Water expert: Lawmakers did well

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

WHITE DEER — The manager of Pampa's groundwater district said he thinks the Texas Legislature did well when it came to dealing with the needs of the state's underground water resources.

"I think overall it came out fairly well," said C.E. Williams, general manager of the Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District, headquartered in White Deer.

The Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District covers all or parts of Gray, Wheeler, Carson, Roberts, Donley, Armstrong and Potter County. It was the third groundwater district established in the state, back in the 1950s.

One of the issues with which the Texas Legislature dealt during its biennial session this year was the establishment of other groundwater districts. Groundwater districts have been the method through which previous sessions of the legislature wanted to deal with underground water issues. The reasoning in the past, according to state officials, has been that it gives local control to water resources in a state with widely variable water needs.

One of the most important sections of the water bill for this panhandle district dealt with export fees. One of the district's counties, Roberts County, is at the center of several water marketing plans that would include pumping the underground water out and sending it to areas outside the district.

There were over 30 groundwater districts created this session if the Governor signs all the legislation, Williams said.

Williams said he wasn't that enthused when Senate Bill 2, the major water legislation for this year's session, was introduced in early March.

Williams had been on an advisory board for more than a year that worked to hammer out a consensus on various water issues. The initial legislation introduced in the Senate did not appear to reflect many of the recommendations of the consensus board, but after some long, hard hours working with legislators, Williams said, the proposed legislation was changed to reflect the work that the advisory board had done.

The work done by Williams and others that were part of the consensus board changed the proposed water legislation.

While changes were made to the Senate's version of the proposed legislation, much of the final wording was taken from the House version of the bill. After two differing bills were passed by each chamber of the legislature, the bills went to a conference committee of Senate and House members to be reconciled before being sent on to the Governor's office.

Dad still jailed in case of home alone little girl

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

A Pampa father accused of leaving his toddler home alone remained in jail Monday morning in lieu of bond on an endangering a child charge, a felony, and child abandonment.

Matthew Lynn Schiffman, 37, was arrested Thursday night around midnight at a local bar after Gray County deputies found a 19-month-old girl alone at 401 N. Banks at 10:15 p.m., according to Gray County Sheriff Deputy Randy Langwell.

Bond was set at $1,000 on each charge by Precinct One Justice of the Peace Joe Martinez.

A divorce decree was granted to Schiffman and Alma Blanco Schiffman in the 223rd District Court on April 24, 2001, according to court records.

According to the decree, both parents, Matthew Lynn Schiffman and Alma Blanco Schiffman, were named joint conservators to a female child, born Sept. 19, 1999. The decree ordered that Matthew Lynn Schiffman "shall have exclusive right to establish the child's primary residence without regard to geographical location."

WHEELER — Seven Eastern Panhandle residents are seeking almost $10 million from a Dallas oil company, a management company and president of the management company in a lawsuit for defamation.

I.A. Brooks Jr., Dale Adams, Lloyd Cogburn, George Davis Norma Curry, Richard Gordy and Don Crockett filed a petition Thursday in 31st District Court here seeking a temporary restraining order and injunction and damages for defamation from Gruy Petroleum Management Co., Magnum Hunter Resources Inc. and Gary Evans, president of Gruy.

The plaintiffs are seeking $1 million each in exemplary damages. Each plaintiff is seeking $100,000 in actual damage from Evans and $100,000 in actual damages from Gruy Management and Evans. The amount totals $8.4 million.

Near drowning at Lake Meredith

Woman tried to help two other swimmers

A young Amarillo woman who was attempting to help two Lake Meredith swimmers in distress almost became a drowning victim, according to a National Park Service news release.

It all happened about 7 p.m. Saturday at the Spring Canyon swimming area where a 911 call brought emergency help from the National Park Service, Fritch Park visitors went to Murgino's aid and pulled the unconscious, but breathing, victim from water.

Fritch and Hutchinson County Sheriff's Office.

Aurora Murgino, 24, told officials she got in trouble trying to help the two young teenage boys who later were accounted for and were safe.

Park visitors went to Murgino's aid and pulled the unconscious, but breathing, victim from water.

Rangers administered airway therapy and the victim was taken to Golden Plains Community Hospital in Borger where she was treated and released, according to a hospital spokesman.

State officials working to stop online doctors

The Texas State Board of Pharmacy last week adopted a policy barring druggists from dispensing medications "if the pharmacist knows or should have known that the prescription was issued based on an Internet or telephonic consultation without a valid, patient-practitioner relationship."

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — State officials are working to regulate doctors who consult with patients solely via the Internet and telephone, and pharmacists who accept those doctors' prescriptions for drugs.

The Texas State Board of Pharmacy last week adopted a policy barring druggists from dispensing medications "if the pharmacist knows or should have known that the prescription was issued based on an Internet or telephonic consultation without a valid patient-practitioner relationship."

Similar language is included in recently approved legislation awaiting the signature of Gov. Rick Perry.

"They're making prescription medicine available to consumers without really knowing anything about the consumers," Tom Kelley, spokesman for the attorney general's office, told the San Antonio Express-News in Sunday's editions. "It's a violation of the Deceptive Trade Practices Act and it's a public danger situation."

State officials say only three Texas doctors have been disciplined for their work prescribing pills via the Internet, and that two of them worked for Bill Stallknecht, owner of Pill Box Pharmacy.

One of them was Dr. David L. Bryson, who was offered work by Pill Box after losing his job at Kerrville State Hospital, being sued and filing for bankruptcy.

From 1999 until February, Bryson says he made as much as $9,000 a week consulting with patients by phone from his Kerrville home and writing prescriptions for the San Antonio pharmacy to fill by mail. He said the job also initially involved writing prescriptions based on patients' answers to online questionnaires.

"I was very good at it," Bryson, 63, said. "I was very successful."

The State Board of Medical Examiners, which considers remote consultations an improper medical practice, suspended Bryson's medical license in February.

"It is unprofessional conduct for a physician to initially prescribe any dangerous drugs or controlled substances

People in the news ...

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor John Travolta says the key to surviving his rollercoaster 26-year career has been not caring exclusively about success.

"I love my career," Travolta said in an interview in Sunday's Daily News. "I love the bravado of it. Sometimes it works great, sometimes it works good and sometimes it doesn't work."

Travolta's star dimmed dramatically after his 1970s idol-making role in "Saturday Night Fever." The New Jersey-born actor went into free-fall with a series of flops including "Staying Alive," "Two of a Kind" and "Moment by Moment."

But Travolta, 47, says he has no regrets over those roles, or turning down the leads in "American Gigolo," "An Officer and a Gentleman" and "Splash."

When Travolta was hailed as the comeback kid after starring in Quentin Tarantino's "Pulp Fiction" he was tempted to point out he'd been working steadily for the last two decades.

"I kept saying, 'Well, you know, I've actually been around.' But Quentin told me, 'Leave it alone. Don't you get it? They're doing you a favor.'"

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Reba McEntire says her biggest challenge has been confronting the dominating men in her life.

McEntire, 43, said in Sunday's Parade magazine that her father was a strict disciplinarian and her first husband, Charles Battles, dominated her.

"I married a rodeo cowboy very much like daddy. I don't know why I stayed with him. Charlie tried to control me. With Charlie it was 'Do what I say you need to do,'" McEntire said.

Battles told McEntire she'd have to quit singing if she wanted children because he had no intention of changing diapers. In 1986, after she was voted Entertainer of the Year, Battles told her she'd "pretty much peaked" and wouldn't be able to do much more.

After that, McEntire said she decided to leave her childless marriage and start a new life in Nashville. She married musician Narvel Blackstock in 1989 and the two have a son, 11-year-old Shelby.

"Some men try to brainwash their women into thinking that no other man would ever want them," McEntire said. "Men treat women that way out of insecurity, so they'll stay with them. It's getting into those relationships that makes your life such a living hell."

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Members of rock band Journey say they've got a lot in common with Las Vegas, where they headlined over the weekend.

Neither is new and both have been evolving over the decades.

"Vegas has evolved into a world-class place for entertainment," said Journey's new lead singer, Steve Augeri, who joined the band in 1998.

Journey, which consists of three of its original members from the 1970s and a new drummer, is also setting off for "new frontiers," Augeri added.

Guitarist Neal Schon, an original member, referred to Las Vegas as New York City on steroids. "No one ever sleeps," he said.

Schon likes to hit the casinos' slot machines when he's in town but Augeri said he just likes to find a pool to lounge by.

Journey headlined for the Junefest 9 event that also featured Styx, Bad Company, Night Ranger, Billy Squier and Molly Hatchet.

The band's 18th album, "Arrival," was released in April.

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Hatch grabbed the $1 million prize, but "Survivor" pixie Colleen Haskell is winning fame and fans with her role as an animal shelter volunteer in the movie "The Animal."

The 24-year-old said she fell into acting after her torch was snuffed in week 11 of the 13-week series.

"My life was turning upside down and all I wanted was for the show to be over. Have fun, smile, do the interviews and then go back to normal life," Haskell said in the June 8 issue of Entertainment Weekly magazine.

Her mother convinced her that life would never be normal again, so Haskell hired an agent and landed a Blistex commercial to pay off her school debts. As for her crash course in filmmaking, Haskell said she's still learning.

"I did a lot of smiling and nodding and not hitting my mark," Haskell said. "Frankly, I didn't even understand the end of the movie until halfway through filming."

Haskell's reticence seems to have made casting directors and filmmakers even more determined to make her a star.

Weather focus

PAMPA — Today, morning low clouds with areas of fog then becoming mostly sunny and breezy. Highs 92 to 96.

Southwest winds increasing to 15 to 25 mph with higher gusts. Caution advised on area lakes.

Tonight, partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. Lows 60 to 65. South winds 10 to 20 mph, shifting to west late.

Tuesday, partly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. Highs 83 to 87. Variable winds 5 to 15 mph.

Fog shrouded parts of the Panhandle and Northwest Texas early Monday as a weak low-pressure system moved into the region and gusty winds continued elsewhere in the state.

STATEWIDE — A few light showers developed along the upper Texas coast.

Mid- and high level clouds drifted over North and East Texas overnight. Low-level cloudiness that entered northern areas of the Panhandle pushed northward from the Hill Country into southern areas of North Texas. Conditions were cloudy in the Hill Country.

Early-morning temperatures fell into the 50s around Dalhart after midnight. Other readings ranged from the 70s to 80s in the far south. It was 80 degrees at Spur and Midland.

Gusty south winds continued to buffet the region, pumping abundant Gulf moisture into the central and northern parts of the state, at speeds up to 25 mph. A chance of afternoon thunderstorms was expected in parts of North Texas through Wednesday as a new cool front moves through the region.

Showers or thunderstorms were also forecast for the Coastal Plain and eastern Panhandle. Fog was expected to develop in the northern Panhandle.

Daytime highs should be in the 80s to 90s, with near 110 in the Rio Grande Valley.

Lows overnight will fall into the 50s in the western mountains, with 60s and 70s elsewhere.

On Sunday, many locations in West Texas from Childress to Lubbock reaching to Del Rio and Cotulla reached 100 degrees for the first time this season.

WATER

In the conference committee, Williams said about 90 percent of the House language was used.

One of the most important sections of the water bill for this panhandle district dealt with export fees. One of the district's counties, Roberts County, is at the center of several water marketing plans that would include pumping the underground water out and sending it to areas outside the district.

Since the areas receiving the water would not be subject to district taxes, the new legislation allows export fees so the districts will not lose any tax revenue.

"The export fee section was real important to us," Williams said.

It was important enough that Williams managed not only to shepherd that part of the water bill through the legislature, but he also managed to get a separate bill that dealt exclusively with export fees for his district.

"What happened, the governor's office really didn't want to sign my bill," Williams said. "Their main objection was I cut the deal with CRMWA."

The Canadian River Municipal Water Authority (CRMWA), which provides water for 11 communities across the Texas Panhandle and South Plains including Pampa, agreed to an export fee that was lower than the one allowed by the water bill. The reasoning, Williams explained, was that about 40 percent of the water CRMWA expects to pump will go to member cities within the district. That would essentially mean double taxation for those cities if the district hit CRMWA with the full allowable export fee.

Consequently, the district and CRMWA agreed on an export fee that was 60 percent of the district's tax rate. That would cover the 60 percent of the water that would be exported out side the district boundaries.

Consequently, the separate bill dealing with export fees for the Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District passed and was signed into law.

Other sections of the bill would allow the district to go up to as much as 2.5 cents per $100 valuation. The district's tax rate is 0.0178 cents per $100 valuation.

"That would set CRMWA's export permit slightly over a penny," Williams said. "We could put on people other than that up to 2.5 cents."

There are several other groups that have expressed an interest in exporting water from the district, including Dallas oilman and Roberts County rancher T. Boone Pickens and his neighbors, operating as Mesa Water Inc.

Williams said he expects any export fee, including Mesa's, to be about the same as CRMWA's, that is, about a penny.

"But you always have that ability to come back," Williams said. "I think you're going to have to use that money for good cause, or you're going to get in trouble."

The money from the export assessments, Williams said, will need to be used for recharge projects or education or things in keeping with the purpose of groundwater districts.

"If you put the whole 2.5 cents on Boone and he produces what he's planning," Williams said, "it would be several million dollars a year. I don't know that initially you can put that much money to good use."

He said the district's not planning on buying any corporate jets or limousines with chauffeurs.

Williams said that while the district needs money on which to operate, it has to be balanced against the costs of those using the water.

"I think as long as we make good use of the money, I think we'll be okay," Williams said.

The original petition for divorce was filed in Oct. 3, 2000. Kenneth Fields was attorney for Matthew Lynn Schiffman and Todd Alvey was the attorney for Alma Blanco Schiffman.

Gray County Deputy Randy Langwell said Monday morning the child's mother is in Pampa. He said the child remains in the custody of Child Protective Services and is in a foster home.

The toddler, who was found on a couch in the home without clothes, was immediately taken to Pampa Regional Medical Center by CPS workers after officers kicked the door in at the residence. Shining flashlights through windows, the deputies saw the child lying on the couch.

Deputies were responding to an anonymous report that the child had been left at home alone. Langwell said the home was in disarray and that there was old and molded food in the kitchen.

Langwell said both felony cases will be referred to District Attorney Richard Roach.

and say that the defendants are depriving them of their property rights.

Gruy, a subsidiary of Magnum Hunter Resources, notified the land owners last summer that it intended to cut off gas to the land owners' homes and property. The land owners are hooked into the natural gas pipeline that provides Gruy with gas from wells on the residents' property. In the past, in some cases for as long as 50 years, the land owners have used gas from the pipelines for free.

Gruy claims this is not in keeping with leases. The land owners say it is.

The filing Thursday, the land owners' third amended petition, asks for a temporary injunction to maintain the status quo so they will be able to heat their homes and cook their meals without interruption of gas service.

The petition also claims that Evans in an interview in the Amarillo Globe-News accused the defendants of stealing gas.

The accusation that the plaintiffs committed an act that is punishable by imprisonment, said the plaintiffs' lawyer, Pampa attorney John Mann, is defamation.

Mann said that the accusation is false and that the statement was made maliciously.

without first establishing a proper physician-patient relationship," says the board's Internet prescribing policy, adopted in December 1999.

The policy says a "proper" relationship requires, at a minimum, verifying a patient's identity, obtaining a patient's medical history and ensuring access to follow-up care. Such policies are being adopted across the nation by regulators.

Pill Box paid a $15,000 penalty to Missouri in 1999 and agreed to cease drug deliveries there after being sued by the state.

Bryson is fighting his license suspension and the notion that long-distance consultations can't deliver a professional standard of care.

He'll make his case June 25 in Austin before an administrative law judge, who could reinstate Bryson's license or take punitive actions ranging from a reprimand to license revocation.

Doctors: Kids, mowers not good mix

CHICAGO (AP) — Just in time for summer grass-cutting season, the American Academy of Pediatrics is warning against allowing kids to use lawn mowers.

Children under 12 should not operate walk-behind power or hand mowers, and those under 16 should not use riding mowers, the academy says.

Children also should not be allowed to ride on mowers as passengers, and kids under 6 should be kept inside when their parents are mowing the lawn, according to the guidelines.

"Children should not operate lawn mowers until they have displayed appropriate levels of judgment, strength, coordination and maturity necessary for their safe operation," the academy says.

About 9,400 U.S. youngsters under 18 receive emergency care for mower-related injuries each year, and about one-fourth of them are children younger than 5, according to the academy.

Seven percent of such injuries involve amputation or other severe damage, the academy reported in the June issue of its journal, Pediatrics, where the new guidelines are published.

The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute, whose members include lawn mower manufacturers, has issued similar safety tips.

Peggy Douglas, an institute spokeswoman, said the group largely agrees with the academy's recommendations but does not specify age limits on operating mowers since "kids mature at different ages."

Boy, 2, dies after being left in hot car

DALLAS (AP) — A 2-year-old boy whose parents had forgotten he was in the family car has died in the high temperatures, law officers said.

The unidentified child, who was pronounced dead Sunday night at RHD Memorial Medical Center in Farmers Branch, had apparently been left in the vehicle in front of his family's home for several hours.

The Dallas Police Department's child abuse division will investigate the death. Family members told officers that they had forgotten the child was in the car.

An autopsy was under way by the Dallas County medical examiner's office. No ruling on the death has been issued yet.

East Texas makes pitch for veterinary school

KILGORE, Texas (AP) — East Texas officials hope to land a veterinary school authorized three decades ago by state officials.

The Texas College and University Coordinating Board in 1971 authorized Texas Tech to establish a veterinary school.

On May 24, after 30 years of inactivity on the issue, Lt. Gov.

Bill Ratliff, state Rep. Tommy Merritt, R-Longview, and other East Texas lawmakers wrote Texas Tech chancellor John T. Montford urging that the school be created in East Texas.

It's tougher to get into Texas' single veterinary school than to gain entrance into medical school, the lawmakers said.

"Texas A&M is a wonderful institution, but the program is simply not large enough to accommodate all qualified applicants," Merritt said.

Woman Grateful to First Love For Help in Finding True Love

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "Alone and in Love," the 19-year-old girl who was devastated when her boyfriend broke up with her, was right on. You said that when someone says, "You deserve better," you should be grateful for their candor because they are probably right.

My sweetheart, "James," and I were together all through high school. After graduation he joined the Marines, and we kept up a long-distance relationship. One night while I was visiting where he was stationed, he told me he wasn't "good enough" for me, but we could still be "great friends." I was devastated. He was my first love. I couldn't picture myself with anyone else.

Then along came "Allen." He was sweet, funny and great company. I told myself that he would be "just a distraction." It turned out that when I was with Allen, I never gave a second thought to James. Allen and I have been together nearly 10 years, married four years, and have two beautiful children. Allen is my soulmate. I would not trade my life with him for anything in this world. I am thankful every day for what James did.

Please tell "Alone" to keep her chin up. It's easier to see true love that way.

LOVE IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

DEAR LOVE IS: I hope your letter will reassure other readers that when one door closes, another one opens. There's an old saying — the "hair of the dog" cures a hangover. In many cases, it also can mend a broken heart. Read on:

Dear Abby

Is written by Pauline
Phillips and daughter
Jeanne Phillips.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Alone and in Love" brought back memories.

When I was 20, I fell deeply in love. "Chip" told me we would marry as soon as his divorce was final. One week before it was final, he returned to his ex. It turned out Chip couldn't bear to part with his snowmobile, motorcycle and other toys. I, too, was devastated.

Six months later, he had the gall to ask one of my girlfriends to ask me to return his ring and the large studio photo he had given me of himself.

The next morning I made myself a scrambled egg and champagne breakfast, burned his picture in the fireplace, and pounded the ring flat with a hammer. I put the "remains" in an envelope and mailed them to him. It was probably not the nicest thing to do — but it sure gave me closure.

MOVED ON IN TEXAS

DEAR MOVED ON: I'm struck by the symbolism. Your relationship had turned to ashes when he left you flat. (Naughty girl!) I hope you had better luck next time.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and have my first "serious" boyfriend. I have been dating him for five months. I really love his family, but sometimes I get little hints that make me feel I am a bother to his parents.

I don't want them to get tired of me, because I really like them, and I don't want anything to affect our relationship.

Should I not call or visit as much, or just wait and see what happens? Thanks a million.

CATHY IN CORAL GABLES, FLA.

DEAR CATHY: Since you suspect that you're calling and visiting too frequently, by all means you should cut back. It will give you an opportunity to participate in some interesting new solo activities you can share — and it will give your boyfriend the opportunity to pursue you.

Dear Abby is written by Pauline

TRACK & FIELD

PAMPA — Pampa school-teacher Wendell Palmer won two events at the Wichita Falls Senior Games last weekend.

Palmer won both the shot put (40-4) and discus (155-8) at Wichita Falls. He placed second in the standing long jump (6-10), long jump, javelin (96-5) and 50-meter dash. Palmer was third in the basketball free throw by hitting 15 of 25 attempts.

"I had a great time trying some of these other events," Palmer added.

Earlier, at the San Angelo Senior Games, Palmer took first in four events, the shot put (39-4), discus (138-0), javelin, and standing long jump (7-0).

GOLF

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Tiger Woods continued his almost methodical dominance of golf, finishing with a final round 6-under-par 66 to win his third Memorial Tournament in a row.

Woods' final tuneup before the U.S. Open at Southern Hills was all but over by the time the leaders headed for the back nine, making the final holes a playground for Woods as he romped to a seven-shot victory over Paul Azinger and Sergio Garcia.

Azinger finished with a 2-over 74, while Garcia had a final-round 71. Appleby, who played with Woods in the final group and was only two shots back at one point, shot a 74 that included a quadruple bogey on the 12th hole.

BASKETBALL

PAMPA — Legendary girls' basketball coach Dean Weese will conduct a Shooting Camp June 18, 19 and 21 at McNeely Fieldhouse in Pampa.

The camp is for incoming 9th through 12th graders, both girls and boys. Camp times will be from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Fee is $50 per camper.

Camper will be limited and taken on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Camp director will be Sheri Haynes, former McLean High School star, a member of the Wayland Baptist University Flying Queens and an assistant coach at Lockney High School under Marsha Sharp.

Weese combined for 10 state championships while coaching at Levelland and Spearman High Schools. He led the Flying Queens to National Championships as a college coach at WBU.

Weese, a Higgins native, is a member of the National High School Basketball Hall of Fame, Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame and National Women's Basketball Hall of Fame. He was named National Coach of the Year in 2000.

Weese, who is now retired, had a combined record of 1,207 wins and 197 losses.

For more information, write Janyth Bowers at HCR 3, Box 54, Pampa, Tex. 79065.

In conjunction with the shooting camp, Weese will also conduct a regular camp June 18-21 at McNeely Fieldhouse.

The camp is for incoming 3rd through 5th graders (9 a.m.-11 a.m.) and incoming 6th through 8th graders (12:30 p.m.-2:30 p.m.). Fee is $60 per camper.

Bowers, girls' basketball coach at Pampa Middle School, will direct the camp. She played for Weese at Spearman.

Camp assistants will be coaches and former players from the Panhandle area.

For more information, contact Bowers at HCR 3, Box 54, Pampa, Tex. 79065.

Flashback

1953: Jimmy Bond scored 22 points to lead Pampa to a 52-43 win over Midland in high school basketball action. He scored 10 points in the last 10 minutes of the game.

John Odet was Pampa's second leading scorer with 10 points.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The people of this city had waited 18 years for this moment, and when it finally happened they stood and cheered like they had just won a championship.

The Philadelphia 76ers are moving on to play the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA Finals, but that, in a way, is tomorrow's news.

Sunday's story was their 108-91 defeat of the Milwaukee Bucks in Game 7 of the Eastern Conference finals, a victory led by MVP Allen Iverson, Defensive Player of the Year Dikembe Mutombo, Sixth Man of the Year Aaron McKie and Coach of the Year Larry Brown — with a big assist from someone named Raja Bell who was the property of the Sioux Falls Skyforce the last time the Lakers lost.

Iverson had his best all-around game of the series with 44 points, seven assists and six rebounds. He shot 17-for-33, making more than half his shots for the first time since Game 6 of the second round.

Mutombo, acquired in a risky trade with Atlanta in February that the 76ers hoped would propel them to the finals, was dominant, too, with 23 points, 19 rebounds and seven blocks.

McKie had 10 points and a career-high 13 assists, and little-known Bell — a rookie who signed a 10-day contract with the 76ers on April 6 — scored 10 points in the second quarter when Philadelphia took the lead for good, going on a 21-6 run after he entered the game.

"The whole game changed when Raja Bell came in," Iverson said. "I asked Coach where did he get him from, and Coach just pointed on his heart."

Bell had two dunks and a 3-pointer to help the 76ers to a six-point halftime lead that only got larger as the second half unfolded.

There were still 42 seconds remaining when Iverson, to a chant of "Beat L.A.," cupped his hand to his ear and skipped and danced around the court before jumping into the arms of his coach. Iverson then ran to hug his family as Tyrone Hill and Sixers president Pat Croce danced atop the scorer's table.

Milwaukee coach George Karl exchanged a warm hug with Brown after the final buzzer, knowing that Brown will be going to the NBA Finals for the first time in his illustrious coaching career.

"We just kept fighting, and we had a great leader to listen to," Iverson said. "He led us all the way."

The finals will begin

Wednesday night at Los Angeles, where the Lakers will have been waiting 10 days since their last game.

Yet to lose this postseason, the Lakers were established as 11 1/2-point favorites in the opener.

But again, that's a story for later on.

This night was about the 76ers. "It doesn't get much better than this when you consider what this team has been through, and to have Allen play like he did and Dikembe come over here. ... I'm just so proud," Brown said. "This team has great heart and character, just like this city."

The 76ers put the Bucks away after Milwaukee's best player, Ray Allen, went down with a knee injury late in the third quarter. The Bucks trailed by six when Allen left and by 12 when he returned early in the fourth.

They never made a run after that.

The "Beat L.A." chant began with three minutes left, and from there it was a lovefest between the Sixers and their ecstatic fans who had waited 18 years for another trip to the finals.

The 76ers and Lakers met in the finals three times from 1980-83, with Los Angeles winning twice. The exception was 1983 when Moses Malone, Julius Erving and Andrew Toney led Philadelphia to a 4-0 sweep.

Many are picking the Lakers to sweep the 76ers and become the first team to go unbeaten during the postseason. The Sixers weren't ready Sunday to focus on the next round. The ending to the latest round felt too good.

"I can't even put it into words. Best feeling I ever had," said McKie, a Philadelphia native. "I always dreamed about playing the Lakers in the finals."

Astros fall in 10th inning

HOUSTON (AP) — It's happened so often recently, Los Angeles manager Jim Tracy expects the Dodgers to rally.

Pinch-hitter Tim Bogar hit a homer in the 10th inning Sunday to give the Dodgers a 9-8 win over Houston in a game the Astros led by five runs.

"It was just a phenomenal performance by our entire baseball team," Tracy said. "After what had taken place here in the first two games of this series, to once again step back up and rally back from five runs down is just unbelievable."

The comeback was the third by the Dodgers in seven days. They beat the Astros with three runs in the bottom of the 12th for a 5-4 victory on May 27. The next night, they trailed Colorado 8-3 before winning 11-10 in 11 innings.

On Sunday, the Dodgers trailed 8-3 before battling back to tie the game on Tom Goodwin's infield RBI single in the eighth inning. Goodwin went a career-high 5-for-5.

Bogar, released in 2000 after four years with the Astros, delivered the first pinch homer of his career and his first hit of the season. He was on the disabled list from April 5 to May 28 with a strained right hamstring.

"I've never done that before," said Bogar, who batted for reliever Mike Fetters with two outs in the 10th. "I'm still not feeling 100 percent, but Tracy is using me in this role. Hopefully, I'll get this pinch-hitting thing down. It's just a good feeling to finally help out this team."

Bogar hit just 207 in 110 games with Houston last season. "I have a lot of friends over there and I had a lot of fun. But I have no regrets about leaving," he said. "It's just nice that I did it for this team. I really have kind of felt like dead weight."

Fetters (2-1) pitched 1 1/3 scoreless innings for the win. Jeff Shaw pitched the 10th inning and got his NL-leading 17th save in 18 chances.

"Our bullpen was unbelievable. I believe 7 2/3 innings scoreless," Tracy said. "That was the Mike Fetters we had seen prior to (his problems). The big key today was strike one. He was getting the ball over the plate early in the count which opened the plate up for him and allowed him to get to his other pitches."

Octavio Dotel (2-4) threw 1 2/3 innings and gave up Bogar's home run.

Vinny Castilla hit two home runs, including a grand slam, and tied a career high with six RBI as Houston — which had won four straight games — built an 8-3 lead in the third inning.

In the fifth inning, Shawn Green's RBI single and Marquis Grissom's sacrifice fly drew the Dodgers within 8-5.

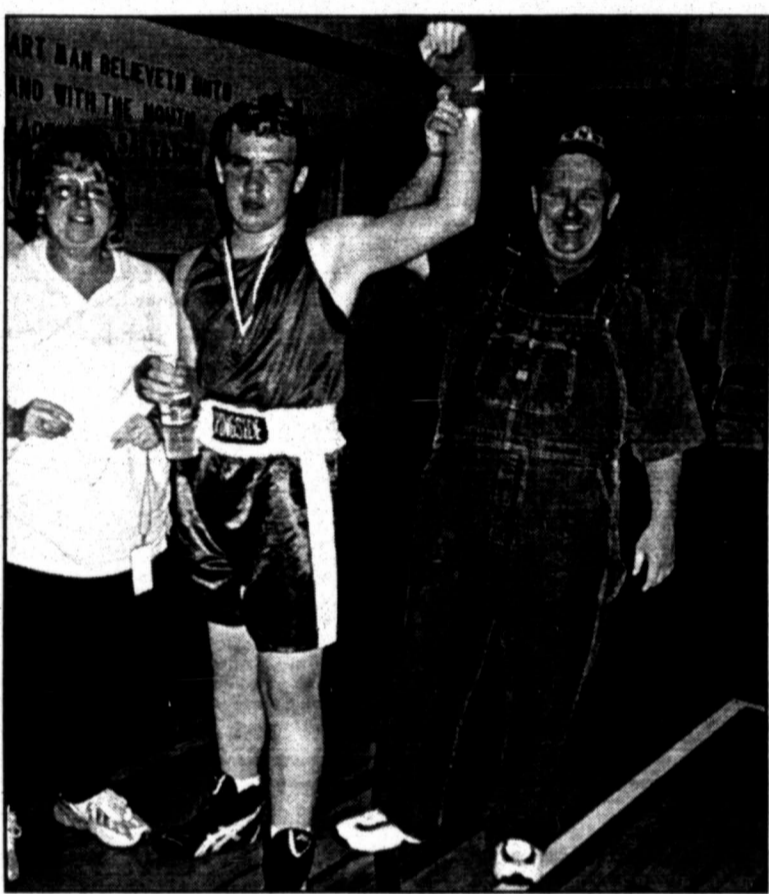

Green's two-run homer in the seventh — his 13th of the season — made it 8-7, and Goodwin's single tied it an inning later.

Dodgers starter Eric Gagne lasted only 2 2/3 innings, his shortest outing this season, and hit three batters. He allowed eight runs and six hits.

"I felt pretty good, when I got in trouble I started thinking a little too much," Gagne said.

Kent Bottenfield started and struggled through five innings, allowing five runs on eight hits.

State champion

Michael Wilkison (pictured above with his parents, Jerry and Arlena Wilkison) of the Youth Survival Club of Pampa came home with the Texas Junior Olympics Boxing Championship last weekend at Galena Park. Wilkison won the 165-pound intermediate division by a walkover when his opponent didn't show up. Wilkison was accompanied to Galena Park by coach Michael Chaney. "I would like to thank everyone who has helped or has been involved with the club," Chaney said. In a Junior Olympic Box-Off in Amarillo last month, Wilkison defeated Joey Mendoza of Hereford to qualify for the state tournament. Wilkison is scheduled to fight in Amarillo Boxing Club Tournament June 9 in Amarillo. It will be hosted by Phillip Navarity. For more information on the Youth Survival Club, contact J.R. Moreno at 665-1197.

Supreme Court won't hear racial-profiling complaint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused to revive claims by a women's college basketball coach that Texas police arrested her and two others solely because they are black.

The court's action, taken without comment Monday, rejected arguments from Hampton University coach Patricia Bibbs that Lubbock police engaged in racial profiling when they zeroed in on her, her husband and the team's assistant coach in a Wal-Mart parking lot.

Lower federal courts threw out a $30 million civil rights lawsuit on grounds that the officers had discretion to make the arrests and were immune from suit.

"The reality is the stop was ordered because (Bibbs and then-assistant coach Vanetta Kelso) were the only blacks the officers saw," when they responded to a call at the store, lawyers for Bibbs wrote in an unsuccessful attempt to win Supreme Court review.

The case began in 1998 when a customer reported that a black woman approached her outside a Wal-Mart store, asking about a lost purse.

Another black woman, this one quite well-dressed, then joined the conversation, and the shopper said.

Police suspected the two women were con artists.

Two hours later, police went to the parking lot and saw Bibbs and Kelso, in town for Hampton's game against Texas Tech.

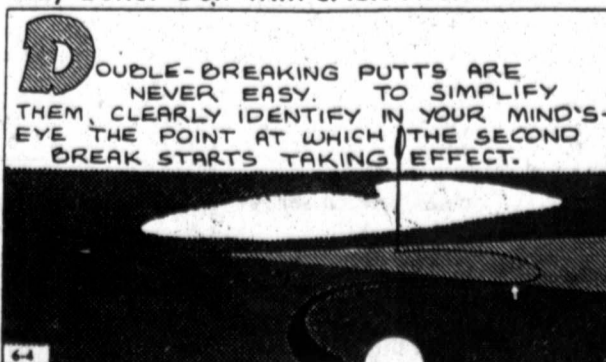

The women were eventually handcuffed, along with Bibbs' husband, Ezil, and held for several hours.

Police later said security tapes from the store showed the Bibbises and Kelso had no contact with the shopper. The three were released, and the mayor apologized for their treatment.

The Bibbises, Kelso and Hampton University sued in federal court, but the case was thrown out before trial in 1999. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled the "unfortunate incident" but upheld the lower court last year.

The case is Bibbs v. Lubbock, 00-1550.

Webb wins U.S. Open

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP) — Karrie Webb made a major statement once again.

Displaced by Annika Sorenstam as the top women's golfer in the world this year, Webb proved Sunday she's still the player to beat in major championships by running away with the U.S. Women's Open for the second straight year.

This time winning by eight shots over Se Ri Pak at Pine Needles Lodge & Golf Club to capture the largest prize in women's golf history — $520,000.

Webb made birdie putts of 45 feet and 20 feet on her last two holes to close with a 1-under-par 69 and four-day total of 7-under 273, virtually lapping the field on this tricky Donald Ross layout.

After her win, she kissed the ball and heaved it into the stands.

"I felt fortunate to have won one Open," Webb said. "To win two, I'm well, well ahead of the game."

The victory was Webb's fourth major in her last seven attempts, making her — like Tiger Woods — the player to beat when it counts the most.

"My dream year would be for my game to peak four times a year, in the four majors," Webb said. "But that would be everybody's dream. That's not always possible."

Webb also became only the seventh woman to win the U.S. Open in consecutive years, and has the most dominant stretch in LPGA Tour majors since Pat Bradley won four of five in 1985-86.

"I feel very fortunate that my game has been where I wanted it to be around the majors. And I've done the right things at the right time," she said.

Like hit a perfect 6-iron to the seventh green just moments before Pak's hit the same club over. Webb sank the 15-foot birdie putt and Pak bogeyed by missing from 12 feet as Webb was on her way to a second straight Open title.

Webb came into the final round with a five-shot lead over Pak and no other golfers in real contention — including Sorenstam — and Pak never got closer than three shots and trailed by six at the turn.

"I was still very nervous the first few holes," said Webb, who has reached $7 million faster than any female golfer. "When you have such a lead, it's your tournament to win or lose."

Pak, the 1998 Open winner, was unable to mount a charge.

She, like almost all of the players in the field, never could string together birdies after Webb posted her 5-under 65 Friday.

"Everyone was trying to play catchup golf," Webb said. "And that's to my advantage because this course is a hard course to play that sort of golf on."

With Sorenstam out of the picture at 7-over par, Webb's main competition was in her group. But the Korean golfer had trouble with her putter all week, taking eight more shots on the green than Webb.

And Pak also hit a four-day low three fairways on her back nine as she faded with a closing 72 and 1-over total 281.

"This golf course, you can't relax even one second," Pak said. "So many things can happen so quickly. It's so easy to make a double bogey and even more than that."

"I knew if I just played smart, then I would have a chance to play well. But it wasn't easy for me, it wasn't easy to hang in there with Webb."

Dottie Pepper's closing 69 gave her third at 2-over 282, which was her best finish in 18 Women's Open. She tied for third in 1990 and 1988.

Pepper, who started the tournament with a 4-over 74, matched Webb and Lorie Kane for the low round of the day and only sub-par rounds Sunday. They were also the only golfers to have two sub-70 rounds in the four-day tournament.

"I'm very pleased with the way I scratched it out the last three rounds," Pepper said.

Sorenstam, who shot a 59 earlier in the year and has won five LPGA events this season, knows the elation Webb feels. Sorenstam won at Pine Needles in 1996 for the second of two straight Open championships.

"There is no better feeling to play that well in a major championship, especially a U.S. Open," Sorenstam said of Webb's performance. "She had to feel great to be in control and to play this well. That's what it's all about."

Sorenstam never could get it together after an opening-round 70, unable to capture the magic she experienced here five years ago when she won by six shots.

"It was one of those weeks where you want a lot and I didn't get a lot," Sorenstam said. "It's one of those weeks that I may have to throw out the window and start over and not have bad thoughts coming into the next week."

Horoscope
TUESDAY, JUNE 5, 2001
BY JACQUELINE BIGAR
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Your mental and physical energy could be at cross-purposes now. Taking two steps forward and three steps backward can be frustrating.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)
 Live in the moment. Relationships thrive early in the day. Adjust your schedule to take advantage of opportunities when they appear.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 You probably know what you want to say, but not quite how to say it. Or you might not be able to get in touch with the person you want to talk with.
