Capital murder experts to help with two cases

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
 Staff Writer

Texas Attorney General's Office attorneys who specialize in trying capital murder cases will assist the local District Attorney with two such cases now pending in 31st District Court here.

District Attorney Rick Roach said he met with John Neal of Austin last week to seek help from the Attorney General (AG) with the two capital murder cases. Neal serves as head of the AG's Prosecutor Assistance Division, Roach said.

"The purpose of the Prosecutor Assistance Division is to help prosecutors in rural areas who have limited staff," the DA explained. "If we were devote ourselves entirely to either one of these cases, it would shut us down completely for anything else."

Roach said the AG's prosecutors have a special division dedicated to capital murder litigation.

"They're specialists in this area," he said.

Both capital murder cases occurred in Hemphill County, a part of the 31st Judicial District. A capital murder conviction can carry the death penalty in certain cases.

Christopher Chad Britton, 27, of Canadian, is being held without bond in the Gray County Jail, charged with capital murder in the shooting death of a Hemphill County Deputy on June 17.

Old murder case laid to rest Son pleads guilty to shooting father

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
 Staff Writer

A 14-year-old murder of a Pampa man was finally laid to rest this week when the man's son pleaded guilty in 31st District Court here.

Norman Michael Patterson, 30, now of Dallas entered a guilty plea to the murder of Edward Patterson on Sept. 2, 1987 before District Judge Steven Emmert. In exchange for the plea, Patterson received 10 years deferred adjudication and was ordered to serve 320 hours of community service.

Michael Patterson was 16 years old when Edward Patterson was found dead of a gunshot wound in their home. The teenager told investigators at the time that someone had broken into the residence and shot the elder Patterson, District Attorney Rick Roach said.

Nine years later, a Gray County grand jury indicted Michael Patterson for murder based on a blood spatter on the teen's tennis shoe taken as evidence after the shooting. DNA testing of the boy's shoe nine years later revealed the blood belonged to Edward Patterson, Roach said.

For years, the case bounced from court to court as prosecutors fought to have him tried as an adult and the defense battled to have him tried as a juvenile. About three years ago, the Texas Supreme Court ruled that Patterson would be tried as an adult.

Before pronouncing the sentence Tuesday afternoon, Judge Emmert asked how the victim's family felt about the plea bargain arrangement. Roach assured the judge that he had contacted the family and that they had agreed to handle the case "in this manner."

Judge appoints guardian in matter involving brothers

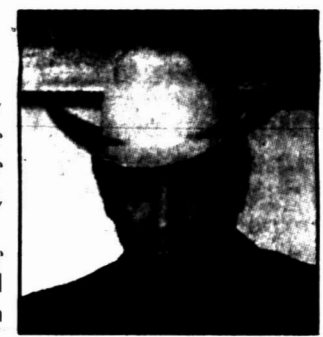

By KATE B. DICKSON

Brothers Lee Cockrell and Buddy Cockrell faced off against each other once again in district court Wednesday over the guardianship of their 88-year-old mother, Alice B. Gray, and her estate.

When all was said and done, Judge Steven Emmert named Lee Cockrell guardian and ordered that he be bonded in the amount of $500,000, something Lee Cockrell had obtained previously.

With the brothers standing before him, Emmert told the men, "I would hope you'll get along. Lee is good with the cash and Buddy is good on the agricultural end. You would make a good team."

Coin toss solves bidding problem

By NANCY YOUNG
 Managing Editor

It was a toss of the coin that decided who would get a 1986 Chevy three-ton truck from Gray County.

Two of the six bidders tied for the top bid on the vehicle — $1,000. The Gray County Commission discussed various alternatives at its last meeting to decide who would get it, but it was the bidders who worked it out with the help of a commissioner.

Since the truck had been used by Precinct 2 road and bridge crew until it caught fire a couple of months ago, the commissioner representing that precinct, Jim Greene, recommended he call both high bidders, Bob Douthit and Thomas Propane, to attempt to resolve the dilemma.

While the remainder of the commissioners court was in an approximate 30-minute recess, Greene and the bidders worked out a solution. (See COIN, Page 3)

Officials tell proper ways to handle suspicious mail

In light of recent anthrax-related incidents and scares around the county, the City of Pampa's Office of Emergency Management is providing the following information regarding suspicious letters and packages, said Donny Hooper, the city's public information officer.

As of Tuesday, local fire and police officials have responded to three anthrax scares where packages or envelopes were involved. Another hazmat call was answered this morning at the Hughes Building.

The Texas Department of Health says that several instances involving these types of packages have been reported now throughout Texas but no anthrax bacteria has been found.

They remind local residents to take precautions when handling what might be considered as suspicious mail and they provide the following steps for you to follow if a package or letter is still unopened:

- ✓ Do not shake or empty the contents of the envelope or package
- ✓ Put the item in a plastic bag or other container to prevent
- ✓ Leave the room and close the door or section off the area. Keep others from entering.
- ✓ Wash your hands with soap and water
- ✓ Report the incident to local authorities
- ✓ Make a list of all people in the room where the package or letter was recognized
- ✓ Provide that list to local authorities.

Special events on tap for history buffs Sunday

Three history-related events are scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Oct. 21, and are open to the public.

Pampa High School graduate Susan Johnson will be honored by the PHS art department, Gray County Historical Commission and teacher June Dirickson at a reception from 1:30-3 p.m. at the Art Emporium, 115 N. Cuyler, where she will exhibit her winning drawing of Pampa's five buildings with National Register Markers.

Texas Historical Commission Steward Alvin Lynn of Amarillo will present a slide program on the dig and artifacts at Lyman's Wagon Train battle site, one of the Red River War conflicts of 1874 in the eastern panhandle. The program is at 2:30 p.m., at White Deer Land Museum. Following that program, Lynn, with County Commissioner Gerald Wright, will explain artifacts they and others found at a Red River buffalo camp of the late 1870s.

Johnson, a second year art major at West Texas A&M University, won the Congressional District art contest when a PHS senior in the spring of 2000. Her winning entry has been on display in the Cannon Tunnel that connects the office buildings to the U.S. Capitol. Her five pencil drawings were of the County Courthouse, Combs-Worley Building, Central Fire Station, City Hall and White Deer Land Museum, all National Register buildings dedicated April, 2000.

The Artistic Discovery 2000 contest was the 19th sponsored by members of the U.S. House of Representatives. U.S. Representative Mac Thornberry took Johnson's winning entry to Washington, D.C., for the display. The win encouraged Johnson to switch her college major to art, some of which will be on display.

Alvin Lynn holds bachelor of arts and master of science degrees from West Texas State University in geology with teaching certificates in science and social studies. He taught in area schools for 31 years and has participated in numerous archaeological surveys and test sites. He was employed by the Texas Historical (See HISTORY, Page 3)

$1 million reward offered for information on anthrax

By KAREN GULLO
 Associated-Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI and U.S. Postal Service on Thursday offered an award of up to $1 million for information leading to the arrest of those who sent anthrax through the mail. Investigators continued to link the various incidents through evidence.

"Once again we call upon the public to assist us in this fight against terrorism," FBI director Robert Mueller said in a joint announcement with Postmaster General Jack Potter.

Mueller said the reward would be for "information leading to the arrest and conviction for terrorist acts of mailing anthrax."

Potter urged citizens to use commonsense caution if they receive suspicious packages, and said his service was mailing postcards to all mail recipients with guidelines. "The best defense that we have right now is an educated American public," he said.

One of the anthrax scares turned out to be a false alarm. A package that was returned from Malaysia to a Microsoft Corp. office in Nevada with a powdery substance tested negative for anthrax at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Homeland Security Director Tom Ridge announced Thursday.

"However, additional samples are going to be taken to ensure there is no threat," Ridge said.

Authorities announced that four people had been charged with federal felonies for anthrax hoaxes. "We intend to prosecute these hoaxes to the fullest extent of the law," Attorney General John Ashcroft said.

Ashcroft said among those who have been charged was a man who sent talcum powder through the mail, saying it was anthrax. William Silvia, of Portsmouth, R.I., was charged with mailing a threatening communication.

The announcements came as authorities pressed to identify the source of the anthrax and to find possible links between the cases that have cropped up in Washington, New York and Florida. Five people are confirmed to have anthrax, and authorities were examining a possible sixth case. Many more have tested positive for exposure to the bacteria.

Mueller said his agency had received several leads since authorities made public copies of two of the handwritten envelopes in which anthrax was sent. But both he and Ashcroft declined to say if there were specific leads that were promising.

"We are not in a position to determine those who are responsible," the director said.

In New Jersey, FBI agents questioned at least one pharmacist about anyone buying 60 to 120 tablets of the antibiotic Cipro, used for treating anthrax, prior to Sept. 18.

"Anyone trying to buy that many would stick out like a sore thumb," said pharmacist John Berkenkopf, who was questioned.

A preliminary match was made between anthrax found at American Media Inc., a tabloid newspaper publisher where one man died from the contamination and another is hospitalized, and anthrax sent to NBC News anchor Tom Brokaw.

Officials at the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said the strain — one of hundreds of varieties of anthrax — occurs naturally and is found domestically in hooved animals such as cows and deer. Further tests must be done to determine if the strains came from the same source.

The letter to Brokaw was postmarked Sept. 16 from Trenton, N.J. Investigators believe the Florida man who died of anthrax may have contracted the disease from a letter that was destroyed before he became sick. His last day at work was Sept. 26.

Still unknown is whether anthrax found in a letter sent to Sen. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., is the same strain as the Florida and New York material.

The anthrax found in Daschle's office was professionally made, meaning it was manipulated and possibly refined with additives to keep the particle size small enough so that it's more likely to waft and be inhaled, said a federal terrorism expert, speaking on condition of anonymity. Inhaled anthrax is the most deadly form of the disease.

There's no evidence so far that the anthrax is associated with a weapons program. Iraq and Russia are both believed to have experimented with anthrax as a weapon.

And no evidence has turned up linking the anthrax attacks to foreign terrorists. One official said some evidence might suggest a domestic source.

Meantime, House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said tests were being conducted on a suspicious letter sent to the office of House Speaker Dennis Hastert, R-Ill. The letter looked like the letters sent to Daschle and Brokaw, Gephardt said, quoting Hastert's staffers.

"We don't know yet whether it was another anthrax letter. I'm sure we'll find out later in the week," he said Thursday on NBC's "Today" show.

Ashcroft said the anthrax attacks could be the work of a group and individuals working independently.

"It may be that there is some of both here," Ashcroft said on PBS' "The NewsHour: With Jim Lehrer."

He said those responsible for mailing anthrax may also be attempting to divert the attention of investigators by perpetrating anthrax hoaxes.

"There may in fact be some linkage," Ashcroft said.

Detectives in New Jersey looking for the source of anthrax-contaminated letters sent to NBC and Daschle are using the pre-stamped envelopes and bar codes to narrow their search. The bar codes give a date and approximate time the letters were processed. Postal Inspector Tony Esposito said other information from the bar codes eliminated many of the post offices from the search. Authorities were reviewing post office surveillance tapes.

A chilling note warning, "You've been exposed to anthrax. You're going to die," was in the letter sent to Daschle's office, said Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass.

Mexican pharmacies see upsurge in antibiotics purchases

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — As anthrax exposures continue to be reported in the United States, anxious Americans are heading to pharmacies in Mexico, where antibiotics can be acquired cheaply and without a prescription.

While Mexican pharmacists say they have not handled a flood of new customers, they are fielding many questions about Cipro, an antibiotic used to treat anthrax infection, and selling more doses. The pharmacies already were popular among many U.S. consumers, who cross the border regularly for cheaper drugs.

"Many people are buying antibiotics," said Carlos Aguilera, manager of the Farmacia Zipp, which advertises "Cipro" in its window. "The majority are Americans. They say people are afraid."

Postal checks limited; volume too heavy

HOUSTON (AP) — Postal workers are warning that the volume of mail passing through post offices is much too heavy to inspect each letter, even as more false anthrax scares and hoaxes are being reported statewide.

Some unfounded reports are under review by prosecutors. No anthrax case has been confirmed in Texas since contaminated letters began arriving in Florida, New York and Washington, D.C.

Post offices across the nation have been on a heightened state of alert since three anthrax cases were traced through the mail service.

"As far as a piece-by-piece inspection, that's an impossibility," said Terry Stapleton, the southern regional coordinator for the American Postal Workers Union. "There is no inspection of every piece of mail. The volume is too high."

An estimated 36 million pieces of mail move through Houston every week.

Housewife testifies young maid chained after abusing her son

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A housewife accused of beating and shackling a Mexican girl she had hired as a maid testified that the treatment was prompted by the victim's sexual abuse of the woman's 4-year-old son.

Sandra Bearden, 27, took the stand Wednesday in her own defense against charges she tortured the preteen housekeeper. Bearden said she shackled the girl for a few hours over two days to prevent the girl from hurting herself.

On May 12, police responded to a 911 call from a neighbor who heard cries for help behind the 8-foot-high concrete block fence around Bearden's Laredo backyard.

Police found the girl, her hands and feet bound with chains, severely dehydrated and malnourished.

If convicted, Bearden faces life imprisonment on counts of aggravated kidnapping, injury to a child and abandonment. She remains in Webb County Jail in lieu of $600,000 bond.

Bearden said she met the girl's parents while vacationing in Veracruz last fall and they suggested that Bearden take their only daughter to Laredo to live with her.

Bearden testified that the girl was treated like a member of the family, but things changed in May when Bearden said she came home to find the girl and her son in his bedroom, his underwear pulled down. The girl said nothing when questioned, Bearden said. But she begged forgiveness when Bearden slapped her and then fled when Bearden threatened to return her to her family.

AMHERST, Ohio (AP) — Rap star Snoop Dogg was charged with marijuana possession after officers stopped two of his tour buses for speeding and found several bags of marijuana.

State Highway Patrol troopers said the bust occurred after a traffic stop on Interstate 90 west of Cleveland on Wednesday.

In one bus, they found Snoop Dogg, 29, and said they smelled burnt marijuana. Drug-sniffing dogs found six bags of marijuana weighing about 200 grams in the cargo hold of the bus.

Snoop Dogg, whose real name is Calvin Broadus, was charged with possession of marijuana, a minor misdemeanor with a maximum $100 penalty, and possession of drug paraphernalia, which carries a maximum sentence of $250 and 30 days in jail. Two other passengers also were charged.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Jay Leno's celebrity-autographed Harley-Davidson motorcycle and a matching truck drew a top bid of $360,200 on eBay, with proceeds going to the Twin Towers Fund for victims of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

The talk-show host will announce the name of the winning bidder on NBC's "The Tonight Show" Friday night, after funds have been verified. The online auction began Oct. 7 and ended Wednesday.

Leno asked celebrities from movies, television, music and sports who visited his show to sign the limited edition Harley-Davidson FXDL Dyna Low Rider, which he bought in July. The motorcycle, which has only 200 miles on it, features a custom black-leather seat and custom paint.

A list of stars signed it, including Arnold Schwarzenegger, Nicole Kidman, Nicolas Cage, Denzel Washington, Tom Cruise and Heather Locklear, to name a few.

Also included in the deal is a 2001 Ford Harley-Davidson F-150 SuperCrew, one of a series of trucks the two companies created together.

Weather focus

PAMPA — Today, partly sunny and breezy. Early highs around 78 with steady or slowly falling temperatures in the afternoon. West winds 15 to 25 mph shifting to the north early. Caution is advised on area lakes. Tonight, partly cloudy. Lows near 42. Northeast winds 10 to 20 mph, becoming light and variable late.

Friday, mostly sunny. Highs around 72. Light and variable winds becoming southeast 5 to 15 mph.

STATEWIDE — The skies remained clear and windy Thursday as cool temperatures prevailed throughout the state.

In North Texas, winds were southwest around 10 mph, with some gusts over 20 mph in the Panhandle. Warmer, breezy weather was expected across the region, as temperatures rise to the mid-70s to mid-80s under mostly sunny skies. The wind was expected to decrease late in the afternoon.

The forecast for West Texas was mostly clear through Friday. Highs Thursday were expected to be in the 70s and 80s, except along the big bend, where temperatures could soar to the 90s. Lows at night were predicted to be in the upper 30s in the north to the lower 50s in the south.

Patchy early morning fog was reported in the Texas Hill country and in south-central parts of the state. Otherwise, skies across the region were expected to be partly cloudy, with highs reaching the upper 70s to lower 80s. At night, skies were to be mostly clear, with lows from the upper 40s in the Hill Country to mid-50s elsewhere.

In the southeast and along the upper Texas coast, skies were to remain sunny, with highs in the mid-70s inland. At night, lows were expected to dip into the mid 50s inland and lower 60s along the coast.

street, allegedly while trying to arrest the suspected murderer on four outstanding misdemeanor warrants.

Area law enforcement officers closed down roads and search the area for the suspect, using helicopters and dogs. After several hours of searching, officers discovered Britton hiding in a pond and arrested him.

He was initially booked into Hemphill County Jail, but was later transferred to the Gray County facilities while awaiting trial.

Roach said Amarillo attorney, Warren Clark, has been appointed to defend Britton.

"He's very well known," Roach said of Clark. "And he has 15 to 20 capital cases under his belt."

"We just wanted to be on a level playing field," he added.

Roach said the AG's attorneys will provide their assistance in the capital murder trials at no cost to the Hemphill County taxpayers.

The second capital case involves the murder of an elderly clerk at a truck stop near Canadian. On June 6, 1999, Imogene French, 77, of Canadian was found dead in a locked store room at the Oasis Truck Stop at U.S. 83 and U.S. 60, north of Canadian.

Her murder remained unsolved for almost two years until FBI and DPS forensic experts reportedly linked the murder to truck driver Marvin Baumeister, 41, of Vandalia, Mich.

Baumeister was indicted for capital murder by a Hemphill County grand jury in January. He was returned to Canadian in February after FBI agents arrested him in Michigan. He remains in Hemphill County Jail in lieu of a $500,000 bond, jail officials confirmed today.

OLD CASE

bers were present in the courtroom with a victim's advocate during the plea hearing.

However, when Emmert asked the victim's brother, Rick Patterson, if he was satisfied with the arrangement, the man replied, "I think it's somewhat lenient. We expected more."

"We contemplated long and hard on this case," Roach responded. "One of the factors that makes it a difficult case is the time factor. Even when a case like this is fresh, it's difficult. It certainly is when the case is 14 years old," he said, adding, "One of the reasons I chose to do this is to protect the victim and the victim's family."

He said he had told Susan Cook, Edward Patterson's sister, of the plea bargain and she said she would speak to the rest of the family about it.

"She called me back the next day or two and said the family was OK with this," he said.

"I think we've arrived at a perfect compromise because everyone has something to be unhappy about," commented Jeff Blackburn of Amarillo, his defense attorney.

"Rick Roach has fought hard for this family," Blackburn said. "It's almost been a crusade for him. I think the truth needs to be told."

"I, on the other hand, have put up a vigorous defense," he said.

"If that's the best we can do, then that's the best we can do," Rick Patterson conceded.

"These are highly unusual circumstances," Judge Emmert said, as he pronounced sentence.

"I will agree to this arrangement as long as you understand, Mr. Patterson," he said, indicating the defendant. "This is only the beginning of your journey. You have 10 long years to comply with all the terms of probation and if you don't you can be assessed as much as life in prison, without appeal. Good luck, sir."

BROTHERS

Mrs. Gray is a nursing home patient in Pampa and, according to court records, is impaired to the point she can not take care of her own affairs.

On August 30, Emmert appointed Lee Cockrell temporary guardian, a change from a May 2 ruling in which he placed Buddy Cockrell guardian over the farm and ranch interests, Lee Cockrell over the cash interests and both as guardian of their mother's person. Emmert backed off the May 2 ruling because research showed the law permits only one guardian.

Noting that while Buddy Cockrell's action to enter into land lease arrangements "was not totally compliant with the law," Emmert said the brother "did a good job."

The brothers were the only witnesses to take the stand answering questions with regard to their mother's cash assets and questions about how much money has been made on farm and grassland leases as well as wheat and hay revenue.

With regard to their mother personally, Lee Cockrell said, "She's been upset and having crying spells after visitors. I told the nursing home to have someone supervise all visitors, even me. Buddy can see her any time but there needs to be someone there ... to stop these crying spells."

Lee Cockrell also made reference to "cars, houses," and missing property including a "television and jewelry."

Under questioning by his attorney, Jerry Courtney of Clarendon, Buddy Cockrell said he goes to visit his mother daily.

Asked if his intention is to hurt his mother, Buddy Cockrell said it is not and related that on Sunday she said, "would you take me home?"

Buddy Cockrell said he told his mother there is a "court order" and he further told her, "I can't or they'll put me in jail."

Questioned by his brother's lawyer, Kelly Utsinger of Amarillo, Buddy Cockrell testified he entered into the agricultural leases on his mother's property without being bonded.

After entering his order, Emmert once again spoke to the brothers. "Like I said, I wish ya'll could work this out but that's what keeps lawyers busy and me on the bench."

MAIL

The U.S. Postal Service reminds citizens that it is their right also as the recipient of the letter or package to discard it before opening or refuse it and send it back to its origin. They say that first class permit stamps on the envelope and computer generated labels are a good indicator that the mail is legitimate but to always be cautious of packages and letters that are unexpected, from someone unfamiliar to you, or with no return address.

The Pampa Fire Department and Police Department have been trained and briefed on how to respond to such reports. The protocol is to respond to the scene, remove the occupants, cordon off the house or business and do a brief visual inspection of the suspicious item. They will then, if necessary, turn the case over to the federal agents for testing procedures.

Fire Chief Kim Powell and Police Chief Charlie Morris tell Pampa residents that there is good, factual information on the subject at both the Texas Department of Health's and the U.S. Postal Services' web sites. The TDH address is www.tdh.state.tx.us while the USPS address is www.usps.com tion. The bidders got together, tossed a coin and Bob Douthit came out the winner.

Additional bidders were Gary Douthit, $585; Rawhide Trucking, $556; Kirby Cochran, $400; and R&B Cars, $355.

The commission discussed formulating a county policy to handle a similar situation in the future.

In other business in the short meeting Monday morning, the commission approved bills and salaries. Payroll was $184,702.34 and bills were approved to be paid in the amount of $115,669.35.

Line item budget transfers were approved in the Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Perry Lefors Airport and District Clerks' offices.

Also approved was the County Treasurer's report and the Tax Roll for 2001.

A scheduled executive session regarding litigation was postponed for the second time because County Attorney Todd Alvey was not present. The item was also on the agenda at the Oct. 1 meeting, but Alvey was not at the meeting.

County Judge Richard Peet said Alvey was in Panhandle in court, but had planned to be back in Pampa in time to meet with the commission. When Alvey didn't arrive before the close of the meeting, Peet recommended the item be deferred until the next meeting of the commission, saying he hoped Alvey could meet with them at that time.

Aviation security in United States

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly: it is dearness only that gives every thing its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as freedom should not be highly rated."

That was written by the American revolutionary Thomas Paine in his pamphlet "The Crisis" to inspire the Continental Army as it fought for freedom and independence. It is as true today as it was 225 years ago. As we maneuver our way through this unimaginable time that tries our souls, freedom is even dearer.

Our world is a different world now. Ever since September 11th, everything has changed. Yet some things will remain the same: Americans, and our leadership, are still strong. With heavy hearts for those who lost their lives, we will go on. We will keep our nation strong, our economy strong, and our spirits strong.

We began work immediately after the horror: when the President spoke out forcefully about our will and resolve; the FBI and CIA immediately began tracking suspects; the State Department reached out to other nations to build a coalition to stop terrorism; and here at home, the Defense Department called up reservists to help patrol our airports and our air space. In addition, the FAA banned all knives on airplanes and increased security in airports across the nation.

This issue of aviation security is of particular interest to me, and one on which I have long been working as the ranking member on the Aviation subcommittee and a former vice chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board.

One of our key priorities is to restore the public's confidence in air travel as quickly as possible. Therefore, in the days immediately following this tragedy, I introduced legislation to expand the air marshal program, wherein trained, armed security officers would be assigned to passenger flights to help ensure our safety. This program would free our pilots to concentrate solely on their job — flying. I have already seen peace officers on some flights — detailed from other law enforcement agencies — but we need to make this a permanent and organized effort.

I believe that federalizing all aviation security functions is an important step in that direction. Currently, security is the responsibility of the airlines — who have different concerns and priorities besides national security. Our transportation security must be a priority, with the focus, coordination and influence that having a dedicated federal office would give.

That is why I am introducing legislation that would completely revamp aviation security, and place baggage security screeners and federal air marshals under one umbrella. We will institute a higher performance standard for our security practices and personnel, including extensive background checks, as well as more rigorous training that would result in a stronger, more consistent security system in our nation's airports.

Currently, airport security is a mishmash of private security firms employing low-paid workers with a staggeringly high turnover rate. To attract competent, dedicated people who can ensure our safety, I firmly believe that airport security needs to be a career, not just a temporary minimum-wage job.

We will fortify the cockpit in the aircraft. We are also upgrading the equipment used to screen passengers and their luggage to the new state-of-the-art technology available.

A columnist recently wrote, "The World Trade Center isn't the place where our intelligence agencies failed. It is the place where our imaginations failed." Until September 11th, we believed nothing like this could ever happen on our lands. That sense of security has now been shattered, but our spirit has not. We will institute new security measures. We will defend our citizens — and we will defend our freedom.

Sometimes a diversion is needed

It's time to get back to a semblance of normal life, whatever "normal" is.

On Monday evening I desperately needed a "grandchild fix" so I stopped by to see my grandchildren on my way home. The children were all running and giggly — just generally being normal. My daughter was trying to get them ready for bed, and was tired after a day of classes and work.

It was a typical American family, and that was what I needed.

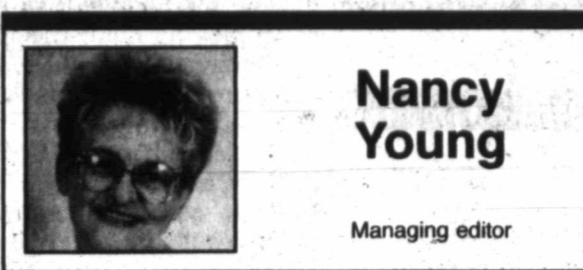

When I first arrived the older children were excitedly chanting "Nana," "Nana," "Nana." Just as I sat down on the couch, 3-year-old Paige comes running down the hall — without a stitch of clothes on and dripping wet. She ran up, hugged me and said "Nana, I love you." There is nothing like being hugged by a soaking wet child. I needed it.

Her mother quickly escorted her back to the bathtub to finish her bath. After a brief visit with all the children, I went on home much more relaxed.

After weeks of hearing about terrorism, war, anthrax, bombings, it was good to have a diversion. Fully realizing the seriousness of our current situation, I think we all need to "get away" once in awhile.

I received some cute jokes by e-mail from a friend yesterday and thought people would enjoy them. We need to laugh again. I'm sharing some of them with you.

A Sunday School teacher began her lesson

Nancy Young
Managing editor

with a question "Boys and girls, what do we know about God?"

A hand shot up in the air, "He is an artist!" said the kindergarten boy.

"Really? How do you know?" the teacher asked.

"You know—Our Father, who does art in Heaven..."

A minister waited in line to have his car filled with gas just before a long holiday weekend. The attendant worked quickly, but there were many cars ahead of him in front of the service station. Finally, the attendant motioned him toward a vacant pump.

"Reverend," said the young man, "sorry about the delay. It seems as if everyone waits until the last minute to get ready for a long trip." The minister chuckled, "I know what you mean. It's the same in my business."

People want the front of the bus, back of the church and center of attention.

There is the story of a person who got up one Sunday and announced to his congregation:

I have good news and bad news. The good news is, we have enough money to pay for our new building program. The bad news is, it's still out there in your pockets.

A minister parked his car in a no-parking zone in a large city because he was short of time and couldn't find a space with a meter. So, he put a note under the windshield wiper that read:

I have circled the block 10 times. If I don't park here, I'll miss my appointment. FOR-GIVE US OUR TRESPASSES.

When he returned, he found a citation from a police officer along with this note:

I've circled this block for 10 years. If I don't give you a ticket, I'll lose my job. LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION.

Somebody has well said that there are only two kinds of people in the world:

There are those who wake up in the morning and say, "Good morning, Lord," and there are those who wake up in the morning and say, "Good Lord, it's morning."

Greater 'jihad' has great appeal ...

"Jihad" (the Arabic word for "struggle") has a positive side. Islamic terrorists emphasize the war element, but most Muslims emphasize what they call "greater jihad," the internal spiritual struggle of those trying to discipline their character. Twenty years ago, in October 1981, a movie about greater jihad hit theaters across America and won the best picture Oscar for its story of two runners: Harold Abrahams, the fiercely competitive son of a Lithuanian Jewish immigrant, and Eric Liddell, a young Scottish minister. The film's name: "Chariots of Fire."

Its success was due in part to the contrast in greater jihads that the two runners represent. Abrahams sees sprinting as a way to gain vengeance on anti-Semites; "ten lonely seconds to justify my whole existence." Liddell joyfully fuses body and spirit as he disciplines himself to run for God's glory: "(God) made me fast, and when I run, I feel His pleasure."

Both runners hope for gold medals at the 1924 Olympics, but Liddell's reading of the Bible does not allow him to race on the Sabbath, and he has to decide whether to stick with what he has professed or give in to the entreaties of king and country. Abrahams, meanwhile, has to face not only his internal loneliness, but the fastest runners in the world.

Greater jihad has its appeal. Eric Liddell did not say that other people should not run on the Sabbath, he said that he could not. For that reason, movie liberals could portray him not as their hated right-winger dictating to other people, but as a man who told himself how to live, and stuck to that resolution even when it hurt.

Marvin Olasky

David Puttnam, the producer of "Chariots of Fire," said he found Eric Liddell's story enthralling simply because "this is an expedient world. For people to behave in an inexpedient manner is extraordinary." Executive Producer Dodi Fayed, a Muslim who became Princess Diana's lover (she would die with her in 1997), was fascinated by the theme of "how your religion can affect you. How where you come from can affect you."

Making the film was itself a greater jihad, because financing was hard to find. Its screenwriter, Colin Welland, asked, "Can you imagine going to a Hollywood mogul and saying, 'I have this idea about two Olympic athletes from 1924?'" The project languished until Fayed brought in the additional $3 million needed from United Star Shipping. "Believe me," Puttnam said, "you've been fairly well around the track before you get to Egyptian shipping lines."

Sometimes everything comes together for moviemakers only once in a lifetime. Director Hugh Hudson went from "Chariots of Fire" to "Greystoke: The Legend of Tarzan, Lord of the Apes," and never made another top-notch film. Producer Puttnam went on to become chief of production for Columbia Pictures but was fired after little over a year on that job. The actor who brilliantly portrayed Eric Liddell, Ian Charleson, died from AIDS complications in 1990.

One advantage of Hollywood is that the rare shining moment does not dissipate like the mist. If you haven't seen "Chariots of Fire," you should. And if you have, maybe you can push for a sequel. Soon after "Chariots of Fire" came out, Hugh Hudson talked about Eric Liddell's post-Olympic career as a missionary in China until he died at the end of World War II in a Japanese prisoner of war camp. The director noted "Liddell's courage and fortitude in the camp" and said there "might be an even better movie in that story."

Might be — and now that we need to increase our fortitude to meet a new international threat, such a movie could be both enthralling and helpful.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 18, the 291st day of 2001. There are 74 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 18, 1767, the boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania, the Mason-Dixon line, was agreed upon.

On this date:

In 1867, the United States took formal possession of Alaska from Russia.

In 1892, the first long-distance telephone line between Chicago and New York was formally opened.

In 1898, the American flag was raised in Puerto Rico shortly before Spain formally relinquished control of the island to the United States.

In 1931, inventor Thomas Alva Edison died in West Orange, N.J., at age 84.

In 1944, Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia during World War II.

In 1950, Connie Mack, the "Grand Old Man" of major league baseball, announced he was retiring as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

In 1968, the U.S. Olympic Committee suspended Tommie Smith and John Carlos for giving a "black power" salute as a protest during a victory ceremony in Mexico City.

In 1969, the federal government banned artificial sweeteners known as cyclamates because of evidence they caused cancer in laboratory rats.

In 1982, former first lady Bess Truman died at her home in Independence, Mo., at age 97.

In 1989, after 18 years in power, Erich Honecker was ousted as leader of East Germany; he was succeeded by Egon Krenz.

Ten years ago: Confirmed Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas swore to uphold the Constitution during an oath-taking ceremony at the White House.

Five years ago: Democratic Party fund-raiser John Huang was relieved of his duties following days of attacks by the Republicans over what they called improper and possibly illegal contributions.

One year ago: President Clinton honored the 17 sailors killed in a suicide bomb attack against the USS Cole as he attended a ceremony at the Norfolk Naval Station in Virginia. Singer-actress Julie London died in Los Angeles at age 74; Broadway musical star Gwen Verdon died in Woodstock, Vt., at age 75.

Today's Birthdays: Singer Anita O'Day is 82. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., is 80. Rock-and-roll performer Chuck Berry is 75.

Propaganda in government-backed report?

Here's a good study of propaganda, found in a report of a study of child abuse. Let's look at the second paragraph of a BBC Internet news story:

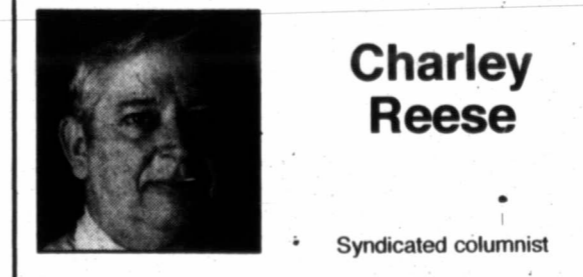

"A study from the University of Pennsylvania shows as many as 400,000 youngsters are being sexually exploited, from working as prostitutes on the streets to selling sex at school for cash."

Point No. 1: The story says the researchers visited only 17 cities and talked to cops, child-welfare bureaucrats and "hundreds" of children. How do you go from that to 400,000? Ye olde statistical magic wand — projection, nothing more than a guess that is always slanted in favor of getting more money to deal with the problem.

A friend and professor once put it succinctly: "If you pay me $100,000 a year to solve a problem, I damned sure ain't gonna solve it" (and end his salary). A friend from El Salvador stated the same principle about the guerrilla war during the Reagan administration: "You have to understand that the guerrillas are a valuable national resource. As long as your government is willing to pay us $1 million a day to fight the guerrillas, we can't afford to kill them. After all, there are only about 7,000 of them."

This University of Pennsylvania study, by the way, was commissioned by and paid for by the U.S. government.

Now notice that the words "sexually exploited" are used to describe prostitution. Since when is a prostitute, regardless of his or her age, exploited by his or her customers? It's an exchange — sex for cash. To constitute exploitation, it would have to be sex for nothing.

Charley Reese
Syndicated columnist

And you have to also beware of the words "child" and "youngster." They are designed to make us think of elementary-school children, but by law in most states, a person is a "child" until he or she reaches his or her 18th birthday.

According to biology, though, a person who is past puberty is an adult, capable of reproduction. People 13 through 17 might be legally children, but most can make their own decisions. I know from my own experience that at an even earlier age than 13, no adult outside my immediate family could persuade me to do anything I didn't want to do. And certainly not after that age.

I'm very skeptical of grown men who file lawsuits alleging that 10 or 15 years ago some priest sexually abused them at the age of 14 or 15 or 16. They might have had sex with a priest, but my guess is that it was voluntary. Most boys of that age could give a good account of themselves in a fistfight with adults. You should note a contradiction in the bureaucratic competition for the dollar between those dealing with delinquents and those dealing with alleged child abuse. On one hand, we're told of adults being terrorized by teen-age gangs. On the other, the same poor teenagers are helplessly being exploited by adults. Sorry, that doesn't compute.

Child abuse to me means anyone monkeying around with a pre-adolescent. In those cases, it should be one strike and you're dead. Those are the cases involving true pedophiles, and the only cure for pedophilia is death.

This same report says that runaways are "exposed to drug abuse." Listen, if someone takes a drug that is bad for him or her, that's self-abuse. Drug dealers are salesmen, not law-breakers. People who use an illegal drug have only themselves to blame if there are bad consequences.

This new report is just one more example of distorting reality in order to shake the government money tree. There is a simple answer for all of it: good parents who raise their children with sound moral values. If you're going to preach situational ethics, which is no ethics, then don't call the inevitable results a national crisis.

Workaholics Miss Out On What Really Matters In Family Life

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Sally in Fort Collins, Colo.," who is trying to convince her husband to take some time off from their plumbing business to spend with the family.

I, too, used to work a lot of hours, sometimes working two jobs just to have that "extra cash." It seemed important to make sure my kids had the best clothes, toys, went to the best schools — whatever. I wanted to drive a nicer car, have a nicer house, etc. There was always tomorrow for field trips or the park. We could wait until next year to take that family vacation.

Now there is no tomorrow. My son died last year. He was only 14. I would live in a cardboard box for the rest of my life to be able to go to a football game or a concert with him. I would take the bus every day if it meant we could hit golf balls in the back yard again.

Sally should tell her husband to think long and hard about what is really important. Things are replaceable. Time is not.

FILLED WITH REGRET, CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

DEAR FILLED WITH REGRET: Please accept my sympathy for the loss of your son. I hope Sally shows your letter to her husband. I can't imagine a more powerful motivator. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I also owned a plumbing company and worked long and hard to be successful. However, we made our kids and our marriage a priority. Kids grow up quickly, and you can lose sight of what's important in your marriage if you don't remember what you're working for in the first place. My husband and I made a date once a month — just the two of us. We also made sure we spent quality time with our kids.

I want Sally to show this letter to her husband. My hardworking, healthy-as-a-horse husband was diagnosed with kidney cancer and was dead eight months later. The kids and I are left with the happy times we spent together. Please urge Sally and her husband to make the time today. They might not have tomorrow.

SOUTH TEXAS WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: You're right. There are no guarantees. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: My husband also said he was working hard for an early retirement. For 20 years, the boys and I did all the things families do — only without their father. I was more or less a married single mother. The barber once asked them if they ever visited their father, because he hadn't seen him for years and assumed we were divorced.

When it was time for the good life, my husband found someone else and left us. Sticking around for 20 years was stupid on my part, but I wouldn't trade the relationship I had — and still have — with my two sons for anything in the world. I have tried to teach them to work hard and play hard. Life is too short not to. Workaholism destroys relationships. I don't consider myself a loser; but I do think my ex-husband is. He missed out on a great family.

HAPPY IN INDIANA

DEAR HAPPY: How sad for him. We usually get out of relationships what we invest in them. I don't think you were stupid for sticking around; you were finishing the job you started, and your signature shows it was the right thing for you.

Dear Abby is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips.

Southside Senior Citizens Center serves over 1,000 seniors

This article is one in a series of articles of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 2001 "The Way America Cares, Community by Community!" fund-raising campaign.

Southside Senior Citizen's Center served 1,895 individual meals last year. The center's greatest accomplishment is its Senior Citizen's mobile meals program.

Southside Senior Citizen's Center provides a variety of activities for its members, including recreational activities for the elderly — and otherwise helps to meet the needs of the underprivileged in the city.

The center regularly assists individuals in its Mobile Meals Program on Saturdays, providing hot meals to Pampa residents who are homebound due to illness, physical handicap or advancing age and who cannot prepare their own meals and might otherwise not have a nutritious hot meal for the week-end.

In the Telephone Reassurance Program, these people get a phone call every day from someone at the center to reassure them that someone cares about their well-being.

Also, the center offers recreational activities. In addition to ceramics, the center offers music, dominoes, bingo, pool and other forms of recreation.

There is an exercise bike and a treadmill for the fitness-minded and a Fellowship Luncheon on the last Thursday of each month. Every Friday night is Fun Night with refreshments and games.

Money from Pampa United Way plays a big part in making Southside an important part of the lives of our community's deserving elderly citizens. Without your help, the invaluable services of this and other local agencies receiving UW assistance would not be possible.

If a United Way volunteer has not contacted you, please call 669-1001 today and receive your pledge card or mail your donation to Pampa United Way, P.O. Box 2076, Pampa, TX 79065.

Southside Senior Citizen's Center is located at 438 W. Crawford. To find out more, call 665-4765.

TRTA District 16 to hold convention

District 16 of Texas Retired Teachers Association will hold its annual Fall Convention Nov. 1 at Region 16 Education Service Center in Amarillo. The keynote speaker will be Mike Lehr, an officer on the TRTA Board of Directors. He will report on current events at TRTA.

TRTA Legislative Committee representative Roy Pennington will discuss legislative priorities to be presented at the 78th Legislature when it convenes in January 2003.

A representative from the Teacher Retirement System will present a general update on benefit information, and state standing committee chairmen will present a report on the goals and activities planned for this year.

These include chairmen of the following committees: Community Volunteer Services, Health Care, Retirement Education/Planning and Informative and Protective Services.

TRTA has over 50,000 members, and is the only state organization that works exclusively for retired public school and higher education retirees.

AUTO RACING

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — NASCAR ordered the immediate use of head-and-neck restraints for its top three series, trying to improve safety after a string of fatal crashes, including Dale Earnhardt's.

Effective this weekend, drivers in the Winston Cup, Busch and Craftsman Truck series must wear a HANS or Hutchens device at any time they are on the track during a NASCAR-sanctioned event.

After four deaths in 17 months, NASCAR has encouraged drivers to wear a restraint system this season, but had previously declined to make them mandatory. On a regular basis, 42 of the 43 Winston Cup drivers voluntarily wear one of the two devices.

GOLF

PAMPA — Hidden Hills Public Golf Course held a senior 4-man scramble Wednesday.

Results are as follows:
1. Ralph Baker, Buddy Epperson, Bill Harwood and Gene Winegeart, 63.
2. Bill Hammer, Bob Lyle, Jack Davis and Duane Cash, 63.
3. B.F. Dorman, Larry Ogden, Charles Terrell and Bill Brown, 63.
4. Jim Patton, Jim Ashford, John McGuire and Ed Langford, 63.
Closest to the hole: James Lee, No. 6.

FOOTBALL

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State has lost three straight for the first time since 1992, and not one player on the roster has ever experienced this many losses at the Division I level.

Coach Bill Snyder said the rebuilding process begins with reevaluating every aspect of the program from special teams to moods during practice.

"All of us have to self-assess," Snyder said. "We have to make our best effort to decide 'what is my attitude?' Is it one of complacency? Is it one of anger? For us, it's a matter of consistency whether you've lost one or three."

Two weeks ago, the Wildcats were ranked No. 12 despite a close loss to No. 3 Oklahoma. But it was after that loss when problems began surfacing. Starting quarterback Ell Roberson became inconsistent after positive performances in wins over USC and New Mexico State. He threw two interceptions and was injured against Colorado, putting junior college transfer Marc Dunn into the position. Then Dunn struggled in a 38-17 loss at Texas Tech.

In the kicking game, Kansas State has used as many as six kickers for two positions. The Wildcats have missed six extra points and haven't made a field goal in three games.

A defense that dominated well in two season-opening wins gave up 475 yards to the Red Raiders.

And although Defensive Coordinator Phil Bennett said players are focused and not complacent, starting fullback Rock Cartwright said some have not been playing hard.

"Not everyone is giving it everything they have," he said.

Those problems have Kansas State players frustrated, yet optimistic.

"All of us are rededicating ourselves," Dunn said. "This is not an easy thing to deal with. Emotions are up and down. But, we need to just shut up and play football."

In order to avoid a loss to Texas A&M that would give Kansas State two consecutive defeats at home for the first time since 1989, Bennett said coaches have to help players through losing experiences that the coaches have been through.

Running for yardage

Pampa back Chase Harris picks up yardage against Hereford in a 7th grade football game earlier this week at Harvester Stadium. Harris scored Pampa's only touchdown in a loss to Hereford. Pampa plays at Dumas Oct. 23.

Smith expected to remain a Cowboy

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Running back Emmitt Smith, the NFL's second all-time leading rusher, should break the record and play out his contract as a Dallas Cowboy, team owner Jerry Jones says.

Smith, whose current pact with the team ends after the 2005 season, played on three Super Bowl winners in Dallas in the mid-1990s.

"I just don't see anything, absent injuries that would cause him to go to another team," Jones told The Dallas Morning News in Thursday's editions.

Smith set up the game-winning kick in the Cowboys' 9-7 victory over Washington Monday with a 13-yard run that put him over 100 yards for the first time in seven games. Smith had 107 yards on 25 carries.

"I like the way Emmitt is playing," Jones said. "He was a significant factor the other night in that ballgame, and I can't see that not being the case next year. We both want him to finish his career with the Dallas Cowboys."

Smith says he doesn't envision a scenario in which he has to compete for carries with second-year running back Troy Hambrick, who will now be starting in the backfield with him in place of injured fullback Robert Thomas.

Coach Dave Campo's notion of having Smith share a few of his carries with Hambrick raises some eyebrows.

"It works out fine when you get the amount of plays that we had," Smith said of the Cowboys' 74 offensive plays against the Redskins. "When you have that many plays, it's easy to rotate people in and out and give a player a breather here and there. I don't want to put a lot of stock into it that it will just work out fine. It worked out fine this particular game."

The Cowboys coach said he wanted Hambrick to get a few more carries per game. Hambrick's average per carry after five games was a stunning 8.3 yards on 26 carries. By contrast, Smith's average is 3.7 yards on 86 carries.

Smith said he was pleased to finally get 25 carries against Washington on Monday after not reaching 20 carries in any of the Cowboys' first four games. Hambrick is averaging just five carries per game.

Smith doesn't see Hambrick as competition, but rather as a possible successor, down the road.

"I've been watching the man grow and mature over the past year," said Smith. "That's what you want to see in young players. You want to see them develop into great football players, and I think he is on his way."

Braves, Diamondbacks NL series tied at 1 win apiece

PHOENIX (AP) — Javy Lopez was not supposed to be here, not after a nasty collision at home plate last month.

Yet he arrived in the nick of time to breathe life into the Atlanta Braves.

"He's one of those guys who can turn a game around with one swing," the Braves' Brian Jordan said.

That swing sent the ball off the right-field foul pole for a two-run homer that broke a tie in the seventh inning and sent Atlanta on its way to an 8-1 victory over the Arizona Diamondbacks on Wednesday night.

The best-of-seven NL championship series shifts to Atlanta for Game 3 Friday night.

It was Lopez's first start since he sprained his left ankle Sept. 30 in a collision with Robin Ventura.

"With a high ankle sprain, it generally takes 6-to-8 weeks," manager Bobby Cox said. "The best we could get from the doctor was a chance for the World Series, and that was probably less than 50-50. They got him ready somehow. It's kind of amazing."

Cox said before the game that he put Lopez into the lineup in hopes that he could provide some home-run support for Tom Glavine. The Atlanta manager came away looking like a prophet.

The Braves dreaded the thought of going home for Game 3 Friday night down 2-0 and facing Curt Schilling, Mr. Unbeatable so far in the playoffs.

"I always feel like Game 2 is an urgent game in any series. To me, it's a huge swing game," Glavine said.

"You can either go up two, down two or tie things up. Any of those is vastly different than the other. In this instance, it's probably magnified. We certainly didn't want to go home down 2-0 with the prospect of facing Curt."

After Glavine shut down Arizona for seven innings, the Braves turned the game into a rout with five runs off of a parade of old-timers out of the Diamondbacks' shaky bullpen.

Jordan doubled in two runs off 42-year-old Mike Morgan, B.J. Surhoff hit a two-run homer off 36-year-old Greg Swindell and Rey Sanchez singled in a run off 37-year-old Bobby Witt.

"Our guys down there obviously are not power pitchers," Arizona manager Bob Brenly said. "They rely on movement and location. Certainly the location wasn't there."

Glavine allowed one run and five hits to improve to 2-0 in this year's playoffs. He struck out two and walked two before giving way to Steve Karsay.

As usual, Glavine's biggest weapon was his control. He baffled the Diamondbacks into harmless groundouts and fly balls.

Brenly marveled at the way Glavine was able to tailor his pitches so the batters would be likely to hit where the defense was playing.

"Tom Glavine was every bit as spectacular in his own right as Randy Johnson was, if you ask me," Brenly said. "He pitched right to the strength of his defense. That's pretty crafty."

Glavine tied teammate John Smoltz's major league record with his 12th postseason victory. Glavine also has 12 postseason losses, tied with teammate Greg Maddux for the most ever.

Arizona starter Miguel Batista allowed only two hits in seven innings, but both were homers and that was all the support Glavine needed in his 29th postseason start.

Marcus Giles, who came within a foot or less of hitting two homers against Johnson in Game 1 Tuesday, homered on the game's first pitch to give Atlanta the quickest 1-0 lead possible.

Batista retired 13 in a row in one stretch and didn't allow another hit until Lopez's first-pitch homer off the right-field foul pole in the seventh put the Braves up 3-1. Batista walked Andrew Jones on four pitches right before allowing the homer.

"As soon as I stepped into the batter's box, I was shooting for right field all the way," Lopez said. "The first pitch around the plate, I was going to swing as hard as I can."

Both Batista and Brenly said the pitch was well off the plate, making it a tough one to hit out of the park.

"You can throw that pitch 30 times and if he hits it once, that's not bad," Batista said. "Look at it, it was 2 1/2 inches off the plate. He was probably just looking for it and got the good part of the bat on it."

Said Brenly, "Not many guys hit that pitch out of the park."

Hereford wins 7th grade football games

PAMPA — Hereford defeated Pampa by a score of 28-6 in 7th grade football action earlier this week at Harvester Stadium.

Pampa's only touchdown came on an 18-yard run by Chase Harris.

Hereford won the B team game 16-12.

Jessie Chavez scored both Pampa touchdowns on runs of 2 and 4 yards.

Pampa A team has a 2-2-1 record while the B team is 2-3.

Police take Underwood to psychiatric facility

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys defensive tackle Dimitrius Underwood's future with the team is uncertain after a string of incidents related to his bipolar disorder, team owner Jerry Jones says.

Underwood did not play Monday against Washington and has not practiced in more than a week.

"Even if he's not playing for us we'll continue to help him and his family in any way that we can, so he can address his problem," Jones said Wednesday. "It's unlikely he'll play against Arizona Oct. 28. We're continuing to look at the situation and see how it might affect the rest of the year as far as he is concerned."

Underwood left a psychiatric facility where he had been receiving treatment on Saturday. Team officials did not know his whereabouts until he phoned Jones on Tuesday afternoon, requesting a meeting at the Cowboys' Valley Ranch training complex.

During a meeting, Jones said he demanded that Underwood return to the treatment facility.

Several police officers were called to the complex in case they were needed to subdue the 6-6, 275-pound Underwood. But Jones said Underwood agreed to return to the treatment facility and the officers accompanied him there without incident.

PHS swimmers open season

LUBBOCK — Entered in their first meet of the 2001-2002 season, 14 Pampa High swimmers set personal best marks.

The PHS High School swim team competed in the Lubbock Relays last weekend where they set their personal bests.

Swimmers entered were seniors Clay David, Misty Moman and Ben Whitten; juniors Julian George, Tamra Henthorn, Emily Johnson, Kody Kirkland, Jenny Tollison and Michael Eskridge. Sophomores and freshmen were Alan Arzola, Megan David, Jessica Hall, Joe Johnson, Garrett Johnson, Michael Martinez, Kendra Strickland, Angela Henthorn, Adeline Lavrenz and Kandice Maddox.

Pampa swimmers all had outstanding times and competed very well, according to Pampa coach Amy Howard.

Pampa brought home two third-place medals, one in the men's 400 freestyle relay, and the other in the men's 300 individual medley relay. Both relays included Clay David and Michael Eskridge. Other awards included one fourth, one sixth, two sevenths, one eighth, five ninths and one tenth place.

"Our deal is that we're with him all the way, but he has to do what the advisers and counselors say he needs to do," Jones said.

Personal best times were set by the following swimmers: Jessica Hall, Kendra Strickland, Kandice Maddox, Angela Henthorn, A.J. Laurenz, Emily Johnson, Jenny Tollison, Ben Whitten, Julian George, Alan Arzola, Joe Johnson, Garrett Johnston, Michael Martinez and Kody Kirkland.

Pampa placed 11th out of 17 teams in the girls' division. In the boys' division, Pampa placed 8th out of 19 teams.

Overall, Pampa placed 10th out of 24 teams.

"The swimmers did a great job. Next weekend, the swim competes in San Angelo," coach Howard added. "Good luck and keep up the great work."
