AUCTIONS TO BE HELD FOR FARM GUESTS

New Five-Story Office Building Will Be Seen for First Time by Public as Tenants Receive.

RACE IS PLANNED

Visitors Urged to Bring Their Own Terrapins; Fete for New Railroad Will Be Held Later.

Program Saturday
10:30 a.m.—First auction of farm produce and articles on vacant space near Schafer hotel, West Foster avenue.
2 p.m.—Terrapin race and other features, West Foster avenue.
3 p.m.—Final farm auction, W. Foster avenue.
4 p.m.—Concert by Pampa band east side of city hall.

Pampa's visitor's day of next Saturday will bring to this city hundreds of visitors from towns in neighboring counties.

Although construction of the Pampa-Childress line of the Fort Worth & Denver Northern will be begun in the county this week-end, the celebration of the event today was postponed until September 12 at the request of railroad officials, who said intensive work incident to starting of the line would prevent them from being present.

Visitor's day will be observed as intended, with opening of the new five-story Combe-Worley office building, band concert, terrapin race, farm auctions, and other entertainment features. Persons are asked to bring terrapins. Cash prizes will be given.

Beautiful Building
Coincident with beginning of construction of the new railroad will be the formal opening of the new five-story Combe-Worley office building, which will be inspected by the public on Saturday. Its stores and beautifully furnished offices will be viewed by visitors for the first time. Interesting features of the day will be the auctions, to which rural people may bring any article or product they wish to sell or exchange. It is suggested that wheat farmers bring their grain for exchange with truck farmers and gardeners. Produce which is not disposed of before the 2 o'clock auction may be put on sale. No charge will be made for auctioneering.

The visitors day attained great popularity since first announcement of it early this week. The auctions alone are expected to attract large crowds. Farmers are planning to put up for auction articles they have intended for some time to sell but have not done so owing to lack of opportunity. Produce and livestock buyers will be present to buy or bid. With prices of farm products at unusually low levels, the exchanges between farmers and produce men are the best means for securing good returns.

Wheat for Tickets
Pampa theaters will give one admission for each bushel of wheat. The Pampa NEWS-POST will give a year's subscription to either the NEWS or the POST to Gray county farmers or any out-of-town visitor for each 10 bushels of wheat. Either sacked wheat or elevator tickets will be accepted. The wheat received will be donated to the Pampa Welfare board.

Nurse Employed By Two Schools

The school board of Hopkins district yesterday employed Mrs. M. P. Downs of Pampa as health supervisor for the two schools, it was learned this morning. Mrs. Downs will assume her duties when school begins the first Monday in September.

The two Hopkins schools are the first rural schools in the county to employ a health supervisor. The 300 pupils at the two schools will be given a physical examination, with attention given to posture, tonsils, eyes, nose and throat troubles. Mrs. Downs' activities will also take her into the homes in the district.

Frank Wilson is principal of Hopkins No. 1, and Everett Clark is principal of Hopkins No. 2. Many of the oil wells and petroleum products plants south of Pampa are located in this district, and the schools have a surplus fund of about $20,000 in their treasuries. New buildings were erected last year. The schools have everything in the way of equipment. Playgrounds are equipped with every form of recreational appliances recommended by the state department of education. Both schools have complete libraries.

Mrs. Downs was formerly city health nurse. Her training admirably equips her for the position, the board said.

Lindbergh Is Questioned

But No Significance Is Attached to Incident; Permit to Land Granted.

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 20. (AP)—Foggy weather forced Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to abandon hope of resuming their flight to Nemuro today and they prepared to spend another night aloft off Ketoi island, the "black hole" of the Kurile Archipelago.

Messages to Ochiishi wireless station here from the steamer Shimushiro Maru said that vessel had towed the Lindberghs' pontooned monoplane to a more sheltered cove of the island than that in which it landed late yesterday upon being forced down a second time in the afternoon flight from Petropavlovsk Kamchatka, to Nemuro. Changing breezes prompted the moving of the plane.

There also were indications from messages picked up by Ochiishi wireless station here that motor trouble had developed again in the plane, increasing the Lindberghs' difficulties.

Motor Is Faulty
How serious the motor trouble might be was not explained, but the messages indicated the Lindberghs had planned to taxi their pontooned plane to Muroran bay, Shimushiro island, 15 miles south-west of Ketoi, for better harborage, pending resumption of their flight to Nemuro, but that they then discovered the engine was not running properly.

Fogbound and aloft in the tricky currents of Ketoi all day, the Lindberghs experienced a break in the monotony during the morning when the Shimushiro Maru, a government ship, arrived alongside in response to orders from government officials and took the fliers aboard.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were questioned by the captain of the ship at Ketoi. Although Japan has the right to prohibit flights over its territory without permission, the significance of the questioning was not explained.

Anticipated Landing
Before leaving Petropavlovsk Lindbergh anticipated possible trouble in the Kuriles and asked the Japanese government, through the American embassy in Tokyo, for an emergency permit to land in the Kuriles, which was granted. Hence it was believed the interview did not concern any possible violation of Japanese law.

Just when the weather would permit a takeoff for Nemuro was uncertain. Reports indicated a thickening of the fog in the area between Ketoi and Nemuro. The middle Kurile islands, in which Ketoi is located, are notorious for their thick weather and are known to mariners as the worst fog trap in the world. It was here that Seiji Yoshihara, the "Japanese Lindbergh" smashed his plane in the rough seas while attempting to fly to the United States recently. Ketoi is 410 miles northeast of here.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—After dispatches today told of the Lindberghs preparing for a second night aboard their plane anchored in the treacherous waters of the Kurile islands here helped equip the ship for the long flight explained just how uncomfortable the fliers must be.

Can't Lie Down
There are two cockpits in the tubular fuselage of the big low-winged plane, with openings just big enough for a person to slide into. There is a leather cushioned seat in each, with a cushioned back. The occupants have no room to lie down and the only place to stand to stretch cramped muscles is on the seat itself.

There is a glass hatch to pull over the top of the cockpits, raised about six inches above the top of the fuselage and when this is closed the Lindberghs can still see each other and even talk without use of the speaking tube if Colonel Lindbergh, in the forward cockpit, squirms around to look back over a shoulder.

The plane stands high on metal struts above its two long floats and so the Lindberghs will probably stay dry except for an occasional dash of spray with the hatch off, but if the waves are at all high the ship will dance too much to permit any moving about and the fliers will just have to sit tight and wait.

FOOTBALL TRAINING CAMP OPENS WITH 47 PRESENT

Coach Mitchell and Helpers to Whip 1931 Team in Condition Quickly.

Forty-seven eager football aspirants this afternoon pitched camp at the Mel Davis ranch near Lepors in the setting where, under Coach Odus Mitchell's tutelage last year, they achieved the training which made them the sensation of district 1.

Coach Mitchell had intended to take but 35 boys, but with the grocery store assuming large proportions he decided that the entire squad could be supported for ten days. He said he had rather cut the camp a day or two short than to leave ambitious lads behind. He has ample equipment.

With the first game with Clearwater Junior college coming on Sept. 12, Coach Mitchell and assistants must make good use of intervening time. The backfield must be revamped, but the line is almost intact.

A food shower for the boys will be given Saturday night at the gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock.

Those going to camp include: Ed Burch, Paul Hill, Wayne Kelley, Lloyd Moore, Joe Freeman, Gerdis Schmidt, Leo Sausbury, John Pafford, Phillip Powell, Joe Kahl, Durwood Martindale, Jim Pool, H. L. Ledrick, Parks Brumley, Don Tate, Clovis Green, Conrad Graham, Paul Camp.

He suffered five fractured ribs, cuts on the face and bruises. The accident occurred on Russell St. at the front of the city hall entrance. Witnesses said the accident was unavoidable. The boy started to run across the street in the middle of the block and the driver of the machine could not stop the car in time to avoid hitting him.

REAL FOREIGN LEGION GETS WAR THRILLS

Rebels Retire to Tunnel After Losing Much Ammunition; Strong Counter Attack Expected Soon.

MANY ARE SLAIN

Expeditionary Force Containing Thousand Americans Bombaraded by Airplane, Gunboat, Troops.

HODGUIN, Cuba, Aug. 20. (AP)—A bird's-eye view of the battle of Gabari, indicating that the rebel forces were planning a strong counter-offensive, was passed on to the Associated Press today by an American college student here.

William Otis Fuller of Portland, Me., an undergraduate at Harvard, who is running a garage here for the summer, said he stood on the hill of Loma de la Trux, located between here and Gabari, and witnessed with binoculars a part of the three-day siege of the north coast port, resulting in a tactical victory for the federalists.

Bloody Fight
Reports reaching him after the battle estimated that 250 government soldiers had been slain, he said, but he could not approximate the number of insurgent losses. Three of the government's ten airplanes were shot down, but large quantities of arms and ammunition were taken from the rebels.

According to his account, a veritable "foreign legion" of about 1,000 Americans, French, Japanese and Germans, amplified by native soldiers, landed at Gabari Saturday morning in the German vessel Isle Volmanier and took possession of the town Monday afternoon. An officer whom he identified as an American was in charge and posted his men at vital points for defense.

A force of about 2,000 Cuban soldiers, hailing from Santa Clara and Camaguey provinces, advanced on the town Monday afternoon. The artillery laid down a heavy fire, airplanes raked the town from above, and a cruiser directed a bombardment from the harbor.

Skillful Moves
The battle raged for 72 hours with great bloodshed on both sides and military maneuvers worthy of organized warfare. The insurgents withdrew in good order about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and entrenched themselves firmly in a railroad tunnel, the only approach to the town. Repeated efforts to dislodge them were in vain.

Fuller understood that the insurgents were resting their men for a determined counter-attack on Gabari and that further intensive fighting could be expected shortly.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Victorious in the first important battle of the revolution, government military airplanes, and a gunboat joined forces today to drive the rebels from Northern Oriente province.

The federalists successfully completed a three-day siege of Gibara, on the northern coast of Oriente yesterday, official sources said, and surrounded their enemies on the outskirts of the town. The number of casualties was not announced but newspapers estimated that between 200 and 300 men were killed and wounded.

A million rounds of ammunition, 57 machine guns and 800 rifles were said to have been captured by the government. The fleeing insurgents took refuge in a railway tunnel and their capture was reported to be imminent. A number of their leaders were believed to have been slain.

Harbor Is Bombaraded
Learning that an expeditionary force had landed at Gibara, the government dispatched a number of planes and the gunboat Patria to the scene. The fliers were said to have dropped between 900 and 1,000 bombs on the rebel forces and the Patria bombarded the harbor.

Rural guard forces from Holguin advanced on the town and were met by machine gun fire. Supported by troops and coast guard artillery from Oriente and Santa Clara, the loyalists encircled Gibara and, aided by an attack from the sea and air, dislodged their adversaries after severe fighting.

just how much is available in the field.

Oil company officials were maintaining a policy of strict secrecy regarding their stored holdings. They apparently were fearful of permitting competitors to know their plans. Many were in doubt as to the best mode of procedure.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 20. (AP)—A prediction for a $1 per barrel crude oil posting here by tomorrow, with the resultant opening of the Oklahoma City field to those buyers offering the price and taking oil risibly from all wells of the same producing sand was made today by Cicero I. Murray, oil representative of Governor Murray.

"Coming Around"

Cicero Murray's statement followed the governor's announcement last night that four unnamed companies had agreed to pay the $1 top he has demanded in return for lifting his martial law shutdown and that a plan likely could be worked out in a few days so some companies could obtain all the crude they need from the sleeping field.

"All of the buyers are coming around," said Cicero Murray. "And we'll soon have our price. It is my judgment it will be here tomorrow."

Governor Murray, proponent of the plan to utilize production by sand, has refused to compromise for less than $1 a barrel.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Colonel H. H. Carmichael, assistant adjutant general, was here today to report the progress of the East Texas "oil war" and discuss means of financing it.

Colonel Carmichael planned to confer with William W. Sterling, adjutant general, and representatives of the attorney general's department.

Since there was only $22,000 in the national guard fund when martial law was declared it was regarded as likely that Governor Ross S. Sterling would have to issue deficiency warrants. The militiamen would be unable to cash these warrants for face value. Should the present number of troops remain in the field two weeks it was estimated the cost would be at least $65,000.

The railroad commission went ahead with plans to get in shape its machinery for enforcing the new oil law so that military rule might be ended.

Three new deputy oil and gas supervisors can be named at the start of the fiscal year September 1. Several lawyers believe that under the terms of the new pipeline law, $50,000 was immediately available to the commission for additional help. The one-tenth of a cent a barrel tax on oil will not start pouring into the commission's coffers for use in enforcement until after October 1.

Field umpires which have been appointed by the commission but paid by the oil companies, have official status no longer. All employees in the future will be paid by the state. For a while former deputy supervisors probably will be made umpires.

A hearing on the new allowable production figure for the vast East Texas area will be started Tuesday. Officials predicted a long hearing and conflicting testimony.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 20. (AP)—An order directing that state oil field umpires be on the state payroll instead of being paid by oil companies favoring proration is expected to be filed by the state corporation commission in the fall. Two umpires now paid by major oil companies would be deposited under the order and enforcement of the proration laws would be entrusted entirely to one statewide umpire.

Fred Walker, chairman of the commission revealed today that he had completed an original draft of the order. Governor Murray has vigorously opposed the present plan as an "unfair" way to regulate proration.

Clem Calhoun of Amarillo, formerly state attorney for the 84th district, is representing Mr. Montgomery, and Claud Williams and A. A. Ledbetter are attorneys for Mr. Massay.

RIGHT after the war you got about TWO tire miles for one cent. TODAY you get nearer THIRTY!

Why Buy a Second Choice Tire when First Choice costs no more?

You expect bargains these days in everything you buy, but in almost no other article can you find such extraordinary value as in a Goodyear Tire.

Prices are the lowest in the history of the automobile—but, more than that, quality is the highest.

As an example, in 1918 the price of a 30 x 3 1/2 cord (the commonest size) was $41.65. Now, a Goodyear balloon for the same make of car (size 28x4.75-19) sells for $8.55.

That's only about a fifth of the price; and it's putting it modestly to say that today's Goodyears will give three times the mileage.

Here's How TIRE VALUES Have Soared In Recent Years

Year	29x4.40-21
1925	$19.90
1926	17.90
1927	12.10
1928	11.45
1929	8.25
1930	8.25
1931	7.05

And that's not saying a word about the incomparably greater comfort and style and safety of the new standard All-Weather Tread Tire as Goodyear builds it now!

Isn't it short-sighted to risk delays and danger on threadbare tires when the first-choice tire of the world can be bought at today's record-breaking low price?

Of course it is! And when you buy new tires let your commonsense answer the question, "Why buy a second-choice tire, when a first-choice costs no more?"

Farm Board Makes Up Mind On One Point

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The farm board has solved one of its cotton problems.

It has decided that farmer members of cotton cooperatives which have board approval, will receive the prevailing price at the point of delivery.

The arrangement was arrived at yesterday after conferences between directors of the American cotton cooperative association and farm board members.

If the price of cotton should be 6 cents a pound, growers will receive an advance of 5 cents. If the staple falls or rises, the ratio will be preserved.

Advances made last year were about 90 per cent of the market price and the A. C. C. A. still holds most of the 2,100,000 bales which it handled for its members.

Primary financing for loans this year will be through commercial and intermediate credit banks. The board will insure second loans.

101 Ranch Show Now On Rocks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The 101 ranch wild west show today was resting on a siding on the Pennsylvania railroad in nearby Maryland with 101 attachments against it.

After two weeks of trouble here where it went broke and left wages due about 350 employes, the show pulled out last night for headquarters in Oklahoma. It traveled about two miles in Prince Georges county, where the sheriff flagged the train and submitted claims amounting to $28,000.

"Why, you can't stop this train!" exclaimed the show manager.

"We have already stopped this train," responded the sheriff. The Maryland authorities explained the owners of their representatives could pay off within five days or let the show be advertised for sale at auction within ten days.

Norman S. Landreau, attorney for the trouper, explained some claims had been held in reserve to be used in event the train left Maryland before the employes were paid.

Hawks on Way To Fort Worth

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 20. (EST)—Frank Hawks took off at 8:57 this morning for Fort Worth, Texas, planning a stop at Evansville, Indiana. He hoped to beat his previous time between New York and Texas cities of 8 hours and 30 minutes.

Although Hawks hoped to establish a new speed mark, the primary purpose of the flight was to meet his mother, who is traveling by air from her home in Hollywood. She will arrive in Fort Worth Monday and in his plane he will escort the transport plane in which she is traveling to New York.

Last Jan. 23 Hawks flew the 1,400 miles from Fort Worth to New York in eight hours and a half, the fastest time ever made between the two cities.

Hawks flew the same red monoplane in which he set transcontinental records in both directions and numerous records between cities both here and abroad.

Previously he operated his water well with natural gas from a nearby prospector but his fuel supply vanished with the advent of martial.

Post and Gatty Crossing State

SWEETWATER, Aug. 20. (AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty are to land here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Flying their round-the-world monoplane, the "Winnie Mae", the globe-girdling pair, westbound, will stop only long enough to pick up Mrs. Post, who will fly with her famous husband to San Francisco. Mrs. Post, formerly Miss May Laine, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Laine, at their divide farm, south of Sweetwater. She was escorted here this morning by a delegation to be a luncheon guest of the Sweetwater club.

The two world fliers are very tired. Post advised his wife in a message announcing he was coming for her. They have completed a good-will flight to eastern cities and are headed for the west coast to resume their contracted itinerary.

"War" Hardships Are Described

KILGORE, Aug. 20. (AP)—Cavalrymen in "Texas" army of "occupation" experienced an unexpected hardship yesterday.

They were forced to go down into their own pockets and buy fuel oil for the operator of a water well so he could continue supplying them with water.

At about the same time Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters was grinning about the small East Texas oil well which never had flowed and suddenly started spurting oil through its gas jet after the shut down order became effective.

Gasoline Overflow Is Cause Of Fire

BORGER, Aug. 20. (AP)—Smoking ruins of a crumpled gasoline tank today marked the spot where fire caused damage estimated at $85,000 at the Phillips Petroleum company refinery here.

Cause of the fire, which broke out yesterday, was attributed to overflow from the 25,000-barrel tank. The gasoline trickled one-quarter of a mile down a canyon to a waste oil fire.

Three quick explosions occurred as the stream of gasoline blazed back to the tank. Firemen shot chemicals into the flames without avail and finally were forced to let the fire rage until all combustible matter was burned.

Anxiety was felt last night when heat from the fire caused a nearby crude oil storage tank to overflow. Workmen hurriedly started pumps and reduced the contents of the tank.

Judge Price to Face Trial for Being Negligent

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—J. B. Price of Bastrop, 66-year-old district judge, today stood at least temporarily stripped of his vestments of office. The house yesterday decided to impeach him by a majority of some 20 votes.

Price was charged with negligence in approval of alleged excessive mileage accounts of certain peace officers of his district. Suspended from office, the venerable public official must stand trial before the senate. Counsel agreed to start that trial Sept. 7.

Accounts involved in the charges were those of J. J. Burschel, sheriff of Lee county; Woody Townsend, sheriff of Bastrop county, and Clint D. Lewis, Burleson county sheriff. Price admitted he approved the claims, stating a district judge had to rely largely on the integrity of the sheriffs.

House prosecutors claimed that by the exercise of reasonable diligence Judge Price could have discovered the alleged exorbitance of the accounts.

Price's attorneys included Dan Moody, former governor; R. L. Batts, chairman of the board of regents of the University of Texas, and Paul Page of Bastrop, former state senator. They contended negligence was not an impeachable offense because it was not a felony.

The house had sat for a week past the close of the special session to investigate the misconduct charges.

Judge Price, suffering from a paralytic stroke, sat through the long inquiry. He seemed unmoved as the vote to impeach was taken.

The gallery was crowded. Many persons were from his district. Several had testified to the judge's integrity and high ideals.

The impeached jurist has been a public official for 30 years and is missing the end of his second term as district judge. Should he be re-elected by the senate he would be barred from holding any state office. Should more than one third of the senators vote for acquittal he would resume his official duties.

The articles of impeachment contained twelve counts.

MOON of DELIGHT

by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Kirk Starnard senses vague trouble in the life of Senorita Flores, whom he hopes to wed. He does not know that she, loving him, is humiliated by the realization that she is a cigarette girl in Divitt's gambling place. Nor does he know that the story of the senator's engagement to an nobleman, reported by her chaperone, the marquis, aids Divitt's plan to keep her unattached. Returning with Kirk from a theatre party to the home of Kirk's grandmother, Nelly Belaine, Juanita finds the drawers of searching through the drawers of Mrs. Belaine's room. Immediately realizing that the marquis is responsible for a series of robberies among their new friends, Juanita forces her to take French leave of the Starnard home and accompany her to Divitt's.

Chapter 32
A SECRET LEAKS OUT
"Well," said Divitt, with a questioning look at Juanita and a glance in the marquis's direction.

Umberto looked up from his place at the desk as Divitt spoke. Garbreau, standing near the door, had curiosity written on his countenance. "I'm through," remarked Juanita. "I've brought back your spy, and I'm through."

"She saw me looking in a drawer," the marquis remarked, bolder in the atmosphere of Divitt's office. "I was hunting some sleeping powders, but she grabbed me."

"I've seen things beside that," Juanita interrupted. "I've seen a letter to you in code, Mr. Divitt."

"And that proves what?" asked Divitt.

"I've heard this woman make a telephone call that ended in the robbery of a house we had been entertained in. In fact, every house we have been in has been robbed except the Starnards. I know that she is connected with these robberies and that you are behind her."

"You are insane," said Divitt in a low voice. "Dangerously so. The marquis may as well accuse you as you her."

"I do accuse her," the marquis said suddenly.

"Why not?" Juanita asked. "I carried a stolen necklace to the one who had lost it and so gained an entrance to her home."

"I opened the way for this woman into that home and others into which your chief burglar—with a glance at Umberto—has entered. Accuse me, if you like, Mr. Divitt. We will accuse each other. Perhaps the police court will bring out the facts. In any case I'm through."

Divitt was looking at her.

"You're pretty brave now about police courts, aren't you?" he said. "You weren't so brave when you first got here. You've been running around, showing your face and finding nobody that recognized it till you feel safe anywhere."

"Well, let me tell you the police court would be safe as a mother's arms for me in comparison with what it would be for you. Further than that, you know nothing about me, can prove nothing. What you say is twaddle. But I know everything about you."

Juanita's hand reached gropingly for the chair, found Garbreau's arm instead. She straightened white, holding to Garbreau's arm. "You know nothing," she said.

"I know," Divitt said, "that your name is Bertriz Montega. That your home is not in Argentine, but in Vera Cruz. I know what happened on the night of February tenth and that you are now being hunted in every country to which trains and vessels go."

Not turning from her fixed eyes, Divitt picked up a paper knife lying on the desk, held it out on his palm. "A little blade, Senorita Montega—a slender little knife in a girl's hand—"

A low cry cut across his words. He smiled, looking down at her where she lay, white and crumpled, at his feet.

Garbreau lifted her in his arms, bore her along the balcony to her room.

April breeze moving in the courtyard, stirring Molly's flowers around the fountain, making a silky whisper among the palms. No other sound, except the faint tinkle of the water, the pad-pad of Conchita's feet as she waddled back and forth between the kitchen and Molly's room.

Garbreau sat with Juanita. During the week that had passed since she had burst with the Marquessa into Divitt's office—had brought the marquis in as one might bring a sheep-marauding dog back to its owner—Garbreau had sat often in the chair beside Juanita's bed, obeying her least word.

Fever had burned her at first and there had been nights of delirium, followed at last by a white lassitude when it seemed she would drift out in the barque of the great bed as mysteriously as she had come. Conchita had nursed her in those first days, but Conchita was nursing Molly now.

Somehow the parlors were rocking along without Molly and without Divitt who seldom left Molly's side.

Fifi, the girl who had taken Juanita's place, was gone also, after a dispute with Divitt. Fifi was rather rough in her interpretation of Carmen. A rougher element seemed to be entering the parlors by way of response.

In some way the tidings of Fifi's realism and departure had filtered in to Molly. Molly wrote a tremulous note to Juanita, asking her to come back and pass the cigarettes again. Also, would Juanita come in and see her?

Molly, apparently, had not been told that Juanita was in the house. She had given the note to Garbreau the day after Juanita's return, asking him to get it to Juanita somehow. Garbreau had known that it was useless to give it to Juanita until today.

Today, Juanita reading the note, coming back to earth with a body spent and a vision strangely clarified, divined that Molly wished to see her out of the plight she was in. Molly had known, but Molly had not been in accord with that plight.

This knowledge was to Juanita like a light shining faintly in a dark chaotic world. She resolved to go back to the parlors tonight, if she could walk. And to go to see Molly.

"Molly got smerp'n' she want to tell you," Garbreau said.

Garbreau had spoken little, sitting at Juanita's side, his long arms dangling over her chair. Juanita liked to see him there. Even to her it had seemed that she was drifting out, that the shore was growing fainter.

"Is Molly very ill, Garbreau?" she asked.

He nodded. "No bebbey now," he said.

Juanita in her weakness, felt the tears. "Poor Molly!" she said.

"I think she glad," Garbreau answered quickly. "I don't know, but I think she glad. Dis ain't no place for chill'n'."

"They might not have stayed here if it had come. It might have changed everything."

Garbreau smiled, a faint, strange smile that made his sad face sadder still. "Divitt never change," he said.

Juanita covered her eyes. The thought of Divitt brought back the moment she remembered, the slight of his face, livid with fury, the sound of his words. She had wondered how he had known, who else knew, how soon they would come, hot on her trail, to take her back.

Today Garbreau had told her how Divitt had known.

Garbreau waited table for Divitt and Molly. One morning at breakfast, shortly after Juanita had gone with the marquis, Divitt had opened a paper that had come to him through the mail.

He had presently handed it to Molly, and Molly's exclamation had led Garbreau to peer over her shoulder. He had seen Juanita's picture and beneath it the word "Missing".

He had not had time to read more before Divitt had ordered him sharply to bring in the rolls. Garbreau did not know the name of the paper. It had been printed in English, but it might have been a Mexican paper. . . . Divitt had said to Molly, "I uncovered something that time."

Ay, Dios, yes! . . . There was a measure of relief in knowing that only Divitt knew, in knowing that Divitt had known for weeks and had done nothing, was

Big Oil Merger Is Reported Near

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Negotiations for the merger of five units in the oil industry, with assets in excess of a billion dollars, have reached the final stages, it was learned today, and formal announcement is expected next week.

The five units are the Sinclair consolidated oil company, Tide Water associated oil company, Prairie Oil & Gas Co., Prairie Pipeline Co., and Rio Grande Oil Co.

Although official comment was unavailable it was understood the plan contemplates the formation of a large holding company, to be incorporated under the laws of Delaware, which probably will be known as the Commonwealth Oil Corp.

holding his knowledge merely as a whip to drive her, to prevent his own exposure.

But he could not drive her far—never back into the world beside the marquis. There was another way than that. . . . Brown, sluggish waters, not so far away. . . .

She remembered what Kirk had told her as the yacht was flying down the river into the Gulf.

"A fellow I knew dived into this old Mississippi on a bet and never came up. They couldn't even find him. It does that. . . ."

Murky, immense, cruel—she had hated to look at the river then. Kirk was beside her in the sunlight. The past seemed blotted out for the moment. She had known nothing of the marquis's mission. But now her closed eyes looked on the water unafraid.

Hoover Seeking Leaders to Help In Unemployment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—President Hoover scanned the field of the country's leadership today in search of men and women to assist Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, in a nation-wide organization of unemployment relief.

In announcing late yesterday that Gifford would mobilize and direct the relief army the chief executive said the New Yorker would be given a national advisory committee to serve as his staff.

That committee has been partly selected and its personnel will be announced soon by Mr. Hoover. It will be divided into regional groups.

In requesting Gifford to assume the relief responsibility President Hoover assured him that "the whole force of the administration" would be at his disposal.

"I'm asking you to do this," the president wrote, "because of my long acquaintance with work you have done in similar fields and it is my desire that you should use your own judgment as to the type of organization you set up and its methods of work."

Gifford is president of the charity organization society of New York and has been in close touch with the unemployment situation through the statistical organization of his company. He has conferred with President Hoover on two occasions within the past month.

Headquarters for the organization will be established in Washington. The president's emergency unemployment committee, of which Colonel Arthur Woods was chairman, will be merged with it.

Chicago Employees Get No Pay As City Goes Flat

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Mayor Anton J. Cermak expressed fear yesterday that Chicago's city hall might have to close, due to the city's lack of money.

"Unless the legislature finds a way to come to the aid of Chicago and Cook county," he said, "we will have to close the city hall. But we must find ways to maintain the police and fire departments and the teachers."

The mayor's fears were expressed to a delegation of men and women who called seeking his aid in behalf of the unemployed and poverty stricken residents of Chicago.

"Conditions are very serious, indeed," the mayor said. "People who are able to give for the relief of suffering do not seem to realize the true situation. He added that he favored a state income tax as a means of relieving the state, county and municipal governmental problems, and revealed that Gov. E. F. Emmerson's employment commission was planning to appeal to president Hoover to call a special session of congress to seek ways of meeting the unemployment situation.

The nation was facing a calamity, the mayor said, adding that the time had passed for putting the Reissner, showgirl companion of the Japanese on a six-day cruise to Halifax, had been asked to appear before the grand jury on Monday. She was questioned in private yesterday for six hours.

Lombard said Miss Reissner had been friendly with the Japanese for several months before she sailed with him and his seven-year-old daughter on the Belgianland cruise.

—they're FRESH!

If you are not yet a Camel smoker you have a grand treat in store when first you enjoy the benefits of the Humidor Pack. The three things in a cigarette that can make it sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat are safely eliminated from Camels. There are no harsh parched-dry tobaccos—the fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended require no overheating to make them palatable. There is no peppery dust to irritate the throat—that's whisked away by a special vacuum-cleaning process.

There is no staleness nor loss of fragrance—made fine, Camels are kept fine wherever you buy them, thanks to the Humidor Pack. This scientific germ-safe wrapping—not plain ordinary Cellophane, but moisture-proof Cellophane which costs nearly twice as much—seals in all the aroma and freshness, seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry. If you want to know what that means in throat-friendliness and smoking-pleasure, try Camels for just one day, then leave them—if you can.

HOW MINNESOTA PLAN OPERATES

Minnesota, formerly a major wheat state, did not find prosperity in wheat. But she has in eight years worked out a plan which has raised farm income by seven hundred million dollars, an average of $1,679 per farm. Publisher Frederick E. Murphy of the Minneapolis TRIBUNE is trying to interest other states in the idea.

The plan originated in a study of 200 most prosperous farms in 1921. A big loan fund was established to enable Minnesota farmers to change to the new methods. The fund automatically stopped a wave of bank failures. Loans were made with livestock as the sole security. One of the first steps was to induce the farmers to raise their own food. Thousands of the wheat farms were without cows, pigs, and chickens. There were few chickens. Food cost about $600 per family per year.

Minnesota, the Dakotas, and Montana pushed the home-living hard. In eight years the four states gained 228,000 cows. The rest of the country altogether gained only 288,000 cows in that period. The dairy income jumped 55 per cent. The cow-sow-hen income boosted farm profits 71 per cent, or an average gain of 95 millions a year. In 1930, in spite of low farm prices, the farm income was 34 per cent above 1921.

The Federal Reserve bank survey of retail business for the first half of 1931 shows the northwest second highest in the nation and only 2 per cent behind the leading district centering at Richmond, Va. Of the 185,475 farmers in Minnesota last year, only 185 went bankrupt. Wheat is no longer the index of prosperity.

"And the beauty of the Minnesota Plan is that the farmers, instead of being paid unskilled labor's wages, represented by wheat growing, get skill labor's pay, represented by proper breeding of livestock, scientific farming, and proper marketing. And instead of taking the beating which the varying price of raw crops, such as wheat or cotton, involves, they get the relatively steadier and much higher prices for finished products, butter, eggs, meats, fruits, vegetables, and general crops.

Of course, skill is required to work this plan. It was discovered that a farmer could labor with ten scrub cows giving 100 pounds of butterfat a year and make only $135. He could milk one good cow giving 400 pounds of butter fat and make $135 from that cow alone.

The road to prosperity in America runs by prosperous farms.

Debt Problem Before Nation

By KIRKE SIMSON
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Administration silence still cloaked today reactions of the Washington government suggested solutions of Germany's economic plight, put forward by the Wiggins committee of international bankers.

High officials doubted that any immediate occasion for a policy declaration by the Hoover administration would arise. While the Wiggins report will be studied, it was intimated that it has already disclosed ramifications even beyond the question of revision of inter-governmental debts which attracted first attention.

The Wiggins committee has injected the question of private German debts sharply into discussion of the world depression remedies. Up to now relations of Germany to the world-wide economic crisis has been dealt with in international conferences and negotiations only from the aspect of inter-governmental debts, reparations due from Germany and war debts due the United States.

Whether the report of the Wiggins committee forebodes some definite efforts to work out a method of scaling down all of these German commitments, both public and private, or is to be taken merely as an advisory warning from the bankers, is not known in Washington. Comment on the committee report made in Basel was refused in governmental quarters.

Scientists Are Finding Many New Uses for Helium, Safest of Gases

By HARRY MONTGOMERY
 Associated Press Staff Writer
 AMARILLO, Aug. 20. (AP)—The manufacture of helium gas in large quantities was first conceived for war-time purposes, and this rare element is still guarded by the government as a factor of national defense.

Helium not only has contributed greatly to aviation, but it promises to revolutionize deep sea diving. Although there are minor uses, aviation and diving consume by far the greater amount of helium produced.

Allied nations during the World War were brought to realize that they must use lighter-than-air craft, and that the highly-explosive hydrogen was not suitable for war-time use. English scientists, led by Sir William Ramsay, discoverer of helium in the earth's elements, cast about for some buoyant, non-inflammable and no-explosive gas that could be used as a substitute.

"Activities of the German submarines proved that even a hydrogen-filled ship was worth more than half a dozen scout cruisers," said C. W. Sibel, superintendent of the helium division, U. S. bureau of mines. "A ship of that kind could be brought down by one incendiary bullet with its tail of burning phosphorus. The hydrogen being explosive, it was seldom that a crew escaped when a ship was shot down."

"On the other hand, a ship inflated with non-inflammable gas might be riddled with bullets and still return to its base. Helium was known to be such an element. The only problem now was to produce it in large enough quantities. This problem was left up to the United States."

Although the war was closed before helium was put into service,

GRAINS HIGHER
CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Grain prices tended upward early today, influenced by reports of continued unfavorable weather in Europe. It was announced that western European crop estimates were being reduced, and that an unofficial forecast regarding France showed a cut of 25,000,000 bushels.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)—The cotton market had a steady opening today. Liverpool cables came in better than due and first trades here showed gains of 4 to 5 points. As New York showed some weakness however, prices soon lost the early advance but rallied again.

El Paso Requests Early Closing of Juarez Bridge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Petitions from El Paso business organizations and business men urging the closing of the El Paso, Texas-Juarez, Mexico, bridge from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m. have been received by the treasury department.

The petitions said the situation in the Mexican town was having a bad effect on moral conditions on the American side and that legitimate business could be transacted in daylight hours. They added that business was suffering materially by keeping the bridge open until midnight.

Assistant Secretary Lowman whose office acts on such petitions, was out of the city today and was not expected back until Monday.

The petitions were signed by hotel men, bakers, barbers, and dealers in furniture, lumber, clothing, oil, jewelry, motor cars and supplies, fuel, confections, sewing machines, shoes, drugs, hardware and flowers.

Lewman last week ordered other Rio Grande bridges closed at 9 p.m. after receiving complaints that open gambling and other conditions in Mexico were leading to deplorable moral and financial conditions along the border.

Early this week he announced that the treasury had no present intentions of permitting the bridges to reopen during the entire night, though he has received many telegrams and letters asking that they be kept open until a later hour.

C. S. Wortman is transacting business in Lubbock today.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

The finest tobacco quality plus throat protection.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.
