LETTERS LEAD TO ARREST OF AGED PAINTER

BONES OF GRACE BUDD ARE UNCOVERED BY SLAYER

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—The grave of Grace Budd, discarded evidence to clinch a solution today of the kidnaping and killing of the child and incrimination of Albert H. Fish.

Fish, after mocking her family by mail since the crime was committed six years ago, was captured finally through the letters which he himself sent, confessed and led officers to the little girl's timberland tomb. Butchered by a meat cleaver, the body was found in three parts, the skull buried in the woods near a ramshackle house in East Irvington, the other bones by a road.

"The blood just seized me," the wizened 65-year-old house painter said. "But I'm glad it's over now. Helping the police find the body somehow makes me feel better."

To the family which had never known what had befallen their child, then ten years old, since she walked hand-in-hand with a stranger into one of America's most mystifying kidnapings, the swift solution came as a shock.

Brother Once Accused
"It was a horrible thing," said her father, Albert Budd, "and this makes it worse."

The father and a brother of the girl, Edward—who originally had been marked for the murder—confronted Fish and identified him as the man who identified with Grace. He was charged with homicide and kidnaping.

Police pounced upon Fish in a midtown post office substation yesterday while he waited for a remittance from a son in a CCC camp. The last of a series of cruel letters to the Budd family had been received only a few days ago, written on the stationery of an employment agency, and tracing it back, police came to the catch.

Spontaneously Fish launched into a confession, but he was cut short and taken to police headquarters where he told a complete and coherent story. Its text was not divulged, but police commissioner, Lewis J. Valentine said it ran thus:

Planned Slaying
Contemplating the killing in advance, the man had bought a meat cleaver, saw and butcher knife, wrapped them in a tarpaulin and checked them at a news stand.

Then he went to call at the tenement home of the Budds, whose son Edward had advertised for a farm job. Fish represented himself as one Frank Howard, and said he had a farm near Farmingdale, a farm that existed only in his imagination. He intended to take the 18-year-old boy with him and kill him, but upon meeting the family was captivated by delicate little Grace with her big blue eyes and brown hair.

Final Practice For "Messiah" To Be Saturday

Final rehearsal for the Philharmonic choir's presentation of "The Messiah," Handel's famous oratorio, will be held at the First Baptist church at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. Every person who expects to be in the choir Sunday evening must be present tomorrow to be assigned a seat.

"The Messiah" will be presented at the local Baptist church at 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening following services of the churches. No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be taken to defray incidental expenses of the program. The largest chorus in Pampa's history will be heard Sunday evening. It will include singers from Amarillo and Hereford. An Amarillo orchestra will play the accompaniment, according to Mrs. May Foreman Carr, local director.

On Sunday afternoon, the Pampa chorus will go to Amarillo to join the Amarillo and Hereford choruses in giving "The Messiah" at the municipal auditorium at 2:30 o'clock.

Does Mrs. Wise Smith Want Buy A Sharp Hatchet?

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—Someone at the next table ordered two beers.

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Des Moines, Iowa, national president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, locked on in dismay they were served.

"Here I sit in a saloon!" she declared. "But what else can I do? I have to eat somewhere." Conditions since repeal are worse than they ever were before, she observed as she paid her check and left the restaurant to preside over a meeting of representatives of 43 prohibitionist and temperance organizations.

I Heard . . .

Warren Moore being called "one of Mr. Hicks' boys." Warren, former teacher in the Pampa high school and Gorilla coach, is stationed here temporarily.

There is going to be a circus in town tonight. There will be a "Big Lion" and bunch of cubs here for the banquet.

Twinkles

Reported: Recent flying of the Texas flag upside down. Those concerned probably knew better. It is a fact, however, that few persons fully understand the respect that is due the state and national flags.

West Texas Teachers college students are planning a "hoop day." Getting ready to take their places among the unemployed after graduation?

As we understand it, a good dictator is much like a good wife, but a bad dictator very much like like a bad ditcher wife.

Among the complexities of this age that the West Foster group deplores is the need for every good American to understand not only his own country but the Orient, the Balkans, and Europe proper. This is no age for a one-track patriotism.

Well, we at least hope that it is never said: "As New Mexico goes, so goes the nation."

Musing of the moment: Cotton farmers of the nation will go to the polls today to vote on continuance of the Bankhead act—an economic question. So-called expert opinion differs sharply. Some observers think the surpluses must be controlled sharply. Others think the high price of cotton induced by control will cause other nations to produce cheaper cotton and forever take our export markets. It is a fact that our export market is vital to American employment and that we are losing it under our high price system.

Brevitorials

THE NEW PLANNING committee of the B. C. D., of which every loyal Pampaian is by inference a member, rightly assumes that unless the housing problem can be solved there is no justification for trying to bring to Pampa a number of small industrial plants which will mean new families. The rattle of dinner pails has long been associated with prosperity, but without a place to live no industry can flourish here and carry a pall. The outlook for making of necessary funds available early in 1935 is, incidentally, much brighter.

THE CAMPAIGN must be one of building homes. Those who have rental property apparently are in no mood to build more rent houses. Renting is often unsatisfactory for both renter and landlord. More homes will mean more permanent residents and, at the same time, the release of rent houses for new residents. And, speaking of new factories, there are some kinds that Pampa does not desire. We do not wish "sweat shops." We cannot furnish the type of labor upon which some industries depend.

THE SCHOOL BOARD has taken cognizance of the fact that the modern football factory requires much more attention. It will hire a line-building specialist and give him plenty of time to devote to the task. This work in the past has been delegated to A. M. Fox, who came here to teach history. Without much compensation for his extra duties, Mr. Fox took over the line coaching at a time when there was no other person available or at least eager to do the work. Pampa lines have put up some mighty battles. In fairness to the new line coach, he should be

Lions Welcome Their President On First Visit

At least 125 Lions and ladies will greet the president of Lions International, Vincent C. Hascall of Omaha, Neb., when he and Mrs. Hascall visit Pampa tonight.

A banquet will be given in his honor at the Schneider hotel at 8:15 p. m. Chick Talcott and his recording orchestra will play during the evening. Tickets for the event are 75 cents. For those who wish to remain for dancing, 25 cents additional will be required.

Past presidents of the Pampa club were to meet President Hascall at Amarillo this noon and escort him to Pampa. Dr. H. H. Hicks, president of the Pampa club, will be toastmaster at the banquet. The event will be informal.

Children Invited To Free Pictures

A comedy and an educational picture will be screened tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the basement of the First Methodist church. All children of the city are invited to attend. No admission will be charged. A free film program is offered at the church every Saturday morning. Several Mickey Mouse comedies have been shown.

HUEY RELATES SLAYING DETAILS

Baby Of Slain American Missionaries Is Found Alive

NO INDICATION AS TO HEALTH OF GIRL BABE

PARENTS' BODIES ARE FOUND ON LONE BATTLEFIELD

SHANGHAI, Dec. 14. (AP)—A report from Tsingteh said tonight that Little Helen Priscilla Stam, three months old daughter of the murdered American missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stam, had been found alive and was being taken to Wuhu, mission headquarters. The report of the finding of the baby was relayed here from Wuhu. It was not immediately indicated how the rescue had been made, although it was known that government troops were in pursuit of the bandits who raided the city of Tsingteh, murdered the baby's parents and, presumably kidnaped the child. Wuhu reported that the Rev. Mr. George Birch of Canada, a member of the China inland mission and stationed near Tsingteh, had the infant and was carrying it to safety. There was no indication as to the health of the child. The bodies of the Stams were found deserted on a battlefield 15 miles from Tsingteh, but no trace of the baby had been discovered. Other missionaries in three southern provinces were reported evacuating their stations. A letter written by Stam shortly before his death disclosed that he and his family were held for a ransom of 20,000 Chinese silver dollars (about $7,000). Stam was a native of Paterson, N. J., while his wife, the daughter of Missionaries, was born in China.

GOVERNOR IS WELCOMED IN BOYHOOD CITY

Bowie Gives Jimmie Allred Home - Coming Celebration; Barbecue, Concert.

BOWIE, Dec. 14. (AP)—Hundreds of Bowie citizens and friends of Governor-Elect James V. Allred crowded Bowie's gaily-decorated streets today for a home-coming celebration in his honor. Allred is a native of Bowie and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Renne Allred, Sr., still are residents of the city. Arrangements also were made to entertain Governor-Elect E. W. Marland of Oklahoma and a number of prominent Texas state officials. Allred and his wife were due to arrive in time for a big barbecue. More than 4,000 pounds of young beef, raised by Claude Gass, had been barbecued by Dee Smith, Sheriff Herman Chandler, Robert Brown and Grover Reed. Before noon the Bowie municipal band gave a concert. More than 800 school children were recessed at noon to greet their next governor. Allred was on the program for an afternoon speech. Dr. J. T. Lawson was master of ceremonies. W. E. Benson, Bowie attorney, was chosen to introduce Allred. A reception for Mrs. Allred was arranged at the woman's club room in the municipal auditorium, sponsored by the city federation of women's clubs.

20 Members of Lifeboat Crew Lost in Storm

M'Lean to Have "Santa" Parade

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Battling mountainous mid-Atlantic seas to rescue the crew of the foundering British steamer worth, 20 members of a lifeboat crew from the Belgian steamer Jane Jabot were lost today when their boat capsized, a wireless message to Mackay Radio reported shortly after noon today. Two members of the Usworth's crew, the message said, were rescued from the water when the lifeboat was tossed over in the rough seas. Previously, the Jean Jado's lifeboat had carried five of the Usworth's crew to safety, and presumably had gone back to get another load of the 21 members of the crew still aboard the sinking ship. The Usworth sent out distress calls before dawn and was answered by the Jean Jado and the Cuarder Ascania, the latter standing by to lower her own boats shortly after the Jean Jado's crew made its rescue.

CHRISTMAS TREE PLANNED FOR CHILDREN OF UNEMPLOYED HERE

Pampa's annual Christmas tree for children of the unemployed or needy families is taking form under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Davis, county relief administrator. Mrs. Davis is being assisted by Mrs. Byard Low, the three 20th Century clubs, and other groups. Civic clubs are expected to furnish funds with which to buy candy, nuts, and fruits for the children. Boy Scouts will do the sacking. Old Santa Claus will of course be present. The program is being arranged by Mrs. Arthur Swanson and Mrs. Julia Barrett. About 150 children will attend the tree at the city auditorium on December 23 at 2:30 o'clock. Arrangements also must be made for about 25 negro children of the city and to distribute baskets to the neediest cases on the relief records, which include chiefly old couples and widows.

J. C. JOHNSTON OF BORGER MADE CHAIRMAN OF PANHANDLE CHAPTER OF A. P. I. HERE

Hundred and Seventy Oil Men Enjoy Annual Banquet in City Last Night. Succeeding C. E. (Dan) McGrew as chairman of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute, J. C. (Jimmie) Johnston of Borger, superintendent of Continental Oil company, took office last night at the organization's annual banquet. Walter Biery of Prairie-Sinclair was installed as first vice-chairman and R. G. Allen of the Cabot companies as second vice-chairman. Chairman Johnston will name his own secretary. Neal Gaut of the Texas company has been secretary during Mr. McGrew's tenure. Secretary Gaut explained to the 170 persons present at the Schneider hotel that nine meetings had been held during the year, with prominent speakers presented. An aggregate attendance of 1,600 people, with Mrs. Barrett, about 13 talks and three papers given. Musical entertainment was presented on seven occasions. Safety was especially stressed. Discussions ranged from technical to practical subjects of interests to the industry. The organization closed the year with a cash balance of $91.15, compared with a balance of $9.52 from the previous year. Membership is $1 per year. E. J. Dunigan Jr., member of the program committee, opened the meeting and introduced Dr. H. H. Hicks as toastmaster. Dr. Hicks regarded the big audience with his usual wit and kept the wisecracks going throughout the evening. M. K. Brown welcomed the oil men and praised them for their careful

PRODUCERS OF LINT VOTE ON BANKHEAD ACT

TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY WILL CONTINUE REDUCTION

ATLANTA, Dec. 14. (AP)—An overwhelming verdict for retention of the Bankhead cotton control act for another year was recorded from the first reports today in Georgia on the cotton control referendum. Gray county cotton farmers went to the polls today to vote on continuance of the Bankhead cotton control plan. It seemed rather certain that the vote would heavily favor the plan, which is credited with raising the price of cotton. Opposition is strong, however, in parts of the south having new land for cotton farming. Observers regarded it as a question of limiting production and bolstering the price or raising more cotton at a ruinous price. Polls were opened at Alarred with L. L. Palmer as judge, McLean with Rish Phillips as judge, and Laketon with John Webster as judge. Voting will cease at 5 p. m. The vote will be canvassed tomorrow morning in McLellan by the county cotton control committee.

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 14. (AP)—Between 650,000 and 657,000 of Texas' cotton producers planned to vote today on whether the Bankhead cotton control act shall be continued for another year.

E. R. Eudaly, chairman of the Texas cotton allotment board, said the state totals would be tabulated by a board here. Final Texas results probably will not be available until Saturday noon, he said, but returns will be issued periodically.

Machado Flees From Arrest by German Police

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 14. (AP)—Gerardo Machado, former president of Cuba, repeated his New York disappearance act here today, leaving town with his entourage just a few moments before German secret police called at his hotel. He was reported to have taken a train and, although no one presumed to announce his destination, it was suggested that Interlaken, Switzerland, was his goal. Advice from Havana said the Cuban government had instructed its legation in Berlin to seek his extradition to Cuba, where he is wanted on murder charges arising from his years as dictator of the island republic, and it was rumored that the secret police had tried to advise him that he had better leave Germany in order to avoid trouble.

HAVANA, Dec. 14. (AP)—Cuba undertook today to have Germany return Gerardo Machado, former president, for trial on charges of murder and other offenses. The Cuban legation in Berlin was instructed by the state department to ask Machado's arrest and extradition.

Youth Grilled in Oklahoma

Fined $75 on a malicious mischief charge intertwined with the mysterious deaths of two sons of prominent Tulsa, Okla., families, Homer F. Wilcox, Jr., 17, is shown above leaving Tulsa court with S. S. Bassett, chief counsel for the elder Wilcox' oil firm. The youth paid the fine for shooting out street lights near the scene and time of the Nov. 29 slaying of John Gorrell, charged until Saturday noon, he said, but returns will be issued periodically.

LINDY MURDER THEORY GIVEN VERY BRIEFLY

State Generalizes in Answer to Application of Hauptmann's Attorney. TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 14. (AP)—The prosecution, as directed by supreme court Justice Thomas W. Trencard today supplied counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann with its theory as to how the Lindbergh baby met his death in the famous kidnaping. The state contends that the cause of the death of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. was a fracture of the skull and the result of external violence, the state's answer said. Attorney General David T. Wilentz, chief of the staff that will prosecute the Lindbergh kidnaping suspect Hauptmann, issued the brief answer, which covers the list of the twelve questions propounded by the defense in its demand for a bill of particulars on the murder indictment against Hauptmann. Justice Trencard yesterday held that the state did not have to answer the first eleven questions, but ruled that the defense request for information on the cause of the kidnap baby's death should be answered "so far as the state can answer, with reasonable certainty."

SELF-DEFENSE IS CLAIMED IN MURDER TRIAL

'GET YOUR GUN, YOU'—BORGER QUOTED AS SAYING

CANADIAN, Dec. 14. (AP)—Arthur Huey testified at his murder trial today that he acted in self-defense when he shot and killed A. P. (Ace) Borger in the postoffice at Borger last Aug. 31. "I did everything in my power to keep him from shooting and, at the same time, I was shooting him as fast as I could," said the 42-year-old tax collector of Hutchinson county. Slowly and deliberately, Huey related details of the shooting which brought death to the man who founded the Panhandle oil town bearing his name. "I kept on shooting him until he fell to the floor," Huey testified. "I picked up his gun and walked out of the postoffice. I fired no shots after he fell." Huey said he was warned about an hour before the shooting that Borger had said "there will be a shooting before night—I'll either kill him (Huey) or he'll kill me." The defendant testified he went to his car and got his gun when he received the warning. Advised to stay out of the streets, Huey said he replied: "I haven't done anything and I won't run."

Kiwanians Hear Inspiring Talk

"Reach Your Objective!" was the theme of an inspiring talk made by Kiwanian Gaston Foote before members of the club today. He told of the hardships and handicaps of prominent men who never gave up until they reached their objective. President Guy McTaggart presided today for the first time. He succeeds Fred Thompson. Jack Goldston was elected a member of the board of directors to fill the vacancy made by the election of McTaggart president. Visitors today included Rev. B. Shell, Carl Benefiel and K. W. Bunch.

I Saw . . .

CHRISTMAS PLANS OF P-TA INCLUDE DINNER FOR PUPILS

HORACE MANN UNIT TO PLAY HOLIDAY HOST

TURKEYS ARE DONATED FOR CAFETERIA DINNER

A Christmas turkey dinner will be served in Horace Mann cafeteria next Friday, the day school dismisses for the holidays. It was arranged in a Parent-Teacher association meeting there.

Two turkeys and other food have been generously donated by patrons and friends of the school for this meal. The association is completing arrangements, and Mrs. W. H. Reed, director of the cafeteria, will be in charge of serving the dinner.

Another Christmas project is a party for Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls of the school troops, to be given by the association at the school next Friday evening.

Miss Josephine Thomas, principal, reported that $25 was added to the school equipment fund by a program presented by pupils Tuesday evening.

Speakers on the program yesterday were Misses C. T. Hunkapillar and Claude Lard, delegates to the recent state Parent-Teacher convention, and Miss Llewellyn Shelby. All touched on the program theme, Commercialized Recreation.

Delegates Speak.

The state Parent-Teacher association hopes to see supervised recreation in every school throughout the day, Mrs. Hunkapillar said. She mentioned movies, athletics, and games as types of desirable recreation, and stressed that the way children spend their leisure time determines the kind of citizens they become.

She also demonstrated the spirit of the association as shown in singing familiar songs, shaking hands and greeting associates in the organization.

Miss Shelby asked the mothers to study motion pictures, and select those desirable for their children to see.

Carols were sung by the group to open the program, led by Miss Loma Groom with Miss Frances McCue at the piano. The invocation was by the Rev. Joseph Wohlerly. Numbers by the first grade rhythm band were directed by Miss Groom, and Mrs. Neil Bever told the Christmas story, "The Other Wise Man."

Club Gives Christmas Music

'Sleeping Beauty' Stirs at Last

Two years and nine months after she clasped into a sleep-like coma which completely baffled doctors, Patricia Maguire, above, the long battle with the strange malady may be won. She has obeyed simple commands written on a slate by her mother, Mrs. Saide Milley, who now hopes the child will be able to talk.

PUPILS COMPOSE CHRISTMAS PLAYS, POEMS, AND STORIES

Original poems, stories, and plays have been written by pupils in all grades at Woodrow Wilson school in observance of Christmas. One of the cleverest was a poem written by Shirley May Sone, 9-year-old second grade student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Sone. It follows: Santa's Visit. Santa Claus came down my chimney. He had lots of toys to give me. He wouldn't stay—he rushed away before the morning. Then I came out, and looked about And without warning A Jack-in-the-box jumped out at me. I was as scared as I could be.

Girl Writes Story. One of the original stories is by Velma Rae Rutherford, called "Christmas Tree Lights." She tells it as follows: There was a little bear up in the Northlands who decided the Christmas tree would be more beautiful with colored lights on it. He had nothing to use for color so he thought the rainbow would make pretty lights for the tree. He started out early one morning to look for a rainbow. He searched and he searched and found a beautiful rainbow which he put across his shoulder and started home. He could just see what a beautiful Christmas tree he was going to have. He was almost home when he slipped and fell, and the rainbow was shattered to pieces. The little bear began to cry, but mother bear rushed to him and told him not to cry and she would help him pick up the broken rainbow. They gathered the pieces and hung them on the Christmas tree. The little bear looked at the tree and said, "It is more beautiful than it would have been if it had been in one piece."

Playlet Tells Story. Another story is signed by Wilma Jeanne, of the low fourth grade. She tells of a Christmas surprise that made two poor children happy, calling her story, "A Merry Christmas." Jean Lively of the sixth grade wrote a playlet, "A Christmas Party," with girls of many lands as characters. She included stage directions and lines that develop a story of Christmas customs over the world. Study of Christmas customs resulted in interesting papers by Rosemary Sams of the low fifth grade, and Joan Curley of the sixth grade. Rosemary wrote: I like our way of celebrating Christmas, rather than Italy or any other foreign country. "I had rather be eating turkey than be eating roast pig like they do in England or black bread like they do in Russia. I like our way of Santa Claus better than I do putting wooden shoes out with bread and beans in them like the Dutch children do for old Saint Nicholas. "I would dislike giving up getting dolls and things, hearing cantatas, unwrapping gifts, and decorating the tree." Joan writes of Christmas celebrations in America: "Two or three weeks before Christmas people start decorating windows, streets, and homes. "The children go to be unusually early so they can get up earlier on Christmas morning to receive their presents. We have Santa Claus that comes Christmas Eve night and brings gifts to the children. He is said to ride in a sleigh drawn by reindeer, and come down the chimney. "The schools are out about two weeks at Christmas so the children will have plenty of time to enjoy their presents."

Contest Starts Among Boys and Girls of Church

"Hoorsay, the winner gets a chicken dinner," was the slogan announced when boys in First Methodist young people's department challenged the girls to an attendance contest Sunday. "We will have more present and on time both morning and evening." "See you!" was the girls' answer, and the contest started, to continue through January. Girls are leading by 10 points, but the boys are working to change the standing Sunday. Young people will have charge of the evening church service Sunday. There will be special music by a choir of 40 voices and one-minute talks on Our College Loan Fund, by J. G. McConnell, Joseph Hodge, and Lawrence McBe. The offering will go to this fund, which aids worthy students attending Christian colleges. J. G. McConnell will lead the study at 6:30 Sunday on the church orphanage at Waco. The young people voted to make a gift to this home Christmas, rather than have a gift exchange. Florene Mason of 624 East Foster street has been welcomed as a new member of the department. Christmas carols are to be sung over the city after church on Dec. 23, by a chorus from the department, members have decided. More plans for the visiting Christmas trees are to be made at the morning meeting, 9:45, Sunday.

High Attendance Average Reported in Pampa Schools

Attendance at Pampa schools averaged 94.5 per cent of enrollment during the period covered by the last report cards issued, reports compiled in the office of Supt. R. B. Fisher show.

The period was four weeks for ward schools and six weeks for the high school. Averages for the two groups were almost identical.

Every day 2,697 children attended the ward schools, and 587.3 pupils reported for classes at high school, the figures show. The enrollment level for high school was the average of 2,763.4 in ward schools and 671.2 in high school.

During the period 525 tardies were reported in ward schools and 544 in high school. The colored school was not included in these averages.

Birthday Party Is Given as Surprise Honoring Joe Myers

Mrs. Tom Eckerd and Mrs. Bob Wilson were hostesses at a surprise birthday party in honor of Joe Myers, Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served after a pleasant hour. Guests who wished the honoree many more happy birthdays were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bramer, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Eckerd and daughter, Margaret and Peggy, and Mrs. Hazel Myers.

The party at home of Mrs. Phillip Wolfe, 2:30.

YOUNGSTERS TO ENJOY BANQUET SATURDAY AT 6

Intermediates Will Dine at M. E. Church

A Christmas program will be given at the banquet for First Methodist intermediate department Saturday evening. The banquet will start at 6 o'clock in the church dining room. Program numbers follow: Opening song, Silent Night, by all. Invocation, John Edwin McConnell. Welcome address, Helen Draper. Response, Noble Lane. Trumpet solo, Harry Clay. Reading, Mrs. Gaston Foote. Vocal number, Leona Hurst and Ethel Wilder. Christmas story, Frances Thompson. Address, The Spirit of Christmas, Gaston Foote. Closing songs, Jingle Bells, by all. This program was arranged by a committee including Maxine Ott, Ethel Wilder, Virginia Nelson, Clota Mae Harrison, Archer Fullington, and Mrs. R. A. Selby. Helen Draper is general chairman. On the decorations committee are Mrs. D. E. Whitteberg, Everett Westbrook, Charles Shelton, Noble Lane, Chester Hunkapillar, Elizabeth Mullinax, Catherine Culbertson, and Julia Callison. The menu committee includes Mrs. Roy Tinsley, Mrs. N. F. Maddux, Jean Lively, Maurine Ott, Betty Ann McTaggart, Roy Lee Jones, Edwin McConnell.

Hostesses Want All Members of Club at Party

Camp Fire Girls Have Xmas Party

In a room canopied with Christmas colors and lighted by candles and an open fire, Camp Fire Girls of the Tatapochen group and their guests enjoyed a party Wednesday evening. Anna Mae Jones was hostess at her home.

A perfect attendance is desired by the hostesses for the evening, members of the social and emblem committees. On the former committee are LaVena Woolley, Gladys Robinson, and Dee Polson. Emblem committee members are Miss Polson, Catherine Howell, and Hazel Martman.

A surprise program is being planned, and gifts will be exchanged on a tree. Each member is also to bring a toy to be given to the welfare board for distribution on Christmas.

Bishop to Speak Sunday Morning

The Rt. Rev. E. Cecil Seaman, bishop of the Episcopal church of northwest Texas, will conduct services at St. Matthew's church here Sunday morning. The public is invited to hear Bishop Seaman on his first visit here since last summer. Services beginning at 11 o'clock are to include confirmation and a sermon. George Toothaker is a student in the school of dentistry at Notre Dame university.

Dagmar's Adventures in Santa Claus Land

BY SIGRID ARNE

SYNOPSIS: Dagmar, the doll, and a tin soldier, find themselves in the hall of the mole king underground. They are trying to find a clue to the blight which has made all of Santa's holly wreath trees drop their red berries just before Christmas.

CHAPTER V
In The Hall Of The Mole King

The minute the two dolls were in the big hall where the moles sat in conference, they slipped up close to the throne. The moles didn't see them because, you remember, an earth-worm had given them a magic pebble which made them invisible.

"So—so—so" one of the moles was saying, "all the holly berries have fallen. I am proud to report I believe the trees will die."

"Die!" whispered Dagmar, the doll, to the tin soldier. "Why the ideal Our pretty holly forest. What will Santa do? Give me that pebble."

Wordlessly, the tin soldier handed her the magic pebble. She rubbed it twice as the earth-worm had told her, and flash! There she stood perfectly visible to the moles. The big gray mole on the high chair pushed back his spectacles and rubbed his eyes. Several scrambled under their chairs in fright.

"Don't you dare kill our holly trees!" exploded Dagmar. She was very angry.

"Well, where did you come from?" said the gray mole who was the leader of this underground kingdom.

"What do you mean by killing off our holly trees?" demanded Dagmar.

"The tree roots are growing right down into our apartments and spoiling our homes," said the king mole. The ceilings are falling in."

"Well, why didn't you move?" said the doll.

"We'd do nothing of the sort!" said the king mole.

"Look here," he said, and Dagmar was so angry she couldn't say another word.

Just then, flash! the tin soldier became visible, standing right next to Dagmar. He, too, had rubbed the magic pebble twice.

"Look here," he said, "I'll bring all my troops here, and lock you up if you keep killing the trees."

"Ho, ho, will you?" said the king mole. "Men, take them prisoners."

In a minute hundreds of moles were rushing toward the dolls from all over the large hall. They were surrounded, and couldn't get back to the door. But the dolls rubbed the magic pebble and disappeared so the moles couldn't find them. The moles looked so surprised that Dagmar giggled.

"Let's tease them," whispered Dagmar to the soldier. "Let's rub the stone again." So the two ran right up on the king's throne, and grabbed for them.

Now the dolls intended to turn invisible again so they couldn't be caught, but the tin soldier in his hurry dropped the pebble and the king mole caught them.

"Here," he thundered, "lock these two in our deepest room."

So the dolls were taken prisoners and marched down and down more steps through the earth, and locked up in a little room where only one tiny candle was burning.

Announcement has been made by the bride's parents of the marriage on November 7 of Miss Geraldine Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Dodson, and Harold Dudney, son of Lee Dodney.

The couple are now at home at 218 E. Foster. Both young people are well known in Pampa. The bride was a student in high school here at the time of her marriage.

Church Here Offers To Conduct Service For Any Community

Plans to conduct Sunday afternoon preaching services and to assist in organizing Sunday schools in any community not served by a regular church, have been announced by the Church of the Nazarene here.

Any community desiring these services is asked to notify Earl Bond, pastor. The minister and members are prepared to go anywhere within reasonable driving distance, they announced.

Where Sunday school organization is desired, singers and helpers from the local church will accompany the pastor to the school or other building selected.

The attendance award went to Miss Violet Durrett's room.

LAST "MESSIAH" PRACTICE

The final rehearsal for "The Messiah," oratorio to be presented by the Philharmonic choir at First Baptist church Sunday evening, will be conducted at 7:30 tomorrow evening at the church.

DELEGATE OF SAM HOUSTON GIVES REPORT

EVENING PROGRAM ON EDUCATION IS ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Raymond Harrah, Sam Houston's representative to the state Parent-Teacher convention last month, made her report to Sam Houston Parent-Teacher association yesterday afternoon.

She reviewed the address and conferences conducted by Mrs. Gilman, national chairman of motion pictures. Some points she gleaned from Mrs. Gilman follow:

"The motion picture is the greatest influence in the world today, for character, conduct, and health standards. Children learn faster and retain information longer from movies than from books.

"Children, with less protective knowledge than adults, are unable to guide the course of their life because of immaturity. The attitude of a child can be changed by the showing of a single film. Children need to see the best movies that society can furnish.

"Civilization depends upon the education, health, and recreation of children. One of the most insistent demands of the age is for better recreation. The motive is child welfare and the motivators are parents. Recreation is a most important issue before the Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Claude Lard, another Pampa delegate to the convention, spoke briefly also.

An educational meeting, scheduled for the evening of January 17, was announced by Principal A. L. Patrick as the next meeting of the association.

Entertainment yesterday included a dance by fourth grade girls; a playlet, Santa Finds Old Toys Best, by the first three grades, and a pantomime, The Birth of Christ, by upper grades.

The attendance award went to Miss Violet Durrett's room.

Sewing Club at Noelette Meets With Mrs. Lamb

NOELETTE, Dec. 14.—Mrs. J. H. Lamb was hostess of the Skelly Sewing club recently. Members brought their sewing and enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

when you give this Dolly

All-rubber—unbreakable—adorably life-like

NEVER lonely again! Santa Claus brought the grandest playmate in the world—a dolly that's almost human, it's so lovable and cute.

And this Miller dolly is unbreakable. Think of that! A dolly to be loved and played with all through childhood—and treasured ever after for happy memories.

This dolly, you see, is rubber. Specially treated rubber, that never peels or cracks. Soap and water can't hurt her—she can be washed and scrubbed, kept clean, as even dollies should be. And baths are real fun to little girls when they can take their dolly into the tub with them.

Almost human!

And such fun to play with. Legs move, arms move, even the head and eyes are movable. She seems almost real, her body's so soft and babyish, her expression so natural, her "skin" so true in tone.

If you're playing Santa to any little girl this year, one of these Miller dolls is the happiest choice of all. Come in and see the many types and sizes. You'll want to take them all away with you.

BAMBINO MAY BE ASSISTANT TO McKECHNIE

ERSTWHILE RULER OF SWAT MAY GO TO BEANTOWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—The future in baseball of Babe Ruth was partly solved today by managers, players and camp followers scattered in the wake of the duller major league meetings in years.

The erstwhile ruler of the realm of swat, done as a regular performer and crowded out of the 16 managerial berths, may start next season as assistant manager of one of three big league clubs—the first step in the realization of his dream to wind up his distinguished diamond career as a manager on the big time.

With all managerial berths filled for the present, and the Babe vowing he would rest on his laurels rather than sign another player contract, the Boston Braves stepped into the breach yesterday with overtures which would make him to be named as first lieutenant to Bill McKechnie.

Charles Adams, one of the Boston owners, approached Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, with the idea and the Colonel agreed to release Ruth outright to Boston provided he is not wanted in a similar role by any of the American league clubs.

Then it was revealed that both the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox have been pondering the idea of obtaining baseball's most colorful character as chief assistant to Managers Connie Mack and Joe Judge.

Just how the Bambino will feel toward a proposition to play second fiddle on a big league team, with the chance of stepping into the managerial shoes later, is not known. But it is felt that Ruth, now returning from barnstorming tour to the Orient, will welcome an opportunity to remain identified with the pastime he has graced so long.

Before scattering for their homes last night, the club owners held a joint session with Commissioner Landis at which they rejected a proposal to ban broadcasting of games and appropriated $20,000 to the Legion's Americanization program.

Only two deals were reported to clinch the final day. The Giants figured in both. They rejected Joe Berman, a young right-handed pitcher and a bag full of cash to the Phillies in exchange for George Davis, an outfielder, and then turned around and collected Olyn Stout, pitcher, and Mark Koenig, veteran infielder, from the Cincinnati Reds in return for Billy Myers, a shortstop.

Blood Test in Minister 'Lie' Case Collapses

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 14. (AP)—The defense today planned to call a handwriting expert in an effort to prove marriage documents bore the forged signatures of W. I. Welburn Jr., former Methodist minister, as his perjurer trial in district court neared completion.

The defense contended in testimony yesterday that Welburn did not leave San Antonio July 25, 1933, the date he is alleged to have married Miss Wineta Long in Boerne.

The defense planned to present Thomas N. Smith of San Antonio, handwriting expert, to prove Welburn's signatures were forged to the marriage documents.

Plans for a blood test to determine the paternity of William D. Welburn III, year-old son of Mr. Welburn, collapsed when physicians told Judge Bryce Ferguson such a test was not infallible.

The perjury charge grew out of a divorce suit.

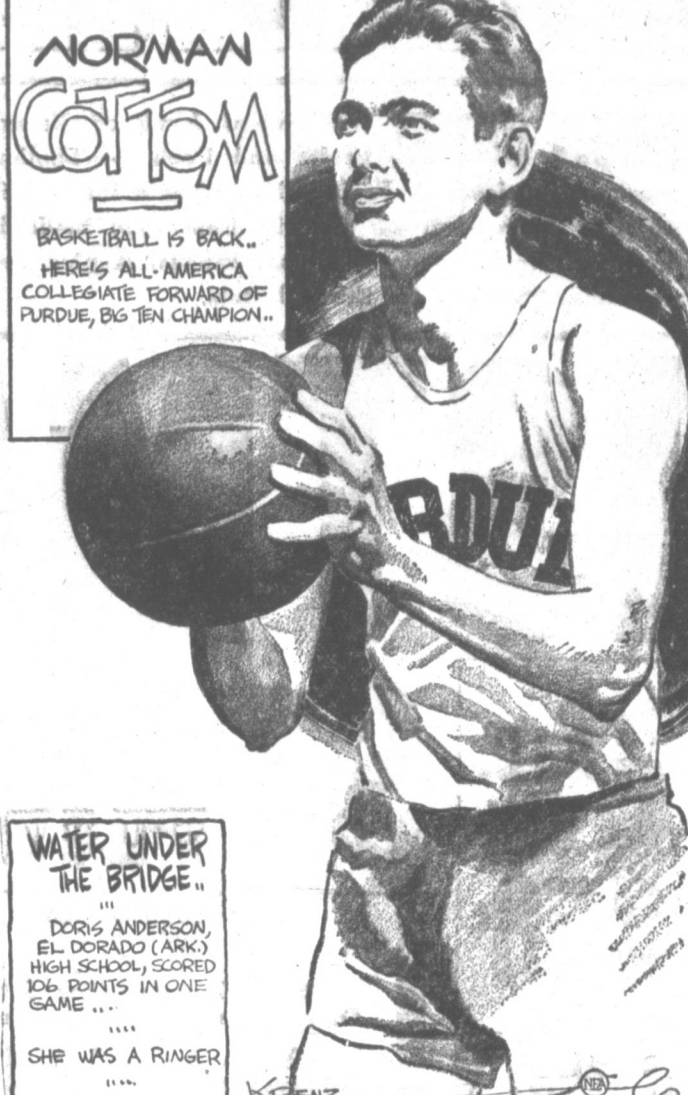

Hanley Asked to Quit Coach Job At Northwestern

CHICAGO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Richard E. (Dick) Hanley, who coached Northwestern to shares of the 1930 and 1931 Western Conference football championship, has been given an opportunity to resign, it was reliably reported today.

He has not made up his mind to do so, but it is considered likely of the university at a meeting today that the faculty athletic committee will not recommend that another contract be offered him.

Harvester Substitutes Play Last Year

MONTGOMERY, center
Two valuable Harvester substitutes from this season who will not be eligible next year are Richard Montgomery and Howard Feltnier. Montgomery played at end last year but was switched to the center position this season. His big hands were useful. Montgomery can catch a football one-handed and handle it like a baseball. Feltnier had stiff competition at the tackle job but made himself felt when in the lineup. He did especially well on the defense.

Three Romances Of Movies Only Memories Today

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 14. (AP)—Three movie colony romances, one of nearly 20 years duration, another only two weeks old, became just memories today.

Charles Ray, one of the brightest stars of silent pictures, was sued for divorce by Mrs. Clara Grant Ray. She charged desertion, non-support and cruelty. They were married Nov. 15, 1915 and separated August 1, 1932.

Complaining a chaperoned honeymoon did not appeal to her, June Knight, the actress, sued her New York broker husband of two weeks, Paul Ames, for divorce.

Elizabeth Allen, English screen actress who came to Hollywood two years ago, announced she and William O'Bryan, London managerial agent, had separated and probably will be divorced.

She stated her continued success here "simply made it impossible for us to adjust our personal lives."

Mrs. Ray's suit came as her husband struggled along the wearisome comeback trail in the movies. Once wealthy, the reputed possessor of a $2,000,000 fortune, Ray has said he lost everything in his efforts to produce his own pictures. Mrs. Ray corroborated this assertion in her complaint, stating if there is any community property she has no knowledge of it.

In support of her cruelty charges, Mrs. Ray alleged her husband has corresponded with a number of women.

7000 PERSONS ARE EXPECTED TO SEE GAME

GREENVILLE BATTLE TO DECIDE SEMI-FINALIST

GREENVILLE, Dec. 14. (AP)—East and north Texas football fans crowded this city today expecting to see one of the hardest fought games in history of the Texas Inter-scholastic league between Corsicana and Greenville high school teams.

The winner of today's game will enter the semi-finals of the state championship race. Greenville is the defending champion.

Officials expected a crowd of 7,000 persons.

Corsicana's brilliant aerial game and Greenville's deceptive ground attack promised plenty of thrills.

Corsicana eliminated Greenville from the 1932 titular chase but the Lions were odds-on favorite today.

Probable lineups:
Corsicana Pos. Greenville
Langston Hinton
Aston Beane
George Neal
McElreath Perry
Harshaw Rogers
Nelson Hensell
McCullough McElreath
Sharp Marshall
Ashworth J. Rogers
Humphries Perry
Smith Easter
Referee: Higgins (S. M. U.); umpire: Curtis (Texas); head linesman: Howell (Trinity); field judge: Price (Austin college).

FORT WORTH, Dec. 14. (AP)—Coach Charles Frigg's Highland Park school Scotties polished up their offense and defense today as a final preparation for tomorrow's game against the Masonic Home team.

The Highlanders will depend on a strong running attack that starts from a Notre Dame shift. Masonic Home is noted for tricky formations through the air and on the ground. The Masons are two touchdown favorites.

Probable lineups:
Highland Pk. Pos. Masonic Hm.
Ritchie Crocker
Stephenson Cook
Griesenbeck Thomas
Wimmer Smith
Sullivan Williams
Hughes White
Sharp Conway
Rhodes McPadden
Busacker Allsbrook
Thomasson Davis
Crenshaw Handley

formidable opposition he has met during his brief career when he meets Lee Ramage, heavyweight of San Diego, Calif., in a ten round battle at Chicago stadium. Ramage is rated as the finest boxer the division has produced since Tommy Loughran.

Teddy Yarosz, Pittsburgh, newly crowned world's middleweight champion, will engage Kid Leonard, a Belgian from Moline, Ill., in a co-featured ten rounder. Yarosz's title, however, will not be at stake.

Death Lays Stage For Train Tragedy
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14. (AP)—Mrs. Ernest O. Swanner made her first visit to the city morgue, to inquire about the death of an acquaintance's son. As she waited there a policeman told of an unidentified man who had fallen under a train near Michoud. Mrs. Swanner heard the description — and paled. She jumped up.

"Did he have any letters in his pocket?" she asked.

"Yes, he had a letter addressed to—" the policeman consulted notes — "addressed to Ernest O. Swanner."

"It's my husband," Mrs. Swanner screamed hysterically. Mrs. Swanner said her husband left New Orleans yesterday on a freight train to visit relatives in Mobile, Ala.

Billiard Star To Appear Here Saturday Night

Allen Hall, a new comer to billiard fans in the West is scheduled to appear in the Pampa Athletic club, 115 1/2 W. Kingsmill street, on Dec. 15 at 10 p. m. in connection with the national "Better Billiards" program which is being sponsored by the National Billiard association of America.

In the last world's tournament, Hall finished as runner-up to Johnny Layton for the title, and has since challenged the champion.

This match has been sanctioned by the National Billiard association, and will be played some time during the winter.

Hall was born in St. Louis in 1900. He attended grammar and high-school in that city, and is a graduate of Westminster college of Fulton, Mo. He lays his entrance into the billiard game to a billiard table which he received for Christmas when he was 11 years old. He became interested in the game, and a few years later was taken in hand by Chas. C. Peterson of St. Louis, and later became a protegee of Johnny Layton, his present opponent for the world's title.

Hall is an all-round athlete, having played basket ball, foot-ball, and baseball with a two years record as short-stop on a Missouri semi-pro baseball team.

He has competed in the last five world's tournaments, and should prove a stubborn opponent when he meets Layton in their challenge match later in the season.

Olin Dutra Wins $5,000 at Miami
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14. (AP)—Olin Dutra, victorious in the Miami Biltmore open golf tournament, turned toward the new $5,000 British Colonial open today in search of more golfing laurels.

Dutra beat back the challenge of the "stay at home" pros and is richer by $1,200 for upholding the prestige of the touring professionals.

The large field taking part in the annual classic ending yesterday had split today. A number of players, headed by Dutra, prepared to fly to Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, to try for a portion of the prizes in the British event Dec. 18-20. Others, with Walter Hagen in the van, started westward on the annual Gold Coast circuit. The Pasadena, Calif., open, Dec. 20-22 is their first objective.

TILT IN SOUTH TEXAS TO BE PLAYED TODAY

HOUSTON ELEVEN AND CORPUS CHRISTI IN BATTLE

LUBBOCK, Dec. 14. (AP)—This city will serve as a neutral battle ground Saturday for the Big Spring Steers and the Amarillo Golden Sandies in their interscholastic league football tussle, 1:30 p. m.

More than 1,000 Amarillo fans were expected to travel here by special train and Big-Spring was expected to send an equal number. The game will be on the Texas Tech field.

It will be a quarter-final battle and the winner will compete next week in the state championship semi-finals.

Probable lineups:
Amarillo Pos. Big Spring
Peterson Mills
Pitt Coburn
Underwood Vines
Sullivan S. Flowers
Matthews Wilson
Storosh Darwin
Cochrane Jones
Stidger Neel
Harlow Cordill
Frye Hare
Waggoner B. Flowers

CORPUS CHRISTI, Dec. 14. (AP)—Houston Jeff Davis and Corpus Christi high school football aggregations meet here today in a Texas interscholastic league bi-district game. Both teams depend on power formations. An advance sale of more than 4,000 tickets served to make officials expect a crowd of 8,000 persons.

The winner will compete next week in the state championship semi-finals.

Probable lineups:
Jeff Davis Pos. Corpus Cstl.
Stephenson Lawrence
Labue Bledsoe
O. Chance Hinnant

Badgers, Lamar To Play Today
AMARILLO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Two powerful outfits, the Amarillo Junior college Badgers and the Lamar college Cardinals of Beaumont, squared off today for their Texas Junior College conference grid championship battle.

Two regular Badgers, Ed Cherry, backfield star, and Wayne Kelly, end, are suffering from injuries received last week in the Texarkana game.

The Cardinals, recent conquerors of Schreiner institute, reported intact.

Probable lineups:
Amarillo: Forrester and Clary,

Wheeler Cagers Invade LeFors This Evening

Two Wheeler high school basketball teams will invade LeFors for games tonight. The girls' teams of the two schools will play at 7:30 o'clock and will be followed by a game between the Pirates and Mustangs.

LeFors opened the season last Friday night by cking out an 18 to 11 victory over the Miami Warriors. Both teams handed the ball as if it was a hot coal and as a result the game was ragged. The Pirates of Coach Bill Bronson have improved during the week and should give the Wheeler boys a hard tussle.

The Pirate Lassies of Coach Mae Clark have been showing excellent form in early practice sessions and another strong quintet is predicted. The Wheeler Lassies have also been showing good form.

The Wheeler and LeFors teams will both enter the Miami basketball tournament now in progress. The teams will not play until tomorrow morning. LeFors will probably meet Allison and Wheeler will clash with Miami.

WILL TAKE DEGREE
Eril V. Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Ward of 616 N. Frost, a recent student of Colorado State Teachers college, will receive his bachelor's degree tomorrow. He finished the required work last summer and is now teaching at Jose, Colo.

The smallest quarterback in the Southern conference this year was 150-pound, 67-inch Willie Dusty of North Carolina State.

Albert (Red) White, former star halfback at Colorado Agricultural college, is now assistant football coach at Colorado School of Mines.

HARVESTER 'A' TEAM TO PLAY WHITE DEER'S

FIVE PAMPA CLUBS TO COMPETE THIS AFTERNOON

Three Pampa high school basketball teams were to play early this afternoon and two more are scheduled to play tonight in the third Miami invitation basketball tournament. Pampa entered five of the 21 teams participating in the tournament.

Tonight at 7 o'clock, the Harvester "B" team, under Coach E. W. Dennard, will tangle with the Canadian Wildcats, one of the strongest teams in the tournament. Immediately following that game, the Harvesterette "A" team will meet the McLean girls.

Games in which Pampa teams were to compete this afternoon were: Harvester "C" vs. Higgins; Harvesterette "B" vs. Miami; Harvester "A" vs. White Deer.

The fast Allison club has entered the tournament and is the reigning favorite to take first place honors. Allison lost only one player from the crack team of last year. The team has been practicing for several weeks and is in excellent condition.

The Harvester "A" team under Coach Oduis Mitchell will be composed of returning lettermen and a few promising looking boys out for their first basketball with the Harvester squad. The boys have been practicing less than two weeks and during that time with only 50 other boys.

Coach Harry Kelley will be in charge of the Harvester "C" team. Miss Kathleen Milam will take the two girls' teams to the tournament.

Municipal Water System Planned By Dalhart Body

DALHART, Dec. 14 (AP)—Progress in Dalhart's movement for a municipal water plant was reported by Mayor B. M. Kendall after the city had submitted a new proposal to the West Texas Utilities company.

The plan calls for the city to buy all of the utility's water system, including Rita Blanca lake and several hundred acres of land near the city. The land was purchased several years ago for hydro-electric development and water storage.

Mayor Kendall said J. A. Brewer, district utilities superintendent, indicated he looked with favor on the plan and would take it up with Price Campbell, president of the company, at Abilene.

Dalhart has applied for a PWA loan of $490,000 to pipe water from shallow wells in the Buffalo Springs district, 32 miles to the northwest. The PWA opposed a duplicate system and recommended that the city buy the utilities plant.

Under PWA rules only about $122,000 could be used for acquisition of the utilities properties. The new plan proposes that the city pay that amount in cash and furnish the company with water for its ice plant for the balance. The company has a contract to re-ice the Rock Island's transcontinental fruit and vegetable trains here.

600 Sheep Fly Through Ether After Explosion

JUNCTION, Dec. 14 (AP)—The air was full of sheep for a moment.

About 600 ewes had been killed at the Clay Holland ranch near Junction in connection with the government's program and preparations were made to burn them.

Five loads of wood were placed in the bottom of a 30-foot hole, the sheep were piled on top and gasoline was poured on the pile.

A match was touched to the inflammable mass and a terrific explosion resulted. Accumulated gas ignited with an explosive force that hurled the sheep skyward, some of them soaring to a height of 75 feet.

The sheep were scattered for hundreds of feet. Finally they were collected again and a bonfire, but this time with due precautions against a gas explosion.

Missionaries In China Are Slain

SHANGHAI, Dec. 14 (AP)—The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stam, American missionaries, were reported to the China inland mission office in a cryptic telegram from its Wuhu office.

"Stam's bodies found fifteen miles from Tsingteh."

Further details were not included in the message from Wuhu and the mission office here is extending every effort to obtain more information.

Since no mention was made in the telegram of the two-months' old baby of the young missionary couple, the mission authorities did not know whether the baby's body likewise had been found or whether the kidnapers who captured the Stams in southern Anhwei province several days ago might still be holding the child.

The mission of Wuhu had been informed of the finding of the bodies by the governor of Anhwei province who said he had received a message reading: "Bodies of John and Betty Stam found near Tsingteh."

AS A CEREAL
OR IN COOKING
 it's FINE either way!

It's so handy to have a package of
 Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the kitchen.
 Serve it as a cereal. Use it also as a wholesome ingredient in your muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.
 Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies
 "bulk" to aid regular habits. All-
 BRAN is also rich in vitamin as well as iron, an element of blood.
 Two tablespoons daily will c rect common constipation, due insufficient bulk in the diet. In vere cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.
 The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN does not break down during digestion as that of leafy vegetables, and is therefore more effective for furnishing the needed "bulk." It is a delicious laxative food . . . far better than patent medicines.
 Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THREATS ARE DETAILED IN HUEY'S TRIAL

'I'll Either Kill Him or He'll Kill Me,' Borger Is Quoted as Saying.

CANADIAN, Dec. 14. (AP)—Defense testimony to strengthen the contention that Arthur Huey killed A. P. (Ace) Borger in self-defense Aug. 21 was planned today.

Nine witnesses testified in defense of the Hutchinson county tax assessor and collector yesterday in efforts to show Huey fired after Borger had shot at him.

Mrs. Cherrill, store operator, said Borger came to him an hour before the shooting, patted his pistol and said "There will be a killing before night."

"I have your friend Huey where I want him. There will be a killing before night—I'll either kill him or he'll kill me," Cherrill quoted Borger as saying.

The witness said he advised Huey of Borger's statement and that Huey answered that he "wasn't going to run."

Mrs. Marian Frutman, secretary to Defense Attorney H. M. Hood, said she was standing near Borger in the postoffice when Huey approached him and said he wanted to "talk about our business."

Borger reached for his gun and ordered Huey to get out with his gun, the witness said. Huey grabbed Borger's arm and two shots were fired. Huey drew a pistol and fired from his side as Borger slumped to the floor and his pistol rattled at Huey's feet, the witness said.

Huey fired into Borger's body as it lay on the floor, Mrs. Frutman testified.

Huey walked away and said: "I kept on until they made a criminal of me."

Both A. J. Williams, Borger tallor, and C. J. Fouty testified both men were standing during the fight. Fouty said he saw both men fire and that Huey did not shoot Borger in the back.

George B. Lockett, oil chemist, gave similar testimony, adding that the man in a suede jacket fired first. Previous testimony showed Borger wore a suede jacket. Stockton Henry Jr., said Borger fired the first shot and Jack Beadle said Borger told Huey to get his gun.

A request to curtail the noise of milkmen who deliver at night has been received by Brookline, Mass., officials.

Forty-one of the 43 members of the present football squad at Colorado State College of Agriculture are natives of the state.

JOURNALISM COURSES AT TECH SHOWING INCREASED ENROLMENT

LUBBOCK, Dec. 14.—There are 91 students majoring in Journalism attending Texas Technological College this semester. Of this group 13 are seniors, 12 are juniors, 29 are sophomores, and 37 are freshmen.

Journalism students may secure a B. A. degree with a major in Journalism. Courses offered this semester include: Newspaper Reporting and Writing; Problems, Principles and Practice; Special Feature Articles; Problems of the Community Newspaper; History of American Journalism; and the Contemporary Short Story, a course listed in the English department.

The number of students majoring in journalism has increased approximately 32 per cent this semester over that of last fall when 62 were enrolled, an increase of 29 students. Non-journalism majors enrolled, an increase of 29 students.

The Press club is composed of all students enrolled in at least one course, which meets in both business meetings and round table discussions of journalistic questions. This organization also has local newspaper men and journalism professors as lecturers at their meetings.

Besides the courses offered in theory, journalism students receive practical training in newspaper work by the use of Tech Press, college owned printing plant, as a laboratory. Ten students are regularly employed, and seven part-time students are used in the plant's operation. All of the college work, commercial printing, etc., is done by Tech Press. The plant is non-commercial and self sustaining.

NEW OCC DISTRICT TEMPLE, Dec. 14. (AP)—Major Thomas O. Jenkins of the U. S. army with a corps of 20 men has arrived here to take over command of the newly created sub-district No. 2 of Texas CCC camps.

Temple is subsistence headquarters for 16 Texas camps. Trucks used in these camps are serviced here.

The new district was created by the combination of sub-districts two and three together with two East-trop camps.

Major Jenkins has just completed a four year tour of duty as captain of a machine gun company in the Panama Canal zone.

Scouts Deliver Toys to Firemen

Boy Scout troop 18, Phillips-Hopkins, delivered a large box of toys to the Pampa fire department yesterday. The toys were collected from residents of the Phillips camp south of Pampa and from residents in the surrounding territory.

The firemen will repair the toys and they will be given away at the Community Christmas tree to be held in the city auditorium at 2:30 o'clock December 23. The tree will be sponsored by the Twentieth Century clubs.

The Phillips-Hopkins troop is one of the most active in the Adobe-Walls council. J. H. Williams is scoutmaster.

Miss Imogene Hollenbeck left today for Oklahoma City to visit her aunt, Mrs. Roy Baze, and attend the Christmas dance of Theta Kappa Psi at Oklahoma university.

R. G. Hughes made a business trip to White Deer this morning.

Hyatt Funeral To Be Held in Conway

The body of Miss Dorothy Hyatt, 21, of LeFors, who died in a local hospital Sunday night following a brief illness, was sent to Conway, Ark., by the G. C. Malone Funeral home yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon.

Miss Hyatt was the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Thomas of Bee Branch, Ark. She had been a resident of LeFors only a few months before her sudden death. Her parents survive.

R. G. Hughes made a business trip to White Deer this morning.

Legal Notice THE STATE OF TEXAS To the Sheriff or any Constable of Gray County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon William West, and wife; Halsey J. West, and Eddie M. Burdick to make publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the 31st district court of Gray county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Pampa, on the first Monday in January, A. D. 1935, the same being the 7th day of January, A. D. 1935, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 14th day of December, A. D. 1934, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court number 3,907, wherein M. W. Fasum is plaintiff, and William West and wife Halsey J. West, Eddie M. Burgess and Ruby E. Poindester are defendants, and a brief of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

Plaintiff is suing to foreclose a vendor's lien retained in a warranty deed recorded in the deed records of Gray county, Texas, in volume 52 on page 405, dated January 22, 1931, by which deed lot No. 22, block 11, Wilcox addition to the town of Pampa, Gray county, Texas, was conveyed to William West by deed of January, A. D. 1935, and for the sum of $125.00 with interest, costs, and attorney's fees, the balance due on a vendor's lien note, dated January 22, 1931, and signed by William West in the principal amount of $300.00 providing for 10 per cent interest from date and 10 per cent attorney fees, said note being payable to W. E. Poindester and transferred by her to the plaintiff herein, together with costs and other general relief.

Heretofore said note has been in default, and at the next regular term of said court, to wit, the 7th day of January, A. D. 1935, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in Pampa, Texas, this 14th day of December, A. D. 1934.

FRANK HILL, Clerk, 31st Judicial District Court, Gray County, Texas. By JEAN RAGSDALE, Deputy. (Dec. 14-21-28- Jan. 4)

RICHBERG IS OVERRULED BY LABOR BOARD

NEWSPAPERMAN'S PLEA UPHELD DESPITE NO. 1 ADVISER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—The capital speculated today whether the White House would take a hand in the dispute between the national labor relations board and Donald Richberg, widely known as the president's No. 1 adviser.

Flatly rejecting Richberg's plea that it keep hands off, the board, headed by Francis Biddle, ruled last night for the second time that it could take jurisdiction in newspaper labor disputes.

It ordered the San Francisco Call-Bulletin to reinstate Dean S. Jennings, a re-write man who said he was forced to resign because of his activity in the American Newspaper Guild.

Unless the paper hires Jennings back within ten days or gives acceptable reasons why it shouldn't, the board said, the paper will be cited for blue eagle removal and legal action.

After the board's original order December 3, Richberg and Blackwell Smith, acting NRA general counsel, protested. They said Jennings' complaint should have been heard by the newspaper industrial board.

The publishers, in agreeing to their code, had stipulated that it could not be amended without their consent. The Call-Bulletin contended that the labor relations board's taking over the case was a change in the code.

The board contended its action had not amended the code, and that "there is nothing in the newspaper code to differentiate it, so far as violations of section 7-A are concerned, from any other code." Congress and the president had authorized the board to deal with any 7-A violation case, the board maintained.

Richberg said that the wording of an order creating the board saying it "may decline" to take original jurisdiction from a code board meant it "shall decline."

To this, the board replied: "It is unnecessary to torture the meaning of plain language."

The case raised many questions in capital circles today. The paper refused to comply, would the board's blue eagle removal citation be upheld at NRA? Would the justice department prosecute the paper if asked to do so by the board? Would the Call-Bulletin carry the case to court?

Yawning Woman Is Still at It; Doctors Puzzled

ROUND GROVE, Ill., Dec. 14 (AP) Mrs. Harold McKee, 35, greeted the dawn with a yawn.

She has been yawning continuously since 2 p. m. Sunday except for brief respites induced by the influence of opiates. Early today she had approached her 110th hour of protracted yawning and doctors were at a loss to know how to make her stop.

Dr. H. L. Pettit, her physician, could assign no reason for the yawning other than extreme nervous strain due to caring for an ill husband and a 9-year-old son, who is a diabetic.

She yawns 10 to 12 times a minute. She is able to obtain nourishment when she is aroused from her artificially-induced naps, but Dr. Pettit is concerned over her ability to endure the protracted strain.

Fort Peck Dam a Unit in Proposed 'Midwest TVA'

Possibilities of another great river drainage basin development like that of the Tennessee Valley are opening up as the great Fort Peck Dam in Montana begins to take form. The picture above shows a dredge about to be launched and another at work on the $50,000,000 earth dam at Fort Peck, Mont., which will hold back the headwaters of the Missouri and create a lake with a shore-line of 2,500 miles. This water, it is expected, can be released in such quantities as to make the Missouri navigable all the way down from Yankton or at least Sioux City. This, in turn, would open up for water transport the vast farming and stock-raising regions of the midwest. The drainage area of the Missouri system is roughly shown by the light area, all a potential beneficiary if a Missouri Valley Authority similar to the TVA should be established.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus: My sister wants a bicycle. I want a bicycle with balloon casings on it, a manicule set, riding boots, a pair of riding pants, and don't forget the peas. Please bring something to the poor children. Your friend, Julia Marie Bell.

Dear Santa Claus: I am a little boy 5 years old and my little sister is 2. We have been real good. Sister wants a tea set, negro doll, and I want a black board with desk and chalk. We both want candy and nuts. I'll have a hot cup of coffee for you and a warm fire. Your little friend, John Spearman.

Dear Santa: My name is Sue Ann Montgomery. I live at 24 S. Indianapolis, Tulsa, Okla., last year. Thank you for my pretty dolls last Christmas. I have moved to Pampa so I would like to have a new doll and a fuzzy dog and car so I can get gas from my sister's filling station. You are going to bring me a black board with desk and chalk. And leave anything else you think I would like. With love, Sue Ann.

Dear Santa: My name is Carolyn Beth Montgomery. I lived at 24 S. Indianapolis, Tulsa, Okla., last Christmas. I thought I had better tell you I have moved. I've tried to be a good girl for mother and daddy, and want to thank you for the tricycle. I would like to have a new doll, little filling station, little furniture, little dolls sitting in chairs, and little rocking chair and clock. With love, Carolyn Beth.

Dear Santa Claus: I am a little girl 8 years old. Please bring me a rubber doll and a set of water colors. With love, Betty Jean Paris, Miami.

Dear Santa: I am a little boy 6 years old. I go to Sam Houston school. Mrs. Bradley is my teacher. I have tried to be good all year. Will you please bring me a football, cowboy suit, tool set, and log cabin set. Your little friend, Clarence Rice.

Dear Santa Claus: Will you please send me a transformer for my electric train, and a little steam shovel. I have a sister, Marlon, who is 3 years old. She wants an electric stove and would also like a doll. I have a little brother 9 months old, named Joe. He would like something to make noise with. Your dear friend, Shields Mitchell. P. S. I am 5 years old and am trying to be a good boy.

Dear Santa: Please bring me a rubber doll. Mother wants some silverware. Bring daddy the Pampa Daily News for a year. Don't forget my little cousin, Joan, Wiley, in Tulsa, Okla. Please bring Spike, Arb an Indian suit. Your friend, Etta Sue Berkley, LeFors.

Dear Santa Claus: Please bring me a little car, a football, and a Buck Rogers gun, also candy, nuts and fruit. I have been a very good boy. Remember the poor children. Your little friend, Ray Carpenter.

Dear Santa: I have been a good girl and I want you to bring me a big doll buggy—I have a big doll—I want an iron and an ironing board. Please bring my little brother a scooter and a pop gun. Your little friends, Capitola and George Wane Dallas.

Dear Santa: We have been good little girls and wish you would bring us two dolls and a doll buggy. Please bring some dishes and a train loaded with candy. Don't miss any little boys and girls. Your friends, Mary Lynn and Nancy Lee Jordan.

Dear Santa Claus: I want a curly haired doll, a pair of shoes, a manicule set, a dress for my mother, a suit for father, and a manicule set. For Evelyn, a bicycle for Mildred, a dress for my sister, a car for Johnny and a wagon for him, too. I want a bowl for grandmother, a pair of pants for grandfather. Please don't forget the poor. Your friend, Marilyn Faye Morehead.

Dear Santa: I am a little boy 4 years old. I have been good this year. I want you to bring me some boots, boot pants, and jacket. Also bring me some toys, candy, nuts, and fruit. With love, Harvey Lee Watts.

Dear Santa, I am 6 years old. I would like for you to bring me some clothes and wardrobe trunk for my dollie you brought last Christmas, and don't forget candy, nuts, and fruit. With lots of love, Helen Watts.

ALLIED PLANS NEW LAWS TO REDUCE CRIME

SEVEN REFORMS WILL BE PRESSED AT SESSION

By CHARLES E. SIMONS Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (AP)—Crime would be less profitable, apprehension speeded and justice made more certain if a criminal reform program being formulated for presentation to the legislature in January is enacted into law.

With the eyes of the nation focused on Texas when the notorious Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, his feminine consort, and Raymond Hamilton, Blackie Thompson, and Joe Palmer and other lesser figures of the criminal world blasted a path of crime across the state, the legislature decided something should be done to curb outlaw depredations.

A special senate committee is making an investigation into the crime situation to determine what corrective laws are needed. A special house committee has been delegated the task of revising procedure to speed criminals to trial, cut red tape and eliminate reversals on technical errors unless they have a substantial bearing on the outcome of the case.

Out of the confusion of ideas as to the best method of clamping the lid down on criminal activities these will be offered to the legislature:

- 1. Establishment of a state criminal identification bureau to facilitate the identity of criminals before and after arrest.
2. Coordination of state law enforcement agencies and equipment of the consolidated unit with the most modern weapons and facilities.
3. Creation of a non-partisan and non-political board of pardons and paroles to handle all clemency matters now entrusted to the governor.

4. Maintenance of a close liaison between the proposed state law enforcement bureau and court officials so that an intensive man hunt can be started on a moment's notice with a minimum of delay.

5. Provide for conviction on a vote of nine members of a jury instead of 12 in all cases except in those technical penalties of death or life imprisonment could be assessed.

6. Permit reversal of convictions by the court of criminal appeals only on errors of vital importance, with the court instructed to disregard technical errors that have no bearing on the outcome of the case.

7. Improvement of standards of the bar by ouster of attorneys who resort to unethical practices.

8. Better facilities for segregating youthful criminals and first offenders and a more comprehensive program of convict rehabilitation.

All proposals, except the one to revise the board of pardons and paroles, could be made effective by statutory enactment. It would require constitutional amendment to permit reorganization of the pardon board along lines suggested by Governor-Elect James V. Allred, who would have the pardoning power taken from the governor and vested exclusively in a three-member board constitutional in nature.

The governor, one by the chief justice of the court of criminal appeals and one by the chief justice of the supreme court.

Allred bitterly criticized the pardon policies of past governors during his campaign and promised reorganization of this department would be one of his major objectives. The state now has a pardon and parole board but it functions solely in an advisory capacity and the chief executive can act with or without its recommendations and override its findings of fact.

The merger of the state highway patrol with the Texas Rangers is advanced as a means of obtaining a strong central agency to enforce the laws and lead in the apprehension of criminals. The patrol's activities have been confined to supervising highway traffic. Effectiveness of the Rangers has been reduced through curtailment and changes in personnel and inadequate financing.

Establishment of a hospital to specialize in treatment of criminal insane has been suggested as an aid in the war against crime.

The senate committee, under the chairmanship of Senator J. W. E. Beck of DeKalb, has been holding secret sessions in many cities to hear testimony from well-informed persons on the true crime situation. The hearings have been clothed in utmost privacy.

Representative Albert Walker of Vernon, chairman of the house committee on criminal jurisprudence, is directing the work on reforms in criminal court procedure.

The legislature will be asked by Allred to repeal the law legalizing the pari-mutuel system of betting on horse races, now little more than a year old in Texas. Allred made repeal of race track gambling one of the issues of his campaign and it is a platform demand of the democratic party.

The meter industry has made heavy investments in tracks and plant equipment in Houston, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, Galveston and other cities and is prepared to wage an arduous struggle.

First Woman Public Enemy in U.S.

The nation's first woman public enemy, the widow of "Baby Face" Nelson, shown here, is the target of a relentless hunt by federal agents, with no mercy to be given if she is found. Mother of two children, the 94-pound Chicago girl left them to flee with her killer mate and was with him, federal agents believe, when he died after slaying two U. S. operations in Barrington, Ill.

MANY TEXAS TECH STUDENTS FIND JOBS TO EARN OWN WAY

LUBBOCK, Dec. 14.—Texas Technological college has 929 regularly employed students enrolled who are earning part or all of their expenses out of the present enrollment of 2,431, or a 38 plus per cent.

Applications for work were made by 1,013 students, 587 of whom enrolled this semester. Men employed number 687, while there are 342 women working. The Federal Emergency Relief administration affords employment for 216 students, which is included in the total previously given. These FERA jobs are held by 136 men and 80 women students. At the present the employment bureau has on file 206 applications from unemployed students desiring work.

The average monthly salary for men is $29.36, and for women $24.19. The hourly earnings of the two, respectively, are 29 cents and 22 cents. Men average working 3.8 hours per day, while women average 4 hours, based on 26 working days per month. The annual amount earned by working students is $180,724.00 in the nine months session of college.

The college itself employs 179 men students and 55 women students, a total of 234 workers, not including the FERA employes.

There are 95 men students employed as store clerks, while 59 are employed as waiters, the next highest classification of employment. The 687 men are employed in 136 different fields, and 242 women in 29 fields. From working as artists, dishwashers, historians, and companions to children, men students finance themselves through Tech by framing pictures, radio announcing, carrying mail, weaving, washing windows, and butchering.

Calkins said he could not identify his captors. After his release William Case of Kildare drove him here, where his family, whom Calkins had telephoned, had arranged to meet him.

He was driven to a hideout 30 miles southeast of Herington, Kan., in the Flint hills, where his captors guarded him in a cow barn until nightfall.

NINE WORKERS COMPELLED TO SWALLOW OIL

COL. BATISTA BLAMED FOR WRECKING PLANT

By EDMUND A. CHESTER Associated Press Foreign Staff

HAVANA, Dec. 14. (AP)—The strong ABC political society said today an allegedly government-inspired raid on its newspaper, Accion, is "equivalent to a declaration of war."

The statement of the society's central committee came as the government took every precaution against uprisings. Rumors of impending revolt raged over the island, torn by months of political dissension and violence.

Last night a group of armed men entered the editorial rooms of the anti-government newspaper Accion, official organ of the ABC group, and forced nine editorial workers to accompany them to the outskirts of Havana, where the victims were made to take castor oil.

Forty armed police took over offices of the newspaper. They told editors "there will be no paper this morning on orders of Colonel Pedraza (chief of Havana police)."

The ABC society broke several months ago with the government of President Carlos Mendita, forcing its members within the cabinet to resign. Accion has been waging a strong campaign against Col. Fulgencio Batista, commander-in-chief of the army and "strong man" of the administration.

Rumors flooded Havana, which was on edge. The government has suspended constitutional guarantees in every province save one. Extra vigilance was noted throughout the city. Many police appeared for study armed with rifles.

Victims of the abduction last night said they believed secret police conducted the raid. When they returned to the office telephone wires had been cut, typewriters overturned and papers scattered.

Although there were denials, it was known there has been friction within the army and that Batista is making every effort to eliminate it.

Lt. Col. Julio M. Velasco, adjutant general, said the "retirement" of one major, three captains, 22 lieutenants and two enlisted men was prompted by old age requirements and physical disabilities. He denied that the action had political significance.

Although his path has been a thorny one, Mendita has occupied the presidential palace longer than any of the successors of Gerardo Machado, overthrown 18 months ago. He came into office last January.

Travel by railroad to Yellowstone National Park increased 130 per cent during the 1934 tourist season over 1933. The 1934 total was 12,383 persons.

deal" administration's Bankhead act. Stimulated with a fresh knowledge of the contents of the production control act, explained to them in county meetings conducted by AAA representatives, voters decided if the measure is to be continued in effect for another crop year.

The answer is "yes" or "no" to the question "are you in favor of continuing the Bankhead act for next year (June 1, 1935, to May 31, 1936)?"

A two-thirds majority of the total vote favoring the act will authorize Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to fix a maximum amount of cotton to be harvested and ginned exempt from taxation under provisions of the measure. The maximum for 1934-35 was 10,000,000 bales.

The proposal bears the endorsement of President Roosevelt, who said he favors a two-bale exemption.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Cotton farmers of the southland were writing a momentous decision today on the future of iron control of crops in America.

Two million of them in 16 states were called upon to say "yes" or "no" on a proposal to continue the Bankhead compulsory cotton control act in 1935. The act seeks to hold the crop down by a drastic tax on cotton marketed above 10,400,000 bales.

To keep the act in force a two-thirds majority is necessary. Indirectly, more than the Bankhead measure is involved in the election. Officials acknowledged it would be a guide on voluntary, and perhaps compulsory, control of other crops.

Some officials of the agriculture adjustment administration indicate nationalism in other countries may drive the United States to sever, long-time restraints on other lines of farm goods.

Secretary Wallace, however, is still against compulsion for other major crops, though acknowledging the cotton plan worked "better than I had expected."

Secretary Wallace originally was opposed to the principle of compulsory control. In saying recently that the Bankhead law had worked better than he expected, he declared the south was a laboratory for testing the principle of compulsion if the growers of cotton wished it should be given the aid of the federal government.

Today's vote is the first real test among the growers themselves. Last spring when the act was considered by congress a sketchy poll of farmers was taken but was admittedly weak because of the small number voting and the fact that many county agents and government officials cast ballots.

Endorsement of the act for 1935 would result in a continuance of the tax of 50 per cent on all cotton produced in excess of individual allotments. These are set by county production control committees under the supervision of county and state boards of appeal and the Washington office of the AAA.

A national quota, probably 12,000,000 bales, would be apportioned among states, counties, and individuals. Farmers would be issued tax-exemption certificates for each bale of their quotas and tags which would be required on all bales before handlers could accept them for marketing. All other cotton would be subject to the 50 per cent tax.

Two dangers exist under the act, officials believe. The total cotton which could be marketed tax-free would be increased by an additional 700,000 bales under the tax-exemption certificates issued this year but unused because of the short crop. Also, cotton farmers may, with tools and labor available, concentrate on producing a higher yield on acres not under voluntary contract and plan on marketing it after paying the tax, counting that excess as clear profit.

and marked her instead for the massacre.

He returned a few days later—it was June 3, 1928—said he was not going to his farm until the next day, and invited Grace to accompany him that day to a party he said his sister was giving for some children.

Delightfully, the child pinned a rose on her white dress and went with him—to death.

After picking up his baleful bundle, Fish took her by train to the Westchester hideaway which he knew to be unoccupied. He had lived in a nearby house eight years ago.

Telling the child to play in the yard until the other guests arrived, he went into the house, laid out his gruesome array of tools and called her.

Police Sidetracked It was three days later before he returned. It was there that they found the body last night, the skull, a few bones and tattered remnants of a tarpaulin.

After pointing out the traces of his crime, the nervous little man returned to police headquarters to face her family.

Throughout their unceasing investigation, police had been hindered, rather than helped by the family. They had identified several suspects, two of whom were identified only to be acquitted later at the direction of the courts. This time the family was sure—and so were authorities.

Police said Fish was the father of six children, had been estranged from his wife for years, and had been arrested several times, convicted one of grand larceny.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Low-priced specialties held the attention of today's stock market and heavy trading in a number of these issues helped to maintain the volume in otherwise dull dealings. Most of the so-called leaders followed a narrow groove. The close was fairly sideway. Transfers approximated $25,000 shares.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—The commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "There is about an average volume of business being done in the wool markets of the country at the present time. Manufacturers are getting belated heavyweight orders especially in men's wear in consequence of the colder weather and an rushing goods through the mills as fast as possible, buying almost wholly to cover these contracts. Prices are maintained on a steady basis."

"Foreign markets are generally firm, with the secondary markets of Europe rather stronger than the primary markets of the southern hemisphere."

"Here and there in the West, there has been some movement of wool at prices which show little change in values."

"Mohair continues slow in the eastern markets, some further buying of spring mohair in Texas is reported at 18 cents for adult and 28 cents for kid."

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations: Sourced basis: Texas: Fine 12 months (selected) 73 at 75; fine short 12 months 70 at 72; fine 8 months 68 to 68; fall 58 at 60.

Mohair: Domestic, good original bag, Texas spring, 35-38 cents; Texas kid 50-52.

well paid for the services he gives in addition to teaching. . . We believe better results would obtain if training were behind closed gates except for perhaps one scrimmage each week. The boys than could concentrate on what the coaches are saying rather than trying to put on a show for the benefit of the fans.

TO SPEAK AGAIN of housing, the board will have a serious problem if the grade school enrollment goes any higher. Classes have become too large for the rooms and for the attention of teachers. How would you like to have 48 wigglers, crowded first grade pupils under your care every day? And how would you like to have your child, making its first start on its education, working under such conditions? Yes this situation has arrived. Although many persons are leaving Pampa and taking their children with them in routine oil field transfers, an even larger number move here every month. Truly, we have civic "growing pains."

Three Rig Fires Are Being Probed Mysterious fires which damaged three Texas company oil well rigs near Pampa were under investigation today by the sheriff's department and County Attorney Sherman White.

The most serious damage was to the company's No. 16 J. B. Powers well, where tubing dropped and bent. It was doubtful whether the well could be saved. It had a potential production of more than 300 barrels daily.

SLAYING

Huey said he noticed Berger shortly after entering the post-office.

"I went immediately to him and said: 'Mr. Berger, I'd like to talk over our affairs with you.'" Huey testified.

Berger replied: 'get your gun, you . . . and he pulled his own. I grabbed his arm as quick as I could with both hands. He backed up and I pushed his hand to one side. His gun fired twice. He closed in with his left arm around my neck and his right under my left. I went for my gun.

"We clinched together and I worked around until I got my gun. His left hand caught my right wrist. Then I fired. I kept firing from that position and kept trying to keep him from shooting me. I shot him somewhere in the back."

With the completion of Huey's testimony, the defense rested. The defendant's story was the climax to testimony of nine other witnesses which was offered in an effort to establish a self-defense motive.

State prosecutors failed to shake Huey's testimony. On cross-examination, a special prosecutor brought out that the defendant was six feet tall, weighed 210 pounds and had been a boiler maker formerly. Asked if there hadn't been "bad blood" between him and Berger, Huey said there was "on Berger's part."

He testified there had been a legal difficulty between them for about a year. Huey denied he approached Berger with his hand inside his coat and shook a finger in his face.

He explained that he always carried a gun in his car because, as tax collector, he handled large sums of money and had to transport it to Panhandle to the county's depository.

The defendant said his weapon held six bullets and if seven shots entered Berger's body "I never fired Berger's gun."

Huey admitted, on cross-examination, that he had inquired for Berger prior to the shooting.

"I was seeing that I shot him before he got to me," he said.

On direct examination he testified he was dodging, not hunting, Berger.

In an effort to impeach testimony of H. M. Chenault, who yesterday said Berger predicted the killing about an hour before it occurred, the state placed two rebuttal witnesses on the stand.

Tears came to the eyes of Mrs. Helen Thompson, daughter of the slain man, when she told of finding his body on the postoffice floor. She said her father asked her just before noon the day of the shooting to accompany him to Amarillo. She next saw him, she testified about 3 p. m. at his home.

H. J. Farwell, vice-president of an Amarillo bank, said Berger was in his bank between 1:10 and 2 p. m. that afternoon. Chenault had testified it was about 2 p. m. when Berger talked with him in Berger.

buy a license so he could carry Aunt Sue, and 50 cents to buy them some candy.

"Laugh, Glow" the Senior class play to be presented in the city hall auditorium next Monday and Tuesday evenings, will solve these and many other embarrassing situations.

Mystery and romance are delightfully combined in this three-act comedy of two young fellows who after spending considerable time as guests of one jail or another have finally secured respectable jobs as chauffeur and butler to a wealthy society matron.

The cast of 14 high school seniors, many of whom are well known to Pampa audiences for their performances in other plays, are working hard putting the final touches on the first high school dramatic production of the year. Ben Gull, who coached the one-act play which won State last year, is director.

Tickets are on sale for 20 and 35 cents. Seniors are earning money for the class trip to Carlsbad, Cavern next spring by selling tickets.

Mrs. Steve Oates of LeFors was a Pampa shopper yesterday afternoon.

PLA-MOR NOW RE-DECORATED IN FINE STYLE

Dancers and music lovers who attend the regular Saturday dance at the new Pla-Mor Dance Palace tomorrow night will see the hall completely re-decorated, the amplifying system working and all remodeling completed to make one of the finest dance palaces in the Panhandle. It has always been the plan of the management of the Pla-Mor to make everything conducive to the enjoyment of those who attended the dances. It was with this in mind that work was started some time ago to improve the condition of the hall.

Chick Talcott, whose popularity is increasing with every dance, will play tomorrow night. His entertainers are proving worthy of the reputation which preceded them to Pampa. The Pla-Mor management feels fortunate in keeping Talcott and his orchestra in Pampa.

The admission will be 25 cents with a charge of 5 cents per dance. Plans are being made to care for a large crowd and an enjoyable evening is assured for those who attend.

Ma' Ferguson Frees Thirteen Texas Convicts

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today granted two full pardons, nine conditional pardons and two reductions and commutations of sentences to convicts.

A sentence of 99 years assessed A. B. (Babe) Lawrence in Tarrant county in June, 1925, upon conviction of robbery with fire arms, was commuted so he would be freed July 1, 1936. The governor commuted a 10-year sentence given J. E. Reynolds in Kaufman county in March, 1934, on conviction of murder, to three years.

Full pardons were granted Olin Mercer, convicted in Ellis county in February, 1929, of murder and sentenced to 35 years, (received conditional pardon in January, 1934), and C. W. Green, Scurry county, March 1933, violation liquor law, 18 months (received conditional pardon March 1934).

Conditional pardons: Sil Shives, Grayson county, November, 1934, violation liquor law, three years; Claude Johnson, Grayson county, November, 1934, violation liquor law, three years; Van Turpin, McLennan and Stephens counties, January, 1933, theft, five years; Frank Boykins, Taylor county, May, 1934, robbery, five years; J. M. Riggs, Wilbarger county, July, 1933, theft, 2 years.

Merchants Sell Food on Credit To Unemployed

McALESTER, Okla., Dec. 14. (AP)—The hundreds of unemployed who spent the night in the courthouse here began discharging this morning when arrangements were completed for each to get $5 worth of groceries from McAlester merchants.

The merchants agreed to supply the food on a promise from governor-elect E. W. Marland that the legislature would be asked to repay them when it meets in January.

The number of orders may run as high as 800, Senator E. P. Hill, who aided in making the arrangements said.

Skinner Is Heard By Pampa Citizens

D. A. Skinner, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was heard by George Briggs, R. B. Fisher, Travis Lively, Raeburn Thompson, and Jim Collins in Amarillo yesterday.

Mr. Skinner pleaded for cooperation and coordination of various business and industrial interests and the people generally in the quest for better times. He said that the national chamber was supporting the government in the recovery program while, of course, differing on some subjects.

SENATOR NYE URGES LIBERALS TO SEIZE CONTROL OF G. O. P.

BIG BUSINESS DIVORCEMENT IS ADVOCATED

MUST TURN ITS BACK ON PRIVATE MONEY BAGS OF NATION

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—A call for complete reorganization of the republican party resounded today in the wake of a warning that unless the party is "reborn" it will die.

That warning was handed bluntly to eastern republicans last night and Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota. In speeches before an audience of between 2,500 and 3,000, including many leaders of the party, they urged a reorganization along lines of "constructive liberalism."

The republican party, said Nye, "needs to be reborn. It needs to accomplish complete divorcement from its old loves, its old moorings."

It must turn its back, he continued, upon "that which has been its undoing, namely, the private money bags of the country."

"No matter how desperate may be the need for money in rebuilding the party, the greatest amounts of it will be to no avail if it must be paid back by favors to big business which furnishes it."

Bomb urged young republican clubs and liberals to revolt against the "reactionaries" now in control of the party by organizing in every state and county and seizing the party machinery. He said a conservative party is "impossible" in these times.

Asserting the depression served as a notice that "the inequities and injustices of our economic structure call for readjustment," Borah called for reorganization of the party giving recognition to labor, the small businessman and the "millions" who have been "stripped of their life's savings and life's opportunities."

Both senators commended President Roosevelt's leadership, but at-

REMARKABLE DISTRIBUTION OF PUPILS FOUND IN SURVEY MADE AT B. M. BAKER SCHOOL BY MEEK

Interesting figures on the distribution of enrollment in B. M. Baker school has been prepared by J. A. Meek, principal.

On December 7 the enrollment reached 658 pupils, of which 121 were in school for their first term. Thirty-four had attended other schools in Pampa previously. Out-of-town and out-of-state pupils numbered 88. There were 374 families represented.

Of the total enrollment, 133 children have either left the city or transferred to other city schools. Of this number, 40 were enrolled in B. M. Baker last year or were beginners this year. Eighty-five were out-of-state pupils, who came from the following states: Texas 55, Oklahoma 20, Missouri 2, Kansas 2, New Mexico 2, California 2, Louisiana 2. The 88 other students who left the city originally came from: Texas 48, Oklahoma 20, New Mexico 6, Missouri 2, Kansas 2.

The gross enrollment to date is 691 pupils, representing 446 families.

The remarkable distribution of the pupils who have come and gone was shown in the following survey: Wheeler 2, Matador 2, Electra 3, Shreveport 1, Shamrock 1, Conroe 1, Longview 1, California 1, Littlefield 2, Kilgore 1, Plainview 1, Oklahoma City 1, Wichita Falls 3, Missouri 1, Memphis 1, McCamey 1, Knox City 1, Bristol, Okla. 1, Goodnight 1, Archer City 4, Santa Fe, N. It is a matter of opinion, probably influenced liberally by political preferences, whether Theodore Joslin has bettered the familiar picture of his former employer, Herbert Hoover, in "Hoover Off the Record" (Doubleday, Doran).

Mr. Joslin was Hoover's secretary. He kept a diary, evidently a most complete one. He waited some time after Hoover's retirement to Palo Alto to speak his mind. Now he draws his own Hoover portrait, and it is like the never-to-be-forgotten Ravel "Bolero," which is a study in crescendo.

Mr. Joslin begins with a justification of Hoover methods, Hoover silence, and one or two other characteristics of the ex-president. Then he reaches the main theme of his book, and that is the incredible Hoover capacity for hard work. This he develops in greater and greater volume, until finally the reader has the feeling (quite without Joslin's desire and perhaps wrongly) that if only Mr. Hoover had been able to play, things might have gone easier for him.

The former secretary writes sincerely. He is willing, as is his principal, to await the much-touted "verdict of history" on the actual accomplishments of the Hoover administration.

"Dangerous Gold," by Stone Cody (Morrow). It probably will classify as a "standard western," but it is better than the average.

"Mary Poppins," by P. L. Travers (Reynal & Hitchcock). A nonsense book about a gorgeous specimen of English nurse which can be read by adults as well as children.

AMONG THE AUTHORS OF NEW BOOKS
Pearl Buck's new novel will be published by the John Day company in January. The title is A HOUSE DIVIDED and it concludes the trilogy which was begun four years ago in "The Good Earth" and was continued in "The Sons." Together the three novels cover a period of fifty years of Chinese life.

Maynard A. Dominick, formerly of Frederick A. Stokes company, died late in October. Mr. Dominick had been with Stokes since he first joined the firm (then White & Stokes) as office boy, in 1882. He was forced by ill health to retire from active business in 1933, but kept his interest. He was one of the charter members of the New York Booksellers' League.

Publication of SCARFACE, THE STORY OF A GRIZZLY, by Dorr G. Yeager, originally announced or November by the Penn Publishing company, has been deferred till spring.

Mark Hellinger, author of THE TEN MILLION, and Gladys Glad recently have signed a contract to begin a series of broadcasts over the NBC chain, starting shortly after the first of the year.

Donald Wilhelm, the well-known journalist, has written a timely and exhaustive study of the Housing Plan, under the title, YOUR HOME AND THE GOVERNMENT. This is the fifth in a series of F & R pamphlets.

Alexander Grossett, one of the great figures in American publishing, died on October 27, at the age of 64. For some 40 years he had been one of the history makers in the book world. He it was who produced the first "reprint." He was first to make "movie editions" of both new and old books. Some of the most ambitious publishing projects of today have been built on the foundations of his ideas. Mr. Grossett, born in Quebec in 1870, was head of the stockroom of the United States Book company for some years. He was president of Grossett & Dunlap when that firm was incorporated in 1918. UTILITY PROPAGANDA IS BLAMED FOR INVESTORS LOSING BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—The federal trade commission said today that propaganda boosted the pre-depression prices of public utilities in which investors afterward lost "billions."

Making another report to the senate on its 8-year inquiry into utilities, the commission said: "It probably would not be overstating to say that the losses to investors in utility securities attributable to utility campaigns for selling and the increases in prices effected thereby were in the billions."

While engaged in propaganda to disparage public ownership, the commission said, "the utilities pursued their ultimate objective of creating a halo around all their practices, including financing."

"Additional super-holding companies were also created which issued securities almost without limit," the report said, "often with little or no regard for the underlying soundness of or necessity for such issues,—in a field devoted to public use, and supposedly regulated as local monopolies."

"Among the holding companies that brought forth and sold large quantities of such issues were: "Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities company of Chicago (Insull companies); Associated Gas & Electric company group (the Hopson and Mangle group); Commonwealth and Southern and United Corporation (commonly referred to as Morgan group); Tri-Utilities group (Ohrstrom group); Foshay group; Standard Gas & Electric company group (Bylesby group); Central Public Service company (the Pierce group); and Cities Service company group (Doherty group)."

"Much of the selling by the two last named companies was accomplished by actual door to door peddling by employes of the subsidiary operating companies. In other instances "customer ownership" and other high pressure local sales campaigns were planned and carried out."

EDUCATION AND MERCHANDISING

Probably many persons do not associate the spread learning with the spread of trade, but a moment's reflection will show the relationship.

Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas Teachers college, recently said on this subject:

"Some years ago I read a statement by an economist to the effect that a civilization is measured by the number and kinds of its wants. A people who have few simple wants generally follows a low standard of living; or turning it around, people who follow a low standard of living have, as a rule, few wants. To raise this standard in any given part of the world, or, preferably, in all of it, and thus increase the sum total of human wants would seem to be one sure method of restoring prosperity. If, for example, the people of South America should adopt the same standards of living as the people of North America maintain, world trade would be appreciably stimulated. Industry, commerce, transportation, and their allied activities would take on new life throughout the civilized world, and that hoary old corner around which prosperity has been hiding so long might be easy to find.

"As a corollary to the above proposition, the lowering of the standards of living in any appreciable part of the world would have an adverse effect upon business conditions—would tend to slow down our factories, reduce our commerce, do injury to transportation, and generally impede the return of business prosperity. For example, if North America should slip down to the standards of living practiced in South America, it is probably that more than half, if not two-thirds, of our business institutions would go out of business permanently, and prosperity as we have known it heretofore in this country would go into permanent hiding. Surely no intelligent person would advocate reducing the ambitions, the hopes, the wants of the American people.

"Now the question naturally arises, what are the factors that uphold and advance a people's standard of living? Native intelligence, of course, has something to do with it, but history teaches that practically all people, under proper conditions, will rise in intelligence and in creative activity, and will gradually pitch their lives on a higher plane. As intelligence and virtue increase, a people adopt new standards of living—multiply their wants—increase the demand for goods—set the wheels of industry, commerce, and transportation in motion—stimulate prosperity. Then, it would seem to follow that means for the increase of intelligence and virtue among the masses constitute the factors of first importance in bringing back prosperous times. Therefore, enlightened selfishness, if nothing else, dictates that the American people should maintain at its highest possible efficiency the great public school system which has done, and is now doing, so much to advance the standard of living in this country. Those individuals who would reduce educational opportunity are short-sighted, if not unpatriotic citizens."

WASHINGTON. — The more you hear about what happened in Nebraska this fall, the more significant it seems among the fall election results.

And the more prestige it gives to Senator George W. Norris, the independent progressive whose friends expect him to be the most effective leader in the new Congress.

Nowhere, the facts detailed by returning Nebraskans indicate, has there been such a victory for a non-partisan popular leader over the combined forces of politicians and the powerful groups customarily behind them as in Nebraska's vote for a non-partisan one-house legislature.

Norris began the fight for his proposal alone. Both the Republican and Democratic organizations fought him to the end. The power group and all other interests accustomed to lobbying successfully in the existing two-house legislature threw their full strength against him. None of the major candidates for office supported the reform and nearly all members of or candidates for the legislature opposed it violently. Most newspapers objected.

Yet Norris, with an unfamiliar issue, picked up so much support that the one-house legislature won by about 3 to 2, with a majority of 98,000.

The senator's old enemies banded against him, hoping to discredit him in defeat and perhaps establish Arthur Mullen, Democratic boss of the state. They pleaded earnestly for the sacred constitution and its system of "checks and balances."

"When the books are balanced on adjournment of the legislature," Norris replied, "it's always found that the politicians have the checks and the special interests have the balance."

Most types of hypocrisy and skulduggery Norris has observed during 30 years in Congress are provided against in the Nebraska measure. And in Washington Norris is looking forward to the first non-lame-duck Congress under his 20th amendment to the federal Constitution—another victory for popular government. More than nearly anyone else, he is worth watching this winter.

Most of us also seem to have overlooked another Nebraska victory—that of Mr. Karl Steffen, who defeated the veteran Democratic Congressman Edgar Howard.

This one may be significant, too, for Steffen won on the caressing appeal of his radio voice. For years a radio announcer at Norfolk, Neb., Karl was a great favorite with the folks.

He had never taken any part in politics or public affairs and he stuck to that policy right through the campaign. Howard tried desperately to get him to discuss issues, but the sweet-voiced Steffen was too busy broadcasting his personal condolences on the death of a loved one in some lonely farmhouse or congratulating a couple of poor wretches elsewhere on the birth of twins.

This new technique of baby-kissing by air easily defeated Howard, who put on a terrific campaign despite his 76 years and the damaging assertion of his primary opponent that he wouldn't live out his term.

If that bridge expert, who wants $300,000 for the use of his name in a liquor ad, wants to make real dough, he should get after those who use his name in vain in nearly every bridge game in the country.

The way the bankers went for that federal bond issue of $900,000,000, you'd think some South American country had offered it.

TEXAS HISTORY

Brushing Up on Facts You Ought to Recall

Captain Costales of the Presidio of La Bahia del Espiritu Santo kissed the message he had just received from the Viceroy, and placed it on his head as a symbol of obedience. Then, with fingers trembling in haste, he opened the message. Inside was permission to construct three missions, at whatever desirable location the fathers selected. In his decree of Oct. 2, 1730, the viceroy had ordered three soldiers for the missions, but Captain Costales did not receive the official decree until Dec. 15, 1730. Word reached the captain of the Presidio of San Antonio de Bexar that permission had been granted for the missions, and Jan. 12, 1731, the captain decreed that they be built. March 5, 1731, possession was taken of the land on the Medina river. The captain and Father Bergara firmly clasped the hand of the captain of the Indian tribe, then went through the usual acts of pulling weeds, throwing stones, and taking handfuls of water. A last note of possession was that the Indians "should do all they could in advancement of Christian doctrine, and in avoidance of crime."

Above the site on the Medina river, Captain Perez of the Presidio of San Antonio de Bexar took possession of the mission grounds of San Francisco de la Espada and San Juan, situated on the San Antonio river. Spanish possessions were considerably enhanced by the construction of the three new missions, and during the next ten years they progressed rapidly.

Outstanding for their work in preserving records, in preaching, and furthering the New Spain interests were Fray Benito Fernandez de Santa Anna, Father Francisco Marina de Los Rios, Fray Viana, and Father Martin Garcia, official recorder.

Before the nineteenth century, San Antonio de Bexar and its nearby territory was dotted with missions and adobe houses. Indians were becoming more civilized and friendly, and Spaniards had proved to themselves, as well as to all of New and Old Spain, that their venture would be of inestimable value. Missions in other parts of the province add the final bit of information to the history of churches and religion in the new land of Texas.

CLAIM DU PONT MADE MILLIONS QUICKLY AT COST OF U. S.

POWDER PLANT IN TENNESSEE WAS LARGEST

MERCHANTS OF DEATH MADE $2,000,000 IN FEW WEEKS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—The story of "Old Hickory"—giant powder plant cited by investigators as an example of large war profits without risk—drew the attention of the senate munitions investigation today.

Alger Hiss, investigator for the senate committee, planned to stress the contention that the Du Ponts, powder manufacturers, bargained with the government for months during the world war over the construction of the plant and that after they built it at government cost it made over $2,000,000 in a few weeks.

He indicated he would emphasize that while the negotiations were going on the government, then at war, was deprived of the munitions the plant would make.

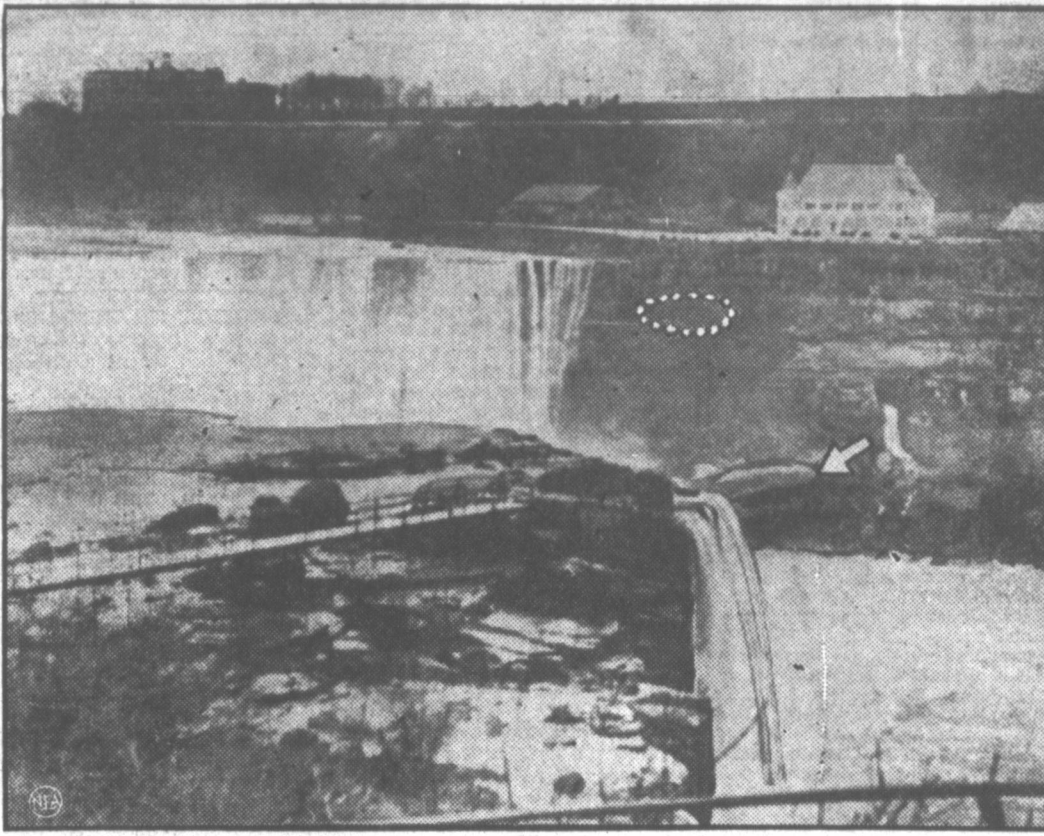

But Du Pont officials contended sharply that the picture drawn by Hiss was misleading. They said they managed the construction of the $85,000,000 plant for a payment of $1 and operated it for a royalty of three cents on every pound of ammunition produced. This netted about $2,481,185, but $1,976,645 was paid back to the government under the excess profits tax, the company officials said.

This left $474,540 for the Du Pont subsidiary that handled the project, but company officials said only $275,000 of this ever reached the parent organization because the government refused to allow $200,000 spent in a bonus to employees.

On the other hand, the committee contended the contract carried no risk for the Du Ponts because the government put up all the money.

Old Hickory was built near Nashville, Tennessee, in 1918, and operated only a few weeks before the armistice. It was known as the highest powder plant in the world.

all over the state and pries him away from his family at night.

Alfred, clearly showing the strain of the pressure to which he has been subjected, said he has hoped in vain for an opportunity to get away somewhere—anywhere—by himself and do a little much needed thinking over his legislative program, appointments and other pressing matters.

"The job hunters came all the way from the Oklahoma line to Mexico when I tried to get away on a hunting trip. They followed me down to the coast. They follow me everywhere I go."

It was suggested that Alfred provide himself with a one-man tent and he away to the solitude of the wilderness in West Texas.

"Impossible," he said. "Someone always finds out where I am. I tried that a short time ago by going by myself on a fox hunt and a job hunter followed me into a secluded valley. It is getting so every time I go into a restaurant or a drug store someone hits me up for a job. They recognize me from the pictures I had placed about during the campaign."

"Just look at this batch of mail. (His desk was piled high with correspondence). It's bad now, been bad for weeks and is getting worse every day."

The visitor to Alfred's office in the attorney general's department was impressed by the frequency with which the long distance telephone rings to interrupt Alfred's conferences. Calls come in every few minutes from widely separated points as those who would have state plums in their laps seek to build up the pressure in their favor.

In late weeks Alfred is usually, if not always, late to appointments.

"Well, I asked for it and I got it and it's up to me," Alfred commented philosophically.

MORE MULES AND HORSES NEEDED IN DIVERSIFIED FARMING METHODS TODAY

Less Machine-Work Will Be Done, Writer Says, When Single Crops Abandoned.

"Nothing would do more to promote prosperity in Texas than raising the standard of horses and mules on the farms and ranches."

This is the opinion of Louis J. Wardlaw, prominent Texas ranch owner and operator, attorney, and member of the board of regents of the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas.

Judge Wardlaw has large holdings in Vel Verde, Edwards, and Sutton counties.

"Since I have been on the board of regents of Texas' principal school devoted to the interests of the farmer and rancher, I have learned more of the need of better breeding in Texas, and lots of it," Judge Wardlaw said.

"Texas has tried the one-crop system of farming and has found that it promotes poverty and prosperity. We are confronted with complaints that cotton, the principal farm product, is being over-produced, and we know that the constant cultivation of cotton to the exclusion of other crops and the growing of livestock has pauperized a large section of the people."

"It also is true that there have been reports of over-production in hogs and the situation as to cattle has been distressful, due to some extent to drought conditions."

up," she went on calmly. "I only pretended to!"

I drew in a long breath. Then the comic side of the whole thing suddenly struck me, and without the smallest warning I went off into a shout of laughter. The girl stood perfectly still—her small hands gripping the balustrade.

"It reminds me of that text in the Bible," I said. "The wicked flee where no man pursueth." I took another step towards her. "Won't you come down and introduce yourself?" I suggested. "I always like to thank people who save me from being murdered."

Very slowly she descended the staircase.

"You have nothing to thank me for, I came here with the same object as those two men."

"You did what?" I inquired.

"I came to get my papers which I thought you had stolen from Osborne."

I stood for a moment looking at her blankly. It seemed to me as if the whole world were suddenly going mad.

"Nicholas' uninvited guest explains many things to him, Monday."

"But nowhere has there been complaint that there is an over-production of horses and mules. The truth is that the market for these has been steadily rising now for some time, and as it becomes generally known that Texas faces an acute shortage of both the price will still further advance."

"Another point to consider is that diversified farming, to which Texas now realizes it must come, means less machine farming. Where there is a diversity of products investments in costly machines so prevalent under the one-crop system, will be unprofitable."

"This means a constantly increasing demand for more draft horses and for more mules. Reliable statistics show that the average of Texas horses is around 18 years, an alarming situation, and one requiring immediate action if the state is not to lose this great industry entirely."

"Much of the soil of Texas is primarily fitted for the raising and breeding of livestock. Land can thus be utilized, giving it a productive value, which is practically worthless under present conditions. Not only is this true but the fact that by government decree the acreage in some crops is being drastically limited makes for idle farm lands, unless other profitable crops can be found for them. These idle lands, naturally mean they are of less value, the assets of the owner are depreciated and the tax returns to the state are lessened, the consequence being that everybody is the loser."

"With the reviving of the breeding and feeding industry these lands can be put to profitable use in the growing of feed crops. There will be an ever increasing demand from the outside for feedstuff, and the farmer, by having a few brood mares himself will have his own profitable outlet for this feed crop."

"As more thoroughbred come to Texas, as more people become interested in their ownership thus adding greater demand for them, they will bring a very substantial degree of prosperity in themselves. Of course such a market cannot be developed, not such a demand created, except for the present very favorable laws that Texas has on the matter of racing contests."

"The division the state is making of its revenues and in the placing of more and better stallions on jacks over the state it is performing a very constructive service for all the people. In a great many cases these are placed where no stallion or jack was available at all. Not only is that true but the standard required for those purchased insures that the grade of horses and mules will be very substantially raised within the next few years."

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Several things have happened to Nicholas Trench since he was acquitted of the charge of murdering his former schoolfellow, Osborne, earlier in the day. Nicholas and his cousin, Sir Seymour, have quarrelled because Seymour wants him to get out of England; he learns that the Studio next his has been taken by a young woman; he receives word that Sir William Avon, the chemical engineer, wishes to see him, and two strangers appear at his door asking to come in.

felt deliberately in his pocket, and with his eyes still fixed on mine, drew out a neatly rolled coil of thin whipcord.

"I will give you a last chance," he said. "If you still refuse I shall tie your hands and legs together with this, and then things will happen to you which, believe me, you will not enjoy at all. I can promise you that in a few minutes you will be ready enough to answer my questions."

Before he had finished speaking I had made up my mind. If the choice lay between stopping a bullet or being trussed up and tortured, I had no doubt at all as to which I preferred. I stood as still as death, but every muscle in my body was tense and ready.

The man who was holding the pistol took a step towards me. "You stir a finger," he said, "and I'll blow your guts out."

With a quick jerk Stellman undid the coil. The loops tumbled to the floor, and at the same moment, staggeringly clear through the strained silence, came the sound of a girl's voice.

"The police, please—as quickly as possible."

"What was that?"

The pistol was still pointing full at my mid-section, but from the half shadowed face above it two startled eyes were searching the studio.

"It came from there—the room over the staircase."

"Is that the police? Will you please come at once to Queen Studios, Chalk Farm? It's a case of murder."

A faint oath burst from the clean-shaven man's lips: "Some blighted Jane phoning up the cops. Here take this and I'll . . ."

"No, it's too late now," Stellman's voice was quiet but peremptory.

"Whatever happens we can't afford to be found here." He picked up the coil and thrust it back into his pocket.

"But say . . ."

"Do as I tell you. Keep him covered and follow me." He walked unhurriedly to the entrance where he turned and faced me. "Au revoir, Mr. Trench. I was not aware that you were entertaining friends: we shall meet again very soon."

"I hope so," I said civilly.

Step by step the other backed out after him. There was a brief pause, the faint click of a latch, and the front door shut softly.

To a man who is not accustomed to miracles the sudden arrival of one is apt to be a trifle disconcerting. On the whole, however, I think I acted with commendable promptitude.

It must have been rather less than three seconds before I had wrenched round the key and shot home the bolt behind them, and not more than another two before I was back again in the studio doorway.

I stood there breathing quickly and staring up at my bedroom.

"I don't know who you are," I said, "but I should be frightfully pleased to make your acquaintance."

Very quietly the door opened, and a girl stepped forward into the gallery. She was a small, slender figure dressed in plain black, with a curly mop of copper colored hair. The light was shining full in her face and at the sight of those blue eyes and that sensitive, delicate beauty my heart gave a sudden wild leap.

"My sainted aunt!" I said to myself incredulously.

It was the girl I had seen at my trial—the girl who had sat silent and motionless in the corner seat looking down at me as I stood in the dock.

"You are sure they can't come back?" she asked in a low voice.

"Not unless they break open the door," I advanced a couple of paces.

"It's the police that are going to be the trouble. What am I to say to them?"

"You won't have to say anything at all."

"But . . ."

"You see I didn't really ring them

UTILITY RATES MUST BE CUT SAYS ALLRED

STATE REGULATION TO BE ATTEMPTED IN NEW SESSION

This is the second of a daily series of three stories on the problems that will confront the Texas legislature in January.

By CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer
AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (AP)—Public utilities, oil, the school system and labor will occupy positions of prominence in deliberations of the 44th legislature starting in January.

The long fight for state supervision of rates charged by public utilities will be renewed with increased fervor and will be given impetus with the full support of the administration of Governor-elect James V. Allred.

The form of regulation the administration desires has been outlined by Allred. The bill to carry out his ideas is being whipped into shape with the aid of Dr. R. H. Montgomery, professor of government at the University of Texas, who has become the number 1 brain trust of the governor-elect's administration.

The prime purpose of state regulation is to reduce the rates charged by utilities. In public statements Allred has repeatedly asserted rates generally were too high and should be lowered. His views are reflected in the platform of the democratic party which stated "no recovery program will be complete until the rates of public utilities are scaled down."

Allred has indicated the bill he will sponsor will give a state commission both original and appellate jurisdiction in matters of rates for gas, electric and telephone utilities. The state now exercises only a modified supervision over gas rates and no control whatsoever over electric and telephone utilities.

The railroad commission has authority to hear appeals from gas rate controversies initiated by governing boards of cities and towns. Texas will be given a "yardstick" to measure rates of electric utilities when the Buchanan dam in the Colorado river is completed and placed in operation. The hydro-electric project will be completed with the aid of a government loan, now being negotiated. It will be operated as a public enterprise by the lower Colorado valley authority.

Municipal Ownership
Allred, while asserting private ownership of utilities is preferable, would give communities something to use in bargaining for lower rates through passage of laws making municipal ownership and operation "easy and practicable."

Trial and appellate procedure in rate cases, now highly complex, would be simplified under Allred's proposal.

The controversy over establishment of the CVA, which flared bitterly through three sessions, appears destined to come up again in the regular session. A group headed by Senator-elect Weaver Moore of Houston and Representative Sarah Hughes of Dallas have indicated they would attempt to put through certain amendments to remove provisions highly objectionable to their viewpoint.

While no definite program for strengthening the laws regulating production has been advanced it is regarded as certain the legislature will take whatever action is necessary to give the state full control over this turbulent industry as a checkmate to renewal of demands for federal regulation.

Strong opposition, at times couched in bitter language, has been expressed by Allred to any further encroachment by the federal government on the state's authority to regulate oil matters. The state's hand will be strengthened December 23 when a law giving the commission specific power to control refined petroleum becomes effective, a right the court of civil appeals has ruled the commission had under pre-existing law.

Oil Tax Planned
Representative Albert K. Daniel of Crockett is working on a bill to increase the oil tax to five cents a barrel, the added revenue to be placed in the permanent school fund to provide the schools with an income after Texas' oil fields have played out. Revision of the law levying a gross production tax on oil to aid the comptroller in collecting the tax also will be sought by Daniel.

The school fund, which was on a deficit for years, is on a cash basis with enough revenue in sight. It is estimated to pay the 1934-35 per capita scholastic apportionment by the end of the fiscal year. The school bloc is planning a concerted drive to maintain the present allocation of revenue to enable payment during the next biennium of an increased scholastic apportionment with more substantial aid to rural schools in financial difficulties.

To liquidate the school fund deficit the legislature diverted millions in revenue from the general fund. Now that the school fund is out of the red there is strong sentiment to allocate the diverted income back to the general revenue fund.

The ill-fated attempt in the last legislature to revise the system of higher education likely will not be reviewed but several important changes will be suggested in the educational field.

The most notable revisions to be sought include appointment by the state board of education of the state board of public instruction, now elected by popular vote; appointment of county school superintendents by county boards; increase in the compulsory school age to 16 with the permissive age limit raised to 19 and adoption by the state board of more rigid requirements for teachers' certificates.

The need for coordination in the public school system will be presented to the legislature with added emphasis. Educators long have decried the waste of time, effort and money resulting from the loosely organized system which at present contains approximately 7,250 separate school units, each with its own board and administrative setup.

The number of units easily could be reduced to a more efficient basis and effect a saving of thousands of dollars annually without impairment of the services offered, educators assert.

Numerous recommendations for bolstering the labor laws will be left to the outgoing commission of labor. Charles H. Poe, who is re-writing, with the aid of the attorney general's department, virtually all the labor laws to eliminate "jokers." Poe is paying particular attention to the law with reference to the minimum wages on public contracts.

The labor department also is taking the lead in sponsoring ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution on the ground it would take hundreds of children out of employment regarded as dangerous to their health and morals and open up employment for other persons.

CENTENNIAL NEWS ITEMS

Official Phrase Adopted by the Texas Centennial Commission: "We will be remembered for the good we have done."

DALLAS, Dec. 14. (Special).—In the spring of 1690, Father Massenet, a Franciscan, accompanied by the Spanish captain, Alonso de Leon, into Texas to found a mission and presidio, thus inaugurating the mission period of the history of Texas. The Centennial of whose independence is to be observed in 1936 by fitting celebrations at many points associated with the early days of the State. The missions were founded as the result of the ambition of the Franciscan fathers to convert the wild Indian tribes, such as the Tejas, and the zeal of the temporal powers to prevent infiltration of French from Louisiana.

The expedition proceeded to the Neches river and, at a point on the west bank of that stream, about twenty-five miles from the present city of Pampa, was established the town of Crockett, founded the mission of San Francisco de los Tejas. In 1690 also a second mission, Santisimo Nombre de Maria, was established not far distant from the first. These missions, in the care of a few priests and soldiers, did not prosper and were soon abandoned.

While history frequently records San Francisco de los Tejas as the first mission founded in Texas, it would seem that the mission of Guadalupe at El Paso del Norte, now Juarez and near the present city of El Paso, was established in 1659 and that the settlements of Ysleta, the first Spanish town in Texas, and Socorro were established in 1682, missions were erected at those places in that year, or a year or so later. It would appear, however, that the construction of the Mission Nuestra Señora del Carmen was not started at Ysleta by Fray Joaquin de Hinojosa until May 16, 1892.

By some it is pointed out, as basis of a claim that Mendocino in 1684, constructed the first mission in Texas, while the construction of these West Texas missions possibly represented the actual permanent foundation of Catholicism in the state, it was the establishment of the missions in the eastern part of the state that had great influence in the continuing chronicle of Texas.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Your Own "Candid Camera"

A "candid camera" snapshot, replete with the troublous atmosphere of an unhappy moment. It tells the whole story.

Some magazines and newspapers make a great to-do about "candid camera" pictures, so called because they portray the great near-great in unguarded moments and poses.

Many "candid camera" shots have been made at banquets, receptions, conferences and other such affairs. They show notables being thoroughly human, unaware of the presence of a camera.

Naturally such pictures have a lot of appeal. For they show people as they really are—eating, talking, worrying.

These candid snapshots are usually made with very small cameras, equipped with exceptionally fast lenses and film. Such cameras do not need brilliant light, and they do not become conspicuous.

But you don't need any such camera to make your own "candid camera" snapshots. Of course, you will not be able to shoot under ordinary room lighting—unless your camera has an f.3.5 lens, or faster—but you will find ample opportunity in places where the light is better.

For example, do you have a picture of Dad, or Uncle, or Brother lighting his pipe? Nothing could be more characteristic—and yet it's

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: The Christian and the Lord's Supper.
Scripture Lesson: I Cor. 11:23-34.
23. For I received from the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, that the Lord Jesus in the night in which he was betrayed took bread;

24. And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, This is my body, which is for you: this do in remembrance of me.
25. In like manner also the cup, after supper, saying, This cup is the new covenant in my blood: this do, as often as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26. For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink the cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till he come.
27. Wherefore whosoever shall eat the bread or drink the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner, shall be guilty of the body and the blood of the Lord.
28. But let a man prove himself, and so let him eat of the bread, and drink of the cup.
29. For he that eateth and drinketh and drinketh judgment unto himself, if he discern not the body.
30. For this cause many among you are weak and sickly, and not a few sleep.
31. But if we discern ourselves, we should not be judged, we are chastened of the Lord, that we may not be condemned with the world.

32. Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, wait for another. 34. If any man is hungry, let him eat at home; your coming together be not unto judgment. And the rest will I set in order whensoever I come.

Golden Text: For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till he come. I Corinthians 11:26.

Introduction
To know the origin and purpose of the Lord's Supper and to determine its significance in the Christian experience is a high aim for our study today. We should know the circumstances under which the supper was instituted, its symbolism as explained by our Lord, the early abuses that became attached to its observance, and its permanent significance and worth. Particularly should each of these objectives be related to the experience of the individual Christian and to the worship of the church. Every one who observes the Lord's Supper should strive to know more fully its meaning and purpose.

of that because he is sure of God. He goes on legislating for the future of his church, calmly telling his disciples what they are to do in memory of him. When others saw despair he saw hope.—Prof. Hugo Black.

The Lord's Supper a Memorial
"This do in remembrance of me." This is a memory feast. This is to bring to mind our Saviour's love, all that he did and was for us. Memories, even memories so deep and blessed as this, need refreshing. Our Lord knew well how heedless we are, how prone to forget our benefits, and so he established this feast to bring them to mind. He longs for our memories, our loving gratitude, that he may not be forgotten, as all love longs to be remembered. And we are not to forget that he commands us to keep the eucharist, the feast of joy, for that is what "eucharist" means. He commands it for his joy, and most of all for our own. He wills that he and his people shall thus rejoice together.

"Ye Proclaim the Lord's Death" v. 26
"For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink the cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death." The Lord's supper is festival, an evangelizing feast. It makes a proclamation. It tells the story of the cross. All the marvel of the atonement is wrapped up in it and preached by it. "The Holy Communion shows, or better, proclaims, preaches, the death of the Lord Jesus. For nearly two thousand years this feast has been preaching Jesus Christ and him crucified, and it is to go on preaching the sacrifice of the cross until Jesus comes again."—Rev. Reginald Heber Starr, D. D.

The Lord's Supper a Symbol.
"The Lord's supper is a great symbol. It sets before us the incarnation and sacrifice of Jesus Christ, our Lord. In the Lord's supper thus we confess our faith. It involves also the exercising of our faith. In this sacrament we receive nourishment to our faith. And in the Lord's supper our faith pledges us anew to Christ."—Rev. A. Goodrich, D. D. Founded by our blessed Redeemer, the Lord's supper should be very precious to all his followers; and as we partake of in the this feast, we seal the advancement of his kingdom throughout the world.

"Till He Come" v. 26
What glory is added to the Lord's supper by the words, "till he come!" It will be a physical advent, an advent of power; he will come to reign. Speaking of this second coming, Paul adds, "Wherefore comfort one another with these words." "There is no comfort like the doctrine of the Lord's return. Let all preachers preach it, let they seal a wonderful fountain of comfort to their weary, tempted, sorrowing people."

"Till he come." O let the words Linger on the trembling chords; Let the little while betwixt In their golden light be seen;

PRIVATE AVIATORS ASKED TO JOIN NATIONAL OBSERVANCE

Nearly 7,000 owners of licensed civilian aircraft have been asked to join in the 90-minute flight which will be the outstanding feature of National Aviation day on December 17. In a letter to these aircraft owners, stressing compliance with air traffic rules, Eugene L. Vidal, director of air commerce of the department of commerce, pointed out that the army and navy have pledged complete cooperation, and that airport managers throughout the country are making arrangements for the local observance.

CRUELTY TO HUSBAND
SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—George R. Dingle had to get a divorce in order to flee the fleas. The situation got serious, Dingle told Superior Judge Ward, when Mrs. Dingle condemned her dog's bad manners, and allowed the dog to sleep in the Dingle bed. It got unbearable, he continued, when he discovered the dog had fleas.

A man drowned himself recently at Baltimore by wading out into a river until the water closed over his head. Two policemen fired shots over his head in an effort to stop him.
