President Hindenburg Turns Back Hitler's Bid For Dictatorship

CRISIS LOOMS AS NAZI MOVE IS CONSIDERED

FIERY LEADER REFUSES TO BE PREMIER OF PRUSSIA

ASKS COMPLETE POWER COUNTRY FEARS FORCE MAY BE RESORT OF FACTION

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER, Associated Press Correspondent.
BERLIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—The towering figure of Germany's "grand old man," President Paul von Hindenburg, again blocked today a seizure of power attempted by the meteorically rising chief of the national socialists, Adolf Hitler.

Hitler had been offered the post of vice chancellor, a post which would be created especially for him and would include the office of Premier of Prussia, which has been vacant since the national government imposed a virtual dictatorship in Prussia.

Hitler refused that. Chancellor von Papen next offered cabinet posts to some of Hitler's lieutenants. Hitler refused that.

To Hitler's claim that his party's size entitled him to exclusive power—in other words, the right to erect a Fascist dictatorship—President Hindenburg then posed his duty to his conscience and to the fatherland to govern Germany impartially and not in the interests of one movement, however large and formidable.

Having failed in a plea to Hitler to make good pre-election promises to support the presidential government, the aging von Hindenburg ended his historic audience with fatherly words of admonition, and left no time in assuring Chancellor von Papen that he backed him, to the full in the days ahead, during

PAMPA NEGRO NAME LIST IS STRANGE ONE

Most persons have nicknames which are more or less ornamental, not obscuring their real names by which their banker knows them. But the negro—he is otherwise, with cognomens short and expressive. Often not even his associates know his real name.

And the negro has some strange nicknames, as Constable Frank Jordan can prove. Frank is a southern name, and he was one and he knows his negro by long study. He also knows a large number of "outside" negroes, and through the constable many negro characters have been captured here and held for other officers.

Frank was heard talking about the nicknames of some of Pampa's negroes. He said that he had known most of them for years and did not know their given names.

MANY FAMILIES MOVE OUT OF FLIMSYS BUILDINGS

HOUSTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—High winds, presumably from the skirts of a tropical gale blowing in from the southeast struck Houston and Galveston tonight. Early checks indicated none had been injured.

Julius Jockusch, city editor of the Galveston NEWS, told the Associated Press over the long distance telephone that a check of police had disclosed none injured in the city. He said the maximum velocity of the wind in Galveston had been fifty miles an hour and that there was no water standing in the city.

In Houston, however, the velocity was increasing, it being 72 miles an hour at 9:52 p. m. The barometer stood at 29.54, as against an approximate normal of 29.95, and it was apparent the worst of the storm had not passed here.

The Houston electric company had announced here upon the arrival of a three car interurban from Galveston, that that train was the last permitted to leave there.

PANHANDLE, Aug. 13 (SP)—A slash of nearly 50 per cent in county expenditures has been recommended by the Carson County Taxpayers' league. County Judge Frank Elston said he would recommend the proposed budget to the commissioners' court.

The government is known to be very exacting in regard to its specifications. Photographs must be taken at various stages of the work, and any detail which fail to meet approval of the federal supervising architect mean re-doing of that particular part of the construction.

An old feud will be renewed at Magnolia park at 3 o'clock this afternoon when the Phillips 66 team of Borger and the Phillips 66 team of the South Pampa field meet in a charity game.

Squires, former Amarillo slugger, is also a member of the famous Alamo team.

Magnolia diamond has been placed in good condition for the game. The infield is one of the fastest in these parts. An added attraction will be a band concert before and after the game by the Pampa American Legion.

More than 300 tickets had been sold last night and reports had been received from other salesmen. The game will be first played here in several weeks. Several members of the local team will be among members of the team that will be entered in the Borger HERALD tournament which opens Saturday afternoon.

Although Gray county voters in the recent primary election cast 2,436 votes for re-submission of the prohibition question and 871 votes against it, the county through its history has been predominately dry.

AMARILLO, Aug. 13 (AP)—Henry Ansley, who was said to have known personally more men and women of West Texas than any other person, was mourned today in Amarillo and the Panhandle-Plains region.

Ansley, 35, a member of the Amarillo News-Globe staff, died early this morning at a hospital here of injuries sustained in an automobile accident 4 miles north of Tulia about midnight Friday night. The car in which he was riding, and which was being driven by Roy Cullum, Amarillo automobile dealer, plunged into a ditch at a one-way bridge when Cullum was blinded by the light of an oncoming truck. Cullum was injured slightly.

The two men were returning from a swing through several south plain towns where Ansley had spoken at rallies for the candidacy of Gov. Ross Sterling.

MORE WORK THAN USUAL has been available lately because of harvest, but this fact should not blind the citizenship to the relief problem which must be faced next fall and winter.

Community Project. The largest and most urgent community project of the winter should and will be unemployment relief.

1. Providing jobs for those who can work and deserve work. 2. Weeding out the undeserving and unworthy. 3. Caring for and feeding those who are sick.

Funds Very Short. The Welfare Board has only about $900, the Red Cross $293, the Salvation Army none.

City and County. Both the city and county have assisted during the last year. We believe both should assume a large share of the burden during the coming year.

Problem Not Denied. The general fund of the county is strictly limited by law as to the source of its revenue, yet year after year new offices and services have been added.

Popular Pessimism. Two years ago the calamity howlers predicted Sterling would be badly defeated. He wasn't. Now the pessimists see an enormous beating for him.

And Hoover Too. Other pessimists predict the re-election of Herbert Hoover. They may be right—and probably would if the upturn had enough time before election.

HENRY'S TYPEWRITER IS STILL

Cut down by the inexorable hand of fate at the height of his powers, Henry Ansley goes to the great Managing Editor of the universe while thousands who had felt his cordial handclasp and read his cheering writings mourn his passing.

Like a benediction, his first book, "I Like the Depression", lives to memorialize his unique personality and, we trust, endow his little family.

Henry's little book reveals the New Ansley—a little mellowed by the depression, a little more serious in spite of the humorous slant with which he viewed everything.

Henry was always as welcome in the Pampa Daily NEWS as the sunshine. He used our typewriters, he borrowed our "copy", he exchanged ideas and facts until the whole story of every event was common property.

The depression no one expected follows his unhappy passing. West Texas will miss Henry a long time.

Too Long Entrenched. On Friday Marvin Jones, our congressman, sat down with this writer to discuss national politics and economics. It is Marvin's observation, based on long service in the House, that entrenched privilege must be rooted out of governmental high places before any lasting relief can be obtained.

Roots of Government. The roots, the very foundation of this government, the congressman pointed out, are not in Wall street, but in the small businesses—the farms, the corner groceries, and modest occupations.

A Young Man Does It. "How do you answer the statement by merchants that it is useless to advertise because the people have no money to spend?" This question was propounded to one of New Mexico's youngest publishers, Gilmore Nunn of the Roswell Morning Dispatch.

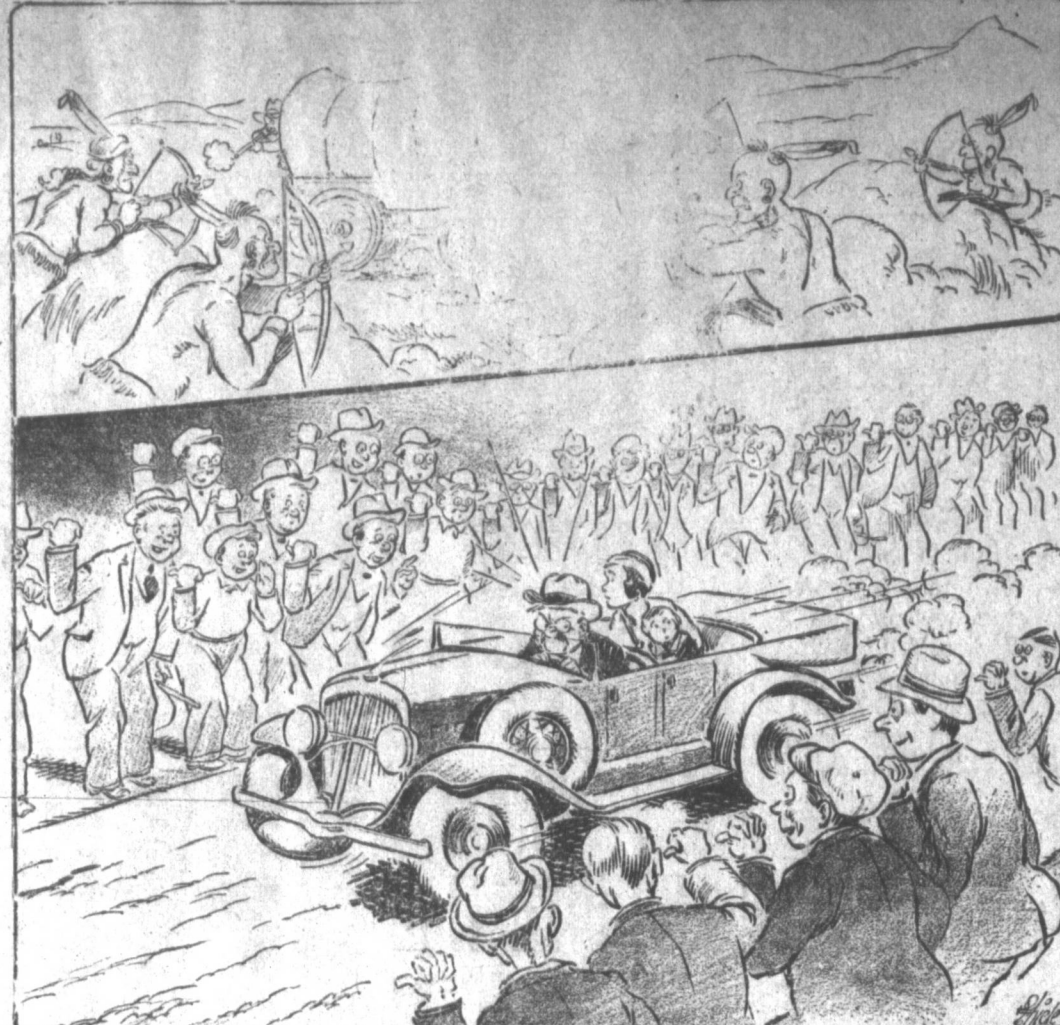

Continuing the discussion the Roswell publisher said that in order to maintain volume and regularity in advertising these days it is necessary to make the ads as interesting as real news.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE. All prospect of a plain, old-fashioned, out-and-out swapping of opinions between the presidential nominees, in language the average voter can understand, is fading as the preliminary outlines of the campaign take form.

Of course the case will not be entirely hopeless. It will be possible to figure out certain definite points of disagreement, if sufficient patience is applied to the task.

It can be done in some instances by taking what Mr. Hoover has said at a given time and place and putting it alongside what Mr. Roosevelt has said at another time and place and then figuring out whether they really are talking about the same thing.

But there seems no possibility that Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt will talk back and forth and develop a thread of argument and discussion which the voter can seize easily and confidently.

How It Will Be. Enough now is known to forecast that the discussion (if it can be called that) will follow a course like this: President Hoover, having presented his personal program in his acceptance speech, will go in for a period of political silence.

Governor Roosevelt, when he speaks at Columbus August 20, will attack the Hoover program, but he will get no direct reply from the White House because Mr. Hoover does not consider it good policy to become involved in a partisan dispute.

The governor then will throw out some ideas of his own. He will be attacked, in turn, but not by Mr. Hoover. He will not reply to these attacks, because he does not consider it good policy to become involved in a partisan dispute with anyone but his proper opponent.

Meantime down in the lower reaches of the two parties there will be a perfect babel of dispute, with Congressman Whist calling Mr. Hoover a fraud and failure and Senator Whatist accusing Mr. Roosevelt of about everything in the calendar, but with nobody directly joining the issue with anybody else.

Obscured in Fog. Meantime what happens in the mind of the voter: (a) prohibition, for instance. Having treated the subject in his acceptance speech, Mr. Hoover is expected to say little or nothing more about it.

Smith Wanted to Debate. Four years ago, Mr. Hoover followed the same course, never referring to his opponent, Mr. Smith. The latter, insisting that someone debate with him, finally began replying to the campaign speeches of Senator Borah.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYLES

SYNOPSIS: Too late, Sondra had realized she loved John Anderson. She has secretly married Mark Merriman, who now is returning home, ill, from the Congo. When Anderson proposes to her, she tells him of her marriage. He tells her she must be loyal to Mark, who needs her now.

Chapter 30

WAITING

"Am I mad or just utterly had and fickle?" Sondra wondered hopelessly. "Only a little while ago I felt like this when Mark went away... no—not like this—I wasn't anything like this. I was sorry... sad... but it didn't feel like the end of the world—as this does."

And Anderson believed that when she saw Mark again all would be well.

It made her want to laugh, and it made her long to weep.

She could hear him talking to Ellen, and presently he came back and stood beside her.

"Good-bye, Sondra—"

She raised her eyes to his face. "Good-bye—"

Her hands were resting on the table behind her and she did not offer to move them.

A little quiver of emotion crossed his face.

"Do you think Mark will be very ill? Oughtn't we to have brought a doctor? How shall we get him home?"

"I want you to be happy—that's all that matters," she said.

"Thank you," she laughed—it seemed so strange that he should wish her happiness when he was taking it from her.

"Won't you shake hands with me, Sondra?"

She drew a hard breath. "No," she said.

He squared his shoulders as if to rid them of some heavy burden.

"Good-bye then—if ever I can do anything for you—"

"There is only one thing you can do," she broke in harshly.

"What is that?" he asked.

Her unhappy eyes met his with a defiant challenge.

"Love me," she said.

"I shall always do that," he answered.

Her lips quivered with bitter jealousy.

"You say that, and you'll still go about with... with the Symons girl, and let people think you are going to marry her."

"What people think does not trouble me. But I am not stealing another man's wife."

"Oh you saint, you saint!" she mocked him, then suddenly the tears were running down her face. "I suppose even you have made mistakes in your life?" she sobbed.

"My dear, I've made more than I can remember, but I've had to stand by them."

"I'm not made that way. I hate having to suffer. I can't see any sense in it... life's so short."

He drew a quick harsh breath—

"Sondra, if only you'd told me this sooner... if only you'd been honest with me."

"I'm honest now, but it's no use."

He passed a hand across his eyes—

"Good-bye, Sondra—"

He waited a moment, but she made no reply, and so he left her.

How it rained! Sondra stood on the pier staring out over the water. A little distance away John Anderson and Mark's mother stood talking together. Sondra had wandered

Marconi Boasts Radio Discovery

ROME, Aug. 13 (AP)—Guglielmo Marconi has made another advance in the science of radio communication, he disclosed today, by "bending" ultra-short radio waves which heretofore he had been unable to transmit through obstacles.

From his yacht Electra in the Gulf of Aranci, he sent a message to his lifelong collaborator, Marchese Luigi Solari, announcing that he had sent messages on 87 centimeter waves from Poca di Papa to Capo Figari in Sardinia, a distance of 270 kilometers. He used portable reflectors, communicating clearly both by radio telegraph and radio telephone.

Today's discovery permits transmission on ultra short waves in such a manner as to overcome the earth's curvature. This, said Senator Marconi, is proof that the

British Trade Conference And Submarine Rescue Work Shown In Daily NEWS Newsreel Here

AQUATIC STARS "JUST FRIENDS"

Impressive scenes at the opening of the British Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa were shown in the current issue of the Pampa Daily NEWS-Universal Newsreel. With traditional pomp and ceremony, delegates from all parts of the British Empire assemble at the towering Canadian Parliament Building. The stirring events were described vividly by Graham McNamee, ace radio announcer and the screen's Talking Reporter, at the La Nora theater.

Lord Bessborough, governor general of Canada, opened the congress in the great Parliament Hall, and while leading statesmen from each British dominion and commonwealth stood reverently, he read the King's message in ringing words. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, former British Premier, as the head of the delegation from England, is introduced by Premier Bennett of Canada, and outlined in forceful periods, England's hope for a way out of the world's economic morass. He evoked great enthusiasm on the part of the assembled conferees when he challenged the world to co-operate with Great Britain to this end.

Many other important and interesting events were reported by McNamee in this newsreel. The tense scenes at Marseilles, Ill. following the labor-war and pitched battle between union and non-union workers at the big dam under construction near here, are ominous in their importance. One man is dead and a score wounded.

At Point Loma, Cal., the navy submarine safety test unit demonstrated a striking marvel—the submarine rescue chamber—a new diving bell by which U. S. sailors are easily "saved" from the submarine S-4, at rest under 60 feet of water. A new idea in aviation also was reported by McNamee: a trick plane resembling a potato bug invented by a former war flier and University of Kansas professor. It is a tandem plane pusher, and is highly successful. Another novelty was an old auto, mounted on oil-drum pontoons and fitted with a propeller, by several ingenious Boston boys for cruising in the Charles River Basin. The newsreel also contained the Lumberjack's Olympia, a world's championship "rollo" contest at Longview, Wash., with sensational tree-climbing, log jelling, tree-topping and log bucking.

Oil Worker Killed — Elderly Man Held

DALLAS, Aug. 13 (AP)—John H. Pierce, 34-year-old oil field worker from Waxahatchie, was shot to death today by a man who awakened him as he sat napping in a chair in the lobby of a small hotel.

W. K. Hamilton, 74, who also lived at the hotel, was arrested and charged with murder.

C. C. Horton, a painter, was sitting beside Pierce when the latter was awakened and shot. He said Pierce was shot once as he rose when awakened and two more shots were fired as he ran. Horton said he was so close to Pierce that the powder from the first shot burned hair on his arm.

Pierce had not been working recently, having received minor injuries in an oil field accident.

SPOKANE INVESTMENT BANKER TURNS CLOWN EVERY SEASON

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 13 (AP)—It's circus time in the Northwest again, an investment banker here is worrying along without Harper Joy, the vice-president. He's out clowning again.

But it happens every year, sometimes twice or three times a summer, and each time he comes back to his desk and picks up with stocks and bonds and such where he left them.

About the time the first advance agents for a circus starts plastering the countryside with "24-sheets" advertising their show, Joy begins to fret. He gets out a chest full of bizarre clown costumes, tries each on and frets some more, so his wife says.

By the time the show reaches town his lifelong ambition to be a clown triumphs over things like building up a fortune for Mrs. Joy and three young joys. Sometimes he holds off until after the show plays here, and catches it in the next town, as he did this year. But he usually joins in for a week or two.

So, while his colleagues in the office were being harassed expecting technical reactions and drives by the bulls and bears, their vice-

SPOKANE INVESTMENT BANKER TURNS CLOWN EVERY SEASON

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 13 (AP)—It's circus time in the Northwest again, an investment banker here is worrying along without Harper Joy, the vice-president. He's out clowning again.

But it happens every year, sometimes twice or three times a summer, and each time he comes back to his desk and picks up with stocks and bonds and such where he left them.

About the time the first advance agents for a circus starts plastering the countryside with "24-sheets" advertising their show, Joy begins to fret. He gets out a chest full of bizarre clown costumes, tries each on and frets some more, so his wife says.

By the time the show reaches town his lifelong ambition to be a clown triumphs over things like building up a fortune for Mrs. Joy and three young joys. Sometimes he holds off until after the show plays here, and catches it in the next town, as he did this year. But he usually joins in for a week or two.

So, while his colleagues in the office were being harassed expecting technical reactions and drives by the bulls and bears, their vice-

Bancroft Lived Eventfully When He Quit School

George Bancroft got his forte for stalwart bluster by deserting his books when in his teens and adventuring forth from his native Philadelphia to join the navy.

Bancroft liked the red-blooded sailor's life—and stuck, through the Spanish-American war, the Philippine Rebellion, and the Boxer Rebellion. Off-hours from duty he organized minstrel shows among his fellow gobs. A volunteer dive under the hull of the battleship Oregon in Pekin, China, got him an appointment to Annapolis. But Bancroft yearned to continue his stage activities—and left the Naval academy for Broadway, where he gained recognition in vaudeville and in such plays as "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "Paid in Full" and "Old Bill, M. P."

Broadway led to Hollywood. Bancroft's first film part was that of a laughing mountaineer-villain in "Driven." He thus established a new type of "had man" character, and was called upon to reproduce it many times. His more recent films are "The Mighty," "Ladies Love Brutes," "Rich Man's Polly," "The World and the Flesh," and "Lady and Bent," current at the Rex theater.

Bancroft is six feet, two inches tall; weighs 195 pounds, has heavy dark brown hair and blue eyes; is married.

LEFORS TEAM PLAYGROUND BALL LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

SEASONAL PLAY TO BE BEGUN ON AUGUST 30

NINE MEN ONLY WILL MAKE UP EACH TEAM

An eight-team, Playground ball league was organized at a meeting of team managers and sponsors in the chamber of commerce rooms Friday evening.

Games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday afternoon starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Diamonds will be secured by the next meeting date. Each club will supply an umpire and umpires will alternate behind the plate.

It was decided to use 60-foot bases instead of 45-foot as the longer bases speed up the game and keep down the score.

Every team entered should put up strong competition. The Faculty will lose Weathered but he will appear with Phillips.

A silver collection will be taken up at each game to defray team expenses of buying balls and bats.

Playground ball is sweeping the country. Coach Odus Mitchell writes from California that he attended a night game where 7,000 fans were present.

High Necklines Used in Autumn Togs

Blouses And Scarfs Are Important For Sports

By DIANA MERWIN (Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS (AP)—High necklines—in vogue for the first time in many years—are the outstanding style news in the early fall sports mode.

Trig little collars fitting closely to the throat and small scarfs twisted above the collarbones are both used as neckline accents in the new models which serve as harbingers of potential winter fashions.

Harvest Time Hues in Vogue

Wools are everywhere. Bright knitted sweaters and blouses are generally part of the ensembles which are often made of a soft hairy wool, angora being the favorite. Colors reflect the harvest-time hues with grays and browns used as backgrounds for crimson, green, tangerine red and hazy violet.

A three-piece jacket suit with a sweater blouse, or a combination of frock and hiplength coat are the favorite models for golf and spectator sports togs.

One frock of gray angora wool has a knitted blouse of gray, red and black stripes finished with a little collar of the same gray wool. It is worn with a straightline coat to match.

A suit of brown angora wool has a knitted sweater blouse of creamy beige wool worked with little nasturtium-colored flowers.

Scarfs Are Smaller

Scarfs—smaller than ever and worn closer to the throat—are a part of almost every costume. They are generally bright silk, crepe or gauze the size of a man's handkerchief, wrapped or knotted close to the neck, their colors forming a vivid contrast with that of the costume. They add a chic touch.

A blue and white tweed frock worn with a blue wool jacket has one of these snug little scarfs in crisp red, while a gray ensemble is accented by a scarf of brilliant green.

Women of Gray County Have Eyes On Next Year's Clothing Contest; Mrs. Tignor Tells of Competition

The fact that Mrs. C. A. Tignor of Pampa, member of the Priscilla club, won second place in the state clothing contest has inspired women throughout the county to work toward a place among next year's contest winners, according to Miss Ruby Adams, county home demonstration agent. The contest was held recently in connection with the short course in College Station.

By MRS. C. A. TIGNOR

I am very grateful and happy to have been awarded second place in the state wardrobe contest this year. There were 70 counties that had the wardrobe work. As Gray county is one of those having the smallest rural population and club membership and as this is the first state prize to come to Gray county, I feel very glad to have helped to secure the honor for the county.

Mrs. Dora R. Barnes is the state extension specialist in clothing and state contest. Mrs. W. L. Johnson of Waco was awarded first place, and Mrs. Claude Duncan of Howland, third place.

The first prize was a sewing machine given by the Singer Sewing Machine company, and the second and third prizes were silver services for six of Wm. A. Rogers Heirloom plate, 100 years guarantee. The silverware was presented by J. P. Cowell Hardware company of McKinney.

Jacket Suit Wins

Mrs. Johnson's dress was a pink pique jacket suit with pink all-over embroidery blouse. Mrs. Duncan's was of pink all-over embroidered batiste.

All dresses were modeled before the judges on Tuesday. On Wednesday, they were on exhibition to those attending the short course, and on Thursday the contestants received them back and appeared in them at the assembly hall on Friday. Each contestant told briefly the story of her work before the awards were made.

The purpose of wardrobe work is to interest women in having more harmonious and economical clothing and to encourage them to give serious study to planning the entire wardrobe, keeping clothing accounts, and having a better and more adequate closet or storage space for clothing.

Points That Count

The contest consists of the exhibiting and judging of the following:

1. Book and records, complete.
2. Narrative of work done and plans of the wardrobe for the rest of the year, telling how the demonstration has helped the contestant and how the contestant has helped others.
3. Pictures of clothes closet and storage space before and after improvement.
4. Street or neighborhood dress, using foundation pattern.
5. Score card is as follows: Record book complete, 30 per cent; dress, 40 per cent; narrative, 10 per cent; foundation pattern, 10 per cent; picture, 10 per cent.

Service Stressed

Service to others is stressed and seems to be an important factor in judging. This service is helping others to do the things they cannot do well by themselves. It consists, generally, in making foundation patterns, advice in sewing, planning wardrobes and dresses, and showing how to bring obsolete garments up to date with the least labor and expense.

The work has been of value to me because it has helped me to have a more harmonious and economical wardrobe. It has taught me more system in planning and storage and better care of clothing.

Most of us are capable of doing a great deal better work than we do, and being a wardrobe demonstrator acts as an incentive to do our best. It brings out our latent powers.

Mrs. Barnes has announced that for the next year she will have two classes in wardrobe demonstration. Those who were demonstrators this year will be eligible for class 2. Members were to start August 1 to keep records of expenditures for clothing for the entire family.

Plans for Feeding Needy Children Of School Age Suggested; Mothers In Dallas Work for Pupils' Meals

(Written by Mrs. J. M. Crain of Claude, state publicity director for the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, the following suggestions are helpful for all those planning to do welfare work among children this fall.)

Are there hungry children in your community today? Involuntarily you answer, "No." Are you sure of this or have you just hoped that this condition did not exist in your locality?

During the past two years Texas has had many hungry children. Why do I make this statement? Because the Parent-Teacher associations have fed thousands.

For the hungry man food renews his energy and the hungry child food does even more than this. Building materials for body structure comes to the child in only one way and that is thru food. Feeding the hungry child gives him the chemicals for bone and blood, required for growth. Of the material for growth, what he does not get now cannot be given this winter or at a more convenient season. He must have his building materials when nature is ready or his foundation is faulty.

No organization is in a better position to see the grave result of the economic condition of our day than the Parent-Teacher associations, in their close relationship to the school system. There is scarcely an association that has not fed some children through the schools these last two years, and the variety of means used shows the ability of this organization to meet the situation at hand. Alertness and efficiency on the part of the local child welfare chairman and the committee have met the problem of feeding hungry children and providing families with food and clothing on a basis that does not attack the morals of family life.

Mrs. L. E. Ledbetter, state chairman of the summer round-up and secretary of Bureau of Child Hygiene, state department of health, states that the Parent-Teacher associations in Austin provided 24,000 meals to needy children this last school year. Each association provided for its own group in its own way. The Dallas Parent-Teacher associations met their problem of feeding hungry children through their co-operative center. The center is a five room cottage, attractively furnished, and is used as a workshop. Here mothers worked to earn school lunchroom tickets, or clothing for their children. Daily an average of fifteen mothers came to the center and worked from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m. They were given cup towels to hem, clothing to mend, rugs to crochet, scraps to piece together and quilt, sewing of any kind, and similar tasks, for which they were paid 75 cents per day in lunch tickets, clothing or milk. These Dallas mothers actually earned $7,063 to feed their hungry children through the Dallas Parent-Teacher Co-operative center.

In Tom Green county home demonstration clubs gave surplus food and vegetables, some reports that Parent-Teacher groups for the families of school children in need. In one northwestern town the problem of providing clothing was met by creating a "P. T. A." store. Here donated clothing was arranged in a small town store. A child could be clothed from head to foot for the meager price of 10 cents.

This summer a wealthy Houston woman, who insists upon remaining anonymous, has given the money to purchase the food, that the Houston Council on Parents and Teachers continue to feed needy and hungry children. Two meals are being served daily to 2,000 school children in school lunchrooms at strategic points throughout the city. The president of Dallas Council of Parents and Teachers reports that "picnickers" in the parks have arranged their surplus food in a sanitary way on tables for hungry children who come in droves to get these fragments.

With equal ability and originality other rural and urban Parent-Teacher associations have met the problem of feeding their hungry children in your community? May you give your support for the hungry children so in the future your community will be populated with a youth robust and healthy, that have reached stature nature intended, ready to become citizens, strong and happy.

Maryle Ethel Seeds, Mrs. J. E. Leigh of Dallas will attend.

Women of the Church of Christ will meet at the church at 3 o'clock for Bible study.

FRIDAY
Order of the Eastern Star will meet at 8 o'clock at the Masonic hall.

Business and Professional Women's club will sponsor a bridge party 8:15 in the Rose building club rooms.

BIG GATHERING WILL BE BEGUN NEXT THURSDAY

ALL CLUBS OF COUNTY TO CO-OPERATE IN UNDERTAKING

Coming only once a year, the two-day encampment which will begin Thursday for Gray county home demonstration club women and 4-H club girls will be a singular interest and will probably be attended by about one hundred fifty persons.

The encampment, which will be held at an attractive spot on the Gething ranch, will feature both business and pleasure. At 4 o'clock on Thursday a meeting of the county council of home demonstration clubs will be held and plans will be made for the fair exhibits on Sept. 14 and 15. Immediately after the judging of the exhibits here, outstanding articles will be taken to Amarillo and entered in the fair there. Judging in Amarillo will be on the 16th and 17th.

Home refrigeration will be demonstrated by a representative of the Montgomery-Ward store, and a Tru-Kool refrigerator will be provided for the purpose.

Swimming games, and group singing will be among the diversions, and on Thursday evening a stunt will be provided by each club in the county.

Breakfast on Friday morning will be served according to club groups, with each club planning, preparing, and serving its own meal. At noon a real treat in the form of a fried chicken dinner will be provided for the entire crowd.

The camp will break at 4 o'clock. The committee in general charge of the encampment includes Mrs. C. A. Tignor of the Priscilla club, Mrs. Herbert Keasbey of the Bell club, Mrs. Gus Davis of the Bluebonnet club, and Mrs. E. J. Gething.

THRIFT ROOM IS SUGGESTED

Plan Proposed by Mrs. W. J. Smith Whereby Needy Pupils May be Clothed, Morale Unharmd

To provide a needy child with a suit, a pair of shoes, and a coat is one thing, and to do it in just a way that his morale will not be harmed is quite another. Such is the belief of Mrs. W. J. Smith. So, when asked what, in her opinion, was one of Pampa's needs, she replied, "a thrift room."

Now a thrift room is just what the name implies—a room to encourage thrift. More specifically, it is a spot centrally located to which school children bring clothes which they have outgrown or which, for any reason whatsoever, they no longer wear, and these clothes are transferred to children who need them.

Such rooms usually are sponsored by Parents-Teacher associations or Parents-Teacher association councils, with all schools of the city using one room. For the moral effect, the room should not be located in the school which has the greatest need for its use.

A thrift room, if it existed in Pampa, probably would be opened only on certain days of the week with mothers taking turn about in caring for it. There would be a central committee composed of a representative from each association in general charge, but this committee would be at liberty to request the services of other members in caring for the room and in repairing the garments.

Such a room would do more than to provide a way to clothe the needy children. It would go deeper than that by upholding their pride. The feeling of needy pupils that they are "under-dogs" or "poor little children" would be avoided. They would actually feel that they had a part in furthering the "thrift project" by contributing little garments that might be outgrown. There is a possibility that characters would be strengthened.

Amarillo and Wichita Falls are among the cities which use the thrift room plan.

Harley Sadler and Company Will Open Monday With "Jealous Wives"

"Jealous Wives," written for laughing purposes only, will be featured at the opening drama by the Harley Sadler company Monday evening. Harley himself will have one of those funny old "Cappy Ricks" parts in which he excels. He says all members of the cast will have good parts, and that the play is one of the best he has. Eddie Ruton's "Educated Alley Dog" will be featured in the between-act vaudeville. This is said to be the greatest dog act brought to the Southwest. Other attractions will be Eddie See's orchestra, which will play as usual before the curtain. The Sadler show has been playing long stock engagements in the bigger cities and comes here from a five-week stay in Fort Worth. The tent is said to be cooled with ice this season. Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Goad of Miami shipped here yesterday afternoon.

STATE AUDITOR DIFFERS WITH SHEPPARD ON DEFICIT LIKELY

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—State Auditor Moore Lynn and State Comptroller George H. Sheppard today were at odds over the amount of the widely publicized deficit in the Texas treasury. Lynn issued a statement in which he said Sheppard's estimate of the state's financial condition was based on a "purely automatic of mechanical" computation and made no provision for including increases in income due to changes in rates of taxation, or reduction or increase in income due to economic and other conditions. Lynn quoted Sheppard as reporting the deficit in the general revenue fund at the end of the biennium, August 31, 1933, would be $5,818,714. A report of the state auditor issued in May estimated the deficit at the end of the biennium at $354,110. Figures issued by the auditor's office were based on estimates of the amounts expected to be received and expended during the fiscal years 1932 and 1933. The auditor's estimate of income from the gross production tax on oil during the next fiscal year was listed at $3,750,000 while the comptroller figured the revenues from this source at $2,645,019, a difference in excess of $1,105,000. Lynn stated, adding that he still believed his figure to be correct. The tax is based on the value of the oil. Lynn stated the comptroller's estimate of anticipated revenues from oil taxes was made by adding together the taxes received from this source during the last half of 1931 and the first half of 1932, and necessarily included taxes received during the time when oil in East Texas was selling for ten cents a barrel. "Surely no one expects the price of oil to be ten cents a barrel in 1933," Lynn stated. The comptroller also failed to take into consideration, Lynn stated, that state department heads had estimated that $1,500,000 of the appropriations made for 1933 would be allowed to lapse and would not be called for expenditure. He also pointed out that neither the estimates of the auditor or the comptroller had considered income to be derived from development of the state-owned bed of the Sabine river, that runs through the East Texas oil field.

BACK AGAIN IN SADLER COMPANY

"Billie" Sadler, above, known to thousands in Texas who have been seeing Harley Sadler plays for years, will be seen at the opening here Monday night in the leading role of "Jealous Wives."

STERLING

(Continued on Page 2) I had was a "menace to good government" return of the Ferguson to power. Ferguson, chief strategist and main spring in Mrs. Ferguson's campaign, hurried the defiance back at the administration in vehement stump speeches and in editorials in his newspaper, claiming Sterling's first administration and two terms of Governor Dan Moody had plunged the state deep into the red and that they "have busted the treasury." Ferguson was confident his wife would win. Sterling, opponent of the lead he must overcome, also was predicting victory. The Sterling battle gauge had been taken up by Moody and other "administration" leaders of the past six years. Moody has temporarily abandoned the practice of law to campaign against his arch enemy, the Fergusons. It was Moody who defeated Mrs. Ferguson for a second term in 1926. Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state under Moody and Sterling, has announced she would not take the office again, making the move so she "would be free to fight the Fergusons without having the charge made that she was seeking to 'protect her position.'" Mrs. McCallum was concentrating on winning women voters to Sterling's cause. The outcome of the campaign will depend largely on where the bloc of

HITLER

(Continued from page 1) which most important tasks await the cabinet. To a nation excited over reports from abroad that Hitler's storm troops would attempt to seize power by force, the president, then gave an example of undaunted confidence by taking a night train to his summer home at Njudeck, East Prussia. Hitler also left Berlin quickly saying that further plans for continuing the fight to attain exclusive power would be determined at a meeting of his party's leaders next Tuesday. He faced the disappointment of his followers—numbering nearly 14,000,000 Germans—who definitely expected him to be chancellor in August. He also faced a challenge of the radical wing to abandon the legality to which he had pledged himself and to seek power by extralegal means. All indications were that in event of still another Reichstag or other election he could not win over 51 per cent of the voters. In the opinion of many political observers he therefore was in a blind alley. Government spokes men informed the press that they regretted Hitler's refusal to play the game with other "national forces." "WE FAVOR NEITHER" WINONA LAKE, Ind., Aug. 13. (AP)—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the anti-slavery league, said in a speech here tonight both presidential candidates "in their acceptance speeches have declared an attitude toward the continuance of the eighteenth amendment which we cannot accept." "One is for modification; the other is for repeal," he continued. "We favor neither."

BRITAIN HURTS WHEAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Well defined reports that Great Britain would give a substantial measure of preference to Canadian and Australian wheat put prices here under new pressure today. Unsettling of the New York stock market had a contributing bearish effect and despite prospects of a further decrease of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, foreign advices furnished no hint of any more desire to purchase. Much notice was taken of a statement from Chicago trade authorities that to give the market any real basis for an advance, enlarged export business in United States wheat would be necessary. Wheat cooled nervous at almost the day's bottom 7-8 to 1 1-8 under yesterday's finish, corn 1-8 to 1-2 cts, oats at 1-4 to 3-8 decline, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 1/8 cents. Wheat prices on wheat today were 3-8 cents down from the extreme top touched on the recent upturn. Rallies resulted only in augmented pressure to sell, with numerous stop loss orders forced into execution. Eager interest was shown in the outcome of the Omaha conference, respectively a British empire premium to be allowed against wheat shipments from non-British countries. In some quarters it was contended that Canada usually obtained 3 cents more for her number 1 northern wheat than was paid abroad for United States number 1 hard winter. Thus, unless Canada were given a greater preference than 3 cents by Great Britain, the existing situation, it was urged, would not be greatly altered so far as the United States was concerned. Domestic receipts of spring wheat continued to enlarge. Corn and oats averaged higher, but finally sagged with wheat. Provisions lacked support.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 13. (AP)—U. S. D. A.—Cattle trade this week was featured by an entirely broad demand for stocker and feeder classes, and especially active interest was displayed by corn belt feeder buyers in well bred grass steers suitable for a short turn in the feed lot. Kansas City with a liberal run of grass steers, reported slight decline on feeder steers, but the general market rated steady to strong. Late in the week around 100 cars of Oklahoma and Kansas grass steers passed through the Kansas City yards on through billings to feed lots in Illinois. There was a fair demand for the better grade of fed steers and yearlings at firm to 25 higher prices, but at several of the river markets packers enforced moderate decline on short fed calves and western grass steers. Prices on hogs at most centers were steady to 25 higher than a week ago with a late top at Chicago of $5.00; total offerings were around 333,000, a decrease of 3,000 from last week. Chicago reported a slight advance for the week on better grades of lambs but most of the river markets showed losses of 25 or more.

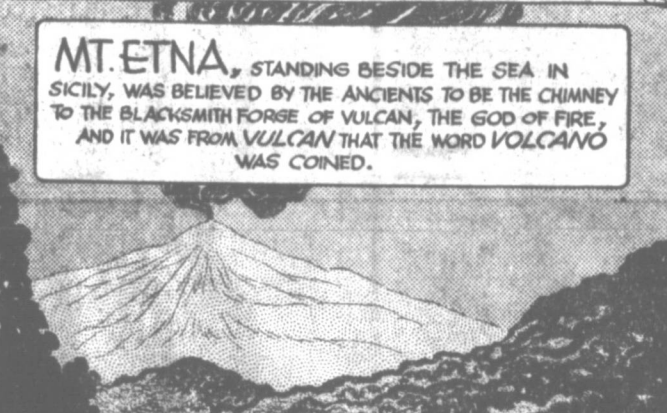

STOCKS UNCERTAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—The stock market was churned up considerably today as conflicting cross currents swept over it, stocks ended the day off a fraction on the average. Trading was fairly active for a half-day session, the turn-over reaching 1,756,000 shares, which however, was nearly 1,000,000 short of the previous Saturday total. Today's buying was apparently of two-world character, some of it representing new purchases by bullish investors who had missed the previous rally and wished to enter the market once it reacted, and part of it representing covering by short sellers who were fairly active in the market on Friday. The bond market reacted after a week of steadily advancing prices and this may have imparted fresh momentum to the selling of stocks. Foreign exchanges were firm, possibly indicating some profit-taking in our markets for foreign account.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

West Texas Independents Praise Sterling on Visit To San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 13. (AP)—A strenuous drive with half a dozen speeches at cities along the route brought Governor Ross S. Sterling tonight into a territory evacuated by his opponent, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, just 48 hours before. The citizenship of San Angelo and surrounding country saw campaign tactics reversed as speakers lauded Sterling as the friend of the "plain people" and lashed at the lobbying record of James E. Ferguson and pointed to him as the champion of the "big corporate interests" of Texas. Hecklers, led by the shrill outcries of an elderly woman, created considerable disturbance during the early part of the program, but quieted when Sterling began his address. "I wonder if it is not proper for me, as governor of Texas, to apologize to anyone in this audience who may be from outside of the state for the disrespectful conduct of a small group here tonight," Sterling began. "I don't want to be disrespectful to any woman, but to the one who had led this disturbance I want to say that I am sorry you don't know any better." Advised by friends that the Fergusons avoided the oil question in their addresses here, Sterling and his supporters stressed the governor's policies in handling the East Texas oil field under martial law, declaring his action saved the oil industry. Former State Senator Bob Stuart of Fort Worth referred to an advertisement in the San Angelo STANDARD-TIMES today signed by 65 independent oil operators of West Texas as "an indication of what the independents think of the governor's oil policies." "Not one major oil company ever called on me to interfere when oil was selling as low as 10 cents a barrel in East Texas, demoralizing the industry the country over," Sterling said. "Pleas of the independents, royalty owners, lease holders and farm owners influenced me to de-

CHATHAM, Ont., Aug. 13. (AP)—Ray A. Graham, secretary-treasurer of the Graham-Paige Motor company of Detroit, was drowned in McGregors creek. His brother, Robert, who came here with Mr. Graham from Detroit yesterday, said the motor company executive had suffered a nervous breakdown and was on the way Morristown, N. Together they returned to the hotel and went up to Mr. Graham's room. The clergyman said Mr. Graham asked him to go in first. He did so, but when he turned around Mr. Graham was gone.
