Governor Wields Blue Pencil but Files Several Signed Measures

'ANTI-BOLTER' BILL STILL IS WITH MISSING

But Moody Indicates It Will Be Among Victims

MOVING PICTURE PLAN UNREPORTED

Junior Colleges May Be Established as Desired

AUSTIN, April 2. (P)—Using the blue pencil on bills appropriating money to pay emergency and miscellaneous claims of the penitentiary system and for departmental emergencies, Governor Moody today filed 25 bills with the secretary of state, some of which he approved and other of which became law without his signature.

He allowed the bill permitting creation of junior colleges in independent school districts with $12,000,000 taxable values to become law without his signature.

He did not file either the Wirtz anti-bolter bill or the Sunday moving picture measure. He indicated he would veto the Wirtz bill.

He said it is likely he would file the remaining bills during the day.

Alliance Statute Approved

Among the bills he approved were those establishing an experiment station at Abilene and remitting eight-ninths of the ad valorem taxes to build a seawall at Port Arthur. He also approved the measure changing the South Texas Teachers college at Kingsville into the Texas College of Arts and Industries and enlarging its scope.

In attaching his signature to the Port Arthur and Kingsville measures he gave reasons for his actions. In the Port Arthur case he said he was opposed to the general granting of tax remissions but stated he believed this measure was justified since other remissions had been made along the coast for purposes of protection to life and property.

The governor signed the bill prohibiting the sale of overripe or premature citrus fruit, but vetoed from it an appropriation of $5,000 for each of the two years of the next biennium to put it into effect, explaining this could be taken care of in the general appropriation bills. Under terms of the measure citrus fruit must be inspected and approved prior to shipment into or from Texas.

He approved the measure separating public free school affairs in towns of 200,000 or less from the municipal government.

Makes Deep Cuts

He cut approximately $66,000 from the $633,958 emergency appropriation to pay claims of the prison system and more than $25,000 from the general departmental emergency measure.

Among the larger items excluded from the prison bill were $9,000 for a Wynne farm building to replace burned barracks; $10,000 for miscellaneous repairs and replacements; $18,000 for tools, implements, etc., and $22,000 for feed planting seed and livestock.

From the departmental bill he eliminated $10,000 for the bureau of vital statistics asked by the health department, and items, mostly for extra help from other departments as follows: comptroller, $2,083; attorney general, $1,750; insurance commission, $2,100; department of education, $500; land office, $5,400; agriculture, $3,500.

MISSING BODY FOUND

NEWTON, April 2. (P)—The body of T. J. Buckley, drowned in the Sabine river more than two months ago, has been recovered. It was found by a fishing party lodged in a drift near old Belgrade, 35 miles from the place where Buckley was drowned.

NEW GRAIN RATE PLAN OPPOSED THROUGH BRIEF

WASHINGTON, April 2. (P)—The application of the Santa Fe, Rock Island, and Missouri Pacific railways to increase rates on grain to Kansas City and Wichita when such grain, consigned to Gulf ports, is not moved over one of these lines, was opposed in the supreme court today in a brief filed by the Kansas City Southern railway and others.

The port of Port Arthur would no longer be able to compete with Houston and Galveston in grain exports if the rates are put into effect, the brief said. Grain from Dodge City, Kas., moved over lines of the Santa Fe group would be carried to Galveston for 47 cents per hundred pounds, the brief added, while the rate to Port Arthur would be 51 cents under the proposed schedule.

FIGHTING PLANES GOING TO FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

EAST ST. LOUIS, April 2. (P)—Three Vought Corsair fighting planes, equipped with two machine guns each and bombing racks, and purchased by the Mexican government for use against the rebels, landed here today, were refueled and took off for Laredo, Tex. Col Samuel Rojas of the Mexican federal forces, C. E. McMillan, Mexico company, and John Wagner of New York representative of an airplane company are piloting the ships which have a cruising speed of 130 miles an hour. The planes left Dayton, Ohio, early today.

Roy Sewell of the Rose Motor company is in Oklahoma City on business this week.

STEEL LINKS PAMPA AND CLINTON, OKLA., THROUGH CHEYENNE

CHEYENNE, Okla., April 2. (Special)—During the last week the C & O. W. construction crew completed work of enlarging the local "T" and connected the rails between Clinton, Okla., and Pampa, Texas.

The construction crew then started back over the road to re-surface the track between Cheyenne and Pampa. When completed, the road bed will be of standard type, capable of handling the heaviest traffic.

It is not announced when trains will commence running over the road, but it is the plan of the people of Cheyenne to make it a great event when the first passenger trains pull in from the west. The Platonik club is sponsoring plans for the occasion.

LINDBERGH NOW ON HIS WAY TO VISIT FIANCEE

MEXICO CITY, April 2. (P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Yalapa flying field at 1:35 p. m. (2:55 eastern standard time) for a two day visit to his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow.

BROWNSVILLE, April 2. (P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off for Mexico City at 8:45 a. m., to visit his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow. The colonel said he expected to arrive in Mexico City by noon with normal flying conditions. His plane was checked over and refueled while he ate breakfast.

The hop-off was straight for Mexico. No turns were included in Lindbergh's steady climb into the blue over Mexico.

Lindbergh landed here at 7:50 a. m., after leaving San Antonio about 2 a. m.

His breakfast was simple, consisting of scrambled eggs, toast, poached eggs and coffee. He refused to touch native-grown valley grape fruit. Passports for Lindbergh awaited him here. On receiving them he said he would fly to Mexico City, remain there a few days and fly back to the United States through Brownsville.

NEW MEXICANS WIN

CHICAGO, April 2. (P)—Raton, champions of New Mexico, won the opening game of the national high school basketball tournament at the University of Chicago today, defeating Portsmouth, N. H., titleholders, 24 to 23.

YELLOW JOURNALISM BLAMED BY UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR

GALVESTON, April 2. (P)—More light on the sex questionnaire of the University of Missouri was shed here today by Dr. Howard E. Jensen, professor of sociology of the university. Three men recently gave up their places after an investigation of the questionnaire. Dr. Jensen attributed the probe to "yellow journalism" publicity.

"The questionnaire can only be judged fairly in the light of the nobility of character and sincerity of motive of the men who sponsored it," Dr. Jensen said. "It lends itself readily to sensational journalism and furnished ready capital to elements hostile to the university. What has happened in the case of the sex questionnaire will not curtail honest research. However, we shall not use any more questionnaires."

Santa Fe Asks Right to Reach Same Terminal

LUBBOCK, April 2. (P)—Another legal battle for right to lay rails in West Texas was under way here today between subsidiaries of the Texas and Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroads. The prize was the traffic of the Lea county, New Mexico oil fields.

Ten witnesses yesterday appeared at a hearing before the interstate commerce commission representatives in behalf of the Texas and New Mexico railroad, a T. and P. line, which seeks to penetrate the coveted area from the south by and extension from Monahan. The Texas and New Mexico already has a permit to build to the state line and asked to be allowed to build northward from there to Lovington, N. M. The Santa Fe, through the Panhandle Seagraves, Texas, to Lovington, extending their line southward to Henry N. M.

High officials of the legal and traffic departments of the contesting lines as well as representatives of virtually every city of importance in Southwest Texas and Eastern New Mexico, were here to present their views, including Lee F. English, Chicago, general counsel, and F. B. Houghton, Chicago, vice-president of the Santa Fe, and T. B. Gresham, Dallas, chief counsel, and John B. Payne and John Somerville, Dallas, vice-presidents of the T. and P. Examiner H. C. Davis presided over the hearing.

Showing Reported in Important Test on Mel Davis Land

A show of oil and gas was encountered yesterday afternoon in the Barnsdall Oil corporation's No. 1 M. B. Davis, in the northwest corner of the west half of the southeast quarter of section 9, block 1, A. C. H. & B. survey. The first pay was found at 2,680 feet.

Several barrels full of oil were taken from the hole after a lost bit had been recovered. Today the test is drilling ahead with an increased showing of oil and gas.

The new well is located in semi-wildcat territory about a mile south of production and the same distance east. It is the first test to be drilled in that section.

In the McConnell pool the Shell Petroleum company's No. 2 McConnell, in the northeast corner of the east half of the southwest quarter of section 174, block 3, cemented the 6 5-8 casing at 3,118 feet after encountering 5,000,000 feet of gas at 2,970 feet and 11,000,000 feet at 3,118 feet.

Planes Dynamite Big Ice Gorge

A 25-mile ice gorge, from one to seven miles long, which choked the Missouri river below Bismarck, N. D., flooding and scraping thousands of acres of fertile farm land, was finally broken with dynamite dropped from army bombing planes after an estimated loss of $2,000,000. Crops were ruined and trees were snapped like so many straws. Compare the height of the gorge with the man in the above picture.

Federal Victory Assured Say Reports From Front Line

NACO, Ariz., April 2. (P)—The American town of Naco was bombed today by a Mexican rebel airplane, apparently unintentionally, and Ferry Baker, 35, of Alliance, Ohio, was wounded. Four missiles were dropped in an attack upon the federal stronghold on the Mexican side of the line.

Two of the bombs fell on American soil. Many windows in the business district of Naco, Ariz., were shattered. The aerial attack was a continuation of those which began last Sunday by rebel troops under General Faust Topete, governor of Sonora. Thus far 19 bombs have been dropped in three days. Up to today the casualties on the Mexican side were two killed and three or four wounded.

American infantrymen have been stationed here for several days with instructions to prevent if possible any damage on the American side of the border.

Naco is held by about 1,200 federal under General Lucas Gonzalez and Augustino Olachea. Topete's attacking forces several miles south of the city are said to number upwards of 2,000. Baker was treated by a physician at the United States immigration office, but the extent of his injuries was not disclosed. He was said to have been struck in the head by bomb fragments. There also was an unverified report a boy was hurt during the attack.

Maj. Charles B. Hazeltine, commanding the American troops here, declined to comment on the situation. The total population of the Nacos is about 3,000, about evenly divided by the international line.

MEXICO CITY, April 2. (P)—(1:05 p. m.)—Bitter fighting between the federal and rebels for the possession of Jimenez was reported in a government bulletin this afternoon, to be proceeding after an overnight lull. The government communication, timed 1 p. m., stated the rebels were hemmed in within a circle of fierce federal fire from which they have been unable to escape.

The rebels were stated to have made desperate but futile efforts this morning to break through the federal lines "which have the rebels bottled within the railroad station and other small positions which they hold within a limited radius inside the town." About 10:20 o'clock this morning, General Calles reported, one rebel plane rose, possibly carrying some rebel leader attempting to flee, from the beleaguered city. A federal plane immediately started in pursuit. A message, timed 8 a. m., from General Calles, read as follows: "So far I have been unable to communicate with General Almanza because he has been constantly on the firing line from the moment the battle started."

A second message, timed 8:30 a. m., read: "Messages from the firing line at Jimenez inform me the battle is raging."

LOUISIANA IMPEACHMENT NOW UNDER WAY IN CALM FASHION WITH STATE OPINION VARYING

BATON ROUGE, La., April 2. (P)—With the calm of a normal session, the Louisiana house of representatives got off to a slow start today on the impeachment investigation of Gov. Huey P. Long, charged with 19 offenses.

At the opening of the session the clerk read telegrams from over the state both condemning and defending the governor in the political fight of his life.

The report of the sub-committee on rules of procedure was formally presented to the house but a motion by the chairman of the sub-committee for adoption provoked an attack on the rules from Representative Allen J. Ellender of Houma who declared there were laws governing impeachment procedure and special rules were not necessary.

By a vote of 73 yeas and 18 nays the report of the rules committee was adopted.

The Landry motion was amended to include a request from the attorney-general as to whether the act of 1885 affected the present procedure. The motion was adopted by 90 yeas and 3 nays.

The house then adjourned until 4 o'clock.

THREE PRISONERS MISSING IN HUNTSVILLE PRISON

HUNTSVILLE, April 2. (P)—Three life-term convicts, missing since yesterday afternoon, were objects of a spirited search within the penitentiary today.

The men were A. P. Bruton of Navarro county, sentenced for bank robbery; Jim Norton, Dallas county, robbery, and Robert C. Feck, Fisher county, robbery. Prison officials said they were confident the men were hiding inside, although they had been told by other convicts the men had been seen scaling the walls.

The three convicts, considered among the most desperate in the system, slugged a guard and attempted to escape last September.

AMARILLO ELECTION SPIRITED

"It's Like This—"

OF A NUMBER OF PROPERTY OWNERS interviewed by a representative of The News Saturday, nine-tenths of them said that the reason they did not expect to have a lawn this summer is that their water bills are too high.

Pampa needs more trees, and certainly more lawns and flowers. Any new town looks ragged until its homes take on a well-kept appearance. And no home is a real home unless it has grass and flowers.

It is said that Pampa will soon have more water than she can possibly use. Fine. But the rate must be brought down to a point where the young salaried people, who are paying for their homes on the long-time plan, can afford to have water for lawns, trees, and flowers.

The nearly $30,000 that the water department made last year stands as a proof of economical operation—and a substantially high rate. Though not high as oil towns go, it is high for the oil town that Pampa is NOT.

The water rate should be set at a point where it will pay running expenses and provide for reasonable expansion and replacements. In a rapidly growing city, however, expansion taken care of through the water receipts means exorbitant rates.

Pampa has needed assurance of an adequate water supply. This assurance apparently has been given. The next step, and one almost as important, is to have a rate low enough to encourage use of more water for home development.

PAMPA IS FORTUNATE in having many talented citizens, young and old. The city has a band, orchestras, boys and girls' glee clubs, quartets—in short, the making of a great merged chorus with orchestral accompaniment.

It is true that in the past everyone has been "so busy" that the larger group the more unlikely its complete success. That time has largely passed. In Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Fannell the city has professional leadership which, combined with the other skilled music teachers and dramatics instructors, will make possible the finest kind of amateur achievement.

Why not have a large community chorus, with no church or organization lines? Canyon Teachers college last Sunday presented "The Creation" which certainly is not an easy oratorio. Pampa has more talent than the average student body. There is no reason why some of the better choral works cannot be presented here—if fifty or more good voices can be banded together in regular practices.

By "good" is not meant voices of persons who read easily at sight. Choral work demands learning by repetition, and anyone with a musical ear and fair voice—and who is faithful in attendance at practice—can be used. Let's have a community chorus.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER WASHINGTON—Emotions of grave disquiet, serious doubts whether all's well with the world or all's wet, and certain other sickening sensations, have afflicted members of the Old Guard.

Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter's famous features have taken on a greenish aspect. Violent writhings of his imagination have him pretty near to pieces. Awake and asleep, he holds long conversations with himself.

The other evening, as he and your correspondent sat on a twig in Rock Creek park, the senator finally blurted out his grief and explained why the Old Guard was on the verge of catfits.

"It may be," said he, "that we have been taken in. I refuse to believe it, but if we were, we have been victims of the most hideous taking in the history of this great republic. We are asking ourselves today just what the Republicans elected last November. Look at him! He certainly ain't no Republican, acting the way he is. And they say he was once a Democrat."

They minded the Senate. "You know what Republican presidents are like—take Taft, Harding and Coolidge. Did they ever act like this fellow? Huh! They stuck to our principles and I mean the kind that were maintained by the nation's best minds in the Senate. If the right bird wanted government oil or higher tariff duties he got it and if he got income tax refunds, too, it wasn't anybody's business."

"Now, Handsome, I won't say we elected no Democrat. You could tear out my tongue before I'd admit that. But if there's no more gravy in being Republican than this guy is providing, all of us might as well be Democrats and go hungry. Where does he think the money is coming from in 1932?"

"After he got elected it was his duty to see important Republicans! But he'd rather go see Latin-Americans. And did!

"He must have resisted temptation by not putting more Democrats in his cabinet, but look at what he picked. Can I go at one of them birds and say I want something done and done snappy? Do I know 'em so they get what I mean? Try and get it! Only one who has a drag with them birds is Hoover himself. Just think of the downright treachery of that postmaster general of his who says the postoffice service is not a political institution and who has gone and told all the postal workers about it. Why, that was the way Wilson felt!"

"Who was it, squawked about selling postoffices and oil and tariff corruption? Democrats mostly, except progressives, which is worse. Did you ever hear us real Republicans mentioning such things? And do you remember how we have fought all these years against publicity on the tax refunds? We bled and died against the Democrats on that and now this guy says they were right!"

They Miss the Yacht. "Did he think presidents were the only ones that wanted free rides on the Mayflower? That yacht made more friends for the Republican administration than Heinz made pickles. And senators maybe they don't need outings, too."

"Does he suppose enforcing prohibition is going to do him any good with the city bosses and the ward bosses? They gotta live, too, and no boot-logger can pay honorariums when he's pinched."

"I don't suppose the Democrats really sneaked him over, on us and wanted him to win all the time, but what's biting us old-timers is why we spent so much of our own time and other trusting people's money trying to beat Al Smith."

"The worst of it is probably most who voted for him think he's fine. But maybe they think we're here for our health!"

People have been so happy over the rains that one might be led to believe they did not think they really deserved the moisture.

Believe it or not—there are many people who can get in a prayerful mood easier after it rains than before.

When we inadvertently broadcast the fact a few years ago that radio was an unalloyed blessing, that was before the day of super loudspeakers. The earphones were being used, and ears had the habit of staying close to the cranial box.

And in the rejoicing over the rain, most of us forgot to see what didn't happen during clean-up week.

We wonder if the so-called contracts with the people back home will have much effect upon the Texas legislators. The "people" have no special claim to knowledge of what ought to be done, and if we depend upon home contacts to put over a legislative program nothing will be done in most cases. The complexities of modern democracy demand better legislators, and fewer of them.

It is reported that the Americans in the Mexican war zone are having a hot time—chili, not bullets. They are repeating Sherman's famous dictum about war. The Mexican is somewhat like a goat—he can rustle up a meal where an American would sit down to starve.

China is encouraging boxing. Perhaps that bloody race will eventually be able to transfer their pugilistic interest to that type of fighting.

Mrs. J. L. Nance is Hostess to Lone Star Bridge Club

Members of the Lone Star bridge club met yesterday for a delightful afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. L. Nance, where three tables were arranged for the game. The return of members who had observed Lent, and the presence of three club visitors added much to the pleasure of the occasion.

Six games were played by the following: Mrs. S. L. Maynard, Mrs. E. B. Guber, and Mrs. M. W. Jones, special guests; Mrs. J. H. Lutz, Mrs. L. M. Williams, Mrs. C. M. Carlock, Mrs. F. A. Smith, Mrs. E. H. Hamlett, Mrs. J. W. Casey, Mrs. Robert O. Gilchrist, Mrs. H. L. Lemons, and Mrs. Colbert Wilkerson. High scores were made by Mrs. Maynard and Mrs. Hamlett. Each received a pretty favor, and Mrs. Casey was consoled for low score. Playing was followed by a delicious plate luncheon.

Easter Music Is Heard at Most Churches of City

Special musical programs presented by several choirs of the city attracted large crowds to the Easter services. While at some of the churches the choirs and congregations had the usual programs, with musical selections in harmony with the sermon subjects, at others the music was co-equal in importance with the sermon or filled the entire service.

The outstanding musical was at the Methodist church, where a cantata was given in the evening by the choir, five soloists, and the orchestra, with organ accompaniment. Thomas Fannell directed. A large crowd heard the cantata and three separate numbers preceding it. The program is described as one of the best of the many excellent offerings of the Methodist choir. Appropriate anthems formed a part of the morning service.

"The Mass of St. Basil," by Jules Braza was sung for the first time at Holy Souls church. A beautiful celebration of the resurrection, it was doubly impressive because of the setting created by the altar decorations of candles, Easter lilies, and ferns. The church was filled during the service. Mrs. Lynn Boyd directed the choir.

Three anthems were sung by the choir of the First Christian church at the morning service. Solos were well executed by four singers, and three-piece instrumental accompaniment added to the pleasing effect. Mrs. W. A. Bratton directs this choir. The Baptist church and the Presbyterian church each had appropriate anthems and hymns at both services, and at the Baptist church the orchestra gave a short program in the evening.

"Southern Cross" Sought by Rescuers

SIDNEY, N. S. N., April 2. (P)—Search was being made today by air and water in the Australian bush for the missing plane Southern Cross and four men. Absence of word from Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, Charles T. Ulm and their two companions, who radiated Sunday they were coming down in a rainstorm 100 miles east of Wyndham, western Australia, led to anxiety.

An Australian always plane chartered by a newspaper arrived at Wyndham at noon today on a reconnoitering trip. A launch proceeded up the Drysdale river with petrol and stores.

Proration Cuts Production of Oil in United States

TULSA, Okla., April 2. (P)—With proration in full force in the Greater Seminole areas, estimated daily average production of crude oil in Oklahoma during the week ending March 30 decreased 39,325 barrels under that of the week ending March 23. Gas would form on my stomach right after eating and give me a bloated, depressed feeling I could hardly breathe. I had restless, sleepless nights, and suffered with a severe intense pain in my side, and was extremely nervous. I had a bad case of constipation and was forced to take laxatives most all the time. I really, kept going from bad to worse, and got in a terrible condition.

"I heard about how Orgatone had helped so many focal people with troubles just such as mine and began taking it. I have just taken one bottle, and feel like a different woman. Every one that sees me says I am looking much better and are amazed over the results I have obtained. My appetite is fine and I eat just anything I want and it doesn't hurt me in the least. The gas has stopped forming on my stomach, and I don't have the bloating spells any more, and shortness of breath. My nerves are in good shape and I sleep soundly every night.

"Before taking Orgatone, I could not stand a trip of any kind, in an automobile, but since using it, I have made a drive of two hundred miles, and after I got home, I went to bed, and got a good night's rest and in the morning felt refreshed and vigorous. Much to my surprise, and I figure anything can help me in the shape I was, why, the whole world should know about Orgatone, for I was sure going down hill fast. I just invite anyone to call upon me and talk to me, relative to the benefits I received from Orgatone. It is a wonderful medicine and I'm glad to do what I can for it, and believe that credit should be given, where credit is due, to Orgatone."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Pampa, exclusively by the City Drug Store Johnson hotel building, under the personal representative. Police Guarding Dallas Polls in Municipal Vote DALLAS, April 2. (P)—Thirty-one of Dallas' 50 voting boxes were guarded by police as voters balloted today in a municipal election. The early vote was light despite ideal weather.

Police did not explain the reason for guarding boxes, although they said it was the first time police in advance were assigned to such duty.

It was estimated that there were 10,000 less poll taxes in the city this year than last, and this was pointed to by politicians as one reason for the light vote prediction. They also said the voters did not show great excitement in the political campaign.

A mayor and five commissioners will be chosen. Despite the fact that comparatively little interest was exhibited in the campaign by the electorate, candidates themselves and newspapers were unusually acrimonious in discussions of issues, and considerable feeling was aroused among adherents of various aspirants to the offices.

Schelberg Landed By Houston Fans After Exhibition

DALLAS, April 2. (P)—The Waco Cubs journeyed to College Station today for a two-game series with the Texas Aggies, the first game of which is scheduled for this afternoon. Manager Pratt took along six hurlers. Before leaving, Pratt named Lefty Steln as moundman for the game here Thursday with the New York Yankees.

Houston Buffalo customers sang the praises of John Schelberg. After the first inning Schelberg had the Pittsburgh Pirates completely under control yesterday. The Buffs' 4-to-3 victory was the first exhibition decision they had gained this year over a major league team. The Dixie champions played bang-up baseball. Today the Buffs planned to rest and turn their park over to the Pirates and the New York Yankees. President Fred Ankenman announced "Rabbit" Powell, outfielder, would manage one of the Cardinals' class D farms this year. He goes to Darville.

The Wichita Falls Spudders resumed routine practice, which will hold their attention until Friday when they will open a three-game series with the Chicago White Sox, the only major league club to visit Wichita Falls this year. With the first month of training in the background, it seemed to observers here that three-fourths of the Spudder infield will start this season just as it left off last September—Fete Turgeon at second, Rabbit Benton at short and Walter Swenson at third, this trio apparently having eliminated all their competitors.

Miller Huggins' American league Bluejackets from New York invade Fort Worth today for a stand against the Panthers. It will be the first string squad of Yankees who will come here—Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and the others.

McKinney May Be Lone Star Member

DALLAS, April 1. (P)—McKinney probably will be a member of the Lone Star league this year, instead of the Corsicana Oilers.

President Fisher told Dallas baseball officials Corsicana definitely has dropped out, due to inability to raise the amount thought necessary for operation of the club.

Ray Falk, pilot of the Oilers, is to boss the McKinney outfit if the transfer is completed.

Final disposition of the Corsicana franchise will be made at a meeting of Lone Star league officials this week.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

A very competent judge of ball players recently stated that Bobby Reeves of the Boston Red Sox, late of the Washington Senators, is the most talented infielder in the American League. He furthermore said that should Reeves overcome one or two mechanical defects, he would stand out as one of the greatest stars of the game.

Manager Bill Carrigan, who also knows ball players, is fully aware of the prospects in the young man and has taken steps to put Reeves in the groove to stardom.

So far in his major league career, Bobby has been a shortstop. Carrigan will try to make a third baseman of him. Reeves has one of the strongest arms in the game. In fact his speed has been more of a handicap than an asset. He throws what all players call a heavy ball. It comes at terrific speed and drops away, which makes it very difficult for a first baseman to handle. Maybe the longer throw from third will somewhat lessen this tendency in Reeves' throwing.

Last year in the spring-training camp of the Washington Senators, steps were taken to improve Reeves' batting. The Nat strategists figured the lanky kid took too much of a stride when lashing out for a pitch. Reeves was drilled for hours but the season found him doing the same old long stride.

The fact that he batted for a mark of .303, which, by the way, has usually been considered pretty good for an infielder, may make this logic look bad to some observers. In most cases it is found a man's natural form at bat is his best form and when changed it hurts his confidence. Of course, there are the rudiments that most managers insist on.

Should Carrigan find the solution to smoothing out Bobby's defects, Boston fans will find that Bobby alone is an equal exchange for Buddy Myer, whom the Sox sent to Washington for Reeves, Gaston, Gillis, Lisenbee and Bigelow.

Local Oil Man Saw Big Tourney

While in Wichita last week Joe Kahl, local oil man, saw many of the games played for the national girls' basketball championship. He says it was the fastest girls' basketball he has ever witnessed and better than many boys' games.

Schepps Aces from Dallas won the championship in a sparkling 28-to-7 victory over the Dallas Golden Cyclones. There were 25 of the best teams in the United States at the meet. Girls from Sparkman, Ark., took third place in the tournament. Mr. Kahl brought a group picture of the 25 teams back with him. Daily News' want-ads bring results.

The former champion left for Detroit last night with authority to purchase the plant and Pugazy intimated they were ready to spend $1,000,000 on it.

Promoter Pugazy said the purpose behind acquiring the Detroit Olympia was to start a chain of arenas similar to that of the Madison Square Garden corporation in New York and Boston.

FAT CRAWFORD PUT IN CHARGE OF GIANT CREW

SHREVEPORT, La., April 2. (P)—Although he never has played for the Giants, Pat Crawford has found his experience as coach at Guilford college enough to get him ahead in his career with the national leaguers. Apparently deciding that is enough to qualify him for running a ball team, Manager McGraw has assigned Crawford to take charge of the second squad. Coach Niehoff, who had been controlling the destinies of the second squad, rejoined the regulars here yesterday.

HOOKS AND SLIDES DIDN'T NEED AUTHORITY

The Hornsby fellow and his temperament was the subject of a discussion in a small social gathering of ball players and writers in the Giants' hotel at San Antonio one night during the spring training season.

The New York players present had very little to say about Hornsby. They didn't say that he was a great fellow. They didn't say that he was otherwise. They did say that he was a little bossy, but that he was "all right."

The tendency to boss the other players on the club, it was gathered from the conversation, was the trait that the other players liked least in him. But they admitted that he may have come into the practice by habit. The players didn't resent his bossing when he was in charge of the club during the period when McGraw was disabled. But they didn't see where he came into any authority when the big boss was around.

JUST A LITTLE FEUD

Some of the older players thought it was a small trick when Hornsby got out the hammer on Freddy Lindstrom. In one of the first statements he made after he had been traded to Boston Hornsby said he didn't have any trouble with any player on the New York club but Lindstrom. And he called Lindstrom a cry baby. This feeling against Lindstrom, the players said, was the result of an enmity that sprang up between the two players the first day they were in the training camp together. And they told the story.

FREDDY TOLD HIM PLENTY

The first day Lindstrom was in camp he went to third base for fielding practice and Hornsby was on second base. The man batting to the infield put one down to Lindstrom. Lindstrom got the ball, turned toward second and in the parlance of the ring, he let Hornsby "have it." He put everything he had in the throw and it obviously burnt Hornsby's hand and his temper. He stormed over to third base.

"Listen here, kid," he said, with his face close to Lindstrom's, "You're just a young fellow in this business and I've been at it a long time. Don't you ever let a throw go like that so soon. You'll throw your arm out sometime and when your arm is gone what are you going to do?"

Hornsby meant well in his criticism, but it burnt up the fiery young Freddy.

"Who the hell do you think you are?" Lindstrom raged, stepping up close to him. "You're no more than a rookie on this ball club as far as we're concerned. We're playing for McGraw and he's sittin' over on the bench. And what's more, how the hell can you tell anyone about fielding? Listen, if you lost that bat tonight, you'd be in the bushes tomorrow."

Hornsby turned and went back to second base. It didn't get under his hide and it didn't make him timid. After that when he had any criticism to make of Lindstrom's fielding or the game of any other man on the club he said his piece.

THEY DIDN'T SEE IT?

Hornsby's willingness to criticize the other players was said to have drawn him into several fist fights with the New York players.

The story was heard that Burly Grimes floored him a couple of times in the clubhouse and had him down beating his head on the floor when one of the coaches pulled him off. The other players wouldn't interfere, so the story went.

According to another story Bill Terry beat his ears off and several other players went after him.

But the Giant players in the gathering wouldn't talk about it. They had a good out.

"If those things happened I wasn't there at the time," each one said.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Paulino wouldn't fight a bum named Cruz in Porto Rico until he got his purse in advance. . . . And the promoter gave him 10 grand in one dollar bills. . . . And it took his five managers an hour to count all the aces. . . . The Brooklyns had to let Nick Cullip go home to Atlanta from the Clearwater training camp. . . . So he could mind his kids. . . . while the missus was taking an operation. . . . Gertrude Ederle is almost stone deaf. . . . from the beating she took in swimming the channel. . . . Criffo, who was saved from a pauper's grave by Tex Rickard, left an estate of $3,900. . . . And the judge ordered Rickard's estate to be reimbursed. . . . Tommy Loughran's father is a motorman in Philadelphia.

HEILMANN SHOWS PERFECT FORM AND HITS WELL

BEAUMONT, April 2. (P)—Harry Heilmann signalized his return to good standing yesterday by playing first base in faultless style and accounting for the only extra base hit off Malone and Root of the Cubs.

The Cub hurlers showed Stanley Harris' Athletics some mid-season pitching, permitting only four hits while winning by 6 to 1.

Couldn't Leave the House for 6 Months had just about given up hope of ever being well again when I heard about Sargon. It is just wonderful what it has done for me.

MRS. J. W. MANESS

"I was in a dreadfully rundown condition as a result of stomach trouble. I became so weak I was confined to the house for six months and for four months was on a milk diet. I suffered terribly with gas and cramping pains. Awful sick headaches forced me to bed for hours at a time. I lost weight and strength and my color was unhealthy. I was so nervous that life was a misery. I simply couldn't sleep well.

"After the first few doses of Sargon my appetite returned and I eat anything I want. I don't suffer with gas or cramping pains anymore, nor do I have those dreadful headaches. My nervousness is entirely gone and I sleep just fine. Doing the housework now seems just like play compared to what it used to be. I'm rid of constipation, my color is good and I've gained six pounds.

"Sargon did more for me in a few weeks than all the other medicines and treatments put together did in years."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. J. W. Maness, 1510 Pearson St., Houston, Texas.

Sargon may be obtained in Pampa from Fatheree Drug Co., and in McLean from Erwin Drug Co.—(adv.)

The hitting of Lefty Ledgewood and Fred Lassiter was the highlight of the game. Each connected three times out of five trips to the plate.

Terry and Young hurled great baseball for the White Deer aggregation. The Miami boys lacked condition, but with a few more practices will be a snappy aggregation.

Despite the cold day a large crowd witnessed the opening game.

Pyle Has Grief as Bunion Derby Is Barely Begun

TRENTON, N. J., April 2. (P)—Despite his confident predictions of success, Charles C. Pyle, impresario of the trans-continental bunion derby, has found this year's race is not a bed of roses.

The grief started at the end of the second day when the caravan of bunion eers and its accompanying tent show reached here. First Trenton authorities notified Pyle that his show, counted on to bring in most of the revenue for the affair, would not be permitted to give its performance. The promoter met this difficulty by moving the camp across the Delaware river to Morrisville, Pa.

Next Pyle was met by a writ of attachment which cost him, temporarily at least, possession of two of the automobiles of his caravan. The writ was sued out by the Thomas Deming company, which supplied him with 1,000 chairs for the show. The company claimed Pyle did not have sufficient funds in the bank to pay for the chairs. The promoter retorted the funds were there, but the chairs were unsatisfactory and he had stopped payment on the check.

Paul Simpson, a dark horse from Burlington, N. C., covered the 46.4 miles from Elizabeth to Trenton yesterday in six hours, 10 minutes, 50 seconds to lead the pack into the control station and take second place in the elapsed time standing. Julius Cools, Belgian star, whose time yesterday was 6:24:20, won the lead for the two days.

More Homes Needed for Parent-Teacher Convention Guests

Mrs. Joe Smith, chairman of the housing committee for the annual conference of the Eighth district Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, which is to open tomorrow said today that the committee needs thirty homes in addition to the ones already secured for entertainment of delegates and visitors from out of the city. She praised the splendid cooperation members of the five P.-T. A. and many other individuals have given in this part of the convention and said she was confident other citizens would offer their homes when the need was known. With the convention opening at noon tomorrow, it is highly desirable, Mrs. Smith said, that the committee have offers of homes at once in order that assignments may be made the guests immediately after their arrival. It is the custom established by precedent that delegates and visitors to the state and district conventions of P.-T. A. be given lodging and breakfast in homes of the hostess city. Those who wish to assist in this way in making Pampa's convention a success should call Mrs. Smith at telephone No. 72.

Mrs. J. T. Sims of Clarendon, who will preside at a luncheon honoring life members of the P.-T. A. on the third day of the annual conference of the Eighth district Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, will be the guest of her daughters, Misses Fannie Florence and Nettie, Haggard apartments, during the three-day meeting.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

On Monday morning RUTH LESTER, secretary, and the SOLE of "HARRY" BORDEN, appeared, beneath the neatest of Mrs. Borden's private office.

McMann, detective sergeant, questioned the following suspects: RUTH LESTER, secretary, who was engaged with her two children, RITA DUBOIS, eight and seven, with whom Borden was last seen, and JACK GUYAN, Borden's friend, who was in the narrow alley street from Borden's.

Jack's girl friend, who was engaged to be married to Borden, returned to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon. She saw the body of MICKY BORDEN and OTTO PERKINS, eleven-year boys, BILL GUYAN, Borden's friend, and a young girl, who had been lying face down in the hallway.

McMann questioned BERNIE WATERS, Borden's office boy, and SIDNEY and LARRY BIRDELL, who were in the hallway when GILMAN, Borden's discarded servant, and JACK BAILEY, his brother-in-law, were seen to enter the building on Saturday night. McMann also questioned the three men Saturday afternoon.

McMann's questions caused Borden's father, JAMES BORDEN, to be brought into the case by Ruth's clever detective work. The secret was that Borden had been seen to check up on Martha's story. The memory of Martha's nervous, hurried impression in Ruth's subconscious.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV

"YES—old subconscious working at last, darling!" Ruth answered, when the elevator had discharged them at the seventh floor. Her eyes were shining like blue diamonds, but even if she had wanted to confide in her sweetheart, the inevitable group of reporters clustered about Borden's door would have prevented her.

She found Detective Birdwell with his feet on Benny Smith's desk, his black derby tilted low over his perpetually weary eyes. At the girl's entrance, down came the feet and off came the derby, but the expression of boyish gloom on the detective's face deepened.

"Has anything happened?" Ruth asked, as she hung up her hat and coat, and fluffed her golden curls before the washstand mirror.

"Oh, nothing much," Birdwell drawled wearily. "Nothing except that Commissioner Weeks has been here handing out nice, hot little samples of hell. You'd think, to hear that guy talk, that nobody hadn't done nothing but twiddle their thumbs or play tidly-birds since you stumbled over Borden's body yesterday morning. As the chief says to him—" and Birdwell jerked his head toward Borden's private office, where McMann was presumably hard at work—"he says, 'Give us time, commissioner. We ain't been on this job 30 hours yet,' he says, and the Big Nose comes back at him with this kinda proposition: 'If you can't make an arrest by five o'clock today, McMann, he says, 'I'll assign the case to Lieutenant Fryer. Huh! I know Fryer! He'll clap everybody in sight in jail, and then say 'Tennie meenie money me' to see which one did it.'"

"And what did Mr. McMann say to that?" Ruth asked, smiling cheerfully.

"Oh, this and that," Birdwell told her wearily, "but the gist of it was that he guessed my sweetie, Hayward, would have to be the goat. Thought I'd tip you off—"

"Thanks awfully, Mr. Birdwell!" Ruth replied, but to the detective's obvious amazement her smile was not a whit less cheerful. "Is Commissioner Weeks still with Mr. McMann?"

"No, he's toddled on off to brighten up another dark corner," Birdwell grinned, "but Borden's lawyer—a l-a-d-e-a chappie, with a cane and spats and everything—dropped in a few minutes ago to lend a helping hand. McMann phoned him to bring in 'Handsome Harry' Borden. But if you want to see the chief I'll call him out for you."

"No, I've got a job to do that's going to keep me very busy indeed for the next few minutes," Ruth answered, as she sat down to her desk and took the cover from the typewriter that had stood idle since the abrupt termination of her career as a private secretary to "Handsome Harry" Borden.

FOR a few minutes, however, her hands lay inert on the keys, and her brows were knit in a mighty frown of concentration. Then, with an exclamation of excited triumph, she quickly rolled a sheet of yellow paper into the machine and began to type with furious haste.

As page after page was filled with her flawless typing, Birdwell looked on with growing interest, when he was not engaged in answering telephone calls from police headquarters.

"What are you writing—a serial story?" he asked at last, unable to restrain his curiosity.

"I'm afraid it does sound a lot like fiction—of the old-fashioned, penny-dreadful kind," Ruth laughed without halting her flying fingers.

She had just drawn the last sheet from her typewriter with an exclamation of triumph, "there!" when the door between the two offices opened and the detective sergeant, followed closely by a dapper little man, who had evidently seen a certain famous mayor as his sartorial guide, emerged, exchanging farewell courtesies.

"Where! That guy's so polite he makes me want to kick him in the seat of his pearl-gray pants, as if he'd say, 'Thank you, my dear Mr. McMann! Thank you!'" the detective sergeant growled, when the lawyer had bowed and smiled himself out of his dead friend's office.

"But I'm glad he came, anyway. Come on in, Miss Lester, and I'll tell you all about it."

Before obeying, Ruth Lester gathered up the four typed sheets of what Birdwell had called a "serial story" and folded them into a small square which she tucked away safely in the pocket of the brown velvet frock she was wearing.

"A man's will is a pretty good index to his character," McMann began, after he and Ruth had seated themselves opposite each other at the dead man's desk. "And more times than not when a rich man's been murdered, his will is the police's best bet in looking for a motive. I tried to get hold of Attorney Walters yesterday, of course, but he was out of town—didn't get back till noon today."

"And did you find a motive?" Ruth asked eagerly.

"Not unless we want to believe that Mrs. Borden got impatient," McMann said slowly. "Outside of a few thousands in his lawyer, who, it appears, expected more for keeping Borden out of jail on some of his fake stock schemes, everything goes to the wife and kids—"

"NOTHING to Martha Manning's child?" Ruth interrupted.

"Not a red!" McMann answered. "I've just told you that a man's will is a good index to his character.

He makes no provision for the child that Miss Manning claims is his. Maybe he had cause to question his paternity, but I doubt it. I'd stake my hope of promotion for solving this case on that woman's telling the truth—so far as the kid is concerned, at least."

"I agree with you," Ruth said soberly. "Did Mr. Borden leave a large estate?"

"About a million and a quarter, according to Walters, though the will simply says, 'More than $10,000.' The usual thing, you know," McMann answered. "Of course I asked Walters if Mrs. Borden knew either the extent of her husband's wealth or the disposition made of it in his will and he answered 'no' to both questions. She must have been pretty sure, however, that whatever her husband had would come to her and her children, but since Borden was giving them $500 a month, I'm afraid we'll have to look elsewhere for a motive that will hold water."

"Mrs. Borden did not kill her husband," Ruth stated quietly.

"You seem pretty sure—oh, all right, Birdwell! What is it?" as his subordinate appeared in the doorway.

"Captain Foster on the wire, sir. Wants to talk with you."

While McMann was arguing and expostulating with his immediate superior, who had evidently just been heckled by his own superior, Commissioner Weeks, Ruth sat staring at the airshaft window, smiling strangely, her chin resting on her interlocked hands. McMann, glancing at her once or twice for approval of the way he was "stating up" to the police captain, saw to his amazement that she was not even listening!

Something did arouse her out of her smiling abstraction, however. It was the mournful, reproachful call of the black pigeon, which was strutting up and down the broad white ledge outside the airshaft window. With an exclamation of dismay at her own thoughtlessness, the girl jumped up and ran to the outer office, to get the envelope which she had filled with bread crumbs from her own luncheon. But she hung back a moment, as if a minute longer, for Ruth stopped to type one line and tear it, a narrow ribbon, from the sheet of yellow paper. With her message, bread crumbs and a length of black thread, she hurried back into the private office, where McMann was just replacing the positive, his face flushed with righteous indignation.

"EXPECT a man to solve a mystery like this in two shakes of a lamb's tail!" he mumbled to the girl, then abandoned his self-defense to ask curiously: "What are you doing there?"

"Just feeding the pigeon!" Ruth laughed. "Poor thing! I've neglected them shamefully. I hope the next tenant in this suite has a more humanitarian secretary."

"Say! That's a pretty sight!" McMann commented, as he strooped to the airshaft window, where the girl stood, laughing and cooing to the flock of pigeons, which were greedily devouring the crumbs she was sprinkling upon the ledge.

"Oh, you greedy thing!" she cried, as the black pigeon boldly settled upon her hand and began to peck at the crumbs it held. "Now you've made me spill half of your dinner!" she added ruefully, as a sliver of crumbs fell upon the polished strip of floor between rug and window. "Just for that, Mr.

THE BLACK PIGEON

© 1929 By NEA Service, Inc. BY ANNE AUSTIN

Nemesis, you're going to be punished by being made to work!" and one little hand closed firmly about the gleaming body of the black pigeon.

"What are you going to do now?" McMann asked indignantly, as swift fingers wrapped the narrow ribbon of paper about the tiny red leg of the pigeon, fastening it securely with the thread.

"Watch and see!" Ruth laughed. Then, still holding the pigeon against her breast, she called out in a clear, blithe soprano: "You 'noo, Jack!"

Almost instantly the young insurance broker's head and torso were framed in the opposite window.

"Got any crumbs, darling? Ruth called gayly. "If you have, you may leech something to your advantage," and she released the black pigeon.

"Say! What does all this mean?" . . . And I thought you weren't listening!" the detective sputtered. "Look here, Miss Lester! I've treated you almost like one of the boys—let you in on everything, but I warn you—it goes a little off Hayward that he's going to be arrested, so's he can beat it—"

Ruth's lovely face was sparkling with laughter as she answered: "I wasn't listening. And please don't scowl at me like that. An Old-Gilman said you'd be an awfully handsome man if you cultivated a lady smile. . . . Oh, look! Jack's caught the black pigeon!"

"I shouldn't think Hayward would ever want to see a pigeon again, after the trick one of them played on him—making those footprints in blood inside and outside this window," McMann reminded her. "If it hadn't been for those pigeon footprints, inside and outside a closed window, I doubt if a grand jury would have indicted him."

But again he was amazed to discover that the girl was not listening to him. She was smiling and nodding, with careless ease, to the young man across the airshaft, who, after reading the brief message, gave her a puzzled smile and nod in return, and then tore the ribbon of paper to bits. The pigeons fluttered after them greedily.

"WHAT was that message?" McMann demanded stantly.

"Oh—Ruth laughed, as she turned away from the window—"just a novel way of making a date with my young man! Please don't scold, Mr. McMann! I promise you that Jack won't run away—that if at five o'clock today, you still want to arrest him for the murder of Henry B. Borden, he'll be here and I shan't utter a word of protest!"

"You're pretty sure of yourself," McMann told her, eyes like wild, frowning curiosity. "Holding out on me, aren't you?"

"Why, of course not, Mr. McMann!" Ruth disclaimed, with wide-eyed innocence. "You know far more than I do—and all that I do. But we were talking of Mr. Borden's will. It was rather disappointing, wasn't it? I thought he had more originality than that—"

McMann returned to the desk, and down and selected a memo from his sick of notes. "I wouldn't say Henry Borden was lacking in originality," he said, with an odd smile. "There's one clause I haven't told you about—the strangest clause ever written into a last will and testament . . ."

(To Be Continued)

What was the clause in Henry Borden's will? It's told in the next chapter.

Amarillo Proxy Battle Is Near

AMARILLO, April 2. (AP)—A battle for control of the Johnson Ranch Royalty company between Ed R. Mayer of Amarillo, president and organizer, and Dr. Mary E. Bates and E. K. Whitehead of Denver, the only other directors, neared a decision here today. Properties valued at $8,000,000 were involved. Mayer said he was confident he had enough proxies to support him. Many stockholders have registered for the meeting, he said. Dr. Bates and Whitehead likewise claimed sufficient votes for victory. Elisha Gee, vice-president of the American Beet Sugar company, and Col. Harry Wilson, both of Denver, were here for the meeting.

Property Owners Request Paving

Petitions to pave one block on North Cuyler street and one block on East Browning avenue were presented to the city commissioners last night. The petitions were signed by nine property owners and represented 700 feet of frontage on the two streets. The requests were turned over to the city engineer's department for preparation of estimates. A report will be made at a later meeting and a decision given, City Manager F. M. Gwin said this morning. The petitions asked that paving be continued on North Cuyler street past the gymnasium-auditorium and around the corner to East Browning avenue to connect with paving on North Ballard street.

Street Work Is Started by Lane

Street Commissioner Tom Lane has graders and the city street sweeper in operation today. It was found impossible to clean the paved streets during the night and as a result the sweeper was put into use today. Care is being taken to keep the dust from blowing by using water. The streets are in "terrible shape," Mr. Lane says and it will be several days before any perceptible change will be noticed. Main traveled thoroughfares are being graded first, Mr. Lane says.

Gas Shut Off in Barnard Well

The 35,000,000-foot flow of gas in the Speculated Mineral Shares company's (formerly Morris et al's) No. 1 Barnard in section 44, block 4, Carson county, was killed this morning by the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing company. The first gas was encountered at 2,500 feet and had not been anticipated.

The test is logging with good wells in the same territory and a producer is expected.

Hearn Harper of Dallas, a representative of the Speculated Mineral Shares company, is here. In the same territory the Beaudon et al's No. 1 Barnard in section 23, block 4, is drilling ahead and expecting the big gas any time. More than 80,000 feet has been encountered. The test is drilling at 2,700 feet. The Lyons location in section 202 block 3, is fishing at 2,700 feet after casing off the gas.

Jury Still Out in Alleged Theft Case

The jury was still out this afternoon in the case of the State vs. Tommie Lyons, charged with theft of personal property. The jury went into deliberation last night at 9 o'clock and at 2 o'clock this afternoon had not returned a verdict. Lyons is charged with the theft of pipe from the Jarecki Supply company last October. He entered a plea of not guilty and sought to prove he was in bed at the time of the theft. He is represented by Judge Ben S. Baldwin.

TWO BLOCKS OF PAVING ARE OPENED TO TRAFFIC

Two blocks of pavement on East Tyng street have been opened to traffic. The remaining two blocks will be opened later, City Engineer A. H. Doucette says. The two blocks yet closed were paved after a delay due to bad weather. The last two alleys to be paved are also open to traffic. Fine grade has been completed on the one block on East Francis avenue and rough grade is being built on West Foster avenue.

TRAFFIC JAM NEAR POST OFFICE DEVELOPS

City and county officers were required to clear Kingsmill avenue in front of the postoffice of a traffic jam yesterday about 5 o'clock. A truck and a car had been parked in the middle of the street while occupants made a visit to the postoffice and a business house. As a result traffic in both directions was tied up for a full block.

At all times the street is narrow, but now that a portion has been blocked while the Rose building is under construction, matters have become worse.

Bedlam broke loose when irate motorists rushing homeward were delayed by the jam. Horns on every make of car from Fords to Packards began to blow as the delay continued.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Heinlen left this morning for an extended visit with relatives in Des Moines, Iowa.

ing most severely with our artillery operating efficiently."

Later the general telegraphed to President Porfirio Gil:

"Almost the entire town of Jimenez is in our possession with the traitors concentrated about the railroad station."

"Our aviators this morning have been bombing the enemy position. Enemy airplanes have been camouflaged under the branches of trees, and the enemy planes are not attempting to rise."

"From 5 o'clock this morning our troops began attacking the enemy positions. The traitors attempted to escape through the federal sector commanded by Gen. Eulalio Ortiz. The rebels were energetically repulsed."

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP)—Dropping of bombs on Naco, Ariz., today by Mexican rebel fliers is expected to result in additional precautions being taken by the American government to prevent repetition of such an incident.

The state department, in the absence of any official report of the bombing, indicated Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, commander of the 8th corps area of the army at San Antonio, would promptly take steps, probably ordering some units of the army air corps from one of the Texas air fields to Naco.

General Lassiter has full authority to take such steps as he considers advisable. Should planes be ordered to the border they would be given instructions to prevent the incursion of any rebel aircraft over American territory.
