"It's Like This—"

HOW TO CELEBRATE the opening of the new Sante Fe line (C. & O. W.) from Pampa to Cheyenne and Clinton, Okla., and points beyond in the near future is raising some problems.

Pampa wants to show her welcome to the new territory. Cheyenne through her Platonic club and Clinton through her Chamber of Commerce are just as eager to extend greetings to Pampa and intermediate points. Oklahoma City wants to show her interest in the newly opened territory and to bring her jobbers as far as Pampa.

A logical plan appears to be for Pampa to sponsor a special train when traffic is formally initiated, and to make a trip to Clinton and return, stopping at each principal route enroute. A few weeks later why not have a jubilee here and invite Oklahoma City, Clinton, and Cheyenne, with neighboring points, to come here?

It seems impossible for all concerned to celebrate at the same time, and the above plan would enable each delegation to cover the line and return in one day.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS in Panhandle includes the raising of funds for a museum to house relics and records of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society.

Last year a plan was devised; this year the plan should be worked. Judge H. E. Hoover of Canadian is chairman of a committee appointed by President T. D. Hobart to devise ways and means of financing the structure. He has offered to be one of a number of pioneers who will donate funds for the project.

We do believe, however that the pioneers alone should not bear the cost. There are many younger folk whose interest in Panhandle and its making is equally strong, and who would be glad to have a part in providing an appropriate building for the rapidly growing museum.

FRED HASKETT, editor of the Childress Daily Index before it was sold to the present owners, is making quite a specialty of planning and managing tours.

He tried his hand at a tour to the Hoover inaugural, following up his work as publicity director for the Anti-Smith Democrats, and now he is promoting an All-Texas Daily and Industrial tour through the Southeastern states—Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

Plans are to leave Fort Worth at 12:30 p. m. May 16 and return to Dallas May 25. Highspots in the tour will include inspection of Borden and Carnation plants, the Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, and rayon mills and plants, dairy and state experiment farms, hosiery and knitting factories, Biltmore industries and furniture factories, cotton bagging and tie plants, and miscellaneous establishments and scenery.

The trip has the endorsement of many civic organizations. It will cost each individual from $135 to $155. Several factors are outstanding in the Texas manufacturing situation. One is that this state has the resources for tremendous industrial expansion. Another is that it is away down the list in manufacture of cotton products, comparing it only with the South. Textile manufacturing is moving southward, but slack market conditions are discouraging the movement. New uses for cotton must be discovered, and Senator Tom Connally recently called upon the department of commerce to make studies along this line.

Regional interest in such trips would be largely in dairying, and in this the slogan of the tour would apply: "What the Old South Has Done, Texas Can Do."

THE AMERICAN LEGION is doing a worthwhile work in taking an interest in the school children and providing speakers to stress such subjects as good sportsmanship, clean living, proper ideals or citizenship.

The business man as such rarely has the time, and often is not given the opportunity to meet the children who in a few years will be taking over civic affairs as grown citizens. Through such organizations as the American Legion, however, these obstacles are removed and a wholesome contact is brought about.

The offering of a trophy for the senior making the best scholastic record is likewise a good plan.

The American Legion, now composed of mature men whose experiences and subsequent studies have given them thoughtful attitudes toward national and international problems, can very logically take the lead in sponsoring right trends of thought in relations between people and nations.

TWINKLES

The editors are coming, and this will be one convention in which the ladies are guests merely, not participants. But some cynic will say that the final authorities are the wives, so there may not be much of a distinction between this meeting and any other.

Old Tack is coming, but we didn't know it in time to put Mary Garden on the entertainment program.

One of our lino-stenographers insists on writing it PEN-handle Press Association, but we object strenuously—half the editors won't answer letters, and when they do take pen in hand you can't read their writing.

When Clyde Warwick retired as secretary of the association there was left only room for improvement in the legibility of the records. However, he usually uses a typewriter, and the bankers can read his checks ten feet away.

Editors and wives may be smarter than other folks, but if they aren't some of them are going to ask to see the "oil pools." Will someone show them a slush pit in such instances?

Merle Crowell, editor of American magazine, says "the small town editor is a wholesome oasis in a jazzed-up desert." Since most of us write dry editorials, we don't see his point.

Lindbergh refuses to answer questions as to where he has been or is going, and it would serve him right if he should sometime be refused information as to where he "is".

The Louisiana governor swears eloquently. We always hate to interview an official like that—so much is said that can't be printed and the reporter has virtually to write the interview himself.

Skirts will be knee length this summer, but the information failed to say whether that measure was on a quiet day or with the wind blowing.

One often reads of "mysterious strangers." All strangers are more or less strange, and therefore open to criticism. We need a city hall in which to have more public meetings and to rub the strangeness off those whom we do not know.

MISSING FACES AND NEW ONES

featured the opening of another baseball season. Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, two of the greatest players ever in baseball, are missing from the major leagues this season. Cobb has retired, Speaker is managing the Newark Internationals. The prominent new faces—and perhaps one or more will prove one of the greats of the game—including Outfielders Porter and Averill with Cleveland, Pitcher Ad Liska with Washington, Catcher Ferrell with St. Louis Browns, Shortstop Charley Gelbert with St. Louis Cads, and Outfielder Johnson with Detroit.

THREE GAMES
IN TEXAS GOOD

But Highly Touted Nine of Wichita Falls Is Defeated

(By the Associated Press.)
Some 40,000 fans who turned out for the opening of the Texas league race yesterday were rewarded with sparkling exhibitions in three of the four games played. The weather was perfect, and most of the mayors exhibited fair control.

Houston, defending champion, got away to a winning start by beating out Beaumont, 5 to 3, in a 10-inning affair that christened the Shippers' new park.
Martin's screaming homer in the extra frame proved decisive. For nine innings, it was a pitchers' battle between Wachtel, veteran spitballer obtained by Houston from Port Worth, and Elmer Hanson, Exporter mound ace.

Pratt's hustling Waco Cubs shaded San Antonio, 1 to 0, in another hard-fought game before crowded stands at the Alamo city. Caldwell held the Indians to five hits, while Messenger limited the Cubs to six.

Sterling mound work by Barnabe, veteran southpaw, featured the season inaugural at Dallas, in which the rebuilt Steer machine made 14,000 fans happy by whipping Port Worth, 7 to 2.
Barnabe, accounted the star of the Herd's new mound corps, held the Cats to seven blows. Harrington gave the Atzmen one of their runs with a homer in the ninth.

The only debacle of the day was the 14-to-4 rout of the much-feared Wichita Falls Spudders by Shreveport in the Louisiana city. Another home crowd was made happy when the Sport sluggers pounded four Spudder pitchers for 18 safeties, including a goodly number of extra-base clouts.

Brown went the route for the Sports,
and, although gauged for 12 safeties, kept them scattered.

Although attendance figures were not available, due to the fact they are kept secret until each city has had its opening day, it was believed the estimated 14,000 at Dallas topped the list.
Fort Worth will have its opening today, when Dallas hops over to the neighboring city. Other games will be played as yesterday, with Waco at San-Antonio, Wichita Falls at Shreveport, and Houston at Beaumont.

CLARENCE
HOFFMAN
WHITE SOX

Clarence Hoffman, a big boy with a big bat, is showing aside veterans to carve a niche for himself in the Chicago White Sox outfield. Hoffman is billed to play center field in place of Johnny Mostil, a veteran fly chaser.

Hoffman used his 175 pounds and 73 inches of height to lambast the ball for a .335 average in the Pacific Coast league last year. He also distinguished himself with 569 put-outs in 186 games, leading the circuit in chances accepted. Clarence cost the Sox $25,- 000.

The former Sacramento outfielder began his professional baseball work at Muskogee, Okla., in 1923 when but 20 years of age. His home is at Belleville, Ill.

Transportation Is Needed to Canyon
For Pampa Entries

All preparations for the Pampa entries in the first district interscholastic league have been completed with the exception of transportation. Principal R. B. Fisher said this morning.
Great difficulty is being encountered in getting transportation for the students, he said.

Some of the contestants will have to leave Friday morning, while others will not be forced to leave until the following morning.

Anyone who can attend the meet and take a car or who can lend a car for the purpose of taking students is asked to call Mr. Fisher at 71 during the day or at 677-J in the evening. At least 10 cars will be needed.

There will be 52 Pampa students to make the trip to Canyon.

CANYON, April 18.—Everything is in readiness for the annual meet of the first district Texas Interscholastic league here Friday and Saturday. The entire faculty of the West Texas State Teachers' college will serve on judging teams, and superintendents from all over the district will assist in directing the activities.

W. E. Lockhart, director-general, announced yesterday that so far as possible, out-of-state judges would be provided for the final literary contests in order to do away with possibilities of dissatisfaction.

Contestants will begin to arrive Friday afternoon, and the town will be crowded to capacity to take care of 1,200 high school students who will be entered. Winners in this district will compete in the state finals at Austin two weeks after the first district meet.

BLAZING the
SPORTS TRAIL

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
You can hear a flock of comparisons between the old and the new generation flying about almost any day. Is Horton Smith a better golfer now at 20 than Bobby Jones was at the same tender age? Is Lacoste or Cochet a greater tennis star than Big Bill Tilden was in his prime? Is Ruth or Hornsby a greater all-around asses on the ball field than was Ty Cobb or Hans Wagner.

From there you can go into a debate on the relative merits of the new Chicago Cubs, which Joe McCarthy is leading forth with high pennant hopes this year, as compared with the famous machine piloted by the late Frank Chance. Before you start look over these lineups:

Cubs of 1906-7-8 Cubs of 1929

Chance first Grimm Evers second Hornsby
Tinker third English
Steinfeldt third Beck
Schulte R. F. Cuyler
Hofman C. F. Wilson
Sheppard L. F. Stephenson
Kling C Hartnett
Brown pitcher Root
Reulbach pitcher Carlson
Overall pitcher Blake or Malone
Pfeister pitcher Nehf

At the outset the comparison is in favor of the old Cubs, for the excellent reason that they were world's champions twice in a row and captured four pennants in five years. There's no escape from that record. It's nailed down.
But from there you can go and make an argument out of it because the superior defense of the old-timers is offset to

Ruths Proud of
New Apartment

NEW YORK, April 18. (P)—The Babe
Ruths were at home today in their 11-room apartment on Riverside drive.
Two young girls will live with them, as will also Mrs. Ruth's mother and two brothers.
Ruth pointed with pride to a pretty room with twin beds that had been prepared for Dorothy Helen Ruth, his 8-year-old adopted daughter, and Julia Marshall Hodgson, Mrs. Ruth's 12-year old daughter by a former marriage.
"I suppose those two girls will fight for the bed next to the window just like baseball players do," said Ruth.
He then pointed out other points of interest in his new home, a billiard room which he expects also to convert into a gymnasium, a grand piano done in the French manner and a $7,000 diamond bracelet he had given his bride the former Mrs. Calire Hodgson, as a wedding gift.

Mrs. Ruth, a former actress who came from Athens, Ga., said she first met Babe in Washington in 1923 and that baseball is her favorite sport. She is petite.

Bud Taylor Is
Out for Month

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 18. (P)—
It cost Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute "Terror," $25,000 to knock out Tommy Murray, Philadelphian, in the first round of their scheduled 10-round fight Tuesday night.
In flooring his opponent, Taylor fractured his left thumb. He will be out of the ring at least a month and has cancelled bouts against Tony Caconzeri in New York, May 5, and Kid Chocolate at Boston, which carried a guarantee of $25,000.

Miss Wills Hopes
for Art Laurels

NEW YORK, April 18. (P)—With feminine athletes usurping the spotlight hitherto held by men, the second American invasion of European golf links and tennis courts of this year is under way. Helen Wills and Gienna Collett are the leading figures in the contin-gent which sailed last night, with the mere males, such as "Wild Bill" Mehl-horn, Tommy Armour, and George Von Elm, playing minor roles.
To Miss Wills it seems more important that an American artist is on her way to London for an exhibit of her works in a bond street gallery than that the queen of the world's tennis courts is in quest of fresh triumphs at Wimbledon. She found considerable cause for apprehension in the coming display although favorable comments by New York critics have lightened the burden. On the courts she is sure of a good reception.

One of Hosts

As manager of the Pampa Board of City Development, George W. Briggs will function as representative of the city in making the Panhandle Press delegates comfortable and providing for their needs. He is known to most of them.

Mrs. V. E. Fatheree Is Hostess to Presbyterian Auxiliary

The American negro, with his superstitions, his religion, his music, and his social and commercial status, was the subject of an interesting program given at a meeting of the Women's auxiliary of the Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. V. E. Fatheree.

Mrs. Alger Jones was in charge, and eecoespecial topics were presented by Mrs. Joe Smith, Mrs. Tom Clayton, Mrs. John Andrews, Mrs. Dave Pope, Mrs. L. B. Nichols, and Miss Mae Blair. Following a talk by Mrs. Smith on negro music, Mrs. A. H. Doucette sang the much-loved spiritual, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot."

Mrs. Doucette led a discussion on what the auxiliary might do in the way of uplift work among the local negroes. Tentative plans were made for assisting them in the future on their religious and educational problems.

Twenty-one members and a visitor, Mrs. Clifford Braly, enjoyed the program and a social hour following. The hostess served refreshments at tea time.

J. E. Lillibridge of Amarillo is here on business this week.

Mrs. Q. N. Lewis entered the McKean & Connor hospital for treatment yesterday.

Help Constipation

One glass of water is not enough—take three glasses one hour before breakfast. Much better results are obtained by adding a teaspoon of simple glycerin, saline compound (known as Adlerika) to each glass.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes old waste matter you never thought was in your system. Stops gas and sour stomach in TEN minutes! Relieves constipation in two hours. —Pampa Drug Co. (A-2-Adv)

CUTIE? NO! COOTIE!

By De Witt Mackenzie

(Copyright, 1929, Associated Press.)
Private George T. Emerson, A. E. F. lately chief reporter on Warren G. Harding's newspaper, the Marion (Ohio) Star, was in durance vile "somewhere in France." And it was a long, long way from the old home town.

To be more specific, George was in the guardhouse at Le Mans, town of burning memories. A good many other buck privates will remember Le Mans, and maybe one or two will recall the hoosegow. George wasn't the only gentleman under detention.

Private Emerson had made a terrible mistake. It couldn't be called an error in tactics, nor yet an error in judgment. It was due to circumstances over which he had no control. He had unwittingly slugged a first lieutenant on the jaw. It really wasn't George's fault. The night was dark and he couldn't see. Somebody disputed his right of way and, thinking that he was dealing with another buck private, George handed the challenger a warm wallop on a cold jaw.

Private Emerson was an oldtimer. He had done his bit, and he certainly knew that first "looseys" jaws were made to wag authoritatively, but not to be hit. As a matter of fact, he himself was fresh from graduation at the officers' training school at Saumur, although he was without a commission, the armistice having just been signed. However, for his sins he drew a rest cure—and he learned about hoosegows from that.

This tale of the guardhouse really isn't "from a war correspondent's notebook." Emerson himself told me the story as we sat one night in his charming home in London. On the wall near us was a reminder of his old days in Marion—a picture of his former newspaper chief, the late President Harding, photographed from the White House with a personal message of affection.

It was only a few years ago that Mr. Harding lent George the money to buy his first dress suit, so the then cub reporter could go to a "high-hat" party in Marion. Now that reporter is one of the rising figures in the advertising department of the world-wide British firm of Lever Brothers, founded by the late Lord Leverhulme.

But to get back to the hoosegow,

George took the thing rather philosophically, being of a cheery turn of mind, albeit there certainly was a lack of entertainment about the place. He wandered round and got acquainted with everybody, and he even evinced a certain interest in Oswald and Oscar, the two pet cooties which one of the men kept in a bottle.

But finally, when George had investigated all the possibilities of the place, the atmosphere began to pall on him a bit. Even Oswald and Oscar failed to give him a thrill, and while he got a fair amount of fun in doing clog dancing for the gang, he couldn't keep up that rather strenuous form of exercise all the time. So gradually his thoughts turned to extraneous matters, so to speak.

Now George was a natty dresser, a bit of a Beau Brummel. He still is for that matter. It therefore was not natural that his mind should veer round to the subject of clothes. He viewed with considerable disfavor the rather soiled and shapeless uniform he was wearing. It wasn't up to his usual standard of immaculateness. The more George pondered his sartorial shortcomings, the more dissatisfied he became. He wanted a new uniform. But how to get it? He might as well ask for a slice of the moon.

For several days Private Emerson wandered about wearing the expression of Rodin's Thinker. The gang wondered what he had on his chest, but they got no satisfaction. Then one fine afternoon George came swanking across the hoosegow, garbed in a spic and span new uniform. The gang rushed about him.

"Hey, buddy, where'd you get them clothes?"

George nonchalantly flicked an imaginary speck of dust from his sleeve.

and then:
"Well, lads, gather round and I will spin the yarn. You see it was this way. It was a dark and stormy night, and Antonio said—"

Loud protests from the gang.
"Can the bunk, soldier, and tell us where you got them glad rags."
"All right," conceded George. "Come closer, buddies, for this is confidential. I worked the old bean overtime, trying to figure how I could get a new outfit. I knew they wouldn't give me one unless I had vermin. But while I was mulling this over I suddenly thought of Oswald and Oscar."

"I bought Oswald and Oscar off Buddie for five francs. And believe me, it took some bargaining. I gave the twins a home in a nice warm spot and then went up to the C. O. and begged to report that I needed a new outfit. Sure enough I did. That's the tale, boys."

"What happened to Oswald and Oscar?" yelled the gang.
George brushed away a tear. "That's a sad story, mates. I can't bear to tell it now."

Progressive Pitch Is Diversion at Party for Club

A pleasant digression from the usual program was enjoyed by members of the Pla-Mor bridge club, as they met yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Roy Dyson for games of progressive pitch.

Mrs. Albert Hammett made high score and received a set of tumblers. A pretty piece of costume jewelry went to Mrs. Claude Lard as consolation for low score.

Other players were Mrs. Roy Kilgore, Mrs. A. L. Jones, Mrs. J. Raymond Browne and the hostess.

Episcopal Women to Send Gifts to Popular Student Center

The Woman's auxiliary of the Episcopal church devoted the meeting at the home of Mrs. C. F. Buckler yesterday afternoon, to plans for benefitting the Little House of Fellowship, a student social center at West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, which the Episcopal church maintains for all students of the school.

Much of the charm of the Little House is created by the linens and decorative articles made and contributed by auxiliary members throughout the Panhandle, and no small part of the enjoyment of the many delightful social gatherings there is due to the dainty home-prepared foods sent by the church societies in this diocese.

The local auxiliary will pack a box of dainties for tea and other social affairs at a meeting May 1 in Mrs. Wm. M. Craven's home. Each member has been asked to bring a contribution for the May basket. At the meeting yesterday the organization sent a two-year subscription to The American Magazine to the Little House.

Two Hostesses Give Birthday Party Honoring Mrs. Murphy

Mrs. Frank Seal and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell entertained at the home of the latter last evening with a surprise birthday party for Mrs. W. M. Murphy. A two-course dinner was served at small tables, each of which was centered with a vase of pink and yellow flowers.

Bridge was played later, with high score favor going to Mrs. J. W. Vasey and low to Mrs. J. L. Nance. A cut was made at every table, and trophies went to Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Nance and Mrs. S. L. Maynard.

Mrs. Murphy received an attractive birthday gift from the group and another from the hostesses.

The following were guests: Mrs. Clem Davis, Mrs. J. H. Lutz, Mrs. J. L. Nance, Mrs. S. L. Maynard, Mrs. A. B. Zahn, Mrs. L. M. Williams, Mrs. Roger McConnell, Mrs. J. W. Vasey, Miss Lillian Newton and the honoree.

WHEAT IS OFF
CHICAGO, April 18. (P)—Wheat underwent a setback today due largely to failure of Liverpool quotations to respond to yesterday's advance. Favorable weather for the domestic crop tended also to ease wheat values.

Opening 3-8 to 7-8 off, Chicago wheat afterward sagged further. Corn and oats were relatively firm, with corn starting at 1-2 off to 1-4 up and later holding near initial figures. Provisions held steady.

Below, at the left, is Mrs. Henry McAden, wife of the president of the First National Bank of Charlotte, a matron of honor on the staff of Adjutant-General Harry Rene Lee; center, Mrs. Eloise Burkheimer, chairman of the brilliant historical pageant that will be presented; right, Mrs. B. Legion Will Officially Open Its Boys' Baseball Program Saturday

Boys will have an opportunity to play baseball this season. The American Legion boys' baseball program is practically ready to get under way and all that it lacks is the necessary number of boys.

Saturday at 6 o'clock every boy in Pampa who is interested in playing baseball this summer is asked to be at Fair park, north of the Cook-Adams addition, when plans for the season will be discussed and a light practice held.

J. B. Austin has been placed in charge of the boys' division. He is asking the Rotary club, Lions club, 40 and 8, and the local labor unions to sponsor the four teams. The program being sponsored by the American Legion post here is part of a nationwide movement. At the close of the season play-offs are held and the winning team from each district is sent to the state games where the winner is declared and sent to the National meet.

The Legion will supply all team equipment.

When the boys meet Saturday they are asked to have proof of their age and be ready to state the position they wish to play. Any boy in Pampa who will not reach the age of 17 before September 15 is eligible to play in the boys league.

Mr. Austin has had about 50 boys out to practice but he is desirous that the number reach the 100 mark. The boys will practice nearly every night at 6 o'clock at Fair park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Austin will be Amarillo visitors today.

German Offer Is Puzzle to Allies

PARIS, April 18. (P)—How to reconcile Germany's reparations offer, understood to be about two-thirds of the bill presented by the allied experts as their minimum demands, was the formidable task undertaken today by a sub-committee of the reparations experts commission.

The German offer was estimated to have a present value of from 24,000,000,000 to 26,000,000,000 gold marks (between $5,760,000,000 and $6,240,000,000) to be paid in 37 annuities, while the allied claims have been estimated to have a present value of between 40,000,000,000 and 48,000,000,000 gold marks (between $9,600,000,000 and $11,520,000,000) to be paid in 58 annuities.

A Berlin dispatch to the Paris Midi today said the difference between the allied offer and the German counter proposal was 12,500,000,000 marks or about $3,000,000,000 present value. This dispatch said Dr. Schacht offered to pay annuities of 1,650,000,000 marks over a period of 37 years, which figuring 5 per cent interest and 1 per cent for amortization, would have a total present value of 27,500,000,000 marks (about $6,500,000,000) as compared to an allied offer of 40,000,000,000 marks (about $9,600,000,000).

Governor Long Will Take Stump

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18. (P)—Preceding every major battle of his political career, Governor Huey P. Long has carried his cause before the people on the stump. His friends today said the impeachment case against him would be no exception.

The governor has not announced an itinerary, but advisors of the administration said the next month would see him on a speaking tour throughout Louisiana. Mass meetings are planned in principal cities before the date of the governor's trial by the senate.

Governor Long apparently has given up hope of stemming the tide of impeachment in the house, where testimony has been taken on more than a dozen of the 19 counts contained in resolutions of impeachment charging general misconduct and threatened high crime.

Ray Wilson transacted business in Amarillo yesterday.

PUBLIC FORUM

Editor, Pampa Daily News:

Without any fear of contradiction the writer will affirm that the hardest and most grateful job or position that man has to fill is when he becomes a public servant, and it is more true in every respect when that position is in the law enforcement branch of government.

No man ever lived who completed a term of office as sheriff, or chief of police, who performed the duties of his office to the satisfaction of all the people. The writer has had personal contact with over one thousand of these men during the course of his life and knows whereof he speaks.

The very people who elect an official to one of these offices will not let him do his full duty in apprehending all offenders against the laws placed upon the statute books.

They all have an obnoxious against some special law or action. They know there is a beam in the eye of their brother, but the beam in their own should be overlooked by the officer. I have heard pickpockets rave against thieves and declare that all who participated in that past time ought to be incarcerated for life. And in prisons I have heard men give testimony at divine service, who were there for crimes against their own daughters, and thank God they were not there for stealing.

No one ever heard a speed maniac demand that the traffic laws be enforced. Nor does the habitual drunkard condemn the officers for not enforcing the liquor laws. In fact both will declare that their personal rights are being violated when apprehended; and so it goes all down the line.

Jesus, the Christ, said all men are sinners, and we all admit it because we know. I say you, my readers, are all law violators. Search yourself and see if you are right. Some of you, if such a thing were, would pay three hundred and sixty-five fines for your conduct during the last year. If you don't believe it, just get a copy of your state laws, and ordinances of your city and find out.

Your own sense of fairness to yourself will show how many times you have transgressed, while your conceit had been telling you how good you were.

You, of course, will admit that you did not know, and I believe you. And that brings me to the point.

You don't know. The average citizens don't know and don't care, what all the laws are. That is why you elect a sheriff. That is why you learn and enforce those laws and then instead of aiding him you begin by throwing obstacles in his way and rewarding him with unjust criticism. You set yourself up as his judge, after you have hampered him, and then pass sentence.

Oh, the public! How I hate it, and how I love it. On a pedestal today and in the mud tomorrow. The Hosannas of Palm Sunday turned into the crucifixion of the following day.

Judas needed 30 pieces of silver. He earned it.

Recently a reward was offered here in our city. A reward of $50 for a bootlegger. Twenty pieces more than the Jews offered for Jesus, and the writer, from his experience, saw in the prospecting an army of the tribe of Judas invading Pampa. I saw special jails being built to accommodate persons accused, because there are many here, to whom $50 would look like a fortune. And when one goes out to carry that kind of money they are forced to leave manhood and conscience at home. They must appear as a friend to him they are going to betray and leave him with a smile.

I wondered as I saw the reward if those who were responsible were sincere. Did they really want those engaged in that occupation apprehended, and were they acting as good law-abiding citizens? Or did they have a little ax to grind?

If they were sincere their common sense should have told them their were not going at it in a lawful manner. A private organization or corporation has no legal right to offer any reward in the public defense. No private person has a legal right to pump the powers of duty constituted authority. If those entrusted with the enforcement of law are deterred in their duty a provision has been made to remove them. And all who sponsor and contribute to such funds and pay them, are in danger of compounding a felony which is an offense punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary. Because he who goes out to commit a crime is equally guilty with any other who may enter into the transaction. And common decency should prompt one who has any civic pride against employing methods such as these. Falling into the Jewish idea that "The end justifies the means."

Why, if conditions warranted such tactics, did not those responsible offer the law officers a reward for meritorious conduct? Why, if they had any evidence did they not give such evidence to those officers whom they have entrusted with their safety?

Witness, this, be dashed. And if so why has not this been called to the attention of the grand jury? I believe that there was no real bond before the offering of such a reward. I do not question the motive that actuated it, but I will say, that Pampa, with its Roman and Italian migration, from one oil center to another, is cleaner and more free from commercialized vice and crime than is any other place in the Panhandle. And so better argument in support of this

From Paducah

Among the prominent editors coming here tomorrow for the press convention will be E. A. Carlock of the Paducah Post. He is immediate past president of the Texas Press Association, and on the program he will lead a discussion of crime news.

statement could be advanced than the fact that only one violation has been charged, because of the reward.

That fact ought to place the officers of Gray county at the very head of the list. Because I don't believe another can be found to compare with it. Sheriff Graves should be proud of such a record.

He means to be fair. He is not an officer alone, but a humanitarian along with it. I wonder if his detractors realize the amount of practical charity that comes from his hand to those in distress? Did they ever check up on the orphans and widows he has assisted from his private purse? Could they tell of the doctor bills he has paid for destitute children? and have they ever really tried to know the man?

I don't think so. To those who do know him he is a man who believes in the handshake; a man who believes in a word of cheer to a fallen brother; a man who believes in and practices charity; a man who believes in friendship, the sweetest flower that blooms along the highway of life.

And it is to him whom one should come with their complaints; it is to him whom words of commiseration, as a good and faithful servant should be given instead of one going back to the beginning of Christianity and re-emphasizing the stigma on one convicted of authority and cause our youth to disrespect the laws they pretend they want enforced.

To be a good citizen means to be law-abiding yourself, and then aid your representatives. Then peace will reign. G. W. BOYD.

The Ladies Aid society of the First Christian church will give a chicken dinner at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening, in the basement of the church. Plates will be $1. For reservations call Mrs. B. C. Fahy, 673-J. Only 50 people can be served, and reservations should be placed not later than Wednesday night. 16-17

NEW YORKER LARGE

NEW YORK—A young man in sole charge of a typewriter manufacturer's office at lunch time one day was busy at his work when a scientist came in to buy a machine.

He wanted one for correspondence use and remarked to the young man, who knew more about financial statements than typewriters, that it was too bad they could not make one with scientific symbols, as well as letters and numerals. He himself would be willing to pay $500 for a machine with astronomical symbols.

Now, the assistant cashier in England, before his father brought him to New York, he had hoped to be an engineer. But his education had been interrupted by the necessity of going to work and office jobs were the easiest to get in the city.

The astronomer's remark, therefore, set him to thinking about something besides figures. Why could not typewriters be made for any writing purpose?

STUDENT OF ALPHABETS That was 39 years ago. Today Robert McKean Jones, the young man with imagination, is adapting typewriters to any use that suggests it, said the scientist.

Mr. Jones, grey and full-bearded, now, with a benign and scholarly appearance, still works for the same employer. And his record includes the development of typewriters with characters in every known language as well as the arrangement of technical and business symbols, and the like. Almost every day some new problem is brought to his desk.

The oriental alphabets were the hardest to put on a typewriter, he says, especially for one who is no linguist. He merely learns the alien characters, just as children learn the English alphabet.

Then he must study the frequency with which the different letters or characters are used, so that the most common ones are grouped for easiest typing. That involves the scanning of representative foreign writings, which he cannot read. You can imagine going through a Chinese newspaper to find out which hieroglyphics are used most often.

FOR PRESS AND WIRE The Hebrew alphabet was one of the first to be adapted to the typewriter, the Hebrew newspapers of New York taking the first machines. The Japanese typewriters were made for the telegraphic service of that country, the government ordering the language changed from ideographic back to its ancient and original syllabic form because at that time pictures could not be transmitted by wire.

It has all been very interesting to Mr. Jones. He has read much about alphabets and has talked to learned men of other lands. It has been his hobby as well as his work. As a result, Sanskrit keyboards can be had on portable typewriters. After all, that was what he wanted to talk about; not about himself.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—On Thomas Jefferson's birthday anniversary, April 13, the marble slab bearing the epitaph he wrote for himself will be taken from University of Missouri vaults.

Boone county democratic organizations will place a wreath upon it, and it will be returned to the archives. The first monument on Jefferson's grave in Monticello, Va., was removed to the Missouri campus in 1880's when a new tomb was erected.

Two great grandnephews of the third President granted permission for its removal because the University of Missouri was the first great college west of the Mississippi and stands in the heart of the Louisiana territory which Jefferson acquired for the United States.

To avoid protests from Virginians, it was loaded on a freight car secretly.

Hollywood Sign Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The man who carries could see no artistic future for talking motion pictures now is predicting the eventual passing of the silent variety. It is not because the movie public will demand an all-talkie bill of fare, but because of production costs, he says.

Joseph M. Schenck, head of United Artists, recently returned from a New York visit to state his opinion of the pending legislation on the production of talkies by which Warner Brothers would acquire half interest in the new centralized organization to be known as United Artists Consolidated.

Mr. Schenck's about-face on the talkie question has come about, he explains, as a result of mechanical improvements in the reproduction of human voices on the screen.

He returned from a trip to Europe to view his first talkie at the time when the speaking screen was a crude novelty, and its manifold crudities at that period prompted his emphatic statements that the new medium could offer nothing of artistic value to the old silent screen.

Since that time, of course, the talkies have cleared their mechanical throats to a large extent, and the movie magnate's opinion of them has changed as they improved.

He believes that ultimately the artistic value of the talkie will be the artistic extension of the soundless school. Supplying the public's demands in the talkie field, he says, the producers eventually will concentrate most of their attention on talking pictures, with the result that the "silents" will lose their value and appeal because cheaply produced.

But if Mr. Schenck's prediction is realized, and even the "silent versions" of talkies pass away, it is not guessing to forecast that the organization he heads probably would be the last to abandon silent production entirely. Not at least, until the foreign market is equipped for the projection talkies, and the foreign language speaks becomes common.

For with stars such as Vilma Banky, native of Hungary; Ronald Colman, England; Camilla Horn, Germany; and Lily Damita, France, to intrigue the European fans, and Dolores del Rio and Lupe Velez to attract Latin-America, it would be obvious box-office folly to present them only in pictures which could not be appreciated abroad.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MILDRED LAWRENCE, scenarist for the motion picture, has been seen by Stephen Duke, her former employer, who is now in a crowd, but STEPHEN DUKES, who is now in a crowd, has been seen by Stephen Duke, her former employer, who is now in a crowd.

DUKE entered an unpretentious door in a dark building and passed down a long, narrow, carpeted hall to a small elevator in the rear.
Up four flights of stairs he got off and made his way down another hall to a short flight that brought him to a swinging door which he pushed open with his Malacca cane and strode beyond until he came to the third door on the right-hand side. He was now in a building wide removed from the one he had entered from the street.

The buzz of excited voices held to a low tenor came to Duke's ears. He soon had opened the door. Along one side of the passageway were other swinging doors that obstructed, but did not completely conceal the view to the long room behind them. But Duke did not pause to glance within. His stride was hurried as he headed toward a door marked "private." On it he rapped sharply—the prearranged signal—and was admitted after a hidden eye had scrutinized his features.
"Hullo, Huck," he was greeted by a man at a gray steel desk. "How's the racket?"

"I need your help, Duke," Huck answered frankly. "There's a young chap I know that's got to be allowed to win a few bets. 'Well, steer him in. On the make, huh?"
Huck frowned. "Keep it quiet, will you, Duke? I'll bring the kid to you. He's your chump, see? I don't want it spilled that I'm in on it." Huck was reverting to the lagoon of his people to appease Duke, who never liked to have a crook pull any high hat stuff with him.

"All right. What's the lay?" Duke grunted.
HUCK told him. And the next day when he introduced Harold over to Duke, because he himself had an important engagement with Mr. Rawlins, the boy was impressed with the attention he received as a friend of Huck's. The latter took him aside for a confidence before he left. Harold had been told beforehand that Duke was merely a patron of the place, the man who gave Huck his "tips."

"Keep it quiet, Duke. I'll bring the kid to you. He's your chump, see? I don't want it spilled that I'm in on it."
His gambling spirit had been fired by the betting on the track. He wasn't ready to quit, but Duke had called it a day and departed. "Let's go," he said, his resentment vanishing.
Mildred saw them come in together; saw that Harold was talking excitedly. And when he passed her desk and gave her only a nervous nod she saw that he looked flushed.
She'd been called to the manager's office a short while before, and very plainly told that she wasn't in the employ of the hotel to make dates with men who came to her on business.
Her anger had flared up quickly. "If you mean Mr. Armitage," she retorted. "I did not meet him first in the hotel."
The manager had studied her intently before saying anything more. Then, "Are you satisfied with your position, Miss Lawrence?" he asked quietly.
Mildred nodded. "If Miss Judson would let me alone," she said. The manager sighed. "Ah, my dear," he replied. "That's just it. She isn't going to let you alone. You're too pretty, and you've managed to get in her way."

PAMPA

are nine carbon black plants and 13 gasoline plants. In addition, the Pampa Refining company, using a new process in connection with the high gravity, or "sweet," Gray county crude oil, has a capacity of 3,000 barrels daily. Because of this gas field, scores of supply houses, headquarter offices and other centralized departments connected with the oil business, are located in Pampa.

This oil and gas development means much in the growth of Pampa.

Pampa has the advantage of being on the main line of the Santa Fe railroad, and also the terminus of the C. & O. W. railway, the latter making direct connections with Oklahoma City.

The above industries have brought Pampa a population from less than 1,000 in 1925 to more than 10,000 in 1929.

This rapid development, however, has not been at the expense of those things which make a city in the best sense. Her wide paved streets, bordered by trees and lights, back of which are modern homes bespeak a progressive citizenship.

The city is operated under a manager-commission form of government. The Chamber of Commerce is tax-supported and is known as the Board of City Development.

Five Schools
Four fine ward school buildings, a modern high school, and a $25,000 gymnasium and auditorium provide ample educational facilities for the 2,100 pupils. The public schools have attained All-Southern affiliation.

The churches have a full part in community affairs, and within the past two years, beautiful modern buildings have been erected by the Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Christians and Church of God.

Pampa has its full complement of civic organizations, which are active in developing the best interests of its citizens.

Hotel facilities are far superior to most cities of similar size.

Low Tax Rates
Pampa and Gray county, considering the rapidity at which they have been developing, have exceptionally low tax rates.

The following comparative figures are interesting in showing the growth and development of Pampa:

Postal receipts, 1924—$7,012.06; 1929, $42,279.79.

Telephone subscribers, 1924—129; 1929, 1,380.

Electric consumers, 1926—200; 1929, 1,645.

City valuations, 1924—$871,550; 1929, $5,512,700.

School enrollment, 1924—551; 1929, 2,100.

Gas consumers, 1924—189; 1929, 1,751.

Bank deposits, 1925—$625,000; 1929, $2,875,000.

City population, 1910—300; 1929, 10,000.

Water mains, 37 miles; sanitary sewers, 31 miles; paving, 4 miles; bonded indebtedness, $560,000.

QUEER BURGLARY

SAN ANTONIO, April 18. (AP)—After entering a room occupied by a 16-year-old girl, frightening her from her bed, and going to sleep on it himself, a man giving the name of Ernesto Yturbe, his age as 26, and who said he could not remember where he lived, was arrested and booked on a charge of burglary.

Daily News-Evening Post banquet was a feature with prizes for the visitors and presentation of a newspaper play, "The White Lie." J. G. Greaves of the Portales Valley News was elected president.

1926, Amarillo

A big snowstorm reduced attendance at the 1926 session on April 9 and 10. The editors were entertained at the Panhandle music festival. R. H. Nichols of the Vernon Daily Record was the choice for president.

1927, Amarillo

The Panhandle Press association met in Amarillo April 22 and 23, sessions being at the Amarillo hotel. Congressman Marvin Jones was a visitor. This time Oran A. Kelly of the Spearman Reporter became president. Childress was selected for the next meeting place.

1928, Childress

Childress saw one of the best conventions the Panhandle Press association ever had. Prof. Paul J. Thompson of the University of Texas department of journalism and "State Press" of the Dallas News were among the speakers. Entertainment by Childress was especially good. H. Deskins Wells of the Wellington Leader was elected president and Clyde W. Warwick of the Canyon News, now a state representative, was re-elected secretary. Pampa was an enthusiastic choice for the 1929 convention city. Homer Steen of the Floydada Hesperian was elected vice-president. The directors named were H. Deskins Wells, Homer Steen, T. A. Landers, Fred Story, and C. W. Warwick.

At the winter meeting in Amarillo of the executive committee, Secretary Clyde Warwick resigned on account of his having been elected representative to the legislature, and J. D. Sugg, publisher of the Pampa Times, was elected to take his place. Mr. Sugg and Olin E. Hinkle, managing editor of the Pampa Daily News, were asked to buy a token of appreciation and present it to Mr. Warwick in the name of the association.

TAXIING AROUND THE AIRPORTS

Pontiac, Mich., is completing an airport said by department of commerce officials to be one of the outstanding developments of its kind in the country, viewed particularly from the standpoint of lighting equipment installed. The lighting system has been designed to meet the department of commerce requirements for an "A" rating.

The drainage system for the Evansville, Ind., airport is rapidly being installed and should be finished within two weeks. Bids have been asked for night lighting equipment and the erection of a hangar and administration building. The port will be ready for operation within a few weeks, with all equipment scheduled for use early in the spring.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey is to mark its many stations throughout New Jersey and Maryland with airway signs to aid aviators flying over towns in which the stations are located. The program calls for placing the name of the city or town on the roof of each building, and, if space is available to paint arrows on the roofs pointing north or to the nearest airport.

Aircraft and Airways of America, Inc., Pittsburgh, has agreed to commence operations at Atlantic City's municipal airport, known as Bader field. When the present filling-in process is completed, hangars and shops will be erected and plans call for installation of complete night lighting equipment.

W. S. Dawson, formerly an airplane and engine inspector for the department of commerce, has been appointed manager of the Curtiss flying school to be opened soon at Detroit. The Grosse Ile airport, now under improvement, will be used as an extensive building program will get under way soon. Actual flying operations are scheduled for early spring.

Piqua, Ohio, is ready to begin construction on a suitable hangar for its airport.

Nineteen more cities have been added to the list undertaking preliminary surveys to determine the advisability of establishing municipal airports. The airport section of the department of commerce has been asked for information from Winslow, Ariz.; Alamo, Col.; Peoria, Ill.; French Lick, Ind.; New Orleans, La.; Rochester, Minn.; Washington, Ohio; Dennison, Ohio; Newkirk, Okla.; Rowe, Okla.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Alice, Texas; Barnham, Texas; Decatur, Texas; Mason, Texas; Midlothian, Texas; Milford, Texas; and Kewanee, Wis.

Muskegon, Mich., has laid plans to pool its resources with those of Muskegon county appropriated for the establishment of an airport adjacent to Mona Lake, a short distance from Lake Michigan where air travel along the east shore is increasing rapidly. The present airport operated by the Continental Motors corporation will not be available for public use much longer, according to officials of the company. The lake airport, which will be about one mile square, also is adaptable to construction of a seaplane anchorage. Upwards of $100,000 will be appropriated from city and county treasuries for the project.

Two additional strip maps, prepared by the coast and geodetic survey for the department of commerce, are being sent to aviators who fly between Greensboro, N. C., Richmond, Va., and Washington. The new maps are a part of the extensive government program to provide proper airway guides for fliers between all principal cities and sections of the United States.

From Quanah

Harry Koch, publisher of the Quanah Tribune-Chief, will be among the prominent Panhandle editors here for the convention Friday and Saturday. He is slated to lead a discussion on newspaper accounting.

Pampa to Welcome Wichita Boosters

Pampa merchants are asked to place welcome signs in their windows next Tuesday when 125 Wichita, Kans., business men will visit Pampa. The visit is part of annual tour made by the business men of Wichita.

A special train bearing the delegates will arrive here at 11 o'clock and will remain until 1 o'clock. The Wichita American Legion band and many entertainers will accompany the boosters this year. A concert will be given at noon.

The delegation will be officially welcomed by city officials and Board of City Development officers.

Talks To Parents

A GOOD DISPOSITION

By ALICE JUDSON PEALE

In a world as full of petty annoyances and daily small frustrations as that to which most of us are born, an equable disposition is a most serviceable possession. The woman who allows herself to explode in vexation with the cook for having spoiled the roast does not contribute thereby to the efficiency of her housekeeping.

The young woman who, because some one spilled soup on her gown, permits herself to become so perturbed that she makes the rest of the party uncomfortable, is making no reputation for herself as an asset to a social gathering. The lad who grouches because the weather spoiled the picnic is not enhancing his popularity with his fellows.

How is a child to learn the self control which in later life enables him to preserve in work and play a friendly, cheerful manner which no minor catastrophe can disturb?

As with so many other desirable qualities it is true that happy, fulfilled childhood is the fundamental basis lacking which everything which we try to do is uphill work. There is no one recipe for the attainment of a good disposition, but there are many definite situations from which the child takes directly his patterns of behavior.

When other is chagrined because the groceries haven't come and dinner won't be served on time, the child observes that something has bothered her. But if she makes no fuss about it and cheerfully plans to serve dinner a half hour later, he observes this as well, and draws the moral.

When father has planned to go motor ing, and finds that rain is imminent, the child observes that daddy cheerfully accepts his disappointment and sets about amusing himself in some other way. The child who sees his parents accept their checks and disappointments with good spirit himself will learn good grace in the face of the inescapably unpleasant.

"Club" to Initiate Big Class

National Celebrities Here for Ceremonial, including "Doc Himself," D. I. Spenser, and "Cap" Puller—Law Promises "No Interference"

Much of the mystery of the proposed "social club" was cleared up today. This newspaper received, through its business office, an official announcement of the organizers, calling for volunteers as prospective members. The announcement appears elsewhere in this issue and is directed to "All ye who are weary, heavy laden and T.H.-I.R.-S.-T.-Y." It is signed by "Doc Himself" (Grand Drink), D. I. Spenser (Chief Squirt), and "Cap" Puller (Master of the Bar).

Contrary to popular belief, these gentlemen have proved to be high-class and law-abiding citizens. In no sense do they give the impression of boot-leggers or denizens of the underworld. They contend that under the plan upon which their clubs are operated there is no violation of the law; that in many cities the membership includes law enforcement officers themselves, prominent ministers and members of prohibition enforcement organizations. Copies of the purposes and by-laws as well as the privileges and benefits were submitted to the management of this newspaper and after careful investigation nothing was found in the plan which can possibly be construed as a violation of the law. In fact, it may be that if drinking in this community can be regulated under the plan of this club, the community as a whole will be better off.

Those interested are directed to display an announcement elsewhere in this paper.—Adv.

TEN TWO FOUR

ATTENTION!

All Ye Who Are Weary, Heavy Laden and THIRSTY.

It is not a crime to drink. For those who know how to use it, the social glass is both a boon and a virtue. Our movement violates no law, either legal, moral or physical. We stand for law enforcement; abhor intoxication, and condemn vice and crime. No man, woman or child need compromise his conscience or stultify his moral character by becoming a member. Our plan has the hearty endorsement of ministers, temperance workers and law enforcement officers.

Watch Tomorrow's Paper

We will publish tomorrow in this paper a large advertisement, giving full details of the plan and directions for becoming a member. Watch for a large ad containing a picture of "Doc Himself" as shown in recent stories. Learn the mysteries and secrets, including purposes and by-laws, privileges and benefits, the official high signs, the official badge and membership card. You may now think you will be disappointed—but you won't.
