Fate of Mazatlan Now Matter of Short Period

NOGALES, Ariz., March 23. (P)—General Augustino Olachea, former commander of federal troops at Naco Sonora, narrowly escaped capture when rebels seized an airplane and its American pilot at La Noria, Sonora, this afternoon, it was announced at rebel headquarters at Nogales, Sonora.

The former rebel leader, who had declared himself and his troops for the federal government at Naco, had landed about 200 yards below the international line and escaped across the border when a rebel cavalry detachment came on the plane, the Nogales announcement said. The American was shield prisoner.

NAO, Ariz., March 23. (P)—General Augustino Olachea, second in command of federal troops at Naco, Sonora, just across the border, denied the rebel report from Nogales that he had been captured at La Noria this afternoon.

General Olachea said he had not been flying today. He admitted, however, that "Buz" Morrison, Reno, Nev., aviator employed by the federals at Naco, had not returned from a scouting flight today.

RENO, Nev., March 23. (P)—"Buz" Morrison reported missing after a flight in Sonora, Mexico, in the interests of the Mexican federal government, is the son of Dr. S. G. Morrison of this city.

Is 24 Years Old Morrison, 24, has been flying about 2 years. He is a graduate from the flying school at the municipal airport at St. Louis and piloted his ship here after his instruction.

TORREON, Coahuila, Mexico, March 23. (P)—The towering hills overlooking Torreon and the fertile cotton valley today surrounded intense military activity such as had not been seen since years ago when Pancho Villa and Alvaro Obregon battled for supremacy in this strategic region.

Troops were pouring out of the city in two directions for a dual drive against the rebels. One column turned northward, into Chihuahua to force the insurgents back into Northern Sonora and the other went southward toward Zapata, Guajuato, thence to turn westward and finally north to force those rebels up the west coast. It was hoped to close in on the insurgents in Sonora from North and south and deal the final blow to the rebellion.

Gray county has enjoyed two weeks of especially active oil development, climaxed by gusher production in hitherto unproven territory. Other tests now on top of pay will be drilled in within a fortnight, and should wipe out the best of 2,250 barrels per day that Hutchinson county has over Gray.

Of great interest was the Operators Oil company's No. 3 Jackson, in section 88, block B-2, an offset to the Texas company's wonder well. The new producer came in for 4,600 barrels a day. Total depth of the new test is 2,945 feet.

GRAY'S CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION IS GREATER

Due to a gusher in Gray county, the Panhandle daily production report for the last week showed a gain of 1,555 barrels. Moore was the other Panhandle county to show a gain.

With the bringing in of the Operators Oil company's No. 3 Jackson, in section 88, block B-2, Bowers-McCree pool, Gray county's daily production increased 1,747 barrels. Other wells in the county dropped or the home county's production would have increased more. Gray county's daily production last week was only 2,250 barrels below Hutchinson county.

The other well brought in last week was the Marland Production company's No. 1 Finley-Brown, in section 32, block B-2, H. & G. N. survey. The test came in Thursday afternoon, making 150 barrels an hour, initial flow.

Daily production by counties:

Carson: 5,895 barrels, a loss of 124 barrels.

Gray: 23,810 barrels, a gain of 1,747 barrels.

Hutchinson: 26,080 barrels, a loss of 118 barrels.

Moore: 1,485 barrels, a gain of 130 barrels.

Potter: 20 barrels.

Wheeler: 575 barrels, a loss of 30 barrels.

Total: 57,845 barrels, a gain of 1,555 barrels.

Reid Calls Meeting of Highway Body

A meeting of the Oilfield highway association No. 41 at Sayre, Okla., April 30 has been called by F. P. Reid, organization president. Arrangements for the session are being handled by Mr. Reid and by W. H. Eldridge of Sayre, the secretary.

Mr. Reid said last night that all the markers for the new highway in the confines of Gray county have been placed. He asks the cooperation of the public in protecting these markers from defacement.

THREE MEXICAN FLIERS ESCORTED TO BORDER

LAREDO, March 23. (P)—After a brief halt here for fuel, three armed bombing planes, purchased by the Mexican government in the United States, took off late today for an unannounced destination in Mexico, presumably Monterey. The ships were flown here from New York by three Mexican government pilots.

United States army pilots from Kelly Field, San Antonio, escorted the planes here today.

The Mexican pilots are Col. S. C. Rojas, Lieut. Rodolfo Torres and Lieut. Raul Ascarate.

Six other similar ships have been purchased by the Mexican government for use against the revolutionists.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Behrends spent Friday in Amarillo.

BRITISH RUM SHIP IS SUNK BY U. S. BOATS

Coast Guard Gunfire Sends Imalone to Bottom

REFUSED ORDERS TO 'HEAVE TO'

Investigation Awaits the Arrival of Her Crew

NEW ORLEANS, March 23. (P)—Federal authorities here awaited tonight the arrival of the coast guard cutter, Dexter, to start an investigation into the sinking, by coast guard gunfire, of the British schooner, Imalone, smuggling suspect, near Stagsbee deep in the Gulf of Mexico.

The ship went down in one of the deepest spots in the gulf, 200 miles from the Louisiana coast and 150 miles from Yucatan. Reports said it sank, while some officials here were inclined to believe it was only partly submerged from the drilling of the three-pounders.

The Imalone was reported to have left Belize, Honduras, on March 12, with a cargo of liquor ostensibly bound for Bermuda. On March 21 the cutter, Walcott, reported her 500 miles off her course near Trinity Shoals, eight miles from the Louisiana coast.

The Walcott took up pursuit and three other cutters the Dexter, Fort

DETROIT, March 23. (P)—Earl Roberts, a customs border patrol inspector, was shot and wounded probably fatally by rum runners whom he accosted as they were beaching their boat at Algona on the St. Clair river north of here late tonight.

Roberts had stepped aboard the rum runner's craft. He pitched forward into the river without stopping, carrying the wounded officer with him, said W. J. Stontmeyer, deputy collector of customs, who was with Roberts.

All available speed boats were pressed into service to search the St. Clair river and Lake St. Clair for the rum runners.

ward, and Dallas were sent to join in the chase with orders to use "all possible resources" to stop the schooner.

Reports to the coast guard said the schooner ignored a challenge from the Walcott to heave to and started to run for it in the direction of Mexico. In previous encounters, coast guard officials said, the schooner, by her amazing speed, had left pursuing craft behind, but this time the cutters with engines throbbing under full pressure, were able to keep along side.

They raced madly toward the deep waters of the gulf until one sent a shell from a three-pounder through the rigging. The schooner answered the shot with another burst of speed, the reports said, and the commander of one of the cutters sent a signal that if the schooner did not stop they would sink her.

The skipper of the schooner paid no attention until one of the cutters fired a shell into the Imalone's side. Then the crew scrambled for lifeboats and in the rush a negro seaman went overboard and was drowned. The crew later were picked up from the boats, the negro's body recovered and the voyage for New Orleans begun.

REVOLUTIONISTS WISH U. S. STRICT NEUTRALITY

EL PASO, March 23. (P)—An appeal for a policy of strict neutrality toward the Mexican revolution will be made to the United States government by a rebel diplomatic commission which tonight was on its way to Washington.

The commission, headed by Gerzayan Ugarte, secretary to the former President Venustiano Carranza, intends to make its plea to President Hoover.

SCHOOLS TO HELP IN CLEAN-UP WORK DURING THIS WEEK

Public schools of Pampa will have a large part in the inauguration of the clean-up campaign here this week. Mayor Osborne has proclaimed the period of March 25-30 for this special clean-up effort.

The purpose and plan of the campaign will be explained to parents through letters from the children. The students of Central high will write essays on the general subject.

During one day this week, pupils likely will be dismissed before their final period in order that they may assist their parents.

The high school P.-T. A. has been planning work in connection with the drive, and cooperation of the schools was given by Supt. R. C. Campbell and Prof. R. B. Fisher

PAMPA IN LINE OF AIR TRAVEL

Western Air Express Wants Field at Pampa

KANSAS CITY, March 23. (P)—Arrangements for a dawn-to-dusk airline between Kansas City and Los Angeles were completed today at a conference between Silas A. Morehouse of the Western Air Express and Kansas City officials.

Although no schedule has been arranged, it is planned to begin operations by May 1. Morehouse stated. He said three tri-motored planes would be sent each way daily, changes of pilots and planes to be made at Amarillo, Texas, and either Albuquerque, N. M., or Holbrook, Ariz. Time required for the trip would be about 12 hours, it was estimated.

(This route will be directly over Pampa, and a representative of the Western Air Express was here a few days ago looking for a suitable emergency landing field. The present field is not suitable, because, according to the prevailing wind direction, planes have to take off directly over the city—a dangerous practice.)

Teagle Denies Idea of World Oil Plan

NEW YORK, March 23. (P)—W. C. Teagle, president of the Stanford Oil company of New Jersey, said today that the sole purpose of discussions among petroleum leaders of the western hemisphere concerning restriction of production is to limit waste through uneconomic production.

His statement followed the London Daily Mail's declaration that the world's oil "kings" expected to make arrangements at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute here next week to enable them to control the output and price of gasoline throughout the world.

STOCKMEN WILL PROTEST HIGHER FREIGHT RATES

KANSAS CITY, March 23. (P)—Stockmen and representatives of livestock marketing centers in the Missouri Valley and the Southwest Monday will appear at an interstate commerce commission hearing here to protest a blanket increase in freight rates on east-bound shipments of cattle.

The increase of 3 1-2 cents per hundred pounds on livestock eastbound, originating west of the Mississippi, was to have become effective March 10 but was suspended pending the hearing.

SANDINO FOLLOWERS FLEE TEGUIGALPA, HONDURAS

TEGUIGALPA, Honduras, March 23. (P)—A band of more than 100 followers of Augustino Sandino today entered the Honduran village of Tegucigalpa, near the Nicaraguan border. They were fleeing from American airplanes attempting to locate them.

HIGHWAY BOND PLAN WILL BE POLITICS ISSUE

Ross Sterling May Be Next Candidate for Governor

SAYS HE HASN'T BEGUN TO FIGHT

Lynch Davidson Is Equally as Much Opposed

By R. W. BARRY, Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUSTIN, March 23. (P)—Texans seem to be in for what may develop into an extraordinary campaign over the proposition of issuing state bonds in an effort to obtain a connected system of state highways. The pro and con sides are apt to be pretty evenly balanced and "the people" imperturbed by a flood of arguments for and against the innovation.

Action of the recent legislature in refusing to submit the constitutional amendment, under which authority to issue state securities would be delegated to the law-making body, served only to add fuel to the flames.

R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the highway commission, who initiated a campaign to build state highways with proceeds from a bond issue some months before the legislature met, has stated that he has "just begun to fight."

This might be taken to mean that Mr. Sterling will become a candidate for governor early next year so that he might better advocate his plan.

Whether he becomes a candidate for not, the bond issue suggestion is almost certain to be one of the principal planks in somebody's gubernatorial platform.

This surmise brings to the surface the activities of Lynch Davidson of Houston, former lieutenant-governor, one of the most uncompromising opponents of the state-wide bond issue.

Mr. Davidson has had an ambition to serve as governor. He was a candidate four years ago and again two years later.

This speculation brings Lieut. Gov. Harry Miller into the picture. He is regarded as a sure entrant in the gubernatorial marathon next year, and if he has any decided views as to whether Texas should or should not issue bonds for building highways, he has not paraded them in public.

MINE EXPLOSION THEORY ADVANCED AND DENIED

CLEVELAND, March 23. (P)—Belief that the explosion at the Valley Camp Coal company mine at Parnassus, Pa., Thursday, which killed 46 miners and trapped 300 others, was caused by a bomb planted at the foot of the conveyor in the tangle was expressed tonight by James A. Paisley, Cleveland, president of the company.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 23. (P)—R. B. Curry, rescue engineer of the United States bureau of mines, Joseph Arkwright, general superintendent of the Kinloch mine, and District Attorney John R. Keister tonight said they had found no evidence that a bomb caused the Kinloch mine disaster.

TERRELL SCHOLL BEATEN IN ACADEMY FINALS

MADISON, Wis., March 23. (P)—Cook academy of Mount Pleasant, N. Y., won the national academy basketball title here tonight by defeating Terrell prep of Dallas, Texas, 28 to 21 in the final game.

Third place was taken by Marquette (N. Y.) school, which won from St. Johns, of Delafield, Wis., 25 to 12.

VERDUN HERO DIES

PARIS, March 23. (P)—Death for the second time in three days has depleted the ranks of the World war heroes of France. Gen. Maurice Emmanuel Sarraill, 72, who won the military medal for his courage and tenacity in holding Verdun, died quietly today with his wife at his bedside.

Next week will be devoted to criminal cases.

Clean-Up Week Starts Tomorrow

Clean-up week in Pampa starts tomorrow morning and if there is no cooperation of the citizens the campaign to make Pampa cleaner will be a failure. City Manager F. M. Gwir declares. He says that when Mayor Dave Osborne issued the proclamation for a clean-up week, he remarked that spring had arrived and that he wanted Pampa to be neat looking so that visitors and tourists would remember Pampa as the cleanest city in the Panhandle.

"It is the duty of every resident of Pampa to clear his or her yard of weeds, rubbish, and refuse," the city manager said last night.

MANY SCOUTS DROWN WHILE RESCUE COMES

Total of Deaths Is About 35 Reports Indicate

MORE STORMS ADD TO PERILS

Harriman, Tenn. Swept by Sudden Rise of Emery River

ATLANTA, March 23. (P)—Tornadoes, rainstorms, and fresh floods which whipped the South from Louisiana to Virginia this week-end tonight had claimed at least 35 lives. Five were missing and probably were swept to their death.

The chief of police at Harriman, Tenn., told the Associated Press tonight that 20 persons were drowned in swollen Emery river, which covered the city to a depth of 30 feet with its churning mountain water.

White creek, near Rockwood, Tenn., caught a party of 21 Boy Scouts on the roof of a camping-bungalow today and swept eight of them downstream before rescuers could reach them with boats. Three bodies were recovered, five were missing, and 13 were rescued.

Communities Isolated Many Tennessee communities were isolated tonight, as the waters of mountain streams receded after folding the countryside. Rainstorms over the week-end brought the deluge of flood waters through gorge-like Piedmont river channels.

Three negroes were killed by a tornado at Harrison, Miss., and two negroes met death in a similar disturbance at Plains, Ga., today. Tornadoes yesterday took the lives of five negro children, in a church used for a school at Merrellton, Ala., and killed a white child at Small Creek, N. C. A farmer was struck dead by lightning at Alpharetta, Ga.

The week-end disturbances came just as rehabilitation of 23,000 homeless had got a good start among flood-ravaged areas of Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, and Georgia. The rainstorms added Kentucky and Eastern Tennessee to the flood-ridden southern list.

Many Factories Wrecked Five large plants, including an ice plant and woolen mill, "were wiped away," the police chief said. Sixty-eight homes were swept off their foundations, some floating away with the creek.

Box cars swept through low lying streets or floated about railroad yards changed suddenly to lakes. More than 30 feet of water swept through the factory section, the chief reported.

The water started pouring into town about 3 a. m., and within three hours reached its crest. There was no warning. Most of the residents were asleep and awakened only by cries of neighbors or water pounding against their homes.

QUINCY, Ill., March 23. (P)—New trouble loomed in the flood-swept districts around Quincy tonight when the main Mississippi river levee of the Gregory drainage district started to slip. A hurry call was sent to Keokuk, Iowa, bringing additional workers and a boat load of sandbags to carry on against the encroaching waters.

NEW YORK, March 23. (P)—Organization of a $5,000,000 Southern Dairy Products company was announced today by J. C. Penny, founder and chairman of the nationwide chain store corporation that bears his name. The Southern company is to be known as Foremost Dairy Products, Inc.

Although operations will be confined at first to the South, the business later is expected to extend to other sections.

The company will be publicly financed. The capital structure will consist of $1,475,250 purchase money obligations, 500,000 shares of convertible preference stock, of which 125,000 shares will be outstanding and 1,000,000 shares of common stock, of which 250,000 shares will be outstanding.

Dairy farming has been a hobby with Mr. Penny, who at the town of Penny farms, near Jacksonville, Fla. is developing 120,000 acres on a cooperative basis with resident farmers. For the last five years he has been a breeder of prize winning purebred Guernsey cattle.

"It's Like This—"

CLEAN-UP EFFORTS are highly desirable. To be effective, they must inculcate in the general citizenship the ability "to see ourselves as others see us."

Vacant lots and back yards are notorious offenders. Few cities have impressive views from the vantage points afforded by incoming passenger trains.

The average visitor, however, overlooks these outlying evils, although he cannot forgive general unsightliness in the city proper.

No campaign of one week can more than reach a temporary goal, as, in the present instance, in preparation for approaching conventions.

The campaign for cleanliness, therefore, should be continued through the year, with renewed emphasis from time to time. Moreover, cleanliness is largely attractive in a negative fashion—ugliness is merely absent.

Let's work for a cleaner, greener-looking Pampa.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—At a time when the Democratic party is commonly supposed to have surrendered its ancient tariff position and the tariff boosters are again confident of another general boost, Cordell Hull has begun beating the drum to reassemble his forces and prove that the Republican and Democratic tariff positions remain fundamentally different.

His task will be very difficult. Too many Democratic congressmen now have industries in their districts which are clamoring for protection and are willing to trade with high protectionist Republicans. Hull merely hopes that a majority of Democrats will be found fighting the tariff bill which his being framed by Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee.

Hull rises to leadership in a fight which no other Democratic leader has undertaken.

There is something inspirational in the spectacle of this quiet, unassuming and altogether statesmanlike congressman from Tennessee as he works for the cause that seems hopeless. He remarked to this writer the other day that he had averaged several hours a day studying tariff problems for the last 20 years and still didn't know very much about it.

not mathematicians, the application of the law has been simplified, so that the ordinary retailer can use it. In this connection, one of the most significant discoveries in this study is the close relationship between newspaper circulation and the retail influence of leading stores.

"Such a tariff bill as we expect would challenge other nations to make reprisals," he says: "These seekers after higher duties want to plug up all holes in the tariff wall and raise it higher so that they may raise prices. Our surplus would become more menacing than ever."

"Whenever you shut off an import you shut off an export. For the time being we can loan money abroad and so keep up our exports, but we can't go on piling up those loans forever."

"Present tariff rates have already given us an embargo on nearly everything. Our imports are more than four billion dollars, most of which consists of noncompetitive raw materials and less than 10 per cent of which is directly competitive. Foreign competition in the home market is very slight."

"Of 356,000,000 acres planted in 1927, some 339,000,000 comprise staple crops that experience purely nominal or no tariff benefits, but only tariff penalties. These include corn, cotton, tobacco, wheat, hay, rye, oats, buckwheat and barley, and here is where the farmer's capital is invested. I have offered to pay $500 to any charity if any impartial group of unbiased economists to be selected should not find that the tariff injuries as a

It is rather singular, but airplanes seem to have about as much trouble finding parking spaces as do cars. Bandits are getting so active that we suppose more publicity will have to be given the "dead or alive" rewards. Or perhaps turn a few of the robbers over to those very thorough Dallas juries.

Heard: That someone saw the only movable portion of our navigable streams navigating down Pampa streets.

Since Washington diplomats from abroad will be allowed their liquor, the rage over anything foreign will probably wax stronger than ever around the capital.

From the standpoint of our American pride in record holding, we ought to do something about this very capable Mr. Segrave of England. Personally, however, we will limit our participation in any action to that of an advisory capacity.

The big English race is over and the Mexican revolution and the impeachment of Oklahoma's new governor are about the only hang-fire proposition left.

DR. WILLIAM J. REILLY of Texas university has a theory of retail trade which may be of interest to many merchants. It is not new, perhaps, but few have attempted to reduce it to a law of economics. "In its simplest terms," Dr. Reilly says, "the law may be expressed as follows: Under normal conditions, two cities draw retail trade from a smaller intermediate city or town in direct proportion to some power of the population of these two larger cities and in an inverse proportion to some power of the distance of each of the larger cities from the smaller intermediate city. In any particular case, the coefficients used in connection with population or distance are dependent upon the particular combination of retail circumstances involved in that case. Typically, however, two cities draw trade from a smaller intermediate city or town approximately in proportion to the first power of the population of these two larger cities and in an inverse proportion to the square of the distance of the larger cities from the smaller intermediate city. "Since the calculation of the appropriate coefficient in any particular case is a complicated problem in mathematics, and since the retailers who will use this law are, as a rule,

HARVESTERS BEAT OUT AMARILLO IN TRACK MEET, 68-64

Event Uncertain Until Mile Relay Won by Walstad

Combating two sandstorms at the same time, with Berger and Canyon high school men adding to the competition, the Harvesters of Pampa Central high took the Invitational track and field meet here Saturday by knocking out Amarillo's Golden Sandies, 68 to 64 points. Berger finished third with 14 points and Canyon high was last, with 6 points.

Walstad opened the event with brilliant victory in the 120-yard high hurdles, and finished not less conspicuously by coming from behind in the last lap to win the mile relay and the meet. He was high point man of the event with 54 1-4 points, and Willis turned in some fine performances to take second with 11 1-2. VanNoy, Amarillo sprinter, stood third with his 11 3-4 tallies. The Harvester giant, Stalls, was a close fourth with 10 1-2.

Although the sandstorm of the elements cut down the marks, there was a mighty battle as Amarillo and Pampa mustered their strength and kept within a few points of each other at all times. The local boys were enjoying a 10-point lead two events before the finale, but the Amarillo javelin tossers took both first and second places while the best Clinger could do was to hold Pampa's slender lead to 3 points.

Lard gave Pampa a good lead in the first lap of the relay, but Skeet Roberts dropped a few yards behind his man Perry Morgan ran a good quarter to hold the position and it took Walstad's great spurt and final stamina to break the tape and send the small but enthusiastic crowd into demonstrations of joy.

James passed four men in the last lap of the 800-yard run to win by 4 yards. Willis turned in a surprising performance in which a leap of 19 feet 5 inches was the high point.

The century was run in two heats and places assigned by stop-watch. Lee of Berger was pressed by Morgan of the local squad in the 440-event. Canyon, with only three entrants, took a small part in the meet but Covington swept over the course of the mile run. James tried to increase his stride but could not overcome the leads of Covington and Hiccox of Amarillo.

The coaches found many elements of interest in the performances of their squads, not only of the winners, but in the younger lads who need only experience.

COURT CLOWN TURNS HERO

Because he was taller than his playmates, 'Stretch' Murphy clowning his way about the floor in his early high school days. Later on he took his work seriously and has become one of the best shots in basketball.

MARION, Ind. (AP)—They laughed at 'Stretch' Murphy the first time he stepped upon a basketball court. But this year he scored 143 points in Big Ten competition, nine more than ever made before by a single player.

Murphy doesn't owe his success to a home study course, but to the very thing which brought laughter in Marion a few years ago—his height. Ralph Gilbert, high school coach, saw that 'Stretch' could easily out-jump his classmates, and decided to develop him. He put Murphy in the pivot position on the second team, and kept him there for two years. 'Stretch' outgrew his awkwardness and learned to play fast basketball.

Gene Thomas, former Indiana University star, took over the Marion coaching job, and continued the work which Gilbert had started. Murphy became a dead shot, and experience made him tireless. In 1926, he reached the peak of his high school career by playing center on the team which won the state championship. Purdue university got him. As a freshman he was six feet, six inches tall, but weighed only 158 pounds. He played on the freshman five in 1927. Good coaching and natural growth have increased his weight to 180 pounds.

For two seasons he has been tossing the ball through the basket with surprising regularity. In his last game this year, when Purdue points.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates snatched an airtight exhibition game here today from the San Francisco Missions, winning 1 to 0 with a ninth-inning rally.

taken on the aspect of a chase and federal leaders, although fully prepared for any emergency, believe the rebels will continue to flee, rather than face overwhelming numbers.

The Pacific coast drive presents some what different characteristics since insurgents in that section have not been tested by serious federal resistance. They have been allowed to advance down the coast from Sonora to the very gates of the port city of Mazatlan while the government concentrated its attention on the northern campaign.

Now, since the rebel movement in the north seems to the federal officers to have become a rebel debacle, they are determined to bring such force to bear as will hasten a retreat. The fight, if any, is expected in Sonora, and the government is confident that it will deliver the final blow there.

NEW YORK, March 23. (AP)—Police today prevented the burial of the body of an apparently well-to-do woman at Forest Hills, Queens, when it was found her death had not been reported to the board of health.

Miss Whitehead's sister, Mrs. M. Fendren, is en route from San Antonio, Texas, to claim the body.

Miss Whitehead, 33, came to Forest Hills five years ago and took possession of an imposing house, the expense of which, the police say, was borne by a Texas oil magnate, much her senior, who had put her through school.

About New York

By RICHARD Q. MASSOCK
NEW YORK—Greenwich Village, long the workshop and playground of the intelligentsia, at last is to have an official meeting place for the big minds of Bohemia and allied spirits.

That is its name—The Meeting Place—and it will be over a restaurant where people-who-do-things have been wont to dine and talk. Some 200 artists, writers, musicians and kindred souls are banding themselves together in the club. They include Theodore Dreiser, Sinclair Lewis and his wife, Dorothy Thompson; Dudley Fields Malone, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, James Weldon Johnson, the negro leader; Deems Taylor, composer of "The King's Henchman"; Norma Milly, the poet; Rockwell Kent, Floyd Dell, William McFee, Heywood Brown, Inez Haynes Brown, and others more or less prominent.

The club will meet informally—oh, very informally. Charles Boni, the publisher, announces. Members will be able to visit the quarters at almost any hour and find congenial folk with whom to talk.

Lee Chumley, who runs the restaurant underneath the Meeting Place, for some time has been host to many of these people. Book jackets bearing the names of author-guests form a frieze around the walls. Diners have been undisturbed by tourists and curious visitors from uptown, for the place never has entered to that sort of trade. Wedged in the midst of a residential block it has no sign to distinguish it.

An understudy, whose task is no trivial chore is Gale Songgaard. For some weeks she has been letter-perfect in the lines of Nina, principal character in "Strange Interlude" but without expecting seriously ever to be called upon to play the role. "Strange Interlude," if you don't happen to know, is that Eugene O'Neill play which runs from 7:15 in the afternoon on until 11 o'clock, with an hour intermission at 7 for dinner.

A few days ago Judith Anderson, to whom Miss Songgaard is understudy, fell ill with the "flu" and Gale was pressed into the role on short notice. She played for a week and many patrons, noting her name on the program, assumed that she was merely another Nina in a role already played by Lynn Fontanne and Miss Anderson in New York and by Pauline Lord on the road.

Gale has played leads in a Theatre Guild repertory troupe on the road for some months, and when she returned to New York she learned that Nina was partly on her own initiative. Until she mastered it there was no understudy, and the play would have had to miss its performances if Miss Anderson had been indisposed. Miss Fontanne never has an understudy in the part, and Miss Lord has none on the road—partly because it is the heaviest role, both in the amount of dialog and in the actual on-stage time, ever written into a play by an American author.

A Sermon For The Week

The Greatest Of All Good

By BISHOP WARREN A. CANDLER
(Emory University, Atlanta)

And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love.—1 Corinthians 13:13.

A great preacher said: "No man can afford to invest his being in anything lower than faith, hope, love—these three, the greatest of which is love." So said St. Paul also.

Love is the most god-like thing possible to man; for 'God is love', and he who loves most is divine in character.

Love is the very life of the soul, and lovelessness is lifelessness. "Thou wilt not love to live unless thou live to love" (Spencer).

The loftiest love is the love of God, which vitalizes and fertilizes all other loves.

Love is superior to all other gifts, even spiritual gifts imparted by the Holy Spirit (1 Corinthians 12:31).

Love is more than knowledge. "The love to know is human, to know how to love is divine."

"Love seeketh not her own," said Thomas a Kempis. "Love is swift, sincere, pious, pleasant, gentle, strong, patient, faithful, prudent, long-suffering, manly, and never seeking her own; for whosoever seeketh his own, then he falleth from love."

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma

EDWIN S. FRIENDLY, BUSINESS MANAGER OF THE NEW YOUR SUN, SAYS:

THAT Archimedes, the great mathematician, once said: "Give me a lever and a place to stand and I will move the earth."

The great lever in modern industrial and commercial America today is advertising. Advertising is the power that stimulates and moves production to high levels and sales to high peaks.

And advertising in newspapers, by far the largest in total volume, has conclusively demonstrated itself as the quickest sales producer with the greatest selling power of any of the modern forms of advertising.

Consistent and intelligent advertising plays one of the most important parts in the enormous production and sale of commodities in our country today. Advertising, through its ability to inform a great number of people, creates a desire and hence a demand for products.

H. G. Wells has described advertising as one of the greatest influential and educational forces in the world today. Mr. Wells has considerable faith in the far reaching influence of advertising and to substantiate this conviction he has one of his characters in a recent book make this interesting assertion: "Only an adequate advertising campaign is needed to achieve the millennium."

"Repetition is reputation" is a truism essentially applicable to advertising. The sagacity of this fact is demonstrated by American advertisers, both great and small, therefore their reason for spending hundreds of millions of dollars each year for advertising.

New Derricks Mark Oil Trend

The Texas company spudded in its No. 5 Bowers one location east of the company's No. 1, in section 89, block B-2, H. & G. N. survey, Friday afternoon. The new test is a north offset to the Operators Oil company's No. 3 Jackson, in section 88, block B-2, which came in last week for 4,000 barrels a day. The last 24 hours the test made 3,800 barrels of high gravity oil.

The same company has a derrick up and is getting ready to spud in its No. 1 Cook & Faulkner, in section 29, block B-2, H. & G. N. survey. This location is an east offset to the Marland Production company's No. 1 Finley-Brown, in section 32, block B-2, which came in Wednesday for 150 barrels an hour.

In the same territory the Operators Oil company started to build a derrick Thursday evening and Friday afternoon had it completed. The test will be spudded in tomorrow, Tom Dossell, general superintendent says. This test is a diagonal offset to the Marland well.

G. B. Hetrick of Mobeetie, a patient in Pampa hospital, is recovering rapidly after treatment and will return home in a few days.

AMUSEMENTS

TERRIFYING TALKIE

Today is the opening date at the Rex theatre for "The Terror" Warner Bros. latest and greatest mystery film, which is claimed to be the creepiest and at the same time the most absorbingly amusing picture of its kind ever filmed.

"The Terror" is based on Edgar Wallace's celebrated stage thriller which has held London spellbound for more than three years. It is the composite of all spook plays rolled into one. With the uncanniness of Poe, it has the sardonic humor of Swift, Harvey Gates in his screen adaptation has not only kept all the original eeriness but has added to it immeasurably.

Roy Del Ruth wins new laurels, too, for his masterly direction. He has left no dramatic opportunity unexplored. The ancient and dilapidated English manor house built under his direction and possessing the atmosphere of centuries of use and disuse, furnishes the locale. Here is the ghostly and fiendish torture den of "The Terror" itself; the cob-webbed organ that weird flingers touch; the wind-swept galleries blown funeral curtains, and rain-beaten roofs; the swelling wall-eyed toad; the Ouija-board; the vast firelit room where the panic-stricken "guests" of Dr. Redmayne hold spiritualistic seances; the sliding panels, the secret passages—in short, every thing that can augment the melodrama and enhance the acting of the stars.

AT THE CRESCENT

Jean Hersholt, one of the best character actors in motion pictures today, waited for 14 years before he got his first glimpse of New York City. This is unusual due to Hersholt hailing from Denmark.

In 1914, Hersholt was commissioned by his government to go to San Francisco and prepare a national play to be staged the following year at the Panama Pacific International Exposition which was held at San Francisco. When he came from Europe he landed at Montreal, then went to San Francisco by way of Salt Lake City.

He staged the play and at the close of the exposition, he went to Hollywood where he was attracted by motion pictures. He entered the business almost immediately and remained for the next 14 years without leaving California.

In that length of time Hersholt won fame as a capable actor and director. When Paramount cast about for some one to portray the role of Solomon in the picturization of "Able's Irish Rose" Hersholt was chosen. After the film was completed Hersholt made his first trip east to New York and got his first glimpse of the Great White Way. Incidentally he was an honor guest at the showing of the film

Houston Lumber Man Will Run in Governor's Race

HOUSTON, March 23. (AP)—John Kirby, millionaire Houston lumberman, probably will be a Democratic candidate for the governorship in 1930 it was learned here today.

Asked to confirm the report, Mr. Kirby said: "It is true my present inclination is to respond to solicitation of numerous friends that I offer my services as chief executive to my native state."

Mr. Kirby, reputed to have the largest holding of pine forests of any man in the United States, has taken an active part in state and national politics for many years.

Fiddling Contest Will Be Held Here on Friday

Pioneers from this section of the Panhandle will take part in an "old time fiddlin' contest" to be held at the Pla-Mor auditorium Friday night. Numerous entries have been received and many more are expected. Pampa has some old-timers who were good in their young days and they are getting out the old fiddle and "tunin' her up" for the big event.

Following the contest, a square dance will be held. Those taking part in the big affair will play for the dance. I. S. Jameson will be the "caller off" for the dance.

The contest will get under way at 8:30 o'clock. Four competent judges have been chosen to pick the winners. First prize will be $10 in gold. Second prize will be $5 in gold, and third prize $2.50 in gold. All contestants must play by ear. There will be no entrance fee for those taking part.

Murder Indictment Returned by Jury

The 31st district court grand jury has returned one indictment since going into session Wednesday afternoon. An indictment charging murder was returned against Jim Jackson, negro, Friday afternoon. Jackson has been in the county jail for more than two months following the shooting of James Walling, another negro.

Jackson is alleged to have shot and fatally wounded the other negro with a .22 calibre automatic pistol. He gave himself up to county officers following the affray. The case will probably be one of the first tried next week when the criminal docket will be called.

Wurzback Decree Will Be Appealed to Supreme Court

SAN ANTONIO, March 23. (AP)—A federal court ruling today quashing an indictment against former Congressman Harry M. Wurzback will be appealed to the United States supreme court, Federal District Attorney Hartman announced.

The bill charged Mr. Wurzback with "receiving" and "being concerned in receiving" contributions from government employes.

Judge Duval West held that section 208 of the United States criminal code, usually referred to as the criminal practices act, under which the former congressman was indicted, was not intended to apply to primary elections and that if congress did so intend it to apply, it was his opinion congress exceeded its authority and that the law was unconstitutional.

Friends crowded around Wurzback to felicitate him after the court's action.

Wheat Selling Is Brisk Saturday

CHICAGO, March 23. (AP)—General selling out took place in volume in the wheat market today, and traders appeared to have lost sight temporarily of prospective farm relief enactments. Talk was current of reconciling wheat values here with European prices, there was comment also regarding bearish effects from calling of collateral loans on securities.

The wheat market closed nervous 1 5-8 cents to 2 cents a bushel net lower. Corn finished 3-8 cents to 5-8 cents off, oats unchanged to 7-8 down and provisions unchanged to a setback of 17 cents.

L. M. Lackner, formerly employed in the McCarter jewelry store of Borger, has been transferred to the local McCarter store. Mrs. Lackner and their three children will move here within a few days.

TEXAN KILLS SELF

SAN ANTONIO, March 23. (AP)—Eugene Marconi, 41, whose body was found today tied to a tree near San Antonio along the Corpus Christi road, committed suicide, said a coroner's verdict. The body was hanging from a limb, a rope tied about the neck. There was a bullet wound in the temple and a pistol in front of the body.

Cattle Market Shows Upturns During the Week

KANSAS CITY, March 23. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade this week around the 11-market circuit was featured by further price upturns on the lighter weights of fed steers and yearlings, some centers reporting gains of 25¢ to 50¢ on light yearlings.

Low grade steers of lightweight occupied especially strong position. Demand remained narrow for medium weight and heavy steers, with weak to lower values prevailing at markets where this contingent formed a fair proportion of the supply. A liberal movement of dairy calves at northern livestock centers prompted sharp declines on vealers, prices in this class previously having been relatively high. Stockers and feeders ruled unevenly higher with country demand broad for thin lightweight stockers. Aggregate receipts were around 180,000 as compared with 163,099 last week and 168,506 the corresponding period a year ago.

New Directory Is Much Better

New telephone directories arrived Friday afternoon and are being distributed, Kenneth Boehm, manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, said yesterday.

Numbers are more easily found in the new directory than in the old one. Instead of the single column of names and numbers, a double column is used in the new directory, thus bringing the name and the number closer together. A classified business directory has been added to the book. Each class of business is classified under a black headline.

Mr. Boehm says that more than 2,000 of the new directories were received.

Gar Wood Barely Fails in Record Try

MIAMI, Fla., March 23. (AP)—Gar Wood late today failed by seven tenths of a mile an hour to break the world's straightaway speed boat record, with his trimotored craft "Miss America VII". His average over the Indian river course was 92.12 miles an hour. The previous record, 92.838 miles an hour set at Detroit last fall, was by Gar Wood's brother, George, in the same boat.

R. C. Sowder of the Grayco Gasoline company made a business trip to Amarillo yesterday.

P. T. A. Correspondence Courses Offer Educational Opportunities, Training Workers for Leadership

The September, 1927, issue of "The Texas Parent-Teacher" carried the invitation, "Let's Go to School." In the invitation, Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, at that time educational secretary of the Texas Congress, and now president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, said:

"Do you believe that local, state, and district leaders owe it to themselves and to the organization to have a working knowledge of the organization they are serving? Nothing would add to the efficiency of the Parent-Teacher associations more than such a knowledge. Because I believe so thoroughly in an educated membership, and especially an educated leadership, I have decided to offer a correspondence course to those who wish to take it. The course will be based largely on the handbooks and other state and national material, and at first will consist of such questions as have been submitted 'The Parent-Teacher.'"

"I am hoping for one hundred registrations. So far as I know this is an entirely new venture in Parent-Teacher work. Let Texas lead in offering correspondence course."

Such a course was immediately launched. Today more than 1,500 members of Parent-Teacher associations have registered for it. The value of the course in training officers and members for more intelligent work and leadership is only now being realized.

The course includes a short, interesting history of the organization of the work in the state and nation; tells what a P.-T. A. is and what it is not; gives the fundamental principles upon which it is based. One learns who compose the different boards, where they meet, and what their duties are; the names and contents of official publications of the state and the national organizations; about dues and how they are expended; about life membership and the endowment fund; and about state and national co-operating agencies and what may be expected from each of them.

There are lessons on programs, publicity, membership, leadership, high school associations, rural school associations, pre-school associations, study circles, and one or two on parliamentary practice. Those who have taken the course found it both interesting and inspiring. Having learned that the P.-T. A. works solely for child-welfare and some of its achievements in the field, and that it helps parents and teachers in home training and school work, students realize that the organization has a part in strengthening the whole national life and making better, healthier, more contented, and more intellectual citizens.

Among the first to finish the correspondence course and receive certificates were three officers of the Eighth district. They were: Mrs. J. M. Crain, present district president; Mrs. J. R. Leach, director of health and Mrs. W. H. Brock, Jr., of Amarillo. The first class to be graduated was a class of 150, members of which received their certificates at the state meeting in Amarillo last fall. Reports to district officials show that 22 members of the Eighth district already have finished the course and that others will complete it before the district meeting in Pampa, April 3, 4 and 5. Forty others have registered, but have not completed the course. The groups will make up the senior and junior classes.

Pampa has 14 P.-T. A. members who belong to the two classes, all members of the Baker association. They are as follows: Mrs. George Eades, Mrs. R. H. Lane, Mrs. Robert Woodward, Mrs. A. L. Jones, Mrs. Roy Kilgore, Mrs. Charles Kentling, Mrs. Claude Lard, Mrs. J. H. Blythe, Mrs. W. A. Gray, Mrs. J. Ramond Browne, Mrs. John L. Lawson, Mrs. G. D. Holmes, and Mrs. M. R. Force.

These, together with other juniors and seniors of the district, will be honored on the second day of the convention with a luncheon given by the East Ward P.-T. A. and the West Ward P.-T. A. Mrs. J. W. Sanders, Amarillo, fifth vice-president of the district, will preside at the luncheon and direct a cleverly planned graduation program. Names of honor graduates will be announced, and 'graduate caps' will be worn. Mrs. Sanders is bringing a pep squad to the convention, which doubtless will lend more collegiate atmosphere to the occasion.

District officers say that those taking the course have yet time to finish before the district meeting, and that those who have not registered can do so at once and begin work before the convention next month, completing the work during the summer months. Members are instructed to send a fee of 50 cents with their registrations.

Piano Pupils Give Program for Small Audience Friday

A studio recital was given Friday afternoon by the piano pupils of Miss Madeline Tarpley at the latter's home on North Gray street. The execution of each composition was graded according to the pupil's age, the length of time she had studied music, and the difficulty of the selection. Byron Dodson won first place; Loretta Fletcher, second, and Loris Bryson, third. Mrs. N. G. Delaney and Mrs. George Wolfe were judges.

Others who played were: Anne Buckler, Jeanette Cole, Betty Jane Edwards, Jeanne Murfee, Mary Seeds, Mary Price, Ramona Roa, Mildred Haggard, Christine Dwyer, Harriett Hunkapillar, Dorothy Brumley, Janice Purviance, Marjorie Buckler, Margaret Bryson, Vida Mae Woodworth, Mertie Ethel Seeds, Louise Walstead, Hazel Fletcher, Yvonne Thomas, and Florence Sue Dodson. A violin solo by Grace Dwyer and a vocal solo by Byron Dodson gave added interest to the program.

Mrs. Tarpley awarded merit cards to the following, in recognition of excellent work: Marjorie Buckler, Margaret Bryson, Mary Price, Anne Buckler, Byron Dodson, Florence Sue Dodson, and Vida Mae Woodworth. Pens were presented to Mary Seeds, Mertie Ethel Seeds, Mildred Haggard, Betty Jane Edwards, Luella Saunders, and George Saunders.

Boys of Central High Do Much Work on Farms

Boys of J. L. Lester's three vocational agriculture classes at Central high school for several months have been increasing their practical knowledge whenever an opportunity was presented. Once or twice a week they spend a half day at a farm in the country, helping with some special kind of farm work. They have helped dehorn cattle, set trees, cull chickens, and select cattle. They go wherever they are invited, Mr. Lester says.

This week they pruned the orchard at Mrs. Phebe Worley's farm nine miles east of Pampa. The work was done in the morning hours and was completed by 11:30 o'clock. At noon the boys and the teacher were guests of Mrs. Worley at luncheon. The meal included practically every dish that has a particular appeal for healthy, hungry boys, according to the students who were present.

They were as follows: Charles Barrett, Finley Barrett, Glover Carter, Bruce Cash, M. D. Eagle, Ivey Gough, F. P. Hays, Harold Holmes, Howard Lane, Charles Locke, George Ingram, Robert May, Earl McConnell, Russell McConnell, Albert Nichols and Gordon Saulsbury.

County Division Created at Dairy Show in Plainview

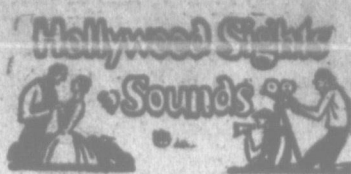

PLAINVIEW, March 22. (Special)—To stimulate interest between counties of the Panhandle-Plains area in the breeding of pure-bred animals, a county herd department has been added to the second annual Texas Panhandle-Plains dairy show at Plainview, April 2-5.

Three hundred dollars will be given as premiums in this department divided among the three breeds of dairy cattle, Jersey, Holstein, and Guernsey.

Several counties are in the competition. Prominent among them will be Floyd, Hale, Lubbock, Swisher, Randall, Dawson, Terry, Lamb, Carson, Deaf Smith, and possibly Briscoe. There may be other entries in this department as the time of the show rolls around.

The county herd department is a new idea in livestock shows. This past year the state fair of Texas had its first. Hale county was a contestant with a large herd shipped for that purpose.

HOLLYWOOD—Movie folks' names travel about the world on many queer vehicles besides lithographed posters and bright electric lights. Autograph collectors, of course, are responsible. There are few articles, however, bazaar, which have not at one time or another been presented to some cinema celebrity for autographing. Usually the confirmed collector carries an autograph album for the quest.

But sometimes, if the star is encountered unexpectedly and the opportunity for an autograph cannot be foregone the petitioner will present the star any personal possession to be autographed.

Collectors have been known to offer new hats, pieces of their shirts or neckties, even silken fragments of garter ink taken of stellar graciousness. Sometimes mothers desire to have their babies' clothes or trinkets autographed, and so varied and frequently amusing are the articles the stars are asked to sign that few would be greatly surprised if requested to write their names on an ice cream cone or lollipop. Autographed books. Musical instruments are among the favorite means used for collecting the names. One lad uses the white sheepskin head of his banjo to preserve the coveted signatures, his collection so far includes those of Ricardo Myers, John Gilbert, Greta Garbo, Lon Chaney, Vera Gordon, Rod LaRocque and others. Eddie Nugent's is there and Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks—together, of course. In the summer the boy plans to organize an orchestra and play aboard an ocean liner.

VOICE OF THE FANS
Movie fans soon may be forcing their favorite novels or stories into celluloid versions simply by inaugurating an organized howl among fellow screen followers. Fred Nibo, who is directing "Redemption," says that numerous letters from America and European fans suggesting that a Tolstol story be filmed in honor of the great Russian writer's hundredth birthday anniversary, celebrated in 1928, played their part in the selection of this story as John Gilbert's next vehicle—his third Tolstol role, incidently.

He was accompanied by Maj. Francis H. Poole, medical corps, commandant of the school of aviation medicine at Brooks field, and plans to return to Kelly field late Friday.

Talks To Parents

FILIAL DUTY By Alice Judson Peale A generation ago all children were told that they owed a great debt to father and mother for the parent's goodness in giving them food to eat, a nice bed to sleep in and pretty clothes to wear; and earnest expressions of filial respect and gratitude. To think a critical thought of one's parents was a sin, to utter one was a major crime. "Filial duty" was one of those concepts that permitted no examination.

THE BLACK PIGEON © 1929 By NEA Service, Inc. by ANNE AUSTIN

THIS HAS HAPPENED RUTH LESTER, secretary, and the body of her employer, "HANDSOME HARRY" McMANN, Monday morning, sprawled beneath the breakfast window of his private apartment, he was shot between the eyes and four Saturday afternoon.

McMANN, detective sergeant, questions the following suspects: MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife, and mother of his children; MRS. HENRY DUBOIS, night club dancer, with whom Borden was infatuated; and JACK HAWKSHAW, Ruth's fiance, whose office is across the narrow alleyway from Borden's.

Jack's guilt seems confirmed by the testimony of elevator boys WED MORAN and OTTO SPIEGEL, and of BILL COWAN, Jack's friend, who says he heard Jack threaten Borden's life Saturday morning when he saw Borden struggling with Ruth in the opposite office.

McMANN sends detectives to find CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress, called ALICE BAILEY, his bodyguard. Menzies fired in self-defense at his murderer who stood in Jack's window.

McMANN and Minnie's testimony about such matters was given with a contrived voice whom Borden's maid, MRS. MANNING, called MARTHA MANNING who was on him about insurance but who was absent from Borden's office across the airshaft.

Ruth goes to Mrs. Borden's apartment and asks her if she knows Martha Manning and is answered with a haughty significant negative. Ruth calls on Minnie to ask her if she remembers seeing in Borden's wastebasket a check for $100 which Borden received in Saturday morning. Minnie says she saw it in a drawer of the desk where Ruth knows McMANN has searched the desk and that no such letter was found.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVI

"BUT I tell you, Mr. McMANN, there must be another drawer," Ruth Lester insisted. She had arrived at the murdered man's offices at half-past 10, and had almost automatically brushed aside the detective sergeant's brusque inquiries as to the chance she had had the plainclothesman who had been assigned to the task of "shadowing" her.

"Minnie Cassidy described the drawer as no deeper than a case knife is broad, and insists that it was pulled out in front of Mr. Borden as he sat at his desk."

"Then why the devil didn't she say something about it when I questioned her?" the detective grumbled. But he pulled out the two-inch deep middle drawer of the desk, and, scooping, inserted a hand and tapped against the roof of the cavity exposed. A hollow sound rewarded him.

"Let me try!" Ruth suggested, and began to press her fingers against the elaborately carved strip of walnut which was undoubtedly the front end of the secret drawer, though it appeared to be only the edge of the desk top. Her efforts met with failure until her fingers pressed hard upon a carved leaf directly above the right corner of the unconcealed middle drawer. The carved strip swung slowly inward, revealing a shallow drawer less than an inch deep. Triumphant, the girl pulled it out. There was not one orchid-stemmed letter, but six of them, with the last received on top, at the front of the little drawer.

"Don't destroy fingerprints!" McMANN warned Ruth. "Here let me handle it." And with infinite caution the detective drew the envelope from its large, square envelope, touching only one corner of the sheet as he shook it out and laid it on the blotter of the dead man's desk.

"May I read it?" Ruth begged, and as the detective grunted assent, his two hands bent over the exhibit which Ruth had brought to light. There was a single sheet of notepaper, closely written on both sides.

"HARRY, my darling," the letter began, below the two words: Friday afternoon: "After what happened between us on Christmas Eve I swore that I would never appeal to you again. Oh, Harry, to think that you could strike me and curse me, after all the happiness we have known together! But my pride—which was one of the qualities you admired most in me, you used to say—has been leveled to the dust. I would rather die than ask you for anything for myself, Harry, but where our son is concerned I have no pride—only love, and a ghastly fear for his future. He is your son, Harry—as much your child as Betty and Harry, Junior. It was your own suggestion that I place him in boarding school last September, so that he might have his chance at normal little boy happiness and education. You promised then to pay for his board and tuition, but—"

"Finished?" McMANN grunted at Ruth, and, as she nodded mutely, he turned the sheet over.

Ruth's tear-misted eyes resolutely left the signature to the last: "—the money never came. Almost the last cent I had in the world went to pay for his first half-year, and now—there is nothing left—less than nothing. I am ill and broken. If you continue to refuse to pay for his second semester—the first ends the last of January—he will have to be put in an orphanage, and that would kill me. You couldn't—couldn't—let your son—the child of our love—come to that, Harry! Please, Harry! I abuse myself if before you. I make one last appeal—for him. Create a trust fund for him—your son. You can arrange for a bank—not me—to be his guardian, if you hate me as much as you've said you do. Do this for him! I ask nothing for myself—nothing! But Harry, in all solemnity, I warn you that you will be sorry if you do not do what I ask. I shall telephone you Saturday morning. If your answer is still no—but I won't think of that now!—"

"M!" Ruth breathed. "Martha!—Martha Manning! Oh, the poor thing!"

"Martha Manning!" the detective exploded. "You haven't told me anything about her. Why didn't you tell me yesterday?"

"I didn't know until last night," Ruth retorted. Then, rapidly, breathlessly, she related to McMANN the series of deductions and suppositions which had led her to an inevitable conclusion.

"Though I didn't, at first, connect the writer of the orchid-stemmed letters with the woman of the contract voice," Ruth acknowledged.

"Some voice!" McMANN commented drily. "It seems to have knocked you, Hayward, Minnie Cassidy and Frank Ashe for a goal. I'm getting sort of curious to hear it myself. Did Hayward get her address when she came to him about insurance?"

"Yes, The Acropolis Hotel—one of those small, inexpensive residence hotels," Ruth answered.

"HARD UP—and living at a hotel!" McMANN commented sarcastically. "Trying to pull Borden's leg, I guess. Blackmail. . . Well, we'll have a look at this dame, and listen to her carol her story in her beautiful contralto voice."

The detective was striding toward the door to give an order to Birdwell, who was still on duty in the outer office, when Ruth stopped him with a question:

"And you'll send for Letty Miller, won't you? If she says that she did not leave Jack's door on the night when she first went in to clean his office, a big part of the mystery can be cleared up, for we shall know then that someone besides Jack could have entered and used his telephone—and his gun."

"Letty Miller would admit anything if she thought it would help Hayward," McMANN commented skeptically. "He must have greeted her palm with a good bit of silver, first and last. But it won't do you harm to ask her. Just don't bank too much on your pretty little theory, Miss Lester."

"Oh, Birdwell!" he called, as he opened the door into the outer office. "Get hold of Carlson for me. He's on the floor somewhere, talking to tonight. Send him over to the Acropolis Hotel for Martha Manning. That's right—Ma-na-n-g. If she's not in, or has checked out, tell him to get all the facts and let me know immediately. . . . And Birdwell, have headquarters send somebody for Letty Miller, one of those scrubwomen I was interviewing yesterday. They don't come on till four o'clock, and I don't care to wait till then."

"Yes, sir," Birdwell answered. "Did you get the Miller woman's address, sir? You remember we couldn't find her yesterday morning. She'd moved from the rooming-house address the superintendent gave us—"

"Oh, damn!" McMANN exploded. "I forgot to ask her. See if Coghan, the superintendent, did. It's his job to keep up with his employees' various changes of address—"

"Yes, sir. Just a minute, sir," Birdwell interrupted his chief, as the telephone rang. He listened for a moment, then turned to McMANN: "It's Clay, sir. He's bringing the Gilman woman in. He says she's just returned to her apartment. He's telephoning from her apartment now."

"Good! Tell Clay to make it snappy," McMANN directed. Then, when his subordinate had concluded the telephone conversation: "Any line yet on Jake Bailey, Borden's bodyguard?"

"No, sir. I'll get hold of Carlson now and send him after this Manning woman. . . ."

FIFTEEN minutes later, while Detective Sergeant McMANN and Ruth Lester were still engaged in reading the six passionate, despairing, pitiful appeals for a vanished love which Martha Manning had written to Harry Borden, the woman who had taken that love from her was announced:

"Miss Gilman and Detective Clay, sir."

"Show Miss Gilman in here. I'll speak to Clay over there," McMANN directed, and a moment later the detective in charge of the investigation and a tall, magnificently proportioned blond woman passed each other in the doorway.

"Hullo!" Cleo Gilman sang out cheerily, in her slightly nasal, high-pitched voice. As the detective pushed open the door without answering, except with one keen, measuring glance, the blond woman shrugged, and addressed Ruth Lester, who was seated at Borden's desk: "I always did love these strong, silent men. Hawkshaw, the damn detective, I suppose? She laughed, strolling with exaggerated nonchalance to a chair near Ruth's, and disposing her voluptuous body in it.

"Yes," Ruth smiled. "Or, to be accurate, Detective Sergeant McMANN, in charge of the investigation into the murder of your late friend."

"Meow!" Cleo chided, as she took a cigaret from a lovely black and green enameled case which, Ruth knew, had been one of Harry Borden's Christmas gifts. "Poor old 'Handsome Harry.' I was always afraid he'd come to some bad end. . . . But what have you done to yourself, darling? You are the priceless pearl of a secretary, aren't you? But I seem to remember you as a timid little slavey, with horn-rimmed spectacles, Salvation Army clothes, and your hair dragged into a knot on your neck. I wonder! I wonder. . . . And yet I'd been led to believe that it was the fascinating Rita who had— Oh, Hawkshaw!" And Cleo rounded her seductive lips to blow a cloud of smoke toward the returning detective.

McMANN, pretending not to hear, strode to Borden's desk, took his seat opposite Ruth, poised his pen-dial over a pad of scratch paper. "Well, when did you see Borden last, Cleo?"

"Miss Gilman—to you, darling—just until we know each other a little better," Cleo Gilman drawled, arching her brows. "Don't scowl so, Hawkshaw. I'm sure you'd be an awfully attractive man, if you'd just cultivate a jolly smile. . . . Oh, very well. If you don't want to go to sociable— You asked when I last saw Harry, I believe. Well, let me think— and she regarded the burning tip of her cigaret with a charming frown.

"Last Saturday, wasn't it?"

CLEO GILMAN'S carefree laugh rang out. "Poor Hawkshaw! You must be terribly hard up for a suspect of you've picked on me! No—I'm awfully sorry to disappoint you, but I haven't seen 'Handsome Harry' since January second. He dropped in to pay the rent on the apartment and to break the sad news to me that all was over between us."

"Just like that, eh?" McMANN growled. "I suppose you quarreled?"

"Oh," Cleo shrugged and smiled. "Just enough to give the old boy a good time. It would have hurt his feelings if I hadn't pulled the 'you-don't-me-wrong' line, but to tell you the truth, darling, I wasn't at all sorry—saved me a lot of trouble, for I was really awfully busy on a new enterprise—"

"Just where were you last Saturday, after leaving your apartment at noon with your baggage?" McMANN cut in impatiently.

"Now, now!" Cleo shook her charming head at the detective reproachfully. "You're spoiling an awfully good story with your crude impromptu. There! I've been aching to use that word—impromptu. I've just learned it, you know. . . . Yes, yes, darling! I realize you want to know where I was Saturday afternoon, but I'm trying to break it to you gently. Large, bad-tempered man, who are not so young are so likely to go off like that—with a pop. All right, Hawkshaw, I'll tell you, but you can't say I didn't warn you—"

Cleo springs a surprise. Martha Manning appears in the next chapter.

Study Club Has Program on Historical Jerusalem

"Jerusalem, Past and Present" was the subject of an interesting program presented Friday at the meeting of Child Study club, Mrs. James Todd conducted the lesson, assisted by Mrs. S. A. Hurst, Mrs. H. D. Lewis and Mrs. B. E. Finley, who presented topics in informal discussions.

Mrs. Todd's paper was "Why the World Story of Jerusalem is Important for Children from the Historical, Literary, and Religious Standpoint." Mrs. Hurst told of the building of Jerusalem and the fall of the famous city. In developing her subject, she asked other members of the club to tell something about Jerusalem as it is presented in poetry, song, and art, or to describe one of the famous characters of the place.

Mrs. Lewis gave a descriptive sketch "In and About Jerusalem." Pictures which were used to illustrate this talk and others added much to the value of the program. Mrs. Finley told the story of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, afterward reading a poem entitled, "Solomon and the Bees."

Witchcraft Victim!

The eerie atmosphere of modernday voodooism hovers over another Pennsylvania murder mystery. Pretty Verna Octavia Dell, 21, was found dead, from poison, in a wooded area near Allentown after she had made several visits to a "pow-wow" doctor to be cured of eczema. Two weird scrolls containing Biblical references were discovered upon her body. Relative and neighbors were convinced that the girl was "hexed", but a "witch doctor" Charles Belles, has been absolved of blame. Police now are seeking a man with whom the girl is said to have been infatuated last summer. An autopsy revealed that she was to have become a mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bourland and little daughter, Sarah Frances, spent yesterday in Amarillo.

Mrs. J. N. Duncan returned to her home yesterday, after undergoing a major operation and spending several weeks in Pampa hospital.

The formal opening will be at 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of the 25th. However, all members of the executive board have been requested to arrive in time for a board luncheon at 12 o'clock. Miss Dorothy Greathouse, noted concert singer, will appear on the arts program. The annual singing contest will be held, with many cities competing for the beautiful silver loving cup now held by Dalhart.

This is election year for the Seventh district. Mrs. F. T. Collins, Amarillo, district president, desires the pledge of support for the new officers which is implied by attendance at the convention and participation in the balloting. She urges that every federated club in the district send one or more delegates to enjoy the program and the social courtesies to be extended by the hostess city.

A special social feature of the Snyder meeting will be an "Every Woman's" breakfast. This breakfast, according to Mrs. Collins, "is in honor of every club woman of the district, expressing in a small way our appreciation for the contribution each one has made to the civic, social, and cultural side of life in this great area." The presidents' dinner will be given at 5 o'clock Friday evening.

Club secretaries have been instructed to send names of delegates to Mrs. Dixie Smith, Snyder, chairman of homes.
