Former fugitive Einhorn taken off suicide watch

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Returned fugitive Ira Einhorn is no longer on a suicide watch at a Philadelphia area prison, although he remains in solitary confinement, his lawyer said. "He's fine," attorney Norris E. Gelman told The Philadelphia Inquirer. "He has the kind of personality that adjusts well to solitary (confinement)." Einhorn, 63, a former counterculture activist convicted in absentia of the 1977 death of girlfriend Helen Holly Maddux, of Tyler, has been at Graterford Prison since he was extradited from France.

Nursing ctr. faces loss of certification

Problems pose 'some danger to residents'

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

Pampa Nursing Center will lose its contract with Medicare and Medicaid on Sept. 28 if it does not come into substantial compliance with health and operations requirements.

That was the word Tuesday from Rosemary Patterson, public information officer for the Texas Department of Human Services Long Term Care Regulatory.

Patterson said the termination order is given when there are deficiencies that pose "some danger to residents." She said public notice of the termination order will be made in the legal section of The Pampa News prior to Sept. 28.

It marks the second time this year that a local nursing facility has failed to meet regulations to the point its Medicare and Medicaid funding was threatened.

Previously, it was Coronado Health Care Center, which subsequently brought in a new administrator and got a clean bill of health after coming into substantial compliance with rules and regulations.

When Pampa Nursing Center was inspected on March 28, Patterson said deficiencies were found. On a follow-up investigation on May 2, the March deficiencies had been corrected but new ones were found.

When state inspectors came back on June 26, deficiencies still existed, Patterson said.

These included such things as a dirty dining room, a corridor with multiple sections of handrail ledges that were dirty with food and grime, fecal odors coming from linen barrels, a resident found lying on a urine-soiled pad where the urine had begun to dry, another resident on a pad that could hold no more urine, chemicals not properly stored, and others.

Dorothy Westbrook, administrator at Pampa Nursing Center, said the facility will make the changes necessary to come into substantial compliance.

Strain of move apparent in district court

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

The strain of moving and of using temporary quarters for Gray County officials surfaced this week in district court.

The sound system in the temporary courtroom in the Hughes Building failed and defense attorneys attacked an overworked district attorney as a district judge tried to schedule a backlog of cases.

A sound system that had been installed Sunday afternoon failed Monday morning making it difficult to hear as the air conditioning system strained to cool a packed courtroom on the fourth floor of the Hughes Building as outside temperatures soared toward the century mark.

The temporary courtroom, which will in all likelihood be used for the next 18 to 24 months while the Gray County Courthouse undergoes renovation, was crowded Monday morning with defense attorneys and their clients at the request of 31st District Judge Steven Emmert, who indicated he intended to clear a number of old cases that had been postponed for one reason or another.

Judge Emmert scheduled almost 40 cases for trial dates in September, October, November and December, but not before several defense lawyers attacked District Attorney Rick Roach over efforts to reach plea bargain agreements in some of the cases.

Pampa attorney Harold Comer told the judge that he would like to discuss plea arrangements for some of his clients, but complained that the district attorney wouldn't talk to him.

"I can't get Mr. Roach to respond," Comer said with regard to four different cases. "I don't know what the status of the cases are."

Comer said he had written and called the district attorney's office, but had received no response.

"There is a lack of communication with the district attorney's office," Comer said during Monday morning's docket call.

"I'll have to check my messages to make sure that's true," Roach replied.

Judge Emmert noted that Roach has not hired an assistant since taking office in January and consequently has been busy reviewing cases left by his predecessor John Mann as well as preparing new cases that have been presented since Roach took office in January.

"He needs an assistant desperately," Emmert said.

Roach said he has been running advertisements, but there has been no local response.

Amarillo attorney Warren Clark, representing a defendant from Odessa, agreed with Comer, saying he thought agreements could be reached in cases he was handling, but had been unable to talk to the district attorney about them.

Amarillo Red, a Texas Longhorn steer, visited Pampa this morning with his partner "Texas Bill" Thorpe to promote White Deer's 42nd annual rodeo this weekend. Amarillo Red and Texas Bill, a rodeo clown, will provide special entertainment during the rodeo performances, July 27-28.

White Deer gearing up for 42nd annual rodeo

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
Staff Writer

WHITE DEER — Citizens here are gearing up for this community's 42nd annual rodeo featuring local talent of all kinds.

Three days of rodeo action begins with the slack performance at 7 p.m. Thursday, at the White Deer Rodeo Arena.

This year, 281 contestants have signed up for the various rodeo events, according to Matt Freeman, one of the organizers.

"When you have that many contestants, it's too many for the two-hour main performances, so we have a slack night for all the roping and timed events," he explained. "Their times will go against the times of those on the Friday night and Saturday night performances."

Scheduled rodeo events include calf roping, team roping, break-away roping, saddle bronc, bareback, and bull riding, and barrel racing. Calf scrambles, junior steer riding and wild mare races are planned, also.

Well-known rodeo announcer Marve Pierce of Wister, Okla., will emcee the Friday and Saturday night events.

A free barbecue for ticketholders opens the Friday night performance, Freeman said.

Serving begins at 5 p.m. and will continue until 7 p.m. The rodeo events start at 8 p.m. both nights.

A weekend full of festivities includes an outdoor dance Friday and Saturday night with Branded Texas providing the music; Kick Back Days at the White Deer Park on Saturday, followed by a rodeo parade at 4 p.m., and the Saturday night performance at 8 p.m.

Kick Back Days features food and craft booths, games and outdoor entertainment. For more information, contact Barbara Craig at 883-3961.

Rabies back again ...

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Rabid skunks are still roaming in the Pampa area.

The 15th case of rabies since March 23 was confirmed by Texas Department of Health (TDH) officials in Austin on Tuesday.

The latest rabid skunk was located in the 1100 block of South Finley around 7 p.m. Sunday, said Sandy Burns, Animal Control director.

Residents in the area saw the skunk and were concerned because of the animal's unusual behavior. Animal Control officers were notified and residents kept the animal cornered until the authorities arrived.

The skunk was euthanized and sent to the laboratory in Austin to be tested for the deadly virus. Burns was notified Tuesday the skunk was rabid.

Burns said her department has been receiving calls about other suspicious skunks in the Pampa area which they have been attempting to locate.

It's been almost a month since a case of rabies has been confirmed locally. The last cases of rabies were on June 27 when three skunks were confirmed as rabid by the Austin testing facility.

Rabid skunks have been found in all areas of Pampa and in outlying areas. According to the TDH, 2001 has seen a record number of reported rabies cases in Gray County.

Burns continues to emphasize that a skunk seen out during daylight hours is a definite warning sign.

"If a skunk is out in the daylight hours and/or doesn't seem to fear animals," said Burns, "it is cause for extreme concern."

"Skunks are nocturnal animals and do not normally get out during the day," she said.

Several pets have had to be destroyed recently because they have come into contact with

Lefors ISD seeks math teacher; other teaching vacancies filled

LEFORS — Lefors Independent School District (ISD) board of education Saturday filled two teaching vacancies, but have not found a secondary math teacher for the coming school year.

In a special meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday, July 21, school board members approved hiring Joey Garcia of Anton as the computer tech teacher and to serve as junior high boys coach. They also hired Pauline Mullins of Lefors as the school nurse.

Lefors ISD Superintendent Allen Law said that in the past the school district had contracted for a Region 10 nurse to visit Lefors school twice a month for approximately $8,000 and also paid a nurse aide for special needs during the month. Hiring a full-time school nurse should be more cost effective for the district, he said.

"We'll be spending the same money but get more for it," he said.

At a regular meeting of the board on Tuesday, July 17, board members accepted the resignation of Danny Scabourn, high school math and computer teacher. Scabourn resigned to take a position in Pampa. The board also approved payment of monthly bills at the meeting.

Although board members interviewed several candidates for the secondary math teacher position, no one was hired at (See TEACHER, Page 2)

FIRES

Pampa Fire Department responded to the following calls during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today:

Tuesday, July 24
12:49 p.m. — One unit and two firefighters responded to a grass fire eight miles south of Pampa on Farm-to-Market Road 749. The fire was caused by a spark from a grinder being used to work on a cattle guard.

1:51 p.m. — One unit and two firefighters responded to a grass fire in the 300 block of South Price Road. A spark from a grinder ignited some grass. The fire was contained before firefighters arrived.

3:26 p.m. — One unit and three firefighters responded to a vehicle fire in the 1200 block of South Nelson. The 1984 Ford pickup owned by Wade Helton was a total loss with an estimated $3,000 damage. The fire was believed to have been caused by rags sitting on an exhaust manifold.

4:32 p.m. — One unit and two firefighters responded to a grass fire on County Road A, a quarter-mile east of Price Road. Less than one acre of grass was burned. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

state," Westbrook said. "The state and federal government are tightening up on our nursing homes... this has to stop."

Asked what she means by "tightening up," Westbrook said the inspections are "too picky. There is zero tolerance. If one thing is wrong they

If substantial compliance is not reached by Sept. 28, Patterson said Pampa Nursing Center will be out of Medicare and Medicaid for 30 days and will not be paid for those categories of patients.

"We only have a few (nursing homes) that fall into termination," Patterson said. "Normally facilities go ahead and comply."

Judge Emmert that he had visited with the district attorney on a case but that the district attorney had not gotten back to him concerning a decision on a plea bargain.

Amarillo attorney Selden Hale also told Judge Emmert he's in a quandary over a case he's defending.

"I think the district attorney made some offers to my client without me being around," Hale said.

There was some question as to the status of Hale's client and whether or not he had met requirements for an agreed settlement that had been offered by Roach.

"I have at least two witnesses and documents the district attorney sent my client," Hale insisted.

County Attorney Todd Alvey said during the docket call that he had asked Roach to file a case, a misdemeanor driving while intoxicated charge, in county court, but instead the defendant was indicted and the case wound up in district court.

Roach said he would file a dismissal in district court and refile the case in county court.

Emmert scheduled pretrial hearings for Aug. 16. While setting one trial for Sept. 4, Emmert stacked other cases for Oct. 15, Nov. 8, Nov. 26 and Dec. 20, in some instances scheduling six or seven cases in hopes that many of them will be agreed to well before they come to trial.

The judge noted that many of the cases were relatively old and indicated he wanted them dealt with either through negotiations between the district attorney and the defense attorneys or they would go to trial as scheduled despite a limited number of days the court has in the temporary courtroom which must be shared with the 223rd District Court of Judge Lee Waters.

"We don't have the option of going down to the county courtroom now," Emmert said.

Judge Emmert told the prosecutor and defense attorneys that any agreements will need to be reached at least 30 days prior to the trial dates.

"I hope everybody has adequate communications with the district attorney's office," Judge Emmert said.

STATE BRIEFS

Lott criticizes Democrats attitude in battle over Mexican trucks

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Trent Lott accused Democrats Wednesday of an anti-Hispanic attitude as the fight intensified over proposed safety standards for Mexican trucks entering the United States.

With the Bush administration already having issued a veto threat for provisions it considers too harsh, Lott said efforts to impose restrictions on Mexican trucks that would be tougher than requirements for Canadian trucks were a double standard. President Bush wants to let Mexican vehicles drive throughout the United States beginning Jan. 1 under the 8-year-old North American Free Trade Agreement, and wants more lenient regulations.

"It bothers me that there's an anti-Mexican, anti-Hispanic, anti-NAFTA attitude among Democrats that says, 'We really don't want to allow Mexican trucks to come into this country,'" Lott said in a written statement.

Lott's comments underlined that some Republicans see the issue as one that could prove politically potent among Hispanic voters.

His remarks came as the Senate resumed work on a $60.1 billion measure — financing transportation programs for fiscal 2002 — that contains the disputed language. Work on the legislation ground to a near halt Tuesday, as opponents of the truck safety requirements promised to drag-out debate in an effort to soften them.

Sen. Patty Murray, D-Wash., the main author of the proposals, said she would present her opponents with some changes, but would only go so far. As a result, though negotiations were expected to resume Wednesday, it was unclear whether an end to the impasse was in sight.

"I'm not going to compromise on my safety principles," Murray said in an interview.

Murray's provisions — cosponsored by Sen. Richard Shelby, R-Ala. — would require audits of Mexican trucking companies, and the placement of new inspectors and scales at the 27 U.S.-Mexican border crossings, before the trucks could drive throughout the United States. The vehicles are currently limited to a commercial zone that extends roughly 20 miles north of the boundary.

Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., Bush's one-time presidential rival, was supporting the White House in its quest for less stringent standards and threatened extended debate unless a less burdensome compromise was worked out. That, in effect, was a promise to tie the Senate in procedural knots until its scheduled August recess.

Such delays would thwart the desire of new Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., to push at least four bills through the chamber before then. Without an agreement on the truck issue, Daschle could either force a time-consuming series of showdown votes to slowly move the bill along, or drop it for now and turn to different legislation.

"It's one thing to talk tough and huff and puff in the Senate," said Lott, who was supporting the administration. "But it takes time to be tough in the Senate."

Murray and Shelby seemed to have majority support and perhaps more than 60 votes. That is the minimum needed to halt filibusters, or procedural delays aimed at killing legislation.

Even so, they would be unable to keep McCain and other administration supporters from slowing work on the bill for many days. McCain, on the other hand, said he had support from at least 34 senators. That would be enough to sustain the veto the White House has threatened.

The House has already defied Bush on the issue, voting June 26 to completely block Mexican trucks from venturing beyond roughly 20 miles north of the border. That provision has also drawn a veto threat.

Bush wants to open American roads to Mexican trucks Jan. 1 to comply with NAFTA. He is supported by U.S. trucking companies and businesses whose products are shipped on trucks, but opposed by the Teamsters union and highway safety groups.

Bush initially proposed letting Mexican trucks drive on all U.S. roads for 18 months while safety reviews of Mexican companies were conducted.

Under pressure from opponents, the administration eased its stance last week and said it wanted safety inspections of trucks before they enter the United States. Lawmakers have questioned whether the needed border inspectors and equipment could be ready by January.

Routier appeal suggests husband role in killings

DALLAS (AP) — Attorneys for convicted killer Darlie Routier have filed an appeal that raises questions about whether her husband had a role in the 1996 slayings of their two sons.

The appeal alleges that Darlie Routier deserves a new trial because her trial attorney had a conflict of interest because he had previously represented Darin Routier, the only other suspect in the crime.

Darlie Routier's appeal, sent to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on Monday, has been held up for four years by a faulty transcript. The appeal says that no record exists of whether the trial judge conducted a pivotal pretrial hearing after prosecutors filed allegations identifying Darin Routier as a suspect in the slayings.

The appeal cites 13 other claims of trial error.

Chief felony prosecutor Greg Davis, who handled Darlie Routier's case, said he didn't recall whether a conflict hearing was conducted. He said that the point is moot because no conflict of interest existed because Darin Routier was "never developed as a suspect."

Mom charged in drownings is moved from isolation

HOUSTON (AP) — Although she is still under suicide watch, the Houston woman accused of drowning her five children is no longer being held in isolation at the Harris County Jail.

Andrea Yates, 37, has been moved to a cellblock with other psychiatric inmates. Yates is charged with capital murder of sons Noah, 7, and John, 5.

They, along with siblings Paul, 3, Luke, 2, and Mary, 6 months, were found dead June 20 in the Yates' Houston home. Each had been drowned in the bathtub.

A spokeswoman with the Harris County Mental Health/Mental Retardation Authority, which oversees the jail's psychiatric unit, said the unit Yates is in is a cellblock where psychiatric inmates have contact with each other.

Yates was moved Sunday night or Monday, the Houston Chronicle reported in its Wednesday editions.

ABA wants TSU to hike entrance standards

DALLAS (AP) — The American Bar Association is asking Texas Southern University's law school to raise admission standards, effectively shutting the door to many black and Hispanic students that would likely not have been accepted at other state law schools.

The request comes as part of a seven-year accreditation review of the Thurgood Marshall School of Law by the ABA.

The law school, created in 1946 to allow blacks to attend a publicly funded law school, trains a majority of the state's black and Hispanic law students.

Experts say that many TSU law students and graduates would likely not have been accepted at other state law schools because their college grade point averages and entrance exam scores were too low.

"The attrition rate is unconscionably high, and the bar passage rate remains the lowest among all law schools in the state of Texas," the Chicago-based ABA said in a report obtained by the Houston Chronicle.

Legislative Redistricting Board approves plans

AUSTIN (AP) — Hostility percolated through the Capitol auditorium. Humor occasionally emerged, but the jokes weren't funny to everyone — most of them were coated in sarcasm.

At the end of the chaotic day Tuesday, even Republicans on the Legislative Redistricting Board who successfully pushed through their Texas House and Senate plans couldn't provide some details about what they'd just voted on.

Those last-minute amendments were confusing, after all.

One thing was clear: The bipartisan political spirit in Texas that President Bush likes to boast about evaporated during the state's heated battles over legislative redistricting.

Three of the state's highest-ranking Republicans voted together as the redistricting board approved redistricting plans heavily favoring the GOP in the House and Senate. And Democrats cried foul.

Housing secretary tours West Texas and southern New Mexico colonies

LAS PALMERAS COLONIAS, New Mexico (AP) — Housing Secretary Mel Martinez stood in the baking sun and leaned over to look at floor plans on a board staked into the sand where Blanca Gonzalez's new home will be built.

"Es el sueño americano," Martinez said, which means, "It's the American dream."

Gonzalez, a single-mother, has lived in a trailer in the Las Palmeras Colonias for the past 12 years. But with the help of a low-interest loan from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, she will soon be a homeowner.

She is a farm worker who earns about $10,000 each year and will pay $179 a month to live in the three-bedroom home with her two children, 7-year-old Jacob Fierro and 11-year-old Michelle Fierro.

"I hope the whole community is involved," Gonzalez said in Spanish to Martinez. "For me, it's important ... because I live here."

Conroe inmate wins a stay of execution

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Richard Kutzner, a convicted murderer with two death sentences, won a stay of execution Tuesday that will allow the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to consider its first appeal under a new law allowing DNA testing.

Kutzner, 58, an air-conditioning repairman from Spring, had been scheduled to die by injection at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The court issued the stay so it would have time to consider a case that could help define the law and how it should be applied in lower courts, Rick Wetzel, general counsel to the appeals court said in Wednesday's editions of the Houston Chronicle. The law became effective April 5.

The law allows state-funded DNA testing as long as identity is an issue.

Kutzner earned death sentences from both Montgomery and Harris counties with two slayings in early 1996 — 17 days apart.

Longhorn Pipeline met with criticism in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Unprecedented safety controls at a 51-year-old pipeline in Texas were won not by the federal agency responsible for pipeline safety, but in spite of it, the Austin American-Statesman reported Wednesday.

Longhorn Partners Pipeline LP, a partnership of ExxonMobil Pipeline, BP Pipelines and other companies, has proposed pumping gasoline, diesel and aviation fuel from Houston to El Paso through a pipeline that has been dormant since 1995.

The line would run through densely populated areas of Houston and Austin.

The plan, which is being challenged in federal court, would require Longhorn to remove right-of-way encroachments along the 700-mile route. That could involve buying out a number of property owners.

Other requirements in the plan include testing the pipe to ensure structural soundness and installing new, thicker-walled pipe near some endangered-species habitats.

Democrats say Texas patients rights experience should be repeated nationally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas House Democrats rallying support for a far-reaching patients' rights bill said the measure is most like their state's law, which President Bush touted during his campaign.

The Democratic claims were part of an intensifying tug-of-war Tuesday for votes on competing patients' rights bills.

House Majority Leader Dick Arme of Texas said a vote could come Thursday or Friday.

"It's close. This thing right now is a jump ball," Arme said.

LULAC says federal statute shouldn't be applied in Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — The League of United Latin American Citizens on Tuesday challenged the state attorney general's opinion that hospitals must not provide non-emergency health care to illegal immigrants with public money.

"What I don't understand is how they can deprive these folks of some real basic services," said Frumencio Reyes Jr., a Houston attorney who spoke on LULAC's behalf. "If that segment of society gets smart, they will all go to the emergency room and clog that part of the system up."

For that reason exactly, the Harris County Hospital District has continued offering non-emergency care, despite Texas Attorney General John Cornyn's opinion two weeks ago warning the district to refrain from providing such care or face the possibility of losing federal money. By extension, Cornyn's opinion applies to all Texas hospitals that use public money for non-emergency care.

Economy: Used-home sales drop while stocks rebound

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of used homes dipped in June but still remained near record levels, further evidence of the housing market's resilience in the face of the sluggish economy.

After jumping by 2.7 percent in May, existing-home sales declined by 0.6 percent in June to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.33 million. That was close to May's 5.36 million, which marked the third highest level on record, the National Association of Realtors reported Wednesday.

Stocks were rebounding. By late morning the Dow Jones industrial average was up 97 points and the Nasdaq index had gained 19 points, dial average was Used-home sales reached an all-time high of 5.45 million in June 1999, when the economy was booming.

June's performance was better than many economists were predicting. They had forecast a 1.5 percent drop in sales because of the weak labor market, volatile stock market and the fact that mortgage rates actually rose little from May to June.

The average rate on a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage in June was 7.16 percent, up from 7.15 percent in May, but well below the 8.29 percent posted in June 2000.

"With mortgage interest rates projected to rise slightly to around 7.3 percent during the second half of the year, and some expected sluggishness in the general economy, month-to-month homes sales should trend down from these high marks," said David Lereah, the association's chief economist.

"However, we expect a total of 5.15 million existing-home sales in 2001, making this year, the second highest on record," he added. The housing market has been one of the main pillars holding up the weakened economy.

In an effort to avert the first recession in the United States in 11 years, the Federal Reserve has slashed interest rates six times this year, totaling 2.75 percentage points.

Existing-home sales were down in all regions of the country except in the West.

In the Midwest, sales last month fell by 4.2 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.14 million; in the South, they were down by 2.3 percent to a rate of 2.11 million; and in the Northeast, sales declined by 1.6 percent to a rate of 630,000.

But in the West, sales rose 6.6 percent to a rate of 1.46 million. The drop in overall sales in June didn't hurt home prices.

Bush's trip ends on solemn note in Balkans

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a trip to the battle-scarred Balkans, President Bush has concluded an eventful European trip in which he tangled with key allies over environmental policy and intensified anti-missile shield negotiations with Russia. He chastised violent protesters at a summit of industrialized nations in Genoa, Italy, then was lectured himself by Pope John Paul II in Rome. It was the second overseas trip of Bush's presidency and, like the first, the venture produced some success, some failure. He ended on a solemn note. Standing just 50 miles from rebel fighting on Tuesday, he urged ethnic Albanians in Kosovo to stop sneaking weapons across the border to Macedonia, where rebel attacks on government forces threaten to spark a new Balkan civil war. Hours later, the Macedonia government's army barracks in Tetovo came under rebel attack. Macedonia closed the Kosovo-Macedonia border.

Mobs attack embassies in Macedonia, accusing West of favoring rebels

SKOPJE, Macedonia (AP) — Mobs in Macedonia's capital attacked foreign embassies on Wednesday morning, accusing NATO of siding with guerrillas who clashed again with government forces in the north of this Balkan nation. The rampage started late Tuesday through Skopje, with Macedonians throwing stones at the U.S. Embassy, smashing entrances of the British and German embassies, and burning several cars belonging to the United Nations and the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe. Hours earlier, government spokesman Antonio Miloski called NATO "a big friend of our enemies," and accused Western mediators of coordinating their efforts with the rebels. NATO officials denied providing any backing to the rebels. The United States and other countries in the Western alliance repeatedly have pledged their support to the Macedonian government and have supported its refusal to negotiate directly with the insurgents.

China expels American business professor convicted of spying

BEIJING (AP) — China deported a Chinese-born American business professor Wednesday after he was convicted of spying in a case that has complicated an impending visit by U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell. Li Shaomin's expulsion came a day after a U.S.-based Chinese sociologist was sentenced to 10 years in prison on charges that she helped Li spy for rival Taiwan. Li, who was convicted on July 14, left Beijing on a flight to San Francisco. Talking briefly to reporters during a stopover at the Tokyo airport, Li said, "I am happy to return home." The spying trials added to strains in U.S.-Chinese relations just before Powell's arrival Saturday in Beijing. Both sides hope the visit will help to heal relations hurt by the deadly April 1 collision of a U.S. Navy surveillance plane and Chinese fighter jet.

United States rejects anti-germ warfare enforcement accord

GENEVA (AP) — The United States — already facing European criticism for rejecting initiatives on climate change and small arms trade — said Wednesday it was rejecting a U.N. draft accord designed to give teeth to an anti-germ warfare treaty. "In our assessment, the draft protocol would put national security and confidential business information at risk," said U.S. chief negotiator Donald A. Mahley. Nations have been negotiating for seven years to develop an accord on how to enforce the germ warfare treaty, painstakingly working through disagreements over the 210-page document. The draft is intended to create a way to inspect sites suspected of developing biological weapons without interfering with legitimate industries and facilities. The U.S. announcement as the sole country rejecting it went farther than many experts had expected and appeared to set back other key countries, including those friendly to the United States. "Even though I understand some of the rationale, I was rather surprised by the U.S. argument at this stage," said Ambassador Seiichiro Noboru, head of the Japanese delegation at the 56-nation meeting. Noboru said the rejection of the whole approach meant that efforts to strengthen the 1972 Biological Weapons Convention would have to start all over.

Tri-State Fair Parade seeking entries

AMARILLO — The 2001 Tri-State Fair Parade — "People and Pride, Going for the Gold" — is slated to kick-off at 10 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 15, in downtown Amarillo.

Area organizations and clubs are encouraged to "go for the gold" and enter this year's parade. Early entries will receive better positions on the parade route, according to Walt Kelley, parade chairman.

"This theme was selected to honor the way people in our region always strive to be the best, and to recognize their accomplishments," Kelley said. "Over the years, the Tri-State Area has had many champions in various sports and we are all proud of their efforts. Our goal is to capture that championship spirit in our parade."

Kelley said he is expecting about 150 units to participate. Categories are: Military (motorized and marching); Equestrian; JROTC Unit; Youth; Open; and Floats and bands (junior high/1A-5A). Trophies will be awarded and the winning float will receive $400 in cash.

The 2001 Tri-State Fair is scheduled Sept. 14-22 and will include the Murphy Bros. Exposition midway, livestock and home arts competition and shows as well as food and game booths sponsored by various community organizations as fund-raisers.

The deadline for entry into the parade is Aug. 31. To obtain an entry form or for more information, call (806) 376-7767.

Helpful Note Becomes Hurtful When Delivered Anonymously

DEAR ABBY: Over the years, you have recommended to readers that they clip one of your columns and show it to a particular person who may need to be made aware of some character flaw.

May I ask that you recommend to your readers that they not send these columns anonymously?

A dear friend of mine received a column of yours by mail with no return address or postmark. My friend was very hurt because she didn't feel the column applied to her — and after having read it, I agree with her.

After receiving that column, she has missed at least one social event because she was afraid of offending someone. It is very sad.

I understand that in some circumstances, someone might think an anonymous note is in order, but I urge your readers to stop and think before sending one. The recipient is placed in the awkward position of knowing that someone she knows is annoyed with her, but doesn't know who.

SCARLETT IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SCARLETT: When I tell people to "clip this column and share it" with someone, what I have in mind is a face-to-face conversation — using the column as a tactful way of showing that the breach of etiquette is common. For someone to send it anonymously is cowardly, unkind and cruel. For shame.

DEAR ABBY: I got chills when I read the letter from Dave Brown about how he found a brand-new 2001 penny in his car.

Dear Abby

Is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips.

That very day I, too, found a brand-new shiny 2001 penny in my truck. I thought of my dad the instant I saw it. He has been gone more than 12 years. I still have it; I carry it in my wallet.

B.D., ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR B.D.: I'm glad the discovery of a penny makes "cents" to you. Since you find it comforting — that's terrific. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I loved the stories about the pennies from heaven. To my chagrin, my late husband would pick up any and all loose change he found on the ground, proclaiming himself to someday be rich because of what others threw away. Even if it was just one penny he would stop, bend over and pick it up. He has been gone just over a year, and whenever I saw a coin on the ground I would think of him and be a bit sad.

No more! After reading your interpretation of what these coins could mean, I smile each and every time I see a shiny penny. Thank you, Abby, for taking a sad memory and turning it into a happy one.

RICHER BECAUSE OF PENNIES FROM HEAVEN

DEAR RICHER: You're welcome. The "pennies from heaven" letters were a subject that many people have taken to heart and commented upon. I catch myself singing "... and if it keeps on thundering, don't run under a tree, there'll be pennies from heaven for you and for me" in the mornings when I'm taking my shower. (The acoustics are great in there.) Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Recent letters in your column about the symbolism of finding pennies prompt my own.

I am 74 years old. Every time I see a penny on the ground I bend down to pick it up and say to myself, "99 more bends and I'll have a buck!"

OL' MAN TOM IN LONG ISLAND, N.Y.

DEAR OL' MAN TOM: You are indeed penny-wise. However, if you crouch down to pick up a dollar's worth of pennies, you won't have to spend them on medication to relieve the pain in your lower back you'll get from bending.

LAVAUUR, France (AP) — Lance Armstrong finished with the main pack, about 15 minutes behind stage winner Rik Verbrugghe of Belgium.

The race from Pau to Lavaur in southwest France was the first of six stretches that together cover more than 600 miles between the foot of the Pyrenees and Paris, where the Tour ends July 29. At 144 miles, Tuesday's stage was the longest leg of the three-week event.

Verbrugghe crossed the finish line in 5 hours, 16 minutes, 21 seconds. Italy's Marco Pinotti was second, in the same time, and countryman Alessandro Petacchi was third, six seconds off the pace.

Armstrong trailed the winner by 15:07. He maintained his lead atop the overall standings, with an advantage of 5:05 over Jan Ullrich of Germany.

BASEBALL

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Terrence Long doubled and scored on third baseman Corey Koskie's error in the ninth inning as the Oakland Athletics handed the Minnesota Twins their fifth straight loss, 7-6 Tuesday night.

Long doubled off Travis Miller (1-4) and LaTroy Hawkins relieved.

Ron Gant followed with a grounder that skipped under Koskie's glove and between his legs, and Long scored easily.

Jason Isringhausen (3-2) pitched the top of the ninth for the win.

Jason Giambi went 2-for-3 with three RBIs for the A's. He tied it at 6 in the fourth inning with a two-run homer, his 23rd of the season.

FOOTBALL

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Training camp is only a few days old and the Dallas Cowboys' entire starting offensive line is already nursing injuries.

All-Pro left guard Larry Allen, right guard Kelvin Garmon and center Mark Stepnoski came into camp nicked up. Garmon isn't practicing at all, while Allen and Stepnoski are being limited.

None of the injuries are major. Adams is the worst off as a sprained knee ligament will keep him out at least three weeks.

"The way he went down, it could've been worse than it was," coach Dave Campo said.

Adams' next practice likely will be in Oxnard, Calif. He'll miss the first two exhibition games.

"Better now than a month from now," offensive line coach Hudson Houck said.

Page's problem is in his knee, but it's not to any ligaments. An MRI was taken Tuesday as a precaution.

"There's not a lot of concern at this point," Campo said.

Garmon has a strained calf and could return any day. He and Al Jackson are fighting for the line spot opened with the release of longtime starter Erik Williams. Jackson also has been fighting an ankle sprain.

Allen and Stepnoski don't need as much work to get into synch, so they're being held out as much to recover as to prevent them from further damage.

Ben Fricke has been working at center. Fifth-round pick Matt Lehr is playing guard and center, with Jason Gamble and Craig Page at the guard spots.

Seventh-round pick Charon Dorsey is filling in for Adams, along with Colin Sears and Dan Collins. Should Adams be out longer than expected, Page — once healthy — would shift to the left side.

McCullough, Wilson share first-round lead

White Deer player Joe Wheeley competes in the sixth flight Tuesday.

PAMPA — Former PHS golf coach Frank McCullough and two-time defending champion Tommy Wilson of Lubbock lead the field after Tuesday's opening round in the Tri-State Senior Golf Association at the Pampa Country Club.

McCullough and Wilson each shot a two-under-par 69 to share the first-round lead. Wilson is trying to become only the third player in Tri-State history to win the championship three years in a row. This is McCullough's first year to compete in the tournament.

The two co-leaders are a shot in front of Jerry Hughes of Stillwater, Okla., and three in front of Gary Bowe of Lubbock and Tommy Tomlinson of Guymon, Okla., who shot 1-over 72. Bowe was runnerup in 1996.

In the Super Seniors Championship Flight, Bill Clemmons of Fritch shot 77 for a one-shot lead over Edwin Nixon of Bullard and Ken Pierce of Amarillo.

The 54-hole tournament concludes Thursday with the final 18 holes. Round two is today.

Velarde delivers big in new role for Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Randy Velarde delivered big in his new role with the Texas Rangers.

When he returned from a seven-week stint on the disabled list, Velarde had lost his starting job at second base because the last-place Rangers had opted for rebuilding. He's now a utility player.

Velarde delivered a tiebreaking RBI double as a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning Tuesday night as the Rangers came from behind twice to beat the Baltimore Orioles 8-7.

"It's something I'm going to have to get used to. That's going to be my role probably for the rest of the year if I'm still here," Velarde said. "It's a new role, but I'm glad to be able to help the team like that."

Baltimore led 7-6 before Ruben Sierra had a two-out single off Mike Trombley (2-3) and scored on an error by left fielder Mike Kinkade, who misplayed a fly ball by Gabe Kapler.

Q If power is so important to teen-agers, then it must play a key role in family dynamics. How does it work itself out at home?

A You've asked a very perceptive question. If it is a wise parent who knows intuitively how to transfer power, or independence, to the next generation. That task requires a balancing act between two equally dangerous extremes. They dare not set their teen-agers free before they are mature enough to handle the autonomy -- even they are screaming for it. Adolescents still need parental leadership, and parents are obligated to provide it -- that's the law of the land.

One of the characteristics of those who acquire power too early is a prevailing attitude of disrespect for authority. It extends to teachers, ministers, police officers, judges, and even to God himself. Such an individual has never yielded to parental leadership at home. Why should he or she submit himself to anyone else? For a rebellious teen-ager, it is only short step from there to drug abuse, sexual experimentation, running away and so on. The early acquisition of power has claimed countless young victims by this very process.

On the other hand, there is an equally dangerous mistake to be avoided at the latter end of adolescence. We must not wait too long to set our young adults free. Self-determination is a basic human right to which every adult is entitled. To withhold that liberty too long is to incite wars of revolution.

My good friend Jay Kesler observed that Mother England made that specific mistake with her children in the American colonies. They grew to become rebellious "teen-agers" who demanded their freedom. Still, she refused to release them and unnecessary bloodshed ensued. Fortunately, England learned a valuable lesson from that painful experiences. Some 171 years later, she granted a peaceful and orderly transfer of power to another tempestuous offspring named India. Revolution was averted.

At the risk of being redundant, let me summarize our goal as parents: First, we must not transfer power too early, even if our children take us daily to the battlefield. Mothers who make that mistake are some of the most frustrated people on the face of the Earth. On the other hand, we must not retain parental power too long. Control will be torn from our grasp if we refuse to surrender it voluntarily. The granting of self-determination should be matched stride for stride with the arrival of maturity, culminating with complete release during early adulthood.

Sounds easy, doesn't it? We all know better. I consider this orderly transfer of power to be one of the most delicate and difficult responsibilities in the entire realm of parenthood.

Q Our son will be leaving for college next fall. Is there anything we can do to help ease the transition from home to dorm life?

A For starters, author Joan Wester Anderson suggests that you make sure that your teen has the basic skills necessary to survive dorm life. Can he operate a washer and dryer, stick to a budget, handle a checkbook, get along with roommates and manage his time wisely?

It's important as well to prepare your son for the negative aspects of campus life. Too often, adults present a rosy portrait of college as "the best years of life," which creates unrealistic expectations that lead to disappointment. Remind your son that homesickness is to be expected, and that he can call home collect anytime, just to chat. At a dime a minute after working hours, the costs of telephone usage should be within everyone's reach financially.

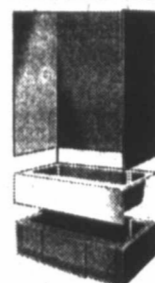

During the first semester away, letters and treats from home can ease the pain of separation anxiety. And be pleasant when that young man returns for visits. If he feels like an intruder, he just might decide to visit someone else's home for future vacations.

Going away to college is a milestone for those who embark on that journey. With proper planning, it can be a positive time of growth for the whole family.
