ISABELLE HALLIN AT THE MICROPHONE

Radio Beckoning To 'Cocktail Case Lady'

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Isabelle Hallin, pert and pretty young school teacher whose rumored cocktail party for her pupils brewed a tempest in the Saugus Mass., leap and cast her a teaching job, hopes now to make good as a radio artist—but not before she achieves vindication in her home town.

The prospect of a radio contract has not dimmed her determination to fight for renewal of her teaching contract.

"It's a matter of principle now," she explained while awaiting an audition at the EC studios.

With others, Miss Hallin was being auditioned for a new "radio newsreel." The audience's eyes focused on her sleekly coiffed bright blonde hair and smartly simple black crepe dress.

Though a veteran of years of summer stock acting, Miss Hallin was as nervous as one of her own high school dramatic pupils.

Her hands trembled uncontrollably. But with her microphone cue, stage training came to her rescue.

Her voice delivered her lines in a clear, strong voice that brought a hearty blast of "Sweetie" from the audience.

Sammy Baugh Joins 'Cards'

PAMPA PLAYER GETS POST ON ST LOUIS NINE

"Slingshot Sammy" Baugh of the Pampa Oilers baseball club remarked last week that he would rather play baseball than football, but said he knew a fellow had to have "what it takes" to be a great baseball player.

Baugh returned from Denver, where he started with the Oilers in the Denver Post tournament, with a St. Louis Cardinal contract in his pocket.

The former Texas Christian University quarterback and All American ace will leave tomorrow for St. Louis where the Cards will be entertaining the Cincinnati Reds.

Before going to bed after an all night drive from Denver, Baugh said that his dream of being a great ball player might be coming true.

He did not mention salary listed on the contract but said that if he made good with the Cardinals he would quit football.

Baugh was signed by Ray L. Loan, scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, who saw him in action in four games of the Denver Post tournament.

Before signing the contract, Baugh was assured that he would be allowed to play in the All Star-Griner Bay Packer football game in Chicago next month.

The Pampa player signed a contract to play professional football with the Washington Redskins, according to many reports.

It also been said that he was coach of freshmen football at Texas Christian University.

Baugh came to Pampa on June 1 and started playing at shortstop for the Oilers. He was employed by Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber company.

In the Post tournament, he was a 500 clip and included in his singles a triple and two doubles. He played an important part in the Oilers' victory.

Al Holland, 90, Who Raised First Wheat Crop, Passes Away

Death this morning took one of the Panhandle's most colorful old timers in the passing of Alfred A. Holland, 90 years and nine months of age, who died about 9:30 a. m., at his ranch home, three miles south of White Deer.

More than 50 years ago Mr. Holland came to the Panhandle, settling near Mobeetle where he worked on a ranch. He later moved to Carson county, near White Deer, where he became the first sheriff of that county.

Later he came to Pampa where he established the Holland hotel. After selling to Alex Schneider, Mr. Holland moved to his farm south of White Deer where he made his permanent home.

Surviving Mr. Holland are the widow, two daughters, Mrs. M. H. Kuykendall of White Deer and Mrs. Ruy Daniel of Amarillo, and a brother and sister in Tennessee.

The body lies at rest at the G. C. Malone Funeral home. Funeral arrangements had not been made early this afternoon pending arrival of his daughter from Amarillo. It was believed, however, that services would be conducted here tomorrow afternoon.

Young Sopwith And His Boat

Awaiting the return of Papa T. O. M. Sopwith's four-times beaten Endeavor II to England is young Tommy Sopwith, no mean yachtsman himself, as shown by the above picture taken on the beach at Westgate, Kent, England.

Perhaps Tommy is planning to challenge his father to a race, or he already may have started training for his attempt, several years hence, to wrest the "Old Mug" from American holders.

BLOCK THROWN UP FOLLOWING NEW SKIRMISH

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Chinese peace preservation corps barricaded roads leading to Chinese areas around excited Shanghai tonight after a clash in which one Chinese soldier and one Japanese were killed.

The clash came as Japanese refugees evacuating the Yangtze valley and other central Chinese areas poured into Shanghai.

The Kiangwan area on the northern fringe of Shanghai scene of major Chinese-Japanese fighting in 1932, was rapidly closed off.

Members of the peace preservation corps—militarized police—patrolled the roads armed with rifles and hand grenades, and threw up sandbag barricades.

The Kiangwan and Chapel areas, on the north and northwest, border Japanese military headquarters, the Japanese community, and the northern edge of the international settlement.

Even at the time of the new clash, responsible circles said the Japanese army apparently believed the time had come for peace negotiations with China on the Japanese army's own terms.

However, light Sino-Japanese skirmishing also was reported from the north, 30 miles south of Tientsin, between Japanese cavalry and Chinese outposts.

The sources which reported today's trend toward negotiations made it plain the Japanese army's terms would be recognition of Japanese control of the high north China province of Hopeh, where Japanese

OILERS TO BE C. OF C. GUESTS

Business Manager Harold Miller and a majority of the Pampa Oilers baseball team will attend the Pampa Chamber of Commerce luncheon at noon tomorrow. It was announced today.

Miller will report on the Oilers' participation in the Denver Post baseball tournament, giving highlights in the competition encountered, publicity obtained, and tell of the near riot in the final game with the Negro All Stars, and other details.

J. M. Collins, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, urged everyone who plans to attend to telephone 384 immediately to make reservations in order that the ladies serving the meal may make proper arrangements. An unusually large crowd, including a number of guests, is expected, Collins said.

COURT BILL GOES TO JOINT COMMITTEE MEET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The House sent the Senate's lower court procedure bill today to a Senate-House conference committee to work out an agreement acceptable to both houses.

Chairman Sumners (D., Tex.) of the House judiciary committee obtained unanimous consent of the House for this action.

Leaders said it eliminated the need for extended consideration of the revised measure, which contains no mention of the supreme court, by the House judiciary committee.

GIRL, 17, FLOGS MAN FOR LYING

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9 (AP)—Pretty Eloise Willis, 17, accused of publicly flogging Oscar Kay, 47-year-old WPA worker, after her relatives had tied him to a tree, defended her action today by saying Kay had spread "lies" about her.

The girl said Kay circulated "false tales" after she went to a hospital June 3 for an appendicitis operation.

"My father did not hear about it until yesterday, and then he decided to do something about it," she told police.

Kay, threatening to "swear out a warrant against them for attempted murder," charged Miss Willis flogged him with a steel cable before a crowd of 100 persons after members of her family had beaten him and lashed him to a Chinaberry tree at the Willis home.

The father, Alfred C. Willis, in a signed statement to police, Sergeant John Adams said, asserted Kay "got what he deserved."

"I tied him to a tree," Adams said Willis told him, "and had my daughter give him the beating he deserved. She hit him with a rope. I don't know how many times he was hit."

Adams, called by the father, found Kay moaning in the Willis yard with a crowd of curious persons around him. They had made no attempt, Adams said, to stop the flogging.

Key denied spreading stories about the girl. Police were to confer with the district attorney's office today on the filing of formal charges against Eloise and her father, now booked for battery and assault, if Kay fails to appear.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART.

Before you buy a single new fall outfit or make any plans at all for a new wardrobe, do sit down quietly and try to see yourself as you would look during the autumn and winter seasons. Get a fairly accurate mental picture of the impression you hope to create. Make notes, then put these aside for reference and as a guard against buying things that are all wrong for you. Be pretty sensible about the mental picture, taking into consideration your mode of living, budget limitations and interests in life as well as your figure, coloring and age. Don't conjure up a vision of yourself in a Garbo role when you know very well that for active sports house and tend your family or go to an office early every morning. Try to think of a neater, smarter, better groomed YOU—happy and contented in your own particular niche in the world.

Make a few resolutions about run-down heels on new fall shoes, dust on the new fall hat, wrinkles in dresses and suits. Promise yourself to buy only clothes which are flattering to your figure, and absolutely in keeping with your living habits, then to devote precious time to keeping them in order.

Consider the shape of your face and where you spend most of your daylight hours before you decide on a new coiffure. Why bother with an intricate, hard-to-keep-in-place hairdo if you go to business 5 days a week and go in for active sports weekends? A simple one can be just as becoming—and much less trouble.

And plan to look natural, using cosmetics to dramatize—not distort—your best features. Get powder which matches your skin, rouge and lipstick to make lips and cheeks look glowing alive, eye makeup to make eyes seem larger and lovelier. Bizarre effects will not be smart. Plan to look like a lady—a trim, perfectly groomed lady who buys the right clothes, keeps them clean and pressed and uses correct cosmetics correctly.

Modern Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

When the wintry winds rattle the pantry shelf, a plump August chicken should be ready to fly down into the pot for quart glass jar, in the middle of August chickens. Select plump ones and use 2-year-old hens for best results. Mature birds produce better meats.

In dressing the chickens for canning, be careful not to break the gall bladder in removing. Also remove livers, kidneys and eggs with great care. Then cut the chicken into regular serving pieces. Separate the meaty pieces such as breasts, thighs, legs and upper-wing joints from the bony pieces such as backs, wing, necks. Do not can livers, gizzards, hearts and gizzards along with the chicken. They spoil the flavor.

Use the bony pieces for broth. Cover with lightly salted water and simmer until meat is tender. Drain off broth and use for canning liquid. The meat from bony pieces should be stripped off and used for canned sandwich spreads.

Precook Meat Before Packing

Precook the meaty pieces in the oven for about 20 or 30 minutes. Use moderate temperature, about 350 degrees F. Then place at once in glass jars, fill with chicken stock.

A few bony pieces might well be included in each jar, as the bone seems to improve flavor of finished product. Then process in the following way:

Add salt to packed jars 1-2 teaspoon for pint, 3-4 teaspoon for a No. 2 can, 1 teaspoon for a quart jar or No. 3 can. When using tin cans, place salt in before meat to prevent

These beautiful black dresses are the type that bridge the gap between strictly summer and fall modes. Both, however, are sure to be useful all winter. The suave shirtwaist model (left), of handsome matelasse crepe, is trimmed with a white silk jersey collar and fastened down the front with white pearl studs. The other—draped and shirred in the new fall manner—is of black satin. Notice that the shirring on shoulders and armholes makes for the draped effect on bodice and sleeves. The shawl wraps around the waist and ties at the side, adding more draping to the silhouette. (From Bonwit Teller, New York)

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. In a barber shop should a man give up his turn for a hair cut to a woman customer?
2. Is it good manners when late for an appointment to a beauty parlor to complain if the operator has taken the customer whose time follows?
3. Is it good taste to tell one's family affairs to the operator?
4. Should one blame an operator for an unbecoming hairdress when she has carefully followed her customer's instructions?
5. Should an operator push the selling of cosmetics while filling an appointment?

What would you do if—

You are a married woman calling a beauty shop for an appointment—

- (a) Say, "This is Grace Mann?"
- (b) Say, "This is Mrs. Frank Mann?"
- (c) Make the appointment and add, "The name is Mann?"

Answers

1. No. She must wait her turn.
2. No.
3. No.
4. No.
5. Unless she is very subtle she will irritate and alienate her customer.

Attendance at Canyon Will Be Larger This Year

CANYON, Aug. 9.—Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers college, believes that attendance at the Canyon institution will be larger than ever before when the fall session gets under way in September. Letters of inquiry and visits to the campus by prospective students are more numerous than ever before at this time in the summer according to President Hill and Registrar D. A. Shirley.

Many boys and girls who have been out of high school for a year or two and unable to attend college because of lack of money find themselves able to take up their delayed study.

Shower Is Given For Mrs. Dunaway

Miss Elizabeth Carpenter and Mrs. L. P. Duvall honored Mrs. W. E. Dunaway with a shower in the home of Mrs. Duvall.

The house was beautifully decorated with mixed sweet peas. A pink and white basket of gifts was presented to the honoree. Following inspection of gifts, the guests spent the afternoon piecing and embroidering a quilt which was given to Mrs. Dunaway.

The pink and white color scheme was carried out in the cake and ice cream which was served to about 26 guests.

Shamrock News

SHAMROCK, Aug. 9—Appointment of J. H. Caperton was made at a recent meeting of the board of trustees of the Shamrock school district to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of J. R. Benson. Mr. Caperton has had experience in various public services which will be of value to the school district.

The resignation of Miss Beverly Harvey, high school history teacher, was accepted and Miss Florence Weekeser, junior high teacher, was chosen to fill the position.

Mmes. Irby C. Munday and Ed Tinsley entertained with a breakfast and shower at the U-Drop-Inn Friday morning, honoring Miss Valetka Thomas, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Eugene Wheeler of Watonga, Okla., has been announced. Bridge was played and Mrs. Albert Ryan won high score award.

Mrs. Allen Blake entertained the Trece Amigo club at her home Wednesday afternoon, using pastel colors in party arrangements. At the games of bridge Mrs. Huey Cook won first high award and Mrs. O. P. Purcell, member high, and low to Mrs. Homer Glasgow.

Mrs. Al Ryan was hostess to the

EVANGELIST

Rev. J. A. Sheets is nationally known, having traveled over a number of states and having conducted many successful revivals. The evangelist is known as "The Little Man with a Big Message" and those who hear him say that he is living up to this title. In addition to being an outstanding preacher, the Rev. Sheets is also a talented musician.

There will be a 15-minute Bible study each night in addition to the regular evangelistic service at which time the evangelist will speak on the nine gifts of the spirit as found in First Corinthians, the twelfth chapter. An invitation is extended to the public to attend every service.

Borger Visitors Attend Rainbow Meeting Tuesday

Eleven visitors from Borger attended the meeting of the Rainbow Girls Tuesday evening in the Masonic hall. The program which was arranged by Donna Jo Berry and Lois Foster included violin numbers by Helen Pools who was accompanied by Gene Finkbeiner. Two dialect readings were given by Margorie Williams. Colleen McMahon, Ines Hawkins, and Gene Finkbeiner entertained the group with several songs.

Derthen Thorne and Walden Frazer were initiated into the organization. Borger visitors included Mrs. Hazel Shipman, and Misses Elizabeth Beach, Lucille Branton, Peterman, Barbara Feund, Rose Cohn, Ovelene Whitley, Zena Mae Mastenhill, Mary Lois Shipman, Elizabeth Roberts, Margaret Strom, and Caroline Steyans, who is the Grand Outer Observer of Texas.

Refreshments of punch and cookies were served to about twenty-five girls.

THE OTHER WOMAN LIVES JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Copeland and son, Jerry Dan, and the hosts and their family.

Mr. Lawrence Lancaster is visiting his sister Mrs. Racey Marsa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lamm of Canute, Okla., visited their daughter Mrs. John Cooper Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Winegart are the parents of a baby girl.

Red flannels, on the "out-of-style" list for 20 years, are midwest, new note.

It may seem unreasonable, but almost no one understands why a woman who is usually happy and loving should have recurring periods when her whole character seems changed. He cannot appreciate the distress, the discomforts that all women must endure. He does not know what it is to do housework with an aching back and falling energy. All he does know is that this woman seems more cheerful by comparison.

Are you such a three-quarter wife?

Don't let the ordeal that all women face cause you available pleasure or endanger your home. Do as so many wise women have—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three or four of life. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. Preparing for motherhood. Suffering from "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

"Research Professor of Economy"

She's not a Ph.D or an LL.D. She hasn't a diploma or a cap and gown. Her research is not done in the laboratory or the library. As a matter of fact, her findings are made, usually, in the street car, in the subway, in the suburban commuter's train.

She reads the advertisements in this paper with care and consideration. They form her research data. By means of them she makes her purchases so that she well deserves the title of Research Professor of Economy. She discovers item after item, as the year rolls on, combining high quality with low.

It is clear to you at once that YOU... and all who make and keep a home... have the same opportunity. With the help of newspaper advertising you, too, can graduate from the school of indiscriminate buying into the faculty of fastidious purchases!

CONGRESS GOES INTO TWO-WEEK FINAL CLEANUP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Congress settled down today for a two-weeks' grind toward adjournment, but the normal legislative positions of the Senate and House were almost reversed.

The Senate, its calendar cleared of most major bills, waited for the House to dispose of such important measures as housing, wage-hour legislation and the court procedure bill.

Usually, the Senate is behind at adjournment time.

House leaders, however, prepared to waste no time. They pointed out the House rules permit it to operate much more expeditiously than the Senate when the going gets heavy.

Speaker Bankhead said the House probably will agree quickly to the modified court procedure bill which passed the Senate Saturday. It will go to a joint conference committee as a matter of form, because the Senate tacked the bill onto a minor House measure.

Unless unforeseen complications arise, leaders said, legislative action on the measure—all that is left of the contentious supreme court reorganization bill—can be completed early this week.

Like the Senate, the House probably will devote itself to minor matters until Thursday. Then it will debate the wage-hour bill, already passed by the Senate but drastically altered by the House labor committee.

There have been threats from some members to block the legislation in the rules committee. Leaders expressed belief, however, their agreement with members of a farm bloc to give general farm legislation the right of way as soon as Congress reconvenes next January had removed that potential obstacle.

Both House and Senate have yet to pass legislation to plug loopholes in the revenue laws, through which treasury officials contend millions are escaping annually.

The House ways and means committee began hearings today on proposed methods of stopping these leaks.

Chairman Steagall (D., Ala.) called the House banking committee into closed session for a preliminary discussion of the housing bill already passed by the Senate. Indications were that it would be revised considerably.

Sugar Only Minor Issue. Apart from the tax bill and the third deficiency appropriation, which neither house can pass until everything else is out of the way, sugar legislation was about the only major measure awaiting Senate action.

The sugar quota bill is expected to be approved by the Senate finance committee about the middle of the week.

Senate leaders meanwhile, put the finishing touches on an agreement which they hope will silence demands for a special session in the fall to consider general farm legislation. They also hope it will win White House approval for requests of farm state legislators that the administration make emergency crop loans to stabilize farm prices.

The Senate audit committee is expected to approve a resolution to give an agriculture sub-committee $10,000 to conduct regional hearings during the fall in an effort to work out a farm program.

Senate leaders said the resolution would contain a stipulation that the committee report to the Senate January 1.

MAN CONFESSES GIRL'S SLAYING

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—A 49-year-old married hospital orderly who has spent more than a third of his life in prison, was charged with murder today as the stranger-ravisher of Paula Magagna, 8, fourth Brooklyn child in as many years to die at the hands of an attacker.

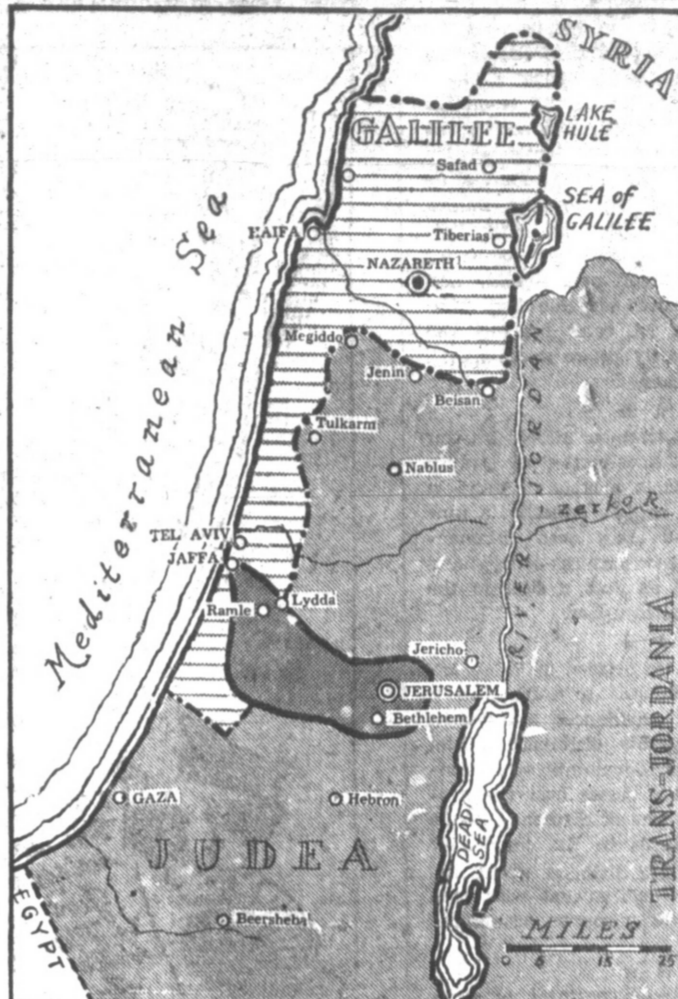

The ex-convict, Lawrence Marks, paroled from Sing-Sing only two months ago, broke after police shattered 15 separate alibis he gave during a 13-hour grilling. He confessed to choking the girl to death with a cord and mutilating her body in the basement of her tenement home July 31, Assistant District Attorney Frederick Kopff announced.

Taken to the basement under a heavy guard, Marks re-enacted the crime while the family of the dead girl remained in their apartment overhead. Police kept back a crowd of 300 neighbors incensed by previous sex attacks on children in the district.

According to a signed confession Kopff said police obtained, Marks told of luring the girl into the basement by pretending he was a gas meter reader.

Marks was arrested Saturday after Mrs. Miriam Saratkin, who has an apartment in the building where he lived, complained he had molested her 8-year-old daughter Aug. 3, three days after Paula was slain.

Holy Land Divided Against Itself

This is how the British Palestine Commission proposes to divide the Holy Land, a partitioning that has aroused opposition from both Jews and Arabs, whom it was intended to placate. The horizontally shaded area would become the Zionist sphere; that diagonally shaded, the Arab sphere; and the British demarcation of the dark area, which includes Jerusalem and Bethlehem, as well as Nazareth, to the north.

ENACTMENT OF REVISED WAGE-HOUR BILL URGED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The House labor committee formally recommended today enactment of a revised version of the wage-hour bill already approved by the Senate, asserting it would greatly strengthen collective bargaining efforts.

"The bill is intended to aid and not supplant the efforts of American workers to improve their own position by self-organization and collective bargaining," the committee's report said.

Terming the measure "a modest and conservative approach" to the objectives outlined by President Roosevelt in his message to Congress recommending such legislation, the committee said it represented "an attempt to begin to meet and not to avoid some of the most vital problems of American economic life."

CHILD BRIDE, 9, 'SWITCHED' BY HER TEACHER

SNEEDVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 9 (AP)—A switching for "general mischievousness"—so her teacher said—was the reason Mrs. Eunice Johns, Tennessee's nine-year-old child bride, was not at her desk in the Fairmount grade school today.

Eunice, who gained the national spotlight last January when she and Charlie Johns, 22, were married, was a pupil at the grade school several miles from here in a remote section of Hancock county—for two days only.

Wade Ferguson, her teacher, said the child quit school last week after he switched her. The incident, he said, brought her lanky husband to the two-room schoolhouse where Ferguson teaches 40 children.

"Why, you can't whip another man's wife," Ferguson quoted Johns as saying when he came to protest against the punishment.

"Oh, you can whip another man's wife if another man sends his wife to school to me," Ferguson said he told Johns.

Ferguson said he had trouble with the little mountain girl "the first day of school."

"I had to scold her several times that day," he said, "but hesitated to punish her. She ignored the scoldings and on the second day I had to switch her. She was jumping from place to place over the schoolroom and wouldn't stay in her seat."

Ferguson said Eunice entered school last Monday, enrolling in the first class of the primary grades.

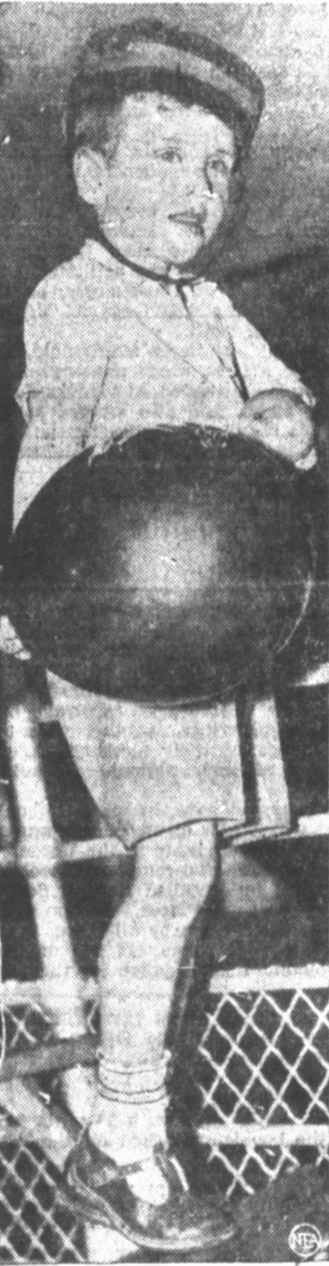

The marriage of the girl to her mountaineer husband brought protests from all over the nation, and the Tennessee legislature later enacted a law prohibiting the marriage of persons under 16 years of age.

Forestry work by the federal government began in 1876, with administration of forest reserves placed under the secretary of the interior in 1897.

STORIES IN STAMPS

THE scourge of slavery rose to plague the British protectorate of Sierra Leone in Africa just 10 years ago in a case strikingly parallel to America's pre-Civil War history. Most Britons supposed that no such thing as slavery existed anywhere under the Union Jack.

Two slave owners in the protectorate had recaptured some runaway slaves. The slaves promptly sued their masters, charging personal assault since force was used in their capture. They won in the first trial. Then the owners appealed to the Supreme Court of the Colony of Sierra Leone. By a vote of two to one the judges ruled that slavery being still legal in the protectorate, the masters had a right to use force in the capture of the runaways.

News of the decision stunned British officials in London. Sir John Simon, then a member of Parliament, protested the decision. The protest spread and in a few weeks the Legislative Council of the protectorate passed a bill abolishing slavery, effective Jan. 1, 1928. Some 215,000 slaves were affected. Virtually all of them were owned by natives, since British law forbade white British subjects to possess slaves. A 1933 stamp portrays a slave throwing off his shackles.

UNEVEN FIGHT ON CRIME

One good reason why crime continues to flourish in spite of a nation-wide campaign to wipe it out was suggested in one big city recently in a comparison of equipment used by bands and that used by police.

Two shiny, new 1937 model automobiles each capable of approximately 100 miles an hour, were used by a gang in a bank robbery. One three-year-old small model car, registering 74,000 miles of operation and capable of 65 miles an hour "if it is pushed," was available to police.

Against this handicap, police were fortunate in shooting the robbers down to a stop. But in many other cases, where police are similarly under-equipped, criminals have been and still are getting away with the goods.

Thus, part of the enormous tribute that crime exacts from the nation is reinvested in equipment for new depredations. Police expected to do battle with criminals deserve at least an even break when they put their lives in jeopardy. Here, it seems, is a good chance to do something about the crime wave instead of just "deploring" it.

SHIRTS AND GOVERNMENT

For the simple offense of wearing a green shirt, Brazil's government employees are liable to six months' suspension without pay for the first offense, and downright dismissal for the second offense.

Ordinarily, there is nothing wrong with wearing a green shirt, but in Brazil it is anathema because it has been adopted by the Integralistas, a Fascist organization. And the government, it seems, doesn't care for Fascism.

The Green Shirts of Brazil, along with the Mexican Gold Shirts, the English Black Shirts, the United States Silver Shirts, and the Irish Blue Shirts, offer an international problem as complex as the tariffs.

Honest people wondering just what it all means may be tempted to classify the "shirt" movement as more than moderately sophomoric, suggesting a motto of, perhaps, "Do or Dye."

Washington Letter

This is the second of two articles in which Preston Grover tells how the Resettlement Administration got doctors to cut fees for poverty-stricken farmers.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—When the Resettlement Administration set out to put under-dog farmers on their feet it first decided it must keep them healthy. Thus was inaugurated a type of practice that is fast becoming a problem child to organized medicine.

It is the medical cooperative.

The average individual goes to his physician only when he feels right down poorly, and puts off operations until he can't stand the pain any longer or until the family budget is fat enough to meet the shock. If his operation is serious, he goes to a hospital, rents a room at $5 to $10 a day, and pays about the size of bill his physician thinks he can stand. There are variations, of course, and the average is open to argument.

But the Resettlement was not dealing with the average individual. It was dealing with farmers so financially flat they couldn't borrow seed to plant, not to mention finding the price of removing Dorothy's swollen tonsils. Whether it was right or wrong for the government to go into the field taken over by the Resettlement Administration is not the subject of this article. The government did, and these things happened.

Farmers in many states borrowed government money to put in crops but the government felt it had to keep them and their families well or lose the investment. Dr. R. C. Williams, formerly of the Public Health Service, took over the job as medical director for Resettlement to meet that situation.

As he relates it, he set out to get medical attention for R. A. clients at the lowest rate possible. The method adopted was the formation of medical cooperatives.

"The Resettlement Administration has financially aided in the setting up of several cooperative medical organizations," Dr. Williams said, "and is ready to sponsor more."

Here is a sample he gives of how they work: "In one county in Mississippi there are 386 Resettlement clients. Of this number 246 are members of a medical cooperative. Each member pays $2 per month per family. From this amount $1 goes to services of a physician and $1 goes for medicines. The service of the physician includes home and office care and obstetrical cases."

Usually surgical operations are not included. But in such instances, fees are fixed at levels in sharp contrast with those the average persons pays. They range from $35 to $50 for major operations, $15 to $35 for minors. Contracts have been made with hospitals by several cooperatives to care for patients at as low as $1.25 a day.

Dr. Williams concedes the prices are bed-

Tex's Topics

An interesting character in Pampa over the last week-end was Sam (King) Cole, known universally as "King of the Newsboys." King Cole will not accept charity. He is on his fifth trip around the world, and works his way along by doing duty for newspapers in the cities which he visits. In Pampa he wrote several feature stories for the Pampa News, and was on the job from early Saturday morning until late Saturday night. He had planned to remain over Sunday and sell papers, but a chance airplane hop from here to Las Vegas, N. M., came his way and he took to the air snortly before midnight. The King is an explorer.

Every man is an explorer—or should be. For exploring isn't so much a matter of strange and exotic lands as it is a state of mind—a leaping enthusiasm, a restless curiosity, a sensitized mentality that casts even commonplace experiences into new patterns of light and form and significance as does a film in the hands of a skillful photographer.

When William LaVarre decided to be an explorer, he prepared himself to thread on a string of purpose all experiences that might come to him. That quality distinguishes him from the less discerning adventurer who, hungering for sheer activity, passes over the provincial—if not actual—acre of diamonds. While few men can seek thrills in the jungles of British Guiana, to every man is given the privilege of facing his environment with precisely the same spirit of purposive adventure-making.

In the relations between business competitors, great uncharted spaces exist; it is so also in relations between buyers and sellers, employes and employers, and between nations forced to be neighbors in a world growing smaller. Doctors frequently acknowledge that the beaten course of their knowledge is fringed by unpenetrated thickets of ignorance. Great industries have been revolutionized by scientists and inventors; more will be as new Nobels, Edisons, Zeppelins, Wright Brothers, and Ketterings arise.

But TRUE exploring is not a matter of medals, headlines, or bank accounts. It is an attitude, a way of looking at life: a very personal thing, withal it comes from within, is not dependent upon external. One of the greatest explorers we know is an 80-year-old woman. Since her children have grown up, she spends many hours in a rocking chair, reading. In the spring, she exults over the miracle of seeds becoming flowers—"all for 10 cents!" she will tell you. Her mind gives to every new experience the tint of adventure. She is, to paraphrase Marcus Aurelius, like a fire well kindled which catches at everything thrown in and turns it into brightness.

The movie star star who complains he is the victim of typing will win lots of sympathy from the girl who spent the best years of her life as a stenographer. All is not as it seems when Congress sits idle for months, because even that usually adds up to a new tax on the public patience. Headline says "French, Japanese at Gun Point." Suppose they're looking to see if it's loaded? That Rome-Berlin axis is slightly off center, due, maybe, to the fact that it can't be run through the Russian-held North Pole. It seems one of the first requirements for qualifying as a visiting fireman at a convention is to be one of the tin hats back home.

Most persons are not so much worried about what Farley is in the bag as about who is going to end up holding it. As a hint in the overpopulation problem, someone might offer the Chinese the latest figures on the proportion of babies who are piano players or cigar-smokers from birth. . . . Historians now trying to discern the outstanding public figures of the depression period will waste their time looking beyond the tax ledgers. . . . The government promises speedier news of gulf hurricanes, a boon to many who never get wind of such things until after they're over. . . . In the coming campaigns, any number of political stump speakers will continue to read their speeches, figuring that someone has to do it.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
A special bond election was called to determine whether or not 42 miles of hard surfaced highway should be built in this community.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
Immediate purchase of $50 worth of current fiction was authorized at a meeting of the Pampa Public Library board. The book committee was composed of Mrs. B. E. Finley, Mrs. A. A. Hyde, and Olin Hinkle.

Boy Scouts of the Adobe Walls Council announced their plans for a trip to Camp Cima del Mundo near Las Vegas, New Mexico.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Alice Regan's grief over being left a widow with three children was doubled after a visit by a gypsy fortune teller who promised she could restore happiness to the woman's life.

Mrs. Regan told police she removed $500 savings from a bank and tied it in a stocking around her waist as instructed by the gypsy woman. The fortune teller said her "touch" would "charm" away the grief. Two days later Mrs. Regan looked in the stocking. She found only a roll of brown wrapping paper.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Private lives:

Phil Napoleon hasn't worn an undershirt in 12 years and doesn't intend to wear one for the next 12 years, or longer. They drive him crazy.

Libby Holman, Ann Andrews, and Joan Bennett are near-sighted—which explains those longnettes you see in their hands.

Bert Acosta, the aviator, has been in jail for several weeks—alimony trouble. He would rather lodge there than pay. Acosta is the fiercer who spanned the Atlantic with Admiral Byrd and who, more lately, fought the loyalists in Spain. Until the gendarmes got him, he was m.c'ing in a Spanish night club, discussing the fracas with the guests.

Every time Mac Miller puts on pajamas he rolls the legs above his knees. . . . He could not sleep otherwise.

Ramon Navarro likes to roam the town hatless and in slacks. . . . The last time he was here some society belle gave him a party, attended by all the swells in stuck-up clothes. But Navarro arrived in a sweater and a pair of sailor pants.

Billy the Oysterman has been handling shellfish 50 years, but can't remember when a pearl of any consequence was found in his place. The other night there was a shout, and the customer, pale with excitement, rushed up with a pearly object which he triumphantly exhibited. "I'm rich," he shrieked. "I've hit it! What's this pearl worth?"

Billy seized the proffered gem and then glanced at the joyous patron. "I don't want to disillusion you," he began, "but, pal, that isn't a pearl. You've lost a tooth!"

Oscar of the Waldorf, when preparing important menus for banquets, likes to offer his guests a preference of champagne—or lemonade.

On one such occasion ex-Mayor Walker beckoned Oscar over and warned him: "One of these days, Oscar, if you keep this up, you'll get into trouble."

"How?" inquired Oscar, incredulously.

"Well," said Walker, "some of these times somebody is going to astound you by asking for lemonade. And when you haven't got it—what will they think?"

Already scheduled for Broadway production this fall are 15 musicals. Better get the old piano tuned.

R. A. Rolfe, the bandleader, was the original president of Paramount Pictures. . . . and so the story goes, lost $2,000 when he descended from the film company throne.

How's Your Health?

Edited By Dr. LAGO GARDSTON for New York Academy of Medicine

ABOUT VIRUSES

We are bound to hear more and more about viruses and virus diseases. So we'd better know something about these disease-producing agents.

The term virus was originally employed to designate any agent capable of producing morbid conditions. Later, however, the term has been restricted to those disease-producing agents which are smaller than the micro-organisms called germs or bacteria.

Viruses are not visible under the most powerful microscopes, in ordinary light. Their existence and shape is in a measure demonstrable by the use of ultraviolet rays. The wave length of the latter being shorter than those of the visible light rays, the small bodies of the viruses apparently can interfere with the passage of ultra-violet rays, but not with those of visible light. Certain of the larger viruses can therefore "be seen" when they are photographed through powerful microscopes in ultraviolet light.

Often viruses are spoken of as "filterable viruses." This designation is employed to indicate that the virus body will pass through the walls of unglazed porcelain, in contradistinction to germs which are too large to pass through the spaces between the porcelain particles.

Viruses are responsible for numerous plant and animal diseases. Among the principal human diseases charged to viruses are infantile paralysis, rabies (hydrophobia), small-pox, measles, certain forms of brain inflammation, typhus, yellow fever, influenza and probably the common cold.

There is much speculation, and a great deal of experimentation and research centered about the question as to whether cancer in human beings may be caused by filterable viruses.

One type of cancer (sarcoma) in chickens is known to be caused by a filterable virus. A certain wartlike formation affecting rabbits which is known to undergo malignant changes resulting in cancer formations is also due to a filterable virus. But these animal tumor growths differ radically from human cancers, the cause or causes of which is still an open and untraced problem.

One other point is noteworthy. Viruses are believed to reside and grow within the cells of the body, whereas practically all germs are placed outside and between the body cells.

Man About Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Mary Astor is looking forward to a stage play in New York next fall, but not definitely. . . . Her next Santa Barbara appearances were a sort of warm-up for the stage return she's been planning these many years—ever since her one previous stage effort here revived a career that had waned with the silent.

Josephine Hutchinson told the prop man how to tell the real diamond bracelet from the phoney one, needed for a later scene, in her picture "This Is My Wife. . . ." "Rub them both in your hair," she instructed, "the phoney one will sparkle." He did, and it worked. "It's just an old trick of the jewelry business," said Josephine. . . . She and George Murphy are going to be surrounded by ectoplasm in the picture, simply because Errol Taggart, the director, was once an amateur magician. . . . Taggart has worked out a series of weird effects for the scene and mystery scenes.

Have G. Eric Blore tell you about the time he was locked in the local hoosegow on a fake charge of imbrication. . . . Why, they put me in a big cell and the drunks kept coming in and shortly the floor was writhing with putrid pythons. . . . Eric still has records of comic songs he wrote during the war. . . . One he was playing the other day was composed, he said, in a little village that was blown to smithereens the next day. . . . He's fond of the number because it was played for the late King George, and on another occasion for the present Duke of Windsor.

Robert Young made a test—very bad—at Paramount before he caught on at Metro. . . . Shirley Ross' real name is Bernice Gaunt. . . . Ann Dvorak has to come to Hollywood to cash her "allowance checks" from her business manager. . . . In Van Nuy, where she lives, they don't know her. . . . So I can believe that a wire addressed to Frances Dee at the little village near her husband's ranch didn't reach her—because there she's known as Mrs. Joel McCrea. . . . Montagu Love, the character actor, got rave notices for his work in "The Prince and the Pauper. . . . One critic at least liked his Henry VIII better than Charles Laughton's. . . . and so, since then, Love has had two weeks' work at Warner's—in nine months! . . . Burgess Meredith has ordered half a dozen wooden Indians, cigar store variety, as a surprise gift to Mervyn Leroy, who collects them to decorate his grounds. . . . Only other wooden Indian collector I know is Carl Laemmle, who has one as sentinel outside his estate. . . .

Answers To Questions

By FREDERICK HASKINS

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Pampa Daily News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskins, director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. How many no-hit, no-run games have been pitched since the major leagues have been organized? A. S.

A. There have been 93 games pitched in the major leagues in which a pitcher has not allowed either a hit or a run.

Q. How long do iron and steel pipe last in underground service? W. B. M.

A. Ordinary black wrought pipe in the ground should last from 10 to 20 years; galvanized steel from 15 to 30 years; galvanized wrought iron from 40 to 75 years. It is, however, not uncommon to find lead and cast iron pipes sound after from 80 to 100 years and except for slight external corrosion black wrought pipe has been found in excellent condition after from 40 to 60 years in the ground.

Q. How many miles of roads have the United States, Germany and Italy? A. A. L.

A. The United States has 3,065,000 miles of roads; Germany has 216,674 miles; Italy has 151,392 miles.

Q. What was the fire loss in 1936? R. W.

A. The 1936 fire loss in the United States was estimated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters at $293,357,245.

Q. How many taxicabs are there in New York City? G. G. C.

A. In December, 1936, there were 16,000 taxicabs and 46,800 licensed taxicab drivers in New York City.

Q. What is the population of Reno, and how many lawyers practice there? D. M.

A. The latest estimated population of Reno, Nevada, is 19,000, and it is estimated that there are 203 lawyers practicing.

Q. Does a cross on a monument or a monument in the form of a cross denote that the person was of any particular denomination or faith? J. E. D.

A. It does not indicate any particular religious denomination, but it does indicate that the person resting beneath was affiliated with some form of Christianity, as the cross is the great symbol of the Christian faith.

Q. Did Jeanette MacDonald, the movie actress, study dancing? E. J. S.

A. She attended Al White's dancing school and also studied at the Alberta Rasch ballet school.

Book A Day

By BRUCE CATTON

"Women Also Dream," by Ethel Mannin (Putnam, $2.50). Is the sort of novel to jar your most modern concepts.

"It is all very well to assert that love needn't be the end of freedom," she asserts, "but it invariably is; human nature sees to that."

From her earliest years, Janet Forrest lives in a world of dreams. Then she meets daring airman Addison McLaughlin. He opens the gates of adventure for her; shows her the way of escape. And oddly enough Janet chooses the career of an explorer.

So the woman of dreams dedicates her life to action, thrills, adventure, and falls in love with a young business man, Addison warms her against marriage. "It is no good to a woman like you. You don't need it and have no time for it. Janet Forrest with a husband would be ridiculous."

But Janet insists, is married, and then she proceeds to go about her exploring as usual. The upshot is the break-up; that inevitably follows the clash of love and career. But she forges on, makes a daring flight that illustrates another kind of courage. And at last she learns that love and marriage are not the only adventures, nor the whole of romance.

And in the end this is Miss Mannin's advice: "Live dangerously—it's the only way to live—particularly in these days when there's no security for any of us!"

PAMPA AND BORGER SPLIT THIRD AND FOURTH MONEY IN POST TOURNEY

NEGROES BEAT OLIVERS 10 TO 1 IN WILD GAME

(Special to The News.)
DENVER, Aug. 9.—The Negro All Stars from the Dominican Republic, with a lineup looking like the Negro All Stars of last year, downed the Pampa Oilers yesterday afternoon, 10 to 1 in a hectic Post tournament game. The loss sent the Oilers home, tied with Huber of Borger for third and fourth money.

The game was delayed for several minutes while members of both teams joined in a fight which followed the spiking of Sam Hale by Cool Papa Bell in the second. Hale was injured and had to leave the game. Two negroes were banned for swinging bats.

Trouble started when Bell, negro centerfielder, spiked Sam Hale, Pampa third sacker, in sliding to beat a throw from centerfield. Bell and Hale exchanged several wild swings. Hale's face and hands were cut by spikes.

Umpires banished from the game two negroes who appeared in the fracas swinging bats. Police ended the melee after much difficulty. There were numerous impromptu matches.

Dale Mills, Pampa hurler, warming up on the side lines when the fight started, was spiked on the right ankle and did not enter the game when it resumed. Hale was replaced by "Slingshot" Sammy Baugh at third after being laid up by a charley horse for the last two games played by Pampa.

Griffith, All Star right-hander, held Pampa to three hits, including a homer by Dutch Prather, leading Western league hitter last season, and singles by Daley and First Baseman Cox. Daley went the route although touched for 13 hits.

The All Stars meet Duncan Halliburton, last year's semi-pro tournament winner, tonight for the championship.

M'LEAN TIGERS TRAINING FOR COMING GRID DRIVE

M'LEAN, Aug. 9.—The M'Lean Tigers are getting in shape for the forthcoming football season in various ways. Some of them have participated in athletic activities all summer. Many have worked in the oil field. Groups of the Tigers are meeting at different periods of the day boxing, passing and punting.

Coach Allen will return to M'Lean soon. He plans to take the Tigers to the mountains for a two-week training period. Final arrangements have not been made but will be announced soon. All boys eligible for the 1937 Tiger eleven interested in making the trip are to get in touch with Coach Allen.

Tonight's Schedule In Tournament A Natural

Play in the Panhandle District Softball tournament here is getting down to the strongest teams and every night outstanding games will be scheduled. Tonight and tomorrow night will see the close of play at the Road Runner park, because of the return of the Pampa Oilers from the Denver Post tournament. Finals will be staged at Recreational park where the lights will be re-focused.

Tonight's schedule will be overshadowed only by the games of tomorrow night, and by the final game, it is believed. Both coming nights will feature real rivals.

Tonight's Schedule
At Road Runner Park
Panhandle Laundry of Amarillo vs Danziger of Pampa, 8:15 p. m.
Robert-Oliver of Amarillo vs Canadian.

At Recreational Park
Taylor Grocery of Amarillo vs Cities Service of Pampa.
Phillips of Pampa vs Borden of Amarillo.

The schedule for tomorrow night will be:
At Road Runner Park
King Oil of Pampa vs Texaco Firechiefs of Amarillo, 8:15 p. m.
Gulf of Borger vs Rig Service Station of Borger.

At Recreational Park
Winner of tonight's Taylor Grocery-Cities Service game vs Skelly, 8:15 p. m.
Winner of tonight's Canadian-Roberts-Oliver game vs winner of the Phillips-Borden game.

The game between King Oil and Texaco Firechiefs is a final in itself. Both teams feature deadly stick work, great fielding and outstanding pitching. In Norton, Firechiefs have a real fireball ace while little Dan Atkinson of King Oil is equally as fast. Texaco also has a left-hander with a faster ball than his right-handed teammate.

Tonight's games are loaded with dynamite. Every team participating will be fighting to remain in the tournament. Ace pitchers will be fighting to remain in the tournament. Ace pitchers will be in the lineup, and every pitch will be for blood. There doesn't look to be a lopsided game in the schedule.

Rig Service Station of Borger showed exceptional power yesterday afternoon in defeating Borden of Amarillo for their first loss. Word held the Amarillians to three hits while Lefty Mitchell, former Sooner hurler, and O'Brien were nipped for eight hits. Four doubles, and a triple by Miles, helped the Borger cause.

Gulf of Borger and Phillips of Pampa in the second game, twice interrupted by rain. Gulf staged a last inning rally to score three runs and defeat Phillips 3 to 1. The 66 home run scored in the fourth on a home run by Freddy Newsome, former baseball star.

Three hit star, a triple by Carls and singles by Rogers and Edelin after Williams had walked, gave Gulf the game. Phillips put three men on base in the seventh but couldn't push any of them across.

Games played Saturday night saw King Oil push Canadian over 6 to 2, and Cities Service stage a three-run rally in the last of the seventh to send Texas of Pampa home, 11 to 10 in games at Road Runner park. Skelly swamped Shamrock of LeFors, 13 to 6, and Roberts-Oliver of Amarillo downed Smith Brothers of M'Lean, 5 to 0, in Recreational park games.

McLEAN BALL TOURNEY NEAR END OF PLAY

McLEAN, Aug. 9.—Last week's play in the McLean softball league was climaxed by two of the best games of the season. The Meador Cafe-Smith Lease game went into an extra inning which ended with the Meador Cafe team leading 9 to 8. The second game of the evening was somewhat a surprise when Canton led the strong Columbian Carbon team until the last but lost by a score of 8 to 7.

The Columbian Carbon plant and the Meador Cafe teams are entering the Shamrock tournament, but the McLean schedule will go on and there will be regular games even though some substitutions may have to be made.

The standings are as follows:

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIEZE
NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Madison Square Garden stock has soared 2-1/2 points since the Mike Jacobs deal was announced.

Pie Traynor (who is having his troubles) may take a tip from Bill Terry and make a third sacker out of Arky Vaughn.

Night baseball is on the downgrade in old "Zinninatti". Henry Armstrong who is following Tony Zimmerman's example and playing the small clubs, will have $40,000 to show for his summer's work.

The best shotmaker in American golf in square Gene Sarazen's book is "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Chicago.

A House of David infielder (soup-strainer and all) is said to be the heart of a Broadway stage favorite called the John Henry Lewis-Bob Pastor but, originally slated for the Garden September 30, may be shifted to Pittsburgh.

"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn is seriously considering abandoning tournament golf for big-time bridge.

Col. Jake Ruppert has served notice on the Yanks he won't go out to see them play until they have a 12-game lead.

He passed Joe DiMaggio three times the other day.

AN EDITORIAL

Yesterday's incident in the Denver Post baseball tournament, when a free-for-all fight followed what was believed to be the intentional spiking of Sam Hale, Pampa third baseman, by "Cool Papa" Bell, negro, in the semi-final game between the Pampa Oilers and Dominican Republic team made up mostly of last year's negro All-Stars, was a regrettable affair. However, it goes to prove that negro teams should not be allowed to play in a tournament with whites, especially teams from the north.

The so-called Dominican team should not have been allowed to enter the tournament. Professional league teams are barred, yet the negroes, with a team that humbled the New York Giants 3 to 0 a few weeks ago were allowed to participate with the white semi-pro teams in the Denver tourney.

Had a young ball player been involved in yesterday's happening, youth and hot-headedness might have been blamed, but when a veteran like the lovable Sam Hale was involved, fans cannot believe that anything but an intentional attempt was made to injure Hale.

According to direct wire from the field, Bell hit a triple to left field with two mates on base. After rounding second, Bell loafed to third until Hale was in the act of receiving the ball from Scaling in left field. Then the negro slid into third with cleats flying, badly spiking Hale. After regaining his feet, Hale swung on Bell and the fight started. In the melee, a negro struck Hale over the head with a bat and Dale Mills, Pampa pitcher who was warming up on the sidelines, was spiked. A Denver Post cameraman was knocked down and his camera broken as negro players rushed across the field.

It is not right for negro teams, especially northern professional teams, to participate in the tournament, and southern teams planning on entering the tournament next year, should see that such teams are barred before they enter. It is true that white teams use a smattering of professional players, but even then they are no match for the negroes.

Pampa's Oilers gave a mighty good account of themselves in dividing third and fourth place money with the Huber Blackfaces of Borger, a team that had consistently defeated them this season. The players will return home today and Pampa fans are solidly behind them.

Welcome home, Oilers and congratulations. You gave Pampa much publicity that cannot be figured in the terms of dollars.

SAN ANTONIO TAKES COUPLE FROM HOUSTON

The San Antonio Missions entrenched themselves more deeply into their second-place Texas league berth last night by taking both ends of a double bill, extending their running streak to five.

A four-base clout by Ollie Bejma in the sixth inning of the nightcap enabled the Padres to come from behind and defeat the Houston Buffs 5 to 2 after they had won the first 8 to 1 behind the huriling of Bob Muncieff. It was Muncieff's fifteenth victory of the season.

The circuit-leading Oklahoma City Indians walloped Tulsa hurlers for a 15 to 5 victory in a "going-away" contest.

Worth's Cats thumped the last-place Dallas Steers 12 to 5.

NATIONAL GOLF MEET OPENS IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9 (AP)—The pick of the country's public links talent fires the opens shots today in the start of the sixteenth annual National Golf championship.

Nearly 200 stars from the public courses of 61 cities and representing 24 states, the Territory of Hawaii and the District of Columbia, unnumbered their clubs for the first eighteen of the 36 hole qualifying trials.

Handsome B. Patrick Abbott, who does a bit of movie acting as a Hollywood extra and plays superior golf on the side, headed the starting field as defending champion.

Although practice round produced considerable sub-par golf, the Harding park course, 6,719-yard layout of 36-36-72 calibre, loomed as a formidable test as actual competition got under way.

Germany protests to Britain on expulsion

The largest dam in the Orient, costing around $20,000,000, will be erected for hydro-electric purposes by the Manchoukuo government this spring on the Sungari river near Harbin.

A starving peasant in Honan, China, who recently found several old coins dating back more than a millennium is now living in comparative luxury with the money paid him by the provincial museum for his discovery.

A blood-curdling wrestling card is all set for tonight at the Pampa Athletic arena, four blocks east and one south of the post office, when Promoter Cliff Chambers presents three well balanced matches featuring roughsters and top-notch grapplers. "Game" time will be 8:15 with admission 77 cents ringside, 40 cents general, and 25 cents for children.

Heading the card will be a grueling three-fall affair between Frank "Frankenstein" Wolf of Columbus, Ohio, who will attempt to annihilate the choice of Sweden, Gust Johnson, who would rather wrestle but who can look after himself with a mauler of the Wolff type.

Another Swede is scheduled for a rough evening of the former's Western Golf association sent a classy field of almost 100 women golfers out over Onwentsia's rugged layout today, with dark-haired Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., the "lady to beat."

Miss Miley has come home in front two straight years. Paty Berg of Minneapolis was one of several players rated chances of stopping the Lexington girl's victory march.

Miss Miley, paired with Dorothy Foster, Springfield, Ill., will be the first to open the card at 8:30 o'clock will be a battle of little giants with Tex Hager and Jack Hagen mixing. Hager is a likeable little fellow, with a lot of science in his head while Hagen is known, justly, as the Louisiana butcher boy.

There will truly be fireworks at the arena tonight. Roughsters are hurling insults at the scientific lads and there is liable to be some upsets in the big ring tonight.

MARVELS The CIGARETTE of Quality WORTH CROWING ABOUT

Best-Dressed Woman

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

COPYRIGHT, 1937, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Chapter X
 From her place on the quiet ranch, Judith was aware that the newspapers had not relinquished the story in which she was featured. Because she was the best dressed woman in America she was news. High news, to every girl and matron. They knew now, one and all, that she had left a devoted husband in order to marry the well-known actor. They would read about her clothes all the more eagerly, sure that they had exercised a charm for Bruce. The couturiers would welcome her. Life was that way.

Even the messages which Bruce's publicity agent handed to the press had little influence. It was a better story to have Bruce marrying Judith than Millicent.

The whole incident was setting on Judith's nerves when she glanced up from a magazine she was perusing in a desultory fashion one afternoon, to see a tall young man standing on the veranda.

"Ronnie, where did you come from?" she asked.

"New York," he answered tersely. "Have they gone, Mrs. Irving?"

"Millicent and Bruce? No, they leave tomorrow. Won't you sit down? I'll get Millicent for you. She's resting."

Judith's heart ached for the boy. He had come to tell Millicent for her last time. He told her that young hearts beat fast. He told her that young hearts beat fast.

Millicent was half asleep when Judith touched her shoulder.

"Milly, you have a caller. Ronnie's here."

"Ronnie!" She sat upright. "When did he get here?"

"Just now. Be kind to him, honey. He loves you rather badly."

"Oh I know—I know. Oh, Judy, isn't it dreadful?" She began to cry and the slender shoulders shook. Then suddenly she stood up. "I haven't much time. I'd better go down."

Judith saw Millicent and Ronnie ride off into the sage together. They didn't know it but she knew it. She saw Bruce come in from another door and watch them go. His eyes looked a little frightened. Millicent turned, sighed and blew him a kiss. He waved back.

Judith picked up the magazine again. It was a mystery and detective book of yarns that one of the cowboys had left on the living room table. For lack of anything better she had been glancing at it. Here and there pictures of people who had figured in sensational robberies or kidnappings or murders were given. Suddenly her eyes focused on a face. She knew it—or a face like it. She sat up straight in astonishment. It belonged to Marta Rogers, divorced husband, about whom so little was known. Another name captioned the picture. The story said that he had served time for one of the most amazing jewel rackets of recent years. He was a genial gentleman with a flair for pretty words—

Judith realized that no one knew anything about the Rogers' except that they had crashed society one year before, armed with letters from abroad. Marta, the pearls, her anxiety to be married to Phil quickly, all these things flooded back to Judith's memory now. Quite possibly Marta knew the tricks of her former husband's trade. Maybe she practiced them, too. She wanted to marry Phil and have legal claims on him before he found out who she was or had been. Poor little fool! She must save Phil. Or could she?

Judith took the magazine photograph to Bruce. "Do you know him?" she asked.

He shook his head. She decided to say nothing. Instead she would return to New York when Bruce and Millicent left the next night.

Reservations had been promised on a ship that left Denver the next evening. The rancher would take his guests to the early afternoon train for Denver. Final arrangements were completed before Millicent and Ronnie came back from their ride. Ronnie shook hands with everyone and said goodby. Millicent was quiet. She went over to Bruce and slipped her arm through his.

Night came, the last night, with a dark blue backdrop of sky, painted with large stars, almost too bright. Dinner was over. A cowboy was singing a love ditty. Somebody, far away, laughed and the mirth came down the ravine.

Judith looked at Bruce, talking to Millicent. Her eyes were quiet and shining. She was smiling. Her last problem had been settled. Her heart was at peace. The years would bring storms—all good years did—but for the moment the sea was clear and the stars were out.

Because they were leaving the next day, everyone went to bed early. Judith awakened in the morning, oddly refreshed, and put on the simple black suit in which she had arrived. She would pick up her baggage where it waited at the village inn. Nothing had been lost, she had been told.

Bruce was at breakfast. Millicent had not appeared.

"I'll call her," Judith said, and went back up the wide, low staircase. Millicent didn't answer. She opened the door softly. A breeze stirred the curtains—and the bed had not been slept in. Millicent wasn't there.

Slowly Judith walked downstairs. Had Millicent got up early and made her bed? Or had something happened to her? At that thought Judith began to run.

"Bruce," she said steadily when she reached the dining room. "Millicent hasn't been in her room."

"Not all night?" he asked quickly. "Not all night."

The rancher entering the room, interrupted them. "I was giving you this note this morning, Mrs. Irving."

"Miss Millicent?" Judith began. "Do you know where she is?"

The rancher nodded. "She went off in a car last night, after you all went to bed, with that young fellow that came yesterday. Nice sort of chap. He's right for each other, that boy and girl."

Judith held out the envelope to Bruce who slit it open. Aloud she read the brief note: "Forgive me, darling and make my peace with Bruce if you can. It was Ronnie whom I loved all the time. I knew it when the ship began to fall that terrible night. I've been praying for him to come ever since. Bruce was an infatuation, that was all. But a terrible one. I never suffered over Ronnie as I did over him for a little while. And I want him to fall in love with me even when he didn't want to. I never meant to hurt him. Wish me happiness, dear. Ronnie and I are being married tomorrow. And find happiness for yourself, Judy dear. Remorsefully and happily, Millicent."

Bruce was quiet during the rest of the day—the leaving of the ranch house, the ride by train to Denver and the airplane takeoff. Only once did he refer to the elopement. Then he said: "Our host sensed the truth—they're right for each other, Millicent and Ronnie. The same generation. Just as you and I were right for each other, Judy, and didn't know it."

Bruce left the airplane at Chicago. He was staying there for a week. Judith changed to the ship for Newark. It would not have been wise for Bruce to have come on with her, anyway, they both knew.

At the Newark airport Judith faced a barrage of cameras and reporters, head up, eyes bright, cheeks flushed. Her pulse did not fall here. She had dressed in her smartest clothes. If she could be nothing else, she could be the best dressed woman in the world!

She went to the St. Regis because it was old and quiet. Bruce's press agent found her there a little later. She read a story which told of the marriage of Ronnie and Millicent and swung quickly back to her romance with Bruce, which the story said, she had attempted to conceal behind a fictitious romance between the actor and the debutante.

The telephone rang. It was Phil. "Judith, you're making a monkey out of yourself. Everyone in town is laughing," he said. "Will you take a boat to Paris and get your divorce so you can marry that theatrical nut or won't you?"

"I won't and he isn't a nut and he doesn't love me any more than I love him," she answered. "Phil, this isn't for publication, but Milly walked out on him. He can't publish that, and she can't let the public know she jilted him."

He hesitated, half believing. "What are you doing tomorrow?"

"Shopping."

"Where will you be at 2?"

"She named a couturier's."

"May I pick you up for lunch?" He hesitated. "Judy, I missed you."

"I'll be waiting for you, Phil," she answered. He had missed her—He told Marta what he was doing. When Judith entered the shop the next day, the golden-haired woman was waiting.

MALE BUMBLEBEES DO NOT SURVIVE THE WINTER MONTHS
IN 1932, MANY BEES WERE PREPARED FOR THE EARTH'S COLLISION WITH A COMET. THEY SOLD THEIR BELONGINGS AND GATHERED IN CHURCHES.

ONLY the female bumblebees live through the winter. When spring comes, they crawl forth from their hibernating places and locate a building site. During the early part of the season, only workers-imperfect females-are produced. In late summer, males and perfect females appear.

The Capital Jigsaw By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
AUSTIN, Aug. 9 (AP)-A man who has come up from the ranks in the description applied by C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Railroad Commission, to Walter J. Christian, new conservation enforcement chief in the East Texas oil field.

Christian, who succeeded Capt. E. N. Stanley, chief intermittently for several years, started work for the commission in 1931 as clerk and has been employed almost without break in East Texas. He is a brother of Judge George E. Christian, member of the commission of the court of criminal appeals.

Christian's reticent in discussing his affairs was illustrated in a recent interview with the commission, a correspondent telephoned the residence of Judge Christian to get more information. A woman member of the family answered and when old that Christian had been made head of the commission's East Texas staff, exclaimed: "Well, of all things! we were asking to him a little while ago and he didn't say a word about it."

According to Chairman Terrell, Christian started at one of the lowest salaries paid commission employees in East Texas. "He has had successive promotions and is every way deserving of his new responsibilities," Terrell said. "I think there will be no let down in the efficiency of enforcement."

Christian is strictly a Texas product, having been born and reared in the vicinity of Burnet, about 60 miles northeast of Austin. He is not an engineer, like Stanley. In appearance also he differs from Stanley. Of average height and slim, he seems to carry an air of confidence and cooperation. Affirmative replies for such a conference have been received from Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Uruguay and Bolivia. Chile and Venezuela have said such a conference would not be opportune.

Answers have not yet been received from the United States, Argentina or Brazil. Without favorable replies from these nations, authorities said, there is little chance a conference will take place. Informed officials said today it is unlikely the administration would want to participate in an inter-American monetary conference in the immediate future.

Secretary Morgenthau repeatedly has said he prefers dealing with one nation at a time on monetary questions because big round-table conferences seldom accomplish anything.

GEN. FRANCO RECEIVES BRITISH BOMB PROTEST
LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)-Great Britain protested directly to Insurgent General Francisco Franco today against the bombing last Friday of the British tanker British Corporal, off Algeria.

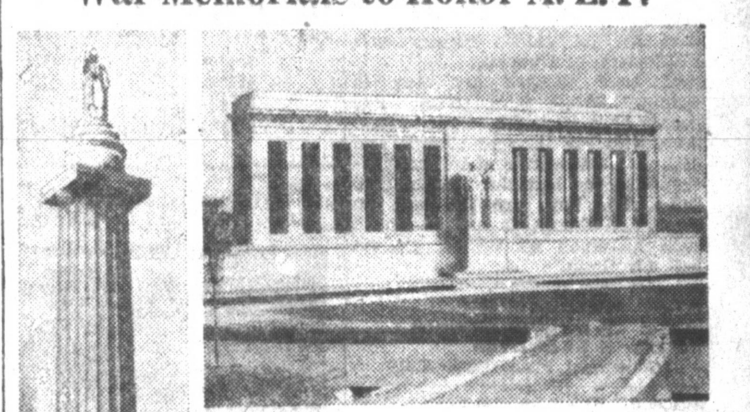

Italian and French ships were bombed in the same place and the captain of the Italian ship was killed. Today's protest, lodged through British Ambassador Sir Henry Chilton at Hendaye, France, was based on the presumption that insurgent planes carried out the attack, although British officials said they were "not sure" (The insurgents have denied they were responsible.) An earlier protest was lodged with insurgent authorities at Palma, Mallorca by British naval officials.

Seek Hidden Guns in Fengtai

Major prize of Sino-Japanese fighting in the Peiping sector is Fengtai, key railroad junction on the Peiping-Tientsin railway. Here, a Chinese soldier forces a porter to open his baggage before permitting him to enter the strategically important city, as military authorities claimed a strict ban upon concealed arms.

War Memorials to Honor A. E. F.

Simple but impressive ceremonies will mark the dedication of America's greatest World War memorial at Montauk, France, Sunday, Aug. 1, in the presence of Gen. John J. Pershing, when the towering monument shown above is commemorated to the million American doughboys who served in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. It was designed by John Russell Pope of New York and erected at a cost of nearly a half million dollars. Inset is shown another in the series of American war memorials being dedicated between August and October. It marks the spot where American forces stopped the German advance at Chateau Thierry in July, 1918, and was designed by Dr. Paul P. Cret of Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)-Eight nations have approved and two have rejected a proposed inter-American monetary conference, the Pan-American union disclosed today. The parity was suggested at the Buenos Aires last year. It would endeavor to bring about monetary stability and the termination of the system of exchange control. Affirmative replies for such a conference have been received from Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Uruguay and Bolivia. Chile and Venezuela have said such a conference would not be opportune. Answers have not yet been received from the United States, Argentina or Brazil.
