MANY FAMILIES ARE WIPED OUT BY BIG STORM

Spread of Disease Is Feared in Stricken Zone

CROPS RUINED IN LARGE AREAS

Temporary Hospitals Are Everywhere Provided

ATLANTA, Ga., April 26. (AP) The total known dead in the tornado-stricken sections of Georgia and South Carolina reached 72 today. Several hundred persons were injured.

The greatest destruction was wrought in South Carolina, sixty-five of the reported dead being in that section. The other six in the death list were in South Carolina.

Statesboro, Ga., county seat of Bulloch county, near Savannah, was the heaviest hit. The hospital there reported that more than thirty persons were dead and many injured. A call from Statesboro to the Georgia board of health for anti-tetanus serum and for nurses.

Two Tornadoes Strike. Matter reported 19 known dead from two tornadoes which were accompanied by hail and a downpour of rain. One struck at 8:10 last night and the second at 11 o'clock.

Cochran, approximately 60 miles south of Macon, reported five dead and injured to approximately fifty. The tornado spread destruction over a wide area in a half dozen counties. In some cases several members of families were killed. Mrs. C. O. Newton living in the Hagin district of Bulloch county was awakened by rain beating in her face. Her home had been blown down while she slept and scattered about her were the bodies of her four children Emma, 28, Lillie May, 25, Edward, 16, and Grady, 18.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Coleman and their children were killed in the destruction of their farm home in Camden county.

Rain and hail accompanied the tornadoes in most instances, beating down crops, which were wholly ruined in many places.

All doctors and nurses in the vicinity of the stricken areas were making their way into the wrecked communities with medical supplies for the relief of injured Many Negroes Killed

At Statesboro, Ga., nine negro children were killed in one house during the storm.

The approximately half a hundred persons injured at Cochran were being cared for today in private homes and in the Taylor building which was converted into a temporary hospital directed by trained nurses. It was believed several of these were fatally hurt.

Residents who watched the twister come out of the northwest there last yesterday said it resembled a red, whirling funnel in its advance up the main street. They saw it sweep some five blocks from the center of town toward the south, where it descended in full force on a negro settlement known as Happy Hill. This little community, where most of the five deaths occurred virtually was wiped out.

TINY LAD STRAYS FROM AUTO TO EXPLORE WORLD—MOTHER IS OBLIGED TO INSTITUTE SEARCH

Little Marvin Haney Is Missing Four Hours But Is Found, Unharmed and Returned by Gas Company Employee

Of course, 2-year-old Marvin Haney didn't know how broad and mysterious is the big world, or he wouldn't have wandered from his parents' car here yesterday afternoon and had nearly the whole city looking for him. For nearly four hours he wandered with more or less unconcern, while his frantic mother, Mrs. C. B. Haney searched everywhere for him and enlisted the help of officers, business men, The News staff and many others.

Shortly before 6 o'clock, rumors of kidnaping and other possibilities were set at rest, for H. W. (Shorty) Crews of the Central States Power & Light company found Marvin way down in the Hillcrest addition more than half a dozen blocks from where he left his mother's car while she was shopping.

The wee lad was weary and asking for his mother, but he did not give way to tears exactly until his much relieved mother clasped him to her bosom.

About that time The News' camera man appeared and Marvin first taking an interest in the machine, decided he had been bothered enough and objected strenuously to suggestions that he pose. Bribes, coaxing, flattery, and every inducement the camera man could think of had no effect, and if the picture should be good, Marvin's expression may not be one of approval.

Fat, chunky, with bright blue eyes, the little fellow did not act the part of a lost child. He sturdily wandered from place to place, and probably did not realize he was lost until he thought of his mother. He had been left in the car on Cuyler street for but a few minutes, yet, in the interval that his mother was gone he took a notion to launch what in his brief life was one of his major adventures. His parents live three miles south of the city. They wish it known that they greatly appreciate the help of those who searched for the missing child.

OKLAHOMA GIRL, MOTHERLESS, SHOOTS FATHER, WHO MAY NOT RECOVER—SMALL BOY ESCAPES

PONCA CITY, Okla., April 26. (AP)—Trilby Rogers, 14, daughter of E. M. Rogers, was held in the county jail at Newkirk today in connection with the shooting of her father at their farm home near here last night.

Rogers is in a hospital here, his right arm having been amputated at the elbow as a result of the wound. He also is suffering from shot wounds in his chest. He will recover, physicians said. Rogers said his daughter shot him while he lay asleep. A 4-year-old son was sleeping on his left arm while his right arm lay across his chest. This saved his body from taking the entire load from the 12-gauge shotgun, he said.

The girl's mother died last December and Rogers said she had been unwell since. He declared the girl had attempted to poison him recently. After the shooting the girl ran to the home of a neighbor, who called officers.

Briggs Confers With Santa Fe on Special Train

George W. Briggs, manager of the Pampa Board of City Development, is in Amarillo today conferring with representatives from Clinton and Cheyenne, Okla., and Santa Fe officials with regard to a celebration at the opening of the New Clinton & Oklahoma Western railroad from Pampa to Cheyenne.

May 15 has been set as the tentative date for the formal opening of the new line which will connect Pampa with Oklahoma City and points east. It is planned to charter a special train to take local people over the line to attend a ceremony at Clinton. It is also planned that a celebration be held in Pampa when Oklahoma citizens will make the trip over the new line.

The Santa Fe recently set a price of $8.55 a person but it was claimed the price was too exorbitant. Mr. Briggs will endeavor to get a cheaper rate while in Amarillo today.

STORMY TIME ENSUES WHEN VOTE IS MADE

Poll Shows 59 Yeas to 39 Nays on This Issue

FIGHTING BARELY AVERTED TODAY

Martial Law Is Hinted in Discussions of Impeachment

BATON ROUGE, La., April 26. (AP) After a riotous session, the house of representatives today adopted a resolution charging Gov. Huey P. Long with "general incompetency" and prepared to send it to the senate as count number eight in the impeachment charges on which the executive will be tried.

The vote was 59 to 39. After the machine had recorded the vote, Representative Hoffpauir of Arcadia changed his vote to nay, making the total 59 yeas to 39 nays.

Boos Are Heard In the session, fist fights were narrowly averted.

Representative McClanahan of Caldwell was subjected to boos when he said "this case smells to the high heavens," and he would demand that troops be stationed in Baton Rouge to preserve order for the next three years if any attempt is made to have Governor Long thrown out of office by court procedure. He said he had heard this move would be made if "the impeachment efforts failed."

"If this is done thousands of citizens will die on Baton Rouge and demand martial law," he shouted. Representatives Peques of Desoto declared that if the charges in the resolution are grouped "you have a stretch of incompetency that floats to the high heavens."

Representative Fournet of Jefferson Davis, speaking of the house, asked if the house was going to declare Governor Long incompetent because he refused to yield to the dictates of a small group of people from Shreveport and used language that the people of Louisiana frequently have heard him use. He then outlined the other charges and asserted:

Says Evidence Inadequate "Why would you convict a nigger for chicken thief on such evidence. The purpose of this bill is that if you can't catch him on one charge you think you can catch him on another." While Speaker Fournet was speaking, Representative Bogan of Caddo, walked into the chamber with his mouth and cheek bleeding. He said he was standing in the corridor talking to Robert Maestri when Earl Long, brother of Governor Long, walked up to them and asked Maestri:

"Why are you talking to that black-kitty-blank?" Bogan said. He then hit Earl Long, and Long stuck his finger in his mouth and attempted to spit his cheek. At the same time, Earl Long, Bogan said, bit him on the other cheek.

Bystanders pulled them apart. Long went down stairs to the governor's office and Bogan came into the chamber. Representative Rownd of Livingston, took the floor while friends painted Bogan's facial wounds with iodine.

Wichita Flier Is Unable to Arrive

J. E. Akers, who was to have brought a Beebe Bug plane here Tuesday in connection with work of the Braley School of Flying, Wichita, Kans., was detained by business and could not come, it was learned today.

Any information about the plane or school will be given by mail from the Wichita school.

Storms and Floods Hit Mid-West

Missouri and Kansas have been hard hit by tornadoes and heavy rains which caused rivers to rise out of their banks, causing thousands of dollars in damages. The picture above illustrates the severity of the storms at Bolivar, Mo. The owner of the home suffered a broken back. Below, floods in the Kaw Valley near Menoken, Kas., are shown. The two boys on horseback have just carried feed to the cows on the elevation in the background.

GENERAL CALLES WIRES THAT ANNIHILATION OF REBELS TO BEGIN SOON—PLANES TO HELP

MEXICO CITY, April 26. (AP)—General Plutarco Elias Calles notified President Portes Gil today the stage was set for "annihilation" of the rebel west coast army with its retreat northward cut off by a burned bridge 18 miles north of Navojos, Sonora.

Federal light horse, under General Joventino Espinosa, undertook a forced march last night expected to place it in a position for a flank attack on the revolutionists today as the main federal army attacked them at their front.

Artillery was brought up during the night, with the prospect that airplanes would inflict heavy casualties with a new supply of 75-pound demolition bombs. No escape was believed possible.

The shaping up of the federal trap with its possibilities of bloodshed even exceeding the action at La Reforma three weeks ago which General Calles described as a "veritable butchery" came late yesterday and last night after turn of the tables in Southern Sonora.

For some undetermined reason the rebels, believed to number 5,000 or more fled precipitately from Miasaca, where they were strongly entrenched yesterday. Navojos, a former stronghold to the north was later evacuated. Federal troops were in hot pursuit and were believed last night to have occupied Navojos.

A dispatch from Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, who is forcing Pulpito Pass in Eastern Sonora with 1,000 troops told of sitting at a table at his headquarters and listening as he wrote, to rebels dynamiting the canyon ahead of him. He said he was proceeding cautiously. His dispatch said reports to him were the rebels were driving 3,000 head of cattle from American ranches at the head of their column.

Things were not going so well for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bourland and his daughter, Sarah Frances, spent yesterday in Amarillo.

DELEGATION IS ABLE TO REACH AN AGREEMENT

North Route of No. 33 to Miami Will Be Retained

PATENTED WORK NOT ACCEPTABLE

Conditions of Further Money Grants Are Laid Down

Gray county's delegation which interviewed the state highway commission this week on the question of road paving in this special district returned yesterday considerably enlightened on the state department's attitude, and with the belief that the Austin group likewise better understood the local situation.

The delegation included Judge Ivy E. Duncan; Scott Barcus, chairman of the B. C. D. highway committee; C. L. Hasie, resident engineer; and Commissioners Cox and Kirby. From Miami Judge Smith, Commissioners Scales and Coffee, and Harry Craig, city councilman.

Reach Agreements The agreements expressed were substantially as follows: 1. State and federal aid, amounting to two-thirds of the total cost, was allowed on highway 33 from Pampa to the Carson county line, providing a 100-foot right-of-way is given. Specifications will be made up immediately so that a contract for drainage and grading may be let.

2. The commission expressed favor for the old routing of Highway 33, north from Pampa, and promised state and federal aid to the Roberts county line if the department engineer accepts the right-of-way and if the state is allowed to let the contract.

3. An opinion was given that the state will accept the designation of highway 88, south toward Clarendon, and will allow 50 per cent state aid from the end of the paving already contracted for to the end of the special district boundary.

4. An order was entered to send the state highway engineer to Gray and Roberts counties to pick a designated route for Highway 33 east from the Roberts county line north of Pampa. 5. The highway commission asked for certified copies of contracts already let.

6. Some aid was promised on highway 33-A, east and southerly in direction from Pampa, but the designated route is yet to be determined. Controversy at End

The highway department evidently has decided to acquiesce to the petitions of Gray and Roberts county citizens that the north route to Miami be retained, and since the designation has never been withdrawn, this controversy seems to have been settled. The highway department declared, however, that the county had no right to let a paving contract north from the city except through the state division.

On highway 88, which has been changed to leave the city directly to the south and then turn west to the old Clarendon road, the state department refused to recognize the paving already contracted for, asserting that no patented paving would be accepted. Excessive cost was given as the main reason for this attitude.

The department commissioners were emphatic in their remonstrances to local officials who let contracts them.

Their position was said to be exceptionally strong as a consequence of recent seizure of a federal ammunition train.

It's Like This

THE FIRST APPLICATION for recognition in establishing a junior college under provisions of a bill enacted in the last session of the legislature has been made by the Amarillo Independent school district, says an Austin dispatch.

Amarillo's petition says the district total $63,163,151, and that more than 400 pupils attended high school in each of the years from 1925 to 1929. The state board of education will consider the petition May 10.

Amarillo is big enough to support a junior college, and such an institution is justified to serve the large numbers of young people who do not go away to college. The junior college is especially valuable in giving a foundation for positions, particularly relating to business life. It is the first step toward specialization in what one intends to follow as his life work.

A junior college, however, must be as carefully standardized as is a high school, and poor work and lack of affiliation will mean loss of credits for the students. Junior college projects should be limited to communities which can afford to have good ones, and this is the intent of the state law.

Ten Points for the Educated Man

From The Literary Digest.

Am I getting an education? We have all asked ourselves that question at one time or another. Sherwood Eddy uses it as the title of a recently published symposium on the methods, purposes, and results of American colleges and universities, which are now undergoing such searching criticism. George A. Coe, veteran educationist of Northwestern University, Union Theological Seminary, and recently retired from Teachers College, is convinced that a good education is education for good living. "What an absurdity it would be to certify, as well-educated youth, who has never been socially awakened—well-educated, yet negligible as far as social well-being and social progress are concerned!" Mr. Eddy concludes his symposium on "Am I Getting an Education?" with Dr. Coe's "ten points", by which a truly educated man can be detected. Originally published in Dr. Coe's book entitled "What Ails Our Youth", these ten points are worth reconsideration:

1. An educated man is one who is trained to use the tools of human intercourse with readiness, precision, and accuracy. We mean, especially, language and the rudiments of number. 2. An educated man must be able to study and to think without guidance from others. He must be—to some extent—a thinker, not a mere imitator.

3. An educated man must have sufficient knowledge of nature to understand the main processes upon which human life and happiness depend.

4. An educated man knows enough of history to enable him to understand the main achievements of man.

5. An educated man is acquainted with the major resources for intellectual and esthetic enjoyment. He knows nature, literature, music, and other arts sufficiently to choose superior to inferior enjoyments.

6. An educated man is marked by his interests as well as by his trained abilities. His attention is habitually attracted by significant rather than trivial objects, events, pursuits, and enjoyments.

7. An educated man must have not only his general culture, but also training for a specific occupation. Focalized activity that is directed toward some sort of efficiency has to be included.

8. An educated man must have toward his fellows the habitual attitudes that are commonly called ethical—such attitudes as honor and honesty, helpfulness and good-will and co-operation.

9. An educated man must have loyalties to at least some of the important organizations and institutions of society, such as one's family, one's country, one's church.

10. If there is an inclusive meaning in life, the sort of education that I have been outlining should include some apprehension of, and feeling for, the divine; the ideally educated man will reverence God, and know how to worship.

To determine whether your education is still alive and growing, and not a dead and finished thing, Sherwood Eddy suggests answering the following questions:

- 1. Am I learning to study and to think? 2. Am I getting the knowledge that I need most? Am I learning to enjoy things that are most worthwhile? Am I acquiring esthetic appreciation of the significant values of life? 3. Am I living in the real world or in a corner apart? Am I learning to live, by living now; by acquiring some vital knowledge of the world and its real problems, by actually facing them and beginning to try to solve them now? Or am I evading or postponing life, playing about with its trifles in a thoughtless and unreal academic world? 4. Am I progressing, standing still, or going backward?

Texas Geography

Texas has a habit of getting hot under its collar when supposedly literate persons in other parts of the world display their ignorance at Texas' geography and fail to give acknowledgement to the vast miles of miles that are stretched out on this portion of earth's surface. Texans are ordinarily proud of the great distances between places. Chamber of Commerce bulletins stress the magnitude of everything. In fact it has been done so much that some precautionary measures have been taken to check the idea of over-emphasis and exaggeration that has gone abroad. Perhaps this is the reason or perhaps it is just the plain competition of oil, that causes Texans themselves to shrink the state to half its size when a new oil well comes in. Whatever the cause, Texans can do some wondrous things with their own geography, as is shown by two brilliant examples yesterday in reporting the strike of oil in the Mid-Kansas Lackey No. 1 wildcat two miles southwest of Blackwell.

The San Angelo Standard sent a story over the wires telling the world the well was 40 miles north of San Angelo. The Abilene News says it is about 30 miles southwest of Abilene. We can't make our arithmetic bring San Angelo and Abilene so close together. Abilene is 40 miles east of Sweetwater and San Angelo 80 to the south. That makes 120 miles, which creates a discrepancy of 50 miles with their figures. Either we are wrong or Abilene is 10 miles south of us. If you can't find Abilene there then it must be that San Angelo is 30 miles east of Abilene. All of which is wonderful geography and would bring untold wrath upon the heads of any outsider who attempted it. He would immediately be told by the entire state that Blackwell is but 28 miles from Sweetwater which puts the well within 30 miles of this city—the only city which has a paved highway to the new field. Sweetwater Reporter.

TWINKLES

More about that wind: Ralph Butterfield, being duly sworn, declares he found a Perryton newspaper in his front yard yesterday morning.

The young lady who publicly sang a song about Twink not having IT must be right. The wee lad who got lost but was found didn't crave publicity, and we are quite convinced that his tiny kicks were as much aimed at us as at the camera.

Some people so crave titles that they will do most anything—provided the name attached to it sounds big enough.

They are doing something for about everything now, and the poor silkworm is having a lot of competition too, to judge by the appearance of our socks.

Opinion Differs in Snow-Granite Battle Result

There is divided opinion among those who witnessed the boxing match between Speedy Snow and Kid Granite at the Pla-Mor auditorium last night. Some claim a Snow victory, and some a Granite win, but many called the fight a draw.

Snow didn't get started until well on in the fight. In the first round, Granite closed Snow's left eye with one of his right swings and from then on the Speedy one fought with one eye open.

Neal Grubb and Tob Granite put up a snappy exhibition in the fly-weight class. It was an even fight, both boys giving and taking plenty of punishment.

Young Whittington of Wellington, following in the footsteps of his brother, Fred, won a decision from Jackie Smith. The Wellington youth has apparently learned his lesson from his big brother. His style of fighting is typical of Freddie Whittington.

Next Tuesday night Kid Granite will meet Charlie Cobb in a 15-round championship fight in Roswell, N. M. Cobb has beaten the best lightweights in the southwest and has agreed to stake his mythical crown in a battle with Granite.

Both will enter the ring at 135 pounds.

Only Two Major League Games Not Halted by Rains

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rain swept all but two major league battles from the schedule yesterday, leaving only Chicago and Detroit dry enough for activity on the field.

The Browns shaded the White Sox boy 3 to 2, and the Tigers mauled the Indians by 5 to 0. The Browns stepped into a tie for first place with the idle Athletics.

What is more important than the actual position of the Browns is the pitching Sammy Gray exhibited. For the third time this season the Texas Terror made a winning entry in his pitching ledger, with no defeats to be seen.

The Browns rushed at Ted Lyons for four hits and three runs in the opening round, and this assault held good all afternoon. John Clancy got one run back for the Sox in the home half of the first by driving the ball out of the lot, and a second run was scored in the fourth, but there the attack halted.

The home forces totaled two more hits off Gray than the Browns collected from Lyons and his relief, George Connally, in an 8 to 6 division, but Sammy never once let any doubt arise regarding his mastery of the situation. He passed two men, and received perfect support.

With opening day festivities successfully behind them the Detroit Tigers began their work-a-day games by overpowering Cleveland as Emil Yde pitched excellent ball. The home team stamped through the defence of Willis Hudlin for three runs in the first and two more in the fifth, four more than enough to win. Detroit out-hit Cleveland by 10 to 8, and the Indian drives were well scattered.

The Cardinals saw their home opening with Cincinnati postponed a second time, and countered with offering the season's first double-header as a Saturday attraction—first, that is, barring the morning and afternoon program always carried out in Boston on Patriot's day.

Preakness Stakes to Draw Huge Field

NEW YORK, April 26. (AP)—The thirty-seventh renewal of the Preakness stakes will be run at Pimlico May 10 with 94 nominations, including nearly every leading 3-year-old in the country.

John F. Chamberlin's survivor won the first race in 1873 for the then large sum of $1,500. When H. P. Whitney's Victorian won the classic last spring he added $60,000 to his already large list of purse winnings.

Geldings are not eligible to start, the entry this year consisting of nine fillies and 85 colts. Nellie Morse from the H. C. Fisher stable was the last filly to win the Preakness, in 1924, but was of little worth after her victory.

HARRY GILL

Harry Gill of Illinois—there's a figure to reckon with in the track world!

Track coach at the Champaign school since 1904, his record of achievements with track athletes and teams is one that compares favorably with any other coach of track and field activities.

One of Gill's greatest squads was the 1924 one which marched to the Big Ten championship that season by compiling 74 points, almost twice as many as its nearest rivals.

Numerous Big Ten titles, both indoor and outdoor, have been won by Gill's teams. And as individuals many of his athletes have ranked as some of the most prominent athletes this country has known.

Waco Cubs Show Few Indications of Losing Win Power

(By the Associated Press.)
Managers of seven clubs of the Texas league probably were beginning to suspect today that waiting for the Waco Cubs to crack might prove tedious.

Having won nine of their first 10 starts, the students of Del Pratt are occupying at this time the niche reserved for the Wichita Falls Spudders by a great majority of the sports writers. The Spudders are stumbling along about where the Cubs were supposed to be.

Proponents of the North Texas cause point out that Houston and Waco have waxed fat on the dispirited Beaumont and San Antonio clubs so far and predict it will be something else again when they start entertaining the four outfits from the north country.

Earl Caldwell, the Rogers school teacher, marked up his third straight victory as the Waco Busters defeated Beaumont, 4 to 5, in the closing game of their series yesterday. It was Elmer Hanson's third straight loss. Caldwell helped things along with three singles. Today the Cubs are back home to open against San Antonio.

Houston hung to second place by winning their third straight from the demoralized San Antonio club, 7 to 2. Bill Batters fell on Messenger for six innings in the second frame. Lefty Myers held the Tribe to five hits. Beaumont drops into the bayou today for a series.

The Dallas Steers gained a measure of revenge for a 20-to-13 drubbing on the previous day by stopping the Fort Worth Cats, 6 to 4, in the first game of a double bill in the Panther city and then battling the Atzmen to a 3-3 tie in the afterpiece, halted by darkness at the end of the sixth. Later Herd officials announced the sale of Bill Huber, veteran hot corner guard, to Beaumont. Dallas also turned Pitcher Les Cox back to the White Sox and gave Outfielder Pete Jones his outright release.

Ernie Holman smacked a homer with the bases loaded as the Shreveport Sports licked the Spudders, 15 to 4, in the series final at Wichita Falls. The win gave Art Phelan's sluggers two out of three and established them in fourth place.

The Dallas club was in Wichita Falls to open a series today; Shreveport in Fort Worth.

Indians' Outfielders All Bat Left Handed

If there's anything in right handed pitching being easy for left handed batters, Cleveland should prosper this year. The Indians have four southpaw batters to send against American league pitching, which is 99 per cent right handed.

Miami Warriors Will Play Here in Football Game

Football—next Friday afternoon. A game with the Miami Warriors has been arranged and the first football game of 1929 will be staged at Fair park next Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. By that time the Harvesters, several of whom have been out for track, will be in condition to play.

New boys and some of last year's players have been practicing for a month and are in good condition. Practice has not been marred by accidents. The Miami Warriors have just started practice, but claim they will be ready for a tilt Friday.

When the Harvesters take the field, Stalls, Kahl, Walstad, Lard, and Willis will be missing. Of last year's team, Saltzman, Chastain, Saulsbury, Mullen, Barrett, Seitz, and Ayres will be in uniform. About fifteen new men will also be seen in action.

CLEVELAND, (P)—One innovation of the 1929 major league season that baseball men are watching in Cleveland's solid outfield of left handed hitters.

All four of the Indians' top ranking fly chasers bat left handed. Manager Roger Peckinpough's reply to the inevitable query about this unorthodox arrangement is that it shouldn't be a handicap, since 99 per cent of the American league pitching is right handed.

The southpaw hitters, figuring in the Peckmen's outfield, are Charlie Jamieson, Bib Falk, Dick Porter and Earl Averill.

Jamieson, the veteran of the quartet, is one of the lightest hitters, although his 1928 average was .307.

Falk, obtained from the White Sox in the deal for Catcher Autry, batted but 290 in 1928 when he openly indicated his boredom as a member of Charles Comiskey's team. Under happier conditions Falk batted .345 and .327 in 1926 and 1927 respectively.

Averill and Porter, judging solely by their minor league records, know something about batting. Averill hit .333 and poled out 37 homers in the Pacific coast league last year, while Porter finished with an average of .350 in the International league.

Flying Cop Cuts Into Derby Lead

SULLIVAN, Mo., April 26, (P)—With the toughest lap of the run thus far behind them the 28 survivors in C. C. Pyle's bunion derby looked today toward Rolla, Mo., for their next resting place. Yesterday they completed a 61-mile run from Maplewood, Mo., to Sullivan under the worst conditions yet encountered. A stiff headwind impaired their progress and a bitter cold rain fell all day.

Johnny Salo, the flying cop of Passaic, N. J., cut deeply into the lead of Pete Gavuzzi, Italian waiter of England, by his victory yesterday. Gavuzzi's margin of leadership was narrowed to 2:41:25 hours when he placed fourth. Today's distance is about 45 miles.

Penn's Track and Field Meet Draws Over 3,300 Athletes

PHILADELPHIA, April 26, (P)—More than 3,300 athletes from 500 colleges and high schools were here today for a test of stamina at the University of Pennsylvania's track and field carnival. The two-day meet has drawn entries from all sections of the United States and from Hawaii and Canada.

Interest today centered chiefly on the decathlon, the high hurdles, the college medley relays and the appearance of Paavo Nurmi, the phantom Finn, who hoped to get up new records for the two and three-mile events.

Keen competition was forecast in the decathlon, with Tom Churchill, Oklahoma, and Barney Berlinger, Pennsylvania, the favorites among a dozen other all-around performers.

Upset Victories Feature Bouts of Junior Athletes

CHICAGO, April 26, (P)—A pair of clever, hard-punching amateur scrapers went back to Cleveland today with national junior A. A. U. titles, fruits of upset victories last night.

Frankie Wallace won the bantam-weight championship from Glen Nutt, Tulsa, Okla., who ranked as the favorite.

Henry Schmid, Grand Rapids, Mich., was forced to bow to the skill and punching ability of Louis Disantis, Cleveland, in the 126-pound final.

Winners of titles became eligible to enter the international amateur union championship tournament here, May 22, 23, 24 and 25.

Espinosa, Diegel Win First Point for United States

MCORTOWN, England, April 26, (P)—Leo Diegel and Al Espinosa won the first point for the United States in the Ryder cup professional golf play by defeating Aubrey Bomer and George Duncan, 7 up and 5 to play, in the 36-hole foursome.

Johnny Farrell and Joe Turnesa finished all square with Charles Whitcombe and Archie Compston and the score remained tied in points, 1-1-2 to 1-1-2. The result of the final foursome, Hagen and Golden vs. Ernest Whitcombe and Cotton was to decide the advantage, if any, going into the singles play tomorrow.

The state commissioners also declared the district should have received more interest on the unpaid road bond funds, and that this money should have been kept in Texas, instead of having been deposited in a Kansas bank by the Brown-Crummer company, the purchasers.

THE BIG HAM FAIR
By HAZEL REAVIS

PARIS—Cafe chair and tables are ready for business on the sidewalks, gay and grand in new coats of paint. That means spring has come to Paris. Marbles and hoops are out along the Avenue du Bois de Bologne, and the Punch and Judy shows are doing a steady business in the Champs Elysees. They mean spring, too.

But surest of all spring signs is the ham fair, technically known as the "Poire Aux Jambons." There are other spring fairs, sometimes earlier and some times later, all depending upon the time of year. But until the ham fair is over, and its attendant iron fair, and the gingerbread fair which immediately follows, spring is only a matter of speaking to Parisians.

The ham fair is an annual glorification of pig and the products of pig. Ham is the namesake, but sausages are the serious business. There are big ones and little ones, smoked and unsmoked, cased and uncased, and all presented in indelicate amounts.

SAUSAGES OF SORTS
France is not a country where sausage is just sausage. There are various classifications according to shape and origin, and in order to buy sausage intelligently one must have a vocabulary.

For instance, there are long sausages sometimes as long as six feet, which come curled up like snails. They are ordinarily called boudin and sell by the yard.

There are short sausages, known as chipolata, corresponding to "little pork." Flat sausages, resembling chipolata that have been pressed, are called crepinettes.

In the smoked sausage field there

Well, Marion, Here's a Farm for You

When Marion Talley, grand opera star, announced that she would quit her profession and take up farming, the chamber of commerce of Parsons, Kas., decided to offer as a gift to the former Kansas City girl the farm pictured above, a 160-acre stretch of land near Parsons. The only condition imposed was that Miss Talley must live on the farm. Harry A. Bryant, president of the Parsons Commercial Bank, and owner of the farm, is pictured at the right.

is a product for nearly every ancient town of France, especially the eastern border towns.

Saucisson must be reckoned with. It is the master sausage of great size, some time as much as a foot in diameter. The big fellows of great fame come from Lyon and Arles, and one good slice is the equivalent of a Christmas dinner in calories.

All the pink and white sausage makers and all the famed sausage making towns aim to be represented at the ham fair. Little booths artistically festooned and garlanded with sausages or studded with hams are erected along one of the outer boulevards, always the same boulevard.

Restaurants and householders, amateurs, and professional sausage lovers, nibble their way through the fair. It used to be possible to nibble all the way. But of late years there are so many stalls that the man or woman does not live who could accept all the sample tidbits offered, and come forth alive.

SAUERKRAUT ON THE SIDE

Sauerkraut, invariable sidekick with smoked sausages, also is in evidence at the ham fair. There are vats and barrels of it and not a bit made on the other side of the Rhine.

An iron fair always shares the ham fair premises and crowds. It is the grand spring cleaning and get-together of the junk men of Paris. They strew the pavements on the outskirts of the fair with everything from broken nails to bed springs. Old crocks, some broken and some whole, antique bric a brac and decrepit furniture are piled in heaps to be sold for what they will bring. Even the offscourings of the art world find their way to the iron fair and there are blocks of tattered, ill-painted medallions to be had for a whistle.

A Washington detective sought a man possessed of an unusual watch. He found him by asking strangers the time of day.

What Satisfied Users Say

Walter Fly, of Vega and Amarillo—a Prominent Phillips User

Scene on Fly's Farm South of Vega, Showing 5 Tractors which Use Phillips Products 100%

The following are excerpts from bona-fide letters on file at Phillips Petroleum office, written by satisfied customers. They tell their own story!

Vega, Tex., March 20, 1929

Phillips Petroleum Company,
Amarillo, Texas.

Gentlemen:

I started to use Phillips oil last July 1, and find it superior to all oils I ever used. I had the first tractor used successfully in the Panhandle in 1913. I think I have used about all kinds of oil made.

Anyone can't go wrong in buying Phillips oil.

Yours truly,
Herchel Oliver

Hereford, Texas, March 21, 1929

Phillips Petroleum Company,
Amarillo, Texas.

Dear Sirs:

I have obtained complete satisfaction from the use of Phillips motor oils and Phillips 66. Before using them, my oil was costing me much more money. Now I am getting exactly as good service from Phillips oils and will continue to use them in both my tractors and my automobiles.

Your service is excellent.

Yours very truly,
J. L. Hutson

Hereford, Tex., March 21, 1929

Phillips Petroleum Company,
Amarillo, Texas.

Gentlemen:

I want to tell you of the extra fine service I have obtained from the use of your Phillips oils and motor fuel. Recently we overhauled a tractor that had completed about 3500 hours of plowing. We found a very small amount of carbon which showed us that the best cleaning oil was doing a correct job. We also found that there was practically no wear on any part of the motor. I am convinced there is no economy in buying bargain oils. Phillips motor and tractor oils meet my demands and I have never found so complete satisfaction in any other oil.

Yours very truly,
F. W. Brunson

Hereford, Texas, March 21, 1929

Phillips Petroleum Company,
Amarillo, Texas.

I am an Oakland and Pontiac dealer and am very much interested in lubricating oils. I have made a number of endurance tests and operating tests and find Phillips motor oils are far superior to any I can obtain. Therefore, I am using them exclusively and am glad to recommend them to my customers.

Yours respectfully,
Dixon Motor Co.

"ALWAYS THE LOWEST PRICES IN PAMPA" WEST FOSTER AVE. PAMPA

Tom Finty, Jr., Well Known Texas Writer, Died Last Night

DALLAS, April 26 (AP)—Thousands of newspaper readers throughout Texas and the Southwest felt a personal loss today at the death of Tom Finty, Jr., member of the staff of the A. T. Belo corporation for 31 years, at his home here last night. He had been seriously ill for many months, and was 61 years old.

Although his articles in the Dallas News, Dallas Journal, and Galveston News had been widely read and reprinted for many years, Mr. Finty was perhaps most affectionately known as the originator of Col. S. Crooge, "the known Nelson county cowman." Through this medium he delighted readers of the state with his whimsical discourses on politics and community life. His intimate acquaintance over the state enabled him to write with rare insight.

During the 31 years with the Belo corporation Mr. Finty rose from a correspondent in a small East Texas town to an executive of the corporation and at the time of his death was editor of the Dallas Journal. He had been a director of the Belo corporation since 1918. He gave largely of his time to the constructive endeavors of the three papers owned by the corporation. Many of his articles were reprinted in book or pamphlet form. One of his best known was "The Farmer and the Mule," a treatise on agricultural conditions in Texas.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Saturday from a funeral home here, where the body was resting today. Burial will be here.

Funeral services will be G. B. Dealey, J. P. Lubben, E. B. Doran, Emnis Gargill of Houston, W. M. Thornton of Austin, J. W. Gentry, W. A. Dealey, E. M. Dealey, Clarence Ousley, and George Waverly Briggs.

Old Sea Dog 'Made the King Laugh'

Fifty years ago a mischievous young British midshipman assigned to the ironclad Bacchante nearly upset the captain's gig by his skylarking. That midshipman now is King George of England and he was visited the other day at Bognor by 75-year-old Bill King, who was coxswain of the small boat. "I made the King laugh," chuckled King, who is pictured above after the interview in which he reminded the convalescing emperor of his sea-going adventure.

PUBLIC FORUM

Editor Pampa Daily News: I cannot leave Pampa without expressing to the fine people of this community and of White Deer my deep appreciation of the kind and sympathetic assistance and words of comfort you gave me and Mrs. Frizzell after the accidental injury and death of our son, Ralph.

Your interest and sympathy have been greatly comforting to us in this sad occurrence, and we shall always look upon your community as one of the most friendly and helpful we have ever known.

To W. W. Evans of White, Deer, who found our boy, and brought him to Pampa hospital and who stayed with him almost constantly until his passing, I cannot say enough words of appreciation. It was he who was instrumental in having our son baptized Monday morning by the Rev. Tom W. Brabham, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

To Dr. W. Purviance, Dr. A. Cole, and Dr. Wild, who so faithfully worked to save our boy's life, we can never repay their kindness.

I cannot say enough about the treatment we received at the Pampa hospital. The officials and nurses have been very gracious.

I also wish to thank the staff of the Malone company for courteous and kind treatment. They knew what to do without asking and afforded us every courtesy.

I cannot see everyone who visited the hospital and called during the illness of Ralph, so I take this means to thank them all and say that Mrs. Frizzell and my self will never forget Pampa and White Deer as long as we live. We know what real sympathy and hospitality are after our visit to this part of the state.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

William D. Nowlin makes these remarks on "Easy Publicity." The reason why some men are always destructive in their methods is because it takes less ability to become conspicuous along the line of destruction than it does along the line of construction. The wild boar can get into a flower garden, root up and destroy in one night what it would not produce in a century. The stupid idiot can strike a match and touch it to a great cathedral, which took the brains and brawn of the nation a decade to build, and destroy it in a few hours. The destructive man is usually following the course of least resistance and quickest results—cheap notoriety.

Sensational preachers are first cousins to destructive workers. Such quick results are usually counterfeit. Even among house builders, it takes some of them a long time to learn that a house is not half built with a poor foundation to support it, even though the frame is put together and the house completed along the best of plans and with skilled workmanship. A foundation is no less needed in building the kingdom of God.

The minister will preach on the following subjects next Sunday: "The Religion of Unspottedness" and "The Man Who Made the Best of Himself."

Now is the time for the foundation to be laid for our revival which is set to begin the 19th day of May. What are you doing in assisting preparation for this meeting? One thing you can do: Be on time, every time and bring some one else with you.

Attendance in Bible school was short last Sunday. Let us increase this work.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: The Suffering Servant of Jehovah.

Scripture Lesson: Isaiah 53:1-12.
1. Who hath believed our message? and to whom hath the arm of Jehovah been revealed?

2. For He grew up before Him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground; He hath no form nor comeliness; and when we see Him, there is no beauty that we should desire Him.

3. He was despised, and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief; and as one from whom men hide their face He was despised; and we esteemed Him not.

4. Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted.

5. But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed.

6. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and Jehovah hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all.

7. He was oppressed, yet when He was afflicted He opened not His mouth; as a lamb that is led to the slaughter, and as a sheep that before its shearers is dumb, so He opened not His mouth.

8. By oppression and judgment He was taken away; and as for His generation, who among them considered that He was cut off out of the land of the living for the transgression of my people to whom the stroke was due?

9. And they made His grave with the wicked; and with a rich man in His death; although He had done no violence, neither was any deceit in His mouth.

10. Yet it pleased Jehovah to bruise Him; He hath put Him to grief: when thou shalt make His soul an offering for sin, He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days, and the pleasure of Jehovah shall prosper in His hand.

11. He shall see of the travail of His soul, and shall be satisfied: by the knowledge of Himself shall My righteous servant justify many; and He shall bear their iniquities.

12. Therefore will I divide Him a portion with the great, and He shall divide the spoil with the strong; because He poured out His soul unto death, and was numbered with the transgressors; yet He bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors.

Time—The conservative view is that this chapter was written by Isaiah near the close of his life, about B. C. 685. The radical view is that it was written from 150 to 200 years later.

Place—On the first supposition, Jerusalem; on the second, Babylon, amid the exiles.

Golden Text: With His stripes we are healed.—Isa. 53:5.

INTRODUCTION

The fifty-third chapter of Isaiah, the selection for our lesson today, is the crowning chapter of the wonderful prophecy of this great prophet of Israel. Probably more sermons have been preached from this chapter and more treatises written than from any other chapter in the Bible, with the exception of the third chapter of John. Isaiah is called the evangelical prophet and his book is sometimes called "the gospel according to Isaiah," because of the numerous and vivid prophecies of the Messiah. This chapter is written in the past tense, as if the writer were a historian recording the story of a man who had already lived and died instead of being a prophetic writer under the influence of divine inspiration of a man that was to live seven hundred years after the words were penned.

One of the greatest proofs of the inspiration of the Old Testament prophets is the large number of definite promises which were accurately fulfilled hundreds of years after they were written, and one of the greatest proofs of the truth that Jesus of Nazareth is the Messiah is the fact of the completeness and accuracy with which He fulfilled so many and so varied prophecies written in regard to Him by different prophets hundreds of years before He was born.

REDEMPTION

The disciplinary, sanctifying power of suffering is declared on many other pages of those older Scriptures, and is one of the tenets of other, ethnic religions, but here the larger teaching of redemption by means of vicarious, substitutionary suffering is unmistakably set forth.

Beyond Israel, personified as the teacher and prophet of revelation, and Israel disciplined by hard experiences, the Suffering Servant of Jehovah, the prophet discerns, far-off, the actual Sufferer and Redeemer. This fact makes the passage we are studying for the Christian one of the most significant in the Old Testament.

The Suffering Servant
In connection with the great outstanding gospel truth of redemption through suffering—the cross, the blood of the Lamb—there is an implication of the other gospel truth, that the world is won to a participation in the salvation effected by the Servant through reflection in His unparalleled sufferings and patient demeanor. "His cross is his throne; by His death He has ruled the ages."

"This suffering has been in order to accomplish a divine plan of redemption—He offers a trespass-offering for the sins of the people, in order to purchase their redemption thereby—His death is such a substitution and compensation for sin. When this has been accomplished, the condition of humiliation has come to an end, and the exaltation of the Servant begins—This prophecy of the Servant Who dies and rises from the grave finds its only fulfillment in the death of Jesus Christ and in His resurrection and exaltation to His heavenly throne? (C. A. Briggs).

As Men Saw Him

"While the church has never failed to see its Jesus in the Suffering Servant of these verses, it has been loath to apply to Him the literalness of the description. Jesus of Nazareth must rather have possessed a most desirable beauty, infinite grace of face and form. The suggestion that His countenance was so repulsive—leprosy is hinted at (cp. Job 19:19)—as to make men dread to look upon it (ver. 3) is hateful to His disciples. There are three interpretations that relieve us from such a reading of the words: (1) The language is entirely figurative, indicating in a general way our Lord's accepted hum-

Has More Strength Now Than in Years

"I was in wretched health twelve years, and I would not take anything in the world for the good Sargon did me. I had a bad case of stomach trouble and sometimes would have to stay in bed two or three days—just couldn't do my housework. I was never hungry, but would force myself to eat and then my suffering would begin.

"My stomach, chest and throat would burn, and there was a choking sensation that seemed to affect my heart. My shoulders pained me and while I was told it was rheumatism, I know now it was due to the upset condition of my whole system. I was badly constipated."

"I felt like life was not worth living. I spent lots of money on medicines and treatments, but nothing did me any good. My sons persuaded me to try the Sargon treatment, and it is the most wonderful medicine I ever took. By the time I had finished the first bottle I felt like a different woman. Sargon Soft Mass Pills are the grandest liver medicine I have ever used. They are not drastic like other pills, but they have certainly overcome my constipation."

"I now have more strength and energy than in years. The pain in my shoulders is gone, and I can now sleep and rest at night. I am hungry all the time, eat lots of things I could not eat before and never suffer with indigestion afterwards."

The above statement was made by Mrs. Florence Tate, of 2534 Brinkman street, Houston. She is the mother of eight sons.

Sargon may be obtained in Pampa from Fatheres Drug Co., and in Mexican from Erwin Drug Co.—(adv.)

business. (2) The tortured, bruised, blood-stained Jesus of the cross alone is represented. (3) Or, this is the way He appeared to those who rejected and hated Him. In the prophecy the prophet is speaking for those who disbelieved his message: telling why they did. Only to His lovers is Christ "altogether lovely." When did those who deny Him find Him such? The third interpretation seems to us the most natural and satisfactory.

In Our Stead

"Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrow; yet we did not esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted." Here it is again the prophet himself who is speaking. His words are in a sense a rejoinder to his disbelievers. "Yes, He was indeed a man who knew what pain and sorrow are, this suffering Servant; but He bore it all for our sakes." "He was wounded because we had sinned, 'twas our misdeeds that crushed Him, 'twas for our welfare that He was chastised, the blows that fell to Him have brought us healing" (ver. 5, Moffatt). Sinful men are lost sheep—Jesus' own figure of speech—who need not only a Shepherd, gently to lead them home, but One whose broad shoulders are broad enough and willing to take over the burden of their guilt."

The Silence of Jesus

"As a sheep that before his shearers is dumb, so He opened not His mouth." Innumerable times has the gospel been preached from these words; as Philip did to the eunuch (Acts 9:35). It is a prophecy that the Christian always recalls when he thinks of his Redeemer in the hands of His murderers. (Op. Mat. 26:63; 27:12-14; Mark 14:61; 15: Luke 21:9; John 19:9.)

"He was wounded for our transgressions. These is but one cross in the world, it is the Cross of the Christ, the Cross whereon God's redeeming Love dies against the sin of the world.—Rev. Edward W. Lewis.

"It was the sovereign decree of heaven which constituted Christ the great substitute for His people. No man taketh this office upon himself. Even the Son of God stooped not to this burden uncalled. 'My son,' said good old Abraham, 'God shall provide Himself a lamb for a burnt-offering.' He has done so in the martyr; and what God provides, God must and will accept.—C. H. Spurgeon.

RICH GIRL POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

"THIS HAS HAPPENED—MILDRED LAWRENCE meets STEPHEN ARMSTRONG when she rescues her fox from a thief who had snatched it in a crowd. Their friendship grows until PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, tries to lure him away from her. Then HUCK CONNOR becomes infatuated with Pamela and she assumes herself by playing with both men.

Pamela's brother HAROLD, is in love with Mildred but suspects that she cares more for Stephen than for him. Mildred suspects that Huck is head of a gambling ring and warns Harold but he becomes entangled. He begs her to go on with him and she consents, hoping to use her influence against Huck. They drive by her home so she can change her dress and they learn that her mother has had a serious accident. Harold gets a doctor and remains in every way until she is out of danger, and tells her to await at home for a week until her mother is better.

Stephen hears of the accident and comes to see Mildred, feeling a little regret over having rejected her. They plan a picnic at the weekend but the week-end while Pamela hears of it and tells Stephen that Mildred is trying to win Harold for his money.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

STEPHEN'S renewed interest in Mildred had driven Pamela into a furious temper. She had tried desperately to monopolize him, but Stephen was stubborn and when he wanted to go to Mildred's he went there.

Pamela resorted to an attempt to make him jealous by accepting Huck's ever-ready attentions. Of late Huck had been up a blind alley as far as Mildred was concerned. With Harold he had made all the progress he needed, but with Pamela he had been getting practically nowhere until she decided to use him to inflame Stephen.

But it was neither Pamela nor any jealousy of Huck that prevented Stephen from keeping his date with Mildred. At the last minute a "hot prospect had loomed up on his business horizon and he dared not let go," as he explained to her.

Mildred was as cheerful about it as she could be under the circumstances. Stephen himself was terribly disappointed, especially as he was unable to suggest that they make it the next day instead. He'd promised to play golf with Pamela Judson on Sunday.

"You're coming down on Monday, aren't you?" Stephen said just before they hung up. "See you then."

Mildred could not pretend under Connie's sharp eyes that she was not sorely disappointed over the spoiling of her day.

"Why don't you call up Harold and make a date with him?" Connie asked. "I'll bet nothing would stand in his way."

"Perhaps not," Mildred agreed; "but he and Stephen are different in that respect. Stephen can't afford to do as he pleases."

"Well, better half a man than no joy ride at all," Connie chirped. "Go on, call him up. Want me to do it for you?"

"No, you've been in school all week, Connie, and you've been a good kid. I'll stay in and you can get some tennis."

CONNIE considered. "Well, if you'll promise to go out tomorrow. Now wherein . . . times . . . do you suppose my request is?"

"It's up in mother's closet. I found it there the other day when I was cleaning."

Connie went for it. Soon she was back walling her had luck. "The old cat's last tie with earth I started," she said dolefully. "I'll get up the request to show Mildred the snapped strings."

On her desk at the hotel she found a note from the manager, asking her to come to his office. A foreboding of trouble crept over her.

"That's too bad," Mildred sympathized. "I'm afraid you can't have a new one, Connie."

"I'll get one of the boys at school to fix it," Connie said, "but since I can't play today, why don't you go ahead and call Harold? You can save the day yet and that will give me time to fix myself up for tomorrow."

Mildred shook her head, but later, when she was putting the sandwiches in the refrigerator, it came to her that she might as well see Harold if she could and have the talk that her mother's accident had put off.

She reached him at the hotel just as he was leaving for Westchester. He was "ticked pink," he said, to stop for her.

Mildred put on the red beret again, but she left the sandwiches in the refrigerator. Harold and nunchucking didn't seem to harmonize in her mind.

His appearance, when he came for her, confirmed her opinion. He was sallow and unwholesome, like a creature too long denied the sunlight.

Mildred had not seen him for several days and even in that short space of time he had changed. But she said nothing to him in a personal way until they were out of the Manhattan traffic and he could drive with less concentration.

But when she did break through her silence to discuss she wasted no words.

"You'd better tell me what's on your mind, Harold, for I can use that whatever it is. It's too big a burden for you to carry alone."

"I wish you'd not try to pump me, Mildred," he returned impatiently. "I've stopped myself. Finally:

"Well," he admitted, "I am worried about Huck. He—he's paying too much attention to Pamela."

"Oh," Mildred breathed easier. She believed that Pamela was better able to take care of herself than her younger brother was.

"This past week," Harold went on, "you've been away from the hotel, of course, else you'd have known about it. They've been everywhere together. And I can't stand to see Pamela with him. She's a little fool, selfish and hard as nails, but I think a lot of her, Mildred . . ."

"Can't you stop it? Can't you cable your father?"

"No. I don't dare . . . I mean . . ." He stopped in confusion, and Mildred saw that haunted look of deadly fear again in his eyes. Then he turned upon her, almost in anger. "See what your meddling has done?" he cried. "Get it alone, will you? I tell you I can't talk. I can't interfere."

Mildred looked at him as though he had turned into an utter stranger before her eyes.

"Pam would . . . make me pay for it," he said lamely and Mildred knew that he lied.

She felt so sorry for him her heart ached. "Don't worry so much," she said haltingly. "Pamela can look after herself."

"You don't know Huck Connor," Harold replied and his hands at the steering wheel showed white as bones at the knuckles. Mildred could guess that he gripped it so to still his trembling.

SHE changed the subject then; tried to take his mind off Huck and Pamela. Something must be done for him, though. She would think it over until Monday. Then, if she thought best, she would go to Mr. Dazel.

But by Monday she was uncertain as to the best course to follow. Harold had called her a meddling. She didn't like that. Perhaps she would only make things harder for him if she asked someone else to interfere.

She came to work, still undecided and wondering if there was the slightest possibility that a talk with Huck Connor would do any good.

"I just can't afford to lose my position," Mildred cautioned herself. "Perhaps if I keep my eyes and ears open I can find a better way of helping Harold than by going to Mr. Dazel."

It happened that she did go to Mr. Dazel, but not on Harold's behalf. On her desk at the hotel she found a note from the manager asking her to come to his office as soon as she arrived. Its tone was peremptory and chilling. A foreboding of trouble crept over Mildred as she prepared to obey the summons.

She had come a few minutes early, but she knew Mr. Dazel would be in his office. She folded the note and put it in a drawer of her desk. She was somewhat surprised to see, when she pulled the drawer out, that her substitute's private possessions were still there. A fountain pen, a box of powder, a bar of chocolate, a mirror and a notebook and other things.

Someone approached as Mildred crossed the drawer, and she looked up in surprise at an attractive girl, nodding coolly, seated herself at the desk with an air of proprietorship.

Mildred stood still, not fully understanding.

"Oh," said the other girl, casually, "you're Miss Lawrence, aren't you? Well, I'm your successor. (To Be Continued)

By SISTER MARY

Hundreds of mothers face the problem of serving vegetables to a family much like the proverbial horse who was led to water. The utmost skill in cookery is necessary to make the average family eat and like vegetables.

It seems to be accepted as a general rule that the way to make the most of both flavor and food value in vegetables is to bake or steam them instead of boiling them. If they must be boiled there are certain precautions which must be observed.

Vegetables to be boiled should be plunged at once into rapidly boiling water.

Cabbage, onions, turnips, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and other strong-flavored vegetables should be boiled rapidly in a large amount of water in an uncovered container. Delicately flavored vegetables such as string beans, peas and asparagus should be gently simmered in as small a quantity of water as it is possible to use to cook them. They should be kept covered for the most part.

The greatest care should be taken that vegetables are not overcooked. This is one of the most common faults and causes the worst results. Overcooking of vegetables makes them unpalatable as well as causing other damaging effects. Loss of color in green vegetables is due to overcooking as well as improper cooking. Delicately flavored vegetables lose their natural sweetness and strong-flavored vegetables develop a strong flavor if overcooked. The longer a vegetable is cooked, the greater the loss in nutrients. No matter what method of cooking is used, too exact care cannot be taken to prevent overcooking.

Spinach is one of the earliest of the spring vegetables and, properly cooked, is attractive to look at and pleasant to eat. Its merits as a food are many, since it contains iron and important vitamins.

Unfortunately it does not enjoy the popularity it deserves. Too often it is overlooked and comes to the table an unappetizing greenish brown.

Spinach must be very thoroughly cleaned before it will be palatable, no matter how it may be cooked. Gritty spinach is enough to make even the most conscientious vegetable eater forsake it. The first thing to do when preparing spinach for cooking is to cut off the roots. This separates the leaves so the sand may be washed out. Wash the spinach through many waters, lifting it gently and taking care not to bruise the leaves. Lift the spinach from the water. Merely pouring the water off simply distributes the sand back through the leaves. A salt water bath of an hour or longer helps to draw the sand from the stems and insures against any tiny insects in the crevices of the leaves. After a salt water bath the vegetable should be lifted to a clear water bath for thorough rinsing.

Cook spinach in an open kettle with no water except that which clings to the leaves. When the spinach is wilted it is done.

The simplest way to serve spinach is to chop it quite fine, season it with salt, pepper and butter and let it cook just a minute in the seasoning. A garnish of slices of hard-cooked egg or lemon is attractive. Plenty of butter must be used.

Lemon Sauce

The following lemon sauce is deli-

Two tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 cup spinach water 1 egg yolk.

Melt butter and add flour. Cook until bubbling and stir in spinach water. Bring to the boiling point stirring constantly and add lemon juice. Heat to the boiling point and remove from the fire. Stir in yolk of egg and season with salt and pepper. Serve at once.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON—The game of golf, says John Monteith, Jr., can be made much less expensive and at the same time more enjoyable to those who play.

And Monteith is not a professional golfer. He is a scientist. Until a year ago he was connected with the division of forage crops of the United States department of agriculture. He knows so much about the business side of golf, however, that the government was persuaded to give him a leave of absence that he might devote his time in helping the U. S. G. A. grow better grass for putting greens and fairways. It is not an uncommon thing for golfers to become thoroughly disgusted with the turf around their courses. More than one club management has been changed on account of this. It is Monteith's job to eliminate this condition in so far as possible.

Bobby Jones is one of the strongest supporters of Monteith's work. Bobby has been complaining for quite a while that he is not able to do his best putting on the Bermuda grass greens that prevail in the south. He wants them changed, and has appealed to Monteith.

Wants Turf Garden

In an effort to aid the famous golfer Monteith is endeavoring to have located at Atlanta what he calls a turf garden. By means of this turf garden he will be able to find out just what grass is best suited to the soil and climatic conditions of the south, and club officials in this section may be governed accordingly.

Last season there were established 15 new demonstration turf gardens on golf courses in different sections of the country. These are supported and cared for by local clubs, under the direction of the greens section of the U. S. G. A.

They are at Minneapolis, Chicago, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Boston, New York, Atlanta City and Richmond.

Experiments of all kinds are carried on at the turf gardens. Grass seeds for putting greens and fairways are planted and watched carefully. Various kinds of fertilizers are tried out, and those found to be most satisfactory are recorded. Cutting experiments are conducted, and the best length for grass on the greens and fairways determined.

And the countless other details necessary to the maintenance of golfers' good dispositions are attended to.

Monteith says one of the reasons that golf is described as "a rich man's game" is due to the fact that too little attention has been given the turf problem by club officials.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent needlessly on golf courses. A club located in the south will send a golfer to Braeburn or another course. There he will put on greens that are a source of everlasting joy. He returns home and persuades his club to provide the same greens. Several hundreds of dollars will be sunk to no avail. No account has been taken of soil and climatic conditions.

It is Monteith's job to see that clubs who have money to spend on turf spend it wisely.
