$10,000 in jewelry stolen from home
Pampa police detectives continue to investigate the theft of $10,000 in jewelry in a Russell Street residential burglary Tuesday.
According to police reports, someone forced open the front door of a residence in the 800 block of North Russell sometime between 6:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Tuesday while the house's occupant was at work.
The unknown suspect apparently ransacked the house looking for valuables, police said. When the resident returned home from work, she discovered a jewelry box and jewelry, valued at $10,000, inside the box was stolen. The back door was left standing open, the report stated.

Indian groups want school mascot changes
SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two Central Texas school districts intend to keep their Indian mascots despite requests of an American Indian activist group that has prompted some changes.
Administrators at two other San Antonio school districts have agreed to change their Indian mascots and team names at the group's request.
Jonathan Hook, president of San Antonio's American Indian Resource Center, said Harlandale and Jourdanton districts have made no attempt to part with their Indian affiliation.
Guillermo Zavala Jr., an assistant superintendent, said because the district has connections to Mission San Jose, the team name has historical significance.

Man gets life in prison for felony DWI

Further testimony showed that at the time of the May arrest, a warrant had been issued revoking O'Gorman's parole on a 1995 conviction for intoxicated manslaughter out of Hutchinson County. A Borger woman died in the incident and O'Gorman was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

A Gray County jury sentenced Richard O'Gorman to life in prison for felony driving while intoxicated, after also finding him to be a habitual offender in district court here Tuesday.
O'Gorman, 45, of Stinnett, testified during the punishment phase of the trial that he did not accept the jury's verdict and would appeal the conviction. His attorney, Phil Pendleton, said after the sentencing that he also plans to file a motion for a new trial "for several reasons" within 30 days.

"I told the jury that it's never easy to sentence a person to life in prison, but the fact is, he had his opportunities and he chose not to take those opportunities," commented newly-hired Assistant District Attorney David Holmes. (See related story this page)

In the first phase of the trial that began Monday afternoon, jurors considered testimony from Trooper David O'Brien, Texas Department of Public Safety, who arrested O'Gorman for driving while intoxicated after stopping him for a traffic violation on U.S. 60 in May.

Further testimony showed that at the time of the May arrest, a warrant had been issued revoking O'Gorman's parole on a 1995 conviction for intoxicated manslaughter out of Hutchinson County. A Borger woman died in the incident and O'Gorman was sentenced to 15 years in prison. He had been paroled in September 2000 after serving approximately six years in the penitentiary.

O'Brien's patrol car videotape of O'Gorman's field sobriety tests and arrest was introduced by Holmes and District Attorney Rick Roach as key evidence. In the videotape, O'Gorman said he had had four beers in three hours when O'Brien asked if he had been drinking. He said he was headed to Fort Cobb, Okla., for a vacation.

After failing several standardized sobriety tests at the scene, O'Gorman was arrested and taken to Gray County Jail, testimony showed. While inventorying the truck he was driving, officers testified they found an open can of cold beer beside the driver seat and a cooler containing a 12-pack of beer plus two more cans of beer.

In his defense, Pendleton presented evidence that he said indicated O'Gorman had physical and mental problems that kept him from performing the field sobriety tests correctly.

O'Gorman refused to take an intoxilyzer test at the county jail, so no evidence of his alcohol blood level at the time of the arrest was available.

On Tuesday morning, jurors pronounced O'Gorman guilty of driving while intoxicated, enhanced to a first degree felony because of two prior convictions in Hutchinson County.

In the punishment phase, the jury was shown evidence that O'Gorman had served two prison sentences, one 6-month jail sentence, and was placed on probation several times for driving while intoxicated, the intoxicated manslaughter already mentioned, and burglary of a District Judge Steven Emmerit, 31st District Court, swears in David Holmes, the new district attorney, on his first day of work here Monday.

New Assistant DA looks forward to more trial work

David Holmes, the new assistant district attorney, began his career here this week by winning a conviction and life sentence in a first degree felony trial.

District Attorney Richard Roach hired Holmes after Gray County Commissioner's Court approved a full-time assistant DA position for the 2002 budget.

"We hit it off right away," Roach said. "He's the kind of guy I wanted representing the district. He's very professional and a good Christian man. It may not be politically correct, but that's something I look at. I was also impressed with his family."

Holmes received a law degree from Southern Methodist University in Dallas. He also holds a degree in divinity, Roach said.

Prior to accepting the assistant DA's job here, he prosecuted misdemeanor, juvenile and felony cases in Denton County for 11 years. He was currently employed as an assistant district attorney in Denton County.

"I was looking for a place where I would have more autonomy," Holmes said of his decision to come to this area.

In the booming Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex area, he was one of approximately 50 assistant DAs. Here, Holmes said, he will be able to do more trial work.

"My wife and I were also interested in raising kids in a small town," he said. He and his wife Kristin hope to move their three school-age children to Canadian when they find the right home, he said.

"I'm looking forward to getting to know everyone and going to the different counties. I really enjoy the trial work," he said.

Cocaine baby's mom locked up

Felony charge; $50,000 bond

A Pampa woman remained in Gray County Jail today on felony charges that a cocaine addiction harmed her newborn baby.

Carla Dunn, 20, 536 Lefors, was arrested on a warrant for injury to a child causing serious bodily injury on Saturday, Oct. 13. Bond was set at $50,000 by Justice of the Peace Curt Kurfman.

District Attorney Richard Roach said the charges were filed after Dunn's baby was born Aug. 26 at a local hospital with 675 mg. per liter of cocaine in its blood. The infant, currently hospitalized in Amarillo, suffers from gastritis and withdrawal tremors related to the cocaine, he said.

Roach said the DA's office filed the charges against Dunn on Friday, March 12. DA Investigator Dallas Hardin served the warrant and arrested the woman at 9 a.m. Saturday, according to Gray County Jail records.

"We're alleging the mother's cocaine use has caused serious mental and physical impairment to the child," Roach said.

"I understand this is not the only case of this nature that has taken place in Gray County," he said. "I don't know what has happened in the past, but it's something we're going to do something about."

Roach said he has asked the Child Protective Services workers to "notify me directly" of any future cases involving children born of drug-addicted mothers.

Sales tax receipts up for fiscal year

KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

There's good news on the sales tax front as final 2000-01 fiscal year calculations show collections exceeded both the amount budgeted and prior year receipts, said City Finance Director John Horst.

"This was the highest year of sales tax receipts since fiscal year 1997-98," he said. "Of the 12 months, three were lower than the prior year and nine were above what was collected in the prior year."

In addition, the first report of the new fiscal year which started Oct. 1 show August collections at $179,100 which is up over budget by $34,400 and over the same time period last year by $23,800.

Each monthly report reflects receipts from two months prior, he said.

For the fiscal year just ended, Horst said the city received $2,115,346 from sales tax which was up by $180,700 over the prior year and up $175,300 over what was budgeted.

October is the seventh consecutive months that current year collections have exceeded the prior year, Horst said.

Because August has the statewide sales tax holiday period for back-to-school shopping, Horst says he's especially pleased to see those numbers higher than in August of 2000.

PEDC throws open floor to citizen questions

By NANCY YOUNG

Fifteen local residents showed up Tuesday night for the Pampa Economic Development Corporation meeting to have the board members answer questions concerning the entity.

Controversy has surrounded the PEDC in recent years, and a group of citizens gathered enough signatures on a petition to bring the issue of dissolving the PEDC to a vote on Nov. 6.

Debt payment, Pampa Country Club memberships, dairy problems, paying expenses for National Pig Development USA, and reports board members participated in an illegal meeting Monday were among the topics discussed during the meeting.

Open discussion of PEDC business was listed on the agenda, said the board members, to meet the legal requirements for the board to discuss any business affairs regarding the PEDC.

Board Vice President Jerry Foote said the Texas Open Meetings laws do not allow board members to have discussion with the public during the public comment section of the agenda. He said the open discussion was placed on the agenda so everyone present could talk about any subject.

The necessity of the PEDC paying for a Pampa Country Club membership was questioned by Kathleen Greene. She questioned the need for the membership at taxpayer expense.

She asked why there is a need for the PEDC to be a member, and for what it was used.

Foote, along with fellow board members, said it is necessary to have a secluded area to eat and talk to prospective businesses about financial affairs.

Greene questioned why a local restaurant couldn't be utilized instead of the PEDC paying taxpayer money to a private club. She said Furr's Cafeteria has a private room.

Darville Orr said it takes 20 minutes to go through the cafeteria line by the time a person visits with other customers.

Greene said the PEDC is neglecting local businesses by not giving them more business.

She also asked if PEDC Executive Director Tripplehorn used the membership for business as well as her family. Tripplehorn responded yes to both and said she reimburses the (See PEDC, Page 3)

Gun ownership case sent back

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An appeals court's ruling that the government can regulate Second Amendment protections wrongly diminishes an individual's right to bear arms, the attorney for a man accused of having a gun in violation of a court order says.

A three-member panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday in a case involving Dr. Timothy Emerson of San Angelo, who was arrested after he purchased a pistol. The government argued that the gun purchase violated a domestic violence court order.

The court overruled a federal judge's decision that Emerson was wrongly prosecuted, but the panel upheld a key part of U.S. District Court Judge Sam Cummings' ruling — that the Second Amendment protects the right to bear arms for individuals, not just members of government militias.

Lubbock attorney David Guinn said the right to bear arms is an elevated right, similar to freedom of political speech and the free exercise of religion, and should not be regulated.

"I don't think that the regulation or the basis for the regulation in this case was sufficient to overcome Dr. Emerson's individual right," Guinn said. "That's where I feel the 5th Circuit is wrong. I believe they've wrongly diminished the significance and import of that individual right."

Air Force, Army reservists called

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Nearly 1,100 reservists with the 433rd Airlift Wing at Lackland Air Force Base were expected to report for duty this week after the Pentagon ordered them to active duty.

The 1,082 Air Force reservists include mechanics, fuel specialists, loadmasters and pilots.

About 180 Army reservists of the 321st Military Intelligence Battalion were also called to active duty to support Operation Enduring Freedom, a response to the September terrorist attacks. The battalion, headquartered in Austin, involves 60 personnel from Dallas, Austin and San Antonio.

Personnel from each Army unit will meet in their respective cities on Thursday and move on to Fort Hood by Sunday, said Bob Williams, a public affairs specialist with the 90th Regional Support Command based in Little Rock, Ark.

The Air Force reservists will support C-5 aircraft operations for the wing. But officials were tight-lipped about the role they would play in the United States' response to the attacks.

Lt. Col. Meade Warthen at Lackland said that only that "some" of the 433rd had been ordered to active duty.

Problems with DFW airport screeners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undocumented workers were screening passengers at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and seven of 20 screeners at Washington Dulles International Airport failed their annual tests, government investigators said Tuesday.

The Transportation Department's inspector general and the Federal Aviation Administration were looking at passenger screeners who staff checkpoints at 14 airports, part of an investigation into whether background checks required of security employees were done.

The probe began after federal prosecutors accused the company that handles security at the 14 airports, Argenbright Security Inc., of failing to make background checks at Philadelphia International Airport. Government investigators were sent to Philadelphia, and separate teams went to 13 other airports staffed by Argenbright employees.

Besides Dulles, Argenbright handles security at Boston and Newark. The four planes commandeered by terrorists in the attacks that killed more than 5,000 people flew from those three airports.

Federal prosecutors charged last week that the company hired criminals to staff security checkpoints at Philadelphia airport even after being fined $1 million last year for failing to check the backgrounds of its workers.

The FAA-OIG investigators found this week that screeners at Seattle and some other airports had prior criminal records that should have prevented them from getting those jobs. Federal officials would not identify the other airports.

Investigators found seven undocumented workers at Dallas screening passengers. Last month, the inspector general began investigating whether undocumented workers were working illegally at Dulles checkpoints.

Progress made in search for cure for late stage anthrax

UNDATED — The search for novel treatments to cure gravely ill victims of inhaled anthrax has taken on new urgency, but experts caution they are still probably years away from useful new medicines.

The research targets the most insidious aspect of this frightening disease: By the time symptoms start, it is often too late to do anything.

By then, anthrax bacteria have flooded the bloodstream with deadly poison. Killing the germs with antibiotics may not help much, because the damage is already done.

Scientists are working on ways to block this toxin so it does not enter blood cells after being released by the bacteria.

The search for new anthrax treatments "has always been of great interest," but it obviously will get ratcheted up," Dr. Anthony Fauci, head of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, said Tuesday.

His agency and the Defense Department have financed most of the research. He said they hope to back more research, as well as speed up testing of any new drugs that are discovered.

By the time the first symptoms appear, the bacteria have already spewed out their toxin. This poison seeps into blood cells called macrophages. There it prompts the cells to manufacture normally useful disease-fighting substances, then kills

Budget chief pledges at least $20 billion to help New York recover

NEW YORK (AP) — President Bush's budget chief guaranteed at least $20 billion in federal recovery funds for New York City, but called for fiscal restraint as decisions are made on the appropriation of aid.

Holding a hard hat after a tour of the World Trade Center site Tuesday, White House Budget Director Mitch Daniels said the president is com-then, releasing the substances in dangerously high quantities.

To block this process, scientists at the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases at Fort Detrick, Md., have screened dozens of antibodies against the poison. Two that seem to work are being investigated at the University of Texas at Austin.

Girl tells of torture by Laredo woman

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A Mexican girl found bound in chains and near death in the back yard of a South Texas home where she worked as a maid recounted her tortured captivity Tuesday in state court.

The 13-year-old girl testified during the second day in the criminal trial of Sandra Bearden, 27.

"La senora," the girl said, regularly punished her savagely using her hands, a belt, a broomstick, a glass and on one occasion, a skillet.

Bearden, seated at her lawyer's table in the courtroom, frequently shook her head at the child's testimony.

Tuesday marked the second day in the criminal trial against Bearden, a Mexican citizen who until May lived quietly in Laredo with her American trucker husband and their 4-year-old son.

On May 12, police responded to a 911 call from a neighbor who heard cries for help behind the 8-foot-high concrete block fence around Bearden's east Laredo back yard.

Police found the bound girl severely dehydrated and malnourished.

An officer cried Monday when he described the condition in which he found her.

Officer Jay Reese testified he saw the girl with her hands bound behind her back. The girl, who was wearing a red dress, immediately began to cry when she saw him.

Reese said he and two other police officers broke through a back fence to reach her.

"She was shaking and crying and had a scared look in her eyes. She was in severe pain," the officer, quoted in Tuesday's online editions of the Laredo Morning Times, said.

"I've never seen anything like it before," Reese said, and began to cry.

Slain woman's family seeks answers

HOUSTON (AP) — Two-year-old Jasmine Nhem is waiting for her mother to take her home from her grandmother's house.

But her mother, Nora Hilda Orta, won't be coming back. Police believe Orta, 22, was shot to death on Sunday by her 26-year-old husband, Sophath Nhem, who then turned the gun on himself.

Family members found Jasmine and her 9-month-old sister Brianna, in the room with their dead parents, trying to wake them on Monday.

Police believe the shootings probably occurred sometime Sunday night.

The parents were lying on their bed, and their daughters were in the bedroom. Brianna was in her crib, and Jasmine was standing by the window.

"She was crying," Balleza said. "She thought they were asleep."

Jasmine had thrown several items onto her parents' bed in an attempt to rouse them, said police, who allowed Orta's mother, Martha Alfaro, to take custody of the two children.

Officers had not determined a motive, but said the couple had argued Saturday night and had a history of domestic violence.

Witness details slaying in triple murder

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Three slaying victims of a prison-based gang were left in a children's plastic pool at their house while assailants cleaned it of evidence, even ripping out the carpet and replacing tile, a witness testified in one defendant's capital murder trial.

The San Antonio victims' bodies were later found bound, wrapped in the carpet and set ablaze along a remote stretch of road in Rio County.

Miguel Angel Paredes, one of three members of the Hermanos Pistoleros Latinos being tried in the slayings, is accused of using a pistol to shoot victim Nelly Esmeralda Bravo in the head. Police say Paredes, 19, then shot the 23-year-old woman in the chest with a shotgun when she didn't die immediately.

The accused gang sergeant known as "Chino," John Anthony Saenz, and Greg Alvarado, 21, are in jail awaiting trial on capital murder charges.

Chino's brother, Eric Saenz, testified Tuesday that he was so terrified about disobeying his sibling's orders to help out in the attack that he chose to turn Chino in to the authorities instead and is now one of the prosecution's key witnesses.

Law of officers believe the killings stemmed from a bad drug deal between an HPL sergeant and a member of the Mexican Mafia, 27-year-old Adrian Torres, whose body was among the three found dead.

Mexican high court ruling may benefit U.S. fugitives

HOUSTON (AP) — A Mexican Supreme Court ruling prohibiting the extradition of certain Mexican residents, may slow the prosecution of more than 100 U.S. fugitives now in Mexico, federal and state law enforcement officials fear.

The top Mexican court ruled Oct. 2 that Mexican residents cannot be extradited if they are charged with crimes in other countries and could receive life sentences.

Officials with the U.S. Department of Justice said the ruling could jeopardize the extradition of about 55 U.S. fugitives jailed in Mexico and about 100 others believed to be living there.

But, Harris County District Attorney Chuck Rosenthal said the ruling may not interfere with his office prosecuting suspects in Mexico facing life sentences in Texas.

A life sentence in Texas means a person would serve a maximum 60 years in prison, he said.

The president's pledge of $20 billion is an absolute guarantee and it's likely to be more," Daniels said. "We're working hard every day to identify the best uses of that money."

The PEDC is down to three members after two recent resignations. The Pampa City Commission is charged with appointing new members. PEDC board members, at Tuesday night's meeting, are, from left, Darville Orr, treasurer; Jerry Foote, vice president; and Lee Porter, secretary.

Edna Haydon asked if the board is going to pursue the development of the dairy business in the area as well as allied businesses.

"The previous boards have committed to trying to get four dairies here," said board member Lee Porter. "At this point in time, there are no future prospects that I know of. If we had a dairyman to come in here, and I'm not speaking for the board, only myself, I don't know whether that is something we need to do."

He said the board was told that 10,000 head of dairy cows are needed to attract auxiliary businesses in the dairy industry.

"What is really important for economic development is not having the dairies out there—it's having a bottling plant and that sort of thing," said Porter. He said one business, Cross Calf Ranch, has started because of the two dairies the PEDC recruited.

"It only employs five, but it's a business that is auxiliary to the dairies," he said.

Haydon said she understands that between Roswell and Portales there are 90,000 milk cows, and said the area only has two allied businesses—a part-time cheese plant and a dry milk factory that utilizes the excess milk.

Foote responded that the PEDC had received different information from what Haydon said.

Tripplehorn said she talked with an EDC person in Roswell, who told her the cheese plant manufactures cheese year round, 24 hours a day seven days a week. She said she was told that in the past Roswell had not recruited any auxiliary businesses, but they are now focused on a rendering plant.

She said Bill Thompson, extension agent in Roswell, told her the dairies had brought in over $200 million dollars to the area.

Haydon also expressed environmental concerns about the dairy industry. She said she is aware of several reports on water contamination from dairies. Tripplehorn said there has been no documented water pollution. Haydon said her information said there is.

The financial problems of Top O' Texas Dairy, owned by the Roden family, were also discussed.

The PEDC recently paid about $15,000 to Dairy Strategies, a consulting firm for dairies, to help the Rodens restructure their business. He said the consultant is helping them refinance.

Porter said the Rodens had numerous cows die during the winter. He attributed the cause to the cold and milking machine problems which he said caused infections in the cows. He said they have around 480 head at the present time, but need an additional 500.

Greene expressed concern the dairy business might not be good in this climate if so many cows died during the first winter. Susan Tripplehorn, executive director of the PEDC, said the cows came in Dec. 16 from Central Texas and a blizzard hit the Panhandle eight days later.

Tripplehorn said she recently participated in the International Expo of Food Processors Show in Las Vegas, Nev., to develop leads for allied companies who might be interested in moving to Pampa. On the first day, Sept. 10, she said approximately 20 leads were obtained, saying she usually obtains 200-300 leads at the trade shows. After the attacks on Sept. 11, she said the show closed down.

On another subject, Jim Terry asked what constitutes a conflict of interest.

He also said, "You have (credited the PEDC with) 260-265 employees, and that figured out to $30,188.78 per employee that you currently have gotten."

He said most of the jobs the PEDC is bringing to Pampa are close to minimum wage. Terry said he really doesn't see the value of an EDC in Pampa with those figures.

He requested an answer by letter because he said he had another meeting to attend.

Foote said there will be no more PEDC meeting paid for NPD's expenses, stating there have been changes. He said they plan to manage their debts better and still do projects.

Asked about a bond issue to help the PEDC financially, Porter said he doesn't see the need for that. The PEDC has $2.5 in debts due to loans for the recruited businesses. It has an account balance in the bank of $360,568.42 for September. Sales tax revenue for the month was $60,007.28.

A reporter from The Pampa News asked about a report she received that the board participated in an illegal meeting at noon Monday. She said she had been told all three current board members—Foote, Porter, and Darville Orr—were gathered at a restaurant Monday with the Gold Coats from the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and were discussing PEDC business.

Orr said he was at one table and Foote was at another. Porter said he was not at the meeting because he is not a Gold Coat.

The Texas Open Meetings Law says a quorum of an entity cannot gather to discuss business of that entity without it being legally posted beforehand.

building stemming from incidents that spanned from 1979 until the 2001 DWI arrest.

O'Gorman, taking the stand in his defense, told jurors, "I still believe I was not intoxicated by definition. I do not accept the conviction and I plan to appeal."

If his appeals fail, O'Gorman's life sentence will be in addition to the eight-plus years remaining on the intoxicated manslaughter sentence, officials said.

"It's perfectly clear to me that no amount of punishment he's been given has had any effect on him," Roach told the jury in closing the punishment phase. "The only problem is, in this case he's killed a woman."

"If Officer O'Brien had not stopped him, who knows what would have happened? The only way to protect society is to keep this man off the streets. I cannot recommend any other than life imprisonment because what might happen if this guy gets out and drinks and drives and defies the rules. Who's next?" Roach said.

Pendleton pointed out that in a parole revocation hearing last April, the hearing officer said there was "no probable cause" to revoke O'Gorman's parole. He added that O'Gorman would not have been on parole if he hadn't had good conduct while in prison.

"You can't disregard his life either. He's a human being with family — you've heard from his mother — he's just like you," Pendleton said. "The onus is on you to judge as you would want to be judged if it were you sitting where he is."

"This case started 20 years ago when he chose to drive and drink," Holmes said in his final arguments. "Don't take this upon yourself. It's not your guilt. It's his guilt."

Leaders shut down House; 31 test positive for anthrax

By DAVID ESPO
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders ordered an unprecedented shutdown of the House on Wednesday after more than two dozen people in Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle's office tested positive for exposure to a highly concentrated form of anthrax.

"We will not let this stop the work of the Senate," Daschle said at a news conference outside the Capitol. He said 31 people have had "positive nasal swabs," including two Capitol police officers.

Daschle made his announcement a short while after Speaker Dennis Hastert said that anthrax had been found in the Senate's mailroom.

"To ensure safety we thought it best to do a complete sweep, an environmental sweep," he said, adding that House members and staff would be sent home at day's end, until at least Tuesday.

Hastert also told reporters that anthrax had gotten "into the ventilation system." A short while later, Scott Lillibridge, a bioterrorism expert at the Department of Health and Human Services, said he only known evidence of anthrax was found in Daschle's office across the street from the Capitol and in the Senate's mailroom in a second office building.

"There is absolutely no evidence of infection at this point," Daschle said. "All of those who had had his positive nasal swab have been on antibiotics for some time and the good news is that everyone is OK."

Daschle, flanked by Senate Republican Leader Trent Lott, sought to ease concerns that had been raised by word of the positive test results and by Hastert's announcement that House members and staff would be sent home at day's end to allow for environmental testing.

"There will be a vote this afternoon," Daschle said. "We will be in session and have a vote or votes tomorrow."

Senate leaders were accompanied by numerous federal officials, several of whom stepped before the microphone to announce developments in the most reassuring manner possible.

"This particular strain of anthrax is sensitive to all antibiotics," said Maj. Gen. John Parker, speaking on behalf of the Ft. Detrick military lab technicians in Maryland who performed the tests on the samples.

He described it as "common variety" anthrax.

As word of the positive test results spread, officials opened a second anthrax testing center in the physician's office on the first floor of the Capitol. A line extended up to the second floor. Tests also were available in an office building across the street. There, more than 1,000 people were tested on Tuesday and given a three-day supply of antibiotics as a precaution.

A positive finding does not mean the person has the disease or will get the disease. About 8,000 spores must be inhaled for a person to develop inhalation anthrax.

Thompson, in his testimony, said, "There's no question this is a very serious attempt at anthrax poisoning."

Scott Lillibridge, the HHS point person on bioterrorism, said, "There's been some attempt to collect it, perhaps refine it and perhaps make it more concentrated. That seems certain."

Five weeks after the worst terrorist strikes in history killed more than 5,000 in New York and Washington, the discovery only added to the nation's anxiety. Three government sources, all speaking on condition of anonymity, said preliminary testing indicated the anthrax found in Daschle's office had been refined enough so that it could be easily dispersed through the air. One said the anthrax was in a purified form that could be used as a weapon.

At a news conference in the basement of the Capitol, Hastert said the decision to shut down was triggered by the news of the test results from the people exposed to a white powdery substance that fell from a letter opened in Daschle's office. It was also prompted by the "discovery that this stuff has gotten into the ventilation system, is going through the tunnels, it was in the system of those buildings, and also, found in the mail room in the Senate were packages that moved through."

"So to make sure that we protect people's safety, we thought it was also prudent to do a complete environmental sweep and make sure that we can resume business on Tuesday," he added.

Elsewhere in the country, four people are known to have contracted anthrax and nine others have tested positive.

The FBI is investigating strong similarities in handwriting and style, including identical anti-American language, between the letter sent to Daschle in Washington and a letter with anthrax sent to NBC News anchor Tom Brokaw in New York.

In an effort to jog the public's memory and gain new leads, the Justice Department released photocopies of the envelopes to Daschle and Brokaw, showing identical block letters and addresses written slanting to the right.

Chamber of Commerce board backs PEDC

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce issued a press release this morning saying its board of directors has made "a strong statement" in favor of the Pampa Economic Development Corporation.

The action came at a special meeting Tuesday which Chamber Chairman Chuck White called for the sole purpose of discussing the position of the CoC with regard to the PEDC, the release said.

The discussion centered around the common goals of both the Chamber and PEDC — building a vibrant business community and business climate for Pampa, the release said. Though the board discussed some of the mistakes that have been made by the PEDC, the board believes that the PEDC is still the best way to assure a bright future for Pampa's economy.

The statement was passed by an "overwhelming majority" of the board, the release said.

"The Greater Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce supports the PEDC as the best way for Pampa to compete in the field of economic development. PEDC has entered into a new era of openness, cooperation, and community input that we believe will continue to make PEDC the best vehicle for the future of Pampa. We urge all of Pampa to vote against the dissolution of the PEDC and to work together to make it serve the needs of this community."

Trick-or-Treating For This Cause Is Sight To Behold

DEAR ABBY: Please ask your readers to trick-or-treat for a worthy cause this Halloween.

We need thousands of volunteer "ghouls and boys" to collect used eyeglasses during the third annual "Sight Night," a program sponsored by Lions Clubs International and LensCrafters. The donated glasses will be recycled and delivered to needy individuals in countries such as Tunisia, Bolivia and Mexico.

In many developing countries, people have little or no access to eye care, and glasses may cost up to one month's wages. The outdated glasses lying around in your drawer may be a precious gift to someone in need.

Last year, Sight Night was a howling success. Volunteers scared up 86,000 pairs of glasses on Halloween. This year, we hope more groups such as Scout troops and school districts will help collect.

Lions Clubs have been collecting and recycling used eyeglasses for those in need for more than 70 years, and have partnered with LensCrafters since 1988.

Abby, if your readers want to scare up some fun this Halloween, urge them to give the gift of sight to kids and adults around the world!

J. FRANK MOORE III, PRESIDENT, 2001-2002 LIONS CLUBS INTERNATIONAL

DEAR MR. MOORE: Gladly, I know my readers will take your worthwhile cause to their hearts, because it's an effortless way to do good deeds while having fun.

Readers, learn how young groups can trick-or-treat for used eyeglasses by contacting your local Lions Club or

P.S. For their safety, young trick-or-treaters should always be accompanied by an adult.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Dog Deprived in Denver," written by the young man whose parents won't let him get a dog. (He had his heart set on a collie.)

Please don't force a dog on your parents if they don't want one. Dogs are sensitive and highly perceptive. They know when someone doesn't like them. The dog and your parents could end up unhappy — and so could you. Contrary to what you think, dogs — especially collies — need and crave exercise. Please consider this:

We used to agonize over our favorite furry friends being cooped up all day alone. Millions of working couples and single adults who are dog owners often need to work much later than the hour when you get home from school. Why not knock on some doors in your neighborhood or print up fliers and advertise yourself as a "dog buddy"? Your services could include feeding, 30 minutes of playtime and/or a walk — all for a small fee.

My husband and I would have gladly paid someone like you to provide this service for our dog. You could end up with many loving canine friends, along with some grateful neighbors — not to mention a tidy little income. This way, everyone ends up happy!

Good luck. We're confident you will someday have lots of wonderful dogs of your own.

SALLY AND JOE, DOG LOVERS IN NORTHVILLE, MICH.

DEAR SALLY AND JOE: You're barking up the right tree. What a terrific idea for a lonely, animal-loving youngster. Or anyone, for that matter, who has a void that only a furry, four-footed friend can fill.

However, a word to the wise: Kids should speak to their parents before offering their services to strangers.

RODEO

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Rodeo cowboys and the Fort Worth stock show have mended fences in an agreement that will prevent the event from losing its professional status.

The Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association threatened to strip the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show of the sanction it's had since 1938 because officials failed to install permanent rather than temporary chutes for timed events, such as calf roping.

Several high-profile riders had said they wouldn't compete in next year's rodeo if the event lost the PRCA distinction. But a compromise was reached Tuesday with the PRCA that should keep Fort Worth in the national rodeo circuit saddle.

Rodeo officials have agreed to anchor portable chutes with stakes that will be driven into the shallow dirt at the Will Rogers Coliseum. The change would alleviate cowboys' concerns that unanchored chutes could shift during performances. "They had valid points," the show's chairman, Ed Bass, said of the riders. "We had the tricky job of balancing things in the best interest of the contestants, our audience and the traditions of the show."

Livestock show officials say there's no room in the 55-year-old coliseum for a permanent chute.

Word of the compromise relieved riders this week.

"I'm really glad to hear that Fort Worth is going to be a pro rodeo," said former National Finals Rodeo bareback qualifier Pete Hawkins of Weatherford. Without the PRCA sanction, "It would not be the same in terms of the quality of contestants and the atmosphere."

PRCA board member Mike Cervi is credited with mediating the compromise. He says he talked with Bob Watt, president and manager of the stock show, and PRCA steer wrestling committee member Ricky Huddleston, a critic of the show's portable chutes.

"When they both realized that a simple problem had gotten out of proportion, they agreed to work it out," Cervi told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram for Wednesday's editions.

Many stock show observers believe that officials agreed to the compromise because losing PRCA's sanction would make it harder to get the public to support the new, larger multipurpose arena that stock show officials have been seeking.

Flashback

1967: Steve Williams was presented with the Hustling Harvester Award at this year's Pampa High basketball banquet. Williams was a senior guard for the Harvesters.

PHS spikers drop final home match

PAMPA — Randall spoiled senior recognition night for Pampa's volleyball team with a 15-8, 15-5 win over the Lady Harvesters Tuesday in McNeely Fieldhouse.

"I thought we played pretty well against Randall. We played some good defense, but we didn't block as well as we should have to control the game," said Pampa head coach Carmen Pennick.

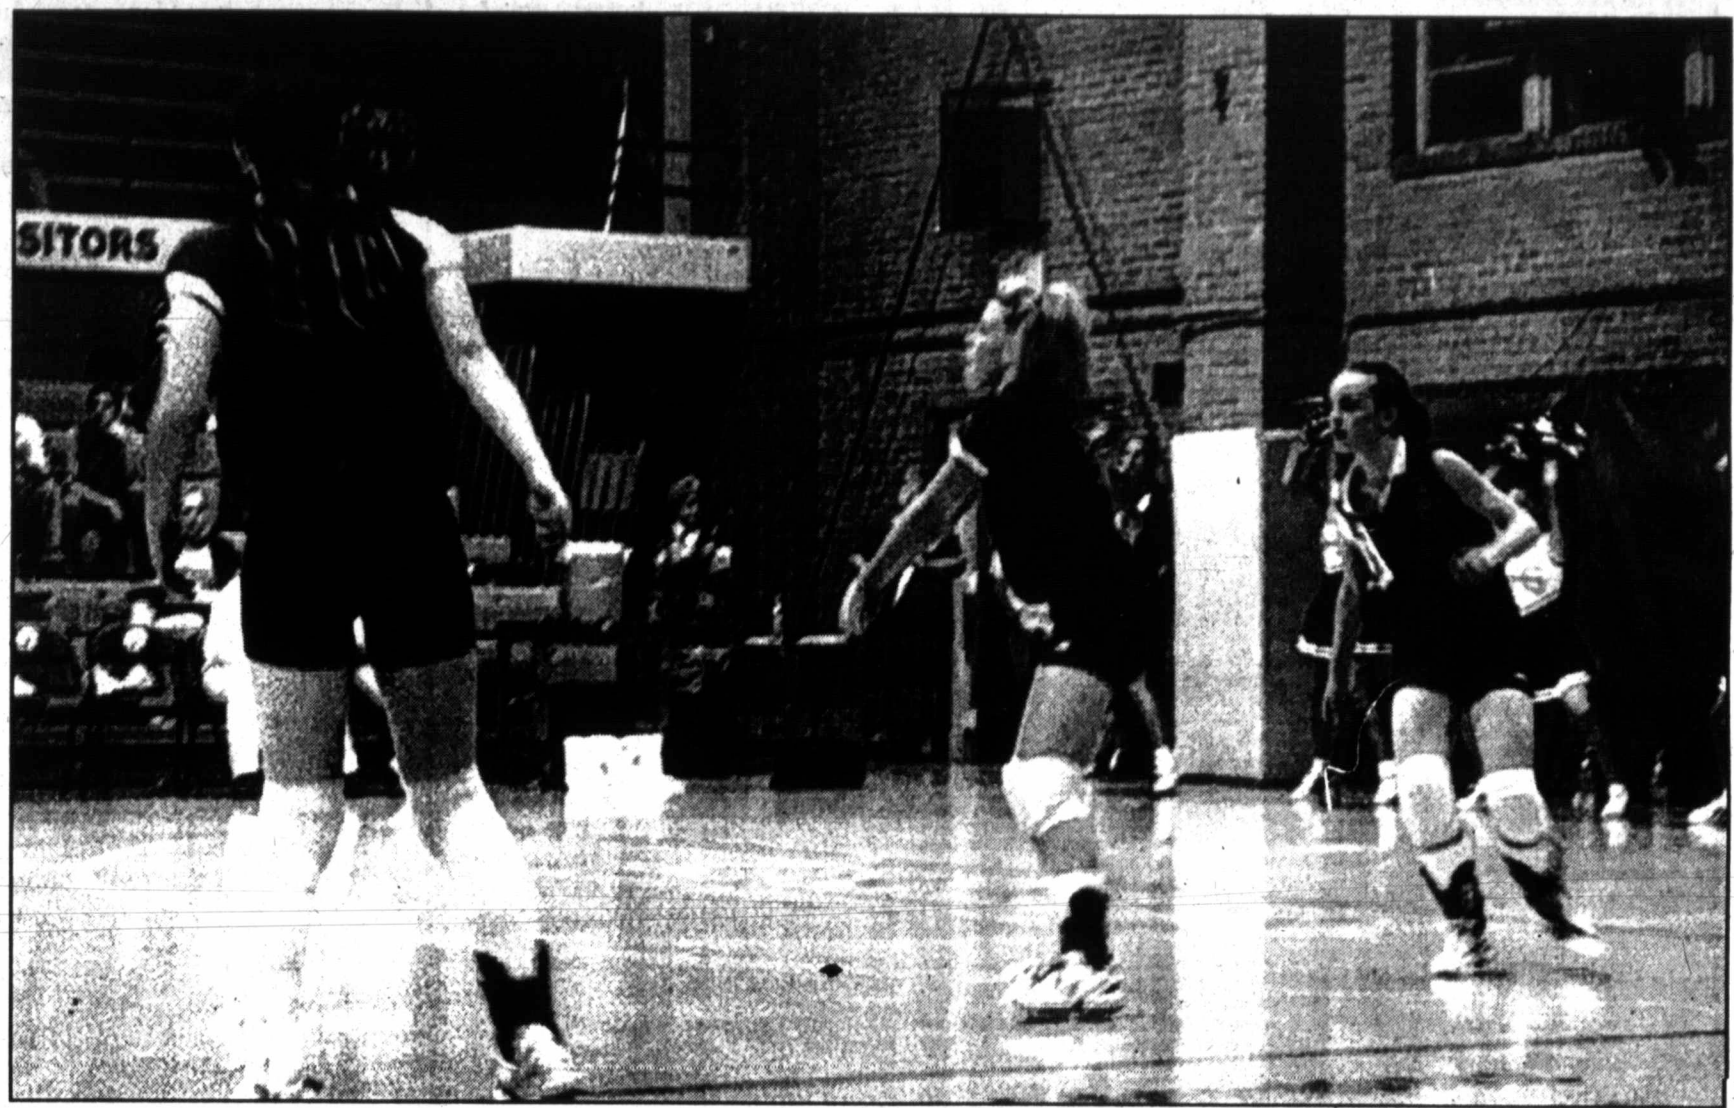

Morgan White led Pampa with 8 kills and played an errorless match.

Jennifer Lindsey and Angie Williams each had 5 kills. Williams also added 4 solo blocks.

"Overall, we played pretty well. We were just outgunned and out-sized, which has been pretty much the story all year," Pennick added.

Pampa seniors playing their final home match were Jennifer Lindsey, Morgan White, Danielle Martinez and Shelly Sims.

The Lady Harvesters close out the season Saturday at Borger. Their record is 2-11 in district and 8-21 for the season.

Harvesters 12-0, clinch at least a tie for first

CANYON — The No. 10-ranked Pampa Harvester tennis team defeated Canyon 14-5 last weekend to go 12-0 in District 3-4A, and claim at least a tie for the district crown. It was the second loss this season for Canyon at the hands of the Harvesters.

The Pampa netters led 6-1 after doubles, winning two tough three-setters at No. 1 and No. 2 girls' doubles.

"The mixed doubles team did a great job of defeating Canyon this round after dropping this match in a three-setter the first time. Britton White and Helen Brooks are doing a great job at this position for us," said Pampa head coach Carolyn Quarles.

Pampa went onto win 8 of the 12 singles matches to claim the victory.

"Our team played great," said coach Quarles. "It's difficult to beat Canyon anytime, but especially in Canyon."

Players of the week are juniors Tyler Howard and Vanessa Orr, and senior Michelle Lee for their impressive singles wins.

Pampa's Adam Etchison won the Amarillo Junior Varsity Singles Tournament for the second time this season.

Etchison won five matches, defeating players from Canyon, Amarillo High, Tascosa and No. 1 seed Chip Parsley from Vega.

Pampa's Erin Norris advanced to the semi-finals and Payton Baird reached the quarterfinals in the main draw of the top division.

Andrew Fraser advanced to the semi-finals in the consolation bracket and Erin Winegeart advanced to the finals of consolation.

Johnson snaps postseason slump

PHOENIX (AP) — To bury his reputation as a postseason flop, Randy Johnson needed to be almost perfect, or at least good enough to beat Greg Maddux.

Mission accomplished, and then some.

Johnson struck out 11 in a masterful three-hitter Tuesday as the Arizona Diamondbacks beat Maddux and the Atlanta Braves 2-0 in Game 1 of the National League Championship Series.

"You're kind of sitting out there in awe almost," Arizona second baseman Craig Counsell said. "You're just amazed at what he's doing."

Johnson had lost seven consecutive playoff games, a major league record. In the latest loss, he gave up three runs in eight innings, which was good, but not good enough as St. Louis beat Arizona 4-1 in Game 2 of their division series.

He hadn't won in the postseason since his two victories against the New York Yankees in the 1995 ALCS.

In the postgame interview room, with his young son at his side, Johnson answered the obvious question before it was asked.

Through eight innings, Johnson allowed only two base runners, an extremely close infield single by Chipper Jones with two outs in the first and a walk to Bernard Gilkey with one out in the eighth.

In between, Johnson retired 20 in a row. He broke an NLCS record with seven consecutive hitless innings.

"Randy pitched great," Maddux said. "That was probably the best I've ever seen him change speeds. As a complement, he was Jamie Moyer with a real good fastball."

In the ninth inning, Johnson got two quick outs. The surprisingly small crowd of 37,729 — 12,000 short of a sellout — was on its feet.

But Julio Franco singled to bring Jones to the plate.

"I was thinking two-run homer," said Jones, who has a career .444 average against Johnson.

Jones settled for a single, and Brian Jordan came up as the potential go-ahead run. Johnson struck him out swinging.

"This kind of game is more mentally draining than it is physically draining," Johnson said, "because you realize if you make one mistake, that could be the ballgame."

Counsell, out of baseball when Los Angeles released him before the 2000 season, picked up where he left off in the St. Louis series. He was 2-for-4 with a double, the game's only extra-base hit, and scored both runs on singles by Reggie Sanders in the first and Luis Gonzalez in the fifth.

"I'd like to say he's our secret weapon," Arizona manager Bob Brenly said, "but he's not much of a secret anymore because opposing teams know all about record with seven consecutive hitless innings.

Maddux, 10-12 in the postseason and 4-7 in the NLCS, allowed two runs and six hits in seven innings.

"I thought he was good," Atlanta manager Bobby Cox said. "He had his double-play ball working. He got a few balls up early, but then settled right into it."

The Diamondbacks have three complete-game pitching performances in their six postseason starts.

The first two were by Curt Schilling against the Cardinals, 1-0 in Game 1 and 2-1 in the deciding Game 5.

"He's been real complimentary since he's been here. He says I raised the bar for him," Johnson said of Schilling. "I told him when we were celebrating a couple of nights ago that after watching him pitch the two games he's pitched, he's raised the bar for me now in postseason."

Usually a grimacing, shouting portrait of intensity, Johnson rarely showed much emotion Tuesday.

"I was extremely calm, very focused," he said. "I knew what I wanted to do."

Johnson had two eight-pitch innings and one seven-pitch inning, out of character for a hurler whose pitch count normally soars above 100 long before the ninth inning. That allowed him to survive some 40 pitches in the last two innings.

Rangers to interview Hart

DALLAS (AP) — Outgoing Cleveland Indians general manager John Hart says he will accept an offer from Texas Rangers owner Tom Hicks to interview for the team's vacant GM spot.

Hart, Cleveland's manager since 1991, said he is very interested in the position.

"I'm going to interview because I think the Texas Rangers have the ability and resources in place to win," Hart told The Dallas Morning News in Wednesday's editions. "They've got a lot of things going for them. There is a lot of upside. I am certainly very intrigued by the opportunity."

Hicks is also expected to talk with Florida Marlins general manager Dave Dombrowski and Rangers' interim general manager Dan O'Brien.

Hart, 53, announced earlier this year that he would step down from the Indians job at the end of the season. Upon firing Doug Melvin, Hicks immediately identified Hart and Dombrowski as top candidates because they have both taken teams to the World Series.

The Indians reached the playoffs for the sixth time in seven years this season. But a day after they were eliminated, Hart turned his sights toward Texas.

Last week, Hicks requested and received permission to discuss the job with Hart. No date has been set for the visit, but Hart was expected to be the first candidate from outside the organization to interview.

Dombrowski, 45, would likely follow but has been spending the week in the Marlins' organizational meetings. He will meet with team owner John Henry next week to discuss the club's 2002 payroll and long-term future.

Hicks has said that he plans to take his time in making a decision. At the time of Melvin's dismissal, Hicks said the process could take "four to six weeks."

Indian group hints at lawsuits over mascot

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two Central Texas school districts intend to keep their Indian mascots despite requests of an American Indian activist group that has prompted some changes.

Administrators at two other San Antonio school districts have agreed to change their Indian mascots and team names at the group's request.

"I think we've made an effort and we've received no positive response whatsoever," said Jonathan Hook, president of San Antonio's American Indian Resource Center. "So, the next step would be to pursue legal options."

Hook, a member of the Cherokee nation, has visited four districts — Harlandale, Jourdanton, North East and San Antonio — in a year to explain how the mascots perpetuate negative stereotypes and ask that they be changed. Educators at North East and San Antonio have agreed to comply, Hook said.

The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights also called for an end to Indian team names and mascots at non-Indian schools this spring.

But, Hook said, Harlandale and Jourdanton have made no attempt to part with their Indian affiliation.

Guillermo Zavala Jr., an assistant superintendent, said because the district has connections to Mission San Jose, the team name has historical significance.

"The name Indian is in no way being disrespectful," Zavala told the San Antonio Express-News in Wednesday's editions. "If anything, it's honoring those inhabitants that came from the mission."

Kehoe key to Pittsburgh's first victory

By URSULA REEL
AP Hockey Writer

Veteran assistant Rick Kehoe inspired the Pittsburgh Penguins and superstar Mario Lemieux to victory on his first night as head coach.

Can Kehoe keep it up? "I was a little nervous, for sure, because the players needed to win badly," he said after Pittsburgh beat Ottawa 5-2 Tuesday night, the Penguins first victory this season. "It's a good start, but we still have a lot of work to do."

Kehoe, a former Pittsburgh player, was bumped up from his post as a longtime assistant following the firing of head coach Ivan Hlinka.

Hlinka's poor communication skills led to some demoralized play, and Pittsburgh's 0-4 start equaled the worst in franchise history.

In other NHL games, it was Nashville 3; Buffalo 3; Detroit 4; Columbus 3; Atlanta 3; Philadelphia 3; San Jose 3; Minnesota 3; Toronto 4; Edmonton 1; Colorado 2; Tampa Bay 1; Boston 1; Phoenix 1; Florida 2; Vancouver 2; and Washington 3, Los Angeles 2 in overtime.

Kehoe's first move after becoming the 20th coach in the team's 35-season history was to insert rookie Toby Petersen onto Lemieux's line. It was a stroke of genius.

Petersen scored three goals, two set up by Lemieux.

"We wanted to win this for the new coach," said Petersen, whose first goal came just 30 seconds into the game. "The guys definitely were pretty excited."

"It's good to get the first one out of the way."

Lemieux, slowed by a hip injury in the team's first two games and out for the next two, returned to form with three assists.

He set up three consecutive goals in a four-goal second period that put the Penguins up 5-1. But he credited Petersen's early score.

"Getting that first goal was big," Lemieux said. "That gave us a lot of confidence."

Maple Leafs 4, Oilers 1

Shayne Corson and Jonas Hoglund scored short-handed goals as Toronto used a three-goal second period to win in Edmonton.

Mikael Renberg and Darcy Tucker also had goals for the Maple Leafs.

The Swedish trio of Mats Sundin, Hoglund and Renberg have eight goals and 11 assists in the Leafs' first six games.

Former Oilers goalie Curtis Joseph stopped 15 shots, losing his shutout bid at 6:35 of the third on Mike Comrie's goal.

Joseph has lost only once to Edmonton in nine games since signing with the Leafs in 1998.

Avalanche 2, Lightning 1

Stephane Yelle and Joe Sakic scored goals, and Colorado snapped a two-game losing streak by beating visiting Tampa Bay.

Patrick Roy made 19 saves for Colorado, and Tampa Bay's Nikolai Khabibulin turned away 23 shots.

Vaclav Prospal had the only goal for the Lightning.

Red Wings 4, Blue Jackets 3

Sergei Fedorov had a goal and an assist, helping the Red Wings hold off a third-period rally by Columbus in Detroit.

Trailing 4-1 with a little more than eight minutes remaining, Columbus (0-2-4) got goals from Tyler Wright and Deron Quint on just four shots.

Luc Robitaille, Mathieu Dandenault and Brendan Shanahan also scored for Detroit (5-1).

Rookie Rostislav Klesla had the other goal for the Blue Jackets.

Shanahan is tied for the league lead with eight goals and is tops in the NHL with 11 points.

Thrashers 3, Flyers 3

John LeClair scored two third-period goals to help Philadelphia gain a tie in Atlanta.

Tony Hrkac put Atlanta ahead 3-2 with 7:35 remaining in the third. Pittsburgh at Tampa Bay, 1 p.m. Denver at San Diego, 4:05 p.m. Kansas City at Arizona, 4:15 p.m. Green Bay at Minnesota, 4:15 p.m. Open: Miami, Oakland, Seattle, Dallas, San Francisco.

Hnat Domenichelli gave the Thrashers a 2-1 lead. Ilya Kovalchuk, the No. 1 pick in the NHL draft, also scored for Atlanta.

Paul Ranheim had the other Philadelphia goal.

Wild 3, Sharks 3

Mike Ricci's power-play goal with 2:32 left in regulation lifted San Jose into a tie in Minnesota.

Wheeler favored by 10 in district game with Gruver

WHEELER — Wheeler tries to go 2-0 in District 1-1A Friday night, and the Mustangs are favored by 10 points over Gruver according to the Harris Ratings.

Wheeler is 2-4 for the season and 1-0 in district. Gruver is 1-5 and 0-1.

The Mustangs rallied to beat Claude 28-9 in their district opener last week.

James Chapman and Chris Gallagher accounted for the Wheeler touchdowns. Chapman had a 45-yard interception return for a touchdown and also scored on a 3-yard run. Gallagher scored twice on a 35-yard run and a 1-yard run.

The Sharks trailed 3-1, but Ricci and Mark Smith scored to help San Jose avoid its first regulation loss this season.

Marian Gaborik had a goal and two assists for the Wild, who remain the only unbeaten team in the Western Conference at 3-0-3.

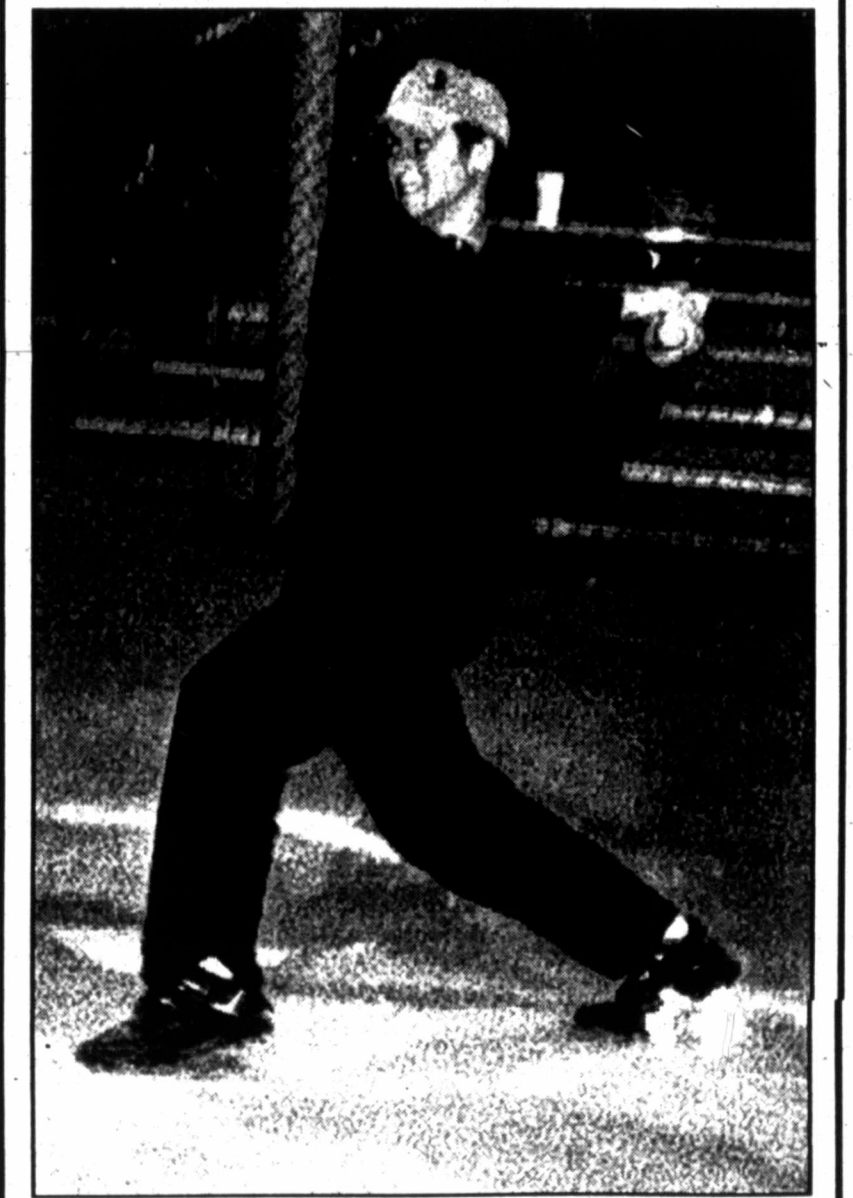

Predators 3, Sabres 3

In Buffalo, Richard Smelik scored with 5:34 remaining as the Sabres overcame a two-goal deficit and a controversial goal to earn a tie with Nashville.

Smelik's goal came 1:32 after Slava Kozlov's power-play goal cut the Predators' lead to 3-2. Chris Gratton also scored for the Sabres.

Nashville received a gift from the officials, who allowed Scott Walker's opening goal despite replays appearing to show the Predators with six skaters inside the Sabres' zone.

United Way funds assist area TPMHMR programs

This article is one in a series of articles of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 2001 "The Way America Cares, Community by Community!" fund-raising campaign.

Panhandle Mental Health Authority merged to become Texas Panhandle Mental Health Mental Retardation (TPMHMR).

The result is an entity with enhanced efficiencies and better use of public and private funds in service to individuals diagnosed with mental retardation or mental illness, and their families.

ASCI-Pampa (Pampa Sheltered Workshop) is one of the local branches of TPMHMR. ASCI-Pampa staffs strive towards "Making Lives Better" for individuals who receive services, either by attending the workshop or by receiving services on an individual basis.

The workforce is where all contracts and vocational training is done. These contracts are items that the workshop gets from other businesses in Pampa, like paper shredding, cans to crush and sell, wire to strip, etc. The Day Program is designed to help individuals learn skills, which allow them to function more independently and progress to vocational training.

Some of the fun activities that are held throughout the year at the Pampa workshop are Halloween Party, Open House to honor Workshop Volunteers, Christmas Party, Valentine Dance and Summer Bash.

New volunteers are always welcome. The workshop hours are 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Visitors are welcome. The workshop is located at 1301 W. Somerville.

BSA to hold annual memorial service

BSA Hospice staff and volunteers will honor those who they have had the privilege to serve through the hospice program this past year at the 19th Annual Rose Memorial scheduled at 2 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 28.

This year's memorial service is hosted by the Church of the Nazarene, 500 N. West.

"The Rose Memorial allows people to come together to share their loss and receive the hope and peace that remembrance has to offer," explains Jana Thurman, BSA Hospice Support Services manager. During the non-denominational service, participants will have the opportunity to light a candle in memory of their loved one as well as hear messages of hope and inspiration through scripture, song and sharing.

BSA Hospice has adopted the rose as its symbol for the beauty of life and God's eternal love. Attendees will receive a long-stem rose from the hospice staff as part of the service. A reception will be held following the service. For more information call BSA Hospice (806) 665-6677.

Ranch Day 2001 in offing at Ranching Heritage Center

LUBBOCK — Ranch Day 2001 will be a celebration of cultural heritage commemorating the 31st anniversary of the event scheduled from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Oct. 20 at the National Ranching Heritage Center in Lubbock.

More than 100 Ranch Hosts and special event participants will recreate an authentic setting representing the history of ranching. From its very beginnings in the Spanish settlements of the 1780s to its influence on the development of the West, ranching heritage will come alive with living histories, demonstrations and traditional music.

Highlighting this year's Ranch Day events are a children's stick horse rodeo at 3 p.m., live Texas longhorns, horse gentling demonstrations, a Native American music and history presentation, the 4th Cavalry Memorial Unit and, at 1 p.m., traditional music and dancing performed in the 6666 Barn by Lanny Fiel and the Ranch Dance Fiddle Band. Participants in the stick horse rodeo will get to keep a stick horse provided by Wrangler.

Demonstrations by Ranch Hosts in period clothing will be ongoing throughout the day, and Wells Fargo stage coach rides will be conducted from 1-4 p.m. Admission is free. A midday barbecue lunch will be available to visitors for $6.
