Officials seek answers about military call-up

What are employer requirements?

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
Staff Writer

Recent deployments of National Guard and military reservists have left city and county officials with more questions than answers about how to handle this unprecedented situation.

"I guess we're like any other employer who has an employee called to duty," said City Manager Bob Eskridge. "I know we have to pay up to 15 days a year while they're out doing their thing. But as far as being activated, (the City of Pampa is) just like any other employer."

Cade Logue, an officer of the Pampa Police Department and a member of the Texas National Guard, is the only city employee who has been called to active duty, Eskridge confirmed. Logue was called last week, officials said.

Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Joe Martinez has also been placed on notice, but has not been called to active duty, Gray County officials said today.

Some of the questions that have arisen after the deployments include:

- Does the employer continue to pay these employees while they serve their country?

Roberts Co. project will be on line soon

By KATE B. DICKSON

If all goes according to plan, by mid-November Pampa residents should be drinking water from the Roberts County well project.

That will be good news especially for those in the northern two-thirds of Pampa who drink primarily salty-tasting water from Lake Meredith.

"We will use all the Roberts County water we have coming to us," said City Manager Bob Eskridge. "We bought enough to mix in about 35 percent Roberts County water which our study said is what we need to bring the salinity down ..."

Pantex to get new lab

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Design work has begun for a new $22.2 million nuclear weapons evaluation test laboratory at the Pantex Plant near Amarillo.

The lab will be used to detect and predict the effects of aging on nuclear weapons systems and components.

The current Pantex lab is the only U.S. facility that conducts systems-level, non-nuclear tests on atomic weapons and parts, according to information from Sandia National Laboratories in New Mexico.

Many of the nation's nuclear weapons are aging, and some weapons systems are being refurbished to extend their service. Each year, some nuclear warheads and bombs are removed from the stockpile to test how components and weapons hold up over time.

Construction of the 30,000-square-foot lab is expected to begin in about a year and be finished in March 2004. The facility should be operating by October 2004, Sandia officials said in a news release.

A gift from the PHS Class of 1956

Ted Swindle, vice-president of the Pampa High class of 1956, speaks to the crowd on the front lawn of the campus during Friday's dedication ceremony for the Harvester Statue. The 7-foot-high statue, which was donated to the school by the class of '56, depicts a wheat farmer surveying his land near turn of the century Pampa. Swindle said the bronze figure represents everyone who has attended and worked at Pampa High School, and called themselves Pampa Harvesters. He said the heroic traits of courage, determination, self-sacrifice, hard work, strength of purpose, capability, intelligence, and vision all come together in this manifestation of a Pampa Harvester. "So, as you view this statue and ask this question, if you are a participant in Pampa High School's past, present and future, you are this Pampa Harvester," he added.

Deputy recalls days on board cruise missile-firing submarine

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

The U.S. Navy's launch of Tomahawk cruise missiles this week at Afghan targets brought back memories for Lt. Randy Langwell of the Gray County Sheriff's Department.

Langwell joined the sheriff's office after a 20-year career in the Navy, retiring as a Chief Torpedoman.

For a brief time Sunday, Langwell said he wished he were back in the Navy as the U.S. and British forces launched missiles in retaliation for terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and Pentagon on Sept. 11.

During the Gulf War a decade ago, the fast attack submarine Langwell was on launched a number of Tomahawk cruise missiles at targets in Iraq.

There are several variations of the Tomahawk. The land attack cruise missile can be launched from aircraft, ships and submarines.

Foul play suspected in anthrax cases

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Federal officials suspect foul play rather than an environmental source is at the root of two Florida anthrax cases that have left one man dead and hundreds of co-workers getting tested for the disease.

The FBI on Monday sealed off the offices of American Media Inc., where both men worked. During the night, a stream of unmarked cars entered the adjoining parking lot, where agents peeled off layers of blue and purple gloves and washed their hands with water from a firetruck.

The Palm Beach County Health Department tested 743 people connected to the building on Monday and expected an additional 100 people on Tuesday, said Alina Alonso, the department's director of clinical services.

How the bacterium got into the newspaper's office remained unknown. Federal investigators have eliminated the obvious environmental sources of anthrax, said Barbara Reynolds, a spokeswoman for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta.

The concern raised by the death Friday of Sun photography editor Bob Stevens intensified after anthrax was found in the nose of a second employ-

Passenger to be charged in attempt to enter jetliner's cockpit

CHICAGO (AP) — A California man described as mentally ill who tried to break into the cockpit of an American Airlines plane on Monday may have believed it was going to crash into the Sears Tower, witnesses said.

Edward A. Coburn, 31, of Fresno, Calif., was to be charged Tuesday in U.S. District Court with interfering with a flight crew, the U.S. Justice Department said.

Coburn was subdued by two pilots and several passengers aboard Flight 1238 from Los Angeles after reportedly charging the cockpit, and two military fighter planes escorted the jetliner to Chicago, FBI spokesman Ross Rice said. It wasn't clear if Coburn ever entered the cockpit of the Boeing 767.

"He ran just as fast as he could screaming toward the cockpit and opened the door," passenger Brian Karnov told WBBM Radio, adding that pilots and passengers knocked Coburn down then wrapped him in a blanket.

"He kept screaming 'Save the tower! Save the tower!' He was under some kind of delusion that the plane was going to crash into the Sears Tower and he wanted to save it," Karnov said.

During the struggle, the pilot made a distress call and two F16 fighters intercepted the jetliner and escorted it to Chicago, Rice said. No one was injured, and the plane, with crew of nine and 153 passengers, landed safely at O'Hare International Airport at 3:16 p.m., a spokeswoman for Fort Worth, Texas-based American said.

County judge wants money from American after center closed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Central Texas judge who contends that American Airlines broke a 10-year tax abatement deal when its call reservations center closed now wants the carrier to repay hundreds of thousands of dollars for taxpayers' benefit.

The Fort Worth, Texas-based airline's center avoided paying $1.4 million in taxes over a 10-year period under agreements with Bexar County, the city, school district and Alamo Community College, Tax Assessor-Collector Sylvia Romo said.

"We think we have a right to go after American Airlines because of our agreement," Bexar County Judge Nelson Wolff told the San Antonio-Express News in Tuesday's editions.

He said the Commissioners Court will be briefed by the district attorney's office "and then we will decide whether to pursue it."

The airline owes $328,000 following September's closing, Wolff said.

The reservations center was sold in 1999 to Platinum Equity Holdings and became known as OnPoint. But it continued to take reservations exclusively for American Airlines until Sept. 28. American terminated its contract with OnPoint a year early, putting 1,200 employees out of work. The closing came three months before the end of the tax abatement agreement.

Dad leaves will before police say he killed ex-wife, son, self

HIGHLAND PARK, Texas (AP) — A typed will shows a laid-off electrical engineer was planning for his family's deaths several months before police say he shot and killed his ex-wife, their 7-year-old son and himself.

The last will and testament, dated April 24, was found by Steven Loss' mother at her St. Louis home on Saturday.

Loss begins: "I am going to assume that the four of us have gone to a better place."

Bombing of Afghanistan goes day-into-night in anti-terrorism campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — American pilots bombed targets in Afghanistan day and night on Tuesday as the Bush administration pressed its campaign to combat terrorism. The United Nations listed four security guards as civilian casualties of the military campaign.

Four weeks after the worst terrorist attack on American soil, President Bush moved quickly to beef up his new Office of Homeland Security and was conferring with German Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder, whose nation has offered to assist in military operations.

In Florida, the FBI continued its investigation into the death of one man from anthrax, and the exposure of his co-worker to the deadly disease.

"It remains a situation of concern with the federal government," said White House spokesman Ari Fleischer, as officials offered antibiotics as a precaution to hundreds who worked in the same building as the two men. Fleischer added, however, that "it's not unusual at times like this for false alarms to go off."

Last week, the 43-year-old opened fire on his ex-wife, Bonnie Loss-Murphy, and their 7-year-old son Evan at a home in the upscale Dallas suburb, police say.

Loss also wounded their 14-year-old son, Craig, before turning the gun on himself.

The ex-wife and her younger son were buried Monday. The 14-year-old was released from Baylor University Medical Center Saturday.

The will and a handwritten note, dated Sept. 18 and addressed to his sister, Carolyn, were obtained by The Dallas Morning News under an open records request.

In the document, which was not notarized, Loss wrote about his funeral preferences.

Government funding methods for detecting bio, chemical attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unseen, a terrorist dumps a mystery chemical into the reservoir that supplies drinking water to a large city. He doesn't notice a suitcase-sized device in the water, which alerts officials and gives them options to counteract the poison.

A Pentagon study released several months ago examined nontraditional warfare, including biological and chemical attacks, and concluded the United States was well prepared to respond after the fact and to retaliate, but was lacking in detection and prevention.

Technology has been a major hurdle. "Our traditional way of detecting biologicals is to catch them and culture them," said Michael Wartell, a chemistry professor and the chairman of the Defense Intelligence Agency's science board. "It's a very slow process, three to four days. By that time, you're dead."

Dr. Guenter Gross of the University of North Texas is developing, with government funding, a device that promises a new approach to detection.

He starts by taking cells from mouse embryos and squishing them between two glass plates in a five-centimeter square, loaded with tiny electrodes. Researchers at UNT have been studying bioterrorism along with the University of Texas, Texas Tech and the University of South Florida since 1999.

Dallas Aquarium loses accreditation

DALLAS (AP) — Aging infrastructure and a range of needed repairs has cost a North Texas aquarium its national accreditation and has brought the city's zoo under review.

Dallas officials were notified by the American Zoo and Aquarium Association that it did not renew accreditation for the Dallas Aquarium at Fair Park and that the Dallas Zoo's accreditation is on hold for a year to allow the city time to make improvements to the facility.

Zoo director Richard Buickerood told The Dallas Morning News in its Tuesday editions that he was shocked by the news.

"We have a very highly respected zoo," Buickerood said. "I think there were a lot of people who were surprised by this."

Accredited zoos and aquariums are reviewed by the national association every five years. Losing accreditation makes it more difficult for a zoo or aquarium to get new animals and could hurt the facility's chances in getting grants, association spokeswoman Jane Ballentine said.

The association declined to release a copy of its report, and the zoo also refused to provide one.

But Buickerood said the main problems cited by the zoo and aquarium association were related to Dallas' aging infrastructure and a range of needed repairs. Some of the zoo's buildings are more than 70 years old. The aquarium was built in 1936.

CALL-UP

• Does the employer continue to provide benefits during this time?
 • What happens to the employee's job?
 • Does the employer-provided insurance continue while the employee is in military service?

Neither city nor county officials know of any policy that addresses the issue.
 "No, we don't have any policies in place right now," said Eskridge.

After a check with City Secretary Phyllis Jeffers, Eskridge said that the city's insurance contains no special provisions for employees called into military service.

"As for Cade, we will not replace his position while he is in the military service," said Pampa Police Chief Charlie Morris. "There are certain legal requirements that we will meet."

Morris said that the police department will cover Logue's position through the use of reserve officers and regular duty officers.
 "We're very supportive of Cade and what he is doing. Our country is at war," the police chief said. "I'm happy to report that Cade is now assigned to the Amarillo Airport which is very good. He has a wife and a new baby at home and I know he wants to be close to them. I'm very happy for him in that regard."

Morris said he understands that Potter and Randall county authorities are looking at continuing to pay employees in the military service.

"We don't have anything like that in place," he said, adding that Logue will be paid the 15 days required by law.

Eskridge said a recent notice from the Texas Municipal League (TML) outlined an employer's responsibilities to persons called into the military required by law.

According to the TML, under the federal Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act and Chapter 613 of the Texas government Code, an employee can be reemployed after a five-year absence. The employees' benefits are protected under this law as far as seniority, pensions, pay increases, promotions and transfers. It also provides protection against discharge without cause for six months to a year after returning to employment, determined by the length of active duty. It also stipulates that the employee must be paid for at least 15 days of the active service period.

Gray County Judge Richard Peet was out of town today and unavailable for comment. Gray County Auditor Elaine Morris said that as far as she knew, Judge Martinez is the only county official or employee affected by the deployments.

"To my knowledge this issue is not addressed in (Gray County) policy unless it was in some past minutes (of Gray County Commissioners meetings)," she said today.

Judge Martinez, as an elected official, may be different also," Morris said. "Definitely I will have (Judge Peet) place this on the agenda — maybe even for next week."

Martinez said this morning that while many men from his company — Bravo Company of the Texas National Guard — had reported for active duty, he has not been called.

"The grade I hold is not needed in this particular mission," Martinez said. Martinez is a first sergeant, a supervisory position. He explained that the local National Guard company was called to help fill vacancies in the Alpha and Charlie companies out of Amarillo. "They already have first sergeants," he explained.

"If I should get called to active duty," Martinez said he would look into the details of what his absence would mean. "It's something I would clarify and see how that would impact me."

Martinez surmised that the other precinct judges would take over his duties if he was called to active service.

"For people like in my situation, it's different," he said. "The other judges would just take over the load and incorporate it into their routine. We'd have to iron out the details."

Woman treated, released after crash at unmarked intersection

A Pampa woman suffered multiple injuries in a two-vehicle collision Monday afternoon at the intersection of Warren and Kingsmill.

Officers said there are no stop or yield signs at the intersection, Shirlynn Melina West, 18, 316 N. Sumner, was treated for back and hand injuries Monday at the Pampa Regional Medical Center after being rushed to the hospital by Rural/Metro Ambulance. Officers said West was driving a 1977 Chevrolet Blazer that was in collision with a 1995 Ford Windstar van driven by Billy Ray Counts, 71, 1109 E. Darby about 2:45 p.m. Monday.

The Blazer ended up upside down in the northeast corner of the intersection. Witnesses said West crawled from the inverted sports utility vehicle, escaping through a passenger's side window that had been broken out by the force of the impact.

Pampa Regional Medical Center officials said today West was released Monday after being treated at the emergency room.

Witnesses said the maroon and tan Blazer was eastbound on Kingsmill, and the turquoise van was northbound on Warren at the time of the accident.

PROJECT

Canadian River Municipal Water Authority which serves 11 member cities including Pampa and Amarillo.

Pampa's portion of the $52.8 million project is $2.35 million and was financed with a 20-year bond issue that will be paid off in 2020, said City Finance Director John Horst.

To cover the costs, water bills are being raised in phases over several years, he said. Bills going out this month will reflect an increase of 60 cents on the minimum charge and 17 cents for every 1,000 gallons used over 2,000 gallons per month. These figures are for residential customers.

Although Eskridge says the city can "get by" for a time in the winter on city well water alone while taking the water plant down for repairs, having the Roberts County supply will make that act less tenuous.

Well water, he explained, does not have to be treated as does surface water.

It's expected that after Roberts County water is flowing, the treatment plant will be shut down for the installation of the Acti-Flo system which will allow the city to treat its full six million gallon capacity again, the city manager said.

The city had been cited by the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission for not meeting all the state's treatment requirements and the new system will remedy that, Eskridge said. Bids for the system are due in this week.

John Williams, CRMWA general manager, said the Roberts County project had been due on line last spring.

He said a right-of-way dispute with one landowner relative to power lines had slowed the timetable as did getting a certificate of convenience and necessity to run the power line 13 miles from west of Pampa's airport.

Additionally, Williams said construction took longer than anticipated.

Before the cities began receiving water, Williams said the system will be tested for a few weeks.

DEPUTY

Langwell said the Tomahawk is an effective and accurate weapon.

Sunday, 50 Tomahawks were launched from four U.S. Navy ships, a cruiser and three destroyers, and two British submarines.

British Prime Minister Tony Blair said the attacks included Tomahawk cruise missiles fired from the British nuclear-attack submarine HMS Trafalgar and HMS Triumph.

The second day's attacks were smaller than the initial strikes. They also involved Tomahawk land-attack cruise missiles, according to Gen. Richard Myers, Chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Like the previous day, targets included aircraft, early warning radars, surface-to-air missile systems, airports, runways, terrorist training camps, military command and control centers, ground forces and other Al-Qaeda and Taliban sites.

The satellite-guided Tomahawks fly extremely low to evade radar.

Used effectively in the Persian Gulf, the Tomahawk is capable of penetrating deep underground.

Following launches of the missile during the campaign against Yugoslavians in the Balkans of southeastern Europe, the Navy admitted that its supply of the deadly cruise missile had dwindled dangerously low.

Before Operation 'Allied Force' the Navy had about 2,000 Tomahawks, but used them at a fast rate. In last December's four-day bombardment of Iraq during Operation 'Desert Fox', the Navy fired more than 300 Tomahawks. By comparison, the Navy fired 288 Tomahawks during the six-week 1990-91 Gulf War.

As a result of its dwindling supplies, the Navy converted 324 Tomahawks to its latest model with upgraded guidance and a conventional blast warhead at a cost of about $113 million.

The manufacturer of the missile, Raytheon, reportedly has re-opened its production line.

Tortilla maker shut down

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A San Antonio company that makes tortillas, chips and cornmeal has been shut down because its plant was in poor physical repair and was plagued by rats, according to officials with the Texas Department of Health.

The building occupied by Alamo Masa Inc. showed "signs of excessive rodent infestation, peeling paint, unprotected building openings, flies on food products, and damaged or rotting ceilings and walls," according to a health department statement issued Monday.

Texas Editorials

By The Associated Press

A sampling of editorial opinion around Texas.
San Antonio Express-News on terrorists and Mexican border.

These are difficult and tense times not just for the United States but for others in the world, especially this nation's neighbors, Canada and Mexico.

The deadly terrorist attacks in New York and Washington have forced the United States to be more vigilant on its borders.

No one bears more responsibility in this task than the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service and U.S. Customs.

Like other law enforcement agencies, the INS and customs are under tremendous pressure to keep the nation safe.

Americans and foreign visitors understand that. In South Texas and northern Mexico, people seem resigned to long waits to cross the border.

Unfortunately, as in previous national crises and even in uneventful times some agents seem to think that they have carte blanche to be arbitrary and disrespectful in carrying out their duties.

The Laredo Morning Times reported recently that some inspectors are confiscating border-crossing cards, popularly known as micas, because they are not satisfied with card holders' answers to their cross-examinations.

One woman, who was going to buy groceries at an H-E-B supermarket across the border, found that her reason was not good enough, according to the newspaper.

Ramon Juarez, INS director in Laredo, confirmed to the newspaper that inspectors are closely scrutinizing people but denied a massive confiscation of micas.

While Juarez is correct in launching an investigation, he and his Customs counterpart also should remind all inspectors that unprofessional behavior will not be tolerated.

As people who frequently cross the U.S.-Mexico border can attest, some agents are rude, especially to Mexican nationals and U.S. Hispanics who appear to be of meager incomes. Some have been known to shout in people's faces or make insensitive even racist remarks.

As President Bush and other national leaders have said, America needs to return to normal. One way suggested is shopping to keep the national economy moving.

For years, Mexican shoppers from as far as Mexico City and Guadalajara have kept the South Texas retail industry strong.

In their zeal to protect the nation, INS and customs inspectors must not humiliate people, thereby driving visitors away and prompting them to spend their money at home.

If that happens, the biggest loser will be the South Texas economy. The U.S. border needs Mexican shoppers as much as Mexican shoppers need U.S. goods.

Zionism is indeed a foreign influence

It was no surprise that the United States and Israel walked out of a United Nations conference on racism as soon as Israel came in for criticism. It is, however, a disgrace.

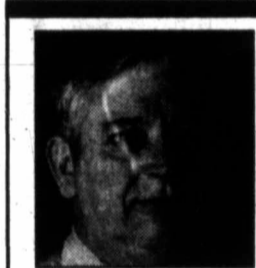

Israel certainly is a racist state. Its own human-rights advocates call it that. The claim that Israel doesn't discriminate against non-Jews is absurd on its face.

Suppose, for example, the U.S. Congress passed a law that said the United States is a Christian, Anglo-Saxon nation and that any Christian, Anglo-Saxon person anywhere in the world is automatically eligible to become a citizen. Do you seriously think the Anti-Defamation League would not have a con-spiration fit and scream racism? Well, Israel has such a law for Jews.

Thus a Russian Jew, for example, can become a citizen, but a Palestinian driven out of his own country in 1948 cannot return.

Suppose, for another example, a group of wealthy people established the Christian National Fund. This fund would be used to purchase property. Once purchased, the property could never be sold to, rented to or leased to a non-Christian. Would that not be called discrimination? Well, there is such a fund called the Jewish National Fund, which has all of those restrictions on the property it owns. It played a great part in establishing Israel.

And, of course, if American officials routinely issued building permits to Christian Anglo-Saxons while denying them to Jews or other groups, that would be considered racist. And neighborhoods that denied non-Christians an opportunity to buy or rent would likewise be considered racist. All of these forms of discrimination are practiced in Israel against Palestinians.

Charley Reese

The language that caused the United States to leave the conference was in a resolution passed by 3,000 nongovernmental organizations in 44 regional and interest-based caucuses, according to the Indian Express. Some American news reports have made it seem like it was an Arab-only move. I'd say the United States is definitely in a minority, as it usually is when it defends Israel — not on the basis of facts, but on the basis of the power of the Zionist lobby in the United States.

Fortunately, a growing number of American Jews are beginning to defy the slanders of the Zionist lobby and speak out against the human-rights abuses Israel inflicts on the Palestinians.

That indeed is the duty of all people of conscience. Acts that would be unacceptable in the United States cannot be condoned simply because they are done by Israelis to Palestinians. That in itself is a racist attitude.

In the meantime, much of the American press is allowing the Israeli government to dictate its language for propaganda purposes. If the Israelis wish to refer to assassinations as "targeted killing," that's their business, but American journalism should call them what they are — assassinations.

Assassination of political opponents, collective punishments inflicted on innocent people, confiscation of property, restriction of movements and employing military engines of destruction against an unarmed population are all considered crimes against humanity. Employing tanks against unarmed demonstrators in the West Bank and Gaza is no different than employing tanks against unarmed demonstrators in Tiananmen Square. You might want to meditate on why the American reaction is different even though the circumstances are similar.

It is also useful to keep George Washington's warning constantly in mind: "Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence — I conjure you to believe me, fellow citizens — the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake; since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government."

Zionism is foreign influence.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 9, the 282nd day of 2001. There are 83 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

Three hundred years ago, on Oct. 9, 1701, the Collegiate School of Connecticut — later Yale University — was chartered.

On this date:

In 1635, religious dissident Roger Williams was banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony. (He became a founder of Rhode Island.)

In 1776, a group of Spanish missionaries settled in present-day San Francisco.

In 1888, the public was first admitted to the Washington Monument.

In 1930, Laura Ingalls became the first woman to fly across the United States as she completed a nine-stop journey from Roosevelt Field in New York to Glendale, Calif.

In 1936, the first generator at Boulder (later Hoover) Dam began transmitting electricity to Los Angeles.

In 1946, the Eugene O'Neill drama "The Iceman Cometh" opened at the Martin Beck Theater in New York.

In 1958, Pope Pius XII died.

(He was succeeded by Pope John XXIII.)

In 1967, Latin American guerrilla leader Che Guevara was executed while attempting to incite revolution in Bolivia.

In 1975, Soviet scientist Andrei Sakharov was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

In 1985, the hijackers of the Achille Lauro cruise liner surrendered after the ship arrived in Port Said, Egypt.

Ten years ago: President Bush declared "total confidence" in his nominee to the U.S. Supreme Court, Clarence Thomas, who was accused of sexual harassment by former aide Anita Hill.

Five years ago: Vice President Al Gore and Jack Kemp debated in St. Petersburg, Fla. Two Americans and a Briton shared the Nobel Prize in chemistry while three Americans won the physics prize. In the opening game of the American League Championship series, 12-year-old Jeffrey Maier turned a probable fly out into a game-tying home run by reaching over the right-field wall at Yankee Stadium and sweeping the ball into the stands with his baseball glove (the Yankees won, 5-4 in 11 innings).

Missile defense is a realistic future goal

The fires at the Pentagon and World Trade Center were still burning when critics of America's missile-defense program began to argue that the events of Sept. 11 meant President Bush would have to abandon missile defense.

No high-tech shield would have prevented this attack, they said. And assembling a worldwide coalition against terrorism takes precedence, anyway.

"If that means ... postponing deployment of a theoretically workable missile defense system against a theoretical 'rogue nation' missile threat, then that is what realism requires of Bush," one columnist wrote.

But if "realism" requires anything, it's that we speed up our missile-defense timetable. The need has been obvious for some time; the events of Sept. 11 merely cement the case.

Think about it: the devastating death and destruction we witnessed in New York and Washington were the result of commercial airliners, loaded with highly combustible jet fuel, crashing into their targets at extremely high speeds. What if the next missile aimed at America's Heart carried a nuclear weapon?

Sound far-fetched? No more so than the specter of commercial jetliners destroying the World Trade Center and the creating a huge hole in the Pentagon. Like it or not, what was once unimaginable has become all too imaginable.

Edwin Feulner
President of The Heritage Foundation

If nothing else, the events of Sept. 11 should serve as a somber wake-up call. We no longer can underestimate the capabilities and craziness of those who wish us harm. We now have learned the hard way that defending America means closing down avenues of attack that once would have seemed the stuff of science fiction.

That's why I'm baffled by the continued resistance to missile defense. Rep. John F. Tierney, D-Mass., for example, said the day after the attacks that "this type of incident ... is much higher on the list of threats than anything the president would address with this national missile defense program."

But one look at the roster of rogue nations that are actively developing long-range missiles — including North Korea, Iran and Iraq — shows why the congressman's confidence is misplaced. We must defend ourselves today against what likely will be the terrorists' weapon of choice tomorrow: ballistic missiles.

In the meantime, of course, we're working to prevent a repeat of the Sept. 11 attacks. We've tightened airport security, we're putting armed sky marshals on commercial flights and we're increasing our intelligence capabilities.

But we shouldn't lose sight of the fact that some of the same regimes that sponsor and support terrorism have aggressive ballistic missile programs. Do we wait until the next tragedy to move aggressively against this threat as well?

Make no mistake. If we don't act now to protect ourselves and our allies from missile attack, we could face an even greater tragedy in the future.

This is no time to pull back on missile defense. It's time to move forward. Not since World War II has America come close to enjoying the broad range of support for its war against terrorism that it does today. Our allies understand that these new threats are unpredictable and that our enemies are their enemies. Now's the time to show the way to a safer world for everyone.

Let's not bet against the resourcefulness of terrorists — and their supporters in Iran, Iraq and elsewhere — any longer. Let's be ready next time. That means building a missile defense system. Now.

Avenues: Big-city design from home

Lori Fulton-Groenwald and DeLynn Gordzelik are providing the latest in design for their customers locally and across the area.

Avenues in Pampa is the place to go for the latest in interior design. The business offers a complete selection of interior design materials and services.

DeLynn Gordzelik and Lori Fulton-Groenwald teamed together to form the local business in September, 1999. Lori moved to Pampa from Amarillo two years ago while DeLynn has lived in Pampa since she was a child.

DeLynn and her mother, Pam Ashford, began the local business by custom making home draperies and bedding in their workroom. The business has grown considerably the past two years and four women are now employed in the workroom. The women can make anything out of a fabric a customer may want, said DeLynn.

"We will do one room or the whole house," said Lore, as she discussed the varied services the two young women provide to their customers.

Lori has been a licensed designer, #3907, for 12 years.

The two young women operate the only interior design store in Pampa, and said they offer as wide a selection of products as any interior design store in Amarillo.

In-stock materials are offered for the latest styles in interior design. The local store is the only in-stock distributor of Ralph Lauren fabric within 500 miles, said DeLynn.

Whether it be the popular animal skins, fabrics with an oriental flair, the vintage look, or even the lodge design, DeLynn and Lori will uniquely design your home. The vintage look, or shabby chic, is very transitional.

Animal prints are currently in vogue in interior design. Leopard, mink, fox and zebra are all in demand.

"There are currently so many colors and designs which are popular," said Lori. "It's such a broad range."

The most current colors considered to be fashionable are reds, purples, golds and sage greens, she said.

If the local store doesn't have the exact fabric a customer wants, the two young women will locate it.

"We will go to the homes of our customers," said DeLynn. "We will help them pick out furniture or anything for their home."

Lori said she and DeLynn will take their own things and assist with arrangement. "We'll even help pick paint colors to match the draperies and wallpaper."

Experienced in design, they will also shop with the customers. If the customer prefers, Lori and DeLynn will obtain the customer preferences and do the shopping for them.

Avenues has an attractive selection of accessories in stock for their customers, also.

"We will help pick out furniture or anything for the home," said DeLynn.

The local store offers custom made blinds as well as anything out of fabric. A wide selection of upholstery fabrics is available to the customers, and the staff will make cushions to the customer specifications.

Avenues also has a wide selection of wallpaper books for customers to browse and make their selections.

Lori and DeLynn will go anywhere to assist their customers. They have designed homes all over the Texas, and Oklahoma Panhandles — including Stratford, Amarillo, Canadian, Miami, Panhandle and Guymon, Okla.

These two attractive young women provide very high quality work. They will be happy to discuss with customers about any interior design job — large or small.

Avenues is located at 119 S. Western. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Lori or DeLynn at 665-0983 at their Pampa-based store.

False-Alarm Pregnancy Sets Man Off To Find More 'Space'

DEAR ABBY: I am in my mid-20s and have found the perfect man. We are very much in love and have discussed marriage. We are sexually active and responsible about using birth control.

A week and a half ago, my period was noticeably late. I voiced my concerns to "Bob." He assured me everything would be fine and tried to console me; however, he never said anything about marrying me if I was pregnant. It turned out to be a false alarm.

Last night, Bob told me he needed "space"; that there are things he needs to accomplish in life before getting married. He said his decision had nothing to do with me and that he still loves me very much. I find it too coincidental that this change came about only a week after my possible pregnancy. We talked it over and ended our relationship.

Abby, I couldn't bear the thought of being with a man who is capable of running away from his responsibility. I, too, have things I'd like to accomplish in life, but I would have liked to achieve them with Bob by my side. Do you think I made the right decision to end it, or did I overreact?

AT A LOSS IN ATLANTA

DEAR AT A LOSS: Overreact? Not at all. Your false alarm made your "perfect man" show his true colors.

DEAR ABBY: I am a teenage girl in middle school. I had this boyfriend, "Bud." We were really close and were friends long before we became girlfriend and boyfriend.

Dear Abby

Is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips.

There was also this other boy, "Burke," who is very good-looking. We called each other a few times and just "clicked."

Some friends told me if I wanted things to spark with Burke, I would have to break up with Bud. I was in love with Bud and didn't want to break up with him - but I wanted "sparks to fly" with Burke and me, so I broke up with Bud. He was very hurt.

Later that night, Burke didn't call me, and I found out he didn't want to be my boyfriend. I immediately called Bud, crying, and asked him to take me back. He said no!

Abby, I can't eat or sleep and I don't go out with my friends anymore. Now Bud likes another girl, and I can't stand her! Please tell me what to do.

DEAR ABBY: You might like to share my method of updating an address book: Last year I tore all the little return address labels from the holiday cards I received and pasted them in my address book.

It makes for a much neater look and guarantees the addresses are correct. It also eliminates scratch-outs and messy handwriting, because if an address changes, I simply paste the new label over the old.

Since I never miss your column and learn much from your readers, I thought I would return the favor.

DEAR MARY: It's a clever idea - and with the holidays approaching, certainly worth trying. Thanks for the suggestion.

Harvesters finally get one of those scoreboard wins

PAMPA — Pampa not only notched a crucial District 3-4A victory last Friday night, but the Harvester also ended Hereford's district win streak at 15 games.

"It was a big win for us in many ways. We were reeling from three tough losses and were starting to wonder if we were doing things the right way," said head coach Dennis Cavalier about Pampa's 21-15 win at Harvester Stadium. "We had played well against Palo Duro, Amarillo High and Lubbock Estacado, but unfortunately it didn't show up on the scoreboard. The players continued to persevere and everything went right for us. We beat a very good opponent."

Pampa had more total yardage than Amarillo High and Lubbock Estacado and more first downs than Palo Duro.

Things did get a little scary in the Pampa-Hereford tilt when the Whitefaces closed the gap to a touchdown with 4:42 remaining.

"We had several opportunities to run out the clock, but we weren't able to do it. Our defense really stepped up for

The tournament will be from 8:30 a.m. to noon, and 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Meeting planned for city volleyball league us," Cavalier said.

Senior linebacker Tanner Dyer led Pampa's defensive charge with a pair of fourth-quarter interceptions that spoiled Hereford comeback attempts.

"Our entire defense played well, but Tanner just had an awesome game," Cavalier noted. "He's our defensive player of the week."

Dyer had 14 tackles, including 6 solo stops, along with 1 quarterback hurry and 1 caused fumble.

Junior quarterback John Braddock is Pampa's offensive player of the week, Cavalier said. Braddock completed 18 of 24 pass attempts for 178 yards and no interceptions.

He completed a 2-point conversion pass and ran for two touchdowns.

"John was just phenomenal," Cavalier said. "He was never sacked. Some of the credit goes to him and some to his pass protection."

Pampa's offensive line did an outstanding job of blocking. Center Brandon McElroy, tackles Trent Price and Jon Lambright were especially effective, helping to give Braddock plenty of time to unleash his passes.

Pampa finished with 253 yards in total offense, compared to 238 for Hereford.

The Harvesters are now 2-3 for the season and 1-1 in district play.

The Whitefaces, suffering their first loss, are 1-4 overall and 1-1 in district.

Dumas, a 34-15 loser to Palo Duro last week, visits Pampa for more district action at 7:30 Friday night.

The Harvesters have won 30 of their last 33 district home games.

DUMAS — With four matches left, the Pampa High tennis team is a perfect 10-0 in District 3-4A action.

Last weekend, Pampa defeated third-place Dumas 16-3 with the girls team going 9-0.

A-Rod has great year for last-place Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Alex Rodriguez couldn't do it all by himself.

Even though the All-Star shortstop put up MVP-type numbers in the first season of his record $252 million, 10-year contract, the Texas Rangers finished last in the AL West for the second straight year.

Texas was 73-89 and 43 games behind Seattle, A-Rod's former team, even though he played in all 162 games and hit .318 with an AL-leading 52 homers and 133 runs scored.

"I didn't expect anything less than what he's done. He's gone out and played every day and been productive," said teammate Rafael Palmeiro, who tied a career high with 47 homers. "He's all that's been advertised."

The problem was that Rodriguez didn't pitch.

While the Rangers got the biggest free agent available last winter, there weren't any significant additions to a staff that was already the worst in the majors — and still is.

The Rangers had a 5.71 ERA, the worst in the majors. They allowed more hits (1,670) and runs (968) than any other team, and only Colorado (239) gave up more the 222 homers hit off Texas pitchers.

The season has already led to the firing of general manager Doug Melvin, the architect of Texas' only three division championship teams (1996, '98 and '99) his job.

"My concern is we as an organization have not done what we need to do as an organization as far as drafting, trading and developing young players, especially pitchers," owner Tom Hicks said.

Hicks' new GM needs only to take note of Oakland and Houston, playoff teams this year with young, homegrown pitchers. Hicks wants a top-to-bottom evaluation of the entire organization from his new GM, which could lead to some drastic changes.

Manager Jerry Narron's status will be determined by the new GM. The Rangers were 62-72 under Narron, who took over when Johnny Oates resigned under pressure May 4 after an 11-17 start.

Narron was given a two-year contract extension through the 2003 season about a month after he first replaced Oates.

Not even 10-time All-Star catcher Ivan Rodriguez is a certainty any more.

Rodriguez hasn't even finished the last two seasons because of injuries, this year because of surgery for tendinitis in his left knee after hitting .308 with 25 homers and 65 RBIs in 111 games. He could become a free agent after next season.

Rodriguez's agent indicated that he will seek up to $20 million a year for his client, who has caught almost 1,300 games and turns 30 next month.

When Alex Rodriguez was signed last winter, the Rangers never anticipated going into a rebuilding mode midway through his first season. But his fate was sealed early with their bad start and Seattle's record-setting run.

"We've been eliminated after the first week of spring training with the way Seattle got started," A-Rod said. "We're going to win here, it's just a matter of time. We are getting our stuff together."

Rookie second baseman Michael Young, who Rodriguez took under his wing along with other young players, became an everyday player. He responded by hitting .247 with 11 homers and 49 RBIs in 106 games, with just eight fielding errors.

Rookie first baseman Carlos Pena got extended time after his September callup, and hit .268 with three homers and 12 RBIs in 56 at-bats.

"Last year, we were going into reverse into the off-season," Palmeiro said. "This year, we're going forward again. We are going in the right direction. We've got young players in place, we've got some young talent."

Pena has a good chance to play all of next season. Then the Rangers could continue splitting the 37-year-old Palmeiro between first and designated hitter in an effort to extend the slugger's career.

When the Rangers released Ken Caminiti in July, Mike Lamb returned to third base, where he made 33 errors as a rookie the previous year. He made 17 more errors, but hit .306 over 278 at-bats.

Utility player Frank Catalanotto became an everyday outfielder because of a series of injuries, and was fifth in the AL in batting at .330. He was second in the league before ending the season with a 5-for-27 slide.

There was some promising pitching from Doug Davis (11-9, 4.60 ERA) in his second season and Jeff Zimmerman, who took over the closer's role when Tim Lincecum tore a rotator cuff. Zimmerman had 27 saves, including a team-record 17 conversions in a row to end the season.

No. 1 starter Ricky Helling (12-11, 5.17) avoided his first losing record in four seasons with the Rangers by bouncing back from a 1-6 start.

Carter out two weeks

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys rookie quarterback Quincy Carter isn't expected to play for two weeks after straining his left hamstring in the loss against Oakland.

As a result, backup quarterback Anthony Wright, who came in after Carter was left hobbled in the first quarter, is now poised to get his third start of the season against Washington.

Carter had a MRI on Monday to determine the injury's severity. Results will not be available until Tuesday.

"This is very frustrating," Carter told The Dallas Morning News in Tuesday's editions, "because I haven't been hurt too often. I was never hurt at Georgia outside of my thumb."

"My teammates know I can play," he said. "They know I have talent. I've just had some injury problems."

Carter had returned to the lineup on Sunday after missing two games with a bruised thumb.

4 x 4 soccer

Kayla Mendoza of Keyes Rattlers One is defended by Dayla Hendricks (right) of Keyes Rattlers Three in last weekend's Top O' Texas 4 x 4 Tournament held at the Pampa Soccer Association Complex. The two teams finished tied at 1-1. 4 x 4 soccer is made up of four players on a team and games are played on a small field without a goalie.

Rams shut out Lions, 35-0

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — There's more to the St. Louis Rams this year than just a high-powered offense.

The Rams routed the Detroit Lions 35-0 Monday night with their first shutout since moving to St. Louis in 1995. And it was the first time the Lions were held scoreless since 1993.

St. Louis linebacker London Fletcher is not jealous of the attention that the offense attracts. He's just ready for more people to notice what's happening on the other side of the ball.

"We don't want to be considered a team that only has a great offense," said Fletcher, who had seven tackles, including a sack. "We can be great in all three phases — offense, defense and special teams.

"I think even if some teams play their best against us, it's still not going to be good enough."

St. Louis (4-0) didn't seem to play its best against Detroit (0-3), but its performance was still good enough to remain the NFL's only undefeated team.

Kurt Warner threw three touchdown passes and Dre' Bly returned an interception 93 yards for a score.

Marshall Faulk, who ran for 71 yards and a touchdown and caught nine passes for 80 yards, praised the defense.

"What's going on is that our defense is playing so good that we're getting more opportunities," Faulk said.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;
3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Anger or grumpiness greets you in the morning. You can clear your mood if you process it. What is at the bottom of this feeling? Do something nice for your co-workers. Stop and buy doughnuts on the way in. Confusion surrounds you. Verify messages and appointments. Tonight: Nap and then decide.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 You wake up like a jack-in-the-box. A dream or early-morning call energizes you. Happily, your efforts pay off with a child or loved one. Clear out a mixed message at work. Verify and confirm facts and messages. Tonight: Make it an early night.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 You cannot be too careful with financial agreements. Clearly someone doesn't understand your limits. As a result, this person tests your financial boundaries. Learn to say "enough" in a way that another can hear. Creativity leads you astray! Tonight: You don't have to do anything.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Someone flares this morning. You might opt to duck rather than absorb the negative energy. Your words help others relax. Don't get locked into details. A boss's instructions need to be followed explicitly. You can't fudge here. Tonight: Once you get started, you might not want to stop!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Take your time getting to places and dealing with those in your day-to-day life. You could easily lose your temper or get upset by events around you. Stop and buy yourself something that makes you happy. Relax. Clear out confusion. Tonight: Early to bed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Your generous nature helps you jump past a problem and deal with someone more clearly and directly. Your gentle ways help others relax. Use your nurturing skills. Wave a red flag financially, as a mistake could happen easily. Tonight: Where your friends are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 Others simply don't get your intent clearly. Share more of yourself. Don't allow anger from one situation to flow into another situation. Give someone the benefit of the doubt. Keep feelings in check with a loved one. Tonight: Clear out work first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Clarify information. You could become upset and lose your temper easily. Consider a new possibility carefully. A friend goes overboard to ease your path. Thank this person for the efforts. Tonight: Let your mind escape the day-to-day grind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 A friend means well but gives you faulty information. Verify all facts right now, as an error is in the works. A boss or older relative supports you in a very special way. Be careful with spending, even if you are buying a token of affection. Tonight: Spend quality time with a loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Your fiery ways sometimes intimidate an associate. Possibly, you might want it like this! If someone sputters in a conversation or backs off, don't even wonder why. Your strong personality overwhelms others. Wave hello to good news. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 Review decisions this morning. Assume responsibility for a problem. You might find it difficult to curb your anger under the circumstances. What really is bothering you? A partner or associate expresses willingness to support you. Tonight: Off to the gym.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 Your attitude and playfulness could confuse a dear partner or friend. Consider your priorities, and ask yourself if you are giving mixed messages. A loved one might have a reason to gripe. Slow down and think about what you are doing. Tonight: Create fun wherever you are.
