City parks board to elect new officers

PAMPA — New officers will be elected at a regular meeting of the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board meeting at 5 p.m. Thursday. The meeting will be held in the City Commission Chambers at Pampa City Hall, 200 W. Foster. Also on the agenda is discussion of bimonthly meetings and water bill donation review. A staff report will be given by Shane Stokes and Kimberly Lincycumb.

Student run over by school bus after being kicked off by driver

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston school bus driver has been suspended after he ejected a student from the bus and then ran over the boy. The driver's report indicated that he pulled over and ordered the student off the bus because of bad behavior, said Bonnie Russell, general manager of transportation for the Houston Independent School District. The driver said the student, Micheal Fuller II, was on the sidewalk when he began to pull back into traffic after a mirror check. As he was making his way back into traffic, the driver said he noticed in the mirror that the boy was hanging from a window of the bus and then he fell. The dual-tire bus then ran over the boy. The 14-year-old Lamar High School student remains in Ben Taub Hospital, recovering from his injuries in the Oct. 15 accident.

No deaths were reported to The Pampa News today.

City Commission backs PEDC

Asks citizens to vote against dissolving PEDC

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

City Commissioners are united in their support for retaining the Pampa Economic Development Corporation and unanimously passed a resolution Tuesday asking citizens to vote against dissolution in the Nov. 6 election. Early voting is under way now with 127 people having cast ballots at City Hall Monday and 67 on Tuesday, said City Secretary Phyllis Jeffers. Voting today is off that early pace. The resolution, sponsored by Commissioner Bob Dixon, drew public comment from those for and against retaining the PEDC which is funded by a half-cent city sales tax. Prior to the vote, citizens who had signed up to speak and commissioners made comments on the issue. Jim Terry, a citizen who has been vocal regarding his stance against the PEDC, was first up and he told commissioners, "I feel that it is inappropriate for any government entity to promote a political agenda." While noting that doing so is something the commission can legally do, Terry said the ethics of supporting such a resolution can be called into question. "I keep hearing about the misinformation the Concerned Citizens are circulating," Terry said. "I'd like to know the specifics. I don't appreciate the scare tactics," he added, with regard to those who say if the PEDC is voted out Pampa is going to go further downhill. "We survived a long time without (the PEDC)," Terry said. "We'll survive a long time (again) without it." He also raised the issue that the PEDC's structure does not allow it to provide financial assistance to local retail businesses. "The people who put in these businesses didn't get one dime," Terry said. "I know the PEDC can't fund them. This is the reason I object so strenuously to it. I don't think it helps the people who need helping." Taking an opposite view before the Commission was Richard Stowers, former PEDC board president who resigned recently. "We've all listened for the last several months to what I'd like to represent as a vocal minority," Stowers said. "We have been inundated with misinformation." Stowers praised the Commission for bringing the resolution forward and expressing their support for the PEDC, something that he says, however, is "90 days late." He noted the city's aging population and said without economic growth the town's population will continue to decline. He said that will force fewer people to pay a bigger burden through taxes to support the city's infrastructure which he said is designed to support a population of 25,000. Stowers was critical of The Pampa News and its coverage of PEDC-related issues saying the newspaper has exhibited both "compromised objectivity" and a "biased opinion." (See PEDC, Page 3)

Skinner wants more DNA tests run on evidence

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
Staff Writer

Utilizing a new state law, a death row inmate convicted of murdering a Pampa woman and her two sons has filed a motion for more DNA tests. In a motion filed in 31st District Court on Oct. 9, Henry "Hank" Skinner, asks for forensic DNA testing of evidence from the murder scene which, according to the petition, will exonerate him. Six years ago, a Fort Worth jury took less than two hours to sentence Skinner to death for the murders of Twila Busby, 40, and her two sons, Elwin Eugene "Scooter" Caler, 22, and Melvin Randolph Busby Jr., 20, on New Year's Eve, 1993. Police found Busby beaten to death on the floor of her living room at 804 E. Gordon. The two young men had been stabbed. Randy Busby was found dead in his bed. Caler had managed to get to a neighbor's house before collapsing. He later died at a Pampa hospital. Skinner's motion relies on Senate Bill 3 which amends the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure to allow a convicted person to seek DNA testing of evidence held by the state during the trial but which had not been previously tested for DNA "through no fault of the convicted person, for reasons that are of a nature such that the interests

Corrections officer shortage continues

Job orientation meeting Thursday night

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

Jordan and Baten Unit officials are hopeful Thursday night's informational meeting about corrections officer opportunities, will ultimately result in new hires to help ease the officer shortage. The meeting gets under way at 7 p.m. at the Jordan Unit and the aim is to recruit enough people to start a corrections officer class at the prison beginning Nov. 14, said Warden C.C. Bell. The class will be taught through Amarillo College. As with a previous class, the Pampa Economic Development Corporation will pay a student's tuition in exchange for a contract that says the person will remain at the local units for at least a year. Currently, there are 177 corrections officers on staff at both units which puts the number 60 officers short of what's needed. Three of the 60, including one sergeant, recently left because they have been called up for Guard or Reserve duty. (See CORRECTIONS, Page 3)

Vein Drain Blood Drive Thursday

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Calling all blood donors in Pampa. The annual Vein Drain Blood Drive will be in Pampa Thursday, Oct. 25, from 11 a.m. - 7 p.m. at the M.K. Brown Room in the Chamber of Commerce Building, 200 North Ballard. Coffee Memorial Blood Center is hoping to cut the trick out of "Trick or Treat" to save lives, according to Danny Cervantes at the Amarillo Center. Donors who donate one pint of blood will receive a specially designed Vein Drain t-shirt for Halloween as a thank you for saving lives, he said. "The Texas Panhandle needs 500 units of blood a week to operate at a safe blood level," he said. One unit of blood could make the difference for three people who are unfortunate enough to be stricken with a blood disease or in an accident. With the help of the Pampa community, Coffee Memorial Blood Center says blood levels will stay safe in the Texas Panhandle.

Groups upset at DOE over advisory board restructure

AMARILLO (AP) — Community groups are upset with a Department of Energy plan to restructure a public advisory board, saying it would limit their say on environmental matters at the nuclear weapons plant. Three groups — Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping, Panhandle Area Neighbors and Landowners, and the Peace Farm — met Tuesday to criticize the DOE. "I would say the Department of Energy wants a board of lap dogs," said Buddy Seewald, president of STAND. "We accuse them of bad faith, bad faith with this community and bad faith with the people who worked hours ... in helping them put together a board they said they wanted." The Pantex Plant Citizens Advisory Board was formed in 1994 to give residents a say in operations at the plant. In July, members of the board learned that the DOE would not allow them to continue making recommendations on Pantex operational matters. (See GROUPS, Page 3)

In West Texas clear skies are expected to linger in advance of a cool front. Temperatures Wednesday should range from the mid-60s in the north to the mid-80s and lower 90s from the Permian Basin south to the Big Bend.

In North Texas skies on Wednesday should be mostly sunny after the morning cloudiness burns off in the east. Highs should be in the 80s and 90s ahead of a cold front and in the 60s and 70s behind it. Winds should blow in the 15 to 25 mph range from the south before the front passes and from the northwest after the cold front moves through.

In South Texas, Wednesday should be mostly clear with lows around 50 in Hill Country and in the mid to upper 50s elsewhere. Thursday and Thursday night should be mostly sunny day and mostly clear with highs in the College preparation workshop set tonight at Pampa High library

A college preparation workshop for Pampa High School juniors, seniors and their parents, begins at 7 p.m., tonight, Oct. 23, at the PHS Library, 111 E. Harvester.

Spanish, "The Road to College" guides students and parents through the college admission testing calendar, college admission forms, financial aid forms and use of the Internet.

Participants will also learn of a college tuition grant available for students with good grades who prepare early. A session for parents tells what to expect during the first year of college.

To My Fellow Citizens:

In his address to a joint session of Congress, on September 20, 2001, our President stated, "In all that lies before us, may God grant us wisdom, may He watch over the United States of America."

As we face what lies before us in Pampa, Texas, regarding what we need to do about our economic future these words have a very special meaning for our community. We do need guidance and we do need wisdom.

We are faced with a challenge and each of us knows from personal experience that challenge compels us to put in extra effort. It forces us to become more effective, more focused and more committed. However, most of us know that when we can "look back" on those challenges we are clearly stronger and more capable people.

To meet any challenge we have got to have a Game Plan. What will ours be if we vote to do away with our P.E.D.C? Much attention is starting to be given to rural economic development by state and federal agencies. Our voices are starting to be heard. If we vote to do away with our P.E.D.C., how do we keep our voice in that choir? Do we have a back up game plan? While I wish that we did not have to offer companies financial benefits to tweak their interest in coming here, that is a major part of today's business world.

Anyone who knows me, knows that like many of you I have stomped my feet and voiced my opinion about some of the actions of the P.E.D.C. I did not, however, sign the petition to do away with it. While I might not have always agreed with board member Richard Stowers, for instance, what I do know beyond a shadow of a doubt is that on every volunteer Board of Directors a member of my family is serving there is a member of the Stowers family. I know that every time my company is asked to step forward and be a special sponsor for some happening in Pampa, Culberson-Stowers logo is there, also. I know that in times of private need when we have been privileged to participate there also stood the Stowers. While we might not always have agreed on actions, I have never doubted Richard's depth of commitment.

Where do we go from here? That is in the hands of those who vote. After much soul searching, I am going to vote to keep our P.E.D.C. I am going to vote to stand with our Executive Director and the Board. I know that Susan Tripplehorn loves Pampa, Texas, and will fight for it. I know that Lee Porter has an established excellent reputation, I know that I would trust Darville Orr with everything I have, and I know that Jerry Foote brings experience to the table. I am voting to give these people and the additional appointees the opportunity to lead us through the challenge we face.

From my own personal experience I can tell you that what might seem today to be overpowering debt and problems can be overcome if we stick together. We can work through this challenge with a good game plan.

Giving up has never been an option for most of us who have grown up in the Texas Panhandle-most of us were blessed to have learned that from our parents. We know that our achievements in life have come by facing one challenge after another. We also have learned when we have made the necessary efforts to meet those challenges we have helped create our own special path in this world.

Please vote NO to the dissolution of the P.E.D.C.

Sincerely,

Paulette Hinkle-Kirksey

PEDC

He also made reference to what he calls "the silent majority" in Pampa — those he believes are in support of the PEDC. He said that group is "shaking in their boots and I don't know why they won't speak up."

Dr. Dawson Orr, superintendent of Pampa Independent School District and a Pampian for 14 years, said, "I think it is entirely appropriate that a governing body take a stand of support or non-support. I urge you to support this (resolution). Pampa needs an EDC."

Orr said 60 percent of Pampa's high school graduates enter college but said, "a very small percentage" come back to Pampa to live due to a lack of jobs.

"We need citizens who will come back as a future commissioners, United Way supporters and Chamber of Commerce members," Orr said.

If the PEDC is voted out, Orr said as a community that once had an EDC and rejected it, Pampa will be "sending a message that we're not interested."

"I think as a community we need to make known the type of businesses we want," Orr said.

Retired chiropractor Dr. Louis Haydon said, "We can't get young people to stay here unless we give them something of quality. Are we going to bid against what the others do — hog factories and feed lots? Dumas, Perryton, Dalhart and Booker are all committed to that. Once you get those kind of businesses that's all you are going to get."

On the Commission side, Commissioner Faustina Curry praised Dixon for bringing the resolution forth saying, "I feel very strongly we must have an EDC. That levels the playing field. Pampa is a wonderful place and we must be able to compete. Some say people will come here anyway, that's not true."

Curry said attendance at Saturday's Chamber of Commerce Country Fair "was down tremendously," this year adding there were "very few volunteers" as well. She blamed that in part on the fact younger people aren't coming back to Pampa.

If the PEDC is retained, Curry said, "That doesn't mean we can't change some things ... change the direction of the board ... the types of businesses, but we have to have money."

Curry said when business and industry looks for a home in Texas, "their bottom line is to get the most they can. This isn't a scare tactic, it's reality. This city depends on sales and property taxes ... we need someone out selling Pampa."

Drawing on Dr. Orr's comments, Curry said, "The PEDC put $300,000 into Clarendon College - Pampa Campus "and made that project a go. They couldn't have made it without the PEDC."

Commissioner Jeff Andrews said, "I think everyone realizes we've made some mistakes ... I continue to wonder about the continuation of (going after) the dairy business."

Andrews said the economic development climate in Texas changed in 1989 when the legislature passed a law "sticking money in it. Businesses ask 'what do you have to offer?'"

Commissioner Dixon said, "We are playing today's game" in which 25 cities in the Texas Panhandle have an EDC. "It will put Pampa out of the game if we don't have one."

And statewide, Mayor Lonny Robbins said there are 472 EDCs.

Andrews echoed Dixon's statement saying, "In the climate of this state it is essential to be able to play the game."

And with regard to the PEDC board, Andrews said, "No doubt everyone who has served has done so with the utmost integrity. If we make it through November 6 we can discuss the PEDC board ... maybe take applications from five people."

"The question I get asked the most often," Andrews said, "is where does the commission stand" on the PEDC issue?

"We are belatedly answering that question," he added.

The mayor, who also voted for the resolution, asked rhetorically, "Have we been too late? Sometimes that can be good, the closer to the election the more people will remember it. I just think it is imperative we get together on this issue."

Experts: Texas prepared for bioterrorism; attack unlikely

DALLAS (AP) — Texas is prepared to deal with a bioterrorism attack, although it's much less likely to happen here than in states with more densely populated areas, several experts say.

Biological attacks are much more successful in cities where large masses of people are constantly exposed to others in cramped subways and close living quarters. Texas' urban areas are much more sprawling.

Dallas has about 2,500 people per square mile, compared with New York City's 66,800, said Kathleen Delaney, said medical director of the emergency department at Dallas' Parkland Memorial Hospital.

Delaney and other health experts gave presentations on bioterrorism Tuesday night at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Foundation's public forum, intended to calm hysteria generated by anthrax mailings on the East Coast.

About 300 people attended to ask questions ranging from whether Osama bin Laden can be rehabilitated to how to tell coffee creamer from white powder containing anthrax. Others worried about the state's supply of antibiotics to treat biological attacks.

"Antibiotics are not the problem," said Robert Haley, chief of epidemiology and professor of internal medicine at UT Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas.

He said the Centers for Disease Control has stores of antibiotics and vaccines called "pushpacks" that can be shipped to exposure sites within 12 to 24 hours. Parkland Hospital alone has enough antibiotics to treat 10,000 people for the first three days, he said.

Orchestra at Dallas Opera votes to strike

DALLAS (AP) — Less than two weeks before the scheduled opening of the Dallas Opera season, contract negotiations between the striking orchestra and the financially strapped opera remain at a standstill.

A bargaining session between the Dallas Opera and the American Federation of Musicians, to be supervised by a federal mediator, is scheduled for Wednesday morning.

Members of the Dallas-Fort Worth Professional Musicians Association, the union representing the 59-member orchestra, say the only acceptable contract terms must bring them to parity with other orchestras in the area.

The company has offered the musicians a three-year contract, with $800 a week the first year — the same rate as last season — and an 8 percent raise to $864 the second year and a 6 percent raise to $915 the third.

But, members of the orchestra say they want parity with similar orchestras in the area. They say that they are getting 20 percent less.

They also are asking for benefits including pension contributions, health insurance, disability payments and sick leave. They now get no fringe benefits.

Law officers increase oversight of hazardous cargo shippers

DALLAS (AP) — Shippers of hazardous cargo, identified as a possible terrorist target since attacks on the East Coast, are getting increased supervision by law officers in Texas who want to derail any criminal plans and reinforce trucking safety.

The intensified supervision involves agencies at the local, state and federal level.

Dallas Police Department supervisors have talked with all officers about regulations covering hazardous cargo routes. Officers on the department's 12-person team of truck inspectors also are watching for unusual activity, Lt. John Branton said.

Texas has a vast number of state highways and a high volume of hazardous cargo shipments, making attention to security important.

In one year, for example, one gasoline company runs 165,000 loads of fuel through Texas.

North Texas has specified routes that keep hazardous cargo from the urban centers of Dallas and Fort Worth.

Across Texas, state and federal officials several weeks ago started visiting about 1,900 hazardous materials shippers. The Texas Department of Public Safety and the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration began the effort on the advice of U.S. Transportation Secretary Norman Mineta.

No specific threats have been identified, law enforcement officials have said.

Texas carrier steps up driver security measures

HOUSTON (AP) — Front seats on Greyhound buses are off-limits to passengers under new security rules set by the Texas transportation carrier.

Executives of Greyhound Lines made the change this week in response to the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks and the assault of a bus driver on Oct. 3.

Signs on buses that used to ask passengers not to distract the driver now warn them to stay behind yellow lines or face possible prosecution.

Exceptions to the front-seat rule will be made for children traveling alone and for Greyhound employees, said Kristin Parsley, a spokeswoman for the Dallas-based carrier.

She said the changes are "a temporarily solution" to protect drivers.

"No bus manufacturer creates an enclosed area for the driver. That would be the long-term solution," Parsley told the Houston Chronicle in Wednesday's editions.

Parsley says Greyhound is seeking funds from the U.S. Department of Transportation for bus modifications that might improve security.

Greyhound, with the nation's last remaining nationwide bus service, operates 2,300 buses and carries an estimated 25 million people a year.

The company instituted a number of security measures after the attacks, Parsley said. They include using hand-held metal detectors to scan passengers and random checks of baggage by security personnel.

Woman to attend memorial for brothers

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — A South Texas woman said she will attend a memorial service in New York for her two brothers and others believed killed in the Sept. 11 attacks on the World Trade Center.

Alberta Perez flew to New York soon after the attacks and gave three DNA samples so officials could try to locate her brothers and her mother.

"I have to go," Perez told The Victoria Advocate for Wednesday's editions.

She said that, two days after her Sept. 17 arrival, the test helped her find her mother.

The Schroeder woman said she received a letter from New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani thanking her for her understanding during the crisis and inviting her to join the other families of victims for the service.

Dan Glenn, manager of the DOE's Amarillo area, said he considered public input important, but that the board was ineffective. He said no decision has been made about the board's future.

"Other stakeholder participation mechanisms such as the monthly public round-table meetings in Panhandle, special topical public meetings and meetings with elected officials have proven to be effective," Glenn said.

Walt Kelley said fellow Pantex board members were taking a wait-and-see attitude.

"Right now we still don't know what they want or what they don't want," he said.

SKINNER

of justice require DNA testing."

The petition, filed by Skinner's attorneys Steven Losch of Longview and Douglas Robinson of Washington, D.C., asks that DNA tests be conducted on a knife found on the front porch of the victim's home; a knife and dish towel found in a black plastic bag; a windbreaker jacket; vaginal swabs contained in a rape kit and fingernail scrapings and clippings taken from Twila Busby; blood sample from all three victims and Skinner; and the black plastic bag. The petition also asks for a comparison of fingerprints reportedly found on the black plastic bag.

Skinner's attorneys request that the DNA tests be done by Dr. Edward T. Blake of Forensic Science Associates of Richmond, Calif., except for mitochondrial DNA tests of hair shafts which are to be done by Dr. Terri Melton of Mitotyping Inc. of State College, Pa.

"Mr. Skinner is willing to pay for the DNA testing by private labs," the petition states.

"I expect there will be a hearing on this," District Attorney Rick Roach said this morning. "But my posture is that this (request) doesn't fall within the statute."

Roach said he plans to research the statute before filing an answer, adding, "We certainly are not going to allow them to pick and choose who does DNA testing."

Anticipating that the DA may not agree to the testing being done by private laboratories chosen by Skinner, the petition requests that the court allow the Texas Department of Public Safety or a state-contracted laboratory to do the requested tests "in consultation with Drs. Blake and Melton."

CORRECTIONS

The Jordan Unit is a minimum-medium security prison while the Baten unit houses parole violators.

To get the job done now, Bell said overtime is being used "and we've cut out the field activities ... community service" that require having a guard accompany the inmates outside the prison.

He was making reference to special projects around the prison as well as sending prisoners into Pampa to provide entities such as the city and schools with free labor.

He was hesitant to say that one community service project is being staffed — assisting Celebrations of Lights with putting up displays and stringing lighting.

However, at Tuesday's City Commission meeting, Commissioner Faustina Curry noted having seen the inmates working on the project and expressed thanks to Warden Bell on behalf of the commission and city.

"It's really a wonderful deal," she said. "It's nice to have this holiday display."

School finance committee will meet in Austin this week

AUSTIN — State Sen. Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo) and Rep. Paul Sadler (D-Henderson) have announced the first meeting of the Joint Select Committee on Public School Finance will be held Oct. 25 and 26 in Austin.

The meetings, which begin at 1 p.m. on the 25th and continue at 9 a.m. the 26th, will be held in the House Appropriations Committee Room, 1E.030.

Sen. Bivins, chair of the Senate Education Committee, was appointed by Lt. Gov. Bill Ratliff to serve as co-chair of the select committee along with Rep. Sadler, chair of the House Public Education Committee, who was appointed by Texas House Speaker Pete Laney. The committee includes members of both chambers as well as six members appointed to represent the Public.

The Joint Select Committee on Public School Finance has been charged with conducting a comprehensive review of the structure of the Texas Public school finance system. That task will begin on Oct. 25 as the committee is briefed on the current system of funding public education as well as the equity and constitutional issues which influence the process. In addition, a presentation is scheduled to brief members on how public education is funded in other states.

Tag-Along Daughter Needs To Find Friends Of Her Own

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, "Adrienne," is 20 and not very sociable. She doesn't have many friends.

Almost every time my wife and I go out to eat or go away for the weekend, my wife insists on taking Adrienne along because she doesn't want to leave her home.

Abby, our daughter should be out with friends — not her parents. I would like to spend some time alone with my wife. How do you feel about this situation?

FRUSTRATED
IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Your daughter is no longer a child; she's a young woman now. There is no reason why a 20-year-old cannot spend weekends at home without parental supervision. By insisting that Adrienne be consistently present when you go out to dinner or away on trips, your wife is discouraging intimacy with you and preventing her daughter from developing independence. As long as Adrienne is encouraged to lean on you for entertainment, she'll be less likely to forge friendships with contemporaries. Perhaps counseling will help to give her more confidence socially.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Jamie," died earlier this year. My teen-age son, "Jamie Jr.," wants his father's military records. When I found them, I was shocked. Jamie got an honorable discharge from the U.S. Army, but he also appeared before a board of inquiry for striking an officer.

Dear Abby

daughter Jeanne Phillips.

Jamie never disclosed this to me or any of his family. It would have been a disgrace. Jamie and our son had a very close relationship, and I don't want Jamie Jr. to be disillusioned and ashamed of his father now.

I am tempted to "lose" these records. What do you think?
SURPRISED WIFE
IN OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR SURPRISED WIFE: Give your son his father's military records. If you do, I can't help feeling your son will gain even more respect for his father. This is an excellent example of how people can change and grow, even though they may have made mistakes when they were younger.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating the sweetest man for about three months. "Danny" leaves me loving notes, draws me pictures, massages my back, and even makes my bed when I'm in the shower. He is without a doubt the most thoughtful man I've ever been with, and I have fallen for him hard.

There is one problem: Danny doesn't make much money. He works hard in his field, but it's either feast or famine.

I, on the other hand, earn a very substantial salary. I have been afraid to share this fact with Danny for several reasons. One, my career intimidated my previous boyfriend, and I don't want that to happen again. And, two, I'm very private about my assets anyway.

Abby, should I keep my income a secret from Danny, or is that considered "lying"? Can a relationship work between a man and woman who are miles apart on the income scale — especially when the woman is the richer of the two?
CONFUSED YOUNG WOMAN IN LOVE

DEAR CONFUSED: If Danny hasn't asked, I see no reason to discuss your finances prematurely. Yes, a relationship like yours can work. But only if the qualities each person brings to the relationship are considered equally important.

Dear Abby is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips.

AMARILLO — Pampa's Lady Harvesters shot an 808 to take third last weekend at the Amarillo Fall Girls Invitational.

Tascosa placed first at 729 and Amarillo High was second at 767.

Pampa was led by Meagan Shannon, who had a two-round total of 196. Other Pampa scores were Cortney Lockname (198), Michelle Haley (205), Mollie Crossman (211) and Krissy Holman (227).

The Harvesters entered a Triangular-Dual Meet at Comanche Trail and shot a 371. Pampa competed against Dumas (333) and Canyon (332).

Daniel Heuston was low scorer for Pampa with an 86, followed by Mitch Shilling 91, Evan Ladd 96, Gary Utsey 98, and Ross Bullard 98.

In singles play, Dee Austin of Wheeler shot an 81.

GENERAL

DUBLIN, Ohio — Pampa has selected seniors Sepp Haukebo and Randa Morris to contend in the annual Wendy's High School Heisman Program.

Wendy's Heisman Program honors the nation's top high school seniors who best exemplify a scholar-citizen-athlete. Haukebo and Morris were selected based upon their performances in athletics, the classroom and the community.

Candace Bohr and Garrett Britten, both of Groom, have also been nominated for the high school Heisman award.

The program was created in 1994, with more than 6,200 nominations submitted from high schools nationwide. The only Texan to receive the award was Barrett Brandon of Lake County Christian High School in Fort Worth in 1999.

Student athletes are nominated by their high school principals. Schools can also receive financial contributions in this program. Wendy's awards monies to school that have students who are state, national finalists or national winners.

The two national winners, male and female, will be announced Dec. 9 during the College Heisman Trophy ceremony in New York, City.

BASKETBALL

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — The most amazing thing about Michael Jordan? For Washington coach Doug Collins, it's his vision.

"Every shot he takes, I don't know how he sees the basket with all those flash-bulbs going off," Collins said.

Jordan scored 27 points in the Wizards' 105-92 win over New Jersey on Tuesday night.

Jordan's comeback has brought sellouts everywhere he's gone. When Jordan steps to the free-throw line, cameras flash throughout arenas like light bouncing off a '70s disco ball.

"I'm used to it," said Jordan, talking after a victory for just the second time in six preseason games. "I can only be myself. I just try and get in tune with the game. It's my freedom, that's the way I express myself. Once I'm on the basketball court, I could care less about the eyes."

Cowboys make cuts

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys don't want to waste any more time on players that won't be part of their uncertain future.

Linebacker Darren Hambrick and cornerback Kareem Larrimore, starters known as much for off-the-field problems as their play, were released Tuesday.

"There is a lot involved and I'm not going to go into detail," said Cowboys coach Dave Campo. "We made some decisions to keep them earlier in the year and we felt comfortable with that. And now we feel comfortable with this."

Hambrick was vocally upset after the Cowboys offered him only a fourth-year minimum contract of $512,000 during the offseason. The player reluctantly signed the one-year deal after he got no offers from other teams.

Larrimore, a second-year cornerback who was signed through 2002, missed the start of training camp. He was later suspended for the final preseason game and the regular season opener because of a curfew violation during the team's trip to Mexico City.

The Dallas Morning News reported Wednesday that two sources said Larrimore had also recently violated the NFL's substance-abuse program. The newspaper didn't name the sources.

"I wouldn't want to get into that, but that shouldn't be interpreted as a yes or a no," Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said when asked about that.

Jones said Hambrick and Larrimore, like third-year receiver and kick returner Wane McGarity released three weeks ago, just didn't fit into the "future of where we wanted to go as a football team."

While McGarity was hampered by injuries and his small size, Hambrick and Larrimore were more directly responsible for the problems they caused the Cowboys.

Hambrick last summer missed two of three minicamps, one before he signed the contract and another after that. That angered Campo, who demoted Hambrick to second-string for the first half of training camp behind rookie Markus Steele.

Before the Mexico City curfew, Larrimore had already been fined by the club at least 10 other times — mainly for being late reporting to camp, practice or meetings.

Larrimore missed the beginning of training camp to be with his pregnant girlfriend in anticipation of labor. He called the coaches to tell them of the reason for his tardiness, but that call came too late.

"There are a variety of things that would come into consideration, not one incident or one thing. It could be cumulative," Jones said, not elaborating.

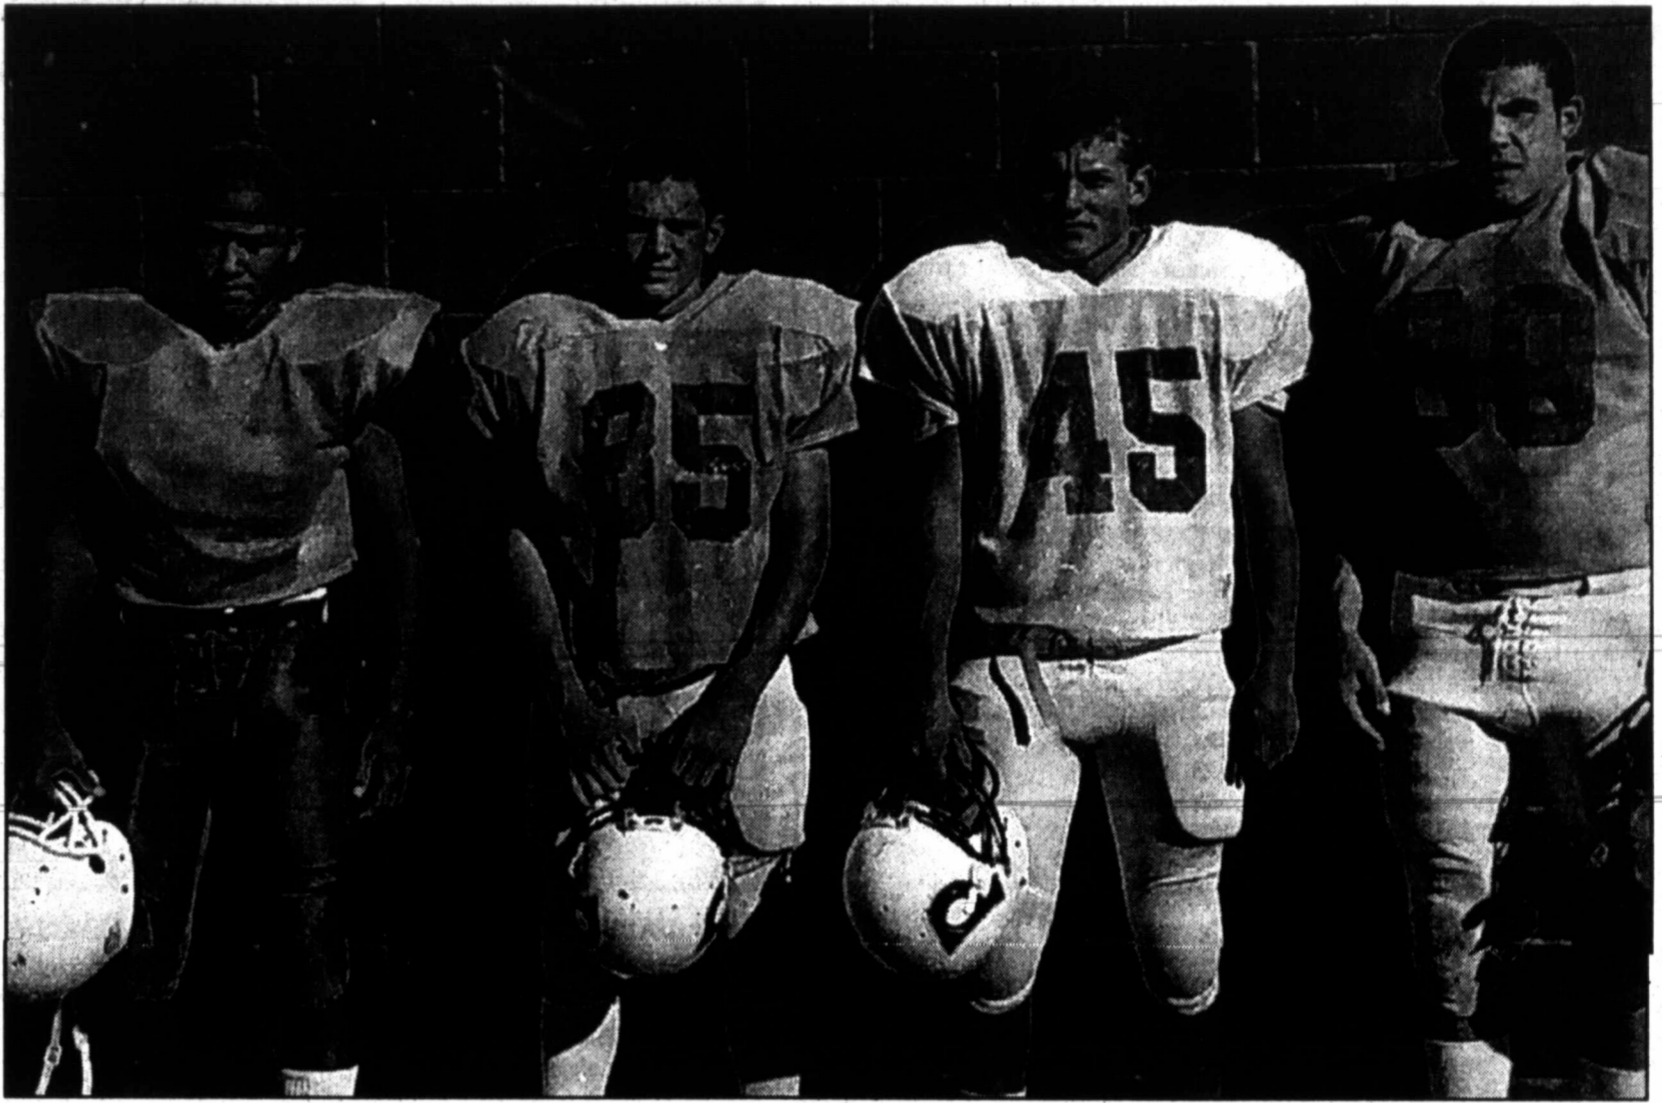

Dallas (1-4) plays the Arizona Cardinals at home Sunday after having last weekend off. The Cowboys, who won three Super Bowls in the mid-1990s, are off to their worst start since losing their first eight games in 1989, when they went 1-15 the first year Jones owned the team.

Steele, who has played in every game with three tackles, will replace Hambrick in the starting lineup. Hambrick, the team's leading tackler last season with 154, was fourth on the team with 31 through five games.

Duane Hawthorne, a third-year player, or Pat Dennis, signed when McGarity was released, will take over for Larrimore, who had eight tackles and two pass deflections in his four games.

"We are in a time where we need to be giving players the opportunity to play and not investing our time with players that don't fit with our picture around here," Jones said.

Harvesters favored by TD over Canyon

PAMPA — Pampa has planted itself squarely into the District 3-4A playoff mix while Canyon will try and keep its post-season hopes alive when the two teams meet at 7:30 Friday night in Harvester Stadium.

It's expected to be a close contest according to the Harris Ratings. Pampa is favored by 6 points.

Pampa has won its last three games and stands 3-1 in district. The Harvesters, 4-3 for the season, is tied with Randall for second place.

Canyon, at 2-2 in district, is in a three-way tie for fourth place. The Eagles are 2-5 for the season.

Both teams are coming off victories last weekend. Pampa turned back Caprock 21-7 while Canyon rolled past Dumas 28-7.

Canyon beat Pampa 23-7 last year on the way to clinching second place and a playoff spot.

In another 3-4A picks, Randall is favored over Caprock by 37; Berger over Dumas by 10. Palo Duro is favored over Hereford, but no points are listed.

GROOM — It's never good to assume anything, but it's safe to say unbeaten Groom is going to the six-man playoffs again barring a late-season collapse.

Groom is 7-0 for the season and 2-0 in District 2-1A. Friday night, the Tigers host Samnorwood, who have only one victory this season.

Groom handed Silvertown its first loss of the season last week, defeating the Owls, 48-14.

Quarterback Clay Britten paced the Groom offense, throwing for five touchdowns. Garrett Brittin and Wyatt Britten caught two touchdowns each.

DALLAS (AP) — Waco looked primed to pull off its second upset of the state's second-ranked Class 5A team this season. The Lions had rallied from 14 points down to tie Copperas Cove at 34-34 with 39 seconds left in the game.

Then, Leon Johnson snatched away all hopes of a Waco upset with a kickoff return that earned him honors in this week's Associated Press high school honor roll.

Johnson took the kickoff at the 1-yard line and returned it 99 yards for a touchdown, giving Copperas Cove a 41-34 win and sole possession of first place in District 13-5A.

Johnson's return spoiled Waco's opportunity to pull off another defeat of a highly ranked foe this season. The Lions knocked off then No. 2-ranked Tyler John Tyler on Sept. 28.

Other outstanding performances in Texas last weekend included:

ALL-AROUND EFFORTS

— Chris Hanna was 16-of-24 for 258 yards and two touchdowns and added 88 rushing yards and three more scores as Bosqueville defeated Evant 45-26.

— Artis Jones was 6-of-7 for 156 yards and two touchdowns, returned a punt 67 yards for a score and ran for 86 yards and another score as Dawson beat Covington 46-3.

— Tremain Wright intercepted two passes, made six tackles, one for a loss, and caught a touchdown pass in Class 3A No. 2 Everman's 44-6 win over Fort Worth Diamond Hill-Jarvis.

— Scorpio Babers ran for 183 yards and three touchdowns and completed 9 of 12 passes for 11 yards in Italy's 33-12 win over Hubbard.

— Kenny Davis rushed for 165 yards and three touchdowns in Centerville's 49-0 win over Rosebud-Lott. Davis added a 37-yard touchdown pass and a 16-yard reception for another score.

— Matt Bergeron threw for 127 yards, made 22 tackles and averaged 34 yards a punt in Pasadena Dobie's 12-7 win over Pasadena.

— Courtney Cheeks rushed for 203 yards and a touchdown and returned a fumble 92 yards for another score in Bremond's 36-0 win over Wortham.

ON THE GROUND

— Elliott Walker ran for an Austin school district-record 389 yards on 25 carries with five touchdowns in Austin LBJ's 41-16 win over Austin Travis. Walker broke the previous mark of 352 yards set by Austin High's Josh McDaniel in 1996.

— Ronald Simmons rushed for 295 yards and three touchdowns on 18 carries as Dallas Maceo Smith beat Dallas Adamson 42-0.

Anderson back in D'Backs rotation as World Series starter

By BOB BAUM
AP Sports Writer

PHOENIX (AP) — Arizona manager Bob Brenly wasted little time pulling off his first surprise of the World Series.

Brian Anderson, who lost his spot in the rotation on Aug. 24, will get the nod in the Diamondbacks' first appearance in Yankee Stadium — Game 3 next Tuesday.

Brenly told the left-hander of his decision Tuesday night after the team's workout — which was open to the public.

"It's strange how things work," said Anderson, who has pitched well out of the bullpen in the post-season.

Brenly said right-hander Miguel Batista, the starter in Game 3 in both the division series and the NL championship series, will start Game 4 in New York.

Brenly toyed with the idea of having Randy Johnson start Game 1 instead of Curt Schilling, so the Big Unit would be able to go in Game 5 in Yankee Stadium, where the ballpark dimensions are conducive to left-handed pitching.

But Brenly decided not to change the order that worked so well in the first two rounds of the playoffs, but opted to go with Anderson to put a lefty in the rotation in New York.

"The way the ballpark is configured, obviously it behooves you to have a left-hander on the mound if at all possible," Brenly said.

Anderson recalled the ups and downs of his season.

"I'm in the rotation and a lot of things were expected, then I didn't perform up to my abilities and get taken out of the rotation," he said. "For awhile, I wondered if I'm even going to be a part of the post-season roster. Then all of a sudden the manager pulls you aside and says you're starting the first game in the Bronx in the World Series."

Anderson was 4-9 in the regular season with a 5.20 earned run average. He was moved to the bullpen on Aug. 24 after going 0-3 in six starts. He got two more starts in September because none of the regular starters were available.

Between the end of the regular season and his first postseason appearance, Anderson worked on shortening his delivery. In two postseason games, he has allowed two runs on seven hits in 7 1-3 innings. He got the victory by working 3 1-3 innings of relief against Atlanta in Game 3 of the NLCS.

Anderson pitched in Yankee Stadium when he was with Cleveland in 1997.

"Loud, hostile, there are a lot of words to describe the New York scene," Anderson said. "I started a playoff game in Shea, but I don't think that even compares to Yankee Stadium. 'It's like a European soccer match. They're chanting throughout the game and they've got their little catcalls. You can't even call it a constant buzz because it's more than a buzz. It's a constant rumble."

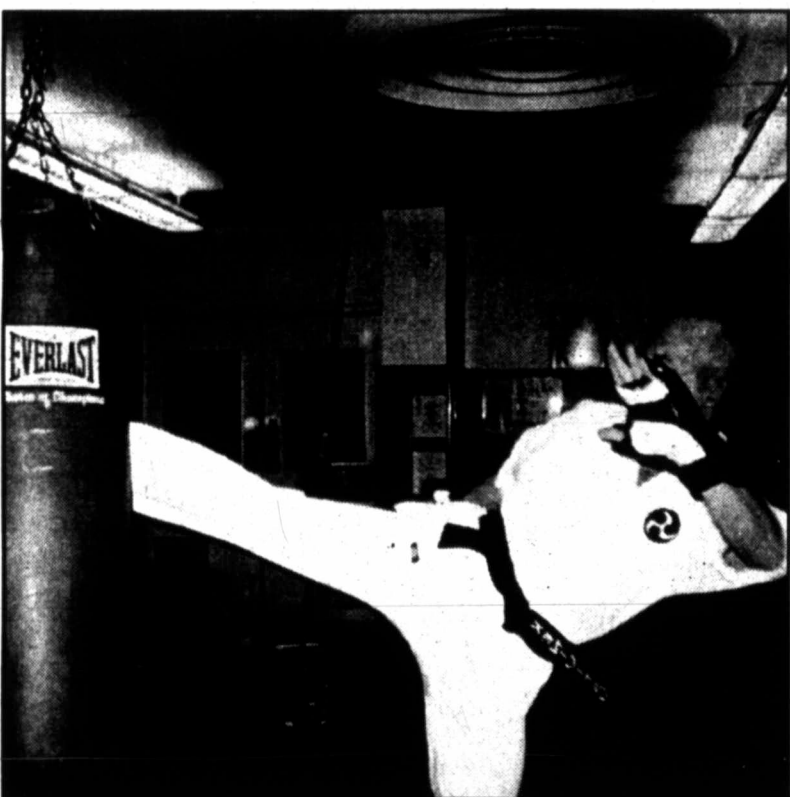

Several Yankees had big numbers against Anderson back in '97, including Paul O'Neill (9-for-19 with four home runs) and Tino Martinez (5-for-13 with four homers).

Young American Bowling Alliance (YABA), Coaches and Sponsors would like to recognize the following "Stars & Stripes" Youth League members for their hard work and dedication in taking donations for the World Trade Center Bears: Michael Adams, Daniel Adams, Dustin Davis, Michael Davis, Terry Davis, Jonathan Doyle, Cody Hess, Laraine Hess, Nick Hess, Rosie Lavrenz, Aleah Noble, Allison Noble, Brenden Rice, Phillip Rodriguez, Shawna Salazar, Staci Searl and Tyson Williams. The Youth League raised $800 for the New York Tragedy Fund. The bears are going to the children of the WTC victims and the proceeds are going to the American Red Cross to help the families. The "Stars & Stripes" Youth League presented the check and the bears to Jana Gregory, Gray County Red Cross Director, Monday night at Harvester Lanes. A special thanks goes to Harvester Lanes and Peggy's Place for the donation of the bears, to Wal-Mart for letting the youth take donations in front of the store, and to the Pampa residents who made donations. Pictured (from left, standing) are Bud Hess, Tony Doyle, Laraine Hess, Jake Woodruff, Staci Searl, Karen Doyle and Wanda Adams. Carolyn Hess (Youth League President) presents the check to Jana Gregory. Pictured (from left, seated) are Shawna Salazar, Michael Adams, Daniel Adams, Cody Hess, Nick Hess and Jonathan Doyle.

Rainey gets ready

Adam Rainey (above) of Pampa has announced plans that he will be stepping into the competition ring once again for what may be his last contact karate tournament. With about 300 fights and only 32 losses, the 23-year-old Rainey said he "figures it's about time to hang up the gloves." As the Nov. 3 date draws closer for the third annual Oklahoma State Fall Contact Karate Invitational, Rainey has been spending a lot of time at J.R. Moreno's Youth Boxing Club, where he also trains several of the young boxers. Rainey has studied Okinawan Kenjitsu for almost 10 years and has received a black belt. He would like to open a school and teach the sport when his career is over. "Maybe that would be next," he added. Rainey thanked J.R.'s Boxing Club and A.A. Nursing Services for their sponsorship and support.

Guadalupe County officials under fire for policy of paying bounty for dead coyotes SEGUIN, Texas (AP) — Environmentalists and animal rights activists are criticizing a continued Guadalupe County policy of paying a $15 bounty for dead coyotes.

Despite the criticism, officials stand by the bounty that has resulted in the deaths of more than 2,000 coyotes since it was adopted in April 1995.

Local ranchers and officials believe the program has shown benefits.

"The rabbits are coming back," said County Commissioner Butch Kunde, a rancher. "I don't have any calls from constituents anymore asking us to address the problems caused by coyotes. And the coyotes we have now are a lot healthier looking. They were all scraggly and diseased-looking before."

David Gaillard, a program associate for the Montana-based Predator Conservation Alliance, said coyotes have historically increased their numbers and range in the face of bounties.

He said nonlethal means, including coyote-proof fencing, night penning and guard dogs and guard donkeys are more humane and effective strategies.

"This is an important issue to us," said John Hadidian, director of the Urban Wildlife Program for the Humane Society of the United States. "This kind of indiscriminate and blanket killing of predators is an anachronism that goes against all logic of the principles of wildlife management."

Commissioners initially justified the bounty by saying the coyote population needed to be thinned out because a South Texas coyote rabies outbreak was heading toward the county. However, a state program of dropping baits that contained rabies vaccine halted the outbreak before it reached the county.

Even though the rabies threat diminished, the program has been renewed each year. It was funded at $8,000 a year until this year, when it was reduced to $4,000.

Overhunting just leaves more room and food for the coyotes that are left, so they have bigger litters and more pups survive, Gaillard said. The result, he said, is a population of younger coyotes, likely to be less wary and more prone to attacking livestock than the original population.

Predators such as coyotes play an important role in the balance of nature and have value, he said, making a bounty program like Guadalupe County's unethical as well as ineffective.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, OCT. 25, 2001
BY JACQUELINE BIGAR
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Unexpected information comes forward. Become less uptight with each fact and detail. You accomplish more by relaxing, and then by following through on your plans. Network and make calls in the morning. Tonight: Follow your friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Choose to see someone as inventive or unusual, and learn to understand a boss or associate. It doesn't pay to judge this person. Success breeds in an atmosphere of mutual respect. It's time to establish more independence. Tonight: Out as late as you want.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Take an additional step, but don't make assumptions for others. Try to apply more creativity to your thinking. Think outside the box. How to do this? A brainstorming session would be right about now. Tonight: Take in a movie.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Deal with someone directly. You could be put off by this person says. Think in terms of becoming more independent. Be wise regarding financial decisions. Do all the research you can, and avoid any wild risks. Tonight: Listen to someone let off steam.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Don't count on normal behavior from others, and you won't be surprised. They will reveal more ingenuity and independence than you might expect from them. Relish seeing this other side. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Expect a challenge at work. Your intuition and dynamic insight help you cruise through a problem where others would throw their hands up in frustration. Check out a new diet or exercise program. A total change might energize you as never before. Tonight: Handle all the work in front of you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Understand why a child or loved one could act quirky or difficult. Perhaps much of this person's energy comes from a sense of independence and a need to draw stronger reactions. Let your creativity come out with this person. You could have fun. Tonight: Why not start the weekend early?

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Deal with the unpredictable, knowing that you need to be more flexible. Not everything is the way you would like it to be, but will it ever be? Scorpios have a tendency to be rigid. Schedule a checkup for your house very soon, before the weather changes. Tonight: Take a break.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
What seemed like a piece of cake yesterday could become volatile today. You can deal with changes effectively and creatively. Don't take others, or situations, for granted. Dot your "i"s and cross your "t"s." Do not stand on ceremony with others. Tonight: At a favorite spot with your favorite people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Be especially careful when dealing with funds. Count your change carefully. Balance your checkbook, and do it twice. Make sure you understand what is going on with all your financial matters. You pull the wild card. Remember, you also could gain. Tonight: Indulge another.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
You might enjoy the unpredictability of the day. Don't push anyone too far. It is time for you to act on your own. Use your independence and seize the moment. Don't worry about approval, which you might not get. (Realize that few people understand you, anyway.) Tonight: Whatever makes the Water Bearer happy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
You're shaking your head at what is going on. An idea you get from a dream, or one that floats up from your subconscious, could be a key to solving your problems. Share this notion with a key associate or pal, but be sure to ask for honesty. Tonight: Take a walk or perhaps simply relax with a good book.
