Houston's overdose fatalities adding up

HOUSTON (AP) — Two more men who authorities believe may be involved in distributing the potent drugs that killed 15 people in Houston this month appeared in court Monday. The 15 narcotic-related deaths that occurred over one weekend earlier this month have drawn national attention, including that of the Drug Enforcement Administration's chief of operations, Joe Keefe.

- Velma Cornell Kinard, 92, homemaker, seamstress.
- J.D. Mize, 67, independent contractor.

Countdown to Chautauqua ...

Finishing touches go on plans for festival

By DARLENE BIRKES for The Pampa News

It's as American as apple pie—the community celebration in Central Park on Labor Day in Pampa. For some towns the hot summer gathering is July 4th while others enjoy the county fair, block parties or craft shows and rodeos. Homemade ice cream, barbecue, visiting with friends, enjoying the children's games and keeping time with the stage musicians are all a part of Chautauqua, sponsored by PFAA for the 20th year. It all began in 1982 in a beauty salon when Lee Cornelison and Faustina Curry, Pampa Fine Arts board members, were trying to plan an event that would take the arts into the community. Susan Dunigan and Mary Beth Fatheree proposed the name Chautauqua after the traveling educational shows that toured small towns, including Pampa, after the turn of the century taking drama, music and oratory to people before the days of radio and television. Suspects in oft burgled bar case await grand jury

By DEE DEE LARAMORE Staff Writer

Two Pampa men will have to wait at least until October before burglary and criminal activity charges pending against them will be presented to a Gray County grand jury, officials said today. Abel Salazar, 17, 608 N. Wynne, and Joshua Coble, 17, 825 E. Campbell, remain free on bond today on burglary of a building charges stemming from the botched burglary of Rosie's Bar, 722 W. Brown, on Aug. 18. Police said Monday the charges were enhanced due to alleged organized criminal activity. Because of a conflict of schedules, the next Gray County grand jury will not meet until October, District Attorney Rick Roach said today. District Judge Lee Waters had moved the grand jury session, originally scheduled for Sept. 6, up to the afternoon of Aug. 30, he said. However, Roach was already committed to present eight to 10 cases to the Lipscomb County grand jury on Aug. 30, he said. Shortly after 4 a.m. Aug. 18, Pampa Police Lt. Charlie Love was patrolling West Brown Street when he saw a black pickup behind Rosie's Bar. (See BAR, Page 3)

Residents complain about door-to-door panhandling

Residents in at least two Pampa neighborhoods have complained to police in recent days that people are coming to their doors—at all hours of the day and night—asking for money. "We know who they are," said a spokesman at the Pampa Police Department, of the black male in the Magnolia street area and the white female in the Dogwood Street area. Bottom line is "Don't give them any money." According to a neighborhood flyer that was distributed on Magnolia Street, the man has asked residents for money telling them his baby needs either diapers or medicine. Reports are that at least one woman gave him $110. The flyer also warns not to loan the man tools or other items. In the case of the woman, one homeowner told The Pampa News the woman rang her doorbell at about 4 a.m. and asked for gas money to travel to see injured relatives. Another neighbor said the woman came to her house about 1 a.m. In at least one instance, the woman was given money. Residents are asked to call the police if an incident like this occurs to them.

Haymes, who learned the art as a member of a magician's club while a university student in Austin, will be displaying his talents at the Chautauqua celebration in Central Park, Sept. 3. Born in Pampa, he returned here to be with his sister Anna Haymes while he completes a dictionary defining 100,000 Greek word forms from Homer's Odyssey.

Dispatcher's call proves less than routine for one deputy

McLEAN — When Gray County Deputy Jim McDonald heard the McLean fire department called out to a house fire Monday, he thought the address sounded familiar. He also noticed that the Shamrock dispatcher seemed especially excited about the call. But it wasn't until she said, "It's Jim McDonald's house!" that he recognized what was happening. "I thought, 'That's me!'" he said. "It was kinda shocking after all these years, hearing my own address." McDonald, who also serves as a firefighter with the McLean Volunteer Fire Department, wasn't in McLean. He was on-duty in Pampa. He had just asked the Sheriff's Office dispatcher to call his wife and tell her he'd be about a half-hour late for lunch. Fortunately, Mrs. McDonald and three preschool children she was baby-sitting were able to get out of the house without any problem.

"She told (the children) they would have to leave and they just marched out and sat on the curb," the deputy said. "They did great." McDonald firefighters quickly controlled the fire in the basement of the house, the deputy said, adding "They were excellent." He said damage was limited. "We'll have to clear some things up and paint a couple of rooms." The fire was caused by a small six-inch fan that had been placed in the basement, Mrs. McDonald's sewing room, to "stir up the air" after recent rains he said. "The electric fan had completely melted and the plastic had ran out on the floor," the deputy said. Nearby clothing also caught fire, he said. McDonald said he had just talked to the insurance adjuster, adding "Everything is fine."

Remains of missing dogs found

A 21-year-old Pampa man has found his dogs. Nicholas Lee Brookshire, 21, 817 N. Wells, reported his two pit bull dogs missing in late June. He told police Monday that he had found them. Brookshire said he found the remains of the two dogs beneath the Loop 171 underpass east of Pampa. "It was pretty messy," he said today. Brookshire said the younger of the two dogs appeared to have been crushed. "The other wasn't so bad," he said.

Pampa police officials said today that there wasn't much left of the animals. They said there were only bones and bits of hide. Officers said it appeared the dogs' heads had been beaten in. Brookshire said it looked to him like the dogs had been there since they died. Officers said today they were investigating it as a cruelty to animals case. Previously, one of Brookshire's dogs that was behind a fence was shot and killed during the pre-dawn hours.

Rates mixed in Treasury bill auction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interest rates on short-term Treasury securities were mixed in Monday's auction.

The Treasury Department sold $15 billion in three-month bills at a discount rate of 3.350 percent, up from 3.330 percent last week. An additional $13 billion was sold in six-month bills at a rate of 3.290 percent, unchanged from last week.

The three-month rate was the highest since Aug. 6 when the bills sold for 3.430 percent.

The new discount rates understate the actual return to investors — 3.426 percent for three-month bills with a $10,000 bill selling for $9,915.30 and 3.392 percent for a six-month bill selling for $9,833.70.

In a separate report, the Federal Reserve said Monday that the average yield for one-year constant maturity Treasury bills, the most popular index for making changes in adjustable rate mortgages, edged up to 3.45 percent last week from 3.44 percent the previous week.

People in the news ...

NEW YORK (AP) — Russell Watson's success on the music charts has earned the British tenor the attention of his nation's tabloids — attention he says he can do without.

"In the U.K., sometimes press can be naughty, I will say. For certain newspapers are always looking for ulterior motives," Watson told The Associated Press.

"They come to talk to you about your next album, but really they haven't. They've come to delve into things that are going on, like my relationship and things like that. It's very difficult."

The 27-year-old Watson is separated from his wife, with whom he has a young daughter. He said his celebrity doesn't give the press the right to delve into his marital woes.

"There's so many legalities going on at the moment, that it just wouldn't be fair to start blabbing everything now, and talking about my personal life to the press," he said. "Because at the end of the day, my personal life is exactly what it stands to be, it's my personal life and it should be kept that way."

Watson's debut album, "The Voice," is a best seller on Billboard's classical crossover chart.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sela Ward, star of ABC's "Once and Again," considers herself a "late bloomer."

"If I can hold a banner for women in their forties that says life isn't over and sexiness isn't over, then great," the 45-year-old actress tells Ladies' Home Journal in the September issue. "So far, my forties have been the best time of my life."

Although she once worried about how to make herself look more youthful when she went on auditions, "Now, I think you do great violence to yourself as a woman by lying about your age, because it undermines your self-esteem."

Ward won an Emmy for her role as Lily Manning, a divorced mother with two children, on "Once and Again," which is entering its third season. She has just finished "Behind the Sun," an independent film in which she plays Billy Bob Thornton's ex-wife.

She lives in the Los Angeles area with her husband, venture capitalist Howard Sherman, and their two children, Austin Ward, 8, and Anabella, 3.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bluegrass legend Earl Scruggs had some help on his new CD, "Earl Scruggs and Friends," his first album in a decade.

Elton John, Dwight Yoakam, Travis Tritt, Sting, Melissa Etheridge, Leon Russell, Vince Gill, Rosanne Cash, John Fogerty, Don Henley, Johnny Cash and actor Steve Martin (on banjo) are among the featured artists.

Scruggs took up the banjo as a child, and had forged his own style by the time he was a teen-ager.

Russell said Scruggs "is not only a great player, but an inventor of music, with a quiet power inside his humility that is not unlike the Zen masters of the East."

The 77-year-old Scruggs sees things from a different perspective.

"I don't know what sets it off, but I just get wanting to pick once in a while," he told The Associated Press.

Scruggs developed bluegrass with Bill Monroe and had a long and successful partnership with Lester Flatt, who died in 1979.

The new album is mostly contemporary rock and country music.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A Marin County Superior Court has refused to dismiss a lawsuit that disputes the ownership of five of Jerry Garcia's guitars.

Grateful Dead Productions, the Novato-based company representing the surviving band members, had asked the judge to dismiss Doug Irwin's lawsuit for custody of the guitars, known as Wolf, Tiger, Rosebud, Headless and Wolf Jr. The guitars could be worth millions on the collectors' market.

Irwin, a custom guitar maker, says he's the rightful owner of the guitars he built for the late rock 'n' roll superstar. Garcia left the guitars to Irwin in his will. But the company claims it bought the instruments and they were not Garcia's to give away.

Judge Michael Dufficy ruled last week that Grateful Dead Productions had not proven the three-year statute of limitations had expired on Irwin's claim to the instruments.

Irwin, who did not file his claim for the guitars until March of this year, claims he was given informal assurances that he would get the instruments.

Garcia died in 1995.

Texas news briefs ...

Rivas' fate could go to jury Tuesday

DALLAS (AP) — Convicted killer George Rivas cannot be rehabilitated and would commit violence again, a forensic psychiatrist testified, echoing words he first spoke seven years ago.

Dr. Richard E. Coons told jurors that Rivas is a career criminal who continued "business as usual" after killing Irving police officer Aubrey Hawkins on Christmas Eve.

"It is clear the concept of violence is fine with that person," he said Monday during the sentencing phase of Rivas' trial.

Coons also testified in 1994 when Rivas was tried for armed robberies in El Paso. He said then that Rivas "has no conscience" and is "physically, mentally and morally dangerous and would continue to be so in 15 years."

If given another life sentence, Rivas likely would be heralded as a "folk hero" upon returning to prison and be elevated to a leadership role among inmates, Coons said.

Rivas, 31, has admitted he orchestrated a meticulously planned escape of seven inmates from a South Texas prison and fired some of the 11 shots that struck Hawkins.

Six members of the gang were apprehended one month later in Colorado after a nationwide manhunt. One man committed suicide rather than surrender. Rivas is the first of the escapees to be tried for capital murder.

Santera makes what it touts as a new type of switch for routing telephone calls, one that may replace the kind of switching equipment made today by big companies such as Nortel Networks and Lucent Technologies.

David Heard, who worked for AT&T and Lucent before taking the helm of Plano-based Santera, said phone-switching equipment is about to undergo a revolutionary change and that start-ups like his are better suited to deliver new technology than are the established players.

The big phone-equipment makers have been hit hard as phone companies and other communications service providers cut spending on equipment that moves voice and data signals around the world.

In recent months, Canada's Nortel has announced 30,000 layoffs and New Jersey-based Lucent announced 15,000 to 20,000 layoffs on top of 19,000 jobs lost since last year.

Still, technology start-ups in Telecom Corridor continue to attract venture funding — $250 million in the past three months, according to the Richardson-based Technology Business Council.

Report: Akins expected to drop out of gubernatorial race

DALLAS (AP) — A big infusion of cash for a start-up company has raised hopes for a turnaround in the battered local telecommunications industry.

Santera Systems Inc. announced last week it has raised $110 million from private firms, one of the largest fundraising rounds this year by a private Texas company.

CLAS RINGS on sale at VJ's Fashions and Gifts, Downtown Pampa, 669-6323.

DALLAS (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Marty Akins, a former University of Texas quarterback, is reportedly planning to drop out of the race and pursue another statewide office.

People familiar with Akins' plans told The Dallas Morning News in Tuesday's editions that the former All-American — now a Marble Falls attorney — will defer to multimillionaire Laredo banker and oilman A.R. "Tony" Sanchez Jr., who is considered the Democrats' front-runner.

"The desire to defeat Republican Governor Rick Perry is so strong that Marty is willing to consider this in an effort to unify the party rather than do damage to one another in a primary," said a source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

A formal announcement was expected Tuesday, according to the report.

Sanchez, who was appointed by former Gov. George W. Bush to the University of Texas System Board of Regents, was expected to formally announce a week later — around Labor Day — his campaign for governor.

Akins may instead run for comptroller, land commissioner or for a seat on the Texas Railroad Commission, said political consultants who spoke on condition that they not be identified.

Weather focus

PAMPA — Today, mostly sunny with highs 85 to 90. Southeast to south winds 5 to 15 mph. Tonight, partly cloudy with a less than 20 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms.

Lows in the mid 60s. Southeast to south winds 5 to 15 mph. Wednesday, partly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of afternoon showers and thunderstorms.

Highs 85 to 90. South winds 10 to 20 mph. STATEWIDE — Scattered showers and thunderstorms were moving northwestward across Texas on Tuesday as a weak cold front stalled along the Red River and forecasters said the wet weather should continue through midweek.

Rainfall was noted across parts of the Edwards Plateau near San Angelo. Much of the activity began in the state as showers and thunderstorms in deep South Texas. Showers were also scattered across the middle and upper Gulf coast.

Early-morning temperatures ranged from 58 degrees at Dalhart to 73 degrees at Dryden in Terrell County. Also, it was 71 degrees at Bergstrom Airport in Austin and 81 at Galveston, Laredo and the Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi.

Winds were mostly light and variable across most of the state at less than 10 mph. A slight chance of thunderstorms was forecast over the southern half of West Texas from the southern Rolling Plains southward across the Edwards Plateau to the Rio Grande and west to El Paso. A better chance may come from the Concho Valley into the western Hill Country.

Rains could be heavy in some areas. A flash flood watch was posted for the Hill Country and South Central Texas, where storms could be numerous.

Daytime highs through Wednesday should be mostly in the 80s, except for mid- to upper 90s along the Rio Grande.

Lows overnight were expected to range from the 50s in the far western mountains to 70s along the Rio Grande.

CHAUTAQUA

The PFAA board was overwhelmed at the crowd that came to Central Park 20 years ago. The stage was the cabana. There were no tents for food booths. The Indian word was hard to pronounce and even harder to spell, but it soon became a household word to Pampanos. And the day has become the largest community event, drawing people of all ages together to visit, celebrate the end of summer, and enjoy the free stage while indulging in an array of food and soft drinks sold by non-profit organizations that benefit the area throughout the year.

This community effort supported by civic-minded organizations has made the event successful. The free stage has been the focal point of the celebration. PFAA stage directors have made an effort to add new performers every year, giving artists that are starting in their profession an opportunity to perform as well as introducing unusual talent. Blue grass bands and country western vocalists have always drawn crowds, and Smokey Binion impersonating Elvis has attracted screaming teenagers. Through a grant from the Texas Commission on the Arts, a harpist performed one year.

PFAA used a flat-bed truck for the stage the second year and by the third year had enough funds to engage the park employees in building a redwood stage. Seating was added in 1986. The area has been used by high school and family reunions and benefits through the years. Eventually additional park facilities were added, including trees, an additional bridge, and upgraded electrical systems. PFAA is to donate the profits from Chautauqua each year to the park system for additional improvements, the last being handicapped parking.

For many years Wanetta Hill and Lee Cornelison were master of ceremonies, entertaining visitors with commentary on the activities in the park as well as sampling some of the food. At the 20th celebration Hill, in her 19th year, will again lead on the stage assisted by soloist Joe Martinez.

Hill designed the original logo, a tree encircled with a listing of activities—games, races, dance, music, drama, arts and crafts. Sculptor Gerald Sanders agreed to autograph copies of the 1982 telephone book that appeared on the book cover. The 18th anniversary Gray County Cook Book was introduced and sold half of the 1,000 copies of their first printing that day. Bonnie Chambless brought some wood and visitors helped create a wood sculpture they named "Chautauqua." The Kwahadi Dancers proved to be the crowd magnet, and they were invited back another four times, when money was available.

Foot races and bike runs have started Chautauqua off since the second year. Beginning in 1986 Coronado Hospital, now Pampa Regional Medical Center, began sponsoring the 5K and fun runs, giving away colorfully-designed t-shirts by Terry Barnes and dozens of trophies to the participants as well as donating the fees to United Way.

Traditionally the main stage opened at 9 a.m. with an invocation and some "soothing music" as booth builders scurried about meeting their deadline. In 1995 the chairmen broke with tradition and began a patriotic opening for the appearance of then Gov. George W. Bush. In 1998 a second stage was organized by stage manager Loralee Cooley at the Cuyler bridge, adding many more acts to the stage agenda. Cooley has organized the stage the last four years.

Long time performers have been the PHS Show Choir, Gail Thompson's martial arts Tae Kwon Do, the PHS cheerleaders, and Fred Hughes' gymnastic team and dunking board, now managed by daughter Kristi Fatheree. Wearing their colorful costumes, the PHS Fiesta Dancers have performed since the Calico Caper square dancers are no longer organized.

The sound equipment was provided by Eddie Burton for the first Chautauquas. Since then the Pampa High School choir members under the direction of Fred Mays have manned the sound system. A misty morning in 1993 threatened to shut the stage show to protect the sound equipment, but after some delay, the show went on. Usually the soft drink booths have a very profitable day with their cooling beverages.

For several years PFAA sponsored everything from oriental cooking to flower arranging and painting demonstrations and even a quilt show under a giant yellow and blue tent. Janice Sackett taught pottery and transported the art home to be fired in her kiln. The Creative Artisans guided children in painting lessons, and one year youth brought their tennis shoes to design and paint. Bridge painting was initiated for two years. For the Sesquicentennial in 1986 park goers formed a large, human-shaped map of Texas that was featured in TEXAS MONTHLY. The Clyde Logg band played a medley of Texas songs as those standing in "Texas" floated balloons that rose above the crowd.

In an environmental emphasis, at one time Clean Pampa board members pedaled a cart encouraging trash pickup, an effort supported annually to keep the park clean. Girl Scouts introduced Smokey the Bear and Woody Owl in costumes to the crowds.

Crime prevention has been emphasized with McGruff the Crime Dog and fingerprinting of children. Police officers have been increased to patrol the area, and Crimestoppers sponsors annual exhibits.

The tenth anniversary brought an emphasis on living history in medieval times, and the fifteenth year the Mountain Men re-enacted life in the early 1800's with their tents, camping gear and guns. This year the newly organized Frontier Regiment of the High Plains will represent 1850-1890 at Chautauqua. The group will have tents and tables with displays of military artifacts that will be explained, according to local member Gerald Wright. Girls in 1870's dress, a Kiowa Indian from Perryton in native costume, and cavalry and infantry men will be a part of the group.

Each year brings new ideas to the park. New volunteers are always in demand, and those willing to contribute time and talent should contact the PFAA board members or office, 665-0343. Past chairmen of Chautauqua include Cornelison, 1982, 1983; Darlene Birkes, 1984; Jack Gindorf, 1985; Faustina Curry and Jean Murtishaw, 1986; Linda Nowell, 1987; Gary Kelton and Birkes, 1988; Kelton and Starla Tracy, 1989; Tracy and Debbie Lawrence, 1990; Lawrence and Sandy Crosswhite, 1991; Crosswhite and Berinda Turcotte, 1992; Turcotte, 1993; Turcotte and Sandra Keeton, 1994; Keeton, 1995; Turcotte and Birkes, 1996; Turcotte and Charlene Morriss, 1997; Crosswhite, 1998; Morriss, 1999; Morriss and Susie Wilkinson, 2000; Morriss, 2001.

Three of four Powerball winners step forward to claim their share

Sheryl Hanuman stopped in a Minneapolis grocery store over the weekend to buy a card for a wedding when she picked up five Powerball lottery tickets.

That last-minute purchase means the medical records clerk can now entertain almost any other whim: She has one of the four multimillion-dollar winning tickets drawn Saturday night.

"It means a little more freedom," Hanuman said Monday after claiming her share of the $294.8 million jackpot. "It means I'll be able to help my family in ways I wouldn't even have thought of prior to this."

Joining Hanuman in the third-biggest lottery prize in U.S. history is a Maine couple who hid their winning ticket in a box of cereal, a 46-year-old ex-convict from Kentucky and a mystery winner in Delaware.

Except for the holder of the Delaware ticket, all the winners were identified Monday and all chose the lump-sum payment of $41.4 million, before taxes. With each winning ticket worth $73.7 million, winners also have the option of taking $2.9 million per year for 25 years.

The Maine couple, Pat and Erwin Wales of Buxton, did not attend a news conference in Concord, N.H. But their lawyer, Terrence Garmey, described their jackpot as part of a lucky streak for Pat Wales, 60.

She won $20 in a Maine lottery Saturday, then followed that up with a Megabucks win for $5. "Then she started to think, 'Maybe this is my lucky day,'" Garmey said.

He said she bought Powerball tickets at a convenience store in Rollinsford, N.H., then stayed up past her bedtime to watch the drawing.

When she realized she had won, "she began to cry and tremble," Garmey said. She tried to awaken her 70-year-old husband, telling him, "Erwin, we won the Powerball," Garmey said. "And he said, 'Uh huh,' and he rolled over and went back to sleep."

He said the couple wondered what to do with the ticket. "And I think they did what any conscientious Maine person would do, they hid it in a box of Corn Chex," Garmey said.

The holder of the Delaware ticket, sold at a store in Hockessin, had not come forward by Monday evening. Delaware law gives winners a year to claim their prize and allows them to remain anonymous.

For her part, Hanuman, 41, skipped work Monday, telling her boss at Allina Hospital and Clinics that she had personal business. She called back later with the big news and said her boss responded: "No, you've got to be kidding. Nobody calls with this kind of excuse."

The Roseville, Minn., woman and her husband, Chrisna, have three sons, ages 11, 10 and 9, and she said she may buy a new house.

The Kentucky winner, David Edwards, 46, who lives outside Ashland, said he was recently laid off from his fiber optics job, needs back surgery and had no idea what he was going to do once his unemployment benefits ran out.

"A lot of people work hard and a lot of people are out of work. And you dream you want a better life, and playing this lottery has done that for me," Edwards said.

He bought $8 worth of tickets — seven for himself and one for his fiancée — at a convenience store just 90 minutes before the drawing.

"I said, 'Help me Lord. I know it might not be right of me to ask you this, but can you just let me win this?'" he said.

Kentucky corrections officials said Edwards was convicted of robbery in 1981 and sentenced to 10 years in prison. He was paroled and returned to prison several times before serving out his sentence in 1997. He also has a conviction for possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Asked about his record, Edwards said: "I've made some mistakes in my past... but now I can do something positive with my future."

Edwards said he will probably buy a Rolls-Royce he has had his eye on.

"I'm not one to take a lot of money and splurge on mansions and this and that, but I am sure buying that Rolls," he said.

BAR

Just a few days earlier, a Rosie's employee had surprised a burglar inside the building and after a short fight, the burglar had fled. Police were continuing to search for the suspect in the earlier break-in.

Lt. Love said he watched as the pickup, a 1991 Chevrolet, left the business without stopping before turning onto South Hobart Street. The police lieutenant pulled the vehicle over in the 900 block of Rham and called for a back-up.

When he approached the pickup, he found two men inside the cab and two juveniles lying down in the back along with stacks of beer, stereo speakers and various other items, Lt. Love said.

Further investigation showed the items in the back of the pickup had been taken from Rosie's, the police officer said. Registration papers in the pickup led police to a residence where more items from the bar were found, he added.

When police returned to Rosie's, they found almost everything inside the business was gone.

"It looked like they had moved," Lt. Love said. A back door had received approximately $300 in damage and a pool table cover valued at $300 was also torn, according to police reports.

Police recovered approximately $1,581 in stolen property including 72 long-neck bottles of Budweiser, 15 bottles of Smirnoff Ice, seven bottles of Seagram's Whiskey, 54 cans of Coors Light, 68 cans of Bud Light, 39 cans of Coors, two 12-packs of soft drinks, Miller Draft beer, two acoustic speakers valued at $300, an RCA speaker valued at $300, a Mexican flag, a U.S. flag, a Zima wall clock, a bottle of grenadine, 11 bottles of Corona, a pussycat glass decanter, a Salvation Army cup, assorted U.S. coins, and a roll of undeveloped film.

Salazar and Coble were arrested at the scene and placed in Gray County Jail. Bond for Salazar was set at $4,000 and $3,500 for Coble, according to jail records. Both men were released on bond the next day, Aug. 19.

The two juveniles, males aged 15 and 16, were turned over to Juvenile Probation authorities and transported to the boot camp in Canadian that same day, Lt. Love said.

And as if two burglaries within a week wasn't bad enough, someone tried to break in Rosie's again last week, Lt. Love said. Apparently, the owner of the bar caught two men trying to break in on a Sunday afternoon and scared them away, he said.

"I don't know," the police lieutenant commented on the numerous burglaries. "It's like the Bermuda Triangle or something."

Businessman crashes plane into his own house

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — When Louis W. Joy III's corporate plane lifted off from Nashua Airport, flight officials thought it would head south toward New Jersey.

Instead, the single-engine plane went northwest.

Twelve miles later, in what witnesses said appeared to be a deliberate act, the plane went into a dive that slammed into the elegant home Joy, 43, shared with his wife and 8-year-old daughter in Amherst. The pilot was killed Saturday, but no one on the ground was injured.

No one was at the home, which was destroyed in an inferno that left only rubble above the basement. While investigators waited for dental records, they poked through the ashes and wreckage of Joy's home, his plane and his life — searching for what might have driven the business executive to suicide.

On Monday, Judge William Drescher, who granted Jo Joy's restraining order, sealed the court documents in which she explained why she needed it and perhaps more clues to why Louis Joy is missing.

On Friday, Jo Joy went to Milford District Court for a restraining order against her husband. She got it. Late that night, neighbors said two police cruisers showed up at the family's home.

Neighbor Marie Seroskie said police officers escorted Louis Joy into the home to get his belongings.

Dixie Chicks file lawsuit Claim Sony Music cheated them

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dixie Chicks sued Sony Music Entertainment, accusing the company of cheating them out of more than $4 million in royalties, the Los Angeles Times reported Tuesday.

The Grammy-winning country-pop group, founded in Dallas in 1989, also wants to terminate a seven-album deal it signed with the Japanese corporation in 1997, the Times reported.

Emily Robison, Martie Seidel and Natalie Maines Pasdar have sold nearly 20 million albums that have generated more than $175 million. The singers contend Sony engaged in "systematic thievery" to rob recording artists out of royalty earnings.

"We refuse to sit back and silently endorse this behavior simply because this is a 'standard' practice at Sony," the Dixie Chicks said in a statement. "This is about people keeping their word."

Sony officials declined to comment on the suit.

Sony previously sued the Dixie Chicks, claiming the group owes it more than $100 million for five undelivered albums. In court documents, the company has called the group's allegations a "sham attempt" to get out of its record contract.

Body Art Finds More Foes Than Fans Among Employers

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in response to "Out-of-Work Mom," who was disturbed because she was rejected by potential employers when they noticed her pierced tongue and multiple ear piercings.

Just as her piercings and tattoos reflect her personal style and values, a business owner's employees reflect his or hers. Like it or not, customers judge the business by the appearance and behavior of the frontline employees. It makes sense that an employer will hire those who present themselves in a way that's compatible with the image the business owner wants to project.

If she really wants to find employment that will help her provide well for herself and her daughter, "Mom" should consider leaving her individuality at home. (I wish you well, Young Mother.)

AN OLDER MOTHER IN TEXAS

DEAR OLDER MOTHER: That letter generated a flurry of mail. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Someone should inform "Out-of-Work Mom" that many people do base their attitudes on first impressions. Is she big enough not to cop an attitude when that happens? I agree that she has every right to pierce whatever she wants — but if she can't stand the backlash, she shouldn't blame it on others. The choice was hers.

alism, not at the metal stud in my tongue — which I wore to my interview and was hired anyway. Wish "Out-of-Work" luck for me.

PIERCED BUT PROFESSIONAL IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR PIERCED PROFESSIONAL: You are not the only pierced professional who piped up. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Tell that young woman to take heart. I am the administrative assistant to the Canadian president of a large U.S.-based company, and I have had my tongue pierced for almost a year now. My boss wasn't aware my tongue was pierced until I told him one day, three months after I was hired.

Times are changing, and "conservative" companies must get with it or they'll miss out on some talented employees over a couple of little pieces of jewelry.

interview would be over. Not because I think a tongue ring is freaky, but because I think it is inappropriate for a job interview — as are shorts, jeans, transparent clothing, T-shirts and visible underwear.

Experience has shown me that every time we have made allowances for an applicant's odd behavior in a job interview, we have gone on to have performance problems with that employee.

SERIOUS INTERVIEWER, SILVER SPRING, MD.

DEAR INTERVIEWER: In fairness, not all employers are as rigid in their thinking as you. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Your response to "Out-of-Work" was a little outdated. I am a newspaper reporter with a pierced tongue. Like several other professionals here, I wear my piercings to work.

Fortunately, my employers looked at my skills and profession-

DEAR MOM: You could be right — but judging from the mail I received from the business world, you are fortunate to have a very liberal employer. Read on:

VOLLEYBALL

PAMPA — The Pampa 9th grade volleyball team has jumped out a 2-0 lead in the district standings.

In an exciting match, Pampa defeated Hereford 17-15, 8-15, 15-7, Monday night.

Pampa's top servers were Jennie Rogers with 10 points and Teryn Garner with 6.

Diana Resendiz, Rebecca Gindorf and Garner led Pampa on the defensive side of the net.

TENNIS

NEW YORK (AP) — Serena Williams, the 1999 champion, overcame a slow start to beat Anca Barna 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 in the first round of the U.S. Open.

She joined four other former women's champions — Hingis, Lindsay Davenport, Monica Seles and Arantxa Sanchez-Vicario — in the second round.

Two-time champions Andre Agassi and Patrick Rafter advanced on the men's side, as did defending champ Marat Safin.

No. 3 Davenport, playing on the 10th anniversary of her U.S. Open debut, beat Andrea Glass 6-2, 6-3. The No. 1-seeded Hingis opened play on Arthur Ashe Stadium and routed two-time NCAA champion Laura Granville 6-2, 6-0.

BASEBALL

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Frank Catalanotto wasn't expected to be an everyday player for the Texas Rangers this season. As a utility player, he was only rarely expected to appear in the outfield.

Now Catalanotto is the starting left fielder for the Rangers — and about to be in the thick of the AL batting race.

Catalanotto has the AL's longest current hitting streak at 12 games and is batting .341 in 396 plate appearances — 10 away from qualifying to be among the league leaders.

Once Catalanotto catches up, he'll be closing in on Seattle's Ichiro Suzuki (.347), the AL's top hitter, and Cleveland's Juan Gonzalez (.344), a former two-time AL MVP for the Rangers.

"I really can't explain it," Catalanotto said. "Playing every day, you just get more comfortable."

Dalhart faces a rebuilding year

PAMPA — Dalhart coach Bill Henley would like another week or so to prepare his team for the 2001 season opener Friday night against Pampa.

"We had a scrimmage last weekend and we didn't look as good as I had hoped," Henley said. "We're just not quite ready."

Henley has reason for concern. Dalhart lost to Pampa 35-0 last season when the Wolves had a team loaded with experience.

"We're going to be pretty small and inexperienced. We lost our big boys. It's going to be quite a changeup for us," he said.

Henley will be counting on junior running back Alan Bean to help jump-start Class 3A

Dalhart this season. The 175-pound Bean has some speed. He qualified for the state track meet a year ago in the 300 hurdles.

Others Henley is counting on are 190-pound senior Miles Moulder (offensive-defensive lineman), 185-pound junior Ryan Coffee (running back-linebacker) and 250-pound junior Trent McEvers (offensive-defensive lineman).

Henley isn't surprised Pampa is favored to win the District 3-4A title.

"Pampa looks sharp," he said. "They've got a lot of good guys returning. It's going to be tough for any team to beat them."

The Pampa-Dalhart game kicks off at 8 in Dalhart.

Pampa tennis squad splits matches at Plano

PLANO — The Pampa Harvester tennis team went 2-2 last weekend in the Plano Invitational.

The Harvesters lost in the first round to Plano East 10-3. In the second round, Pampa defeated Frisco 15-3 and then defeated Allen 12-1 in round 3 to advance to the consolation finals.

The Harvesters were down 7-2 when they lost three matches in tie-breakers. That put Plano in a winning position with a 10-2 victory.

"Those three matches go the other way and we are now down 7-5 with seven matches still to play. We have to work harder in those close matches and win in the third set. I am really proud of this team," said Pampa coach Carolyn Quarles.

"We are playing an extremely tough pre-season schedule and we are improving with each match."

Plano West defeated Dallas Highland Park 11-7 to win the tournament.

Several Pampa players had outstanding matches, including juniors Jay Gerber and David Thacker, who went 4-0 in doubles for the weekend. They were named players of the week.

On Tuesday, the Harvesters go to Amarillo to play Plainview and Amarillo High.

Cowboys beat Raiders, 21-6

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Quincy Carter is already getting philosophical about life in the NFL.

"One thing about this game is that you can have a good game one day and a bad game the next: You just want to keep going out on the field and getting better," the Cowboys rookie quarterback said after leading a 21-6 victory Monday night over the Oakland Raiders.

Carter was 6-of-11 passing, with 99 yards and no interceptions, and had an impressive 16-yard touchdown run.

He showed more poise this time compared to his 5-of-17, 27-yard game against New Orleans on Aug. 19, and it gave the Cowboys their first win of the preseason after three losses.

The Cowboys snapped their nine-game preseason losing streak. Dallas had dropped 17 of 18 preseason games.

"We really needed a win," said coach Dave Campo, who heaped more praise and pressure on his young quarterback.

"I think Quincy Carter made some things happen out there, and whether he can keep doing so will help decide the future of this team."

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The GRAY COUNTY GENERAL will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in the preceding year by 8.00 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property and the tax rate that is adopted. The public hearing will be held on September 4, 2001 at 9:00 a.m. at County Courtroom, 315 N. Ballard Pampa, Texas.

FOR the proposal: Comm Jim Greene Comm Gerald Wright
 Comm James Hefley

AGAINST the proposal: Judge Richard Peet Comm Joe Wheeley

PRESENT and not voting:

ABSENT:

The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average residence homestead value	$28,284	$29,122
General exemptions available (amount available on the average homestead, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	$0	$0
Average taxable value	$28,284	$29,122
Tax rate (per $100)	0.494684	0.475833
Tax	$139.92	$138.57

Under this proposal, taxes on the average homestead would decrease by $1.35 or 0.96 percent compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would decrease by $0.018851 per $100 of taxable value or 3.81 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Bonds hits No. 56 as Giants beat Mets, 6-5

By MIKE FITZPATRICK
Associated Press Writer

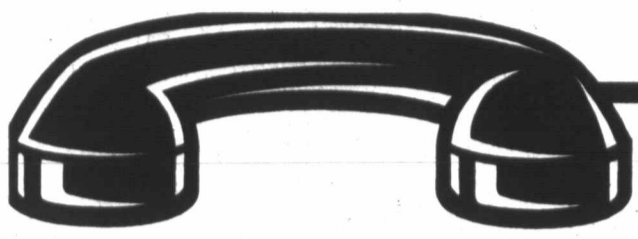

Barry Bonds got a rare pitch to hit, and he didn't miss it. It seems like he never does. Bonds hit his major league-leading 56th home run Monday, becoming the fastest player to reach the mark, as the San Francisco Giants beat the New York Mets 6-5.

"It was a fastball, probably the only one I got," Bonds said. "I knew I had it." Bonds has always had a good eye, but pitchers fear him now more than ever. He's already walked 133 times this season, and he must continue to make the most of his swings if he hopes to break Mark McGwire's 1998 record of 70 homers. With the Giants in the thick of the NL playoff race, Bonds doesn't figure to see many good itches down the stretch. "As long as you win the game, it doesn't matter," Bonds said. In other NL games, it was Los Angeles 4, Atlanta 2; Philadelphia 3, Arizona 1; San Diego 8, Florida 3; and Milwaukee 12, Pittsburgh 5. The American League had the day off. Bonds also doubled and singled, and J.T. Snow hit a tiebreaking, two-run homer in the ninth inning off Rick White (3-5) as the Giants averted a four-game sweep at Shea Stadium. San Francisco moved within 2 1/2 games of first-place Arizona in the NL West and a half-game ahead of idle Chicago in the wild card race. Bonds and the Giants face Randy Johnson in the opener of a key three-game series Tuesday night at Bank One Ballpark.

NFL ready to go with replacement referees

DALLAS (AP) — The NFL is one step closer to using replacement referees. Contract talks between the league and its officials broke off without an agreement early Tuesday. Unless a deal is made in the next few days, the officials will not work the final preseason games this week. "The league has informed us that if we don't have a resolution by this week, they're going to go ahead with replacement officials," said Tom Condon, lead negotiator for the officials. "We're without a contract, and we don't think it's appropriate for us to continue on until we achieve some resolution." The talks, which lasted four hours, were to resume Tuesday. NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said the league was moving toward replacements for the final week of the exhibition season. The NFL received a rejection early Tuesday to a proposal that would have meant there would be no strike or lockout this season. "No new offers were exchanged and no progress was made," Aiello said. "We raised the idea of no strike, no lockout for the season and it was rejected by the union." Still, Condon is hoping for a settlement. "I'll stay here for the rest of the week if that's what it takes," he said. But he wants the NFL to give more. "We've been talking about this with the league for over 18 months, and we don't think that talking about it for another 6-to-8 months is going to change anyone's mind."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTES - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter stands for another. In this sample, A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Pampa Nursing Center has new look

Pampa Nursing Center is sporting a new look. The facility has recently undergone a transformation with new wallpaper and wall hangings throughout the building. Patients are enjoying new pictures and floral arrangements which add attractive touches to the walls.

The two main hallways have also received names after nominations were made by staff members. Selected as the names were Cherished Lane and Yesteryear Avenue.

Formerly known as the Alzheimer's Unit, that department was recently designated as Sunshine Lane.

PNC has an 82-bed capacity, and is home to many residents from Pampa and the surrounding area.

The center provides medical care to the patients who cannot provide home care for themselves. A friendly and caring environment is at the local center.

Some of the patients are at the facility temporarily while others are there on a long term basis. Private rooms as well as semi-private rooms are available for the patients at the nursing home.

Members of the professional staff will provide a tour of the facility and discuss any aspects of the program with prospective patients and family members.

Twenty patients are currently living in the 22-patient capacity facility for Alzheimer patients. Sunshine Lane is a secured and separate area from patients in the nursing home area, and it has a separate area for activities. Patients from both programs do join together on occasion for special activities.

Terri Adams is admissions coordinator at the local facility. She said the local facility has Medicare beds and has the distinction that any beds at the facility are certified as Medicare.

An occupational therapist and speech therapist are on staff.

Activities Director Kristie Fuller has been with the nursing home nearly six years.

She organizes many activities for the patients. Once a week a local country and western band plays at the nursing home for the patients, and Fuller reports the patients are very enthusiastic about the music presentations.

Patients enjoy the live music sessions throughout the year, and also delight in listening to recorded music.

The dining area doubles as an activity area for the home residents. One of the more popular activities among the residents is Bingo. Numerous residents gather twice a week as Fuller organizes the activity.

Patients also enjoy playing dominoes and the penny game.

Each year the patients ride on a float in the rodeo parade. Even though they aren't in the annual Christmas parade, many of the residents enjoy going to the parade to watch it.

State Representative Warren Chisum recently joined the residents for a patriotic celebration on the Fourth of July.

The patients enjoy activities and having visitors at PNC.

Many experienced health professionals are on the staff. Administrator Dorothy Westbrook has over 30 years experience in long term care while Tava Porter, RN-DON, has 16 years in the field. Dietary Manager Sharon Brown has been with the facility for 13 years.

Medical directors are Dr. Craig Shaffer and Dr. Simoneta Soriano. Both are local physicians.

The center features a secured Alzheimer's Unit, admission seven days per week, on-site evaluations, hospice contracts and managed care contracts.

Referrals are followed by on-site preadmission assessment. A trained professional will counsel the family and patient through the entire admission process.

Approximately 75 employees assist the patients with medical care and their everyday needs. Registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and certified nursing aides are among those who provide medical care.

Department employees who focus on housekeeping, laundry, dietary and maintenance also provide needed services for the patients.

Several therapies are among the provided services including infusion, respiratory, music and pet. Other services include podiatrist, optometrist, portable diagnostics, and specialty equipment.

Programs offered include pain management, respite care, hospice care, medically demanding, orthopedic recovery, pulmonary management, stroke recovery and vascular/wound recovery.

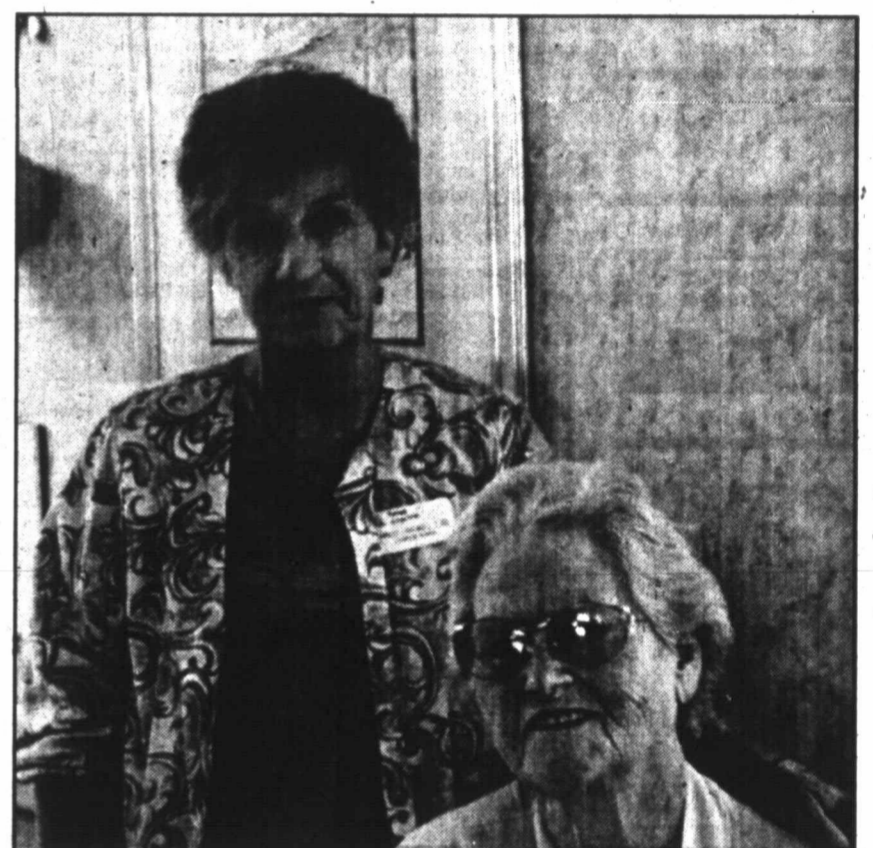

Amenities which are included are a rehabilitation department, semi-private rooms, sub-acute beds, long term beds, on-site beauty salon, transportation, cable and laundry.
