NOTICE—It is not the intention of this newspaper to cast reflection upon the character of anyone knowingly and if through error it should, the management will appreciate having attention called to same, and will gladly and fully correct any erroneous statement made.

WASHINGTON—It's a democrat of the old school who sits in that seat of the mighty—the chairmanship of the house way; and means committee—as congress approaches this ticklish proposition of increasing taxes. His name is James W. Collier. He hails from Vicksburg, Miss., and is one of the veterans of the house of representatives.

Collier's committee will consider all proposals advanced to increase the country's revenues. His post is one of the most powerful in congress. A cautious man who is thorough in everything he attempts, the Mississippian has centered his long career in congress around the ways and means committee.

Already Collier has had his baptism as chairman of this committee. And it was with one of the most important issues ever to come before the congress—the moratorium on war debts. True, passage of the moratorium was virtually assured from the start, but at the same time it had to be considered and passed in orderly fashion.

His speech in favor of the moratorium, which a majority of his committee had reported out favorably, was a rather tame affair. Not much opportunity was afforded to judge what might be expected of him in the way of leadership in the future when more controversial issues arise. A better estimate will be had as ways and means and congress roll on further into taxes and tariff.

Quiet Until democratic control of the house thrust him forward into such a position of prominence, Collier remained more or less in the background as far as his activity on the floor was concerned. By nature he is rather quiet. About the only time he forgets taxes, tariff and the like is when he takes down a fishing pole and tries his luck in streams around picturesque old Vicksburg.

NEW YORK—If you come here from the south, you must be prepared to have New Yorkers look at you dubiously whenever you do these things: Speak of a cold snap as a "norther." Say "pecan" without pronouncing the last syllable as if you were talking about a tin can. Tell of your appetite for grist and gravy. They know what gravy is, of course, but you won't see grist put on a table here, either in a home or restaurant.

A news story says Shanghai lies in about the same latitude as Mobile, Ala., but its climate is more like that of Washington, D. C. If it had Congress' hot air, it probably would be lots warmer.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS THINK

PERISHABLE

This age is placing its mark in the perishable sands. Unless better preserving methods are evolved the bulk of the printed matter of our times will have crumbled to dust within 10 decades even with the best of care.

It is a paradox of this age of mechanical, chemical, and scientific miracles that it is not leaving an imperishable record of its achievements except that which will be found in those few newspapers, magazines and books that are being printed on rag paper with that in mind.

The New York Public Library estimates that with one or two exceptions its 1932 newspaper files will disintegrate so rapidly that they will not be fit for handling in 2032. That the unhappy prospect is not limited to the United States alone is indicated by word from the British Museum Library that its files of a London Journal of 50 years is already useless.

Even while modernity laments the inability of antiquity to leave behind a more complete record it is making no better guarantee for posterity. Is this civilization to go to great lengths in solving the mysteries of the past and then leave new riddles for succeeding civilizations to answer?

This civilization is rightfully proud of its masterpiece, mass production at low cost. Civilizations to come may have reason to curse it as the creator of the cheap and perishable. —TIMES-DEMOCRAT, Altus.

HOW TO BE HAPPY, THOUGH MARRIED

A good friend of the Index hands the Index man the following, which we consider a good recipe for "being happy, though married."

When you marry him, love him. After you marry him, study him. If he is secretive, trust him. If he is sad, cheer him. When he is talkative, listen to him. When he is quarrelsome, ignore him. If he is jealous, cure him. If he cares naught for pleasure, coax him. If he favors society, accompany him. When he deserves it, kiss him. Let him think how well you understand him. But never let him know that you manage him.

When you marry her, love her. After you marry her, study her. When she is blue, cheer her. When she is talkative, listen to her. If she dresses well, compliment her. When she is cross, humor her. If she does you a favor, kiss her. When she is jealous, cure her. If dinner is cold, eat it, not her. When she looks pretty, tell her so. Let her feel how well you understand her. But NEVER let her know she isn't boss.

Now, of course, that all appears to be pretty good advice for both husband and wife, but even household "constitutions" sometimes need amendments to them. The Index man suggests that the following amendments be adopted. When she "tunes in," give her the "air," because in the very beginning, God took a rib out of Adam's side and made him a loud speaker. If she is unusually talkative, don't talk back—an echo is the only thing that has ever got the last word off a woman.

When you marry her, love her. After you marry her, study her. When she is blue, cheer her. When she is talkative, listen to her. If she dresses well, compliment her. When she is cross, humor her. If she does you a favor, kiss her. When she is jealous, cure her. If dinner is cold, eat it, not her. When she looks pretty, tell her so. Let her feel how well you understand her. But NEVER let her know she isn't boss.

Would you say that the hoarders' money was about to get socked?

U. S. taxpayers spent $4,000 last year to record the Indian sign language, a news item says. They ought to spend about that much more and teach it to congressmen.

A headline says "U. S. to Oppose New Jap Plan." Well turn about's fair play.

A survey conducted by a Chicago department store reveals that 39 per cent of the husbands help their wives with the dishes. The other 61 per cent must have been pre-variators.

Not Scared Dallam county, not scared of any depression, has voted $380,000 in road paving bonds by the large majority of 4 to 1. That is good news for Pampans who travel that way to Red river and beyond to fish or take trips to the mountains.

Wheeler Grade Open About 27 miles east of Pampa, on highway 41 (E2) a broad graded and drained dirt road bed is found extending from the Gray county line to Wheeler. This will receive a topping of caliche and asphalt this year. Gray county will let, about April 1, contract to grade and drain highway 33 eastward toward Miami. Gap by gap, this section is providing good roads for tourists and residents. The value of these highways will be increasingly apparent.

Too Partizan Republicans, party-minded always, made much of Lincoln's birthday. Despite Lincoln's part in the history of that party, it is to be regretted that memory of that great American should be so tinged with partisanship. Lincoln rose above party and was the living today he would provide a type of leadership the party now needs. The country would like to remember him without hearing boasts about his political alignment.

Remember the Contest Pampa Lions will soon announce their annual yard and lawn beautification contest. This should be a stimulus to those who are planning to plant roses, shrubs, and to develop lawns. Plan now to enter the contest. One need not spend a large sum to win. Simple excellence of lawns and flowers is in good taste always.

Staggering Did you know that nine out of ten accidents which in 1931 caused the death of 34,400 persons in the United States and injury of nearly a million others resulted from human errors of drivers and pedestrians? No longer can we place the blame on faulty machinery.

Stop—Think! In the five years ending in 1931 automobile accidents cost $2,132,732 deaths in this country. Have you ever stopped to consider that an automobile traveling at 60 miles per hour has the same capacity for inflicting damage that the same automobile would have if it were driven off a ten-story building 120 feet high? Remember the risk, and drive carefully at whatever speed you are traveling.

We don't know exactly why, but never have we looked toward spring and summer with more pleasure. Perhaps it is because we are becoming sports-minded, and talk of a series of city tournaments has whetted our interest. Friends of politicians everywhere are urging the "politico" ones to run for office. Proving that one needs more protection from his friends than from his enemies. Most columnists rest by omitting contributions to the Sunday editions. We don't because these little words are chores, and we got the habit of doing the chores while very young. And there's an Amarillo columnist who writes only on Sunday.

Lubbock, with talk of atheism at Tech, can forget the war for at least a few hours daily. But we predict the war will last the longer. Rudy Valle must not be that imagined here with whom any girl would live in utmost bliss forever and forever. At any rate, we read of how his wife often becomes homesick and goes back to California for a change. There are hundreds of wild horses in Arkansas. Seeing so many gas-line buggies replacing Old Dobbin is enough to make them wild.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE BY KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN. Illustration of a woman. © 1931, by Doubleday, Doran and Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY ANN and CECILY FENWICK have ten years between themselves, their younger sister, MARY-FRANCES, and their grandmothers, known as "GRAND-MA LIZ" and "GRAND-MA ANNE." Because of this unusual responsibility, Ann, who is 28, is the one who looks after the three boys, young lawyer to whom she has been engaged for eight years.

Ann and Cecil went to the wedding of Earl DeArmont, vandyette actor whom she has met without the knowledge of her sister. He urges her to leave home and become his single partner. Ann and Cecil wonder when she bears LITTY KING, who works in Phil's office building, address him with endearments. Ann tries to forget Phil by going about with KENNETH SMITH, rich and attractive.

MRS. HILL was sitting in a wicker chair on the front porch reading the evening paper. Ermintrude was on the steps with a book in her lap. Mr. Hill and Uncle Chaney were in the yard bending over the lawn mower, which was turned upside down between them. The four persons, and the green lawn, and the white house, and the pink rose hedge composed neatly into an attractive picture of suburban home life. Nothing seemed lacking.

worry. We'll tear the place down, if necessary. Mr. Hill is right about keeping it quiet, though." "But suppose," Ann said, again, to Mr. Hill, "that they didn't go to Bluemount. Suppose he said that just to mislead us?" "In that case, I suppose we'll have to go to the police. Goah knows what good they'll do. Perhaps I'll be able to think of someone who has influence enough to keep it out of the papers, if we do have to go to the police."

Ann took Ermintrude by the shoulders and shook her, not hard but back and forth. "No, no, no, no. She couldn't. She's a baby. She couldn't. Why do you say such a thing? No, no—" Mrs. Hill went down the steps and put an arm around Ann. "Don't, dear," she said. "Joe," she called, across the lawn. "Joe—come here. Joe. Come. Come quickly—Joe."

Joe came bounding. He expected to put out the fire, to grab the murderer and robber, and to rescue his wife and his daughter. In 17 years of married life only once before had he heard Trudie's voice go insane. "Then—you don't believe they will be at Bluemount?" "I hope so with all my heart. But, remember this, Miss Fenwick, sooner or later we'll find her. I'm not a rich man, but every cent I can rake and scrape will go into this—if it needs to. Yes, yes, indeed, I am responsible. I am deeply responsible. Trudie and I rearer Ermintrude—" "No, Mr. Hill. For that matter, so have we rearer Mary-Frances." "You are nothing but girls yourselves—busy girls away from home all day. And your grand-children are—well, that is to say, they are very old."

ON her way home, in Mr. Hill's car, Ann listened to him telling her again that if Mary-Frances and that dirty cur were at Bluemount there would be no damage done as long as they managed to keep it out of the papers. If her sister Cecily and her friend found the child at Bluemount, he did hope they would follow his advice and simply bring her home and let the man go. It would be the only way to avoid publicity, and publicity must be avoided. She said, "Yes, Mr. Hill. Barry and Cecily thought so, too," and listened to what Ermintrude said a few minutes before. "No, they weren't going to get married for a while. He couldn't, on account of his father's will. I don't know. Several months she said. They were just going on their honeymoon and then on the stage. I guess it will be all right. Mary-Frances really loved him, mother. She really loved him, deeply and truly."

"Be still with that, Ermintrude, will you? Answer daddy, now. Is that all you know about where they were going? Positively everything? Stop crying and answer me. Bluemount tonight? You are sure of that?" Cecily's voice, stricken, over the telephone. "Barry's just come. We'll start at once. Three hours' head start. Dear Lord, Ann!" For an instant, Barry's voice. "We'll find them, Ann. Don't

AN OPEN STATEMENT

That the general public may know the correct state of affairs concerning the McKean Clinic and that the right information be given out, we are making this following statement which will be found to contain the true facts in the case.

The McKean Clinic has been dissolved by mutual consent of the four members forming the organization and will cease functioning at midnight on February 14th, 1932. The four members composing the former organization are: Dr. R. M. Bellamy, Dr. C. D. Hunter, Dr. J. C. McKean and Dr. H. L. Wilder.

Drs. Bellamy, Hunter and Wilder have made arrangements with the owner of the Worley hospital to maintain their offices in the Worley hospital building until they are able to secure suitable office space elsewhere. Their patients will find them in their former places and ask that they be located there as in the past.

The accounts of the McKean Clinic will be found in their former location for those who wish to make payments as in the past. All accounts due from the McKean Clinic will be presented through the usual channels for payment.

This statement is made that our patrons may not be misinformed and that they know the true state of affairs now existant as regards the McKean Clinic and the Worley Hospital.

ROOSEVELT TO ASK PLEDGES

Candidate Will Fight All Leaders Who Attempt to Block Moves. ALEANY, N. Y. (AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose presidential aspirations now stand at the center of a furiously-developing democratic controversy, said today that the rank and file of the party, and not a process of "trade and barter" by a handful of leaders, should determine who is to be the nominee.

Discussing directly the hotly-disputed question whether instructed or uninstructed delegates should be sent to the convention, the governor said the proposal to avoid prior pledges to candidates would "nullify and destroy" a fundamental principle of the party.

He did not directly mention his own candidacy, now facing in many states the challenge of an opposition which argues it would be unwise to foreclose the nomination in advance. He referred by name to only one of those who have presented such a view—Joseph Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee.

Hurley Stalks Out in Huff at Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Senators assumed the role of peace negotiators today to bring Secretary Hurley and Senator King (D. Utah), together after a turbulent clash on Philippine independence. Stalking out of the committee room asserting he would not stay to be "called a liar," the war department head broke up a senate hearing on the question after a dramatic battle of words with King. Later in the day when other senators brought them together at the office of Chairman Bingham, (R. Conn.), both Hurley and King agreed to withdraw any statements impugning the integrity of the other.

STOCKS

1930, when 4,867,530 shares were traded in a swiftly declining market. Trading was at the pace of 6,500,000 shares for a full five-hour session. The ticker fell a few minutes in arrears at times. Commodities and bonds also moved forward, although more modestly. Several bonds gained $10 to $60 per bond of $1,000 face value. Wheat futures advanced about two points a bushel, and cotton, 60 to 80 cents a bale.

END OF "LAME" DUCK SESSIONS SEEMS LIKELY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—A measure to abolish the "lame duck" sessions of congress today sped down the legislative road without the hobble that has kept it wandering from the senate to the house and back again nearly a decade. The house reached the point of a vote on the proposed constitutional amendment, already adopted by the senate and then postponed further action until Tuesday. Sponsors of the legislation are confident they will be able to muster the necessary two-thirds majority for passage.

TIMMONS FOR GARNER SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 13. (AP)—B. N. Timmons, Washington newspaper correspondent and president of the Capitol Press club, today was appointed by Mayor C. Chambers here as national publicity chairman of the Garner-for-president movement.

State sentiment is expected to be crystallized at the Garner-for-president rally to be held at the municipal auditorium Feb. 22, when state leaders and party members will gather. THE STATE OF TEXAS To the Sheriff or any Constable of Gray County—Greeting: YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon L. H. Reynolds, Harvey Reynolds, Nancy Reynolds, Jimmie Reynolds, and Lloyd H. Reynolds, and the unknown heirs and legal representatives of Anna F. Reynolds, as Defendants, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows: Plaintiff sues on two certain promissory notes executed by defendant, L. H. Reynolds, payable to the order of Otto C. Rice, each in the principal sum of $1250.00, each providing for vendor's lien on the property hereinafter described, numbered three and four respectively, due in their numerical order on September 12, 1929, and September 12, 1930 respectively, each providing for 7 per cent interest before maturity, and 10 per cent interest after maturity, each providing for 10 per cent attorney's fees.

Plaintiff further alleges that on May 19, 1928, the defendant, L. H. Reynolds and his wife, Anna F. Reynolds, executed, acknowledged and delivered to the Stuckey Construction Company a contract lien against the property above described for paving the street abutting said property, to secure the payment of $416.25, that said indebtedness and the lien securing the same have been duly assigned to plaintiff; that said sum was payable in five annual installments of $83.25 each, on the 6th day of October, 1928, and on or before the 6th day of September, of the years 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932, the said indebtedness providing for interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from September 6, 1928, and further provided that in the event of failure to pay any installment when due the balance might be declared due and payable at once; that installments 1, 2 and 3, are duly paid; that the installment maturing September 6, 1931, was not paid; that plaintiff being the owner and holder of said indebtedness declared all the balance due and payable. Said contract lien provided that in the event that same was placed in the hands of attorneys for collection a reasonable attorney's fee might be added. Plaintiff alleges that he has placed said lien in the hands of attorneys for collection and contracted and agreed to pay his attorneys the 10 per cent attorney's fees provided for in said note; that on the date of filing plaintiff's petition there was due principal, interest and attorney's fees the sum of $343.92.

Plaintiff further alleges that on May 19, 1928, the defendant, L. H. Reynolds and his wife, Anna F. Reynolds, executed, acknowledged and delivered to the Stuckey Construction Company a contract lien against the property above described for paving the street abutting said property, to secure the payment of $416.25, that said indebtedness and the lien securing the same have been duly assigned to plaintiff; that said sum was payable in five annual installments of $83.25 each, on the 6th day of October, 1928, and on or before the 6th day of September, of the years 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932, the said indebtedness providing for interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from September 6, 1928, and further provided that in the event of failure to pay any installment when due the balance might be declared due and payable at once; that installments 1, 2 and 3, are duly paid; that the installment maturing September 6, 1931, was not paid; that plaintiff being the owner and holder of said indebtedness declared all the balance due and payable. Said contract lien provided that in the event that same was placed in the hands of attorneys for collection a reasonable attorney's fee might be added. Plaintiff alleges that he has placed said lien in the hands of attorneys for collection and contracted and agreed to pay his attorneys the 10 per cent attorney's fees provided for in said note; that on the date of filing plaintiff's petition there was due principal, interest and attorney's fees the sum of $343.92.

Plaintiff alleges that he has placed said lien in the hands of attorneys for collection and contracted and agreed to pay his attorneys the 10 per cent attorney's fees provided for in said note; that on the date of filing plaintiff's petition there was due principal, interest and attorney's fees the sum of $343.92.

Plaintiff further alleges that on May 19, 1928, the defendant, L. H. Reynolds and his wife, Anna F. Reynolds, executed, acknowledged and delivered to the Stuckey Construction Company a contract lien against the property above described for paving the street abutting said property, to secure the payment of $416.25, that said indebtedness and the lien securing the same have been duly assigned to plaintiff; that said sum was payable in five annual installments of $83.25 each, on the 6th day of October, 1928, and on or before the 6th day of September, of the years 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932, the said indebtedness providing for interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from September 6, 1928, and further provided that in the event of failure to pay any installment when due the balance might be declared due and payable at once; that installments 1, 2 and 3, are duly paid; that the installment maturing September 6, 1931, was not paid; that plaintiff being the owner and holder of said indebtedness declared all the balance due and payable. Said contract lien provided that in the event that same was placed in the hands of attorneys for collection a reasonable attorney's fee might be added. Plaintiff alleges that he has placed said lien in the hands of attorneys for collection and contracted and agreed to pay his attorneys the 10 per cent attorney's fees provided for in said note; that on the date of filing plaintiff's petition there was due principal, interest and attorney's fees the sum of $343.92.

Club Will Enter Calves At Show

Gray county will be represented at the Amarillo livestock show by 10 fat calves which will be entered by members of the 4-H club, according to Ralph R. Thomas, county agent. Entrants will be John Mackie and Everett Vanderburg, Hopkins; Joe Waggoner, Betty and Jim Farley, Groom; Wilbur Lee, Billy and Andrew Wilson, McLean.

Last year, both Betty and Jim Farley won prizes on their fat calves at the livestock show. The Gray county herd will include three seniors and the rest juniors. Betty's Sunshine and Jim's Donald the Fifth have already been entered in the Fort Worth livestock show. The two calves are from the Alexander ranch at Canadian. Mr. Thomas said the calves are in good condition, and look good as Gray county's entries looked this time last year. He is expecting the calves to break into the money in a big way. A vocational and 4-H baby beef show will be held at McLean next Saturday. It is in charge of Jake Hess of the Sitter ranch and A. A. Tampeke of McLean, vocational agriculture teacher. About three calves will be entered from Collingsworth county, and the rest from Gray county.

Much Terracing From January 1 until yesterday, County Agent Ralph R. Thomas had run terrace lines for over 1,200 acres. Supervising terracing has formed the greater part of his activities this year, although he spent a number of days directing meat cutting and canning demonstrations. Most of the terracing was done in the Eldridge and Laketon communities.

Negro Confesses To Slaying of Child

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13. (AP)—Police announced tonight that Willy Brown, 16-year-old negro, has confessed he strangled 7-year-old Dorothy Lutz and then attacked her. The child's body was found last Monday in a second story bedroom of a vacant house at 1021 North Americk street, 10 doors from her home. She had been missing five days. Brown was arrested yesterday, police revealed, two days after he disappeared from his home. He lived in the rear of the house in which the Lutz child's body was found and had been under surveillance. His confession came, police said, after he had been subjected to hours of questioning by Superintendent of Police Joseph Le Strange and Detective Captain Harry Heanley.
