BEGIN HERE TODAY

CELIA MITCHELL, 17, leaves Baltimore where she has lived with her restless mother, MARGARET, ROGERS, John her wealthy father, JOHN MITCHELL, in New York. The parents are divorced and Mrs. Rogers is a widow following a recent marriage.

BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl. Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce his daughter to other young people. Mrs. Parsons agrees, considering Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections. She schemes to get rid of the girl by encouraging a romance between Celia and TOP JOHNSON, fascinating but of dubious character. Mitchell has forbidden his daughter to see Johnson.

Shields comes to New York to work and meets Celia. She tells him she came for Jordan but later realizes it is Shields whom she loves. Mrs. Parsons arouses Mitchell's antagonism toward Shields and the father and daughter quarrel. Celia departs for Baltimore only to find that her mother has disappeared, leaving no clues to her whereabouts. Mitchell arrives, effects a reconciliation and takes Celia back to New York.

Meanwhile Mrs. Parsons has informed Shields that Celia is to marry Jordan. When Celia meets the young man each misunderstands the other and the interview ends with the affair between them broken off. Mrs. Parsons tells Celia she is going to marry Mitchell. No word comes of Celia's mother. The girl is miserable and lonely and when Jordan begs her to elope with she goes away with him.

It is midnight when Mrs. Parsons notifies Mitchell the girl is missing. The distraught father appeals to Shields and together they call on Jordan, who denies knowing where Celia is. Next morning Mitchell and Shields are at Mrs. Parsons' apartment when Shields mentions the fact that Mrs. Parsons told him Celia was to marry Jordan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER LVIII

Only Evelyn Parsons nervous in a fit of jealousy. She clutched at her handkerchief but not a muscle of her face moved nor did the pitch of her voice change as she faced Mitchell and replied:

"I didn't say it! Of course it's not true!"

"But Mrs. Parsons," Barney Shields cut in, "we were right here in this room. The night I came, to dinner and Celia was away. Why— you must remember. You told me she was going to marry Jordan. You were sitting in that very chair and I was here."

"You certainly must have misunderstood me. I couldn't possibly have said such a thing."

John Mitchell interrupted. "I'd like to hear more about this," he said. "Suppose you tell me the whole story."

For the first time Evelyn Parsons looked startled. She flung her head back. "But John—dearest! Surely you wouldn't doubt my word! I tell you it's not true. Why, I didn't even mention Jordan's name!"

The man and woman eyed each other. For the moment Shields was forgotten.

beginning to doubt," Mitchell said slowly. "So you didn't even mention Jordan's name! Shields must have misunderstood! Why didn't you tell me he's been here to dinner? You assure me last night you'd never seen this young man."

He turned toward Barney. "When did you first meet Mrs. Parsons?"

"It was the day after I broke my arm. I came here to see Celia."

"And when was that?"

"Like sparks from flint Evelyn's eyes flashed dangerously. "They're all here!" she screamed before the youth could answer. "Let's! I won't be talked to this way!" She grabbed up a tiny green glass figurine and sent it smashing across the room. Then pointing at Barney she cried, "Make him get out of my home! Make him go!"

"Not until I've heard the last of this!" Mitchell insisted.

Fury completely overcame Evelyn's judgment. Tears of anger blinded her. The chair beside her crashed against the floor.

"Will you get out of here!" she screamed, stamping one foot and glaring at Shields. "Will you?"

"The young man drew back, horrified. He glanced toward Mitchell.

"We'll both go!" Mitchell said. "Come!" The two men started toward the door. They had reached it before Evelyn - Parsons

had sufficient control of herself to realize what was happening. She gasped and sprang after him.

"John!" she moaned, "don't leave me! John, I beg of you—"

Her words were lost as John Mitchell pulled the door to behind him. He drew out a handkerchief, wiping his brow as they walked down the corridor. Neither of them spoke until they were in the downstairs entrance. Then the older man said:

"I want to talk to you, Shields. Come down to my home, will you?"

"I ought to drop in at the Apex office for a few minutes. After that I'll be glad to come. I haven't been working since my arm was cracked up but I promised to see Wagner this morning."

"Suppose we stop on the way? Is that all right?"

Shields agreed. When they were settled in Mitchell's car the lawyer leaned back and shaded his eyes with one hand. Barney respected his companion's silence and did not speak. He was surprised when Mitchell stepped out of the car before the Apex office.

"Don't mind if I come along with you, do you?" Mitchell asked.

"Not at all."

They entered the suite of rooms occupied by the photographic service and after a wait were admitted to the general manager's office. Mr. Wagner rose and shook hands cordially when Barney introduced Mitchell. Then for several moments the young man and his superior discussed a photographic assignment.

"How's the arm coming along?" Wagner asked after they had reached a decision.

"O. K. Doc says he'll take the splint off Saturday. I'll be on the job Monday all right. Say—do you think Tracy's around?"

"I saw him half an hour ago."

Shields turned apologetically toward Mitchell. "I hope you don't mind waiting just a minute longer," he said. "If I can get hold of Tracy right now I'll save myself an hour's work."

"I can wait," Mitchell nodded. When the door closed after the young man John Mitchell leaned forward.

"What do you think of him?" he asked, nodding in the direction in which Shields had disappeared.

"What do I think of Shields?" Wagner repeated in his crisp voice. "Well, sir, I'll tell you. I've been sitting at this desk for 20 years and not once in five of them has a young fellow with the ability, keenness and general usefulness of Barney Shields walked into this room."

"You find him—trustworthy?"

The general manager of the Apex Picture Service surveyed John Mitchell through narrowed eyelids. He chewed on his cigar before answering.

"May I ask just why you're seeking this information?"

"Certainly. My own acquaintance with the young man is brief but I understand that my daughter—"

"Then congratulate the girl on her good taste!" Wagner interrupted heartily. "She's a smart girl."

You're not in the photographic business, are you?

Good—for a moment I thought your interest might be professional. Yes, sir, Shields is a comar. That boy's going to make a place for himself."

Wagner was still talking, five minutes later when Barney appeared. Both of the two older men looked embarrassed but Barney said:

"I found him! Shall we go now, Mr. Mitchell? I've finished."

Mitchell shook hands with Wagner. "I want to thank you, sir. I'll remember what you've told me."

"Glad to have seen you. Hope you'll drop in again!"

As they stepped into the elevator Mitchell remarked to Shields: "I suppose I've never really appreciated the opportunities in this business of yours."

"Yes people do. They see pictures in the newspapers and never bother to think how they got there. If you'd hear some of the things Wagner can tell you'd know picturing the news is getting to be a bigger thing all the time."

When they reached the car Mitchell told the driver to take them to the Grammercy Square house. On the way he asked Barney about his acquaintance with Mrs. Parsons.

The young man flushed. "I didn't mean to start a row like that!" he said. "What was it all about? Say—that woman's a terror!"

"I can tell you about that later," Mitchell said quietly, "but I do want to know when you and Mrs. Parsons first met. It may have considerable bearing on the problem of locating Celia."

"Really? Well—the first time I ever saw her was the day after I broke my arm. Celia telephoned and asked me to come around. When I got to the apartment Mrs. Parsons was there and after we'd talked a while she drove me to the doctor's in her car."

"Do you remember the date?"

"Oh, I'm not much good at remembering dates but I know it was the day before Celia and I met you in the park."

"You say the day before?"

Barney nodded. "Yes, and it was a couple days later that I telephoned Celia and Mrs. Parsons told me she was out of town. She said she was lonely and asked me to come to dinner. Say—the way she looked that night I never dreamed she could raise the roof as she did

May Call Million Improvement Issue

ABILENE, Texas, Dec. 10.—The City Commissioner here, at the urgent suggestion of Mayor Thomas E. Hayden, Jr., has under consideration the calling of a $1,000,000 bond election for public improvement projects that include the 25-billion gallon Phantom Hill water reservoir, a topic of conversation in official circles.

In addition to the water project that would cost between $700,000 and $1,000,000, the mayor would include in the issue construction of $300,000 worth of utility lines, divided $150,000 for storm sewers, $50,000 for extension of water mains, and $100,000 for improvement of public parks in the city.

TODAY'S RADIO

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD Associated Press Radio Editor NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (P)—Radio is concentrating upon plans for Christmas.

Among other things, it was announced today that arrangements have been put under way by NBC to bring Christmas day features from three countries—England, Germany and Japan. Details have not been completed, but the programs are to include Yuletide entertainment of a type familiar to the originating countries.

While the picking up of a program from Japan is not definite, engineers say that it will be possible in view of the success of the first transmission made from that country this year in the broadcast of the signing of the London naval treaty.

Otherwise, two Christmas features have been added to the list. One is to be a Christmas eve party lasting two hours on the WEAF stations, starting at 11 p. m. (EST). It will include numerous entertainers with John B. Kennedy as master of ceremonies and Nathaniel Shilkret as musical supervisor.

The WABC chain is to broadcast a talk by Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, from the annual Christmas party of the National Press club at Washington at 2 p. m. Dec. 24. The secretary will be introduced by Norman W. Baxter, managing editor of the Washington Post and president of the club.

Try these on your radio tonight: College Memories, college songs by a male quartet, WEAF and chain at 7:15 (EST). Helen Kane, guest artist with the Chocolaters, WJZ network at 8. Third degree of Dolores Devine.

WJZ, WREN, WJDK, at 6:30. Story hour third anniversary program, "Divorce Money," WABC hookup, and Billy Jones and Eddie Hare via WJZ and stations as guest speaker on the WJZ group and the last of the series of Del Laugel's orchestra on the WEAF side at 9:30.

"Not Guilty" Is Instructed Verdict

TEXARKANA, Dec. 10. (P)—An instructed verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury in district court at Boston, Texas, yesterday in a case charging Mayor L. S. Kennedy to defraud the city and county by failing to render property for tax assessment. Another indictment was ordered dismissed.

Panhandle Boys Root for "Tack"

PANHANDLE, Dec. 10. (Special)—Old Tack of the Amarillo News got "took up" here this morning. He sent out the word to Law Sone, superintendent of Panhandle high school, that he wanted some lusty-lunged youngster to root for him at Fort Worth tomorrow and that he would pay his expenses to the game. Mr. Sone sent over Joe Mitchell, leader of the Panther pep squad.

Old Tack considered Joe. "Go back and get another boy—I need twice as much noise as you can make." So this afternoon, the Mitchell boy and another student of Panhandle high school, Alf Fullington, captain of the basketball team, went to Amarillo where they were sworn in as Tack's official rooters.

Actress Tells of Plot to Attract Buckley to Doom

DETROIT, Dec. 10. (P)—A burlesque actress who admitted, according to police, that she was the voice which called Gerald E. Buckley to his death, will tell the 22-man Wayne county grand jury her story today, if her conditions permit.

The actress is Margaret Owen, 22, who has been in the psychiatric ward of receiving hospital since Nov. 29, when she claimed she had been given poisoned whiskey to prevent her from testifying in another murder case.

She said she had been prompted by a man whose identity has not been revealed to call the radio political commentator by telephone and invite him to a party to celebrate the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles. She said Buckley was to meet her in the lobby of the La Salle hotel.

As Buckley was sitting in the lobby early July 23, two hours after he had announced the recall of Mayor Bowles, three men entered and fired 11 shots into his body.

Miss Owen, according to police, said the same man who had prompted her to call Buckley 25 minutes before he was shot, insisted she not keep the appointment and that she did not go to the hotel. Police have refused to say whether this man is in custody.

Two days before she was to have testified at the trial of Nicholas Delabonta and Frank Salimone for the murder of two Graceland park policemen Miss Owen collapsed.

at the theatre where she is employed. She claimed to have been given poisoned whiskey and later identified Dominick Ferro as the man who gave it to her, but physicians at receiving hospital were unable to find any trace of poison.

They diagnosed her ailment as a form of hysteria.

Outlet for Crude in Kansas Sought

CHANUTE, Kans., Dec. 10. (P)—Probable outlets for the crude oil production of approximately 12,000 stripper wells in the southeastern Kansas area were under consideration here today at a meeting.

The principal market of these wells, the Prairie Oil and Gas company, will be cut off Jan. 1 under the company's recent decision to withdraw from the crude purchasing field.

Failure of the small producers to obtain an outlet for their crude, experts point out, will force curtailment and ultimately abandonment of the wells due to the encroachment of salt water.

Kan. and United States Bureau of Mine inspectors have completed their investigation of the October 27 blast.

They also investigated a gas explosion at the Bailey-Gibson mine, La. which killed 15 miners Nov. 20 but could not determine what ignited the gas there.

ENTERS MILK BUSINESS SAN ANGELO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Proration, subject for argument in the oil industry, has entered the milk business in this section. A system has been introduced in the San Angelo territory to care for the asserted over supply, or under consumption of milk. Those who sell to creameries have been placed on an allowance based on what they have been selling. The base price for the full allowance, is approximately 28 cents a gallon for four per cent butter fat. The surplus milk is then bought at a reduced figure which approximates 17.2 a gallon.

Capone Will Be Sent to Chair If Plan Succeeds

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. (AP)—Judge John H. Lyle today was quoted as saying efforts would be made to send Alphonse Capone's gang chief to the electric chair in connection with the slaying of two men.

"We will send Capone to the chair, if it is possible to do so," said Judge Lyle, who issued a vagrancy warrant for Capone several months or more ago. "He deserves to die. He has no right to live."

Speaking before the Chicago Safety council the judge mentioned Capone's name in connection with the killing in 1920 of "Big Jim" Colosimo, reputed "vice-lord" and also in connection with the death of another man whose name he did not reveal. The Herald and Examiner, however, said the state's attorney's office was scrutinizing the files of the case of Joseph Howard, slain May 8, 1924, with the idea of making it the basis of a murder charge.

The Herald and Examiner added that Assistant State's Attorney Harry Dickhouse reported he would act if the investigation appeared to justify such action.

Howard, whom the newspaper described as a member of the gang organization of Johnny Torrio, was killed in a saloon. The motive was never clear, but Michael Hughes, who was chief of detectives at the time, was quoted as saying that Howard and Capone had quarreled. Later Capone was questioned, the Herald and Examiner said, by Assistant State's Attorney William B. McSwiggan who was assassinated two years later.

Negro Confesses To Slaying Girl

MARYVILLE, Mo., Dec. 19. (AP)—Said by county authorities to have confessed slaying 19-year-old Velma Colter, rural school teacher, Raymond Gunn, 30, negro ex-convict, was held at St. Joseph, Mo., today where he was taken to avoid possible mob violence.

The negro was arrested yesterday while hunting the suspect, County Attorney Paul R. Jones announced, had confessed. He was spirited away immediately.

The prosecutor said Gunn related how he had met the young teacher at the door of her school room and followed her within when she fled screaming. Jones quoted the ex-convict as saying Miss Colter fought viciously as he attempted to seize her.

Gunn then rushed at her with a club and beat her about the head, the prosecutor said. Teeth marks were visible on the negro's hand when he was arrested.

Gunn was sentenced to a prison term for criminally assaulting a young girl attending the Northwest Missouri State Teachers college here, officers said, and had been sought since the murder of Miss Colter Tuesday.

Miss Colter, who was teaching her first term of school, dismissed her handful of pupils Tuesday afternoon and remained at the school to grade examination papers, sweep the floor and replenish the coal supply for the next day.

H. T. Thompson, at whose home she resided, went to the school building when the girl failed to return home at the usual hour. He found the body with the clothing torn away.

Man Falls Into Gin - Is Killed

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 19. (AP)—W. L. Gilliam, 39, was instantly killed yesterday when he apparently slipped and fell into the Henderson gin, four miles east of Eola, Concho county, during an argument with A. D. Wyzostek.

Although Justice P. W. Williams returned a verdict of accidental death, Wyzostek went to Paint Rock and surrendered to officers. He was charged with negligent homicide and was bound over to await grand jury action. He was released under bond.

Old-Time Frocks Worn In Musical

Colorful costumes of more than half a century ago were worn by a group of 22 high school girls when they entertained with Christmas carols under the direction of Miss Iva June Willis at the recent musical sponsored by the Sam Houston Parent-Teacher association at the school.

Marjorie Buckler was frocked in the wedding gown worn by her mother, Mrs. C. P. Buckler.

About 200 persons attended the entertainment.

The program was opened with music by the high school orchestra directed especially for the occasion by "Pop" Frazier. This was followed with a duet, "In the Garden," by Mrs. L. N. McCullough and Supt. R. B. Fisher, with Mrs. Tom Brabham at the piano.

Other selections included: "Hawaiian band numbers," "Aloha" and "Dreaming Eyes," Mrs. Vivian Smith, Miss Oneta Frasher, Miss Verna Springer, George Lane and James Bell, under the direction of Vern Springer; chorus, high school glee club; toe dance, Christine Manning, in costume; entertainment by "Thomas H. Lucy, reader: "Nod," and "Silent Night" by a chorus under the direction of Mrs. May Foreman Carr; vocal solo, "Sleep in the Deep." Music by the school orchestra.

Mr. Lucy's entertainment proved especially popular during the evening. Using appropriate costumes, he gave two groups of character portrayals, "Smiling Round" and "Democracy Dawn." His concluding number was a colorful crayon sketch illustrating "The Holy City," drawn as Mrs. Toy Brabham played the selection. The audience joined in singing "America" in concluding the program.

Mrs. G. C. Malone, president of the P.-T. A. has expressed the appreciation of the organization for the cooperation given by both the performers and the audience.

Bombing Plane Falls; Pilot Dies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The designer of a new army bombing plane lost confidence in his own craft last night as the motors sputtered. He jumped and died, while the plane was landed safely.

Stephen A. Forberger, project engineer of the Fokker company, was killed, apparently because the parachute he carried had no time to break the fall before his body hit a tree. The record had been pulled, but the plane had insufficient altitude for a successful jump. Lieutenant Harrison G. Crocker, of the army air corps, did not even know his passenger had leaped until he had brought the ship down practically undamaged a mile from where Forberger died.

The plane was a two-motored, cabin-type monoplane with a folding landing gear. The wheels were pulled up when the machine struck the ground in a "dead-stick" landing. It was being taken to Wright Field, Ohio, the Army's experimental center, from Teletosco Heights, New Jersey. Crocker and his companion had planned to spend the night at Bolling Field here.

Forberger was credited by army officers today with having developed several types of modern combat planes.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC STUDIED BY CLUB HERE THURSDAY

Junior Twentieth Century Members Gather In Artistically Decorated Home of Mrs. Chafin; Social Held

Christmas music was studied by members of the Junior Twentieth Century club through an interesting program given Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert Chafin with Mrs. H. A. Heistand as hostess. Yuletide decorations were used for the Chafin home, and a dressed Christmas tree gave added charm to the entertaining rooms.

Mrs. Dick Walker opened the program by giving a history of early Christmas music, and Mrs. Swanson followed with a talk on the importance of Christmas music today. Mrs. Chafin then gave a discussion of Christmas carols, which she closed with a vocal solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Dick Walker.

Mistletoe Kissing Rises in Price

DALLAS, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Kissing under the mistletoe will cost more this year. That parasite, precious as a sentimental Yuletide decoration but pestiferous to the trees on which it lives, is at low ebb this year, the crop being one of the lightest on record in Texas.

LOCAL PRINCIPAL TELLS OF SCHOOL OF RETARDED PUPILS

Following a recent visit to Houston, J. A. Meek, principal of Baker school here, has given interesting highlights noted in the schools of that city. Houston schools are recognized as among the best in Texas.

"The Abbott school of Houston was to my mind, one of the most interesting of all schools visited," said Mr. Meek. "It was a 'School of Retardation,' with Mrs. Campbell as principal, and Miss Charlotte Markham as teacher, both of whom had been there for six years. There were two classrooms, three workshop rooms, two gymnasium rooms, and a cafeteria.

"These children had made a collection of stamps, and one boy had 50 different kinds. They also were making booklets in which they were keeping these stamps, themes on the cost of stamps, and pictures of a mailbox and a postman."

FEMININE FANCIES

Half of the fun of preparing Christmas gifts is in wrapping and tying them, and there is real art to be found here.

For wrapping fruit cakes, Miss Myrtle Miller, county home demonstration agent, recommends oiled paper or white cellophane. Green cotton twine or narrow fiber ribbon of the same shade is attractive for tying the paper.

If the cakes are to be sent by mail, it is wise to observe the following directions. The cakes should be carefully packed into heavy corrugated boxes and wrapped in strong brown paper.

This Game of GOLF by O.B. KEELER

CHINESE HAS MUCH TALENT BUT IS LOSER

Reports from the far northwest concerning a fairly practical test of the new standard golf ball, larger and lighter than the 162 pellet, show the carrying power of the projectile which becomes official Jan. 1, 1931, to be just about as reduced as the more scientific researches had predicted.

Some way, I always had a uneasy feeling that, after all, the mechanical driver, hitting a series of shots perfectly and with absolute precision, afforded only one kind of a test; and that a human golfer, or a squad of human golfers, ought to have a chance to inject the individual element into the trials.

The young Oriental, although 10 pounds or more lighter than the globe trotter, was every inch a wrestler, and a good one. Unlike Mantell he disdained the ropes, and his only response to the slow motion of Berferre's punches was in mild but meaningful glances.

There were long hitters in the field too. Gene Sarazen had the longest shot with the old ball, 253 yards; and Eddie Hogan, young Portland amateur, and Harold McSpadden, Kansas City professional, tied with the new ball at 242 yards.

Proposed Baseball League Popular

FORT WORTH, Dec. 19. (AP) - Fincher E. Withers of Fort Worth, formerly active in amateur baseball circles here, announced that preliminary plans were progressing toward forming a Texas-Louisiana baseball league. He said five cities already have shown interest in the proposed league.

It appears from the report that the old ball, smaller and heavier, was easy to keep in the fairway, another corroboration of the prevailing notion that the larger and lighter ball would be harder to control; or, to put it another way, must be struck more precisely by the expert who would achieve accuracy.

Leo Diegel, for example, placed two of his three drives with the old ball in the fairway, 240 and 238 yards, and all three of his shots with the new ball were outside. This, of course, may have been due to the well-known mental hazard.

It was explained that the turf was heavy and there was little roll to the shots, which accounts for the restricted ranges. In all, the competitors placed 19 drives in bounds with the old ball, and 15 with the new, and an average of these shots puts the old ball in the lead with 231 13-18 yards against 220 yards, or less than three yards' advantage.

Aside from the substitution of "Red" for Michigan as the inter-sectional rival of note for next year, Harvard's 1931 football slate is featured by the Crimson's visit to West Point for the annual game with Army's gridiron forces.

Not since the playing days of Charley Daly has Harvard invaded the citadel up the Hudson, nor has Army, for that matter, met any of its principal eastern rivals at home since football became big business for the military academy.

It is a tribute to the sporting spirit of more ancient days to note that the Army-Harvard agreement calls for one game in every four to be played at West Point, instead of at Harvard Stadium, where 35,000 more spectators can be accommodated at $4 per spectator.

Since it was built a few years ago, Army's biggest home game, from the standpoint of general interest and attendance, was the 1929 engagement with the University of Nebraska.

The Princeton-Michigan, New York University-Oregon, Yale-Columbia, Stanford-Dartmouth, (to be played in Harvard Stadium) and Northwestern-Washington State games are other conspicuous inter-sectional skirmishes already booked for 1931.

It's All a Puzzle— This Uneven Distribution

There is something a little startling and puzzling in the fact that while Middle West farmers have taken to burning wheat for fuel because it sells for $9 a ton against $16.50 for coal, thousands of farmers in other parts of the country have been forced to look to the Red Cross, the government or other agencies to get a supply of seed wheat for planting purposes.

Over-production of crops is an evil, but unequal distribution of crops is a greater evil. If the American wheat grower had an American market for his wheat—and he would have if the American consumer had normal buying power—and if the cotton grower could sell his cotton to supply the needs of the American people, both the wheat and the cotton grower would have a good market.

It is all a big puzzle, and we haven't a statesman or an economist with the ability to solve it.—Abilene News.

Remains of Czar Nicholas Said to Be Near Paris

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The remains of the Czar Nicholas II and his family, which were discovered in the forests of Siberia under the protection of the American flag, were published by the New York Times today.

Franklin Clarkin, former American vice consul at Harbin, Manchuria, was quoted by The Times as saying that the ashes of the exiled Romanoffs were unknown to him until they were spirited through the Bolshevik lines and carried to Harbin from Omsk on an American consular train late in 1919.

These were then shipped to Shanghai, sent to an Italian port on the Gulf of Trieste and they now rest near Paris in the family vault of Gen. Janaki, French commander of the Czech Legionnaires in Siberia after the war.

A new book by Janip tells of the ashes being in the vault.

Admiral Kolchak, commander of the White Army, placed the remains in the care of Consul General Harris after his downfall at Omsk, says The Times, and Harris turned them over to Governor Horvath in Harbin without knowing the significance of his cargo.

With the White Army in retreat, the American train took aboard American nurses and refugees and their gruesome freight, and headed east toward Vladivostok. In spite of guerrilla warfare along the way, the party came through safely after many days and arrived in Harbin on a dark night with the weather at 20 below zero.

Bundled in furs, the consular attaches met the train in the yards and entered the consular general's car. Some one pounded his heels against a box to get warm and was warned jokingly.

The Times quoted Clarkin at this point:

"Odd baggage, it looked, roughly bound with ropes, like an immigrant's trunk. After dinner we played poker at the table, the box interfering with our comfort, and listened to experiences and what souvenirs had been collected, for those aboard were to proceed another week's journey to Vladivostok for the so-called 'kick-out' and home.

Next noon Consul General Harris called at our quarters in old Harbin.

"Well, it's off my hands," he announced with unaccustomed solemnity. "That chest under my table. They took it away at midnight."

"Shipping it home?"

"Home? Home is no more for that. Man, what do you think was in it?"

"Kolchak sent it aboard. Nothing contraband, not even champagne, in it. He couldn't trust it to his trains, and it would be an act of Christian grace if I took it. Governor Horvath would call for it at Harbin. Well, Horvath's officers came for it and gazed at it, then at one another, then with peculiar deference at me. Four then bore it out. One came back, saluted and said: "You not know what you have brought? You have brought, excellency, all that is left of the Czar and the Imperial family of Russia!"

Texas Daily Oil Production for November Shows Another Decline

AUSTIN, Dec. 15. —Decline of 3.5 per cent in daily average production of petroleum in Texas during November as compared to October brought this figure down to 748,231 barrels, according to Irene B. Williamson of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

The October average for the state as a whole was in line with the maximum limits for the state allowed by the Texas Railroad Commission, though certain sections were far above the allowed totals, Miss Williamson said. "Further reduction followed the withdrawal of certain purchasers from the Panhandle and North Texas sections and the continued shading of prices which had already reached pre-war levels. Contests to determine the authority of the Railroad Commission to enforce production orders have been started, but, however the outcome may effect individual fields, economic conditions within the industry are probably not such as to encourage the present volume of production."

Wales' Chill Is In Normal Course

LONDON, Dec. 15. (AP)—The chill from which the Prince of Wales suffered yesterday is taking its normal course, it was stated at his residence, York House, today. He was said to have had a good night.

The British public and press, accustomed to official honesty with regard to illness of its royal figures, took the York House statements at face value and accepted the official explanation of the Prince's malady as a "slight chill."

It was said that his temperature was down and that he was much better last night before he retired. He was described as cheerful, although out of a day's hunting, his first in several months, and it was considered not necessary to issue official bulletins.

The Prince of Wales has suffered from only an occasional illness in the 36 years of his life. During his recent visit to Africa he was taken down with tertiary malaria, in which one of the phases is intermittent chills and fever, but he soon recovered. Always he has proved a good patient and has been readily amenable to physicians' instructions.

"Stocks of crude petroleum at refineries in Texas on Oct. 31, the latest date for which Bureau of Mines figures are available, amounted to 11,553,000 barrels, a slight increase over the September total of 11,270,000 barrels but less than the October, 1929, figure of 12,601,000 barrels. For the United States as a whole however, Oct. 31 stocks of 46,032,000 barrels represented an increase of approximately 1,000,000 barrels over both the preceding month and the corresponding month last year. Of this total, almost 40 per cent consisted of petroleum originating in Oklahoma, Kansas and North Texas, while only one per cent was of foreign origin.

"If the present tendencies in production of gasoline are maintained, stocks on April 1, 1931, will be five per cent greater than the 38,200,000 barrels on hand on Oct. 1, in spite of an increase of 1.2 per cent in prospective demand during the six months ending April 1, 1930, as compared to the corresponding period of 1929, according to estimates made by the statistical subcommittee of the American Petroleum Institute. More extensive use of the cracking process in refining plants would further reduce the demand for crude petroleum at the rate of 4,149,378 barrels for each 1,000,000-barrel increase in cracked gasoline."

erage for November of last year. Panhandle Slashed

"With the expiration of the original proration period of the Texas Railroad Commission on Nov. 27, further reductions in Texas output were ordered, the greatest decrease being scheduled for the Panhandle section, from which one big pipeline buyer withdrew during November."

Daily average production for November under the schedule as set out in August was as follows: Panhandle, 77,970 barrels, compared to a proration order of 80,000 barrels, an average for October of 60,376 barrels and a November, 1929, average of 70,230 barrels; North Texas, 63,530 barrels, compared to a proration order of 69,000 barrels, an October average of 63,103 barrels and a November, 1929, average of 60,380 barrels.

West Central Texas, 44,691 barrels, compared to a proration order of 52,000 barrels, an October average of 47,688 barrels and a November, 1929, average of 57,810 barrels; West Texas, 271,830 barrels, compared to a proration order of 274,000 barrels, an October average of 272,000 barrels, and, a November, 1929, average of 261,020 barrels; East Central Texas, 40,740 barrels, compared to a proration order of 40,000 barrels, an October average of 41,500 barrels and a November, 1929, average of 47,630 barrels; Southwest Texas, 85,950 barrels, compared to a proration order of 82,200 barrels, an October average of 102,128 barrels and a November, 1929, average of 73,640 barrels; Coastal region, 162,520 barrels, compared to a proration order of 177,800 barrels, an October average of 167,488 barrels and a November, 1929, average of 146,920 barrels.
