DELAY TAKEOFF

Bad Weather Reported In
Alaskan Area-Landing
Field Difficult For Safe
takeoff

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 3. (P)—The monoplane "Forth Worth" landed here at 7:35 a. m., after failing in its second attempted non-stop Seattle-Tokyo flight. At 7:20 a. m. in Western Alaska Time, 10:20 a. m. P. S. T. Unalakleet reported the fliers had not been sighted there.

The landing of the Fort Worth at Fairbanks was 26 hours 33 minutes after their take-off from Seattle yesterday. This was about the same length of time the fliers were in the air on the first attempt to span the North Pacific early in July.

Then they landed at Solomon Beach, 30 miles east of Nome, after low ceilings, bad visibility and bumpy weather made final refueling contacts impossible, with the light motor then installed in their plane.

St. Michaels, westward of Umanak, and on the projected route to Tokyo, reported neither plane had been sighted there at 7 a. m. (Western Alaska Time, 10 a. m. P. S. T.)

TOKYO, Aug. 3. (P)—A Reno dispatch today said the American globe fliers, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, had arrived at 3:50 p. m. in Khabarovsk, Siberia.

The fliers declared the weather over the Hingan mountain range was the worst they had experienced and much of the time they were forced to fly blind because of the heavy mist.

"It was a wonder we ever found Khabarovsk at all," said Pangborn. "Finding our way here was due not only to good luck but to splendid navigation."

An examination revealed one of the plane's wings was damaged but the fliers were confident that repairs could be made during the flight and they hoped to take off tomorrow in pursuit of the world girdling record of Wiley Post and

County Prisoners Deny Intention of Fleeing From Jail

An emphatic denial that prisoners in the county jail intended to escape was made today by Charles (Little) Chuck Wilson and Mike Yale, both under prison sentences.

A Wilson declared no prisoner in the county jail had seriously considered escaping from jail in the last five months. Deputy Harris King found the weapons. The blackjacks were made of tin foil cigarette wrappers and were tied in the ends of socks. Wilson said that Moncus Twitty, who was recently electrocuted, made one of the blackjacks "just to pass away the time."

Yale claimed the blackjacks had been in the jail for several months, and that prisoners used the knife in eating. "We've had plenty of opportunities to escape and plenty of material to make things that would help us to get out of here, but we had no intention of escaping," Yale declared.

"Yes, and we've had plenty of things with which to knock officers in the head—if we'd wanted to," Wilson said. "We've had things that would have been better than those blackjacks."

"Both Yale and Wilson asserted it was unfair to keep them in the jail. "Why don't they take us to Huntsville. The penitentiary is better than this place," they said. Wilson was given a 20-year sentence five months ago while Yale was given a two-year sentence a year ago.

Pray For Help In Grasshopper Plague

Desperate to halt the worst grasshopper invasion in decades, farmers near Jefferson, S. D., are seen here praying for divine protection at the same spot where their forefathers prayed for similar help 60 years ago. The cross was set up in the 70's at the time of a similar plague. Thousands of acres in this section will not produce a single bushel of grain this year, it is said.

Gus Irvin Thrills Crowds

Aviator Avoids Crackup In Home-Made Plane In Second Test Flight Here.

Gus Irvin gave Pampa air enthusiasts a thrill yesterday at the local airport in taking his home-made airplane up for a second test flight. Approximately 1,000 people gathered at the airport.

After considerable delay Irvin took his ship out on the field and made two test runs the length of the field without taking off. On the third run, he took off and made a wide circle of the city.

Coming back over the field, Irvin intended to sweep low and up again but his motor cut out and he set the plane down too fast. A low murmur of fright ran through the crowd as the plane ground-looped two times and ran up to a fence. Irvin brought the plane about just in time to avoid a crash into a fence and the crowd roared with joy and approval at the expert handling.

After a little tinkering with the motor, Irvin took to the air the second time and after gaining altitude came back and "swooped" the field, this time successfully. He made a perfect three-point landing a little later.

Irvin took the wings of his plane from a ship that crashed here. The engine was taken from a monoplane. It is made in low-wing monoplane style.

Husband Killed In Family Fight

LONGVIEW, Aug. 3. (P)—Silas Marler, 24-year-old pipeline worker, was shot to death today in a struggle with his wife for possession of a pistol.

A charge of murder was filed against Mrs. Marler, 19, in connection with the shooting. She said she had been married about three months.

In a statement to District Attorney D. S. Meredith Jr., Mrs. Marler said her husband had been drinking for the past three days. She said she had pleaded with him to stop and an argument resulted. Last night, she said, he went to sleep with a pistol under his pillow. This morning she slipped it out. Marler awoke and missed his pistol. She said he abused her for removing it.

She said he saw the gun where she had laid it and jumped for it, but she reached the weapon first. The Marlers lived in a tent on the highway between Longview and Gladewater.

SEVENTY-SEVEN RESCUED IN TWO N. Y. BOATING MISHAPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. (P)—Two boating accidents in New York waters yesterday resulted in the rescue of 77 persons from a burning excursion cruiser, and the rescue of 14 and drowning of two men from a capsized fishing smack.

The excursion boat Umana, once the submarine chaser 151, caught fire in the East river, off 50th street as the 77 persons, including a woman and two children were returning from a Long Island Sound outing.

The narrow decked boat seemed overflowing with passengers, when suddenly a whisp of smoke sent a tremor of fear through the crowd. The lone woman, Mrs. Joseph Calia, screamed and became hysterical.

The one lifeboat seemed useless and dozens of men shouted and waved frantically towards the shore. From the Red Wing club, a boating organization, someone noticed the smoke, and almost immediately four launches set out for the burning ex-chaser. Someone else telephoned police and the fire department, but by the time police launches and a fire boat arrived, the 77 had been taken off.

In the other accident, 14 amateur Jersey City fishermen set out for a day's sport off Sandy Hook. Their dory capsized during a heavy ground swell, throwing the party into the sea.

A coast guard patrol boat and several fishing boats nearby saw the accident and rushed to the scene. The entire party was rescued, but Walter James, 37, and Charles Ehrens, 36, died of submersion several minutes later.

GOVERNOR STERLING ASKS FOR TWO-CENT TAX ON CRUDE OIL

Will Veto Any Bill Passed
With Market Demand As Production Limit

AUSTIN, Aug. 3. (P)—Gov. R. B. Sterling today submitted a message to the Texas legislature recommending a tax of two cents per barrel be levied on oil production. The tax now is levied on the value of the oil at the well.

The governor submitted a copy of a proposed law with the message. In another message, submitted simultaneously, the governor again outlined his views on the oil situation in which he again urged that no attempt be made to limit production to market demand and expressed favor of an appointive conservation commission of three members.

The state's revenue from oil has declined to one-fifth of what it should be in view of the high production, the message stated, pointing out that the oil business is something in which many more people are interested than the companies and men producing oil.

The brief message recommending the two cents per barrel tax stated: "The revenue of this state has been seriously depleted because of the low price of oil since our production is based on two per cent of

TAYLOR NEAR DEATH
JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Aug. 3. (P)—"Uncle Al" Taylor, 83-year-old former governor of Tennessee, today was given "a fighting chance to live" by his attending physician, Dr. Harry D. Miller. The aged political veteran underwent an operation for a kidney ailment on Friday.

Mrs. Etta Gillham and son Elbert of Happy were week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Gillham's son, J. O. Gillham.

BODY OF GIRL FOUND BURIED IN MUD GRAVE

LOVER ARRESTED

Hand Left Sticking Out of Makeshift Grave on Beach; Youth Last Person Seen With Girl.

ARANSAS PASS, Aug. 3. (P)—Miss Dorothy Doris Symon, 18, whose body was found Saturday in a makeshift grave of seaweed and mud near the sea wall, was murdered by being strangled, authorities said today as they sought evidence to connect Newton Yarberry, 24, who was charged with murder, with the death of the girl. Yarberry in the county jail at Sinton, had not explained where he was Thursday night, when the girl failed to return home from choir practice and he refused to talk to officers, according to J. D. Barber, deputy sheriff, who was heading the investigation.

The body, which had been in the water for about 40 hours, was found late Saturday by H. B. Threlkeld, a camper, who saw a human hand sticking out of the water as he and his wife and child walked along the seawall hunting for firewood.

Justice of the Peace Carl Uterback who held an inquest, returned a verdict of death by strangulation, and declared that it was murder.

Authorities said the girl's body bore marks about the throat. It was clad in a black and yellow bathing suit.

A search for the clothing she wore to choir practice had been unavailing early today.

Deputy Sheriff Barber said officers learned Miss Symon was last seen alive with Yarberry. They said she left her home with a Mrs. Nolan to attend the choir practice, and afterward went to the home of Mrs. Audrey Fowler, also of Aransas Pass. She told Mrs. Fowler she had a date to go swimming, and asked her not to say anything about it. She left her purse, watch, tam and stockings there, saying she would return for them at 10:30 or 11 p. m.

When she failed to return an alarm was given by Mrs. Fowler and a search was started late Thursday night but it was unsuccessful.

An examining trial will be held at Sinton tomorrow morning for Yarberry before Justice of the Peace H. A. Custer, Barber said.

Miss Symon was the daughter of Howard Symon, an Aransas Pass building contractor.

Barber said officers are at a loss to understand the motive for the slaying but say they are positive she was murdered, and did not drown.

Another Airplane Stationed Here

Scanning the heavens yesterday afternoon, Pampans noticed a plane they had not seen before. It belongs to Ronald P. Teague, territory salesman for the Gulf Refining company, whose headquarters are at the local office.

The plane arrived in Pampa Saturday afternoon. It is a three-place Commandair. The plane is a year old. It is a biplane type and is painted orange. Mr. Teague has had considerable experience in flying.

The plane is equipped with air-wheel balloon tires. The ship will be kept in a hangar at the local airport. Planes locally owned include Dr. J. C. McKean's Stearman biplane, Art Pavey's American Eagle, R. W. (Dutch) Bargis' Ryan B-7, Mr. Teague's Commandair, and Gus Irvin's plane that he made himself.

Irvin had his plane up for several hours yesterday afternoon in a second test flight. He is highly pleased with its performance. The first landing was faulty and the plane bounced twice before he finally set it down. The forced landing was due to a faulty carburetor.

Officers Probe Death of Neace

CELEBRINE, Aug. 4. (P)—Investigation into the death of Arthur Neace, 23, whose badly burned body was found in a ditch along the Meridian highway Saturday, continued today.

H. L. Bicknell, justice of the peace, withheld his inquest verdict pending further inquiry.

The partially burned automobile was found backed into the ditch near Neace's body. Joe Brown, said to be from Fort Worth, found near the burned car, and who officers said owned the automobile, was held in the jail on a charge of intoxication.

Mrs. T. C. Pride underwent a major operation at Pampa hospital this morning.

Capone Enters Court on Run

Al Capone, left, was pretty fast when he jumped from an automobile and ran at top speed into Chicago's federal building, but not quite fast enough to dodge a fast-working cameraman for News-Post and NEA Service who snapped this exclusive picture. Capone was on his way to face Federal Judge Wilkerson who refused to bargain with the gang chief for a light sentence in exchange for a plea of guilty to income tax fraud and prohibition law violations.

LINDY READY TO TAKE OFF

Lindberghs Arrive In Little
Canadian Town For Rest
Before Going On

OTTAWA, Aug. 3. (P)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife took off from Churchill at 12:45 p. m. C. S. T. for Baker Lake on the next leg of their flight to the Orient.

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 3. (P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's premier air aviators, were ready to hop off at noon today on the fourth leg of their 7,000-mile journey to the Orient.

They had spent a pleasant night in the modern Canadian frontier town which boasts a six-mile seaport. They had been welcomed by the 2,000 laborers and the 11 women of the town—the entire feminine population—when their port-toned monoplane churned its way into the harbor from the Moose Factory, Ont., 750 miles east. They arrived at 5:30 p. m. Central Standard Time. They have already flown a total of 1500 miles.

The colonel, after a careful check of his plane, said the next stop would be Baker Lake, 275 miles north. From that point on, there may be a change, the Edmonton Journal said in a copyrighted story yesterday.

The newspaper said that "instead of flying from Baker Lake to Bartlett Inlet on the Arctic coast it is probable the route to be taken will be from Baker Lake to Hunter Bay on Great Bear Lake, then to Fort Norman and down the Mackenzie river to Alakvik."

Before retiring last night the Lindberghs walked to the government radio station and sent and received several messages from various points in the United States.

BELIEVE BILL WILL DECLARE OIL SHUTDOWN

Operators In Oklahoma Get
August Allowable While Waiting for Murray to Issue Closing Order.

THREATEN FIGHT

Producers Intend to Test
Oil Powers of Governor
If Move Is Made to Shut
In All State Wells.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 3. (P) Apparently unaffected by the tense situation in Oklahoma's oil industry, Governor Murray proceeded calmly with the drawing of a shutdown order for prorated wells that will include a brief test case on state rights for the United States Supreme Court.

Time, said the governor, no longer is an element in the crude shutdown controversy. He told newspapermen they "might call me about 6 o'clock tonight" but indicated the order might be forthcoming earlier than tomorrow or Wednesday.

"You newspaper men need not come back to look for it today," he said.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 3. (P) Oklahoma's thousands of prorated oil wells flowed unmolested today, taking the rest of their allowed production for August, while oil men maintained their attitude of watchfulness, awaiting expected action at the state capital.

There Gov. W. H. Murray indicated he would issue his contemplated executive order closing all prorated wells in the state.

Speculation as to what would occur next in the sorely beset industry remained at fever heat as the hours passed without definite word from Murray. Last night his only comment was that he had not issued the order and would have nothing to say until today.

The order had been awaited since late last week, after the governor issued an ultimatum to operators, chasers, threatening a general shutdown of the state's greatest industry unless the price of crude oil was increased from its present tops of 42 and 50 cents to a minimum of $1 per barrel.

While the delay in issuance of the order remained a puzzle, the governor let it be known that the order was prepared and ready for signature.

He reiterated Saturday night his determination to "do something" unless prices took a sharp uptick. His wrath was framed on the major purchasers, and large operators whom he accused of throttling their smaller industrial opponents through a combination of producing, refining and retailing of crude oil produced.

Meanwhile, it appeared likely there would be no change in the contemplated plan of campaign of the operators.

This was generally reported to be active resistance of any civil attempt to close the wells, and a test case in federal courts if the operators used the military power of the national guard, as he threatened.

Three federal judges were sitting in Guthrie today in a Champlin Refining company case attacking the state's anti-proration law, exempted by the program from hearing oral arguments in the case, the judges were expected to withhold immediate decision.

Their judgment likely would have a strong bearing on any action of Governor Murray, and the proration laws should be held void, operators indicated. Then issuance of an executive order might similarly be held without authority.

Speculation also had it that the governor's delay was due to the Guthrie hearing and that an adverse ruling by them, if the state's standpoint, might materially affect his decision to order the wells shut in.

THE U. S. HOLDS KEY POSITION

By virtue of being the world's greatest financial power, the United States holds the key position to the trend of world business. When this nation is enjoying prosperity, the rest of the world is in fairly good condition financially.

The reason for this is that America does one-half of the world's financing, about the same portion of the world's business. America is the largest manufacturing nation in the world with England second and Germany third.

Controllers of finance in the United States can bring about the fall or rise in business in the world by manipulation of the gold supply. The three great gold centers are New York, London and Paris. For better business, the gold supply should be distributed proportionally among these three places. The Bank of England this week received a shipment of $250,000,000 from the other two centers to stabilize that institution.

Before the world will come out of the business slump markets will have to be opened up both in this nation and abroad. Exports and imports must be kept about equal to effect better business. As world business is done on a gold basis, this tends to keep the flow of gold even from one country to another.

The United States can bring about prosperity by doing several things. Loans can be made to nations in the market for our products, raw or finished. Since this country does not make every article in the world, it is necessary that we buy some of their raw and finished products in return. This creates labor in the United States and in foreign countries at the same time.

After loans or credits have been arranged in foreign countries, workmen in this country could be put back to work and with a higher wage scale to stimulate buying of both home and foreign products. There are certain products made in Czechoslovakia, Germany, England, France and China that are not made in this country to the extent of market demand.

By buying these products from the foreign producer we create trade and labor abroad making a market in return for our products.

Two main things that hold down business, especially in the central and mid-western states are low prices paid for wheat and oil. There is an overproduction of wheat and there is an excess supply of oil being imported from South America while domestic producers are curbing production.

The over-centralization of wheat can be dispersed by extending long or short term credits to foreign concerns that do not have the money to buy now.

A temporary embargo on foreign oil is all that is needed to stabilize the petroleum industry and put thousands of men back to work in all producing areas in the United States. Domestic production has only exceeded home market demand in two years since 1913. With imports of oil shut off for a while, the oil stocks at home would decrease until producers could get a decent price for oil and could begin all the new locations they cared to.

If these things are done on top of the moratorium recently arranged with Germany, the business of the world will prosper in a short while.

A MONUMENT TO PEACE

The recent dedication of the memorial at Put-in-Bay, in Lake Erie, to Commodore Perry and the men who fought under him struck a new note for affairs of this kind.

Although the monument commemorates a naval victory, peace and not warfare was the leit motif of the celebration. The crowds that came to hear the speeches found their attention directed, not to the battle, but to the 117 years of peace that have been unbroken ever since.

Since the close of the war of 1812, there has not been a ship of war stationed on the Great Lakes. Perry fought to win control of the lakes for the United States; but only two years later the two nations had signed a treaty dividing this control on an equal basis.

In all the history of international relations there has been nothing as encouraging as the unfortified frontier between the United States and Canada; and the dedication of the Perry memorial does both nations a good turn by reminding them of this fact.

For this frontier has not remained unfortified simply because there has never been any chance of war. During the Civil War, America and Britain came close to blows. War was a possibility again in the early '90s when the Venezuelan boundary dispute became acrid. A slight shift in events during the World War might have brought the two nations into conflict. In the last five years irresponsible firebrands on both sides of the ocean have freely discussed the probability of a fight.

In other words, the chances for hostilities have been about what they usually are between two powerful neighboring countries. But the frontier has remained unfortified, and the white shaft of the Perry memorial is a monument to an enduring peace.

Why has it happened this way? Simply because the two nations resolved that no matter what happened they would not go to war with one another. The resolution has not been so hard to keep.

MOON OF DELIGHT

by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: When Juanita Bessars removes her veil and returns the necklace to Mrs. Bessars, Kirk Starnard, the latter's grandson, does not recognize her as the girl in Jason and Molly Divitt's gambling house. Introducing herself as Senecia Flores, she says she had found the necklace, but refuses a reward. In reality, Divitt had stolen it and used it to admit Juanita into the Bessars home and social approval. She does not know that the Marquesa Cabrera, her chaperone, has orders to cast a robber's eye on the jewels and silver. After Juanita consents to wear his mother's ring, Kirk takes them to the Comus hall, where she meets, among others, Adrian Fouche. It was his friend, Eric Ledbetter, who had insulted her with kisses in the courtyard.

Chapter IV
 AFTER THE BALL.

Molly was up waiting for them wanting to hear all about the ball. Molly had dressed Juanita as usual, but the marquis had not required too much assistance. "I bet she's scratched for herself, before now," Molly thought. "And Divitt can't expect me to get her into that circus. He says she's a lady. Nobody's a lady in a dress that red."

Divitt had failed to mislead his wife with regard to the marquis's office. "Didn't he get her because he thought I hadn't pumped Juanita?" Molly asked herself.

Dimly she felt she ought to warn Juanita against the marquis, warn her not to confide in her merely because they spoke the same language. But for Divitt's sake Molly could not do this.

Divitt had missed Juanita tonight. Divitt had put a girl in her place, one Fifi, with a pretty little face as hard as an alley cat's. Fifi took the tray about with a rakish step. "She jazes it," said Molly bitterly.

Divitt had told Molly about Ledbetter's behavior to Juanita. Gabreau had also been told and instructed not to admit Ledbetter hereafter. Gabreau had kept a hopeful watch at the gate, but Ledbetter had not appeared. "Poor Juanita," thought Molly. "If he had snatched off her veil in the parlors she could never have gone to the Comus hall."

Molly had felt no apprehension.

regarding the marquis's presence at the ball. The marquis might appraise the jewels worn by the ladies, but the theater held no family gold or silver for her to place. "Old red buzzard," thought Molly. "The marquis was aware of Molly's antiquarian. 'Fanny about these jewels,' she told herself. 'They may not know what it is, but if you've been in their husband's past, they've got their fur up.'"

The suite had a parlor, a bath, and one large high-ceiled bedroom with two great four-poster beds, canopies and having curtains that could be drawn for privacy. The marquis sat on her bed, undressing.

She had danced a hole in her stocking. No matter. Spike was paying for it. She had done a lot for Spike tonight. They were invited to the Bessars place in Bessars. Adrian Fouche and his mother were coming to call. (Sancta Maria, that woman's pearls!) And Bobby - Bobby What's-His-Name - was coming around too, after Easter. Grinshaw! That was his name! She had scratched it on her fan, had asked about the Cran-shaws afterward - casually, as was her way. Western people - new money, and loads of it. Oil.

The marquis went over to her trunk and, taking out a bottle of hair cream, she rubbed her feet.

Molly wrinkled her nose at the smell of the hair cream. Every detail of the ball interested Molly, the names of the men with whom Juanita had danced, the costumes they wore, the favors, the queen, the ladies' room, the supper.

"That was good about your not knowing who Adrian Fouche was. You couldn't have danced with him if you had. Of course he didn't know you. How could he? And Eric Ledbetter wasn't there. But you may run into him, honey, and if you don't you care. He didn't see you, that night."

"Perhaps not. But I spoke to him in English."

"You did?" whispered Molly again. "What did you say?"

"I don't know. I just remember hearing my voice - and striking him."

Molly was silent a moment, then she patted Juanita's hand. "It's all right. He was drunk. He won't remember. Anyhow, if you meet him, tell him I'm here. He'll be glad to see you."

The marquis found the cigar she had selected at supper, and began to smoke.

"Hell's bells!" yelled Molly. "Can't you find some asafetida?"

The marquis got into bed and drew the covers up to her chin.

"Get into bed," Molly said to Juanita, and opened the window, letting in the drowsy dawn-rattle of Royal street. Juanita smiled up at her sleepily from a tumble of dark hair.

"The kid!" thought Molly, putting out the light, closing the door softly. "She's not much younger than me, but she seems like a kid - my kid. Lord, I'm getting soft."

The door of Divitt's office was locked and she went home by way of the Tilton patio and through the little gate.

Gabreau in his short bed heard Molly as she came through the gate. There were few sounds these nights that Gabreau did not hear. May be that's why he had been so attentive. "Conchita," he called to Molly. "You got slip or you be seek. How dis place gon' ex-est-eef Gabreau beek?"

"But he kees her, Maman! He jerk 'way de veil and he kees her mouth. It mo' wore dan when she kees him - about de veil."

Conchita knew how keenly Gabreau had watched at the gate hoping that Ledbetter would come. Gabreau would forbid his entrance as he had been instructed, and Gabreau would do more. He would follow Ledbetter into the dark street, and on some pretext - perhaps with the hint of a message from Juanita - would lure him into an alley and have it out with him.

But even Conchita believed that delay would soften Gabreau's desire for vengeance. Even Conchita did not guess that Juanita's entrance into the world under the wing of the marquis - for what purpose he surmised all too accurately - conjured up such visions of her meetings with Ledbetter as tossed him like driftwood.

"He will see her close. He will mebbe not know her. He mebbe will. Anyhow, he will love her. He will spik soft. He will give her mooch flowers and presents. She will listen. Oh Madre de Dios!"

"Oh Purgatorio!"

Tonight Conchita to soothe him, had lighted the candles before the picture on the improvised altar. Her aging eyes had not seen in the drama the likeness that she had drawn Gabreau to buy it. She divined that love had been in measure to thank for the labor he had spent in building the little stand; had felt that Juanita was the inspiration - but Gabreau, indeed, was becoming kinder. At first he had said often, "I am the blood of Napoleon." With this he had justified whatever thing he might do. He did not say this any more - not since he had set the picture on the stand behind the candles. He had relinquished some thought that went with that. Ay, thought Conchita, if only he would relinquish the tossing agony that remained.

Tonight she had lighted the candles, and had fallen asleep. Gabreau had lain still till he heard Molly come through the gate. Then he went to a window, watching Molly cross the court and close her door.

Juanita was home now, he knew - asleep in the great bed, in the room to which he had taken the flowers. The fat woman with the big earrings was sleeping beside her.

Gabreau went back to bed. When Conchita woke at seven to go to the kitchen, she found him sprawled asleep.

Gabreau awoke in a darkened room. It was his office to wait table for Molly and Divitt and to be on call for any errand. But it was no thought of these duties that sent him from his rumpled bed and into his clothes. This was the day for which he had waited a week. Tonight he would not be in the parlors. Umberto would need him. Umberto had given him instructions as to where and how they should meet. Once before Umberto had given such instructions and Gabreau had misunderstood and waited in the wrong place. He would mis-understand again.

Having dressed, Gabreau opened the secret drawer where he and Conchita kept their savings. He took out some silver pieces, thrust them into his pocket, went downstairs. He had an errand of his own.

Brecken looks... a she-p blade... They figure in Gabreau's errand tomorrow. But dark eyes restrain him.

Germany's Credit Renewed by Bank

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 3. (AP) - Directors of the Bank for International Settlements today voted to renew for a maximum of three months the bank's one-fourth share in the $100,000,000 rediscount credit to Germany which expires at the end of this week.

The Bank of France, the Bank of England, and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York are equal subscribers to this credit.

200 SLAIN IN SEVEN MONTHS IN NEW YORK

Commissioner Mulrooney in Heated War Against Crime After Brutal Killing of Child; Three Shot

Note: Six days ago a New York child was killed by gangsters. Shotgun squads have been the police reply to this atrocity. Organized crime has become one of the city's most vital and immediate concerns. This is the fifth of a series on the crusade against crime in America.

By DALE HARRISON

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. (AP) - New York, big and polyglot, always has had crime, but only in recent years, however, has violence threatened to get out of control. Since 1917, when there were 108 homicides, through 1930, when there were 316, there has been an almost uninterrupted increase in killings. For the first seven months of this year the homicides numbered 200.

There is no agreement among the several law enforcement agencies as to the cause of what all admit to be an alarming growth of organized crime. Many say it is prohibition, others say it is not prohibition, but rather the failure to enforce prohibition.

Whatever the cause, the situation in New York City today is such that special squads of police officers, armed with powerful pump guns, are patrolling the streets, day and night. Fatuous societies and social agencies have petitioned city, state and even federal officers to break the gang gun rule.

Commissioner Mulrooney believes that stringent laws to restrict the sale of firearms would go far to reduce crimes of violence. He has urged that such legislation be passed.

New York has approximately 19,000 policemen. In such matters as routine policing, this force always has been considered adequate. The city has, however, a population which, in the main, resents rigid enforcement such as might be demanded in other cities. There are, for example, by police figures, 30,000 speakshies here.

There are taxidance halls, catering to between 35,000 and 50,000 men and boys each week, and giving employment to several thousand "hostesses," or dancing partners. Preying businessmen, shady police court lawyers and even magistrate courts have been under investigation for months.

The year 1931, according to a report of the committee of 14, began with commercialized vice "greater in volume and more brazenly open than at any time in the last 15 years."

The federal government in recent months has been unusually active in prohibition enforcement. Half a down large breweries which were presumed to be supplying a large part of the city with beer, were raided in July. One brewery in this number had an estimated value of more than one million dollars.

The city's gang-running is generally ascribed to war over beer "territory" and "muscling in" practices in the numerous rackets which permit through failure of racket victims to complain and prosecute.

The murder of little Michael Vesquillo six days ago has done more than anything in recent years to crystallize public sentiment behind an energetic campaign to drive gang killers from the sidewalks of New York.

FIFTEEN INJURED

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 3. (AP) - Fifteen prisoners were wounded today in an encounter between communists and anarchists lodged in the Villa Devoto jail. Police had to use tear gas bombs to restore order, disrupted by an argument over revolutionary tactics.

SPIDDERS SHELL DIZZY DEAN BUT FAIL TO WIN GAME

BUFF PITCHER LEAVES BOX IN 5TH FRAME

Dallas Steers Split Double Bill With Galveston Bucs—Beaumont Drops Two Games to Fort Worth.

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Stop 'Dizzy' Dean and you will stop the Buffaloes."
This advice from wisecracks of baseball had been offered up and down the Texas league pennant lane as the Buffaloes continued to sweep aside opposition in their dash for the second half pennant.

The advice failed to work yesterday at Wichita Falls. The Spidders stopped Dean, shelled him from the mound in five innings, but the Buffaloes won the double-header, 3 to 1 and 8 to 4. Even in the failure of Dean league-leaders put additional daylight between themselves and the Dallas Steers, who split a twin bill with Galveston.

Tex Carleton won his 15th and 16th games for Houston. In the first affair, Carleton outpitched Tot Pressnell with a six-hit performance. Houston pounded Pressnell for ten hits, one a home run by Medwick.

In the nightcap, Manager Schultz sent "Dizzy" Dean after the Spidders and his 22nd victory of the season. "Dizzy" lasted five innings, giving the Spidders eight hits and four runs before taking the gate to make way for a relief role, and to allow Sanders to hit for him. Carleton held the Spidders while his mates erased Wichita Falls' three-run lead and scored three runs in the seventh to win.

The second place Dallas Steers trimmed Galveston 5 to 3 in the first game when Hansen won his 10th game of the season and his eighth straight for Dallas. In the second combat, Dallas jumped into a 1 to 0 lead that was good for three innings. The Buccaners tied it in the fourth and scored again in the seventh to win 2 to 1, although Lefty Minoque held Galveston to three hits. Snyder for Galveston held Dallas to five hits. The Buccaners scored the winning run in the seventh when Al Todd's wild throw to second allowed Bell to reach third from where he scored on Molesworth's single.

Elton Langford, Dallas left fielder, obtained at least one hit in each game to run his consecutive game hitting streak to 27.

By splitting even with Galveston, the Steers allowed Houston to take a six-game lead in the second half.

The Beaumont Exporters, who tied Houston for the first half and are two down in the play-off, continued to have hard luck. At Fort Worth, a double victory would have been a tonic to the Exporters, but the best they got was an even break, losing the first 6 to 0, winning the second 4 to 1.

Dick "Control" McCabe whitewashed the Exporters in the first game for his 16th victory this season. Dick outpitched Hollerson and Malicky, limiting the Exporters to four hits.

Buck Marrow, holding Fort Worth to four hits, squared accounts in the nightcap with a 4 to 1 verdict gained in the eighth inning. Bill Harris, hard luck twirler of the league, was Marrow's victim, giving Bill his 17th defeat this season.

The Shreveport Sports, playing in their backyard, swept a double-header from San Antonio, 4 to 3 and 9 to 2. In both games the Sports staged late rallies. They waited until the 12th inning to win the first, and in the second scored one in the last of the seventh after San Antonio had scored two in the first of the same inning to tie the score.

Rosenbloom Named Favorite In Bout

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. (AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, clowning king of the light-heavyweights, renews an old feud with Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, N. Y., this week.

Slattery Maxie battles Slattery for the seventh time in a 15-round titanic struggle at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night.

Unperturbed by the imminence of the title go, Maxie, at last reports, still was making the rounds of New York's night clubs where he does all of his training. A haircut and a shave just before the fight will put Rosenbloom in the proverbial pink.

Slattery, one of the fastest big men in the ring, has trained faithfully for the bout but the betting fraternity have made the champion a favorite at 6 to 5.

Edison Better Doctor Reports

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 3. (AP)—Thomas A. Edison continued to display a marked improvement in his condition today.

Dr. Hubert S. Howe, the 84-year-old inventor's personal physician, after spending the night at the New York Park home of the Edison, said his patient's condition was "satisfactory." He added, however, "I don't think he'll ever be out of danger."

"He looked fairly well," Dr. Howe said, "and seems to realize his condition, still, it would not take much to roll the balance. A collapse, ill as he is, might be serious."

Charles, the inventor's son, said his father was in "good spirits and feeling very chipper."

Mr. Edison was up a bit yesterday and discussed his treatment and diet with his physician, members of his family revealed. Dr. Howe has described Mr. Edison's symptoms as a combined attack of Bright's disease and diabetes.

A special police guard was posted about the Edison estate today to keep traffic moving.

COTTON OPENS QUIET

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3. (AP)—In the absence of news of Liverpool, that market being closed for the bank holiday, the cotton market here opened quiet, with first trades 1 to 4 points down. As New York showed improvement and as the news from Germany regarding finances was favorable, the market soon rallied. Find Witness For Gangster Killing

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. (AP)—Detectives had a new method today to break down the Sicilian wall of silence, which has shrouded the gangster killing of one child and the wounding of four others in Harlem's Little Italy.

Commissioner Mulrooney, who over the week-end, admitted failure in solving the shooting, quickly changed his mind today after detectives found a talkative eye-witness to the slaying.

The witness, described as an Americanized Italian youth, was examined for three hours by detectives, and on a police promise to keep his name a secret, furnished them with a complete description of the gunmen and the sedan used in the East 107th street shooting.

The alien criminal squad was the new weapon to end the reticence of possible witnesses. The detectives were given orders to round up any uncommunicative witness and to examine his citizenship papers or permits to stay in this country. This was taken as an indication of either letting the witnesses talk or to be deported if they are not rightfully here.

A raid in a tenement house across the street from the shooting resulted in the finding of a shot gun, ammunition, liquor, and the arrest of one man. Police experts are checking the slugs of the shot gun with those found at the walls of the scarred tenements.

Sheriff Charged In Gibbs' Death

BEAUMONT, Aug. 3. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff J. D. Glover was charged with murder today in connection with the shooting of George K. Gibbs, 25, editor of the Tyler County Optimist. His preliminary hearing was set for Thursday.

The shooting resulted from a fight yesterday between two of Gibbs' sons and two other boys. Witnesses said one of the Gibbs boys fired a pistol from the window of the printing office.

Glover went to the office to arrest Gibbs and the shooting resulted. It was alleged that Glover fired three shots.

PIRATES SHUT OUT RED CREW IN FOURTH GO

Pittsburgh Picking Up After Slow Start at Beginning of Season; Senators Down Athletics Second Time.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

After doing enough bad hurling during the early part of the season to get virtually all of it out of their systems, Pittsburgh's pitchers apparently have set out in pursuit of the major league shutout record that a group of Pirate hurlers set 28 years ago.

Ervin Brame blanked the Cincinnati Reds with five hits yesterday, giving the Pirates a 3 to 0 victory and their fourth straight shutout triumph. Before Larry French started the shutout streak against the New York Giants four days ago, the Pirates had finished a game by blanking the New Yorkers in the last four innings and now have recorded 40 successive scoreless frames.

The major league record, set by the Pittsburgh club of 1908, stands at six straight shutout games and 56 consecutive scoreless innings.

Pittsburgh's latest triumph, the 15th in 20 games, placed the Pirates only half a game behind the fifth place Boston Braves, who lost both games of a double-header to the New York Giants. Old Clarence Mitchell held the Braves to six hits to win the first game 4 to 2 while three New York hurlers gave only five blows to complete the job of shifting the Giants back into second place with a 6 to 3 triumph.

The league leading St. Louis Cardinals shoved Chicago back to third place by pounding Charley Root for five runs in two innings and a 6 to 2 victory. Paul Derringer recorded his thirteenth victory of the season. The Phillies and Brooklyn reached no decision in their twin bill, the Phils taking the first game 5 to 2 and Brooklyn rallying for four runs in the seventh to win the second 7 to 5.

Saying it with bats, the Washington Senators served notice that they are not yet to be counted out of the American league race with their second straight victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. Washington pounded McDonald and Hoyt for eight runs in the first two innings and won 10 to 6.

Cleveland's Indians registered the big gain for the American league by winning two games from the St. Louis Browns. A five-run rally behind Wes Ferrell in the sixth inning brought them a 9 to 1 victory in the first and they broke a 9-9 tie in the

CAP PULLER PULLS THE BEST ONE IN THE BOX

"CAP" PULLER presides at the bottle bar. No matter where you go in town or country, you'll find him handy, smiling, Johnny-on-the-Spot, to serve you when you're dry and hot. You say the word. He pulls the cap like a flash . . . and instantly you're happier than you were . . . new energy in your veins. . . .

So often does "Cap" get the Dr. Pepper call, he'll often reach for it before you speak. Not mind-reading . . . just force of habit. If he guesses wrong, he takes no loss. You'll see him drink it himself. Take it from an old-timer . . . an experienced guy who's tried 'em all. He'll tell you right off: "Dr. Pepper's the pick of the pack."
