TWINKLES

The West Foster grouch says that the sales of his shoes are so thin he could tell heads or tails of a dime—if he had the dime.

Hey, kiddies! We're going to be at the La Nora theater Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with heaps of candy. Lions will be there with fruit. George Limerick has picked out six reels of laughs. It is the Pampa Daily NEWS-La Nora theater annual free Christmas party. If you are 14 years old, or younger, be sure to be there Saturday morning.

Now is a great time for wives to change the office mouse. The victims can explain that their injuries were merely due to a fall on the ice.

Note to Santa Claus: If you have such things, bring the Texas railroad commission a few bottom hole pressure gauges. Bring Alfalfa Bill Murray some tin soldiers. Give Jim Ferguson a set of law books on how to get even with the highway commission. Take Franklin D. Roosevelt a truck full of good luck charms. Give Herbert Hoover a Bible with the book of Job plainly marked.

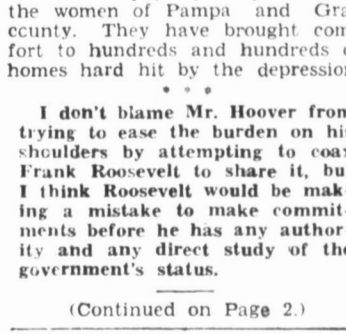

Boys are supposed to be good and to work hard just before Christmas, but we have not heard of the jobless men having much competition from this source in Pampa.

I want to pay my compliments to the women of Pampa and Gray county. They have brought comfort to hundreds and hundreds of homes hard hit by the depression.

I don't blame Mr. Hoover from trying to ease the burden on his shoulders by attempting to coax Frank Roosevelt to share it, but I think Roosevelt would be making a mistake to make commitments before he has any authority and any direct study of the government's status.

Christmas Customs for FOREIGN LANDS

"Snow will fall in Pampa between now and Christmas morning," quoth A. G. "Friday" Brandin, local weather prophet, this morning as he sat in the office of Chief of Police John V. Andrews in the basement of the city hall. Nobody knows how "Friday" figures his prophecies, but he is usually right.

Pampa's streets were slippery this morning, as many pedestrians can testify. Although there was little frost last night, the bottom freeze from the previous night had not thawed enough to make walking and driving safe. Cars turned corners and headed in other directions from their original destinations.

SHOPPING DAY UNTIL CHRISTMAS

Children to Have Christmas Events

BIG TREE FOR CHILDREN OF NEEDY READY

ADMISSION TONIGHT IS TO BE ONLY BY TICKET

PRESENTS ARE MANY
PLAYLET WITH MUSIC TO BE GIVEN AT AUDITORIUM

Santa Claus will visit less fortunate children of the city at the city auditorium at 6:30 o'clock tonight, when each child will receive a Christmas stocking, a toy and a gift, made possible through the combined efforts of local churches, clubs, the Welfare Board, the fire department and merchants and individuals.

Ladies from Pampa's churches spent several days wrapping parcels and making stockings. Unemployed men filled the stockings and assisted in every way possible to make the occasion one to be remembered.

A huge Christmas tree has been erected at one corner of the stage. It has been decorated with a large star at the top, popcorn strings, made by the Junior red cross, colored ropes and strings of lights. Large tables of presents surround the tree. The decorating was done by Mrs. Clyde Gold, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cunningham, Mrs. M. L. Sellers, Mrs. Olin E. Hinkle, and Mr. Gold.

The stage has been made into a living room where a Christmas playlet will be given. The program will be opened with a prayer by the Rev. James Todd Jr. Christmas carols will be sung by a mixed chorus from the Treble Clef club, and the Junior red cross.

The playlet will be given by Mrs. R. S. Lawrence, Bonnie Lee Rose, and Ernest Cella, with music by the mixed chorus.

Then will come the arrival of Santa Claus and the distribution of the presents. Tickets will be registered at the office of the Pampa Welfare Board and received a ticket will have a present on the tree.

Tickets will be available until 6 o'clock. More than 350 children had registered up to noon, but Mrs. W. H. Davis, manager of the club, was prepared to greet 500 children.

Christmas baskets will be distributed to the destitute tomorrow. Although many baskets or promises of baskets have been received, many more are needed. Mrs. Davis said this morning, distribution will be through the Welfare Board, The Elks club, Salvation Army, Junior chamber of commerce, and many individuals have already taken names or delivered baskets to the board.

There is little sickness among the needy this Christmas. Many men have been given work through the Pampa relief committee.

Newsboys to Get Their Papers Free Sunday

Pampa's little business men—the street sales boys of the Daily NEWS—will be given their papers free Sunday and will have as their own all the money they receive from their customers.

On this one day of the year when this custom prevails, the price of the paper is 5 cents and UP. In other words, if the customer wishes to add an extra nickel, dime, or other coin, he may do so with the knowledge that the boy will keep all he is given for the paper.

The extra money will mean more to the lads than many persons realize. Many of the boys are helping to support their parents. Most all of them are helping to pay the cost of their schooling. They have not been able to save much in recent months. Sunday's sales will be their own—100 per cent profit, and will represent their holiday money.

Daily NEWS employees will observe Monday as a holiday and no paper will be issued on that day.

PANHANDLE GAS LINE PRESIDENT IN SURRENDER

Parish Charged With Theft of Bonds And Notes

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—Frank P. Parish, president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company who was said to have acquired the presidential yacht, Mayflower, at a reported price of $270,000, surrendered to the district attorney today on an indictment charging him with the theft of $127,000 in bonds and a number of promissory notes.

The concern, a natural gas collecting and distributing unit, moved headquarters from Kansas City to Chicago several years ago. The Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, and two subsidiaries, Frank P. Parish & company, and two Kentucky Natural Gas company, of Owensboro, were placed in receivership last March. The action took place in Delaware.

Following the receivership action, Parish, president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, and S. J. Maddin, Ralph Crandall and James F. McMahon, a vice-president, were indicted in Chicago on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

March 4, 1932, Parish in a statement, told a house judiciary subcommittee, in Washington, that he had been threatened with ruin by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and the H. L. Doherty and company.

He said a bear raid had occurred on Missouri-Kansas pipeline stock after construction was started on a 2,200-mile natural gas pipeline system from the Texas Panhandle to Indiana. A 1,000 share order had proved insufficient to support the stock in the face of the attack, Parish testified.

THEATER WILL BE SCENE FOR BIG GATHERING

MOVIES, FRUIT, CANDY WILL BE GIVEN AT PARTY

IS AN ANNUAL OCCASION
NEWS, LA NORA AND LIONS WILL BE HOSTS

The age limit of 14 years or under will be the only restriction at the Pampa Daily NEWS-La Nora theater annual free party at the theater at 10 a. m. Saturday.

All children of Pampa and the immediate territory will be welcomed at the free party. Added attractions dear to the hearts and appetites of children will be the candy and fruit distributed to all who attend.

Fruit for the occasion has been purchased by the Pampa Lions, who will have a delegation of members present to assist in staging the event. The fruit was bought for the club by H. Otto Studer and Clarence Barrett. The candy was being secured today. There is always a big time when children gather for the NEWS-La Nora free party.

The films obtained for the occasion are of the type which appeal to the juvenile mind. The boy friends—you know them—will, do typical antics in a rollicking comedy call "Love Pains." Zazu Pitts and Thelma Todd, that remarkable pair whose comedies ending despite frequent repetition, will cause many a laugh in "On the Loose." And of course there must be a cartoon. The one selected is "Wins Out."

Don't forget the time, children—10 a. m. Saturday.

HE COMES HERE TONIGHT

Old Santa Claus himself, shown above, will arrive this afternoon to attend the community Christmas tree at the city auditorium at 6:30 p. m. Only the less fortunate children will be present. Tomorrow morning at 10 a. m. however, Santa Claus will greet all children of the community of 14 years of age or younger at the Pampa Daily NEWS-La Nora theater annual party at La Nora. And in traditional fashion he will be busy on Saturday night as at no other time during the year, visiting the various homes while the little tots sleep.

NELLIS' ITALIAN ACCENT DUE TO ADD PATHOS AND COMEDY TO 'LOVE-IN-A-MIST' NEXT FRIDAY

Count's Role Will Be Given A Splendid Interpretation

Many who attended rehearsals of "Love-In-A-Mist," which will be presented at the LaNora, Friday evening, December 30, by the Pampa Little Theater, have predicted that if Howard Nellis does not "steal the show," he will give a performance for local actors to shoot at.

Mr. Nellis will assume the role of "Scippi," Italian count and lover of Diana (Mrs. Julian Barrett) until he discovers he's in love with Sidney Rose, Diana's sister (Miss Florida Freeman). His is one of the major roles in the three-act comedy.

However, as there are only seven characters in the play, each role might be classed as "major."

Mr. Nellis has absolutely mastered English as an Italian would speak it, and his accent is more pathetic than comic. Imagine the Marx brother that plays the piano, as a tragic as well as comic and you have Mr. Nellis' cast. He has worked hard in mastering his "lingo" and without doubt it will be appreciated on the LaNora stage next Friday.

It is one of the more popular plots of "Love-In-A-Mist" is based on "little white lies" told by Diana to avoid hurting other people's feelings. The cast includes Mr. Nellis, Miss Freeman, James Barrett, Gilmore Nunn, James Todd Jr., Miss Louie Barton, and Miss Peggy Arnold. Mrs. T. F. Morton is director.

Tickets are on sale at all the drug stores in the city and at the LaNora theater. The pasteboards will be bought from members of the Little Theater also. At this price, it will not be necessary to exchange tickets at the box-office as in the last play. Tickets purchased before the play will be accepted at the door without exchange. Prices of admission will be 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Bad Checks Result In Court Charges

Santa Claus is of course perfectly honest, but some of the shoppers who are frequenting local stores are issuing checks without having bank accounts.

Charges were being filed against offenders today by merchants. Some of the guilty persons live here, while others live elsewhere but claim fictitious local addresses. Business men must be constantly on guard against fraud, but they cannot prevent many losses.

SIXTY PRIZES GIVEN SHOW

Merchandise Pledged Poultry Event; Many More Prizes Are Expected.

An especially attractive list of premiums for the Pampa Poultry show of January 19-21 was revealed last night when committeemen met at the city hall to discuss the event.

More than 60 prizes have already been pledged by merchants, and many others will be received soon. These will include everything from gasoline to groceries, battery charge to flea and lice killer. The idea of giving merchandise appeals both to merchants and to exhibitors.

Supt. C. C. Dodd of the show and George Briggs, secretary, will meet Thursday to classify the premiums according to the various departments of the show. The location of the event also will be announced soon.

Change Should Not Be Given To Needy Workmen

Pampa grocers are urged not to give change to unemployed men receiving grocery vouchers as part pay for work done on the city streets. The men given work thru the relief fund available here were paid two-thirds of their wage in cash and the rest in grocery vouchers which were redeemed by the relief committee.

Several men have been purchasing groceries and asking for change, which is against the rules of the relief program. If the practice continues, the offenders will be cut from the list and not given any more work. Charlie Mullen said this morning.

Every man paid with a voucher slip needs more groceries than the amount on the slip. Grocers report that the majority of the men buy more than the amount provided by the voucher.

Fifty men are working today, hauling caliche and cleaning streets of snow and ice.

Most Stores To Close on Monday

Almost without exception, Pampa merchants said today that they would be closed all day Monday to give their clerks a Christmas holiday.

The few stores which will open early Monday for the convenience of shoppers needing table supplies will close after a few hours. There were just a few business men who had not definitely made up their minds, but the odds were that they too would observe the holiday.

It was difficult today to find citizens who intended to go elsewhere for Christmas. Likewise, it was found that nearly every home will have visitors and out-of-town guests. The biggest outward movement of residents was that of teachers going home. An almost equal number of individuals were the home-coming students from colleges and universities.

The NEWS, too, will give its employees Monday as a holiday, and no paper will be issued on that day.

Miss Verna Fox was to be dismissed from Worley hospital this afternoon.

REPUBLICANS' MOVE BLOCKED BY DEMOCRATS

DEMO CAUCUS DECIDES TO LET COMMITTEE PASS ON BILL

BALLOT NON-PARTISAN

SENATORS VOTE 48 TO 23 TO POSTPONE CONSIDERATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23. (AP)—The senate refused to take up beer legislation today. It rejected a move by Senator Bingham (R-Conn.), aimed to get immediate consideration for the 32 beer bill passed by the house. The vote was 23 to 48.

The democratic organization opposed Bingham's attempt on the ground that regular procedure of study by committee was desired.

The vote was decisively against the tall Connecticut opponent of the prohibition laws, although but a few minutes before he had declared if the measure went to the judiciary and finance committee for study and hearings, "it will just drag along."

"It gets back here by the middle of February we'll be lucky," he said, adding that he felt the bill "couldn't be got through before March 4."

With the remark, "I see nothing to be gained by having hearings," Bingham contended sufficient evidence had been gathered during the past year by various house and senate committees that had studied beer bills.

The senators voted on non-partisan lines. The vote was not considered by the senate, leaders as a test on the beer issue, because many senators on both sides of the aisle insisted the beer bill should take the normal course of committee action.

Christmas Trees Ready For Buyers

Citizens who ordered Christmas trees from the American Legion and asked it to hold the trees are urged to call for them by 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The Legion received a car of trees from Oregon and sold them in a short time.

A second car was ordered and only a few trees remain. They are being sold in the Brunow building. The Legion wishes to thank everyone who purchased trees. The exclusive sale was made possible through local merchants who have handled trees in the past but who sent their customers to the Legion this year.

Many homes are being decorated for the Christmas season. The Pampa Junior chamber of commerce will give the prizes for the best decorated homes in the city.

Library Gets 35 New Books

Thirty-five new books have been received and catalogued by Mrs. James Todd, Jr., at the public library.

For the most part, these were books of adventure. They will be eagerly read by the children of the city—and many adults—during the holidays. Mrs. Todd has ordered many volumes for persons wishing to use them as gifts.

Within a short time, the library board will place another order, which will include works on political science, the new so-called technology, and other subjects. More space is acutely needed by the library.

CIVILIZATION'S BACKWATERS

One of the strangest little sidelights on modern times that has ever been disclosed is one that came to the surface in Chicago not long ago.

Not far from Chicago there is a little farm, occupied by a man who came over from Russia 30 years ago, bringing with him his family and a whole set of superstitions that stem in an unbroken line directly from the dark ages.

Members of the family had never seen a movie, heard a radio, ridden in an auto or a street car or seen a skyscraper. They were isolated from the modern world as effectively as if they lived in an unapproachable village in the middle of Siberia.

Existence of this odd family became known when a daughter, 23, went to a neighbor, protesting that she had brought a curse on her family. A pigeon had circled over her head, it seemed; a portentously evil omen. Then a cow had died, a horse had taken sick, and finally her father had lost his lease on the farm.

That there are backwaters like this in the very center of civilization is a fact well known to sociologists—and, it might be added, to policemen, welfare workers and newspaper reporters. The flood tide of human enlightenment has risen unevenly; here and there it has left peculiar islands, lost in dense swamps of ignorance, and every so often some little thing happens to bring these places to our attention—this event in Chicago, for instance, a "hex" murder in Pennsylvania, or something similar.

And such events give us a deeply uneasy feeling. We feel as if we must paraphrase Lincoln's famous remark: the nation cannot endure half civilized and half ignorant. More than ever before, now, the world is a place in which intelligence and enlightenment are required of even the humblest citizen.

It is an extremely complex and sophisticated place; and it is like feeling an eerie wind out of a dark cavern to read this little tale of a circling pigeon, a blindly frightened family and an ignorance that comes down unchanged from medieval Europe.

The Spaniards are catching onto the idea of republican government. The Spanish cabinet has decided to spend $500,000 for a garage for its members' 14 automobiles.

It cost the government an extra $1700 for a sedan to accommodate Postmaster General Brown's silk topper. Just another instance of the high overhead at Washington.

President-elect Roosevelt makes a hobby of stamp collecting. If the debt cancellationists have their way that's about all he'll get from our European neighbors.

A Memphis department store Santa Claus recently was fired for absent-mindedly kissing a 17-year-old girl. Serves him right; that's no way to kiss a girl.

Congress may not get much done about prohibition repeal this session, but it at least put beer on everyone's tongue.

Funeral and Burial Held Here For Mrs. Goodfellow, Who Died In Her School Room Thursday

Funeral services for Mrs. M. I. Goodfellow, 66, who died suddenly yesterday while teaching a class in the school room at the First Baptist church, were to be conducted in the same church at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. C. E. Lancaster, pastor, and the Rev. C. A. Long, pastor of the First Methodist church, were to preside. Burial was to follow in Fairview cemetery.

Mrs. Goodfellow was the mother of Mrs. C. C. Cook and had been a resident of Pampa for the last 13 years. Teaching to her was a pleasure and she was most happy when in the school room.

Mrs. Goodfellow is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. H. D. Bull of Dallas. A sister, Mrs. H. J. Jones, lives at Grand Prairie. Surviving brothers are O. L. Burgoon, Dallas; R. I. Burgoon, near Dallas; and Charles Burgoon, Miami, Florida.

Funeral services were in charge of the G. C. Malone Funeral home. Pallbearers were to be C. P. Buckler, Silas Faulkner, M. K. Brown, Lynn Boyd, Neal McCullough, and Clyde Fatherson. Flowers were to be in charge of Mrs. C. P. Buckler, Mrs. Silas Faulkner, Mrs. W. F. Furrance, and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar.

Music was to be furnished by a mixed quartet composed of Mrs. Robert Chaffin, Mrs. W. A. Mann, and John Stungren, DeLea Vicars.

Scales Will Box Two Oklahomans

Sammy Scales, local boxer, has been matched to meet two well known boys during the next two weeks. He has been training hard for his bouts and is in the best condition of his career, friends report.

The local youngster will meet Dillon of Oklahoma City, Dec. 30, in Toluca, Okla. On Jan. 3 Scales will clash with Elmer Nelson in Viet, Okla. Dillon has been seen in action here.

It was found these people once had a home, money in the bank, a job. The depression came, sickness entered, no one was there to care for them and no near relative available. Finally, baking down completely, moving from place to place to get smaller rent or not to pay rent at all, lights, gas and water had been cut off due to unpaid bills, hope had vanished and death seemed to stare them in the face.

ing man. On the floor was a 13-month-old baby sucking on an old piece of rubber which at one time probably was on a nursing bottle, but now attached to a "soda pop" bottle which more than likely had seen the garbage can. In this bottle was found a liquid made up of plain flour and water, the only food for the baby for two days. Upon further inquiry it was learned that some sugar had been added a few days before when they had a little in the house. The baby was in a pitiful condition, dirty, and broken out with a terrible rash. In the far corner of the room two children sat playing with old paper and pieces of lumber block, a girl of seven years, a boy of nine. This family had nothing in the house to eat except some flour mixed with water and half cooked by these two older children on an old broken up and dangerous oil stove. The young officer administered to them as best he could, going to the nearest grocery store he purchased three cans of the very best of chicken soup—two bars of soap, and other necessary groceries.

"On returning later than usual to the Army headquarters, she told her story to the officers in charge of her findings. The ensign said, 'I will call up Mrs. R.—and see if she will go with me on this particular case, and after a phone conversation she and Mrs. R.—started out on their mission of mercy and salvation. It was night, but what mattered? People were suffering, work had to be done, and with a heavy laden basket of good food and some medicine these two started on their mission walking, as neither had a car. In locating the house, a dim light could hardly be seen on account of the dirty condition of the windows. There were no window shades or curtains.

"After investigation, it was found the mother, possibly 30 years of age, was suffering from a very bad case of heart trouble and other complications. The father had that dread disease, tuberculosis, and the children were fit subjects for almost any disease, being so undernourished. It was found these people once had a home, money in the bank, a job. The depression came, sickness entered, no one was there to care for them and no near relative available. Finally, baking down completely, moving from place to place to get smaller rent or not to pay rent at all, lights, gas and water had been cut off due to unpaid bills, hope had vanished and death seemed to stare them in the face.

"The officer went back each day until conditions were straightened out. That same family of five is now living out in the country on a small plot of ground, the father able to attend to poultry, vegetables having having an arrested case of t. b. and on the road to complete recovery. The mother is keeping a clean house and caring for her children. The three small children could not now be recognized as the little ones located a few months before. They are well, hearty, and happy. The mother and father have become converted, confessed Christians, and with their children attend Sunday school and church.

"This family was administered to with both a physical and spiritual cleansing. Starting from a salvationist way of doing things, thoroughly good food within the stomach, water and soap outside and the greatest of a salvation. This family became an asset to its community through the Salvation Army. This is an actual case and was visited by the writer of this article together with the officer of the local Salvation Army in a cityment which can be made."

RISEING OF THE PRESS

Are newspapermen of West Texas lured by proposals to ruin their colleges? The answer is yes. Scidom have adjectives been poured forth with the cutting satire which has characterized the reaction to the recommendations of the legislative committee on economy and efficiency. Some of the papers which have lashed out at the proposals are:

Dalhart Texan, Stratford Star, Spearman Reporter, Ochilje County Herald, Lipscomb Lighthouse, Higgins News, Miami Chief, Borger Herald, Moore County News, Vega Sentinel, Southwest, Pampa News, Pampa Herald, White Deer Review, Crown News, McLean News, Amarillo News-Globe, Lubbock Avalanche, Shamrock Texan, Wheeler News Review, Wellington Leader, Collingsworth County Standard, Memphis Democrat, Hedley Reporter, Cleveland News, Claude News, Hereford Brand, Brownfield Herald, Dawson County Herald, Sweetwater Reporter.

Big Spring Herald, Farwell Tribune, Pampa Star, Dimmitt News, Tulla Herald, Silverton Star, Estelene News, Childress Index, Childress News, Quilaca Post, Quanah Tribune-Chief, Vernon Record, Vernon Times, Crowell News, Paducah Post, Matador News, Post City Post, Tahoka News, Floydada Hesperian, Lockney News, Plainview Herald, Hale Center American, Abilene Herald, Littlefield Leader, Olton Herald, Muldoon News, Loveland News, Rails Banner, Crosbyton Review, Spur, Texas, Spur, Snyder Signal, Knox City Herald, Seymour Banner, Munday Times, and Aspermont Star.

It should be obvious that the newspapers of the Panhandle are alert to the protection of the interests of West Texas. WHAT IT MEANS. Supposed the college proposals of the legislative committee were adopted. If a resident of this section wished to become a teacher, as many of them do, he could journey all the way to Austin, or perhaps to Huntsville. But do you realize the immense spaces involved? Suppose the same committee should tell you to send your child to Tucson, Ariz., Laramie, Wyo., Lincoln, Neb., or Fayetteville, Ark. You would rise up in righteous wrath. Yet we tell you that these distant points are nearer than or almost as near as Austin and College Station. Nearer too, are the colleges at Greeley, Colo., Albuquerque, N. M., Las Vegas, N. M., Silver City, N. M., Emporia, Kans., Norman, Okla., Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Ada, Okla., Durant, Okla., Denton, and many others.

General higher education must continue to be adjacent to the boys and girls to be served. West Texas is bigger than many states. Teaching is just one of the many functions of the modern senior college. If all the state-supported institutions were closed, the saving would be just $137 per person in this state. State taxes can be lowered, and college economies can help to lower them, but the real tax burden in Texas is the local tax problem—city, county, and school district. When the tax knife falls, let the schools be the last to be trimmed! They represent the most fundamental service of a government.

Governor May Resign Before His Term Ends

AUSTIN, Dec. 23 (AP)—A few more weeks and Governor R. S. Sterling will return to private life after two years as chief executive of Texas. He will be the only Texas Governor, save Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, who was not returned for a second term. Mrs. Ferguson will succeed Governor Sterling this time, for her second term after a lapse of six years.

Governor Sterling never has announced his plans for the future, but his friends expect him to return to Houston to make his home. He probably will not interest himself in politics again, although he has not publicly renounced the fickle game. It is believed likely Governor Sterling will leave the gubernatorial office, probably a few days before Mrs. Ferguson's inauguration, by resignation in order to escape festivities incident to induction of his successor. It is said it would be distasteful to him to have any part in the inauguration after the enmity that has existed between him and Mrs. Ferguson and her husband, James E. Ferguson.

Should he resign it would be Lieut. Governor Witt's first chance to sit in the executive chair. During the lieutenant governor's tenure the governor has not absented himself from the state to give him occasion to take the reins of government. Witt was re-elected, however, and it may be Mrs. Ferguson will give him an opportunity to be acting governor.

STARS ARRIVE FOR EAST AND WEST CONTEST

STAFFORD AND KOY TO PLAY IN ANNUAL BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23. (AP)—Football stars who will compete in the annual East-West Shrine's charity contest here January 2 practiced as units for the first time today.

The Eastern squad, under the tutelage of Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern, works out at Stanford university. The Westerners train at Kezar stadium here, which will be the scene of the battle.

Kerr and Hanley arrived with a squad of 21 players yesterday. Joe Kurth, Notre Dame's All-American tackle and twenty-second member of the squad, was already on hand to greet his team-mates. He remained in California after the Notre Dame-Southern California game in Los Angeles.

Harry Newman, Michigan quarterback; Robert Smith, Colgate guard; Paul Moss, Purdue end, and Ray Horstman, Purdue fullback, were among those arriving with the Easterners.

Seven Western squad members also rolled in yesterday. They were led by Dana X. Bible, Nebraska coach, who will act with Orin Hillingbery of Washington State in whipping the team into shape. They were Buck Koy and Harry Stafford, halfbacks from Oregon; Frank Christensen, fullback and Jack Johnson, tackle from Utah university; Steve Hofok, end and Lawrence Ely, University of Nebraska, and George Atkeson, University of Kansas guard.

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

It looks as if Joe Cronin, kid manager of the Washington Senators, is out to cop "Trader Horn" Fonseca's laurels.

The recent Hot Stove League trading season saw Joe out in front of the rest of the gang, and he practically out of the swapping racket, completing only one deal.

It will be recalled that Fonseca, at the beginning of the 1932 season, his first as manager of the Chicago White Sox, did a rushing trade in Iowa. He swapped with Reynolds and Kerr and shipped them off to Washington for Jones and Hadley, pitchers, and Infielder Hayes.

Then, deciding he needed improved work with the willow, he took Cissell and Moore and traded them to the Cleveland Indians for Hodapp and Seeds, both of whom are expected to hit a lot for Chicago. Seeing a few holes in his infield, Trader Lew closed a deal with the St. Louis Browns whereby he gave up Campbell, outfielder, and Hadley, the pitcher he received in the deal with Washington, for Shortstop Ralph Kress.

The crowning exchange of the lot came when Lew traded Catchers Tate and Grube, with Outfielder Jolley to the Red Sox for Berry, a catcher. He also got Rothrock, Boston outfielder, for a cash consideration.

Joe Enters the Scene. Cronin, a kid who may or may not have his own ideas about how a ball club should be run, pulled off a deal or two during the winter meeting of the big leagues which may or may not do the Senators a lot of good.

By giving away Pitcher Lloyd Brown and Outfielders Sam West and Carl Reynolds, Joe got for the St. Louis Browns Southpaw Walter Stewart and Outfielder Goose Goslin and Fred Schulte.

In another deal he traded Fred Marberry, the big right-handed hurler, for Earl Whitehill, Detroit's southpaw pitcher.

Smart Move, Joe. If nothing else comes of those trades, Cronin pulled a smart one when he got Walter Stewart from the Browns. And if Stewart doesn't break even with the Senators, Joe will still win plenty of ball games with the southpaw on the roster.

For Walter was Washington's big jinx last year. Time after time the Browns threw him in there against the Senators and he always came through with bad news for Walter Johnson's crew.

But Joe may have weakened the Senators somewhat by getting older players in the deal. Stewart, whom he got for Brown, is 32, while Brown is four years younger. Reynolds and West, two players he traded, are 26, while Goslin and Schulte, the two outfielders he obtained, are 31 and 28, respectively.

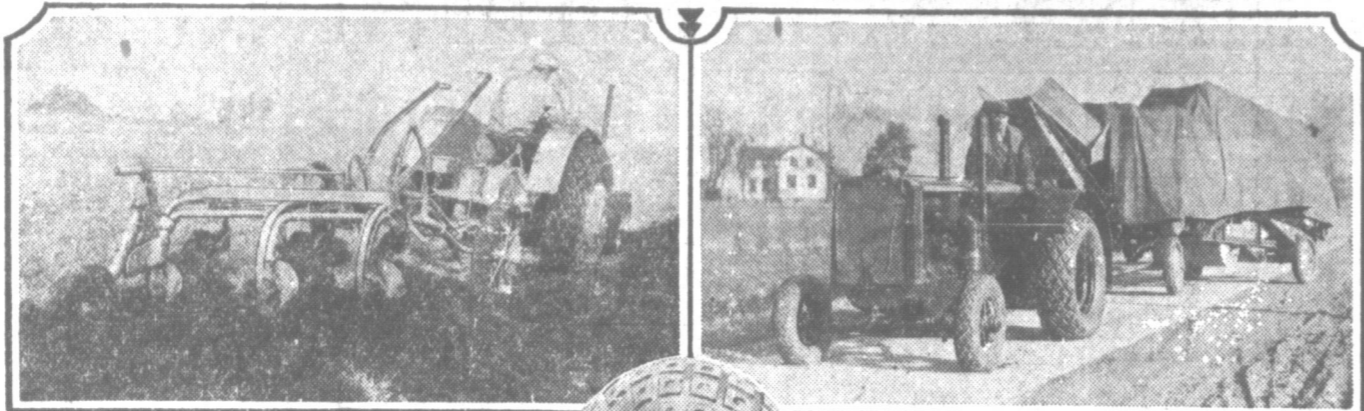

Goose Back Again. Goslin goes back to his home pasture in the trade. The Goose came up to the big leagues with the Senators in 1921, and played ball for Clark Griffith until June of 1930, when he was traded to the St. Louis Browns for Heinie Manush and Gen. Alvin Crowder.

Goslin played good ball for Washington during his nine-year stay there. He fell below 300 in hitting only twice, and hit as high as 379 in 1928.

But the veteran has been slipping, they say. He has complained of everything from falling legs to jumping dandruff. Regardless of the complaints, he hit 328 for the Browns in 1931.

Perhaps the Goos will get going again back in his native land. If he does, Joe Cronin, with the smart

AKRON, O., Dec. 23.—Lifting the ordinary farm tractor out of the class it has long occupied as an implement of rather limited farm usefulness, the new Goodyear pneumatic farm tractor tire makes an all-purpose unit of it, enabling the farmer to use it on the highways, where until now steel tired tractors have been banned because of the damage they do to hard road surfaces.

Though introduced but a few months ago, farm tractor tires have swept the agricultural sections of the country and have been a strong attraction at corn-husking, stock shows, fairs and similar events.

The new tire on tests recently stated enabled the farmer to plow by tractor over 25 per cent more acreage of land at a saving of nearly one-fourth in fuel and at an increase of nearly 37 per cent in plowing speed, because the All-Weather Tread of these big pneumatics gives better traction and releases more horsepower for actual work than is possible with a steel wheel equipped tractor.

EDITOR CLAIMS TEMPLE WAS ROBBED IN CORSICANA GAME

Holds Wildcats Are Champs (Uncrowned) And Should Be Playing Masons.

By BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Walter R. Humphrey of Temple claims the Temple Wildcats are the uncrowned football champions.

"If the Corsicana Tigers should win the Texas Interscholastic league football championship," says the editor of the Temple Telegram, in a letter, "there are several thousand fans around Temple who will tell you that the Temple Wildcats were the best high school team in the state this past season."

"Temple's only defeat this season occurred Armistice day when Corsicana gained a 14 to 12 decision. There are a lot of Corsicana folks who have thanked the referee for that game and countless Temple fans who still call the Wildcats the champions of district eleven, since they came through on Thanksgiving day and defeated the Waco Tigers, 14 to 6."

Statistics Favor Temple

"Temple made 16 first downs to Corsicana's 12. Four of the Tiger's first downs were made in the last three minutes of the game after a costly decision had ruined Temple's chances, and all three of Temple's all-district backfield stars had left the game with injuries."

"Temple made 108 yards on passes to 82 for Corsicana."

"Temple penetrated Corsicana's five yard line three times, the ten yard line four times, the twenty yard line four times, and the thirty yard line five times. Corsicana penetrated temple's ten yard stripe twice, on its touchdown drives, and penetrated the twenty yard line but once."

"Corsicana's chief ground gainer was Bowlin, with 88 yards. The Tigers gained 152 yards. Temple's all-district fullback, Captain Cotton Harrison, accounted for 144 yards himself."

"Kill the Referee!"

"But it isn't on statistics that folks down here claim the Wildcats defeated Corsicana. In the middle of the fourth period, Temple started a drive that swept far into Corsicana's territory. McFarland, Temple quarterback, shot a low, fast pass over the line of scrimmage to the referee, end, Forrest Eludred, several tacklers and dashed for a touchdown, but he was called back. The referee ruled he had stepped out of bounds after the first 15 yards of his run. The 3,000 spectators were indignant. They saw the referee come running to the place where the chalk had been kicked up, but they'll swear today that it was a tackler and not Forrest who touched the chalk line. A large number of Corsicana fans admitted that they did not see Forrest step out of bounds. So instead of the game ending 18 or 19 to 14 in favor of Temple, it was 14 to 12 for Corsicana."

"That was Temple's only loss and it cost the district flag and a chance at the state championship which Corsicana and Masonic Home of Fort Worth are to play for."

GREENLEAF IS CHAMP

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—Undeclared in 20 consecutive championship games over a span of two years, Ralph Greenleaf of New York stood today unchallenged king of the nation's pocket billiard players. Greenleaf brushed aside Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland, 125 to 22, last night to finish the 1932 championship tournament with nine successive victories and retain the title he won last year with a clean sweep of 11 games.

RAIN HEAVY

ABILENE, Dec. 23. (AP)—Rainfall here for the 24-hour period ending at 10 a. m. today totaled 2.85 inches and still was falling. The year's total was boosted past 45 inches, an all-time record, normal being 25 inches. Winter grain was materially benefitted.

Dempsey Bucks Madison Square Garden Monopoly

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (AP)—The monopoly Madison Square Garden has enjoyed on prime heavyweight attractions since the days of Tex Rickard was threatened from a new and formidable quarter today.

Boldly tossing his expensive capeau into the promotional ring, William Harrison Dempsey announced he had signed Max Schmeling and Max Baer for a 15-round bout in June.

The site was not specified but Dempsey said it would be either New York or Chicago. Other cities will figure in the situation only if some unexpected hitch develops in Dempsey's present plans.

Other promoters have sought to "buck" the garden in the past but most had two strikes on them before they went to the plate, either because the garden had the best locations or the best fighters, or both, tied up with air-tight contracts.

Not so with Dempsey. Jack has his fighters—and they are good ones—safely signed and through his association with Tim Mara, he will have his choice either of the Polo Grounds or the Yankee stadium should he decide to stage the fight here. Mara has the two big ball parks under lease for boxing and through his arm A. C. L. is licensed in this state as a promoter. Chicago, it was understood, is genuinely anxious to stage the fight as a world's fair attraction and probably will have some persuasive arguments for Dempsey's ear.

BABE TO TURN 'PRO' DESPITE A. A. U. RULING

Didrikson Astounded By Complexity Of Rules

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 23. (AP)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson announced here today that the reinstatement action of the Southern A. A. U. will not affect her decision to turn professional. "I do not in the least regret the decision I have made," she said in a statement as she boarded a Chicago bound train.

Miss Didrikson refused to tell her destination and in reply to questions merely repeated "I am going west." She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Esther Didrikson.

Miss Didrikson's statement follows: "I saw the announcement of my reinstatement by the registration committee of the Southern A. A. U. in a newspaper while changing trains for the west here this morning. I am, naturally, very pleased. But I do not in the least regret the decision I have made. The A. A. U.'s belated action in whitewashing me will not in any particular affect the plans I have already made—and my decision respecting my acceptance or otherwise of additional arrangements which are nearing maturity."

Rules Amaze Her. "Not until this last week-end did I realize what a terrifying business it is to maintain oneself as a member in good standing in the A. A. U. Being an athlete and being a member of the A. A. U. are two quite different things. I'm not sure which is the most difficult. This realization came with my reading, for the first time, during this last week-end, of my part of the A. A. U. book of rules. I was amazed to discover that there are some three hundred and fifty pages of regulations and go's and don'ts. What a wonder it is that nothing ever happened before and that anyone can continue to be all square with the A. A. U. I'm afraid I could never memorize all those rules. I'd rather try to smash another world's record for something."

"So it's probably just as well that everything has happened just as it has. I know I'm perfectly satisfied."

Buffs Play Only One Texas Quintet

CANYON, Dec. 23. (AP)—The 1932-33 edition of the Buffalo basket quintet of the West Texas State Teachers college is to play only one Texas team during the approaching season, that being a tilt with the Texas Tech Minors. Out of sixteen games scheduled, eleven are with collegiate teams and five with semi-professionals, including one with the bewhiskered House of David January 11, at Canyon.

HINTS FOR CHRISTMAS GOODIES

Home made candies and confections tied in gay wrappings are fitting personal gifts.

Jars of mince meat, fruit juices, jams, jellies, or baked foods make nice remembrances and carry an individual touch.

To prepare celery for Christmas dinner, use only tender parts, reserving rest for soups, salads and stews. Soak celery in cold water for an hour. When ready to be served wipe dry and arrange on tray or celery dish.

Clean, stuff and truse the fowl the day before it is to be cooked. Cover with a cloth and store in a cool place.

When basting fowl, use 1 cup of boiling water to which 2 tablespoons of butter have been added. After two basting there will be drippings from the cooking fowl, which can also be used for the basting.

Gelatin salads colored green or red, and cut in various Christmas designs make effective salads.

Use the red and green colors in the foods as much as possible. Bits of green pepper and pimientos can be used for garnishing vegetables, meats and salads.

... Colds doubly dangerous With Flu around

HEALTH authorities warn that every precaution should be taken to check colds promptly. Colds pull down body resistance, and often pave the way for an attack of flu and its serious complications. Don't take chances. For greatest safety and protection, follow Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds. With certain simple rules of health, the Plan, briefly, is this:

TO PREVENT MANY COLDS: At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, the new aid in preventing colds. This will check many colds at the nose and throat—where most colds start.

TO END A COLD SOONER: If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. Rest as much as possible, preferably in bed. Take a mild laxative, if needed. At bedtime, apply Vicks VapoRub, the modern external treatment, for its direct double action while you sleep. During the day, use the convenient Vicks' Nose Drops for added comfort and relief, while you work.

Vicks Plan Tested and Proved

In numerous clinical tests, last winter, Vicks Colds-Control Plan reduced the number and duration of colds by half. . . . cut the cost of colds more than half. How you can follow the Plan in your home is fully explained in each Vicks package.

Country Boys Lock Horns For House Speaker

AUSTIN, Dec. 23. (AP)—Two "country boys" have locked horns for the speakership of the Texas house of representatives in the 43rd legislature convening on January 10.

Both of them—Coke Stevenson of Junction and A. P. Johnson of Carizo Springs—came from almost the same "neck o' the woods." Stevenson's county of Kimble, in the Hill county of central-west Texas, is only a few counties removed from Johnson's county of Dimmit, down in the winter garden district of Southwest Texas.

It is a point interesting, if not somewhat puzzling, that the big town legislators have been steering clear of the speakership for some time.

Fred Minor, speaker of the 42nd legislature, lives in Denton, considered in the "small town" class, before him there was W. S. Barron of Bryan, Robert Le Bobbitt of Laredo was Barron's predecessor.

There are several veteran members of the house from the big cities, but they never have shown an ambition to be the presiding officer of that body.

Stevenson and Johnson each claims enough votes pledged by the new house to "get over." There will be about eight-five members who were not in the last legislature. It has been a scramble between the two candidates for favor from these novices. The hold-overs had been pretty well lined up in advance.

As congress settles down to its knitting, it becomes increasingly apparent that the republican regime at Washington already is at an end, and that the responsibilities—and troubles—of the democrats have begun.

Not even the republican old guard shows any disposition to press Mr. Hoover's most important recommendations. Congress will try, instead, to put through Mr. Roosevelt's program, and if that fails will let things slide over into a special session after March 4.

The Hoover sales tax proposal has been received amid general silence, while the leaders think instead of the Roosevelt-sponsored tax on beer.

The Hoover appointments to public office are to be left to die in the senate calendar. The appropriation bills seem more likely to follow the cues from Albany than the urging of the White House.

Not a single voice is raised on capitol hill to applaud Mr. Hoover's proposal for a war debt agency—opposed by his Hoover successor.

Finally, the Hoover specifications for consolidation of government bureaus are looked at skeptically.

Politics at random

By BYRON PRICE

Starting 'New Deal'

This sort of a shift of leadership always occurs in some degree when a change of administrations is in the offing, but it has been accelerated this time by special circumstances.

For one thing, the democrats have actual if not technical control of both senate and house, and they want to have the "new deal" as much of a going concern as possible when Mr. Roosevelt takes the oath as president in March.

While Mr. Hoover himself has shown a disposition to carry on with a militant republican program right up to inauguration day, the spirit of his former supporters in congress is badly broken. Many of the titular leaders not only are "lame ducks," but they do not appear anxious to rehabilitate Mr. Hoover as a dominant party figure.

The whole disposition is to postpone reorganization of the republican party until after March 4, and to leave it largely in the hands of those who then will remain in office.

Democrats' Troubles Start

Because they have taken the reins before their time, the democrats are experiencing a foretaste of the difficulties they will face with increasing force hereafter.

Huey Long's renewed attack on the democratic senate leadership of Joe Robinson is no isolated incident. It echoes a deep-seated feud among senate democrats, of which more will be heard later.

The contest over the house speakership is expected to grow in fury, and no one doubts that the scars left by it will be many and conspicuous.

At both ends of the capitol trouble is brewing over the apportionment of committee chairmanships.

The problem will not be very severe in the senate, where the rule of seniority is so firmly established; but the house situation presents a real problem.

So whatever of prestige Mr. Hoover may have suffered and whatever disappointments may still be in store for him before March 4, he will have the satisfaction of knowing that the trials and problems of responsibility already are settling down on the opposition.

Now Whoever Heard Of Wooden-Legged Steer Before This

BARNHART, Dec. 23. (AP)—Claude Becton, ranchman of Barnhart, has a wooden-legged steer, a four-year-old, that keeps up with the rest of the herd and travels so fast that a man cannot overtake it an foot.

The animal's leg was broken when it was a calf. The bone would not knit, amputation was necessary so the leg was made out of steel and oak wood. A pad of cotton protects the stump.

Ashes of Bing Are Placed In Memorial

Uhrichsville, O., Dec. 23. (AP)—The ashes of "Bing," a dog hero of the world war, rested today free from further controversy, in the Uhrichsville-Dennison veterans' memorial building.

Whether it was proper for a dog to share a place in the memorial along with the names of men who died in the civil, Spanish-American and world wars, was for months a subject of serious argument among veterans of the two cities.

"Bing" was one of the heroic dogs who accompanied American troops on the battlefields of France, and world war veterans held that his ashes, sealed in an urn, deserved a place of honor in the memorial building.

Veterans of the Spanish-American war disagreed with this view, and appealed to several civil war veterans to join them in protest.

An end to the controversy was effected today with the Spanish-American war men deciding that if

Marchers To National Capital Are Shown In Pampa Daily News Reel

The blue-coated barrier across the Baltimore-Washington highway which put a sudden stop to the charge on the National Capital by entrucked "hunger marchers," is shown in the current issue of the Pampa Daily NEWS-Universal Newsreel at La Nora theater, with a graphic description by Graham McNamee, radio announcing ace and the screen's talking reporter, of the efficacious flanking movement by which the District of Columbia police stemmed the Red advance.

The "marchers" are seen in high spirits as they roll out of Baltimore and through Laurel, escorted by Maryland State Police, but when they hit the outskirts of Washington, the truck train from New York and points east is stopped short by four lines of Capital policemen, shoulder to shoulder from one side of the broad highway to the other. Some are armed with riot guns, some with tear-gas guns and mask and others have revolvers and night-sticks. The communist agitators and their followers are chagrined when they are led off the road into a bleak camping ground surrounded by a chain-guard, with the dome of the Capitol tantalizingly seen in the distance.

McNamee reports many other important and interesting events in the newsreel, including the record flood in Central Japan which put many city streets under water and inundated more than 10,000 homes; thrilling automobile races at the Legion Ascot Speedway in Los Angeles during which some of the country's best known racers have hair-breadth escapes; the highlights of the Army-Navy football game with detailed scenes of the series of plays by which the Cadets scored their three touchdowns, and the annual New York City pigeon "chuck-up," with 5000 homing birds released in the hope they will lure others home with them.

A miniature train made by a man in Waltham, Mass., which is drawn by a 2-horse power steam locomotive and operated by a 10-year-old engineer; unusual experiment at the Milwaukee Zoo by which bears and wolves, natural enemies, are caged together, and scenes showing the cutting and shipping of a half-a-million Christmas trees from the forests of the Pacific Northwest are interesting additions to the reel.

A moisture and frost resisting glass has been developed, made of two sheets of glass sealed together with an air space between them.

Wheat Suggested As Money Basis

LONDON, Dec. 23. (AP)—The use of wheat as a basis for money would double the price of the grain and provide a swift avenue for return of prosperity, believes J. F. Darling, a director of the Midland bank, one of England's important financial institutions.

Darling, who would link wheat to gold and silver, believes "that in wheat as a basis for currency we possess an even more powerful instrument for raising prices and stimulating world trade."

"Wheat," he declared when announcing the plan, "has in a marked degree one of the qualities of a currency basis in that it is in universal demand and has a worldwide market."

There would be a central super-bank as custodian for such wheat and gold and silver as formed the basis for the currency. His plan—as advanced—considers only the British empire and would use 300,000,000 bushels of wheat.

"Debts could then be settled by a debit and credit in the ledger of the custodian. Nor would it matter in how many elevators or warehouses the wheat was stored, or in what empire countries they were situated, so long as they belonged to the same organization and were subject to efficient care and inspection. The location of the wheat would then become a matter of convenience for the ultimate marketing of it."

Man Walks 37 Miles In Last Snow Blizzard

DALHART, Dec. 23. (AP)—Trekking 37 miles in any kind of weather is pretty much of a he-man's job, but to accomplish it at night in a cold blizzard, part of the time in blinding snow, is a feat worthy of comparison with the best pedestrian accomplishments of pioneer days in this country.

John P. Ryan, former big city newspaper man, walked from Texline to Dalhart in 12 hours over 12 hours one of the cold, stormy nights 30 days ago. He left Texline at 6 p. m. and carried a small suitcase. He got pretty cold, he said, with the weather at five degrees above zero, but fortunately apparently escaped any ill effects.

He was trying to reach Brownsville to see his two children. His wife is dead.

Scanning New Books

By JOHN SELBY

NEW YORK—A new aspect of a familiar genius is presented in "Emily Dickinson Face to Face," which is Martha Dickinson Bianchi's latest addition to the literature on her distinguished poetess.

Emily Dickinson is presented as a sort of Dickinson family property, so much so that Mrs. Bianchi does not even mention by name the authors of two new books on the poetess. Throughout she uses such phrases as "a recent writer," "one who has written" and by even more blunt phrases. It is a unique attitude to take toward an internationally famous person.

Yet this twisted service is perhaps the best the niece could have rendered her aunt, for it demonstrates as nothing else would the "New England-ness" of Emily, the curious forces that surrounded her, and it makes her withdrawal from them credible, indeed almost inevitable. That she could become a poetess of importance under the continuous rain of family caresses that beset her is quite a striking fact.

Unexpected Nuances

Also Mrs. Bianchi's superfluity of material bearing more directly upon the Dickinson family as a unit than upon Emily is not lost. Rather, it provides a sketch of New England family life in all its Victorian glory valuable because it is presented unconsciously, without ascribing and And there is a large number of Emily's notes, chiefly to Mrs. Bianchi's mother, and some poems, part of them good. Apparently no Dickinson ever destroyed a line Emily wrote him.

Anthetical, but important, is "Just the Other Day," by John Collier and Iain Lang. This fascinating book does for England what Fred-

BEAUTY AND AMERICAN TO WED

Called "Britain's most beautiful society girl," Miss Margaret Whigham soon will wed Charles Sweeney, American captain of the Oxford University golf team. They are shown above in a picture taken shortly after announcement of their engagement. She is the daughter of a governor of the Bank of England.

rick L. Allen did for the United States in "Only Yesterday." As a matter of fact, the authors of the newer book made frank and generous assistance to Mr. Allen in their preface.

They also plead they probably don't do as well with their book because England does not run to the sort of sensational material that makes such resumes exciting—which is at the least a debatable statement, in both departments! For "Just the Other Day" moves fast, maintains quite unexpected balance, covers innumerable diverse fields adequately, and above all, is written with that craftsmanship which keeps out of the way of its material.

From it one can see Britain at a glance from the Armistice to the present, see her painlessly, intelligently and without distortion.

Hence the Grand Duke Alexander's "Twilight of Royalty" is not at all a bad base from which to examine the case for and against Alfonso of Spain. The book is chiefly composed of conversations with Alfonso after his fall, conversations between two royal personages each of whom likes and respects the other.

Hence one views at least with respect Alfonso's career, and few will close the book without granting Spain's former ruler sincerity of purpose and life. Alexander takes a sarcastic jab or two at some manifestations of "freedom" under democracy, incidentally.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: God's Gift to Men (Christmas Lesson).

Scripture Lesson: Luke 2:8-20.

8. And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night over their flock.

9. And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

10. And the angel said unto them, Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people:

11. For there is born to you this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord.

12. And this is the sign unto you: Ye shall find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger.

13. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

14. Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased.

15. And it came to pass, when the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing that is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

16. And they came with haste, and found both Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger.

17. And when they saw it, they made known concerning the saying which was spoken to them about this child.

18. And all that heard it wondered at the things which were spoken unto them by the shepherds.

19. But Mary kept all these sayings, pondering them in her heart.

20. And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, even as it was spoken unto them.

Golden Text: For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life.—John 3:16.

Introduction
Our Christmas lesson is taken from the Gospel of Luke. One should read also the record in Matthew. Mark does not mention the birth, but begins with his public ministry. John also passes over the birth with the statement, after he had spoken of the life of the Word with God, that "the Word became flesh and dwelt among us."

—John 1:14. The story in Luke is wonderfully beautiful. Luke has been called an artist, and in the story of the shepherd's experience out in the fields and their discovery of the child Jesus, he has painted a picture that one cannot forget. In verses 1-7 of chapter 2 is the historical occasion for the presence of Mary and Joseph at Bethlehem.

Toward the close of the year B. C. 5, when Augustus, the first emperor of Rome, was on the throne and Quirinius was governor of Syria (including Palestine), a general census of the empire was ordered. The Roman custom was for each to be enrolled in the place of his residence, but the Jews were allowed to follow their ancient custom, which required each family to be enrolled in their ancestral city.

Joseph, the carpenter of Nazareth, an obscure village in Galilee, the northern division of Palestine, was a descendant of King David, and traveled therefore about 70 miles southward to Bethlehem, a small town about five miles south of Jerusalem, which was David's birthplace. With him went Mary, a village maiden to whom he was betrothed, who also was of the family of David. The further reason for her going was the supernatural birth which was soon to come to her, a virgin, having been announced to her by the archangel Gabriel.

Birth in the Stable
Bethlehem abounds in caves, many of which are used as stables. The tradition is that St. Jerome, who made his translation of the New Testament from Greek into Latin at Bethlehem, did the work while living in the very cave-stable in which our Lord was born.

The birth of Christ occurs amid surroundings so indicative of the common course of human life that all natural things are lifted into a new spiritual meaning, and the round world is another place since Christ came into it. Nothing is mean any more, or ordinary, useless, or hopeless. If a manger can be so noble, what may not any spot become?—Rev. D. W. Faunce, D. D.

Bethlehem Shepherds
"And there were shepherds in the same country abiding in the field." v. 8.

Very likely the same fields in which David tended his sheep and sang his immortal psalms; perhaps the very fields in which Ruth gleaned, the fields of Boaz. It was thoroughly in accordance with the life of Jesus that the first announcement of his birth should be made the humble working men, for our Lord himself was a carpenter, and chose for his intimate helpers, fishers and other lowly folk. All through the ages his church has been the friend of working men, and one of his noblest titles is "the good shepherd."

"Good Tidings of Great Joy"
"For behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy." The message of the Christian church is to tell the best piece of good news which anybody every day can change right into day, the whole world over, and to bring the Christmas joy into every heart.—Dean Geo. Hodges. "For there is born to you this day in the city of David." In Bethlehem, near by. Born to you, as if he came just to you, solely to each one of us, so individual, so personal, is Christ's message and appeal. "A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord." What a comprehensive title, "Saviour, Christ, Lord." Jesus saves us from our sins, Jesus is the rightful Lord and Master of our lives for that reason. But what does "Christ" mean? It is the Greek word for "anointed." "Messiah" being Hebrew for the same,

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY, NEA Service Writer

Every woman who combines housekeeping with other interests is beset by the problem of preparing dinner with the least possible delay. It is only by careful planning that dinner can be served thirty minutes after the cook steps into the kitchen.

Usually the dishes that can be cooked on top of the stove or broiled in the broiler are the quickest to prepare. However, any concoction that can be prepared in the oven is heating and baked in individual molds requires no extra time.

At first thought chops and steaks seem to be the only quick cooking meats, but a little concentration on the meat question reveals a fairly wide variety. Liver, link sausage, pork tenderloin, beef tenderloin, broiled hamburger, thinly sliced veal and the smoked pork products that can be pan broiled all can be quickly prepared and cooked.

Fish can be cooked with almost no preliminary preparations. Oysters are a standby for last minute dinners. Stew, scalloped, creamed on toast, en brochette, baked with macaroni, "pigs in the blanket"—all these oyster dishes are delicious and nourishing and with the exception of the macaroni mixture can be prepared and cooked in thirty minutes or less.

First courses are very easy to plan. Soups need be only a matter of reheating and serving. Vegetable juice cocktails are available bottled. When vegetable juice is planned remember to put the bottle in the refrigerator in the morning to insure a well chilled cocktail. Halves of grapefruit and fruit cups make excellent appetizers, too, and take little time. Mix fruits and grapefruit sections are also to be had in cans and are very satisfactory.

Vegetables, unless they are canned, must be chosen as much for their ease in preparation as for their cooking qualities. Vegetables such as cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts which must be soaked in salt water for thirty minutes before cooking do not lend themselves to hurry-up meals. All the vegetables such as celery, carrots, cabbage and tomatoes that can be used without cooking are a boon to the business woman who cooks.

Salad choices are rather limited for last minute preparation. If time can be taken earlier in the day to

Spectacle Case Ends In Verdict Against Realtors

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. (AP)—Mrs. Amanda Rugen, who signed away $27,000 of negotiable securities because her spectacles were not concoct jelled mixtures the salad is of course ready to serve when wanted. It's a good plan to have the salad materials ready to combine. If the greens are washed and crisped and the dressing made little time is needed.

Desserts are perhaps the hardest. Simple puddings are good during the winter months. If you can spare an hour in the morning a gelatine dessert or a custard can be made and tucked into the ice-box ready for dinner in the evening.

Generally the busy woman will find fresh fruit or toasted crackers with cheese and black coffee her standby dessert. Canned fruit can be given a festive touch by a spoonful of whipped cream with a sprinkling of chopped nuts.

handy, won a court order today for their return.

She had sued to abrogate the contract she signed with Arthur L. Van Berschot, "because he had such a cute mustache." Later, she said, she discovered he had stolen her glasses, thus preventing her from reading the document before signing it. She said he represented it was a loan of her securities. Actually it caused her to purchase 70 acres of grapefruit land in Texas.

Judge Robert E. Gentzel said Van Berschot, Perry W. Peukins and E. E. Harrell, salesmen and real estate partners of Mercedes, Tex., prevented her of fraud in obtaining the securities. They said they would appeal his decision.

Mrs. Rugen, 45, testified Van Berschot made love to her, urged her to divorce her husband and offered to marry her. Her son, Robert, prevented their elopement. The $27,000 was part of the sale price of their farm near here in 1925.

Fiftieth Birthday of University of Texas To Be Great Occasion

AUSTIN, Dec. 23. (AP)—Plans for an elaborate celebration to mark the 50th anniversary of the University of Texas are being made by university officials and ex-students.

The university was established in 1883 with an initial enrollment of 250 students. During its two-score and ten years of existence the enrollment has grown to exceed 6,500, with prospects that it will continue to attract countless students to its doors.

Virtually the entire program of the fourth annual Texas "Round-Up" will be devoted to exercises commemorative of the founding and development of the state's largest educational institution. The "Round-Up," sponsored by the ex-students' association, will be held April 28, 29 and 30.

Classes at the university first were held in an improvised class room building at the old temporary capitol. The faculty consisted of a president and 11 instructors.

Today the University of Texas campus spreads over more than 150 acres. The institution has under way the most ambitious building program in its history, and Texas-ites, returning to the campus after an absence of several years, might have difficulty exploring the place without a guide. New buildings have sprung up almost everywhere, overshadowing the older structures, and giving the campus an appearance of newness.

All of the buildings now under construction will be available for inspection by "Round-Up" time. They cost close to $4,000,000. In addition, the Littlefield memorial entrance to the university will have been completed. It cost approximately $250,000.

Freight Train Backs Up Twenty Miles For Sheep

SONORA, Dec. 23. (AP)—When a freight train, running on regular schedule, backs up 20 miles just to pick up eight cars of sheep, that's news. Time was when railroad schedules were not to be lightly tampered with, but times have changed in West Texas where sheep and cattle reign, and a delay of six hours in the schedule of a freight is less important than moving a shipment of live stock to destination.

When R. L. Hildreth, lamb buyer, failed to appear at the scheduled hour to load 2500 lambs, the train pulled out. A bit later he came in, told the Santa Fe agent here that the sheep had to go out. A wire conference with officials followed, and resulted in the return of the train from Eldorado, 20 miles up

Brass Railings Protect Famed Battle Scenes

AUSTIN, Dec. 23. (AP)—Workmen have been busy about the capitol getting it spick and span for the coming of the 43rd legislature which will gather on Austin Jan. 10.

The walls of the capitol corridors are being painted, the brass polished, and other minor improvements made to freshen up the interior of the big granite structure.

Massive chandeliers in the chambers of the house and the senate have been lowered so that workmen can go over them, replacing burned out bulbs, check the wiring and place a brilliant sheen on their brass surfaces. Going over the chandeliers is a considerable job in itself. The lights in the chandeliers are arranged so as to spell "Texas," one letter of the word being placed in each point of the Texas star.

Another brass railing has been installed in the senate, much to the amusement of those who observed the proceedings attending the installation of the first metal structure in the upper house. The first railing was installed several months ago in the form of a barrier around the seats of the senators.

Two additional brass structures have been erected to guard the valuable paintings hung in the senate chamber. One of the pictures details the fall of the Alamo and the other depicts the battle of San Jacinto.

The paintings cost the state lots of money and have attracted considerable attention from visitors. Attendants in the senate experienced some difficulty in keeping admiring visitors from touching the surface of the paintings. Hence the two new brass railings.

To protect the paintings, the state maintains an attendant in the senate chamber during all its open hours. The attendant usually is one versed in Texas history, and able to point out to visitors with a verisimilitude of reality, the incidents portrayed by the artist.

The management of a German airport has installed a flock of sheep to keep grass trimmed short at less expense than men could do it.

Texas' Capital Favorite Spot For Transients

By The Associated Press

Transients seeking work seldom are in too much of a hurry to get somewhere to stop and give the state capitol building a good inspection. They file in and out of the granite structure all day long, in and day out. Sunday is not an exception. Paet is, Sunday always brings a flood of visitors to the capitol. Persons drive here from long distances, bringing neighbors and friends, to see the place where their government is carried on. Many of them bring picnic lunches and spread them under the big trees in the spacious capitol grounds. Kodaks usually are brought into play and the visit to the capitol doubtless is recorded in pictures in family albums.

The warmth of the steam heat in the capitol on cold days attracts men and women tramping through the country. They may be seen standing in the rotundas thawing hands and feet.

Now and then some person who believes he needs an overcoat or wrap worse than the owner of such garments helps himself when watchmen are not looking, and a convenient office is vacant of employes for a few minutes.

West Panhandle People Promised A New Highway

HEREFORD, Dec. 23. (AP)—The extreme western tier of Panhandle counties has been promised a new highway, provided the counties interested will furnish a right-of-way 100 feet wide and grade it before turning it over to the state for maintenance.

The highway, 90 miles long, would run from Channing, in Hartley county by way of Vega and Hereford to Dimmitt, traversing four counties. It might later be extended by way of Littlefield to Lamesa.

The state highway commission has ordered designation of the road when, and if, its specifications have been met. Counties along the route already are seeking the right-of-way.

These counties, which until recent years have consisted largely of big ranches, have no north and south highway. At the present time, for instance, it is necessary for those traveling between Vega and Channing to go almost 100 miles by way of Amarillo. The new road would shorten the distance to about 40 miles.

W. O. "Gus" Gustingher has returned to the city to "study" at the local Western Union office.

Weighing only 2800 pounds, a complete fire engine that can travel at a speed of 50 miles an hour has been built by an Englishman.

Buying Barbara

by Julia Cleft-Addams • Author of "YOU CAN'T MARRY"

SYNOPSIS: Leila Cane expects Farrell Armitage to propose; instead he tells her he loves Barbara Quentin, whom he had snatched from the path of a truck a few hours before. Leila becomes ally rather than enemy; she tells Farrell that she suspects the means by which her father, Sir James Cane, became wealthy, after his two partners, Barbara's and Mark Lodely's fathers, died bankrupt. It seems to make good Farrell's fortune that Quentin and Lodely bankrupted themselves years before. Now the wealthy Farrell faces the fact that Barbara is engaged to marry the cripple, Mark Lodely, in five days. And Mark just has had a bad fall.

Chapter 8
LEILA MAKES A BARGAIN
 THERE came faintly through the house the sound of a door being opened and shut. Leila snatched up an emerald wrap.

"Let's become unavoidably engaged," she suggested, hurriedly unlatching a French window. "And you'd better leave tomorrow, don't you think? Father hasn't quite the stamina to relinquish the son-in-law of his prayers without making a grievance of it."

Armitage followed her into the garden. It lay dark and aromatic against its fringe of firs and the autumn chill—that last bitter-sweet breath of a following leaf and lead flower—stirred Leila's black hair and made play with her fantastic fringes.

"In any case," she threw at him as they turned in the direction of the garage, "I don't imagine that you'll want to stay on if it's true that Barbara and Mark are to marry on Thursday."

"But she mustn't marry Lodely on Thursday—or ever. I want her to marry me."

"Wanting her won't mean getting her!"

"I've generally got what I wanted, provided I've worked for it." "You're mad, my dear. Million-aires has turned your head. You've bought so much—so many emeralds for so many women—that you think you can buy Barbara."

"Going to help me?"

"She regarded him through the heavy shadows." "Do you feel sure you'll get your emerald's worth?"

"That's cheap and nasty of you, Leila. You know well enough why I'd like to give you something you care about."

She walked on. He had to keep close to her shoulder to hear her words.

"All right. I'll help you fail. Don't hate me afterwards, though. And don't forget the emerald."

"We've a good deal to be thankful for," pronounced Mrs. Lodely. "Apart from the shakin', Mark's none the worse. Exceptin' in his temper," she added, with the laugh so familiar to Barbara that it was the first thing she expected from Mark's mother.

Neither Barbara, in her chair by the fire, nor Mrs. Lodely, coming forward to bestride the hearth in her mannish way, were big women; but they gave the appearance of filling the sitting-room of Kings Barn. The reason lay in the room.

There were a great many small tables and large chairs in every corner and on every ledge stood bric-a-brac, and the over-flowered wall-paper was plastered with water-colors of no merit or interest whatsoever. When Mrs. Lodely moved an arm to take her cigarette-case out of her pocket, she did it gingerly. Even so, a china ornament on the mantel-shelf rattled and slipped dangerously near the edge.

Barbara smiled, but it was a dutiful smile. She had never—in all the years of her love and pity for Mark—she had never quite made up her mind about Mark's mother. Sometimes she liked her immensely. Sometimes—no, it was indefinable. Mrs. Lodely couldn't, after all, help her loud, frequent laugh and her eye, asting tweeds and the draw that had been "the thing" when she rode to hounds in her girlhood. She couldn't help these things—and on the other side of the medal, there was her unflinching courage in facing poverty and loneliness and Mark. . . .

"You'll come and stay with us in Toxeter as soon as ever you can?" she asked.

"You bet! My only chance of gettin' away from this hole! What about Christmas?"

"Oh, before then, Judy, please!"

"If I come at Christmas I shall only be givin' you a couple of months to yourselves. Short enough!"

"Why pretend that we shall be the average, conventional honey-mooners?" demanded Barbara, her irritation returning. "Our marriage—everything—is different from most marriages and our lives will have to be different, too." She paused. "I wonder if you both thoroughly realize that my job keeps me out all day, every day?"

"Course we do!" returned Mrs. Lodely heartily. "But Mark won't mope for his shabby old mother even if he is left alone at home. He'll make friends. Fill the house with 'em. You'll come back to find 'em all smokin' and drinkin' and talkin'—"

"We shan't be able to afford very much hospitality of that kind, Judy, dear. Not at first, anyway."

"My dear gel, Mark naturally won't sponge on you for things like smokes and drinks—he'll pay for 'em out of his own pocket."

"Oh, I know," agreed Barbara hurriedly.

"And in case of emergency, there's his legacy, the three hundred pounds from his Aunt Alice." She puffed out smoke again and laughed. "Funny to remember I once paid that for a fur coat!"

"Poor Judy!" At once Barbara was filled with the passion of pity that Mark and his mother could always arouse in her. "Dear Judy, life hasn't been fair to you!"

"Oh, my dear gel, I'm not complainin'! It's on you children that the pinchin' and scrapin' comes hard."

"On Mark, yes, very hard. I can manage perfectly. But you'll see, I'll take good care of Mark." She made a little grimace at the bric-a-brac. "Anyway, my room will be better than these. One advantage of not being able to afford much furniture!"

"Look here, Bab, if you don't mind my sayin' so—I believe Mark feels it a bit when you talk about 'my' rooms and 'my' income and all that. Of course, in theory, there's no earthly reason why a woman shouldn't make more money than a man and spend it on both of 'em, but the way things will be with you two, in an old cathedral city like Toxeter—well, any man would feel it. Especially if he's as sensitive as Mark. Mark'll feel it very badly."

Barbara looked down into the fire. No sense in arguing with Judy on such a subject as this. Instead—

"I must be more careful," she agreed lightly, and added—"I think I'll go up to him. It's only just nine and he never sleeps before midnight, does he?"

"Not often. But I don't know whether—he's in a wicked mood," concluded Mrs. Lodely, and this time her augh covered a distinct ill-case.

"Poor Mark!" said Barbara softly and left the room.

Mrs. Lodely listened to her footsteps on the stairs for a moment and then, pitching away her cigarette, sat down in the empty chair by the fire and took her close-cropped grey head into her hands. It was the attitude of despair, the pose of defeat.

But when she moved slightly and showed her eyes to the fire and the crowded room and the autumn evening outside, they were not the eyes of the conquered. They were absorbed, calculating, patient and, withal, fundamentally stupid.

"Once they're married—" she said aloud, checked herself with a cautious glance round her, and fell again into her reverie.

Barbara, on her way to Mark, turned aside into Judy's room to borrow some powder and run a comb through her hair. Also, to brace herself against the moment when Mark's mood should turn its cruelty upon her and exhaust itself upon her steadfastness. . . .

She stood in front of the long glass and seriously studied herself—face, figure, hands.

Her beauty was important to her because it was through her beauty that she reached Mark. He might be cruel, but to her his cruelty would always be the crying of the ailing child; she had other memories of him and while they ruled he held her life in his thin hands.

She left Judy's room, sighing a little, and went lightly across the landing. On this landing there was a settee with the springs bulging out, a grandfather clock that wouldn't go and a bamboo plant stand. Mark's room, however, was tolerably clear.

Mark, in pajamas and dressing-gown, was lying on a couch near the fire. Barbara quietly took a chair opposite him and then, fearing that the room was chilly, lifted a log from the basket and put it on. It was too thick for the small grate and fell with a clatter back on to the fire-irons.

Mark laughed.

Barbara meets tomorrow, a heartlessly sincere test.
