Business Houses to Close for Labor Day And Community Picnic

Pampa and the surrounding oil fields are going to close up as tight as the well-known jug on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 6 which will be the occasion of the American Legion-sponsored Community picnic at Saunders ranch near LePors.

Today Commander Charlie Maisel displayed a long list of names which included most of the merchants and business concerns in the city, all of whom agreed to close on Labor Day. The agreement to close stated, "Wishing to cooperate with the Legion and to bring a better spirit of understanding and cordiality between capital and labor we will close our business Labor day, Monday, Sept. 6. This will allow our employees to attend the community picnic."

That the community picnic has made a hit with residents of this section was indicated in scores of favorable comments received by the sponsors, newspapers and others. The picnic will feature basket lunches by families, cold drink stands, all kinds of game concessions, various kinds of "pamper races," and other attractions which will be outlined and arranged at a meeting of committee chairmen at the Legion hut tonight at 8 o'clock. All heads of committees are urged to attend.

FLYING BOAT LEAVES ON HUNT FOR FLIERS

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 25 (AP)—A huge flying boat, commanded by Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted Arctic explorer, sped toward the polar regions today leading a mass hunt for six Soviet trans-polar airmen, missing 13 days. The 17-ton Soviet-owned craft left Coppermine, N. W. T., last night on a second attempt to locate the Russian fliers who vanished on a 4,000 mile flight from Moscow to Fairbanks and Oakland, Calif.

Improving weather conditions heartened members of a dozen other air and sea expeditions which have been blocked along a far-flung front by Arctic fog and ice. Jimmie Maitteri, American aviator, made a 600-mile swing over the Arctic from Barrow yesterday in search of Sigismund Levanefsky's four-motored plane before continuing south to Fairbanks. Maitteri said he was considering another flight today.

Bottles Cross Seas

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Service Editor) NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—A test of ocean currents, in which 17 bottles ranging from castor oil to champagne empties crossed the Atlantic in seven months to one year, was disclosed today at the American Museum of Natural History.

One hundred corked bottles were dumped overboard on July 26, 1936 by a museum bird expedition, 35 miles off the north Newfoundland coast. The idea was to test directions and speeds of the sea currents. F. Thomas Gilliard, staff assistant at the museum, and Samuel Knox George of Baltimore, made the experiment. Results will be published in September Natural History, the museum's magazine.

The first bottle showed up on the west coast of Ireland last February 14. The airline distance from Newfoundland was about 1,800 miles, but the bottle drifted a longer course. England and France got bottles later. In July two of them reached Spain.

Every bottle contained a card to be filled out with position and date of finding. Ireland got six all told. The course followed by the bottles, Gilliard said, was not toward Europe at first, but south with the cold current which flows from Labrador. This carried them to the "eastward drift," which is the name given the Gulf stream after it veers from the American coast toward Europe.

This drift is fan-shaped by the time it reaches Europe. Some of it courses northward toward Ireland. Other portions curve southward past France and Spain.

COURT REFORM STILL NEEDED DECLARES FOR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt served notice today that some reorganization of the Supreme Court remains an objective of his administration. He made his first public statement on the court situation since Congress shelved his demand to enlarge the high tribunal by one member for each present justice over 70 who did not retire.

The statement came with a White House announcement that Mr. Roosevelt had signed a measure providing for changes in judicial procedure in the lower courts out of the long and bitter fight over the court bill these proposals alone were retained and enacted.

The President said that the lower court bill "registers a moderate and limited advance into a field which calls for further and more complete explanation."

He listed as being "on the side of commission" the fact that the bill "leaves entirely untouched any method of relieving the burden now imposed on the Supreme Court."

"This bill then included as one of the objectives which he said 'are of a necessity a part of any complete and rounded plan for the reform of judicial processes.'"

Enumerating what he considered benefits of the lower court bill Mr. Roosevelt said one of its principal provisions was that the attorney general shall be given notice of constitutional questions involved in private litigation and accords the government the right to defend the constitutionality of the law of the land."

"No longer," he added, "must the chief executive himself be a helpless spectator, while acts of Congress are stricken down by the courts."

Other accomplishments. He listed these other accomplishments for the bill: It speeds appeals to the Supreme Court. It checks the injunctive power of lower courts. It "tends slightly to relax" the present system of assigning judges within circuits to congested areas.

FIRST GUSHER IN 20 YEARS AT BRADFORD

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 25 (AP)—Black Gold spouted today from the first gusher in 20 years in the Bradford oil field on northwestern Pennsylvania, near the scene of the first oil strike a half century ago. Veteran oil men sought vainly throughout the night to cap the $7,000 a day flow, splashing up through the 60-foot derrick and across the ground at the rate of 110 barrels an hour. Crude oil brings $2.85 on the market.

DALLAS, Aug. 25 (AP)—Charges of dismissing employees for union activity against five Dallas millinery manufacturers today were on their way to the National Labor Relations board in Washington, D. C., filed by L. N. D. Wells, Jr., board field examiner.

CHINESE FIRE STOPS LANDING FROM VESSELS

SHANGHAI, Aug. 25 (AP)—The lives of hundreds of Japanese soldiers were sacrificed today in a mass effort to land desperately needed reinforcements and wipe out the Chinese armies of Shanghai.

The city's wily defenders took heavy toll of Japanese landing parties, thwarting a Japanese plan to land 55,000 troops near Wusung and storm Shanghai's defenses from the rear.

Wusung is at the confluence of the Whangpoo and Yangtze, down river 12 miles from the heart of Shanghai.

An estimated 42,000 Japanese still were on their ships and the ranks of some that reached shore were riddled.

The Chinese allowed the new Japanese troops to rush what seemed to be second defense lines, then exploded hidden mines and virtually wiped out the invaders with sheets of fire from secret machine-gun nests.

Both sides admitted that casualties in the Wusung sector, where the battlefield abruptly shifted, were extremely heavy.

One late report, tonight, unconfirmed, said the Chinese finally were withdrawing inland, in the face of Japan's big guns.

The foreign residents of the heart of Shanghai were surrounded by the devastation of 13 days of war—$125,000,000 worth of ruined property and at least 100,000 war dead and wounded.

Santander Surrenders To Franco Army

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 25 (AP)—Insurgent officials today announced the surrender of Santander, last remaining government stronghold on the northwest Spanish coast. Advances from insurgent field headquarters said government authorities in the city officially handed over a notice of surrender.

The insurgent motorized troops casually drove ahead to enter the outskirts. Late this afternoon a strong detachment was only three miles from Santander proper. Fall of the city was hastened by street fighting. Santander's civil guard, a part of its police, and some of the civilian population rushed government troops, demanding immediate capitulation to insurgents.

So swift was the insurgent advance that 5,000 government militiamen were believed caught in a pocket formed southeast of the city by onrushing insurgent troops. Insurgent commanders announced that all 15,000 government troops remaining in Santander submitted to the decision to surrender. Control of the city gave insurgent forces virtually complete control of the northeastern half of Spain. The drive to conquer the entire Biscay coast started last September with the fall of San Sebastian and Irun.

With the fall of Santander the insurgents have only a small slice of territory to the west to capture before they can complete domination of the northern coast. Revolt of insurgent sympathizers within Santander, insurgent reports said, paved the way for entrance of the conquerors, who had advanced for days in the six powerful columns and joined forces yesterday for a final direct assault. Jose Antonio de Aguirre, president of the Basque republic, arrived safely at Bayonne, France.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—That old relief headache has bobbed up again in capitol hill and seems to be digging in to welcome the congress back in January.

Congress and the relief problem are a little like the cranky mountaineer who peered out his cabin door at the mob of youngsters in the yard and shouted:

"Those 'o you belong 't me, git in the house. And those 'o ye don't git on home."

Congress is just that confused a father to the unemployed, although it has shoveled billions down the chute to them in the last four years.

Actually, the "unemployed" have never been defined. They were such a hungry lot in 1933 there was no time to do it, and it hasn't been done yet.

Is a widow who makes $4 a week embroidering dolls at home unemployed if she can't feed her brood on that $4? Is a youngster who has graduated in 1935 and never found a job unemployed? How unemployed is a man who gets $200 a year from a canning factory but can't make it stretch the whole 12 months, and can't find another job?

In the year ending June 30 WPA spent $1,099,069,166 on jobs for 1,656,533 people. More millions poured through the social security sieve to poverty-stricken blind, aged and children. Still more millions are keeping the CCC boys off the rattlers.

Yet every congressman's mail has pleas from people who can't find any government cash-register open to them, and can't find a job. To make matters more complicated Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia keeps loudly demanding a balanced budget.

There's a faint hope on the hill that maybe relief bills could be cut if the relief problem could be reduced to a simple system. In the last few weeks several efforts in that direction have bobbed up to remind congress that "the poor, ye have always with you."

Just a few weeks ago the newly named Associate Justice Hugo L. Black pushed through the senate a bill to take a census of the unemployed. He wants it "on or before" April 1, 1938. It is estimated the census would cost $5,000,000.

Immediately Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who engineered the war draft, denounced the plan as clumsy and needlessly expensive. He wants all relief cases to register on a given day.

There's something about the mountain air that just carries Judge Ivy Duncan completely away. That's why he likes it so well at his Eagle Nest cabin. For a great many generations, people regarded their physical ailments as something set apart for medical men alone to cure. There was no general moral compulsion to take an interest in disease beyond submitting it to a man who knew how to deal with it.

Fortunately, through the efforts of leaders in the medical profession itself, a new attitude has come into existence; an attitude based on the responsibility of the individual to know exactly what causes disease, what he can do to avoid getting it, or once having it, how best to co-operate with the doctor in getting rid of it.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Coming in off a late junket the other night, I passed the mortuary where the body of "Legs" Diamond's kid brother was taken after that way, emaciated young man passed away.

They didn't catch him, although it is believed that he was there. They say "Legs" successfully passed through the lines, disguised as a priest, and knelt unmolested at his brother's bier.

Emery Deutsch's orchestra begins each medley with a mournful wail of the reeds which seems to me the very epitome of despair.

Who? Me? ejaculated Kay. "That wasn't hooch. That's the rolling gait I've acquired after being aboard ship so long."

Q. How did the custom of lighting the headlights on automobiles in a funeral procession originate? B. P. A. It originated some years ago in a general discussion by the members of the National Selective Morticians, an organization of funeral directors. Any number of suggestions came up at this meeting, such as signs to be carried, and pennants on cars, but the final decision was that the lights be placed on all cars in the procession. This would not be an added expense.

Book A Day

By BRUCE CATTON

In "Recapture the Moon" (Little, Brown; $2.50), Sylvia Thompson employs her facile pen in a portrayal of the Twenties and, incidentally, of a group of French and English young people.

Bianca Selwyn, widowed by the war only a few weeks after her marriage, her cousin, Charmian and Peter Cable, and Louis Scheurer, the son of a wealthy French munitions maker, are the principal protagonists around which the story moves.

Miss Thompson deals with them, by and large, very well. The novel can hardly be called thoughtful, yet there is a current running throughout which places it far above the average popular romantic novel.

The story moves quickly, from England to France and back again, and succeeds in presenting a really memorable picture of the effluent, extravagant silliness of the world in the years following the World War.

It is here that the book is most successful, and as a character study mirrors against this period they really come alive.

Those who do not generally care for popular romance should enjoy "Recapture the Moon," while those who like a happy conclusion at all costs will forgive its bitterness because of the idealistic ending.—E. M. T.

NEW MADRID BOMBING KILLS 10, INJURES 25

MADRID Aug. 25 (AP)—Madrilenos cleared away the debris of a brief but deadly artillery bombardment today while the newspaper El Socialista, organ of the socialist party, called for a Spanish government diplomatic "offensive" abroad.

"If we are greeted with indifference or hostility that is the more reason to insist on such a diplomatic offensive," the newspaper said.

Ten persons were reported killed and 25 wounded in last night's half-hour shelling, the first to hit the beleaguered city for 18 days. Hundreds of projectiles crashed into the center of Madrid.

Government guns returned the insurgents' fire. A defense ministry communique said government columns there "gained much ground and completely cut communications linking Huesca and Zaragoza," capitals of two Aragon provinces and important insurgent bases.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—The capital-aside from President Roosevelt accepted today as a virtual certainty a fall session of congress to consider farm and wage-hour legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was considering the arguments for and against a special session, but had not made up his mind.

He conferred yesterday with Senator Barkley of Kentucky and Representative Rayburn, the senate and house majority leaders, on the question.

Neither would comment afterwards on his probable decision. Other administration leaders, however, freely have predicted special session, among them speaker Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Senator Cuffey (D-Pa.).

A sizable group of Democrats, including many who wielded power in the last session, let it be known they were flatly opposed to coming back to Washington this year.

They explained they were particularly eager to give the wave of intra-party dissension, which grew bitter in debate on Supreme Court and wage-hour legislation, time to die down.

Among those who will report on conservation in the United States is Elliott S. Barker, New Mexico game warden.

KANSAS ACTION SURPRISE TO OIL INDUSTRY

TULSA Okla., Aug. 25 (AP)—Renewed sentiment for a decrease in production to bolster the crude oil market and to cut down storage stocks was the rule in the oil industry.

Operations gratified by last week's 110,000 barrel daily reduction in the September allowable for Texas, were somewhat surprised by the action yesterday of the Kansas corporation commission in following the Bureau of Mines September recommendation for 200,900 barrels daily in September.

It had been predicted here that Kansas would "cut back" around 10,000 barrels a day, in view of the indication of major companies that September purchases in the Sunflower state would be decreased at least 12,000 barrels daily below August.

However, it was noted the Kansas commission's stipulation that the July coverage of 4,650 barrels daily should be deducted would bring the allowable down to an actual 196,250 barrels daily making an overall reduction of 4,250 barrels daily in Kansas's allowable for September as compared to August.

With the Texas and Kansas allowables out of the way interest swung to the Oklahoma crude situation and tomorrow's meeting of operators

The battle is on—Erl Roman, famous sportsman, vs. 600 lbs. of savage, fighting, blue marlin!

How would your nerves stand up to two hours of this?

ERL ROMAN LANDS A BIG ONE!

AQUAPLANE EXPERT. Miss Gloria Wheeden is a typical American outdoor girl. "Yes, I smoke," she says. "Like all my crowd, I enjoy Camels—especially at meal-times."

"WHEN I'M TIRED after a match or need extra energy, Camels give me a 'lift' in energy," says Joanna de Tuscan, U. S. Women's Foils Champion. "Camels do not make my throat harsh."

BENNY GOODMAN SWINGS IT EVERY TUESDAY NIGHT!

Tune in! Hear the trio—the quartette—and all of Benny's boys swing the popular favorites. Every Tuesday at 8:30 pm E.S.T. (9:30 pm E.D.S.T.), 7:30 pm C.S.T., 6:30 pm M.S.T., 5:30 pm P.S.T., over WABC-Columbia Network.

AS the Miami, Florida, "Herald" said of Erl Roman's struggle with the big fish (above): "The battle was tough. Erl had his hands full staying in the fishing chair." But a sporting spirit and healthy nerves kept Roman going. After a 2-hour fight, he landed the second-largest blue marlin ever taken on rod and reel. "Healthy nerves are necessary for keeping on top. Camels don't get on my nerves," Erl says. Above, right, Mr. Roman enjoys good digestion and a Camel after his tense fight. "I make it a point," he says, "to smoke Camels with my meals and after 'for digestion's sake.'"

Smooth Blending of Costlier Tobaccos. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos, in a matchless blend. A mild, cigarette for steady smoking that does not rasp the throat or upset the nerves.

CAMELS NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES

COSTLIER TOBACCOS Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS... Turkish and Domestic... than any other popular brand.

FOREST RANGER has smoked Camels for 24 years. "If it weren't for Camel's mildness, I couldn't enjoy smoking so much," declares C. E. Dare. He likes Camels after his favorite meal. "Camels smooth things out for my digestion," he says.

Love Gets a Lift

CHAPTER XIII

Bob made a flying tackle, seized the professor from behind, and after a minute's fierce fighting, had Bracey down. "The statue—get it!" Bob gasped.

The little image was finally handed to him. He turned it bottom sides up and slid aside a tiny cover to the hollow inside. The next minute the famous emerald lay in his hand. He held it out to Steve, who was staggering grossly to his feet. "Professor Bracey, eh? That ain't what they call you in Italy," the detective snorted, glaring down at him. "The same stunt you pulled when you smuggled in stuff from London in that Museum store. Your game's not that savvy, you sure had a nerve to show up in this town. Must think the police force is dead on its feet!"

"You're about your rubbers from now on, unless—say, you're willing to put up with Schmatz and his mucky feet, aren't you? Love me includes my dog, you know."

For answer her arms crept about his neck and her red lips pressed his. Neither of them noticed that the door had opened, until Schmatz catapulted into the room.

"Excuse me please now," said Pat with a broad grin. "Ye seem to be plenty busy. Don't be foggittin' to give the dog some o' that mulligan." The door closed with a bang.

Bob looked solemnly at Kathleen. "The old sinner! Say, did you know before that cupid was Irish?" She smiled up at him. "No, and I didn't suspect he smoked a pipe either, did you? Probably carried his tobacco in his quiver, and all these years we've been thinking it was arrows."

BLIND CHAMP

HUNTINGDON, Ind. (AP)—Lack of eyesight proved no handicap to Otto Seber in a blind man's horse shoe pitching contest.

Seber, who is 64 years old, has been blind since he was 12. He has pitched shoes for 25 years.

"I'm not blind," Seber said. "I'm just blind in my eyes. I can see with my feet."

Seber pitched his shoe with a speed and accuracy that surprised the crowd.

"I'm a champion," he said. "I can pitch a shoe as good as any man living."

Seber's secret is that he has learned to feel the position of his feet and the position of the shoe in his hand.

"I can feel the shoe as if it were a part of me," he said. "I can feel the crowd as if they were a part of me."

Seber's record is 100 strikes in a row.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks lumpy.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

After the last echo of excitement over the arrest of Bracey had died away, and the Duchess' seasonal ball came to an ending which was wholly anticlimax, Pat came padding down the hall, carrying a covered bowl, which gave off tantalizing aromas. He leaned an inquisitive ear against the door of Kathleen's studio. At the sound of voices inside, a pleased grin spread over his face and he knocked.

"It's a mulligan, I thought ye might be loikin' some of, Miss Kathy," he told her when she opened the door. "And Mr. McTavish here too! Now ain't that lucky!" He gazed in deep admiration at the black eye that Bob displayed. "A fine time was had by all, eh? The Duchess got her trick jewel, the professor got his come-uppance, and you got a chance to punch his nose, not to mention runnin' off with his gurl, and—

"Did they really find that Bracey had had the scar removed?" interrupted Kathleen hastily.

"They did that," Pat answered. "It was me own razor the detective used when he scraped off that long sideburn the professor was so proud of. There was the thin white line as plain as the nose on your face. He's the feller they're after, all right, all right. Ye'll be goin' down to collect yer part o' the reward, eh, McTavish? It ought to be a likely sum, enough to buy well, a lot o' things."

"I hadn't thought about that," said Bob, glancing at the future counted.

"But I'll give it my consideration, Pat, since you mention it. You see the Duchess put me on such a hot spot, I haven't got over my fright yet. Imagine the headlines it would have made. 'Detective Writer Turns Robber! Fabulous Jewel Is Stolen! Society Woman Accuses Penniless Young Man! Uh, the cold chills are still frosting my spine!'"

"And they've a right to be," Pat agreed with a sage nod. "When a dame like that gets her head set on a man and he turns her down—look out!"

"You seem to know quite a lot about things that happened at the party, Pat," remarked Kathleen.

"And why should I?" he asked. "Yer forgittin' I was the lad walkin' the cupid's dart, begorra! What's to prevent me turin' thim where I pleased? That's how I see the Duchess when McTavish here left her a settlin' alone on that stone bench, which the same ain't any colder or harder than her own face as she stared after him."

"I did notice you kept the light on Bracey pretty steadily," said Bob, to change the subject.

"I did that," Pat complacently filled his pipe. "That detective feller and I had a talk 'bout things beforehand. I told him a lot o' ideas I'd had in me head, not even the Duchess knew just which one the detective was."

"Did you suspect the professor was after the emerald, Pat?" asked Kathleen. "Did you think he'd actually steal anything?"

"No and yes," answered the Irishman. "I knew he wasn't trailing 'round with the Duchess for nothing his kind never does, and when I see him givin' ye such a grand rush, I didn't put one thing past him. Ye see, Miss Kathy, y'r new here in the city, while I've been sweepin' up after folks a long time now, and have kind a cleaned up an idea or
