U.S. begins second wave of attacks Strikes follow successful campaign Sunday

By CALVIN WOODWARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States attacked terrorist targets inside Afghanistan from the air for the second night in a row Monday as President Bush vowed to bring "evildoers to justice."

Former Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Ridge reported for duty as head of the new Office of Homeland Security. A senior defense official in Washington, speaking on condition of anonymity, confirmed the new wave of attacks was under way. And halfway around the world, anti-aircraft fire could be heard in the Afghan capital of Kabul, electricity was cut and Taliban radio told residents to close the blinds on their windows and remain indoors.

The attack came almost precisely 24 hours after the opening of the conventional military campaign aimed at military targets and Osama bin Laden's terrorist training camps.

In an indication the United States might want to some day expand the military operation, a senior administration official said formal notification had been sent to the U.N. Security Council that counterterrorism attacks may be extended beyond Afghanistan.

A legal document sent Sunday to the council reaffirmed the attack on the Taliban was an act of self-defense under the U.N. charter and said the United States reserves the right to strike at terrorist cells beyond the South Asian country, according to the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

In a prelude to the night's military attacks, Bush presided over a swearing-in ceremony for Ridge.

"On all efforts, on all fronts, we're going to be ongoing and relentless as we tighten the net of justice" against terrorists, said the commander in chief.

He added that the United States is working "to not only protect ourselves but to bring the evildoers to justice."

That was a reference to those responsible for the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on New York and Washington that killed thousands.

Bush spoke at the White House after British Defense Secretary Geoff Hoon said 30 sites had been hit in Sunday's opening wave of U.S.-led attacks, including the military infrastructure of Afghanistan's Taliban regime and the bases of bin Laden and his al-Qaida terror network.

Adm. Sir Michael Boyce, chief of the British defense staff, said some of the camps may have been empty. Still, he said, "There is certainly merit in denying those camps further use. And that is what we have done."

Earlier, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said all planes returned safely to their far-flung bases following the

Commission may select two PEDC officials Tuesday

City Commissioners will go behind closed doors Tuesday afternoon to discuss two resignations from the board of the Pampa Economic Development Corporation as well as new appointments to the PEDC board.

Although PEDC Board President Richard Stowers and board member Joe Mullenax previously announced they are stepping down, their action does not become final until the City Commission formally accepts the resignations.

The Commission is set to meet for its work session at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall. That will be followed at 6 p.m. by the regular meeting. Both meetings are open to the public.

The closed door session is the last thing on a brief agenda which includes:

- First reading of Ordinance No. 1365 relative to backflow prevention
- Consider all matters incident and related to the issuance and sale of City of Pampa, Texas, tax and waterworks and sewer system surplus revenue certificates of obligation, series 2001, including the adoption of ordinances authorizing the issuance of such obligations and providing for the redemption of certain outstanding obligation of the City
- Consider the election official appointments for the Nov. 6 election on the issue of dissolving the PEDC.

Security measures on CRMWA agenda

PLAINVIEW — The Canadian River Municipal Water Authority will discuss security measures for their water supply and delivery system this week during their meeting in Plainview.

CRMWA board of directors will meet at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Plainview Country Club and Convention Center.

In addition to the deployment of security measures, the board will hear a status report on the alternate water supply project in Roberts County and consider adoption of a takings impact assessment.

CRMWA is expected to begin pumping underground water this fall from more than 40,000 acres of ranch land in Roberts and Hutchinson Counties. The water will be mixed with water from Lake Meredith to improve quality and quantity, according to John C. Williams, general manager of the water authority.

The well field was supposed to come online earlier this year, but pumping was delayed because of the lack of electrical power to the field.

The project is also involved in a lawsuit brought by Roberts County rancher and Dallas businessman T. Boone Pickens and several of his neighbors, operating as Mesa Water Inc. In their lawsuit, Mesa claims that the high volume pumping by CRMWA and the City of Amarillo, which also holds water rights and pumping permits in Roberts County, will damage them by depleting the water table beneath their ranches.

The board will also hear a status report on the authority's salinity control project in New Mexico.

CRMWA supplies water from Lake Meredith to 11 communities in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains, including Pampa.

Jerry Carlson and Benny Kirksey are Pampa's representatives on the CRMWA board of directors.

Pampa educator Wanetta Hill is surrounded by Texas souvenirs she plans to give away to school children she meets while on a three-week visit to Japan. Hill, a participant in the Fulbright Memorial Fund Teacher Program, flew to Mishima, Japan, Sunday, Oct. 7, and will return to the United States on Oct. 27.

Pampa educator taking part in Fulbright program

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
Staff Writer

Recent terrorist attacks and world unrest won't stop Pampa educator Wanetta Hill from spending three weeks in Japan as part of the Fulbright Memorial Fund (FMF) Teacher Program.

"I'm not afraid to go at all," said Hill, assistant Pampa High School choir director. "This is quite an honor for me."

Hill was selected from a national pool of 2,000 applicants for the honor. She is one of 200 teachers leaving Sunday, Oct. 7, for a three-week visit to Japan in an effort to promote intercultural understanding between the U.S. and Japan.

She said she had begun an application for the program last December but didn't complete it before the Dec. 19 deadline.

"The deadline came and went and I just forgot," she said. Fulbright gave her a second opportunity to complete the application and, to Hill's surprise, she was selected.

Sponsored by the Japanese government, the program was launched to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the U.S. Fulbright Program which has helped more than 6,000 Japanese citizens to study in the U.S. on Fulbright fellowships for graduate education and research.

"This is going to be a bigger challenge than just going on vacation," Hill said.

Extensive security measures have been taken by FMF officials, Hill said. In e-mail communications with the participants, FMF officials said consulted with various security agencies including the Immigration and Customs at Narita Airport, the National Police Agency, and local

Balloon carrying N.M. governor sighted near Lipscomb

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A British-American team held the lead Sunday night as the America's Challenge Gas Balloon Race moved across Kansas and Oklahoma.

Julian Nott and Phil McNutt were in first place north of Enid, Okla., according to a race map released by the Kodak Albuquerque International Balloon Fiesta.

In second were the U.S. team of Sam

Parks and Johnny Pretchn, west of Enid. Eleven of the original 19 gas balloons remained aloft as of 7 p.m. Sunday, and seven were down and out of the race, fiesta spokesman Tom Garrity said.

The balloon carrying New Mexico Gov. Gary Johnson and Richard Abruzzo was floating northwest of Lipscomb, Texas.

Last year's winners, brothers David and Alan Levin of Colorado, landed near Bushton, Kan., for a total of 450 miles. The Levins had covered some 2,000 miles last year, setting down finally in Maine.

The gas balloon event began Saturday night with 19 balloons, including pilots from as far away as Canada, Britain, Germany and Austria.

Also Sunday, the fiesta continued its tradition of mass ascensions with more than 650 hot-air balloons aloft on the 2001 festa's second day. Garrity said attendance this year was exceeding last year's 106,000-a-day average for the nine-day event, but sponsors don't know yet by how much.

"It's site to say our numbers compared to last year are way up, basically because the weather has been superb," Garrity said. Last year's fiesta was troubled by unruly winds.

Texas round up ...

Lawmakers tell support for retaliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush and America's military drew bipartisan support from members of Texas' congressional delegation as the United States retaliated against terrorist leader Osama bin Laden and his Taliban backers in Afghanistan.

"As America strikes back against terrorism today, I want to express my full faith and confidence in President Bush, our commander in chief, and in the men and women in uniform serving our great country," House Majority Leader Dick Armey said. "They have prepared well and they are ready to serve in this noble and righteous purpose," he said.

Rep. Martin Frost of Dallas, chairman of the Democratic Caucus, said Sunday's military action was justified and necessary.

While praising the response to the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on the East Coast, the congressmen emphasized the strikes are only the opening salvos.

Several warned the attack will be different from the Gulf War, which was short, involved ground troops and resulted in few casualties, and Bosnia, where the U.S. engaged in continuous bombing.

Rep. Nick Lampson, D-Beaumont, said humanitarian aid drops would be key in the success of the attacks and overthrow of the Taliban, Afghanistan's ruling government.

Security tightened at Texas airports

UNDATED — Texans praised retaliatory strikes against terrorism and also prayed for a return to peace as state security measures were tightened and residents braced for a protracted allied response that could trigger more domestic attacks.

"It's about time to get on with it," said Mike Currie, who was awaiting friends at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport on Sunday when the American-led attack began on Afghanistan and Osama bin Laden's terrorist network. "There's a job that has to get done."

Travelers at DFW and other airports found stricter security measures as attacks began. The number of uniformed soldiers on patrol at DFW increased Sunday. At Dallas Love Field, soldiers have helped police prescreen passengers before they reach normal security checkpoints.

Some Texans had been impatient about the U.S. response to terrorists' destruction of the World Trade Center and damage to the Pentagon on Sept. 11.

Carpenter Philip Newmons, entering a department store in west Harris County with friend Jeff Hattenbach, had been impatient for military action.

The state activated its State Emergency Operations Center in Austin after the United States and Great Britain launched military strikes.

U.S. airstrikes also include airdrops
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. military strikes Sunday in Afghanistan included airdrops of food, medicine and other humanitarian supplies, defense officials said.

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld two C-17 cargo planes dropped 37,500 food packets to starving Afghans on the first day of airstrikes to underscore the message that the strikes are meant to harm terrorists, not ordinary Afghans.

"To say that these attacks are in any way against Afghanistan or the Afghan people is flat wrong," Rumsfeld said.

The military also dropped leaflets and made radio broadcasts into Afghanistan to explain the U.S. action, he said. Rumsfeld did not elaborate on what kinds of medicine or supplies other than food packets were being dropped into the country.

The airdrops are delivering "humanitarian daily rations," plastic pouches of food enriched with vitamins and minerals to boost refugees weakened by hunger and travel. The drops will be focused on areas inside Afghanistan, not refugee camps in Pakistan and other border countries, Pentagon officials have said.

The yellow plastic packets are about the size and weight of a hardcover book. They have a picture of a person eating from a pouch, a stencil of an American flag, a notation that they were made by Rightway Foods of McAllen, Texas, and this greeting in English: "This food is a gift from the United States of America."

Families of aid workers held in Afghanistan wary of attacks
 MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The families of two Australian aid workers detained in Afghanistan on charges of preaching Christianity were devastated by news of the U.S.-led attacks on the country, family and friends said Monday.

Australians Diana Thomas and Peter Bunch, along with two Americans and four Germans, remain in the custody of Afghanistan's Taliban regime for allegedly trying to convert people to Christianity in the strictly Islamic nation.

They are being held in the capital, Kabul, one of many cities targeted by U.S. and British air strikes late Sunday and early Monday. President Bush said the strikes were in retaliation for the Taliban's refusal to handover chief terror suspect Osama bin Laden.

In Pakistan, the father of American Heather Mercer refused to talk to reporters after the attacks. John Mercer traveled to Pakistan to lobby for his daughter's release. She was arrested Aug. 3 along with fellow American Dayna Curry.

Mercer, 24, and Curry, 29, both attended Baylor University and were active members of Antioch Community Church in Waco.

Two days after their arrests, the Taliban's religious police came to the offices of the Germany-based Christian organization Shelter Now International and arrested the other six foreign employees and 16 Afghan staff members.

Jury selection scheduled in hearing
 SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Salvadoran man accused of taking Texas' top-ranking Catholic clergyman and another person hostage with a fake grenade will receive a competency hearing.

Jury selection was scheduled to get under way Monday. The hearing will determine if Nelson Escolero is mentally fit to stand trial on charges that he held Archbishop Patrick Flores and his secretary hostage last year.

Escolero, 40, is facing two counts of aggravated kidnapping. Several doctors, including the Bexar County Jail's medical director, already have diagnosed Escolero as mentally unfit to stand trial.

The defendant would be sent to a state mental facility if jurors believe the doctors. He would be treated there until he is capable of understanding the charges against him if ever.

The El Salvador citizen's court-appointed attorney said earlier that if Escolero is cleared to stand trial, he will argue that his client was insane when he walked into the Catholic Chancery last June claiming he was armed with a live grenade.

Distraught over his immigration status and other personal problems, Escalero held the archbishop and his secretary hostage in Flores' second-floor office for nine hours. Hundreds gathered outside the Chancery to pray for Flores' release.

Southwest Airlines concedes pilot negligence caused 2000 crash
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southwest Airlines officials are willing to concede their fired pilots were negligent when a jet skidded off a runway and onto a street during a botched landing at Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport last year, the carrier's attorney said.

Attorney Christopher M. Young told the Los Angeles Times for Monday editions that Southwest's offer to stipulate to negligence will resolve a key question — who was responsible for the March 5, 2000 crash.

About half of Flight 1455's 137 passengers filed claims against Southwest, the nation's seventh-largest air carrier. All but 24 were settled for undisclosed amounts or are in settlement negotiations, Young said.

A January 2002 trial is scheduled before U.S. District Judge Ronald S.W. Lew in Los Angeles for lawsuits that are not settled. The judge ruled in August that plaintiffs also can seek punitive damages against the airline.

To win compensatory damages for costs of medical and psychological treatment, plaintiffs who accept the negligence stipulation will have to prove only that they were hurt in the crash. To win punitive damages, plaintiffs must prove Southwest acted maliciously, Young said.

Advocacy groups fighting names
 UNDATED — Some advocacy groups want to make sure Jap Road, Chinaman Bluff and Squaw Spring soon go the way of Chinks Peak.

The U.S. Board on Geographic Names changed the name of the mountain just outside Pocatello, Idaho, from Chinks Peak to Chinese Peak recently following a three-year campaign by Asian-

Domestic oil, gas rig count down 27 to 1,141
 HOUSTON (AP) — The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the United States this week was down 27 to 1,141.

Of the rigs running nationwide, 936 were exploring for gas, 205 were looking for oil and none were listed as miscellaneous, Houston-based Baker Hughes Inc. reported Friday. A year ago, the count was 1,035.

Baker Hughes has kept track of the count since 1944. The tally peaked at 4,530 on Dec. 28, 1981, during the height of the oil boom.

Weather focus
 PAMPA — Today, partly sunny with highs near 85. South winds 15 to 20 mph with gusts to 30 mph.

Tonight, partly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. Lows in the upper 50s. South winds 10 to 20 mph.

Tuesday, partly sunny with a 20 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. Highs in the lower 80s. South winds 10 to 20 mph.

Tuesday night, partly cloudy and turning cooler with a 30 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. Lows in the lower 50s.

STATEWIDE — Increasing moisture moved into North and West Texas from the Gulf of Mexico on Monday, with a new cool front expected to bring rainfall to the state before midweek.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy early Monday across the Panhandle and West Texas.

Early-morning temperatures ranged from the upper 40s to lower 60s.

Extremes were 46 degrees at Marfa and 70 degrees at El Paso. Other readings included 65 degrees at Slaton.

Winds were mostly southerly to southeasterly at 10 to 20 mph, bringing higher moisture to the Rio Grande and far West Texas. Forecasters expected the jet stream to dip deeply into the state, enhancing chances of rainfall by Tuesday.

A slight chance of thunderstorms was forecast for the Panhandle to the Permian Basin. Rain could spread into the Concho Valley by midweek.

Skies should be partly cloudy to mostly clear in West Texas and the Panhandle through Tuesday.

Daytime highs will range from the 60s in the mountains to 90 along the Rio Grande and in the 80s elsewhere.

Lows overnight should range from the mid-40s in the mountains to the mid 60s elsewhere.

STRIKES

onset of military action designed to bring the battle to the terrorists responsible for the attacks that killed thousands in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania.

A senior defense official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the next wave of attacks would hit again at the Taliban's military airfields, tanks and MiG fighters. The attack would use hunter-strike aircraft from naval ships in the region and fewer long-range bombers, the official said.

Ridge, who resigned as Pennsylvania governor a few days ago, took his seat at the center of power in Washington. "The size and scope of this challenge are immense," he said moments after he was sworn in. His job, he added, is to close the gaps in the nation's current anti-terrorism efforts — gaps that permitted small cells of terrorists to kill thousands when they flew hijacked planes into high-visibility targets.

Vice President Dick Cheney had been slated to swear in Ridge. But he remained at an undisclosed secure location, and Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas filled in for him.

Bush, presiding, said Rumsfeld had informed him "that the military mission of yesterday was executed as planned and at the same time, that our good nation dropped over 37,000 kits of food and medicine."

With the FBI cautioning persistently about the threat of renewed terrorism, officials were looking warily to southern Florida, where local health officials reported finding anthrax bacteria in the nasal passage of a co-worker of the man who died last week from the disease. The building where both worked was closed after the bacteria also were detected there.

Bush was informed of the developments Sunday night. "There is no evidence to suggest anything yet and that's why the FBI is investigating," said White House spokesman Ari Fleischer.

As for the initial round of military targets, "We know they were successfully hit in many respects," Rumsfeld said. He told The Associated Press that the assault targeted two to three dozens sites, including terrorist training camps, military airfields, military aircraft, air defense radars and surface-to-air missile sites.

Rumsfeld rejected Taliban claims that they had shot down an aircraft, as well as claims of significant civilian casualties.

"We have approved every single target — and each one is a military target," he told the AP.

Firepower struck military command centers of the Taliban regime in Kandahar, Pentagon officials said, and Afghan sources said smoke billowed from the high-walled compound of Taliban leader Mullah Mohammed Omar, who was believed to have fled.

Explosions also rocked Kabul, the capital, and were heard coming from or near some of the training camps of Osama bin Laden, the West's most hunted man.

The Taliban's ambassador to neighboring Pakistan said 20 civilians in the Kabul area were killed by missiles. Taliban officials also said three people were killed and three or four were injured in Kandahar. A check of Kabul's four hospitals turned up no reports of casualties.

In Pakistan, violence broke out in two volatile cities along the border with Afghanistan. Thousands of Taliban supporters battled police and burned buildings, with two U.N. offices among the targets. One person was killed and 26 were hurt in the southwestern city of Quetta, a doctor said.

Pakistan's president insisted his support of the U.S.-led coalition reflected the will of the people.

Anthrax present in second man, inside newspaper office building

By AMANDA RIDDLE
Associated Press Writer

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Anthrax bacteria have been detected in the nasal passage of a co-worker of the man who died last week from the disease, health officials said Monday. The building where both worked was closed after the bacteria also were detected there.

The latest case, a man whose name was not immediately made public, was in good condition Monday at an unidentified hospital, according to the Florida health department. He has not been diagnosed with the disease.

A nasal swab from the patient tested positive for the anthrax bacterium, said Tim O'Conner, regional spokesman for Florida's health department.

It was not yet clear if anthrax had only infiltrated his nose or had gotten into his lungs, officials said. Relatively large anthrax spores that lodge in the upper respiratory tract are less dangerous than smaller spores that get into the lungs.

Doctors "describe his condition as good right now," O'Conner said. "He hasn't been diagnosed with the disease, there's just a presence of (the disease) in his nostrils."

"He was given a nasal swab because he happened to be in a hospital and he was ill," said Barbara Reynolds, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta.

O'Conner and Reynolds said they did not know what symptoms of illness the man displayed or whether any of the symptoms were consistent with anthrax. The disease in early stages may resemble the flu.

A co-worker of the man, Bob Stevens, died Friday, the first person in 25 years in the United States to have died from the rare inhaled form of anthrax.

Stevens, 63, was a photo editor at the supermarket tabloid The Sun. Environmental tests performed at the Sun's offices in Boca Raton detected the anthrax bacteria, O'Conner said.

The Sun's offices were shuttered, and law enforcement, local and state health and CDC officials were to take additional samples from the building Monday, O'Conner said.

Some of the other environmental samples taken at the newspaper office last week are still being tested, said Reynolds. She would not say just where the sample that tested positive for the bacteria was found.

About 300 people who work in the building were being contacted by the Sun and instructed not to come to work Monday and to undergo antibiotic treatment to prevent the disease. Nasal swabs will also be taken of all the other workers, said Reynolds.

News that Stevens had contracted the disease set off fears of bio-terrorism, particularly because Sept. 11 hijacker Mohamed Atta rented planes four times in August at a flight school at Palm Beach County Park Airport, according to Marian Smith, owner of Palm Beach Flight Training. Stevens' home is within a mile of the airport.

Atta also visited an airfield in Belle Glade, about 40 miles inland from Lantana, and asked workers there questions about their crop-dusters, but never flew one of those planes

O'Conner said there is no evidence that either newspaper worker was a victim of terrorism. "That would take a turn in the investigation," he said. "It's a different aspect. We were thinking more of environmental sources."

The FBI was helping in the search for the source of the bacterium, said Miami FBI spokeswoman Judy Orihuela. But "the current risk of anthrax is extremely low," O'Conner said.

It was unclear when final tests would tell whether the second man has full-blown anthrax. The bacterium normally has an incubation period of up to seven days, but can take up to 60 days to develop, O'Conner said.

"We're waiting for additional testing to see if it will become a confirmed case of anthrax or not," said Reynolds of the CDC. "I realize for the public this is going to be a very slight distinction."

Michael Kahane, vice president and general counsel of American Media Inc., which publishes the Sun and two other tabloids, the Globe and the National Enquirer, confirmed the company closed its Boca

Raton building at the request of state health officials.

"Obviously, our first concern is the health and well-being of our employees and their families," he said Monday.

Only 18 cases of anthrax contracted by inhalation were documented in the United States in the 20th century, the most recent in 1976 in California.

Officials believe Stevens contracted anthrax naturally in Florida. The disease can be contracted from farm animals or soil, though the bacterium is not normally found among wildlife or livestock in the state. Stevens was described as an avid outdoorsman and gardener.

County medical examiners are looking over any unexplained deaths, but have not found any cases connected to anthrax. Veterinarians have been told to be on alert for animals who might have the disease, but none have turned up.

Health officials also are checking intensive care units of area hospitals to check records going back 30 days for suspicious cases. They should be finished Monday, said O'Conner.

EDUCATOR

police in Tokyo and host cities, as well as hotel security offices. To date, officials said, "no credible information concerning terrorists in Japan" had been received.

In preparation for the trip, Hill has been studying Japanese customs. She's also been buying dozens of Texas souvenirs to give as presents during her travels like bluebonnet and wildflower seeds, Texas chili mix, t-shirts, and key chains.

"(State Representative) Warren Chisum is sending a state flag and I'm buying Texas things for the kids I meet. The Chamber is sending Pampa ribbons and I'm also taking a photo album of Pampa," Hill said. "They want to see what it's like and what we're doing here."

Hill said the group will arrive at Mishima, a city near Mount Fuji where the National Institute of Genetic Research is located. They will spend one night with a host family, and then visit high school, middle school and elementary schools. They will also see what it's like to wear the traditional Japanese kimono, she added.

After returning from Japan, more work awaits Hill, she said.

"But this is exciting to do, not drudgery," she said.

As part of her application, Hill outlined ways she intended to share what she learns in Japan with the community including writing articles for the Texas Choral Director of America's magazine and presentations to the Texas Music Educators Association and local civic groups. Hill said she also plans to develop a curriculum on Japanese culture for elementary age students and set up a mentoring program for older students to teach the curriculum to the younger students.

"I also want to write a Japanese musical," she said.

A total of 600 teachers from all 50 states and the District of Columbia are set to visit Japan this year. A group of 200 went in June. Hill is part of the second group and a third group is scheduled to leave for Japan in November.

Attacks alter focus of greeting card firms

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Before Sept. 11, Hallmark Cards was touting a line of cards celebrating the small moments of normal life — a child losing a tooth, buying a first car or even successful potty training.

Now the company is trying to capture something deeper: patriotism.

"I personally hope we have entered a patriotic phase in this country," said Irvine Hockaday, Hallmark's president and chief executive officer. "I think that's been lacking for a while in America. If Hallmark can help support that with its product we will."

The greeting card company swiftly designed a new batch of patriotic cards after Sept. 11 and re-emphasized its core responsibility to help customers find the right words during emotional times.

"Even in typical times, when unnerving things happen people tend to want to reassure each other," said Hockaday. "They will gravitate to cards and cards shops because they are comforted by them."

Six new cards — featuring the flag, an American eagle, the Statue of Liberty and verses thanking the military for serving — will soon reach shelves nationwide. Four others will be available in boxed sets for Christmas.

American Greetings Corp. also will have new cards and other accessories in stores by mid-October, with new Christmas ornaments available by mid-November.

The company will offer 98 cards, some geared toward Veterans' Day on Nov. 11 and others with verses specifically mentioning Sept. 11, said Laurie Henrichsen, a spokeswoman for the Cleveland-based company.

Both companies scrambled to produce the new cards, which will generally cost $1.99.

Unlike other businesses, greeting card companies may be immune to criticism over responding to a perceived market created by the attacks.

"Hallmark can get away with it because of the nature of its product," said Carrie Heilmann, an assistant professor at the John M. Olin School of Business at Washington University in St. Louis. "If consumers are going to those stores to buy something, they aren't going to be thinking about any ulterior motive."

Preliminary figures seem to support that claim. Sales dropped dramatically in the days immediately after that attack.

OPEC may reduce oil output to boost prices

GENEVA (AP) — OPEC could reduce crude oil output to boost falling prices, Venezuela's president said Monday.

President Hugo Chavez said he would be pushing leaders of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to "agree on the defense of the price of oil."

"A reduction is possible," Chavez told reporters in Geneva on the first day of a weeklong European tour.

In London, however, OPEC Secretary-General Ali Rodriguez said Monday that OPEC will hold crude oil supplies steady until the producers can assess the impact of Sunday's U.S.-led air strikes against Afghanistan.

Crude for November delivery was trading at below $23 a barrel despite rising slightly following Sunday's attacks.

Chavez said he planned to meet with Rodriguez, Algerian leader Abdelaziz Bouteflika, Russian President Vladimir Putin and Mexican President Vicente Fox.

He spoke after a meeting with World Trade Organization Director-General Mike Moore. The two discussed the possibilities of launching a new round of global free trade negotiations.

United Way supports area 'CASA kids'

This article is one in a series of articles of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 2001 "The Way America Cares, Community by Community!" fund-raising campaign.

Four sets of excited eyes greet the CASA volunteer as she visits her "CASA kids." All four are excited about school starting and what the new year will bring. Finally, they are all in the same home where they have parents who love them and are preparing to adopt them. They finally have enough food to eat, beds to sleep in and clean clothes to wear.

They can have friends over because they don't have to be ashamed of how dirty their house is. They can go to sleep at night because they don't have to worry their dad will come home drunk and fight with their mother. They know that their foster mom will be there to wake them up in the morning because she won't go out to do drugs during the night.

All four have had their first swimming lessons, their first trips to summer camps and their first back-to-school shopping trip. They have ridden an escalator for the first time in their lives. They all have brand-new backpacks.

These children are where they are because a CASA volunteer worked tirelessly to see that these children would not return to a home where cockroaches covered the walls, dad was physically abusive, and both parents were usually abusing drugs and alcohol.

She visited with neighbors, teachers, family members, counselors and the children. She attended court hearings, planning meetings and anything else that would give her insight into what was in the best interest of the children.

She encouraged the parents to participate in services offered to them so their children could come home. Tearfully, she recommended that the children never return home when the parents refused to do anything asked of them.

Now the CASA volunteer attends basketball games, school programs and soccer games of her four "CASA kids." She sees bright smiling faces instead of hollow stares. She sees trust for their foster parents instead of fear. She sees four children who have a new chance at life.

This volunteer was able to help these four children because you help the United Way. Without the support of United Way, other children will be lost in the court system without an advocate to speak for them. Please help your community by helping these children. Support the United Way.

Harvester veterans gather for reunion

Notebook

TENNIS

Pampa has climbed to No. 10 in Class 4A in the latest Fall Tennis Rankings by the Texas Tennis Coaches Association.

The Harvesters moved up three spots from their previous ranking.

Ranked No. 1 is Alamo Heights. Richardson Pearce is No. 2 and Wichita Falls High No. 3.

Dumas, a member of Pampa's District 3-4A, is ranked No. 20.

VOLLEYBALL

PAMPA — Pampa defeated Palo Duro 15-0, 15-7 in a freshmen volleyball match Saturday.

Pampa's leading servers were Lindsey Ammons and Heather Dildy with 7 points each. Lauren Boles added 6 points and Chera Chegado 5. Rebecca Gindorf led Pampa on defense.

Pampa 9th graders are now 7-3 in district play. They play at Hereford today.

In varsity action, Pampa lost to Dumas 15-6, 15-3 in a District 3-4A match Saturday. Angie Williams and Jennifer Lindsey led Pampa with 5 kills each. Lindsey also had 10 digs.

Morgan White contributed 4 kills while Shelly Sims had 8 digs. Abbi Covalt had 2 kills and 14 assists.

FOOTBALL

DALLAS (AP) — There were so many outstanding performances in the Big 12 this past weekend that the league named co-players of the week on offense, defense and special teams.

Kansas running back Reggie Duncan and Nebraska quarterback Eric Crouch shared the offensive honor. Colorado cornerback Donald Strickland and Oklahoma safety Roy Williams shared the defensive honor and the special teams honor went to kickers Johnny Beck of Kansas and Brad Hammerich of Missouri.

Duncan rushed for a career-high 227 yards on 38 carries to lead the Jayhawks to a 34-31 double overtime win at Texas Tech. He forced the first overtime with a 2-point conversion run with 21 seconds left in regulation.

Crouch became the all-time NCAA Division I-A quarterback leader in career touchdowns rushing with 51 by running for four scores. He ran 15 times for 104 yards and was 10-for-14 passing for 110 yards in a 48-14 win over Iowa State.

Strickland had 10 tackles and a three pass deflections as Colorado upset Kansas State 16-6. He also provided key run support as the Buffaloes held KSU to 74 net yards rushing, more than 200 below their average.

Williams helped clinch the Sooners' 14-3 win over Texas with a flying hit on a blitz that allowed teammate Teddy Lehman to make a 2-yard interception return for a TD. Williams also intercepted a pass, broke up two others and helped limit Texas to 255 total yards.

PAMPA — Two decades separated them, but John Paul McKinley and Roy Don Stephens were both part of that green and gold football tradition which started in 1919.

McKinley, a 1944 graduate, was a member of Pampa's first district championship team in 1943. He played offensive guard and linebacker and was named to the all-district team.

"That was back when Amarillo had one high school and that was the Sandies. Lubbock had one high school and that was the Westerners. Of course, Borger was one of our big rivals," McKinley recalled.

The highlight of that district championship season was Pampa's 7-0 upset of powerful Amarillo High in Harvester Stadium. The Sandies had won 27 games in a row before meeting up the Harvesters.

"Look" magazine had the Sandies ranked as the best high school team in the state of Texas when they came here to play us," McKinley said. "We always played them on Thanksgiving Day and we had 6,000 people at the game. Back then, they had bleachers built around the end zones. Those were always good games (between Pampa, and Amarillo High).

The Harvesters' season ended in bi-district with a loss to Vernon.

Pampa's star player that year was fullback Charlie Boyles, who made the All-District, All-State and All-Southern teams.

"Charlie was the only Pampa player to make all three of those all-star teams," McKinley added.

McKinley was also part of the student body that moved from the old high school located in downtown Pampa to the present facility in 1941.

Stephens played quarterback and halfback during a couple of lean years for Pampa in 1960-61.

"We weren't very good. We had a bunch of little guys. We were 5-5 when I was a junior and 0-10 when I was a senior. We did tie Amarillo High my junior year and they won district," Stephens said.

Stephens was also attending the 40th reunion of the class of '61 over the weekend.

The Harvester Veterans were honored during a homecoming pep rally Friday afternoon in McNeely Fieldhouse. They were also honored guests at the homecoming game, which saw Pampa defeat Hereford 21-15.

Although in poor health, Louie Allen, a 1945 PHS graduate, attended Friday's activities, which also included a reception in the high school library. Allen organized the Harvester Veterans Reunion Committee in 1994.

There was an abundance of alumni in town over the weekend since the PHS class of 1956 was having a dedication ceremony for a seven-foot bronze statue depicting the school mascot. The 1956 class members had donated the statue to the school in honor of their 45th reunion.

Rangers fire GM after two last-place finishes

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Doug Melvin's past success as the Texas Rangers general manager wasn't enough to save his job after two straight last-place finishes.

Melvin, the architect of Texas' only three division championships, was fired Sunday after the Rangers, even with All-Star shortstop Alex Rodriguez, finished a 73-89 season and 43 games behind AL West champion Seattle.

While Rodriguez — who came to Texas last winter with a record $252 million, 10-year contract — hit .318 with an AL-leading 52 homers, the Rangers pitching staff had the highest ERA in the majors for the second straight year at 5.71.

Hicks said that was a primary reason he fired Melvin, who had two years left on his contract.

"Others organizations have developed pitching a lot better than ours has," Hicks said. "It's not Doug, it's not one person. It's our whole system. We are going to take a careful, fresh look of how to make sure we have to ability to pick and trade and develop players."

Hicks said the search for a new GM will begin immediately, and that Melvin's replacement will come from outside the organization. Hicks said he will be aided by a professional search organization and hopes to have a new GM in place within six weeks.

The owner refused to detail that group or possible candidates, but gave an indication of what he's looking for.

"I'd love to hire a GM with a proven track record that has developed great young players. That will be our first goal," Hicks said. "You have to develop your own talent, particularly with pitching."

Melvin, who just finished his 30th year in professional baseball, said he was proud of a lot of the things he was able to accomplish in Texas, primarily the division titles of 1996, '98 and '99.

"We lost more that we would have liked the last two years," Melvin said. "But we always fielded a team of character. I am proud of that."

Even before he was fired, Melvin had already been considered a top candidate to replace fired Toronto Blue Jays GM Gord Ash.

After the three division titles, the Rangers won only one playoff game those three years — losing to the eventual World Series champion New York Yankees each time.

"What's important is the search is on for a winner," Rodriguez said. "Mr. Hicks is not going to settle for anything, from a team perspective, that is average. We were below average this year."

Hicks, who has more of a hands-off approach in both his ownership of the Rangers and NHL's Dallas Stars, left most of the baseball decisions to Melvin, who he retained after buying the team in January 1998. The time had come for a change, he said.

"I was afraid that if I allowed this to go on for a couple of more years, we'd get to the same place," he said. "I didn't want to waste any more years."

The new GM will determine the status of manager Jerry Narron and his coaching staff. Hicks said he would highly recommend Narron, who was hired May 4 when Johnny Oates resigned after a 11-17 start.

Narron, who was given a two-year contract extension through 2003 on June 2, said Sunday that he is confident he is the right person for the Texas job. He spoke with Hicks on Sunday morning.

"I appreciate the fact he has been happy with the job I've done," Narron said. "I definitely think the general manager should be completely satisfied with who the manager is. I have no problem with that. That's the way it should be. I am confident that I can definitely do this job for the Texas Rangers in the future." Narron isn't worried about the Rangers being put too far behind from a development standpoint with a new GM.

With the players Texas has, Narron said, the new general manager will have the opportunity, to come in and package players for trades.

Cougars blank Chillicothe

BRISCOE — Fort Elliott shut out Chillicothe 50-0 in six-man action last Friday night.

Larry Horn and C.J. Bryant each rushed for two touchdowns to lead the Cougars' offense. Horn scored on 13 and 2-yard runs while Bryant scored on 33 and 11-yard runs.

Bryant also threw a 26-yard scoring pass to Junior Gonzales.

Kade Zybach ran for a 1-yard TD and Jason Hathaway threw a 47-yard touchdown strike to Justin Bryant to complete the scoring. Monte Hand had five conversion kicks.

Fort Elliott had a 22-point first quarter, and then added 22 more in the second quarter. The game was called due to the 45-point mercy rule with 9:02 left in the third quarter.

Fort Elliott finished with 285 yards in total offense while holding the visitors to just 49, all on the ground. Fort Elliott had 172 yards through the air on 8 of 17 passing. The Cougar defense came up with three fumbles.

Fort Elliott improves to 3-2 for the season.

The Cougars open the district season next Friday night, hosting Follett at 7:30.

Bonds hits No. 73 as Giants defeat LA in season finale

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Barry Bonds needed a touch of patience to cap his remarkable season.

Bonds hit his 73rd homer off a tantalizingly slow knuckleball, shattering Babe Ruth's 81-year-old record for slugging percentage and leading the San Francisco Giants to a season-ending 2-1 win over the Los Angeles Dodgers on Sunday.

Bonds, perhaps playing his final game in a Giants uniform, homered off Dennis Springer in the first, singled in the third, popped out in the sixth and flied out in the eighth.

"Today's home run, I was just in shock," Bonds said. "The chance of hitting a home run off a guy who throws that slow is slim. I just said, 'What else can you give me, God? Enough is enough.'"

Bonds finished the season with a .328 batting average, a career-high 137 RBIs and a slugging percentage of .863, easily surpassing the mark of .847 set by Ruth in 1920.

Bonds, who also broke Ruth's major league record by walking 77 times this season, ended up with an on-base percentage of .515 — best in the majors since 1957, and tops in the NL since John McGraw's .547 in 1900.

"It seems Babe ain't going to have many records, is he?" Giants manager Dusty Baker said. "It's the greatest year I've seen from a single player."

Bonds homered every 6.52 at-bats this season, easily beating the major league record of a homer every 7.27 at-bats that Mark McGwire set while hitting 70 homers in 1998 — a record that Bonds broke with homers No. 71 and 72 on Friday night.

"What can I say about Barry Bonds? He had a tremendous season, the way that he handled everything," Dodgers manager Jim Tracy said. "If he had been pitched to on a constant basis, he might have hit 100 home runs."

Instead of feeling the pressure in the final few games of the season, Bonds finished the year in style — he hit four homers in his final three games. Bonds' 73rd homer, onto the arc above the right-field fence, was the 567th of his career — leaving him six behind Harmon Killebrew for sixth all-time. Bonds started the season 17th on the career list.

The ball was grabbed by Patrick Hayashi, 36, from nearby Santa Clara County, after a scrum among fans on the arcade.

Before his second at-bat, fans chanted "Five more years!" — a reference to comments by Bonds' agent that he will seek a five-year deal after this season. Bonds is eligible for free agency after nine seasons with the Giants, who may not be able to afford his demands.

The 37-year-old Bonds earned $10.3 million this season in the last year of a three-year, $22.9 million contract extension. His agent, Scott Boras, is expected to seek a contract worth perhaps $20 million a year.

Bonds said he would like to return to the Giants, the team of his godfather — Willie Mays — and one of the teams his father, Bobby Bonds, played for. But he said he has no idea where he will end up in 2002.

Miami falls to Valley

MIAMI — Miami was defeated by Valley 44-12 in a six-man game Friday night. Valley remains undefeated at 5-0. Miami falls to 2-3.

Preston Williams and Jimmy James scored the Miami touchdowns.

Derrick Cruise led the Valley offense with three touchdowns. Justin Lucero added two touchdowns.

Miami opens District 1-1A play Friday, hosting Higgins at 7:30 p.m.

In other six-man action Friday night, undefeated Groom shut out McLean 45-0. Garrett Britten scored three touchdowns, one on a 35-yard

"This is my home. It's been my home since 1968 when my dad came here. It's always been my home," he said.

"My relationship has been up and down, but for the most part has been good. This year, it's been exceptionally good," he added.

Yorvit Torrealba, a September callup from the minors, broke a 1-all tie in the seventh with an RBI single. It was the catcher's first major league start.

Gary Sheffield drove in his 100th run of the season with his fourth-inning triple for the Dodgers. It was his third consecutive season with 100 or more RBIs, and fifth overall.

Mark Gardner (5-5) pitched one inning for the win. Robb Nen got two outs in the ninth for his 45th save in 52 opportunities.

Springer (1-1) allowed two runs and seven hits in seven innings, and said he was not at all upset about giving up Bonds' 73rd homer.

"It was kind of a thrill to give it up. You don't really want to be the one noted for it, but in the pitching meeting that we had today we decided we had to pitch to him," Springer said. "He hit a knuckler, it wasn't a good knuckler."

pass interception. His other TDs came on a 7-yard TD pass from Clay Britten and on a 14-yard run.

Clay Britten also threw touchdown passes to Wyatt Britten (13 yards) and Hugh Weinheiser (10 yards).

By halftime, Groom had built a 39-0 lead.

The Tigers finished with 264 yards total offense, including 49 on the ground.

Doug Fields (15-yard run) and Clay Britten (8-yard run) had the other Tiger scores. Cody Bivens added a conversion kick and Garrett Britten a conversion run.

Groom is now 5-0 for the season. McLean falls to 0-5.

Cowboys' second-half comeback falls short against Raiders

By ANNE M. PETERSON
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Rich Gannon figured the Oakland Raiders had their game against the Dallas Cowboys under control in the third quarter.

The Raiders had just gone up 28-7 on Tyrone Wheatley's 1-yard touchdown run.

But the surprisingly resilient Cowboys didn't give up. They withstood the loss of their starting quarterback and two blocked field goals to score two late touchdowns — including one on a fake field goal — coming within 28-21 of the Raiders on Sunday.

"It seemed like every time we got momentum," Gannon said, "they snuffed some of it back."

But the Cowboys ultimately fell short — again. Dallas has started 0-4 for the first time since 1989, when it lost the first eight games and finished 1-15.

Jerry Rice caught his third touchdown pass for the Raiders, while Wheatley contributed two scores and Zack Crockett ran for a third. Gannon finished 21-of-28 for 209 yards for Oakland (3-1).

It was supposed to be a bye week for both teams, but because of a potential conflict with the Oakland Athletics and baseball's playoffs at the Coliseum, both teams agreed to move the game from Oct. 21.

Dallas had problems from the start. The first blow came when rookie quarterback Quincy Carter left in the first quarter with a strained left hamstring. Carter, who also missed the last two games with an injury to his right thumb, was replaced by Anthony Wright, who wound up 14-of-22 for 126 yards.

When the Cowboys did score, it was dramatic. Wright hit Joey Galloway with a perfect 40-yard TD pass and Tim Seder faked a field goal for an 8-yard touchdown dash. Dallas also got a last-minute scoring pass from Wright to Darrin Chiaverini after Oakland's Charlie Garner fumbled.

And they threw everything they could at the Raiders — including the option.

"We don't have anything to lose," guard Larry Allen said. "We might as well give them our all."

The Raiders' banged-up defense was without end Trace Armstrong, out for the season with a ruptured Achilles' tendon, and tackle Roderick Coleman (hamstring injury). Defensive tackle Darrell Russell was serving the last of a four-game suspension for a violation of the league's substance abuse policy.

But before the first half was over, the Raiders had blocked two field goals and the Cowboys' young-offense couldn't manage to score when an Oakland fumble put Dallas at the 7.

The Raiders struck on their first possession, with Gannon's 5-yard scoring pass to a wide-open Rice. Crockett's 3-yard scoring run opened up the second quarter.

Wright's entry briefly sparked the Cowboys, who scored on the first play of his first series with Galloway's 40-yard TD catch.

The Raiders marched right back to Wheatley's 4-yard scoring run to make it 21-7. Wheatley added a 1-yard run in the third quarter.

Seder's first two field goal attempts were blocked: a 34-yarder was knocked down by William Thomas, a 41-yard attempt was blocked by Charles Woodson.

So after Wheatley's scoring run made it 28-7, the Cowboys set up for a field goal, but Seder scooped up the ball and ran it in from the 8.

Late in the fourth quarter, after Garner's fumble at Oakland's 34, Wright hit Chiaverini with the 3-yard TD pass on fourth down.

Emmitt Smith said the effort was there.

"Now we've got to learn how to convert that playing hard into making something special," said Smith, who carried the ball 16 times for only 25 yards.

Notes: The Cowboys, who had 13 turnovers in their first three games, did not turn over the ball. ... Carter was on crutches after the game, but there was no immediate word on his injury. ... Wright said after the game he does not want a quarterback controversy with Carter. "I'm not going to get into a situation like that." ... Safeties Anthony Dorsett had sore ribs and Johnnie Harris had a sore shoulder, but the Raiders emerged from the game mostly injury free.

Stars shut out by Hurricanes, 3-0

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Carolina Hurricanes are off to a fast start thanks to team chemistry and a large dose of Arturs Irbe.

The Hurricanes, with few changes from last season's playoff squad, have beaten a pair of teams early — the New York Rangers and the Dallas Stars — who are trying to integrate a host of new players into their lineups.

It has showed as the Hurricanes have used their speed and defensive system to shut down and confuse the opposition.

"A few things have fallen into place for us," Carolina coach Paul Maurice said Sunday following his team's 3-0 victory over the defending Pacific Division champion Stars. "We paid a bit of a price the early part of last season to get these players together. The benefit that we are seeing now is directly related."

Meanwhile, Dallas coach Ken Hitchcock said he saw very few of his players paying the price as the Stars were shut out for the second time in their last three visits to the Entertainment and Sports Arena.

"We can't have this many perimeter players not get involved," Hitchcock said.

Offensive stars such as Pierre Turgeon, Donald Audette and Pat Verbeek combined for just three shots.

"For me, it was a lack of emotion that hurt us," Hitchcock said. "Hockey is still a game filled with emotion, filled with one-on-one plays, all those things that matter. It's such a great game because we played a team that was willing to make some strong

De Ferran takes points lead

HOUSTON (AP) — The toughest part of Gil de Ferran's latest victory was the most fun.

The hard-driving Brazilian led all 100 laps Sunday as he took over the CART points lead with his second straight win after going more than a year without reaching Victory Lane.

At the end, he was so far ahead of runner-up Dario Franchitti on the tight 1.527-mile, 10-turn street circuit that the second-place finisher couldn't even see the winner's Honda-powered Reynard as it took the checkered flag in the Texaco/Havoline Grand Prix of Houston.

Still, De Ferran, who came into the weekend trailing by six points and now leads Kenny Brack by 10 with three races remaining, said the win wasn't nearly as easy as it appeared.

"When Dario was behind me in the middle part of the race, the pace was very fast," he said. "I was driving ten-tenths. It reminded me a lot of the old Formula 3 days. You started the race, go, go, go and ran qualifying pace the whole race"
