Report: Plants emit high carcinogen levels

TEXAS CITY (AP) — At least two Southeast Texas industries in a petrochemical refining area have reportedly been releasing a known carcinogen at more than three times the government-approved level for five years.

An internal state memo obtained by the Texas City Sun for Tuesday's editions identified the excessive releases of benzene from BP, formerly known as BP Amoco or Amoco Oil, at two different sites, including south of the BP Chemical plant and at Marathon Ashland Petroleum Corp.

The TNRCC completed a five-year study of the air surrounding Texas City plants in November.

'The Panhandle Team' makes campaign visit

State Rep. Warren Chisum of Pampa said when the legislature is in session the group gets together each Thursday morning for breakfast to discuss rural Panhandle issues.

Panhandle lawmakers took to the road Monday morning announcing their intention to seek re-election to the Texas House of Representatives and Senate.

State Representative Warren Chisum of Pampa was joined by Reps. John Smith of Amarillo and David Swinford of Dumas as well as Sens. Teel Bivins of Amarillo and Robert Duncan of Lubbock in stating the Panhandle delegation will seek re-election to their offices in the November, 2002 election.

Aboard the chartered bus named "The Panhandle Team", the group began their tour across the Texas Panhandle in Amarillo traveling to Panhandle, Pampa, Dumas, Dalhart, Hereford and Canyon.

A large delegation of Panhandle supporters and civic leaders accompanied the lawmakers on the day-long tour of the Panhandle, including Russell Long, president of West Texas A&M in Canyon.

Each of the incumbent office holders emphasized team work among the Panhandle lawmakers.

Chisum said when the legislature is in session the group gets together each Thursday morning for breakfast to discuss rural Panhandle issues.

Redistricting the Panhandle legislative districts could reduce the political influence the group will have in Austin, but the legislators are determined to band together to take care of the Panhandle and its residents in legislative affairs.

Bivins told the group Pampa and Gray County had been part of his district for 80 years, but following the redistricting Sen. Duncan will be representing Gray County.

Bond hiked to $100,000

Safety for arrested man, citizens cited as reason

Wheeler County Sheriff Jimmy Adams confirmed that Cooper had been convicted of involuntary manslaughter and sentenced to seven years in prison in connection with the death of his wife in the mid-1980s. Adams said Cooper served about 18 months of the sentence.

Justice of the Peace Jce Martinez today cited safety for a man held on sexual assault charges and for the public to explain why he raised the man's bond from $15,000 to $100,000 Monday afternoon.

Martinez raised bond to $100,000 for Jerry Lee Cooper, 44, 320 S. Houston, charged with sexual assault-criminal solicitation of a child, after reviewing a motion presented to Justice of the Peace Court Precinct 2 by District Attorney Rick Roach.

"After I read the arguments the district attorney presented (in the motion), I deemed it necessary to raise the bond," he said. "It was (See BOND, Page 3)

Guardsmen get call to mobilize

About 24 Texas Army National Guard members who drill with the Pampa unit are in Amarillo undergoing processing and screening today after being called up for homeland defense.

Pampa's unit is Company B of the 142nd Infantry which is headquartered in Amarillo. About half of the 24 live in Pampa.

Staff Sgt. John Worthington said "we spent all night calling people," who were to report this morning. Including those from Wellington, also a part of the Amarillo unit, the number of guardsmen called total about 60.

Being called up is Company A of the 2nd Battalion, 141st Infantry in Amarillo and Midland. Worthington said. Guardsmen from Pampa's company B are being transferred into Company A.

Major Mark Burkett of the Amarillo unit said "we are getting the paperwork ready to prepare them to leave. There will be about 130 individuals affected and they will come from Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, N.M., but primarily will be from the Texas Panhandle.

Vandals cause damage

Vandals who damaged a portable fire pump at Lake Meredith National Recreation Area may be in for more than they bargained for if they get caught.

Because the pump is fire-fighting equipment used to combat a dangerous threat to lives and property, its vandalism constitutes a felony in both state and federal courts, said Park Ranger Mike Smith. The violation is punishable by a year in prison and a $100,000 fine.

The pump had been pre-staged for prescribed burns scheduled to for the weekend between Sanford Dam and Fritch Fortress.

The vandals started the pump and left it running unattended. Once the pump had exhausted its 750-gallon water supply, it became overheated and was damaging.

"No way. I don't even like them!"
— Bob Douthit

"Yes. I've already got six or seven. I've earned mine. They're all for a reason."

A president who kept his promises

One hundred years ago, on Sept. 14, 1901, one of the greatest American presidents took the oath of office. When President William McKinley died at an assassin's hand, Theodore Roosevelt succeeded him. But "T.R." never would have been in that position had he not followed through on a different pledge three years earlier.

In 1898 Roosevelt, as assistant secretary of the Navy, had pushed hard for the United States to go to war against Spain. He had always said that he would not ask others to do what he would not do himself, but no one expected him to enlist when the war began. T.R. did, though, stating, "My power for good, whatever it may be, would be gone if I didn't try to live up to the doctrines I have tried to preach."

Few Washington officials approved of his logic. "I really think he is going mad," one said. Secretary of the Navy John D. Long noted in his diary that "every one" of Roosevelt's friends told him "he is acting like a fool." But Long also wondered what the result would be if T.R. "should accomplish some great thing and strike a very high mark."

That's exactly what happened: Roosevelt aimed high and struck high. He first gave several speeches asking Americans to enlist and follow him in a special unit that became known as the Rough Riders. Many did, and they followed him through training and then aboard ship to Cuba, one of the last remnants of the Spanish empire.

Marvin Olasky
 Syndicated columnist

On July 1, 1898, Roosevelt — on horse and an easy target for Spanish marksmen — led his enlistees up Kettle Hill east of Santiago. The fighting was hard. Mauser bullets killed men all around T.R., and many survivors wanted to retreat. But he shamed them into following by rasping at them, "Are you afraid to stand up when I am on horseback?"

A bullet grazed Roosevelt's elbow, but he shot back and led his men to take Kettle Hill. Then it was on to San Juan Hill about 700 yards away. T.R. gave the order to charge, and a New York Sun reporter told the story: "Bullets were raining down on them, and shot and shell from the batteries. ... Up they went in the face of death. ... Roosevelt was a hundred feet in the lead ... shouting for the men to follow him. ... Finally his horse was shot from under him. He charged up the hill afoot. At last the top of the hill was reached ... the position won."

Roosevelt's political elevation was instant. He returned home to New York just in time to be elected governor in 1898. One of T.R.'s sergeants, Buck Taylor, introduced him at campaign stops: "Ah want to talk to you about my colonel. He kept ev'ry promise he made to us, and he will to you. When he took us to Cuba he told us ... we might meet wounds and death and we done it, but he was thar in the midst of us. When it came to the great day he led us up San Juan Hill like sheep to the slaughter, and so he will lead you."

Democratic candidates were the ones who subsequently faced slaughter: Voters elected the Republican Roosevelt vice president in 1900 and re-elected him as president in 1904. But all that came about because T.R. had the moral certainty to be willing to practice what he preached.

How different that seems from everyday Washington, where words and actions are so frequently divorced. So here's to you, Teddy Roosevelt: On the 100th anniversary of your becoming president, a nation turns its lonely eyes to you.

Publisher's notebook

Just a thought ...

— L.W. McCall

It has come to my attention that some folks feel the newspaper is repressing the rights of the people of Pampa in an effort to control freedom of speech. This is not true!

It is the policy of The Pampa News to discontinue letters and columns regarding candidates or in this case — a petition — 30 days prior to an election.

This is a policy that has been in place for a number of years, and does not affect "hard news" or advertising.

During this period, we will not be able to accept letters regarding PEDC, the petition, or the NPD issue. As soon as the election is over, we will again accept letters on these subjects.

A con job is behind slavery reparations

Talk about reparations for slavery seems to be gaining steam, though I seriously doubt that even our Congress would be stupid enough to act on it.

There are, of course, no former slaves or any former slave owners. Black demagogues who are greedy for a free lunch seem to have had their appetites whetted by the success of Jews in getting money out of Germany. What these demagogues forget, however, is that the German money is going to actual victims, not to their descendants several generations removed.

Most of those yapping about slavery have never seen a cotton field, much less worked in one. I heard one loud-mouthed woman claim that blacks wanted "back pay." Back pay for what? She didn't look like she was 138 years old to me, and she definitely was not underfed.

It is also not true, as these would be rip-off artists are claiming, that slaves were not compensated for their labor. What do you call housing, food, clothing, tools and medical care? If you would care to consult the historical record, you will find that one of the criticisms made by Northern businessmen was that the slave owners were wasting their money by providing all of these benefits. Just pay them wages, the Yankee skinflints said, and let them buy everything else. Read the book "Time on the Cross," and you will see that slaves in North America fared pretty well in a material sense. You can also find in the oral histories of former slaves quite a few who looked back nostalgically on their slave days.

Charley Reese
 Syndicated columnist

That is not to provide any moral justification for slavery, but merely to point out the ignorance of those who, 138 years later, seek unjustified gains from it. Before yakking, learn something about that which one yaks about.

But there are many more problems with the reparations con job. First of all, Americans didn't enslave the Africans. Africans enslaved the Africans and sold them. I doubt America's race racketeers will get very far in convincing any African government to consider reparations.

Second, from the founding of the first colony and throughout the slave era, there were thousands of free blacks. The 1860 census lists 3,500 free blacks who owned slaves. There were more than 100,000 free blacks in the South during the slave era. Why should descendants of free blacks and of black slave owners receive any compensation for something they never were?

Third, why should descendants of people who came to this country after slavery was abolished be taxed for a long-past sin that they never participated in? Why should people who never benefited from slavery, much less approved of it or were even alive during it, be forced to pay people who were never harmed by slavery?

Fourth, since blacks did not emancipate themselves, why shouldn't they be taxed for the cost of their emancipation? And should they not be taxed further for the cost of black crime and black welfare payments?

As you can see, this subject opens up a bucket of worms best left sealed. American blacks need better leaders. They need to decide if they are Americans or outsiders. They need to decide if they are going to be an independent, self-reliant people, or if they are going to wallow in victimhood, living on the dole from the white "massa."

If I were black, I'd take one look at the miserable state of the African continent and thank God my ancestors were brought to North America as slaves. I damned sure don't see any long lines of blacks wanting to emigrate to Nigeria, or Angola, or the Congo, or Rwanda.

Engine Parts serves local customers

"We are a local company serving local businesses and local needs," said Merlie Moore, office manager of Engine Parts.

Engine Parts began in 1976. Owners of the original business were Henry McClelland and John McKinley. Both men had been in the parts business since the 1940s when they combined their knowledge of automotive parts and supplies.

McClelland has maintained his ownership of Engine Parts over the past 25 years. He is not as active in the business as he once was as he is now semi-retired.

In 1980; Howard Reed became a partner in the business. In addition to being co-owner, Reed works in outside sales.

Engine Parts moved into their present location at 416 W. Foster in 1982. John McKinley retired from Engine Parts in 1995 after 55 years in the automotive parts business.

"We have everything from engines to electric parts, exhausts, filters, accessories and chemicals," said Moore, who has been with the business for 22 years.

"We are a fullline auto parts store," she said. "We have some hardware items, too." She said many people don't realize the store also carries nuts, bolts, drills, drill bits, welding supplies and other hardware items.

The main business of the store consists of auto and truck parts and supplies. "We also provide light shop work," said Moore. "Turning drums and rotors, working on drive shafts, building battery cables and checking batteries and alternators are provided in the shop."

Moore said the home-owned, home-operated business has a delivery service for established accounts.

"We also service area towns such as White Deer, Canadian, McLean and Miami in addition to Pampa," she said.

Moore said the business is quite proud of its present and former employees.

"We have had a lot of people work for us through the years. Several have gone on to be extremely successful in other companies in the Pampa area," she said.

Tammie Maple, counter manager, is a member of the experienced parts store staff. She has been with the auto parts business for six years, and in the automotive business for 25 years. Patrick Passinni is experienced in all shop work. Karen Deanda works in counter sales while Willard Moore is in outside sales. Charlie Burke and Matt McComas are in shipping and receiving. McComas is a student at Pampa High as is Bonnie Holmes who works in the office. Both work part time. Becky Scoggins is employed as an office assistant and Laura Gray provides delivery service for the full parts store.

"We are a local company," said Moore. "We've been here 25 years and we're not going anywhere."

She invites all old customers and new customers as well to go by the Foster Street location for their parts needs. Engine Parts may be reached by calling 669-3305.

Engine Parts co-owners are Harold Reed and Henry McClelland Engine Parts co-owner Howard Reed assists a customer, Bill Lee, at the local automotive parts business.

Engine Parts staff welcome their customers and desire to provide professional assistance to their customers.

"We are a local company," said Moore. "We've been here 25 years and we're not going anywhere."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTES — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter stands for another. In this sample, A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3, 2001
BY JACQUELINE BIGAR
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ You're ready to stage a revolution, as your energy soars to its peak. Others step back and let you and your enthusiasm lead. You can complete with ease tasks that others couldn't normally do. A boss might not understand a fast quip. Tonight: Whatever makes the Ram happy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ Rather than always having to "yes" a boss, consider a route toward more independence — perhaps even a better work situation. Listen to your two cents. Explore options on the side; meanwhile, keep up with the heavy pace. Tonight: Confide in a friend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Others mean well. Tonight: Unexpected developments excite you as you jump on the bandwagon. See the possibilities rather than closing a door. Financial growth sometimes means you need to spend a little. Don't hesitate. Tonight: Treat a loved one to dinner.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Push comes to shove as others all want more from you. A change on the financial plane forces you to reconsider a situation. A boss points out the pros and cons, though only you can decide what feels right for you. Take a risk. Tonight: Invite a loved one out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ A friend tests your limits, whether intending to or not. Unexpected developments distract you from the real issues. Dig into work wholeheartedly. Do nothing halfway, including that diet or exercise program. A new acquaintance offers more than you realize. Tonight: Where the music is.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Understand what makes another tick, and you'll get professional results. You need to appeal to another's vulnerabilities sometimes. Cancel plans if need be so you can attend a key meeting. Tonight: Dinner for two.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Surprises lurk where you least expect them. Deal with a child or a creative project head-on. Your family stirs the pot. What kind of change is someone rooting for? Keep your eye on the big picture, even if this person can't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Whoever knew of a Scorpio who didn't speak out? Go off and do your own thing, but be willing to back up words with actions. Let go of a resistance to change and opt to create it. Make calls. Share great ideas with others. Tonight: Work late.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Watch a tendency to scatter your energy. Though you know what your plans are and where you are headed, you could confuse and startle others with your unexpected behavior. Don't toss money around, even if you are on the plus side. Tonight: Kick up your heels.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ Family remains your highest priority. Refuse to get caught up in issues that really have nothing to do with you. Buy a lottery ticket. A mini-risk could easily pay off. Curb your temper or pick your words with care. Someone stands up to you. Tonight: Play it calm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You still turn situations upside down whether you intend to or not. Be direct with a co-worker about a problem you're having. Your understanding grows. Emphasize what is positive in a work relationship. Use your energy to clear your desk. Tonight: At your favorite spot.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ You know what you want. Design a plan with others. You get positive feedback, but by all means encourage others to play devil's advocate. Rally around friends. Groups appeal to your sense of direction. Tonight: Treat yourself well.
