, "as to whether or not Mrs. Hammonds has resigned or will return to the office on my reinstatement. I have felt that this was a matter first to be announced by her. My answer is that she is not going to return to the office in any capacity whatsoever—this with the full approval and agreement of both parties. She has in every interview between us stated that her resignation would be placed in my hands at any time."

HOUSTON EDITOR DIES
DALLAS, Feb. 7. (P)—C. B. Gillespie, for years managing editor of the Houston Chronicle, died in a hospital here today. Mr. Gillespie had been in ill health for some time. About two years ago he took leave of absence, seeking to regain a vigor impaired by long service in the newspaper world.

GIRL PICKPOCKET KILLED
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7. (P)—Lying face downward on a deserted street, the body of Sophie Titleman, a shoplifter and pickpocket, was found today. There were two bullet holes in the head of the pretty 24-year-old girl and police believe she was slain in an automobile and thrown to the street. The body was identified through finger prints.

'Golden Girl'

The romance of New York society's "golden girl", Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church, above, with Frederic Church, Jr., former Harvard football star, will end in the divorce courts. Mrs. Church, heiress to a large share of the Vanderbilt fortune, is about to sue her husband on the grounds of non-support. Their wedding in 1925 was the gala social event of the year.

ONE CHURCH TO CONTINUE WORK OF ENLISTMENT

Although the citywide church enlistment campaign has been postponed on account of the bad weather, the First Christian church has decided to continue its services today and tomorrow, the Rev. James Todd, Jr., said this morning.

An interesting service was held last night, and members decided to continue their efforts. The Missionary societies had their regular sessions Wednesday and two of them added new members.

The sermon subject for this evening will be "The Calling and Called."

Tomorrow the minister will speak on the general subject of "Salvation." Services are held at 7:30 o'clock.

The Christian church has virtually finished its portion of the religious census, and follow up work has begun.

Welfare Society Reports Heard

Members of the Pampa Welfare association met in the Board of City Development rooms yesterday afternoon to hear reports of the association's nurse and secretary, T. D. Hobart, president, occupied the chair.

Mrs. M. P. Downs, nurse, gave a detailed report of her activities. Carson Loftus, secretary, gave a report of his department.

Another meeting will be held next Thursday afternoon, when plans for the annual drive will be discussed.

Many Unlicensed Dogs Dying—Only One Claimed and Saved From Death

Little dogs, big dogs, curs, and thoroughbreds, and of every color mentionable, are occupying the pound since Lee Mullins was appointed dog-catcher February 1. Although Mullins didn't begin his duties until Monday of this week, he has already begun his work.

Of that number, twelve have already been killed and more are scheduled to meet their doom today, he says. They have been kept the three days required and have not been claimed.

Only one dog has been claimed since Monday, Chief Downs said this morning. A farmer came in yesterday and claimed his dog, which had strayed from home.

"If your dog does not return home it has more than likely wandered into the meshes of the dog-catchers net and is at the pound. If that be the case, call at the police station and a trip to the pound will be made where the dog will be released upon the purchase of a tag, pound fee and vaccination," the chief says.

Freight Train Bears
174 Women and Men Away

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 7. (P)—A freight train threading its way through Mexican mountains today carried 174 men and women, convicted as criminals, to a fate deemed here as bad or worse than death.

Tomorrow the 174 will arrive at Manzanillo, Pacific port, and will be put aboard a small steamer which will take them to the penal colony on a tropical island in Las Tres Marias (The Three Marys) group, off the coast of the state of Nayarit.

The complete isolation of the group, the tales of horrors which the archipelago has seen, and the hopelessness of the lot of those sent there, have given the islands a reputation in Mexico anything but savory. Sentences to penal servitude there are usually reserved for extreme cases.

Weeping relatives and friends of the convicts watched them as a military police guard, more than twice their number, herded them out of the penitentiary here and into box cars. The convicts themselves, determined to make the best of their lot, sang popular songs as they filed into the cars.

All of the prisoners are old offenders, and together constitute the largest group which has been sent to Las Tres Marias in a long time. Each prior to departure was given two pesos (less than a dollar) and a supply of food and cigarettes to last him on the journey.

PREACHER KILLS MAN

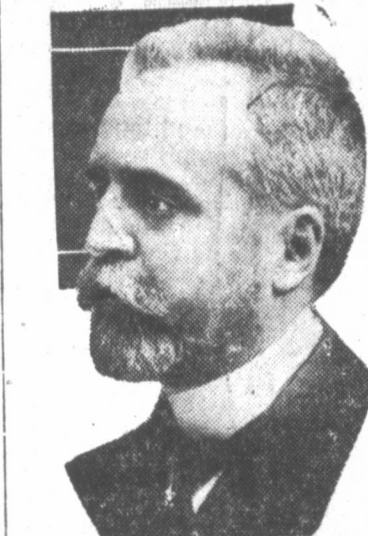

LAMESA, Feb. 7. (P)—J. A. Cox, filling station proprietor at Klondike, about 15 miles from Lamesa, is dead today, and the Rev. W. E. Duke, Baptist minister, pastor of the midway church, has surrendered to officers in connection with the slaying.

Cox was shot to death about midnight and the Rev. Mr. Duke, in front of whose store the killing occurred, surrendered to officers. He conferred with an attorney today but made no statement which might indicate a motive for the shooting.

Cox is survived by his widow and four children.

STOCK MARKET BREAKS UNDER RESERVE ORDER

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (P)—Prices of the New York stock exchange broke $2 to $17 a share at the opening of today's market in the flood of selling set in motion by two unfavorable overnight developments—the federal reserve board's warning that speculative credit must be restrained, and the increase of 1 per cent in the Bank of England's discount rate to 5 1/2 per cent. Blocks of 5,000 to 20,000 shares changed hands at frequent intervals.

Pampa Library Plans Told to Local Rotarians

The Pampa library which is to be opened next Tuesday was the subject of the program at the Rotary luncheon at the Methodist church yesterday. Mrs. B. E. Finley, Mrs. C. M. Bryson and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapiller gave interesting talks on the accomplishments of the committees, the amount of funds raised, and the necessity of a concerted interest on the part of all Pampa citizens in making the library complete. J. D. Sugg arranged the program.

It was decided that the Rotary club would meet in a joint session with the Lions club Tuesday, April 2, on account of the meeting of the district P-T-A. in Pampa that week.

M. K. Brown, J. M. Dodson and Dick Hughes were appointed a committee to create interest in and arrange for members of the local club to attend the district meeting in Ranger. Paul Shepherd and Tom Rose were appointed to represent the Rotary club in the automobile dealers advertising trip preceding the automobile show.

Guests yesterday included C. L. Beard, C. C. Alexander, Lee Ledrick, Carl McLynn, Arthur Teed, R. B. Fisher, W. R. Faufman, Bill Smith, Rotarians D. M. Warren, and Harry Brunson, and Mrs. Tom Rose, Mrs. B. E. Finley, Mrs. C. M. Bryson and Mrs. Lynn Boyd.

A Rotary quartet composed of De-Lea Vicens, Paul Shepherd, Neil McCullough, and Tom Rose sang two numbers.

LOCAL MEN IN AUSTIN TO SEE MEASURE THRU

Committee Is Told
$3 Land Brings

REGENT SHOWS LAW'S WEAKNESS

"Foolish Policy" Says
Judge R. L. Batts,
Oil Employee

According to information received here, the "navigable stream" land validation bill is slated to be considered by the house of representatives about 2 o'clock this afternoon, and possibly others of the Small measures.

J. E. Williams and Mel B. Davis, prominent Gray county land owners, are in Austin watching the progress of the measure. They took with them petitions from several Pampa towns to offset propaganda that is being used by opponents of the bill.

Several of the petition were obtained by Dick Hughes, local insurance man, who visited Clarendon, Memphis and Hedley to secure signatures.

AUSTIN, Feb. 7. (P)—Laws governing the sale of public lands are so inadequate that recently the state disposed of property at $3 per acre, that was subsequently sold for $10,000 an acre and is now producing from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 worth of oil, Judge R. L. Batts, chairman of the board of regents, told the land office investigating committee today.

Governor Dan Moody will testify late today.

Replying to a question from Representative Petch, representing the committee, that there is some kind of a charge "that you are an employee of the oil companies," Judge Batts stated that he, as a lawyer, represented several of the companies and that he was a salaried employee of the Gulf Oil corporation.

He said he had received a letter from Mr. Nazro of the Gulf company protesting the sale of mineral leases as advertised and that he took the communication to Robison and gave it to him. Also, Mr. Pugh of the Texas company protested the sale, he said, and on one occasion when he went to Robison's office, he found Jacob Wolters of the Texas company there talking to him about the proposed sales.

Whole Block Sold
He said Robison finally agreed to postpone the sale of all except one tract for which he claimed he had received a specific request. He said he presumed the tract would be merely one section and that he was surprised it meant an entire block.

He detailed phases of the litigation which involved several of the land laws and in some of which Batts sided with Robison against the other regents. He was questioned about the attack on the law of 1917, when Governor Moody, as attorney-general, intervened for the board of regents in attacking the validity of the leasing act.

He testified that the board of regents afterwards employed private counsel because when Moody was succeeded by Claude Pollard, Pollard did not follow Moody's position in the matter.

"The supreme court sustained you and Mr. Robison against Governor Moody and the regents, didn't it?" E. F. Smith, attorney for Robison, asked, and Judge Batts replied in the affirmative.

Lands Dissipated
The land in question comprised 234 acres in either Upton or Crane county and is adjoining or a part of the university lands, he said.

"Ownership to the property was established in a vacancy suit of which the university had no notice," Judge Batts testified.

"The public school lands are being dissipated by what seems to me to be a foolish policy," he said.

"It's Like This—"

DALHART'S JOURNALISM has been augmented by the establishment of the Dalhart News, a weekly publication.

The Dalhart News, Vol. 1 No. 1, comes to this desk as a very neatly gotten up seven-column paper, containing plenty of local news and features. It has the evident support of Dalhart merchants, as indicated in the volume of advertising carried.

Of the staff, the paper says editorially: "The company is controlled by William E. Moore of Dalhart and George A. Wallis of Amarillo. Mr. Moore will act as editor and local manager of the paper. Before coming to Dalhart, he was connected with the Shamrock News, Amarillo Journal, and the Amarillo Daily News. Wallis is a native of Texas. He studied journalism at the University of Colorado, and most of his newspaper experience was obtained under the Nunn on the Amarillo Daily News and with the Nunn-Warren Publishing company.

"The paper comes to Dalhart with the sole purpose of helping to promote the upbuilding and prosperity of the city and the North west Panhandle."

LIMITED PARKING is a live issue in Pampa. Many want it, claiming that scores of cars are parked in early morning and not moved for hours. This acts in restraint of trade because shoppers trade, or have a tendency to do so, near their cars. Opponents of limitation say that the practice makes enemies as people are arrested for breaking the ordinance.

Of interest in this connection is an extract from The Lion, official organ of Lions International, by A. D. Stone, widely known as the "town doctor". Mr. Stone favors limited parking. He says, in part:

Farmer: "Well, there ain't much satisfaction in drivin' a car to town any more when you have to park a mile out."

Second farmer: "Tell you boys, my women are doing their trading at other places and it's all right with me, because I'll be gained if I'm going to carry a sack of flour a couple of blocks just to please some feller here in town."

After hearing this conversation, and others like it, I sent a man out to check the parked cars. Later he handed me his report—a check of parked cars in downtown area where there was no time restriction, made in the morning, at noon, and in the late afternoon. It showed that 23 per cent of available parking space was occupied continuously by the same cars, 81 per cent of which were cars owned by local business people, two merchants having two cars each for the full day; also that gauging the whole by four blocks, the average parking time was 2 1/2 hours; therefore, each car parked continuously, deprived 31-5 customers of space to park.

"What do you make of it," I asked.

"Make of it? Say, these fellows are crying about business when they are driving away one-fifth of their trade away just so they don't have to walk a couple of blocks out of their way."

"I found three delivery trucks around the square; two of them were there from 1 to 5 o'clock. I went to the alleys back of the stores they belonged to, and all three had garages that were empty."

Here was a group of American business men complaining of the lack of business when analysis and thinking, plus a very small amount of effort or inconvenience or whatever you wish to call it, would automatically make possible an increase in business of from 15 to 18 per cent.

HOMER D. WADE is quoted as saying that he would oppose "sale of even a single acre" of Texas land, in connection with the boundary dispute decision.

This attitude may be justified, so far as land long recognized as belonging to Texas is concerned. Yet, on the other hand Oklahoma probably has the same feeling about losing land to Texas that she has considered her own, and is willing to buy it to preserve the citizenship of those resident upon it. Representative Dewey Young is quoted as waiving special objections to sale, although his county would benefit by non-sale.

The real question is to save the titles of the land for those who live upon it, regardless of which state ultimately owns the land.

Texas has been awarded the land. Actual ownership is, of course, in the hands of individual property holders. For Oklahoma to buy back possession would not affect the titles, evidently, since the only transaction would be moving of the imaginary line forming the boundary. But from a more practical standpoint than sentiment, there would be some grounds for leaving the boundary on the meridian line.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON — When the first International Conference on Safety of Life at Sea met in London fifteen years ago the assembled maritime experts were thinking in terms of icebergs and the Titanic disaster.

The second such conference begins in London on April 15, with memory of the Vestris tragedy and the need of preventing a repetition fresh in the minds of its members.

The first conference resulted ed in the establishment of the International Iceberg Patrol, operated by our coast guard, and there has since been no loss of life due to the crash of a ship against an iceberg in the Atlantic. But the Vestris disaster and perilous experiences of ships in that ocean during the last month have demonstrated that higher standards of seaworthiness and safety ought to be attained if possible.

Pending departure of the American delegation of 11 men, an interesting row has broken out between the State Department and the Treasury Department over the fact that the latter has not named any representative of the coast guard to the delegation.

The coast guard is sore. Secretary Mellon wrote a letter of protest to Secretary Kellogg pointing out what seemed to be an error and Kellogg replied that there was neither room nor need for the coast guard on the delegation.

The convention won't pay any particular attention to icebergs and it appears that the coast guard, by its efficiency alone, has worked itself out of the delegation. Nevertheless, it is charged by law with rendering assistance to vessels in distress and saving life and property as well as the enforcement of navigation laws.

Three or four naval officers are on the tentative list, with representatives of the Shipping Board, Commerce Department, State Department and private shipping concerns.

The chief items on the agenda of the convention will be collision regulations, subdivision of ships, life saving appliances, radio and fire extinguishing.

The Vestris was designed in 1912 and completed just before the adoption of safety rules set up by the first international convention. Shipping interests have generally fallen in line with these rules, but are profoundly interested in the second convention because, as the latest bulletin of the American Bureau of Shipping admits:

"This great calamity has had a depressing effect on the shipping business throughout the world and the present state of mind of the traveling public engendered by the loss of the Vestris will undoubtedly result in severe financial losses for some years to come."

As the size of ships increases, more and more attention is being given to life-saving equipment designed to enable passengers and crews to escape in case of disaster. The rules adopted at London provided for boats for all, with an understanding that as high as 25 per cent might be taken care of with life rafts. Since the development of radio, with which all passenger ships are now equipped, attention has been paid especially to the matter of keeping all hands safely afloat until aid reaches them, without much bother about facilities for extensive navigation.

The Senate Glass House

From the New York Times:

During the debate on the Kellogg peace treaty Senator Borah was quizzed about the various wars in which the United States had engaged. One of them was the war with Spain in 1898. If the treaty had then been in effect, would not this country have been compelled to arbitrate with Spain instead of fighting her? Senator Borah thought not; and had some rather severe things to say about the conduct of Spain which led our government to believe that it had a just cause of war. But last Monday Senator Borah rose to make a personal explanation. He said that he was sorry to learn that the Spanish people and the Spanish government had drawn "some erroneous impressions" from what he had said in debate. He begged to state that there had been no intention of reviving the question of responsibility for the blowing up of the Maine in the harbor of Havana, and that there had been no wish to impute anything offensive to Spain. He added that all Americans now desire to live on terms of cordial friendship with Spain and her people, from whom, he took occasion to assure them, we in this country have "the highest respect."

This graceful amende, or apology, whichever it may be called, was supported by Senator Johnson of California. He had been Senator Borah's cross-examiner in the debate, and declared that he had put his queries about the Spanish American War "in an academic sense entirely." This hardly appeared to be the case at the time, but even if it is an afterthought it is well thus to have it put on record. The incident itself is of no great importance, since these public explanations will doubtless prevent any further Spanish protests. But it shows once more how necessary it is for Senators to bear in mind today the need of extreme care in discussing foreign relations. These have almost become domestic relations, so closely is our country bound up today with the nations of Europe. What is said here goes instantly there. Of course, the obligation to refrain from ruffling the feelings of foreigners rests upon European public men as truly as upon ours, but we have had a tradition, until recent years, that it is just the thing for our politicians to utter harsh and insulting words about other peoples, who have been regarded as extraordinarily thin-skinned if they ever showed resentment. But this little affair of Senator Borah shows that times have changed, and that we are in no position recklessly to throw stones at our neighbors.

Love is a great thing, despite the fact it takes some people three or four marriages to obtain it.

Sometimes it looks as if Cupid, when he becomes out of sorts or discouraged, flips a few poison arrows.

Germany has her faults, but she doesn't take to chewing gum.

As a lawyer, Northcott seems to be a pretty fair shyster. At least, he has sold his clothes as one gesture and quizzed himself as another.

Standard oil declares a 50 per cent dividend, and the country is expected to believe the oil profits have been bad along with soft markets.

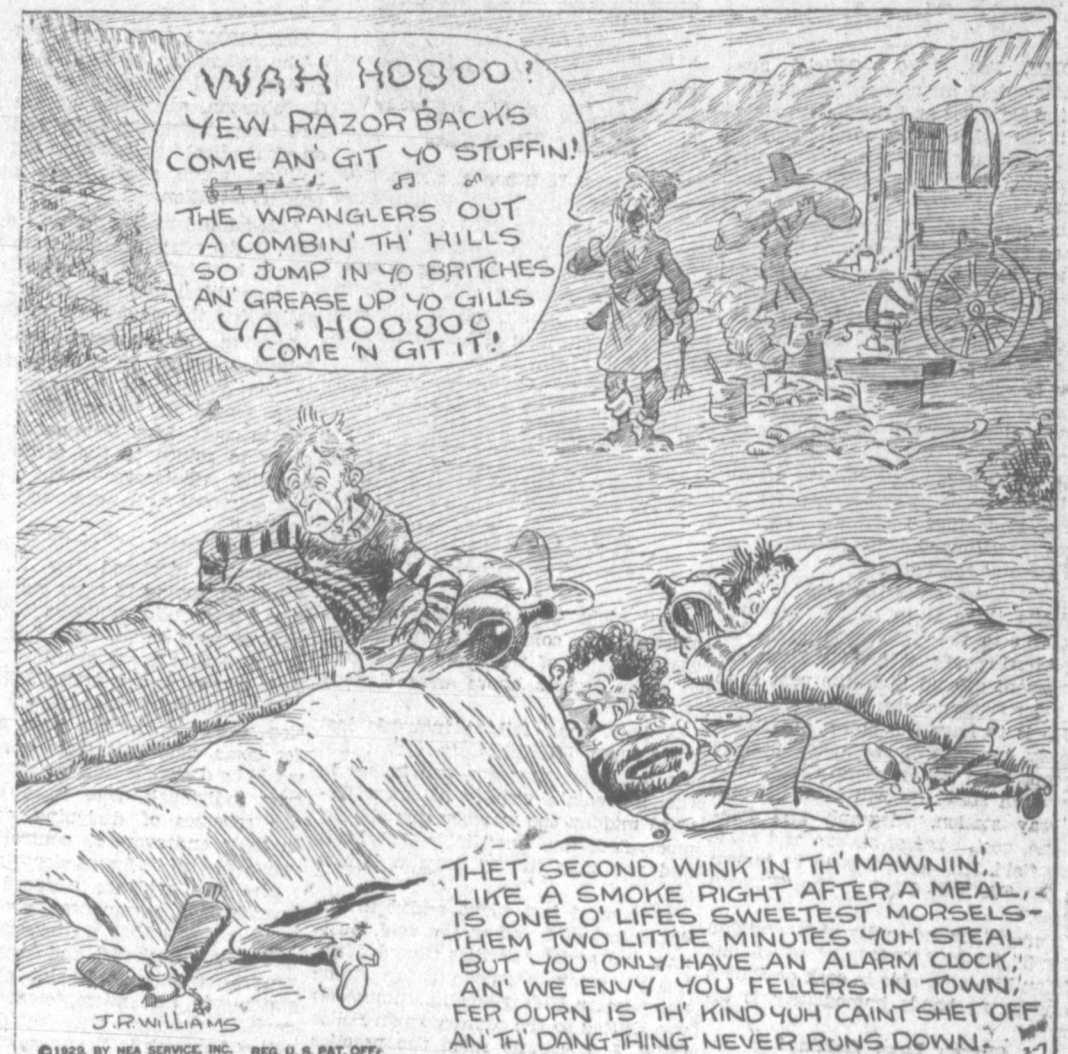

Owners of small boys probably will be glad when Pampa gets a municipal swimming pool to help keep the dirt dissolved away around the wrists and ears.

With talking movies coming, perhaps we will be spared the agony of hearing novices chanting the wise cracks.

Life is unreal. Novelists go to the country to visualize the comforts of the city, and vice versa.

Harvesters Will Meet Sandies at Amarillo Tonight

The Pampa Harvesters will meet the touted Amarillo Sandies on their home floor tonight at 8 o'clock. A return engagement will be played here Monday night.

Last season the Harvesters met the Sandies on the Amarillo court and defeated them 26 to 21. With gymnasium training and an improved offensive, the local squad is out to win another victory from the Amarillo quintet.

Friday night the Harvesters will entertain the Clarendon Junior college quintet. The boys from Clarendon won a close victory from the local team in the opening game of the season.

Tennis President Thinks Tilden to Be Reinstated

CHICAGO, Feb. 7. (AP)—Harry S. Walsh, newly elected president of the Western Tennis association, believes William "Big Bill" Tilden will be reinstated as an amateur in good standing by the United States lawn tennis association at its Boston meeting Saturday.

"I understand Tilden's case will be decided at the meeting and I honestly believe he will be reinstated," Walsh said. "Tilden has done a great deal for the game, but he has been a trouble maker, too. However, I think this time the question of his amateur status will be decided permanently."

Japanese Stands at Head Today in Billiard Play

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—Starting the second lap of the round robin tournament, Kinrey Matsuyama, Japanese, stood alone today at the head of the six contestants for the world's 18.2 ballline billiards championship. Matsuyama is the only one who has played two matches and won both. Behind him in the standing is young Jake Schaefer of Chicago, victorious in his only match.

The defending champion, Edouard Horemans of Belgium, and Welker Cochran, young Californian, are tied for third place with one victory and one defeat as the result of their meeting last night. Eric Hagenlacher, German entry, has lost his only match, while Felix Grange of France occupies the cellar position with two defeats.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—A new heavyweight invasion from Europe has started with the arrival of Riccardo Bertazzola of Italy. In size at least he is the most impressive of all recent battlers from overseas.

American "Umps" Are Meeting Today

CHICAGO, Feb. 7. (AP)—President E. S. Barnard of the American league called his 12 umpires together today for their annual "shop talk."

Nothing of importance was up for discussion except the finer points of the game, upon which Barnard is anxious to have all the arbiters agree. The staff is the same as last year except that Dan Darby of Boston will be replaced by George Moriarity, granted a leave of absence last season to manage the Detroit Tigers.

Estelline Defeats Oklahoma Five

Estelline's fast high school basketball team got revenge for their defeat at the hands of the Rush Springs, Okla., melon heavies here during the tournament, Monday night at home. The green jerseyed boys from Estelline took a 40 to 12 win.

The Estelline five were favorites in the tournament until the fast Rush Springs team upset the dope with a 23 to 22 win. The Oklahoma boys went home by way of Estelline and played there.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

A FEW MATTERS OF OPINION

The good people of Akron were aroused in civic wrath over the decision that gave Jack Sharkey the fight with their K. O. Christner. Some of them were aroused to the extent of writing to the editors about it.

One wrathful citizen referred to the fact that a Cleveland writer gave his decision to Christner and he remarked:

"I know this writer personally and I know that he is one big league sports writer that is not on the Madison Square Garden payroll. Those boys down east get a rake-off from the Garden and have to write what the management dictates. Say, I've been around myself and I know the boxing game from top to bottom. You can't kid me. Don't worry, I'm not going to ruin my eastern business connections by spilling any inside stuff."

"But I communicated with some of my friends down east. Yes, they were gamblers. They told me after the fight that Sharkey was instructed to stay on his feet and keep away from Christner and he would get the decision anyway."

Another citizen who saw the fight pounded out a letter to the editor in which he said:

"Of course, we all looked at the fight through Akron glasses and not at all from the same viewpoint of the New York sports writers, who I contend are in one way or another subsidized by Madison Square Garden interests."

TAKE THE FLOOR, COLONEL NEA recently carried a "Brushing Up Sports" by Werner Loughran in which he asked why Tommy Loughran was ignored in the heavyweight eliminations and expressed the opinion that Loughran could whip either Stribling or Sharkey.

Col. A. P. Watts, in charge of the regular army headquarters at Marion, Ill., disagreed and here's how:

"I have been a follower of boxing for the past 35 years and I have seen every champion, every contender and many of the would-be contenders. I have also been connected with boxing in more ways than one, yet I have never seen such ignorance displayed, either in words or writing, as the statement made below the picture of Tommy Loughran, or Tommy Logoran, as some of the high-hat Irish would have it.

OUT HE GOES FEET FIRST "The statements made by the cartoonist stamp him as being very partisan and blind to the records and facts. The records show that either Sharkey or Stribling can whip Loughran. In fact, Stribling has done it twice. I saw him do it once in San Francisco and I feel sure that the next time Loughran has the temerity to get into the ring with Stribling he will be carried out feet first.

"Just as a little proof how bad Loughran really is. Let me relate this story. I saw Loughran and Martin Burke fight a very close and an uninteresting bout to a draw in Chicago a little over 8 months ago. A year later Stribling knocked out Burke in 45 seconds and repeated the same dose a few months ago in a minute and 15 seconds.

Baskets and Bankboards

By FORREST C. (PHOG) ALLEN
(President National Association of Basketball Coaches)

Due to the development and interest in the two major games baseball and football offensive plays have long been standardized.

New style basketball is leaning, more than ever before, toward a standardized offense. In order to make the game more attractive, as well as to make goal-shooting more effective, many styles of offenses are in use today.

The three-man hard driving, the four-man quick breaking, the five-man shuttle guard, the delayed, and the straight-shall offenses, with their many variations, are the sum total of basketball offenses in use at present.

Three-man Hard Driving This is the general type of offense now in use in the state of Indiana, the mecca of basketball. This applies to the high school, the independent and the college teams of that section.

In this type of offense the rear or back guard seldom takes a shot for goal. The running or floor guard is the feeder only unless he happens to be a crack long shot artist and finds none of the three offensive men open for a pass. Generally this guard shoots a pass to one of the trio on offense and they in turn take up a hard, rapid drive for goal.

Four-man Quick Breaking This is the general type of offense that finds favor in the west—along the Pacific coast. It is the type mentioned in my last article.

In this offense the floor guard figures prominently in the play. He sometimes drives within 25 feet of the goal for a shot. This is a stronger offense than the three-man style, but it materially weakens the defense.

Five-man Shuttle Guard This offense employs either of the two guards in conjunction with the three front wall men. The guards work on a shuttle man. The rear guard and the running guard change places as the occasions demand. Always the guards work in the middle, not in the center of the court.

This style obtains in the Big Six conference and in the Missouri Valley region.

In both the three-man and the four-man offenses the guards work flat or laterally across the court. In the five-man shuttle guard offense they work longitudinally—one in front of the other, but back of the three front wall men, in all, forming a Y.

The flat stall offense made itself

Light Workouts Indulged in By Fight Principals

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7. (AP)—The battle over a referee was still on in full force today in the camps of the rivals in the projected battle at Miami Beach February 27.

Sharkey maintained his hard training yesterday, with a round of golf while a group of newspapermen and fans waited for him to show up at his training ring. The Boston gob evidently was in earnest in saying he would not engage in sparring matches until later in the month.

so unpopular with the spectators that it evolved into a more polite form of stalling—the delayed offensive. Now, when a team procures a small lead, late in the game, this style of offense is most popular in all sections of the country, with the possible exception of the far west.

The flat stall is utterly devoid of action. It is purely a defensive mechanism. The delayed offensive resembles the flat-stall. But it only lurks for an opportunity to put the play on by means of a quick thrust brought about by a floor bounce, a pass or a dribble for goal.

"I sure was right —
I lit a Lucky"

"So many people have made a fuss over me because in rowing back to the 'America,' after we had picked up the 'Florida' survivors, I was smoking a Lucky Strike. I can't see why there should be any excitement about this—it was the natural thing for me to do. Before we started out from the 'America' I made sure that my pack of Luckies was with me—I wanted the comfort and pleasure of Luckies no matter what happened. I sure was right. I'll have to admit that after we picked up the 'Florida' crew and started back, my nerves were completely let down. So I did the thing I always do at such times—I lit a Lucky. As long as I live, I'll never get another kick as I did from the sweet old toasted flavor of that Lucky as we were tossing about on the old Atlantic. I'm a hundred percent when it comes to 'reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.' I lay off the things that would make me flabby and light up a Lucky instead. There's too much action going on in my life to have me moving around with a lot of excess weight which I don't need. There's another thing about Luckies. The toasting process, in removing the impurities, is a blessing to us who follow the sea. It prevents throat irritation which is a constant nuisance to those who are regularly exposed to salt air."

TEMPER TANTRUMS

By Alice Peale

In dealing with the youngster who has temper tantrums two things must be kept in mind, the first is that the child should never get what he wants by indulging in a tantrum, the second that it is important to find the underlying causes of such behavior.

When a child has a tantrum the best treatment is to put him in a room by himself and shut the door. This should be done in a cool, unemotional manner and no notice of his existence should be taken until he has regained his self control. He should understand that he can come out of his room as soon as he is quiet. Then the whole situation can either be thrashed out or ignored, whichever seems best.

When it is obvious that the cause of the tantrum is simply the frustration of an unreasonable wish, meeting the difficulty in the manner suggested above will quickly discourage further indulgences.

But when back of the immediate cause there is a reason of deeper emotional significance, every effort should be made to gain a better understanding so that the child will not be driven to such unhappy demonstrations.

Some of the underlying causes for temper tantrums are overstimulation, fatigue, too much correction, insufficient opportunity for free and noisy play, jealousy, lack of parental love and a sense of security. A child who is suffering from one or more of these is likely to explode at the end of an especially trying day. Although even such a temper tantrum should never achieve its immediate ends, the parent should feel that the full responsibility for such behavior is his rather than the child's.

OIL NEWS and NOTES

Sedgwick County Well Is Flowing

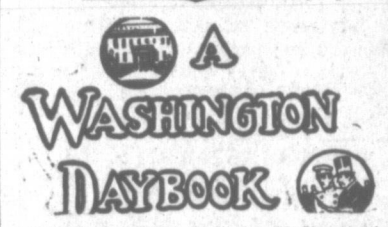

WICHITA, Kas., Feb. 7. (AP)—After being drilled a foot deeper into the Wilcox sand, Hays & Reynolds well now is flowing at the rate of 2 barrels an hour. The well, now bottomed at 3,394 feet, is in the SW NW NE of 7-26-1 east, Sedgwick county.

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 7. (AP)—Braman pool of northern Kay county, opened in July, 1924, has produced up to January 1, 1929, 14,475,773 barrels of high gravity crude oil valued at approximately $30,666,478. It is estimated that two thirds of this pool's output was sold at $2.50 per barrel while the remainder sold for around $1.50 per barrel. Comar Oil company produced 12,475,773 barrels of Braman field's output, of which 5,922,262 barrels was from the Braman townsite pool and 6,553,511.35 barrels was from the pool north of town.

School Tax Paying Time Limit Pushed Forward to Feb. 15

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—If dignity is lacking in other departments of the national government, its more than made up for in the supreme court of the United States.

Certainly here is a branch of government set apart. One feels instinctively that in this semi-circular hall with low-domed ceiling and screen of Ionic marble columns is a place untouched. There is an atmosphere here not to be found in any other place of the national capital.

"Silence is requested." This printed request is handed the visitor who desires to observe the court in session.

But it is not necessary. It simply does not occur to one to speak above a whisper while in the chamber.

From the spectator's standpoint perhaps the opening of the court holds greatest interest.

Promptly at 12 o'clock noon the marshal raps his gavel. In an instant every person in the chamber is on his feet. A door to the left opens and a bulky person clad in a flowing black robe is seen. It is the chief justice, William Howard Taft.

The deathlike silence is broken by the solemn chanting of the marshal: "The honorable chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court of the United States."

The chief justice and his seven associates in single file make their way to the bench. Again is heard the marshal's voice calling the familiar "Oyez, oyez—" and the court is in session.

AMUSEMENTS Colleen's Good

There is certainly nothing synthetic about the entertainment offered in "Synthetic Sin," Colleen Moore's newest comedy, which opened last night at the Rex theatre on a two-day run.

On the contrary, it is decidedly of the 100-proof variety, as the mirth of a large audience clearly indicated at the first local showing.

A clever story, an excellent cast and Colleen's bubbling personality have been woven into a picture that ranks among the most humorously entertaining films to be seen in months: "Synthetic Sin" is a triple triumph for saucy Colleen as the star, William A. Seiter as the director, and Frederic and Fanny Hatton, authors of the play from which the picture was taken.

The characterization in which Miss Moore appears is perfectly suited to her ability and personality, her role being that of an innocent Southern girl who masquerades as a disillusioned woman of the world in order to obtain experience that will suit her for a career as a dramatic actress. The story follows the adventures of this synthetic little sinner in New York's underworld, where she becomes involved in both romance and hilarious melodrama that carry this interesting story to a whirlwind finish.

Possibly the most amusing of many laughable sequences is one in which Colleen's apartment is invaded by thugs and gunmen in the midst of a gang war. Believing her friends have played a joke on her, Colleen refuses to take the desperate characters seriously, and treats them with the most amusing lack of respect, despite their weapons and threats.

Movie Players Are Coming to Crescent

A bit of Hollywood will be transplanted to the stage at the Crescent theatre Saturday with the appearance of three stars in an act they call "Making Movies."

Featured in the act are Charlie Dorety, a star of the Ike and Mike comedies; his wife, who is known in the movies as Joyce Mae; and "Fatty" Laymon, Universal comedian.

Laymon has always been fat, weighing 275 pounds when he was 15 years old.

"I never eat more than Dorety, but look at the difference in us," he says.

Dorety is the dapper, mustached young man who plays Ike in the Ike and Mike team of picture comedies. He gets his main suggestions from children, he declares, because they are naturally funny.

The trio will appear in matinee and two evening performances.

WARN AGAINST SPECULATION
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. (AP)—Notice has been served by the federal reserve board that it intends to restrain the use of federal reserve credit for speculative purposes.

After a conference yesterday between board officials, a statement was issued which called attention to the growth of speculative credit, the loss by the country of some $500,000,000 in gold and advances in the cost of credit for commercial uses.

That the restraint might take the form of denying rediscount privileges to member banks which present paper representing speculative loans for rediscount was indicated.

Today's reaction was the sharpest since the break early in December, and involved practically all active issues. General Electric broke 17 points, Wright Aeronautical 16, Radio 14, Johns Manville 11, Simmons company 10 and such recent favorites as Bethlehem Steel, International Telephone, Curtiss, Union Pacific, Advance Rummy preferred, Chrysler, International Combustion, Warner Bros. Pictures, Nash Motors, Vanadium Steel, Greene Cananea Copper, American Metals, Victor Talking Machine and Kennecott fell back 5 to 10 points.

Strong buying support made its appearance before the end of the first hour, and some impressive recoveries took place. General Electric quickly regained 11 1-2 points of its loss and U. S. Steel and some of the other industrial leaders rallied 2 points or more.
