Rabid skunk No. 16 found in city limits

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Rabies is spreading in Gray County as the 16th case in Pampa since March 23 was confirmed by the Texas Department of Health (TDH) on Tuesday.

State authorities are predicting the disease will probably spread to other neighboring counties and are urging people to not dispose or any animal who might be carrying the disease. Rabies testing is being strongly urged.

The latest rabid skunk in Pampa was located in the 600 block of Tignor on Friday, Aug. 31, said Sandy Burns of the City of Pampa Animal Control. However, the animal was unable to be shipped to the Austin testing laboratory until Tuesday due to the new hours implemented Sept. 1.

One animal control officer position has been eliminated by the budget cuts in the City of Pampa, and the hours of operation have been cut back. Formerly manned by three people, the department now has two animal control officers.

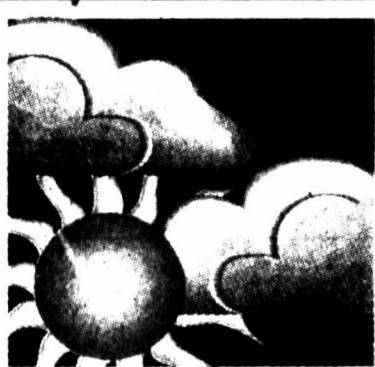

The new hours of the department are 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday, with the office open to the public from 5-6 p.m. those days. The office is now closed on weekends.

Skunks have been confirmed to have rabies in all areas of Pampa and outlying areas during the past five-and-one-half months. According to the TDH, Gray County has had more rabies cases in 2001 than ever before.

Dr. Floran Faries, a veterinary medicine professor with Texas A&M, speaking in Pampa Thursday night on Foreign Animal Diseases, said more needs to be done about controlling rabies.

He said 70 percent of the cats and dogs in a community need to be vaccinated against the disease to be effective.

Judge to reconsider ruling in AQHA case

AMARILLO (AP) — A Panhandle judge is reconsidering his ruling that found one of the American Quarter Horse Association's breeding rules violated Texas antitrust laws and hampered industry competition.

State District Judge Patrick Pirtle said Thursday he will study the issues in the case before deciding whether he will change his ruling. His statement followed court arguments from AQHA attorney Bob Smith and Robert Garner, an attorney representing several breeders.

A group of Texas horse breeders had sued the AQHA in June 2000 in an attempt to quash an association rule limiting the number of foals a breeder can register annually. Pirtle had sided with the breeders in his ruling.

Agri engineer talks about waste lagoons

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Lagoons for animal feeding operations were the topic when Dr. Brent Auvermann, assistant professor and extension agricultural engineer with Texas A&M in Amarillo, paid a visit to Pampa Thursday night.

Gray County Extension Agent Danny Nusser told the 35-40 people prior to Auvermann's talk that the meeting, sponsored by the Texas Cooperative Extension, was not a "pig meeting," but that it was on the lagoons. "This meeting is educational, not about hogs," he said.

The meeting is in response to the controversial announcement that National Pig Development of North Carolina is planning to build a 3,700 sow genetic research facility 11 miles east of Pampa. They are seeking a permit to house up to 50,000 animals.

Woman grabs cash, flees

Police continue their search for a woman in a white mini-van who allegedly stole $20 from a clerk at a local convenience store early this morning.

The incident was first reported as a strong-armed robbery, but police said today that further investigation indicated theft by deception was a more appropriate charge.

According to police reports, a woman entered the Allsup's Store at 1025 W. Wilks at 3:10 a.m. today and asked for $20 in exchange for two rolls of quarters, valued at $10 each.

When the clerk started to hand the woman $20 and take the two rolls of coins, the woman grabbed the cash and ran from the store. The suspect, reportedly wearing black pants and a shirt with flowers on it, was seen getting into a white mini-van which quickly drove away. Police believe a second suspect that was driving the van is also involved.

Anyone having any information regarding the theft can contact the Pampa Police Department at 669-5700.

Combs' aides, TNRCC unaware of any Pampa meeting

If Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission representatives are to come to Pampa to conduct a public hearing on the proposed hog farm no one at the TNRCC offices knows anything about it.

On Thursday, State Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs said during a talk here she had learned of the matter will be held locally "so people won't have to go to Austin."

At issue is the permit application of National Pig Development Company which wants to build a hog genetic research facility east of Pampa. The permit sought is for a maximum of 50,000 hogs. It would have 45 acres of open waste lagoons.

TNRCC spokesman Dick Lewis said Thursday afternoon he is not aware of a hearing.

"Maybe there is something but I really don't see any sort of public hearing planned for Pampa with regard to the application of NPD," Lewis said.

Like Lewis, a check with Combs' office revealed that aide Beverly Boyd does not know anything about a meeting or hearing to be held in Pampa by the TNRCC.

Boyd did say Combs is in the process of scheduling a meeting with the chairman of the TNRCC to discuss Confined Animal Feeding Operations (CAFO) but that is all she is aware of in relation to the TNRCC.

Meanwhile, Lewis said NPD's application for registration (permit) is undergoing administrative review. Once that's done, the application will go to the technical staff where it's expected to remain for about six weeks.

If the application passes technical muster, a draft permit will be written, Lewis said, starting a 20-day permit in which the TNRCC will take written comments from the public.

Whether a community wants a hog farm or not or other operation that requires a TNRCC permit is not a consideration, he said. Meeting state requirements is what counts.

Evening crash

Water permit hearing set

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

WHITE DEER — A hearing is scheduled for January on a contested water permit that Dallas businessman E. Boone Pickens and his neighbors need to pump water in the Texas Panhandle that they intend to sell downstate.

At a preliminary hearing here Thursday, the parties to the dispute laid out their positions before Judge John Forbis and argued who should be a party to the protest.

Pickens, who is also a Roberts County rancher, and his neighbors applied in September, 2000, to the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District for pumping permits on their lands. At a public meeting here in December, Pickens indicated that he and his neighbors, operating as Mesa Water, Inc., want to pump water from beneath their ranches and sell that water to one of several metropolitan areas downstate. Pickens said that he and his neighbors felt that they had no choice but to try and sell their water before the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority and the City of Amarillo sucked the water from beneath their ranches.

In the past decade, CRMWA, which supplies water to 11 communities in the Texas Panhandle and on the South Plains, including Pampa, bought 40,000 acres of water rights from a subsidiary of an electric utility that had, in the 1970s, gathered water rights in Roberts County for use in a nuclear power plant. The plan for the power plant was shelved, and the utility sold part of their water rights to CRMWA.

The water authority was granted a permit by the water conservation district to pump one acre-foot of water annually for each acre of water rights they held. John Williams, general manager of CRMWA, said the water from the Roberts County

Lt. Governor urges delay of deregulation of electricity providers in parts of Texas

BEAUMONT (AP) — A lack of competition among electricity providers in Southeast and East Texas has prompted Acting Lt. Governor Bill Ratliff to urge state utility regulators to delay electric deregulation in those areas.

In a letter to Public Utility Commission Chairman Max Yzaguirre this week, Ratliff said customers could pay more if no other electric providers step in. The regions are currently served by Entergy Corp.

Statewide deregulation is scheduled to begin Jan. 1 following a limited pilot program. However, so far, no competing retail providers have signed potential customers in Southeast and East Texas.

Ratliff's spokesman, Nick Vonnis, said a legislative oversight committee will review the deregulation situation in Southeast and East Texas when it meets Friday in Austin.

Ratliff strongly recommended delaying the onset of competition, citing the fact that the areas are served by utilities whose transmission is supervised by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission because of the involvement of interstate high-voltage lines.

That transmission of electricity does not connect with the rest of the state's electric grid. As a result, it is less possible for retail providers to shop for the most competitively priced electric power.

Grand jury subpoenas groups' records

RICHARDSON (AP) — A federal grand jury has subpoenaed all records from two Palestinian organizations pertaining to their business with an Internet company being searched by an anti-terrorism task force, representatives from the two organizations said Thursday.

Rafeeq Jaber, national president of the Islamic Association for Palestine, and Dalel Mohamed, communications director of the Holy Land Foundation for Relief and Development, said their Richardson-based organizations were served with papers on Wednesday after the federal terrorism task force began a search at the Richardson headquarters of InfoCom Corp.

An attorney for the Holy Land Foundation said it was given until Oct. 6 to comply.

Mark Enoch, an attorney for InfoCom whose firm has also represented Holy Land Foundation, said federal agents will not find any evidence of criminal activity in their search.

"If they think they're going to find that InfoCom is somehow associated with terrorism, they're wrong. It's not," Enoch told The Dallas Morning News in Friday's editions.

Paul Coggins, former U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Texas, said the subpoenas signal that the grand jury wants the records as part of an ongoing investigation.

Federal agents have said the InfoCom search is part of a two-year investigation, but they have declined to state a motive for the raid or what is being sought.

Republicans pressing Gramm to exit early, pave way for U.S. Rep. Henry Bonilla

HOUSTON (AP) — Republicans eager to ensure that a member of their party replaces veteran U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm are joining the call for him to resign early, allowing Texas Gov. Rick Perry to appoint a Hispanic member of Congress to the seat.

The latest to join the call is prominent GOP consultant Lionel Sosa of San Antonio, who is also a member of the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents. Some believe that a pending vacancy in the administration at the campus where Gramm spent 13 years teaching economics could lure him away.

Sosa told the Houston Chronicle for its Friday editions that appointment of U.S. Rep. Henry Bonilla would help the Texas GOP make important inroads among Hispanic voters.

Score dispute puts 20 on Lanier cheer squad

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Lanier High School cheerleading squad will grow double in size to 20 members after a dispute.

Lanier Principal Peggy Stark said the dispute centered on a difference in counting.

Michelle Hernandez, 17, along with her parents, Michael and Sandra Hernandez, see it differently. They said the girl tried out for cheerleader in April, with about 30 other students.

To try out, the school requires that candidates be members of the Blue Jackets pep squad for a year, the family contends, plus meet academic and other standards.

They said several candidates had waivers to try out. Stark said she had granted waivers to some candidates but could not go into specifics because of students' privacy.

Names in the News...

NEW YORK (AP) — Aaliyah fans showed their appreciation for the late singer in the record stores, pushing her record to No. 1 on the Hot 100 Billboard chart.

Aaliyah's self-titled third album sold 306,000 copies in the week after her death, according to Soundscan, which monitors record sales nationwide.

The album was already certified gold, but had sold only 62,000 copies in the week before she died, Soundscan said.

The 22-year-old singer and actress was killed Aug. 25 when a small plane carrying her and eight others plunged shortly after take-off. There were no survivors.

She was heading to Miami from the Bahamas, where she had been filming a video.

LONDON (AP) — Thirteen drawings by John Lennon went on public display for the first time as part of a new exhibition to highlight the former Beatle's artistic talent.

The sketches, on loan by Lennon's widow, Yoko Ono, are part of a larger display at a London gallery of 150 images created by Lennon between 1968 and 1980.

"The pictures show John's love for his family and attitude toward everyday life," said exhibition organizer Jonathan Poole. "They are amusing. They are meant to be funny and they shouldn't be taken too seriously."

The exhibition's main attraction is a sketch, "Multiple Self Portrait," which is made up of tiny line drawings. Other sketches show Lennon and his wife's famous "bed-in" when they spent a week in bed in 1969 in a public appeal for world harmony.

Another sketch, "I'm One of Your Biggest Fans," depicts Lennon chatting to a female fan on a New York street. It was drawn a year before Lennon was fatally shot outside his New York City apartment in 1980.

A selection of colorful children's pictures that Lennon drew for his son Sean are also on display.

Weather focus

PAMPA — This afternoon, partly sunny. A 40 percent chance of thunderstorms. Highs may reach 85 then temperatures are expected to drop to the mid 70s by late afternoon. Southwest wind 15 to 25 mph becoming northwest. Caution advised on area lakes. Tonight, cloudy with a 50 percent chance for thunderstorms. Some storms producing large hail and damaging winds early. Lows in the mid 50s. Northeast winds 10 to 15 mph. Saturday, partly cloudy. A 30 percent chance of showers or thunderstorms. Highs in the lower 70s. Northeast winds 10 to 20 mph. Saturday night, partly cloudy. Lows in the lower 50s.

STATEWIDE — An

approaching cool front and low-pressure system Friday could set up a rainy weekend for parts of the state.

Some showers were reported late Thursday in the South Plains.

Early-morning temperatures ranged from the upper 60s in the Panhandle and Davis Mountains to 70s in North Texas and lower 80s around El Paso.

Winds were mostly southerly at 10 to 20 mph, except for a north wind at 10 to 20 mph in the northern Panhandle and gusty southwest conditions between 20 and 30 mph across the Guadalupe Mountains and the far west.

In North Texas, southerly gusts above 20 mph were pushing low clouds from the Gulf coast and far south into the region. Low clouds also covered the Hill Country.

Elsewhere across the state, skies were clear to partly cloudy.

The developing low-pressure system over western Kansas was causing gusty conditions in North Texas.

A chance of showers or thunderstorms was forecast in Northwest and North Texas. The National Weather Service predicted a slight risk of severe storms in northern regions through Sunday.

It should be windy with increasing cloudiness and daytime highs in the upper 80s to mid-90s, except for near 100 along the Rio Grande.

Lows overnight were expected to reach the 70s.

RABIES

"Rabies kills humans," he said. "If you see a skunk out in the daytime, you can bet it has rabies."

About 20 years ago there was an outbreak of rabies in skunks in Texas, he said. The skunk population has been building during the past two decades, he said, and it is higher than ever. "Skunks transmit rabies," he said, "and they give it to domestic animals."

He explained that if a rabid skunk bites a cat or dog, which hasn't been vaccinated, the animal will get it.

"Then the animal can go to their owners, or other humans, and infect them," he said.

Faries said communities need to have several rabies drives several times a year to stop the spread of the disease. "This is serious," said Faries. "One drive a year isn't going to do the job."

He said it is a state law that veterinarians must give the vaccinations, and that animals three months and older must have it or they can be infected.

Faries urged anyone who sees a suspicious skunk to notify the county health officer or local animal control, emphasizing that the animals should be tested to stop the spread of the disease. He said anyone finding a suspicious animal should always have gloves on before handling it as rabies is transmitted by saliva.

He also said bats, foxes and coyotes have been high risk for rabies. He said squirrels are low-risk on rabies.

Dr. James Alexander, Zoonosis veterinarian with Texas Department of Health in Canyon, said last week he expects the number of rabid skunks to increase through the fall. He also said rabid skunk cases will likely develop in areas adjacent to counties where cases have already been confirmed.

LAGOONS

Auvermann explained to the group the lagoons used in hog operations and other Confined Animal Feeding Operations (CAFOs), as well as in the oil and gas industry, are regulated by the state of Texas.

He said the state regulates the construction of the lagoons as well as the operation procedures.

Possible seepage from lagoons, drying hog waste method and number of lagoons needed in a swine operation were among the issues he addressed during the meeting.

Auvermann said he could not guarantee there wouldn't be seepage with a lagoon. Many residents were concerned about the contamination of the groundwater in the area. He said it would take between 2,500 and 3,000 years for the seepage to reach the Ogallala Aquifer, saying it would travel downward about one foot a year.

Local resident Jim Greene said he had been told if the depth was 270 ft. that it would only take 90 days for the seepage to reach the Ogallala Aquifer.

Possible erosion of the clay liner lining the lagoon was a concern to several residents at the meeting. Auvermann said erosion is a concern, but the regulations of the TNRC protected many such issues in the lagoon process.

"There is no hard and fast rule of the number of lagoons needed in a hog operation," said Auvermann.

The method of drying hog waste in comparison to having lagoons to handle the hog waste has been suggested by several area residents attending the numerous meetings regarding the swine facility. Reportedly, facilities in Illinois have implemented the drying method instead of the lagoon method of waste handling.

Auvermann said that hog waste is 75-80 percent liquid, and studies have indicated it costs too much to have the drying method. He said the urine from the animals soaks into the ground.

He said the cattle-feedlots in the area do not have to have lagoons because the cattle are outside and the waste dries outside. He said the average feedlot has approximately 40,000 head.

Auvermann discussed the construction of the lagoons and explained that sludge, treatment volume, temperature storage, rainfall and freeboard are all considered in the construction of lagoons.

He also said the 3,700 sows will average slightly over two litters a year and that the size of the lagoons will be built to handle the expected largest capacity of the facility.

WATER

well field will be mixed with water from Lake Meredith, a reservoir built in the 1960s on the Canadian River, to improve both the quantity and quality of water for the authority's member cities.

Soon after CRMWA bought water rights in Roberts County, Amarillo, which is also a member of CRMWA, bought about 72,000 acres of water rights in the county and was granted a permit to pump one acre-foot per year for each acre it held. Amarillo, however, agreed not to begin pumping for another 25 years.

Pickens also wants a permit to pump one acre-foot of water per year per acre held.

Mesa has accumulated about 150,000 acres of water rights.

In February, the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District board tabled Mesa's applications for administrative reasons, saying the applications were incomplete because, among other things, Mesa did not indicate who the end user of the water would be or whether the end users had a conservation plan as required by district rules.

Pickens argued that buyers will not talk to him unless he can assure them that Mesa has the necessary permits to produce the water.

Following months of negotiations with Mesa, the water district staff drafted a conditional permit designed to allow Pickens to move forward in his quest for a buyer.

This summer, however, CRMWA asked for a contested permit hearing, saying that while they did not necessarily oppose Mesa's permit, they wanted more information about Mesa's pumping plans so they could evaluate whether CRMWA's well field might be depleted by Mesa.

Judge Forbis, a practicing attorney from Childress for 35 years before spending 16 years as a state district judge and senior judge, was appointed hearing officer. It will be his duty to determine the facts of the case and conclusions of law and make a recommendation to the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District board.

Another group which has been accumulating water rights with a plan to sell them had asked to be a party in the hearing as have two other families, but there were not present Thursday at the preliminary hearing.

Walter and Marie Killebrew, who ranch in Roberts County, were present and asked to join CRMWA in protesting Mesa's permit. Mary Sahs, an Austin attorney representing the Killebrews, says the couple is worried that Mesa's plans will reduce the water beneath their ranch which has been in their family for more than a century.

Forbis said he will rule on who may be a party to the hearing this month. He tentatively set Jan. 14 to begin a hearing on the permit. Lawyers involved in the case say they expect the process to take from one to two weeks.

Judge puts halt to administration's prescription drug discount card

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House on Friday denounced a judge's decision to temporarily halt a Bush administration plan to promote private prescription drug discount cards under Medicare.

The injunction, filed Thursday by U.S. District Court Judge Paul Friedman, will prevent the program from starting for several months. Drugstore chains filed a lawsuit in July, arguing the plan was "clandestine and unlawful" because federal officials don't plan to pay for the discounts. They also argue the plan doesn't clearly outline who must subsidize the lower prices.

White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said President Bush was disappointed by the decision and the administration was reviewing its legal options.

"The court very well may be wrong. That's why you have lawyers," Fleischer said.

House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., after meeting with President Bush at the White House, said the ruling was not a problem because Bush's plan would not have helped the elderly anyhow. "I've never been impressed with that plan as being anything substantial," Gephardt said.

Bush wants to encourage all older Americans to use the cards, now commonly sold by private companies, by giving some of the cards what amounts to a government seal of approval. The cards can lead to discounts of up to 10 percent on some drugs, company officials say.

Tom Scully, the Medicare official overseeing the plan, said the administration would consider contesting the injunction.

"We are disappointed in the injunction because it will delay the administration's efforts to provide immediate and necessary relief to the millions of Americans who are forced to pay full price for their prescription drugs," Scully said. "The decision intensifies the need for Congress to act quickly on the president's proposals for Medicare reform, including a prescription drug benefit."

Craig Fuller, president of the National Association of Chain Drug Stores, said the drug program would only provide false hope to seniors.

"In this program it's unclear what the savings would be and who would really pay the cost of selling drugs at a discount," Fuller said. "We believe strongly that the nation's seniors need a true prescription drug benefit but we have consistently argued that the drug discount card does not provide any meaningful benefit."

Medicare officials have said the government would not pay for the cost of medicines, nor negotiate prices with drug makers.

Enrollees would be offered a selection of cards from companies that join the government program and meet certain standards, such as offering widely used medicines, senior administration officials have said. The cards would cost $25 for one-time enrollment; discount amounts would be up to the company, not the government.

About 28 drug companies have told federal health officials they would like to take part in the program.

The government had planned to announce which companies' cards had been selected this month.

Prosecutors won't seek third death penalty trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A handyman convicted of strangling two women, including an actress who appeared as Janet Leigh's body double in Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho," will face life in prison after two juries failed to reach a verdict on the death penalty.

Prosecutors will not seek a third death penalty trial because they believe the outcome would be the same, a district attorney's spokesman said.

Kenneth Dean Hunt, 35, faces life in prison without the possibility of parole when he is sentenced in Superior Court on Nov. 6.

Q Many of the struggles of the teen years are attributed to hormones. If that explanation is accurate, then what implications does it have for parents of early adolescents?

A First, understanding this glandular upheaval makes it easier to tolerate and cope with the emotional reverberations that are occurring. For several years, some kids are not entirely rational!

Just as a severely menopausal woman may accuse her innocent and bewildered husband of infidelity, a hormonally depressed teen-ager may not interpret his world accurately either. His social judgment is impaired. Therefore, parents shouldn't despair when it looks like everything they have tried to teach their kid seems to have been forgotten. He is going through a metamorphosis that has turned everything upside down. But stick around. He'll get his legs under him again.

I strongly recommend that parents of strong-willed and rebellious females, especially, quietly keep track of the particulars of her menstrual cycle. Not only should you record when her period begins and ends each month, but also make a comment or two each day about her mood. I think you will see that the emotional blow-ups that tear the family apart are cyclical in nature. Premenstrual tension at that age can produce a flurry of skirmishes every 28 days. If you know they are coming, you can retreat to the storm cellar when the wind begins to blow.

You can also use this record to teach your girls about premenstrual syndrome and how to cope with it. Unfortunately, many parents never seem to notice the regularity and predictability of severe conflict with their daughters.

Q How about adolescent boys? Do they have a hormonal cycle too?

A Their emotions and behavior are certainly driven by hormones. Everything from sexual passion to aggressiveness is motivated by the new chemicals that surge through their veins. There is, however, no cyclical fluctuation that parallels a menstrual calendar in girls. As a result, they can be more volatile and less predictable throughout the month than their female counterparts.

Q It is commonly understood that peer pressure causes teen-agers to begin smoking or using drugs. Is that what really motivates them to pick up dangerous habits?

A That precise question was the subject of a recent survey. The researchers studied more than 16,000 school children in Orange County, California. They found that it is family members, not classmates or teachers, who have the biggest influence on whether children use drugs, alcohol or tobacco. If teen-agers feel that their parents or siblings approve of smoking, they are likely to follow suit. And if there is one person who can convince them not to participate, it is usually a member of their own family.

Many parents feel that this is an area that can be left to the schools, and they neglect to talk about it at home. But this study and others have shown that it is family pressure, not peer pressure, that has the greatest effect on children. Another finding to come out of the investigation is that children are still dangerously unaware of the hazards of smoking. Obviously, the anti-smoking advertising campaign has not reached their tender ears.

As with other messages we want our children to hear, the responsibility to communicate them lies with parents. Talk to your sons and daughters when they are young about the dangers of cigarette smoking. Tell them you don't approve of the habit. Discuss the health hazards, including the risk of cancer and lung disease. And offer them professional help in quitting if they've already started. Warn them repeatedly about drug abuse and what it can do to the body. Parents can make a difference in avoiding addictive behavior in their children if they take the time to teach them.

Let's Talk Real Estate

by Jim Davidson
 Realtor
 MORE THAN HOLDING YOUR OWN

While many investors are understandably dismayed with the performance of their stock portfolios over the past year, homeowners have reason to be cheered. Home prices across the country continue to appreciate steadily. According to one estimate, the median home price will rise 4% this year to $144,000, that forecast sits atop last year's 4.9% gain, or $6,500. Over the past five years, the median home price has risen 25.8%, or $28,500. As interest rates drop, putting homes within reach of a greater number of buyers, demand increases. With housing inventories standing at less than half the levels that existed a decade ago, there is good reason to believe sellers will get their asking prices and home prices will remain strong.

Forty-eight Calvary Baptist Church teenagers and adult sponsors traveled to Alexandria, La., recently for their annual Youth Mission Trip. The groups led four Vacation Bible Schools in public settings and a revival each evening at Alpine Baptist Church. The group, under the direction of youth minister Rick Pearson, also led worship services in Dallas area churches and various other churches along the way. Highland Baptist Church will celebrate its 50th anniversary Sept. 8-9. The theme of the celebration will be "Highland Yesterday, Highland Today, Highland Tomorrow." Festivities will begin with registration Saturday afternoon followed the next day by Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. All current and former members are encouraged to attend. For more information, contact the church at 669-6509.

Richard Bartel, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, 900 E. 23rd, will be focusing on the problem of fear. In upcoming "Wrestling with Fear" sermons, Bartel will try to answer the following questions: "What are the reasons we fear so many things?" "Is all fear bad?" "If we know God better, will our fears be less?" "Does scripture offer help in overcoming fears?"

and "What steps can I take to overcome my fears?" These and other questions will be addressed during Sunday morning worship services which begin at 10 a.m.

First Baptist Church Youth Ministry of Pampa is sponsoring "BLITZ 2001," Sept. 21-23, for students in 6th through 12th grades.

The weekend of events features Neil McClendon, Jason Craft, Billy Bob White and Brett Mills and a 6-on-6 football tournament.

"Wanna be a Pampa Harvester? Then come to Blitz 2001. Don't miss out on what could be the greatest weekend of your life," said Sterling Edwards, youth pastor. "There is no cost. It's 100 percent free!"

BLITZ 2001 is based on John 4:36, a play on the local high school team mascot: "The Harvesters are paid good wages, and the fruit they harvest is people brought to eternal life. What joy awaits both the planter and the Harvester alike."

TREASURE HUNTER

Mel Fisher was apparently so fascinated with looking for treasure, that he left his poultry farm in Hobart, Ind., to follow his dream of being an underwater fortune hunter. Forming Treasure Salvagers, Inc., he set up shop in Key West, Fla. And there he began his underwater search for fortune.

His big discovery came on July 30, 1985, about 40-miles west of Key West. He and his crew discovered the sunken Spanish galleon Nuestra Senora de Atochoa, which had been sunk during a hurricane in 1622. It was carrying gold and other treasures back to Spain. This was a major historical find and it is estimated that the booty is worth upwards of $400 million.

We tend to think that such things simply happen. But, on reading further the Time magazine account, we learn that Mel Fisher spent 17 years searching for the sunken Atochoa. For 10 of those years, he carried on a running battle with the state of Florida and the federal government about who would have ownership of the sunken wreck if he did find it. In 1982, he won a favorable Supreme Court ruling.

But, tragedy also marked those 17 long years. Ten years earlier, almost to the very day of his discovery, his oldest son, his son's wife, and another company diver had been drowned when their salvage ship capsized in a raging storm. It was a severe loss and setback to his plans.

This is the kind of success story that gives us an opportunity to pause and think. We don't need to read between the lines to recognize the sacrifice in going for 17 fruitless years. Here's a man who by his single-minded determination kept a crew and company going when all looked bleak.

Does a man like Fisher, a man of determination, optimism, vision and perseverance in the face of disappointment and defeat, challenge you? Perhaps not for treasure in this life, you say. But there are rewards in the next life for persistence in this one. As followers of Jesus Christ, we will have times when it is only our determination that keeps us living for Him. We may feel like giving it all up; keeping the final treasure in mind helps. One of these days we will experience victory and reward, that's certain!

Harmony Music Outreach will present a "Fall Gospel Jubilee" at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 15 in the auditorium of Pampa High School. Entertainers will include: The Smith Family, Brenda Miller, Pat Wright, Paul Searl, Johnny and Cindy Platt, Chelsea Taylor, Jimmie Dickson and North Fork Band. The concert is free.

Bisexual Husband Says Some Secrets Need Not Be Shared

DEAR ABBY: I am intrigued by women who find phone numbers in their husband's pockets or wonder why they are out late. My advice: Unless you think you're in danger of losing your husband, leave well enough alone.

I have been a happily married man for more than 25 years. For the last 10 years, I have had a male lover who is also married. Neither of us intends to leave our families. What would my wife gain if she happened to stumble on this? She would destroy her life, my life, our kids' lives, my lover's life, his family's lives — and nothing would be gained.

BISEXUAL IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR "BI": While we all know that some marriages are "arrangements," those kinds of relationships should be entered into with everyone's eyes wide open. Secrets of the kind you have described are not healthy for partnerships.

You ask what your wife would gain if she were to learn the truth? She would gain the ability to decide for herself if she wants to spend the rest of her life sharing her husband with another person, rather than having the decision made for her. Whether her answer is yes or no, she would be making an informed choice. She deserves the right to do so.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to thank my father-in-law for all of the lessons he's taught my husband.

Thank you for abandoning your girlfriend and newborn son 28 years ago. It has taught him to be a consi-entous father to our children. Thank you for leaving them in poverty. It taught him to work hard for the things he truly wants.

Thank you for never taking him fishing or hunting. It taught him to spend quality time with our daughters.

Thank you for returning to their lives when he was 17, only to cheat on his mother four years later. It has made our marriage stronger.

Thank you for visiting us three or four times in the past seven years. It taught him to appreciate his mother more.

Finally, thank you for never being a role model. It has taught my husband to be a better man.

GRATEFUL WIFE
IN MINNESOTA

DEAR GRATEFUL WIFE: Although the lessons your father-in-law taught your husband may have been inadvertent, it appears your mate took the negatives of his fragmented relationship with his father and turned them into positives. Your open letter demonstrates the lasting effect of examples we set by our behavior.

DEAR ABBY: I had a thought after reading the letter from "Feeling Alone in the Office." He complained about his co-worker, "Maury," who can't seem to stop talking to his office mates and customers. It is possible that Maury is an adult with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). If he has ADHD, it would explain why he has trouble controlling his behavior.

If "Feeling Alone" works for a company with medical benefits or an employee assistance plan, perhaps Maury could be evaluated and get some real help.

PARENT OF A CHILD WITH ADHD

DEAR PARENT: That the man could be an adult with ADHD never occurred to me. It is also possible that he is simply a compulsive talker. Whatever the cause, I agree it wouldn't hurt for him to be evaluated, if he is open to it.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Barry Bonds became the fifth player in baseball history to hit 60 home runs in a season, connecting in the second inning of San Francisco's game against Arizona.

Bonds hit the milestone homer off Albie Lopez on a 2-2 count, and the sellout crowd at Pacific Bell Park jumped up as it sailed over the right-field wall. Jeff Kent, who had been waiting on deck, high-fived a smiling Bonds as he crossed home plate.

Big 12 gets in full swing

DALLAS (AP) — The rest of the Big 12 finally joins the party this weekend.

No. 12 Kansas State, Baylor, Iowa State and Texas Tech play their belated season opener Saturday. It is the first week, and the only one outside of head-to-head play, when all of the league's teams are in action.

Kansas State plays its toughest opener in coach Bill Snyder's 13 seasons with a trip to Southern California, a team the Wildcats have never played. Snyder is going for his 100th victory at K-State.

Baylor, Iowa State and Texas Tech all open at home. The Bears play Arkansas State; Iowa State plays Northern Iowa; and Texas Tech takes on New Mexico.

In the other games Saturday involving Big 12 teams, third-ranked Oklahoma (2-0) plays North Texas; fourth-ranked Texas (1-0) is home against North Carolina; fifth-ranked Nebraska (2-0) takes on No. 17 Notre Dame; Kansas (1-0) plays No. 14 UCLA; Colorado (1-1) plays San Jose State; Missouri (0-1) plays Southwest Texas; and Oklahoma State (0-1) plays Louisiana Tech.

Texas A&M (2-0) got the Big 12 weekend off to an early start with a 28-20 victory at Wyoming on Thursday night.

Nebraska won 24-21 at Notre Dame last season, but is still hoping for a different kind of return this year. The Irish had more than 300 return yards in last year's game, including a 100-yard kickoff return and 83-yard punt return for touchdowns.

The Cornhuskers have won 15 straight home games. Notre Dame is playing its season opener.

Mack Brown is in his fourth season at Texas after spending the previous 10 years at North Carolina (0-2), which opened its season with a 41-27 loss at Oklahoma after falling behind 41-7 by halftime.

PAMPA — Pampa defeated Lubbock Estacado 24-8 in junior varsity action Thursday night at Harvester Stadium.

Dannie Meza scored three touchdowns, two on offense and one while playing defense.

Pampa JV scored 24 unanswered points after being down 8-0 at halftime.

"Our offensive line did a great job. Mac Smith and Tyrel Bolin both had good games," said Pampa coach John True.

Lubbock Estacado.

The Harvester defenders showed up at Thursday's practice sporting bald heads gleaming in the afternoon sun.

"We just all wanted to do something to make us look the same, so we decided to shave our heads," said Ryan Nash, a senior and starting cornerback.

Just who came up with the idea is a mystery.

"I think it was either (Orlando) Madrid or Nash who talked us into doing it. I'm not for sure," said defensive tackle Adam Parks. "I guess we all wanted to look like our coaches."

David Moody, Estacado's first-year coach, says his Matadors are making progress, although it's been slow at times.

"We're trying to get better. It just takes time to put a new system in place," Moody said. "And I understand it's going to take time."

Estacado held scrimmages a week ago with Hereford and Wichita Falls Rider.

"We looked pretty good in the scrimmage. We're just not quite together on everything yet," Moody said.

Moody is faced with turning the program around after identical 2-8 seasons by the Matadors. Last year, Estacado suffered a 31-9 loss to Pampa. It was Pampa's third straight win over Estacado.

"Coach (Dennis) Cavalier always does a good job with his team," Moody added.

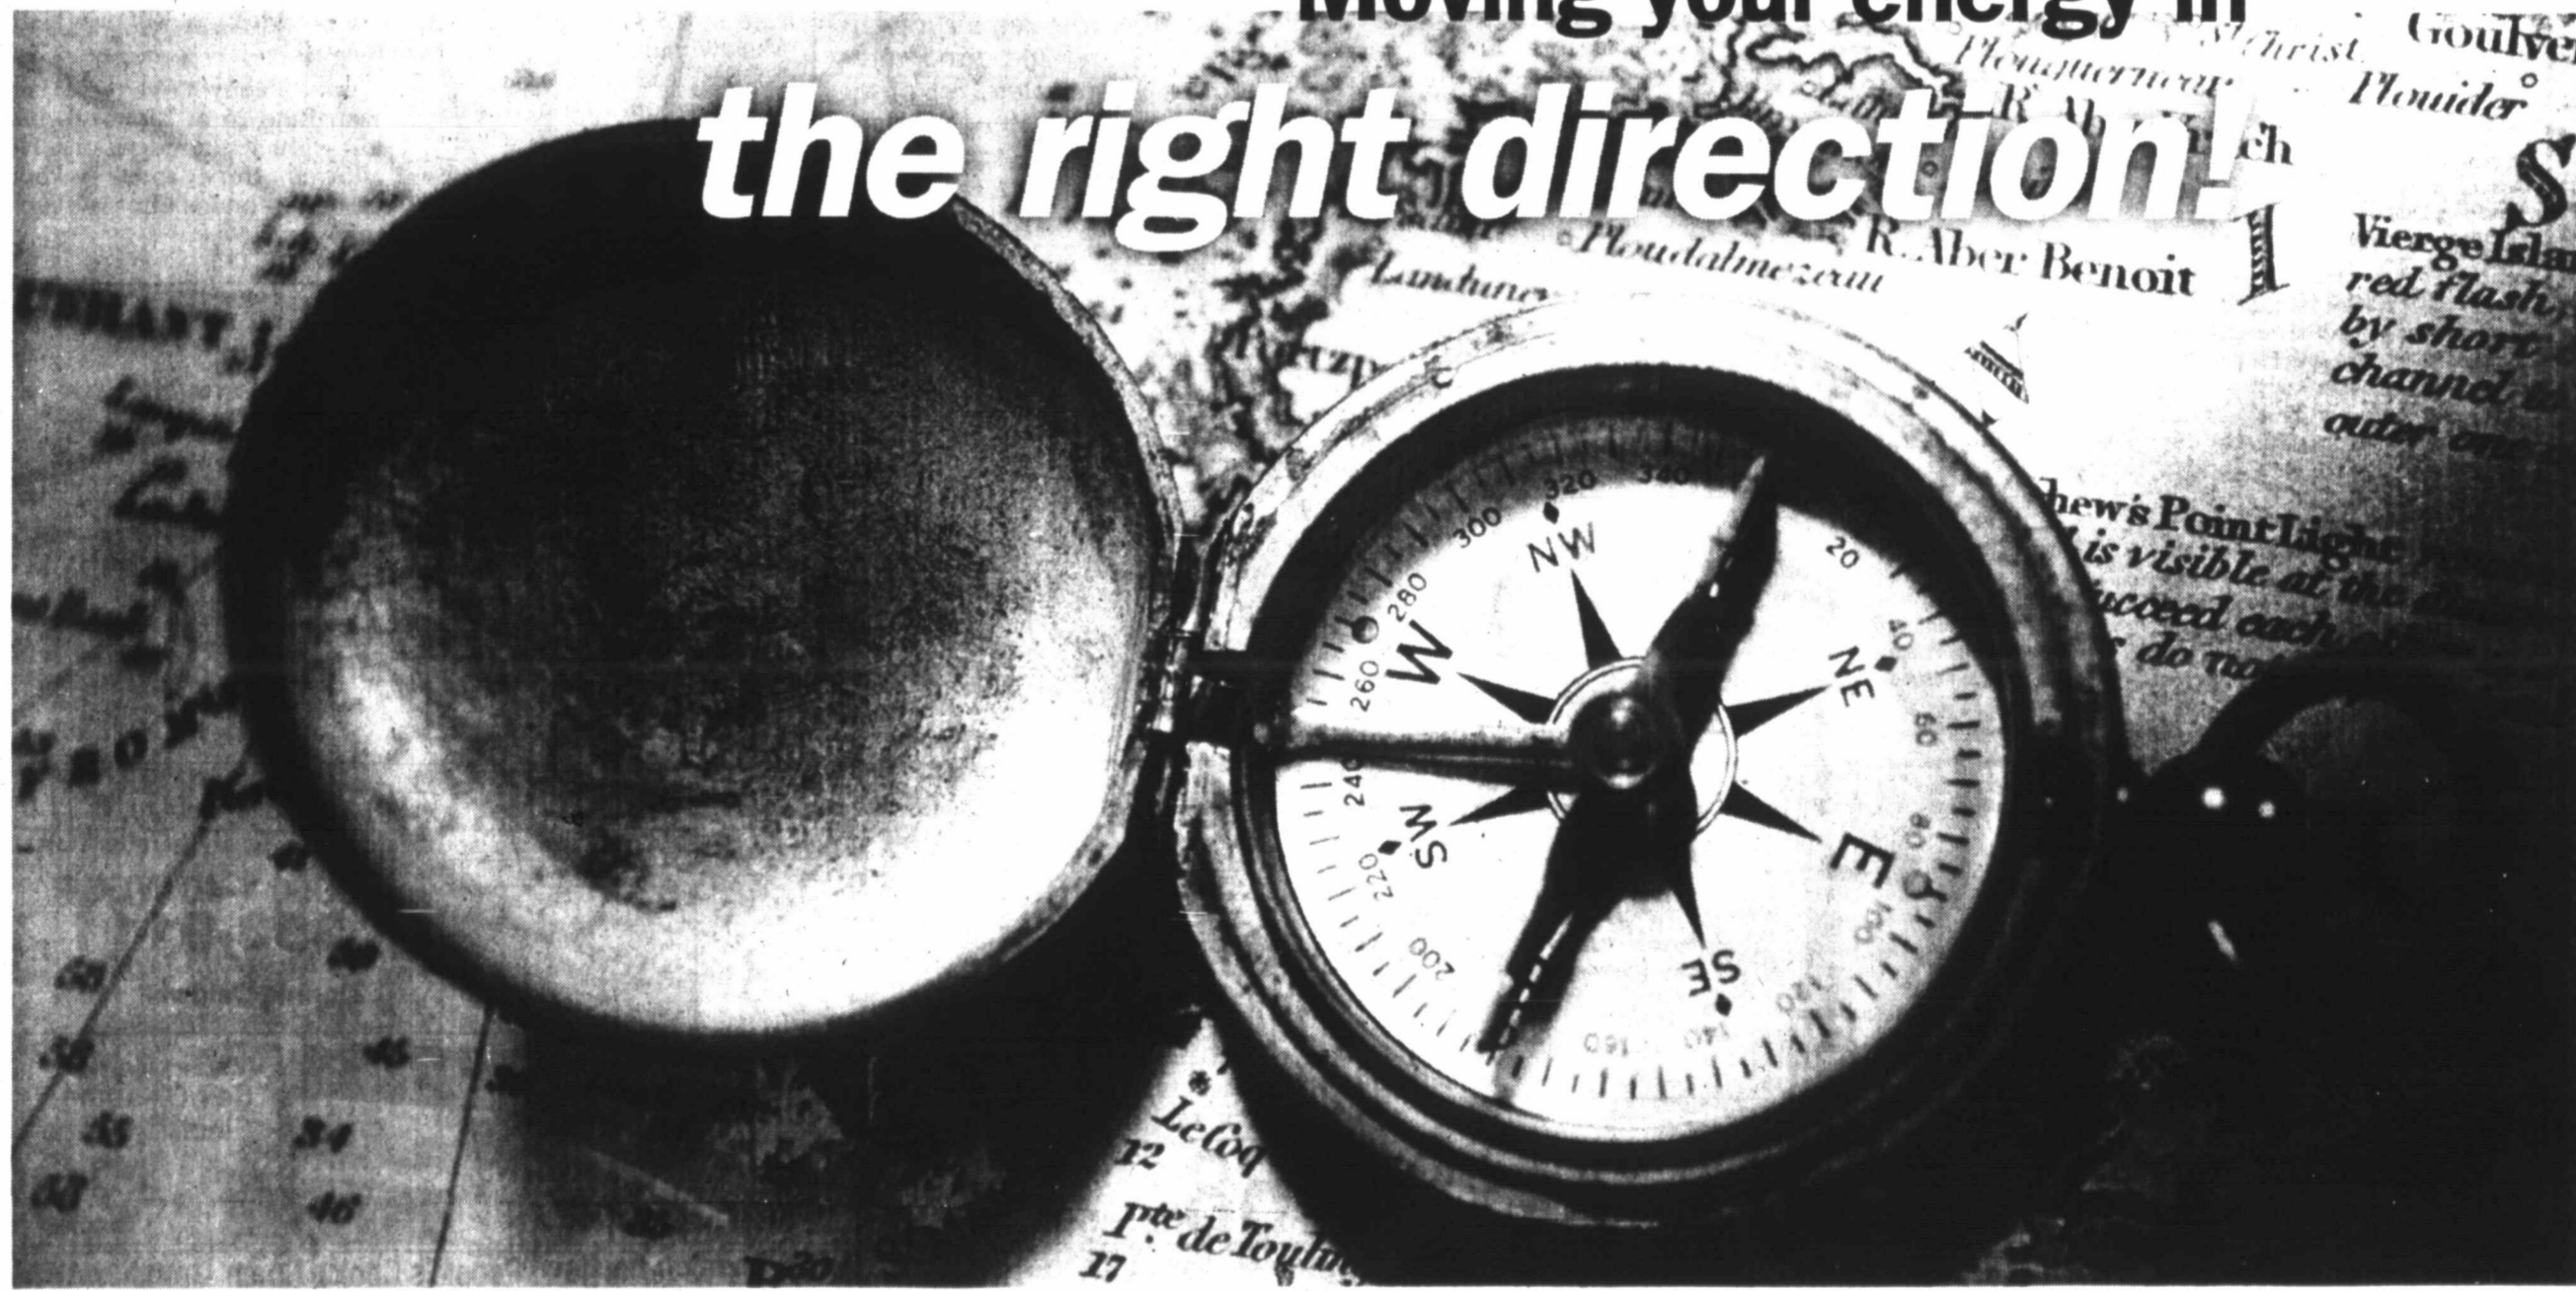

Tonight's non-district tilt kicks off at 7:30 at Lubbock's Lowry Field.

It will be Estacado's 2001 opener. Pampa kicked off the season last weekend by blanking Dalhart 14-0.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

***** Stop walking on eggshells with someone close to you. Invite others to join you for brunch or a fun activity. A partner, although concerned, chooses to open up late in the day. Discussions range from politics to jokes. Anything goes right now. Tonight: Talk until the wee hours with a loved one.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

***** You have weighed the pros and cons of a purchase nearly endlessly. Consider how much time you might have wasted on this topic. Why not just do it, and let your mind relax? Be more in touch with your professional or public image. Tonight: Don't cook. Go out.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

***** You float through the day, thinking about an upcoming trip or adventure. Start planning now. A call to an in-law or someone at a distance makes everyone smile. Sometimes you get so involved in your ideas that you forget the little touches. Tonight: Do what you want.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

***** Take some time off from friends, family and demands. Vanish to a favorite spot and curl up with the cat, dog or person who most encourages you to relax. Once your mind and body renew, reappear. Tonight: Light candles, soak in a

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

***** Hop in your car and visit a favorite scenic area. Explore a museum or flea market. Get away from it all and relax. You grasp what might be ailing a loved one with more emotional distance. Tonight: Treat yourself and others to a new restaurant.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

***** Working with a beloved partner or relative loosens up communication. Both of you take a lot for granted. Spend time together, and share and discuss recent events. Reveal the soft, cuddly person within. Tonight: Anything goes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

***** You venture out, greeting new possibilities with a big smile. News delights the adventuresome Winged Horse. Meeting new people and catching up with old friends occupy a good part of the day. Feel inspired by being spontaneous. Tonight: Say yes to living.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

***** Relax with a child or loved one with whom you can be the real you. Allow more joyousness and silliness into your life. Not everything has to be logical, as you will know. Be a kid again! Others want to play, too! Tonight: Don't worry about tomorrow. Be in the here & now.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

***** Water holds unusual symbolism to the Fish. If you don't have water near your home, consider purchasing a fountain. Relax to sounds of trickling water.
