GEORGE H. HILL in Rosewell Dispatch—Among the most loyal and faithful class of friends you have are the home merchants who have been standing by you. Let's stand by them.

L. D. and MOLLIE SHAW in Higgins News—It is no easy matter, in this day and age of the world, to choose reading material that is neither dull nor forbidden by thoughtful parents. Children of today are not the simple little folk that used to delight in stories that were good-gooey with a moral thereunto attached. For all that, children are no worse today than they were in the golden age of Robinson Crusoe, or The Blind Beggar of Paris, or Alice in Wonderland, or a dozen other favorites of years ago. In fact, adults have also changed in their taste for reading and are prone to cast aside the old-fashioned novels as too tame and lacking in thrills that thrill. And while we have books without end, people do not read, but go to the movies or listen to the radio.

C. E. CLARK in Childless Index—Santa Claus writing season is a time for practical jokes. Sometimes they can pull pretty funny ones—funny for a few people, meaningless for 99 per cent of the readers. But careful guard is being kept to avoid such jokes, because they tend to hold up to ridicule all these letters, most of them as sincere as their authors are faithful believers in Santa Claus.

T. A. LANDERS in McLean News—McLean's business will grow almost identically with the success of its newspaper. The support from advertisers, which is needed for success, widens the field of influence of the home paper and brings back dividends to the business men involved. There can be no question about the truth of this conclusion.

J. C. ESTLACK in Donley County Leader—There is an attorney in Pampa by the name of "Godwin." In other words, when you have seen in other boys fail to win your case, you can always let Godwin.

CANYON NEWS—I buy at home because my interests are here. Because the community good enough for me to live in is good enough to buy in. Because I believe in transacting business with my friends. Because I want to see the merchandise. Because I want to get what I want when I pay for it.

Because every dollar I spend at home works for the community in which I live. Because the man I buy from stands back of the goods. Because here I live and here I hope to die.

Because the man I buy from helps support my school, my lodge, my church, my home. Because when ill luck, misfortune or bereavement come, the man I buy from is here with his kindly greeting, his pocketbook, if need be.

SAM M. BRASWELL in Clarenden News—The Bankhead Act is good in most respects, but it bodes well for the South that the government has at last realized there must be some elasticity if the plan is not to destroy a numerous and worthy group who cannot subsist if the Act holds them in a death embrace.

MACK STANTON in Clovis News-Journal—I received that most contemptible of all things—the unsigned letter. It came through yesterday's mail. It was typewritten and came in a government printed envelope. Of all the cowardly things in the world the letter writers without the courage to sign their communications are the most contemptible.

LYMAN E. ROBBINS in Memphis Democrat—After all, life is just about the most important thing we have. We are not progressing very far until we learn that "progress" is that which extends and enlightens life, not that which demands human sacrifices.

JODOK in Friona Star—I heard one of our best cotton growers say that the Bankhead law should be called the "BUNKHEAD" law, as it will, if not repealed, ruin every cotton grower on the plains or force him to other lines of farming. This man has grown cotton all his life and knows whereof he speaks. On the other hand the only thing I have heard farmers say they like FREE checks they receive for the cotton they plowed up and did not raise.

I Heard . . .

"Uncle Dick" Delaney, sitting on his heels in an easy chair in the lobby of the Schneider hotel, thoroughly enjoying a game of dominoes. He was kidding the other players and kibitzers, including "Uncle Bob" Dunlap.

Clyde Fathere announcing vigorously that there should be more vegetation on the golf course.

Freedom of Seas Handed England In New Accord

LONDON, Dec. 17. (AP)—The United States delegation to the naval conversations with Great Britain and Japan indicated today, just in advance of the conversation's break-up, that it would have possible future conversations up to the British and Japanese.

All three delegations studied the wording of the declaration of formal adjournment which probably will be issued Wednesday or Thursday at about the time Japan denounces the Washington naval treaty of 1922.

These same quarters said that the last obstacle to an agreement with Great Britain on the question of the freedom of the seas. Great Britain contended in the last war that she had the right to search ships suspected with trading with enemies and it is understood that the proposed new American policy would remove official protection from such ships.

Naval and diplomatic quarters said they believed President Roosevelt was endeavoring to reach a general accord with Great Britain on many questions of this sort and that a possible naval accord was only part of the situation as a whole.

Famous Doctor Hangs Himself

VIENNA, Dec. 17. (AP)—Shortly after completing an emergency operation last night, Dr. Hans Lorenz, famous gallstone expert, hanged himself.

Dr. Lorenz placed a noose round his neck and then bound his hands to prevent a last-minute change of mind.

An assistant said he carried out his last operation with the usual coolness and technical skill. The surgeon is not related to Dr. Adolf Lorenz of Vienna, famous for his orthopedic surgery. Dr. Hans Lorenz is noted as a mountain climber and a balloonist.

Mrs. FDR Parries Marriage Queries

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's reply today to the rumor that her daughter, Mrs. Anna Dall, would marry John Boettiger, former newspaperman, was:

"You may have heard the rumor, but I never have." Pressed by reporters for a more definite statement, Mrs. Roosevelt said with great finality: "I have nothing to say."

Towels Are Used in Burglary of City Music Store

Musical instruments valued at $1,100 were removed from the Tarpley Music company's store on North Cuyler street late Saturday night or early Sunday morning. City police officers are working on the robbery but have few clues on which to base their investigation.

The burglar apparently entered in the Brown and Wise Barber shop and then made his way over the partition into the music shop. A length of knotted towels was found tied to the stairway leading to a beauty shop and barber shop. The thief apparently climbed to the top of the stairs and jumped to the sky light, half of which is over each place, using the towels to lower himself into the music shop.

Police are of the opinion that the burglar had a confederate in a car at the back door. The stock of musical instruments was carefully studied and only the most expensive instruments taken. The others were laid aside on a counter.

The back door has a night latch and it is believed the instruments were taken out that way. The door was locked when Louis Tarpley entered the store yesterday morning. He Tarpley reported the missing instruments missing: A Cavalier horn saxophone, two Cavalier B flat clarinets, a Capital B flat clarinet, a Buescher C melody saxophone, an American alto saxophone and case; an American pro C melody saxophone and case, a Pan-American B flat cornet, and three Cavalier B flat cornets.

Communists Still Busy In U. S. Says A. F. L. President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Belief that communistic activity in this country has continued unabated despite assurances exchanged when the United States recognized the Soviet Union was expressed today before congressional investigators by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Testifying before the special house committee studying allegedly un-American activities, the labor leader said he believed that when Russia was recognized Maxim Litvinoff promised that the Soviet would not sponsor communistic movements in this country.

"The situation is just as bad since the Litvinoff pledge as before," asked Thomas Hardwick, committee chairman.

"There is no doubt about that," Green replied. "We have been extending recognition of the Soviet government and doing a lot of things that I think are helping the communists along."

Green said, however, the communistic movement did not constitute a "danger" at the present time but would "inevitably be a definite menace" unless checked.

He submitted documents to support his contention that communistic organizations were attempting to "undermine trade unions and gain control of the labor movement."

Pampa Motor Co. Starts New Home On North Ballard

Foundation work has been started on a new building for the Pampa Motor company. The firm, headed by Marvin Lewis, agent for Pontiac automobiles, has three lots in the middle of the west side of the second block on North Ballard street.

The building, of brick and tile will be 50 by 140 feet, with a show room 50 by 50 feet. There will be a paint room 25-40 feet with a driveway in south entrance. A used car parking lot will join the building on the south.

Mr. Marvin expects to occupy the building about February 1, when he will be able to display the full line of 1935 cars. The new home of the firm will cost about $9,000. Geo. Woodhouse is the contractor.

Miss Marjorie Buckler, student at Mills college, Oakland, Calif., arrived home yesterday to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Buckler.

35 BILLS ARE APPROVED BY LONG FRIENDS

COMMITTEE ACTS IN 1 HOUR AND FIFTY MINUTES

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 17. (AP)—Voting under Senator Huey P. Long's direction, the house ways and means committee this morning reported "favorably" in one hour and 50 minutes the 35 bills Long had introduced last night in the special session of the legislature.

The session opened last night in an almost festive air. A huge blue lighted Christmas tree stood in the ornate central chamber of the $5,000,000 skyscraper statehouse.

Long moved about as the bills were introduced in the house where the states were read sketchily. No one had an opportunity to inspect them. The senate met and promptly adjourned until tonight at 8 o'clock.

No house bills can reach the senate until Tuesday, and legislators were wondering why it was called to meet at that hour. Senator Coleman Lindsey of Minden, who moved for adjournment, explained: "There may be some other business we may have to do."

One of the 35 bills adds a little more to the franchise tax on corporations. This tax was raised from $1 for every $1,000 of capital stock to $1.25 at the first special session. The second special session raised it to $1.50 and the present session is setting the figure at $2.

The increased revenue will be devoted to establishment of schools of dentistry and pharmacy at the Louisiana State university medical center in New Orleans and some of it may possibly be extended toward arranging for a 50,000-watt radio station which Long says he plans to use to advertise the university.

Another bill is aimed at Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans, Long's antagonist in the New Orleans September primary in which Long's forces defeated those of the mayor.

This bill would make it unlawful for the New Orleans city commission council to cut its appropriations for police and fire departments, as was recently done because of reduced revenues. Long has boasted that the city will soon be "broke" and will have to appeal to him for aid.

Christmas Mail To Be Heaviest In City History

With Christmas packages beginning to arrive in large numbers, the postoffice expects one of the heaviest years in its history. Additional windows have been opened to facilitate mailing and receiving parcels.

The east window on the south side of the lobby has been set aside for the giving out of parcels. The next window will be for receiving parcels. The third window will handle stamps and the fourth window will be for claims and inquiries. The other two windows on the south side of the lobby are for general delivery.

Much "hold" mail and notifications to hold a being received and it is anticipated that Pampa will be the scene of many home-comings this year.

George Briggs in Sudden Collapse

George BRIGGS, manager of the Board of City Development suffered a heart attack early this afternoon at his office and was taken to Pampa hospital in an unconscious condition.

At press time he was regaining consciousness and physicians were hopeful that the attack was passing. His condition did not appear serious. He fell from his chair.

"HOOT" BACK Henry Will (Hoot) Pullington, athletic star of Texas Military College, Terrell, returned to Pampa today to spend the Christmas holidays with his family. "Hoot" played end on the football team which won seven of nine games during the last season. He is regular center on the basketball team. This is his second year at T. M. C.

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 17. (AP)—The body of an unidentified man, who appeared to be about 40 years old, was found shortly before noon today in an abandoned, rain water filled coal pit about six miles northwest of Tulsa today.

Police investigating said there were no marks of violence on the body and the cause of death had not been determined. The officers said that there was not apparent any connection between the death of the man and the sensational John Gorrell slaying case which was in the preliminary hearing stage here during the morning and resulted in the binding over of Phil Kennamer for jury trial.

WOMAN YELLS, CROWD BURSTS INTO COURT AS JUDGE SENDS KENAMER BACK TO JAIL

Tulsa Youth Will Be Held Without Bond; Only Five Witnesses Used in Trial.

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 17. (AP)—In a court room drama acted out with unexpected speed and that brought a near riot from spectators, 19-year-old Phil Kennamer today was bound over for trial in January on a first degree murder charge for the slaying Thanksgiving night of John Gorrell. The trial will begin Jan. 22 before District Judge Thurman Hurst.

Before the steady eyes of Kennamer and to the clamorous accompaniment of a crowd which sought admittance, Floyd Huff, Kansas City flier, told the story that the state has used to send the young son of a federal judge to the electric chair.

The Baptist church was more than filled when the Philharmonic choir, assisted by singers from Amarillo and Hereford, began the program at 8:30 p. m. Effective solos, a double quartet, and orchestra accompaniment were combined with a chorus which responded well to the direction of Prof. Emil F. Myers of Amarillo, guest conductor, whether in the light interpretative passages or in the crashing crescendos of triumph.

21 Race Horses Perish in Blaze At Toronto Track

TORONTO, Dec. 17. (AP)—Twenty-one race horses, including Ladder, owned by Frank E. Selke and White Thorn, owned by Selke and Conn Smythe, manager of the Toronto Ice hockey team, were killed today in a fire believed to have been incendiary origin at Thorncliffe race track.

The first fire broke out in two unoccupied stables and was extinguished with little damage. While firemen were at work there, however, a stable half a mile away was seen in flames, and Neil McArthur, caretaker, said that all six fires were set in various parts of the track.

Twenty of the twenty-one horses perished in the second fire discovered, many rushing back into the flaming structure after being lured to safety. Another was so badly burned that it had to be shot.

The loss, in stables and horses, was set at $60,000. Today's figures came while police still were investigating a fire of last week which leveled two stables and which appeared of suspicious origin. Among the race horses killed was a two-year-old filly jointly owned by King Clancy and Charlie Conacher, member of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team.

Garbo and Brent Have Struck up Close Friendship

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 17. (AP)—Out of the disclosure that the great Garbo, the silent Swede of the cinema, intends to stay in Hollywood to continue her picture career, came the news that Greta and George Brent, divorced husband of Ruth Chatterton, film star, have struck up a close acquaintance.

The film colony hesitated to go on record as saying it meant a romance but predicted freely that the two would be seen together more and more.

If this is true, it may explain why a "spokesman" for Greta has announced the Swedish actress has no intention of returning to her native country to devote her talents to the legitimate stage.

There have been reports that Garbo was tired of Hollywood and planned to appear in Strindberg plays in Stockholm.

I Saw . . .

A Christmas cactus, that mysterious Yuletide marvel, preparing to burst into full bloom in a front window at the home of Mrs. Inez Carter on Mary Ellen street. Mrs. Carter has had the plant for a number of years. It blooms only at Christmas time, and the blossoms are shaped like a double bell and are rose pink. The cactus should have a hundred blooms by Christmas. Several of the many buds were open this morning. Mrs. Carter has placed the plant instead of the usual Christmas tree in a front window.

BEING A CHILD PRODIGY MEANS MISSING THE JOYS OF YOUTH

If we can believe all we are told, we seem to have a new infant prodigy in our midst—that 7-year-old New York lad who has been found by psychologists to be a boy in a million because of his exceptional brain development.

This child has an intelligence quotient of 196—a bare nine points below the mark set by the great Einstein himself. He can discuss astronomy intelligently, his father hesitates to talk politics with him because the youngster usually gets so far ahead of him, and he uses four-bit words in the most casual conversation.

Nature apparently has performed another of her freakish stunts here; and while it is fascinating to speculate on the things that such a precocious child might accomplish, if he could be shown how to make the best use of his powers, one's chief emotion on reading the story is a feeling of pity for the youngster.

For no matter what the possession of such an abnormally developed brain may augur for the future, the one immediate probability is that this prodigy, like most others of his kind, will have a fairly thin kind of childhood.

One of the nicest things about being a child is the fact that you don't know very much and can't understand very much. As you move in an incomprehensible world, in which the strangest things happen for no reason that you can discover; but it is a world of wonder, even if it occasionally is a bit terrifying, and since you have no particular mental responsibility you can devote yourself to the joy of simply being alive in a way that is never afterward quite possible.

Childhood, in other words, is an enchanted sort of time. There are a great many things to learn and a great many things to understand; and the contemplation of them brings the dreaming of dreams and the seeing of visions, so that the world takes on a light that it will never hold again.

Now a youngster who has almost an Einstein intellect at the age of 7 is going to miss all of that. Ahead of his time, he is going to be plumped up against the perplexities and riddles of adult life, which range all the way from worry over the political situation to a solemn contemplation of those profound mysteries which can never be solved this side of the grave.

When life does that to a child, it cheats him. This lad may go on to do great things when he is grown; meanwhile, he is apt to be robbed of his normal childhood.

WASHINGTON—Since football went out of season, the capital has been able to turn its attention to the big scrap between the Crackpots and the Stuffed Shirts.

"Stuffed Shirts" is the name applied by brain trusters to most of the big business leaders who now seek to steer the New Deal toward a recovery for which they can take some credit—and who, of course, are prone to refer to the brain trusters as "Crackpots."

Lately Roosevelt has given the ball to the Stuffed Shirts and it is charged they're merely running back and forth across the field without getting any nearer the goal. That's the same criticism the Stuffed Shirts used to apply to the Crackpots.

Now that the Stuffed Shirts are going into a huddle, with a meeting of 100 leaders of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers at White Sulphur Springs, it appears they may develop some strong new plays.

But the cynical Crackpots don't think so. They insist the Stuffed Shirts have had a chance to develop a depression cure ever since late in 1929 and that none of them has yet produced a workable idea.

They confidently expect that Roosevelt will soon have to return the ball to the Crackpots if he wants to resume ground-gaining.

Even outside the brain trust there's considerable sniffing at the idea that big business leaders, rather than New Dealers, are best fitted to lead us back to prosperity. One reason is that Mr. Silas Strawn is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's committee for business recovery.

Mr. Strawn recently kicked the Town Hall, a forum organization including many prominent New Deal folks as well as many conservatives, out of the Chamber auditorium, which it had leased for a series of lectures on economic problems.

When it was explained that the Town Hall was trying to give a cross-section of various viewpoints, Strawn courteously remarked that "you're trying to get a cross-section of crazy crackbrains."

Since Mesdames Roosevelt, Ickes, Wallace, Hull, Roper and even the wife of Supreme Court Justice Roberts were among the sponsors of Town Hall, which was first conceived by Commissioner of Education Studebaker, and forthcoming speakers included such gents as Don Richberg, William Green, and Sir Wilmott Lewis, the Crackpots hastened to name Strawn captain of the Stuffed Shirts.

Many New Dealers customarily refer in private to the U. S. C. of C. as Public Enemy No. 1 and Strawn's attack didn't tend to sweeten the recent official honeymoon of the Stuffed Shirts and the New Deal.

The inside explanation of Strawn's agitation was not so much the character of lecturers, but Town Hall's quaint system of appointing a panel of four or five sharpshooters to question each speaker after his speech.

President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin was the first lecturer and a panel which included Secretary Wallace, Commissioner of Territories Ernest Gruening, Lothrop Stoddard, and Willard Kiplinger took a lot of the stuffing out of him.

The number of those with million dollar incomes in America more than doubled in the last year, although the general belief has been that the NRA was out to help the poor unemployed, not the rich.

A group of ultra-liberals is trying to form a third party. But let's first organize a second party.

The European countries are determined not to have a war at this time. They don't think they can get the United States in, just yet.

The Christmas spirit has been ordered enforced in Germany—"Peace on earth, good will to Aryan men."

TEXAS HISTORY

Brushing Up on Facts You Ought to Recall

While the inhabitants of the missions on the San Antonio river were going about their daily duties quite peacefully, there were troubles in other parts of the Province of Texas. Mission San Xavier had failed completely because of many things, chiefly, the conduct of the soldiers. Even murder was committed at the mission. The ill-fated church closed its doors, and the priests went to San Antonio de Valero or elsewhere to resume their work.

The failure of one mission was no cause for discouragement, however, for plans were formulated for a mission somewhere near the San Saba river. The Apache tribes were really responsible for the mission. It had grieved the fathers that the Apaches were unfriendly. Until 1749 the peace pipe had never been smoked by Spaniards and Apache chiefs. With great sincerity and thankfulness, the authorities at San Antonio joined hands with the Apaches, but the Apache chiefs had their fingers crossed. Their friendship was only a shallow pretense.

When Father Santa Ana was president of the San Antonio missions in 1743, he urged the viceroy to establish presidios on the San Saba, Salado, Pedernales and Colorado rivers. A church could not do justice to the natives without physical enforcements.

In Coahuila a very rich and influential miner, owner of the influential bishopric, sat among the wealth of his home and thought of the missions in New Spain. Found of the mission San Lorenzo for the Apaches, this man, Father Alonso Giraldo de Terreros, was anxious to aid the Apaches once more. In 1745 he proposed to the viceroy that he bear the entire expense of a mission, for three years, if the mission would be built for the Apaches. In return he asked only three favors: that the mission be north of the Rio Grande missions, that his cousin, Fray Giraldo, was to be in charge, and that the missionaries were to come from Queretaro and Mexico City.

Father Dolores in San Antonio heard of the offer, but he was not made very happy by it. The fruit of his labor was to be taken over by rivals! His own missionaries were to be forgotten, and new ones brought in from Mexico.

The "pious labors" of Father Terreros were accepted by the viceroy Aug. 24, 1756, and he was given the title of Count of Riga.

Complications were to arise from the proposal for the new mission, but for the time being, all was well in Texas.

There the group paused to make further plans before continuing their march. The travelers were happy, for they believed that within a few moons their homes would be the center of another presidio on the Texas frontier.

By March, all was in readiness for the journey. Fourteen hundred head of cattle and seven hundred head of sheep had been collected. That month the whole delegation moved up to San Marcos again, then they began their nine days' march to San Saba. In all probability they took the path that led past the Peder Pedernales river, past the Llano river, and on northwest. April 18 they had reached the present site of Menard.

There the group paused to make further plans before continuing their march. The travelers were happy, for they believed that within a few moons their homes would be the center of another presidio on the Texas frontier.

A worried scowl was on the face of Don Diego Ortiz de Parrilla. He

Clara Bow Is Mother of Boy; Father Unwell

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 17. (AP)—A bouncing blue-eyed boy is Clara Bow's answer to the critics of America's "flaming youth."

The "answer," seven and a half pounds worth, arrived just before dawn yesterday to add another name to the list of new arrivals in Hollywood's film colony and to take immediate charge of the affairs of his own film-notable parents, Clara and her tall, cowboy-actor husband, Rex Bell.

The new screen baby brought the 1934 census list up to 17. Unlike the flaming red tresses of his famous mother, the original "It" girl of the screen, the baby has blond hair.

And, Clara's nurse tacitly admitted, he lost little time proving he has a lusty pair of lungs.

Miss Bow, said the nurse, "was feeling fine today and tickled to death that her baby was a boy." Rex, who likewise was so intent on having a son that he bought "him" a Shetland pony before the youngster arrived, was reported not doing so well. After a sleepless night pacing up and down the corridor outside Clara's room at the Santa Monica hospital, he finally had to retire, so exhausted the doctor in charge considered "putting him to bed" in the hospital.

Early today things were in such a state that neither Clara nor Rex had decided on a name for the youngster.

BIG RECOVERY PLAN HANDED TO PRESIDENT

PUBLIC WORKS WOULD BE PERMANENT IN SUGGESTION

BY CLARENCE M. WRIGHT, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—A gigantic plan for America's natural resources proposed to President Roosevelt as a means of distributing "human welfare" through the land, stirred a mixture of praise and doubt on Capitol Hill today.

While some described the report of the president's national resources board as "very progressive" and "excellent," others expressed doubt about the wisdom of a permanent public works administration, which the board suggested.

Many, including regular republican leaders, withheld comment pending more study of the report on a long-range plan for the nation's land, water, and mineral wealth, which included these salient points:

1. A six-year public works budget with a $10,000,000,000 reserve fund and elimination of "extraneous" causes by the failure to co-ordinate public works—federal, state, and local.

2. A program to retire 75,000,000 acres of submarginal or hard-scrabble lands at the rate of 5,000,000 acres annually.

3. All expansion of subsistence homesteading with a further decentralization of industry.

4. Federal assistance to and control of the mineral industries to minimize waste of natural resources, maintain reasonable wage standards and protect investments.

5. Surveys looking to the development of power, irrigation, and flood control in 17 watersheds.

6. An end to heavy losses of soil caused by "uncontrolled erosion."

7. Better programs for "socially useful" public works and a lump sum from which the president could allot money under at least a 6-year plan.

8. Permanent 5-member planning agency to serve as an advisory "general staff" for the president to co-ordinate "long-range" public works planning, land use, weather resources, mineral policy and mapping.

The report made many other recommendations, covering increased land purchases; additions to national parks and wild life refuges; land uses, irrigation, grazing land extensions, Indian policies and state and regional planning.

The board, which began its study last summer at the request of Mr. Roosevelt, was headed by Secretary Perkins. Other members were Secretary Perkins, Dem. Wallace, and Roper; Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator; Frederick A. Delano, Charles E. Merriam, and Wesley C. Mitchell.

Secretary Perkins expresses the belief that vast plan could put every able-bodied man to work. Only the future will tell just what recommendations the president will make to congress after studying it in detail.

Senator Norris (R., Neb.) was the legislator who commented today. He said it was a "very progressive plan and I think the government ought to carry it out."

Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.) of the senate finance committee, termed it a "very splendid study of long-range national planning for natural resources."

Chairman Buchanan (D., Texas) of the house appropriations committee, declared "we have long needed a sensible national plan, but I'm not so sure about the permanent PWA."

"And I'm less sure than that about making a permanent habit of lump sum appropriations for public works," he added.

Buchanan's attitude is that of many house members, who believe congress should keep more detailed control over construction work.

Ablene Man Is Jailed; Woman Killed by Auto

Akard was charged in connection with the death of Mrs. Ella Mae Barbian, 24, Ablene, who died at 4 o'clock Sunday morning of injuries sustained when she ran down allegedly by Akard's car shortly before Saturday midnight.

DIONNE DOCTOR ARRIVES HOME WITH PRESENTS

Old Santa (Dr. Dafeo To You) Reaches Quintuplets

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 17 (AP)—A Santa Claus without whiskers but a real Santa Claus just the same came today, through the snow-dressed northland, to the Dionne Quintuplets.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, though he has brought 1,400 children into the world—the cold, bleak world that settles down upon Callander's countryside at Christmas time—has never had as happy a yule-season chore as that upon which he entered today.

Just back from New York and its gift-crammed shops, Dr. Dafeo piled his motorcar high with bundles for the two and one-half mile drive to the hospital down whose chimney Santa must travel a week from tonight for his first visit to the five famous daughters of Olivia and Evire Dionne.

Everything a Christmas pack should hold was in the doctor's car, ending a two weeks' vacation in the United States—where he saw the second talking movie, has his life and his first night club—he drove to the hospital.

There were dolls and rattles, toy rabbits, dogs (not real, of course, but amazingly lifelike), teething rings, and a man on a flying trapeze. There were elephants and a bonnet, a toy grand piano, booties, and just lots of sweaters to keep five tiny babies warm in the cold northern winter.

Dolls predominated: "Quintuplet dolls, five in a row, and 'cuddly' dolls that are soft to hold, and the wool dolls that say 'mama' when you squeeze them—but none that say 'doctor.' Some dolls were as big as Yvonne, who is the largest of the five girls. Others were so small that even the smallest quintuplet, Marie, could hold them.

The arrival of Dr. Dafeo brought excitement to the hospital which for more than month now has been surrounded by snow.

The nurses, Louise De Kiriline and Yvonne Leroux, wanted to open the packages right away.

Dr. Dafeo said no, and the boxes and bundles were taken to the attic to await Christmas eve.

The doctor arranged to talk Christmas day plans over today with Mrs. Dionne, the 26-year-old mother of the quintuplets. It has been determined that there will be a family party at the hospital Christmas day at which Dr. Dafeo and the nurses will join Mr. and Mrs. Dionne and the five older Dionne children at a turkey dinner.

On New Year's day, which the French Canadians observe with even greater delight than Christmas, there will be another celebration, and in-between, on December 28, there will be still another, for on that day the quintuplets will be seven months old.

First Airplane Flown 31 Years Ago by Wrights

DAYTON, O., Dec. 17 (AP)—It flew thirty-one years ago today that cry thrilled coast guards and dune bunnies at Kitty Hawk, N. C., and more than anyone else, two Ohioans who had gone there determined to prove that they could make a flying machine.

Short was the flight of that first heavier-than-air craft to carry a man aloft under its own power. Orville was the plane; but Orville and Wilbur Wright persisted, proved that flying was practicable as well as possible.

Today the nation honors the Wright brothers while Orville gives homage at the graves of Wilbur and Orville, who are to drone above the cemetery as throughout the nation other fleets sail to the skyways in a "flight of remembrance."

Orville Wright, looking back over the 31 years, finds aviation has outstripped the understanding of any one man.

"No one person," he says, "possibly could be familiar with its every phase of development, especially during the past ten years."

"My belief that it is impossible for any one to have a complete grasp of all these developments is heightened when I reflect upon what has been achieved from the viewpoint of scientific advancement and in the fields of engineering and mechanics."

BARBARA WILL BE 'PRINCESS' TO POOR KIDS

TO GIVE $5,000 FEAST TO POOR; LETTER MAKES HER CRY

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (AP)—A real-life princess, Barbara Hutton, Millvan, stepped out of her story-book existence today to assure a merry Christmas for 10,000 needy.

In response to an open letter from Ed Sullivan, Broadway columnist for the Daily News—a letter that made her cry—she contributed a $5,000 check for "Princess Barbara Christmas dinner" for New York's poor children and their parents.

"Friends of mine tell me that you are a pretty young girl," Sullivan said in his letter.

"I've got an idea that will make it possible for quite the grandest Christmas that you've ever enjoyed. How about establishing an annual Princess Barbara Christmas dinner for some of the poor of New York City?"

"Come on, princess, what do you say?"

The princess said it with a check, brought by her broker to Sullivan as he made his Broadway rounds.

"Dear Princess Millvan, you're the top," he wrote today.

"Your $5,000 check means a merrier Christmas to the 10,000 poor who don't believe in Santa Claus."

"I told me that you cried when you read the column because it was the first time any writer ever had raised his voice in print to say that you were regular."

"He said to play the gift down, and this will be done. In the meantime, thanks. . . I think you're a swell person, the kind of a princess we read about in story books—you're just swell!"

Death Sentence Given Avirett

WACO, Dec. 17 (AP)—Youthful Joe Bailey Avirett of Hubbard was under a death sentence today for the highway slaying of James Malcolm Stewart Jr., Katy, Texas, youth whose body was found near here several weeks ago.

The jury deliberated several hours before returning the conviction and death sentence.

Roy Curry, 26, also of Hubbard, charged with Avirett in the Stewart slaying and subsequent kidnapings in their flight, will probably face trial in the first of January, prosecutors said.

Avirett's first trial resulted in a deadlocked jury. The state contention; and in-between, on December 28, there will be still another, for on that day the quintuplets will be seven months old.

ANGER FLARES AFTER BEATING OF BRITISHERS

NAZIS TAKE LEAD IN ATTACKING TWO ENGLISHMEN

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Dec. 17 (AP)—Rigid precautions to prevent clashes between international troops and Saarlanders were adopted today after bitter resentment was aroused by an Anglo-Saarian street fight.

A resident of the Saar was wounded by a British police officer's pistol yesterday, and in the resulting scuffle the officer and an English nobleman were beaten.

The incident created alarm, with Saar already tense over the Jan. 13 plebiscite which will decide its future. It came as the League of Nations moved an international army into the territory to preserve order during the vote.

When news of the shooting and subsequent beatings filtered through the Saar, the German front, a Nazi organization, called special meetings of protest.

A quick investigation was ordered by the league governing commission, which announced the suspension of Captain James Justice, the officer involved, until completion of the inquiry.

The trouble began early Sunday when Justice's car, bearing also the Earl of Aylesford and Fraulein Kathie Braun, a German girl, swerved upon the sidewalk of a narrow street and injured a woman.

Justice, member of an international police force in the Saar, apologized to the woman, whose injuries were slight. Quicker to arrive on the scene were 30 members of a "disciplinary force" of the German front.

The official version said Justice, who was in civilian clothes, believed he was in danger and fired a warning shot with his revolver. A man named Neumeister was wounded in the stomach but not seriously.

The crowd set up Justice and beat him badly. The Earl of Aylesford went to Justice's assistance and was knocked into the gutter, receiving a black eye. Fraulein Braun said she also was struck on the head and beaten on the back.

Geoffrey G. Knox, chief commissioner of the Saar basin territory, immediately began a personal investigation of the whole incident, including a complaint by Prince Hubertus von Lowenstein, a German exile, that he had been insulted by British officers in a cafe where Capt. Arthur C. Helmsley of England, the chief of the Saar civil police, was present.

Since Helmsley is a close friend of Knox and was brought to the Saar because of his fine war record, the position of Knox, himself, has been made delicate.

Saarbruecken was quiet today but the foreigners living here were anxious for the international troops dispatched at the request of the League of Nations to take over the situation.

Yesterday morning's incident created alarm, since the Saar already is tense over the July 13 plebiscite which will decide whether the residents desire German, French, or league sovereignty.

Defendants in Mississippi Oil Trial Acquitted

WICKSBURG, Miss., Dec. 17 (AP)—Three defendants in the Palmstra oil developments case were acquitted Saturday by a jury in federal district court while mistrials were ordered by Judge Edwin R. Holmes in the case of two others in which the jury could not agree.

The men had been charged with conspiracy and using the mails to defraud in connection with promotion of an oil venture on Davis Island, near Vicksburg.

Ralph Darlev, James Mascho and T. O. Turner were freed of all charges by the jury verdict of acquittal. The cases of Harry W. Elliott and John Buie were declared mistrials and Judge Holmes set them to be heard at another trial at the May term of court.

Another defendant, W. R. Simmons, who was indicted with the others but who was granted a severance, is also to go on trial at the May term.

The government contended that these buyers had been defrauded out of more than $75,000 by the promotion plan, but counsel for the defendants claimed that the promoters had spent thousands of dollars in drilling a well and that everything possible had been done in an effort to complete the transactions in a fair way.

INJUNCTIONS SOUGHT

AUSTIN, Dec. 17 (AP)—Thirteen suits for injunctions restraining the sale of hard liquor were filed today by District Attorney James P. Hart. They were directed against restaurants, cold drink stands and night clubs. Two of the establishments were in the vicinity of the University of Texas.

CUPID'S CHRISTMAS

CHICAGO, (AP)—Cupid, too, gets his Christmas present this year. County Clerk Michale Flynn estimates that the 40,000 marriage licenses issued here annually provide nearly $220,000 in revenue. So they're going to build a special chapel for the ceremonies.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench goes home after being acquitted of the charge that he murdered his former school-fellow John Osborne, only to find a mysterious letter from the chemical engineer, Sir William Avon, asking for an appointment. Then two strangers arrive, threaten his life, and demand a paper he is supposed to have stolen from Osborne. The men are frightened by the voice of Molly O'Brien, pretending to call the police. Molly tells Nicholas she had come for the same paper, and that the paper is a formula for a new metal Osborne stole from her father, who had died.

Chapter Eleven LONG SEARCH

"When things were settled up, my visitor went on. 'I found that I should have quite a lot of money—enough to travel where I liked and pay for any help or information I wanted to get.

"I felt almost sure that Osborne would go to England. I knew, of course, that it would be a terribly hard and difficult business to find him, but I had just got one tiny little clue which gave me a certain amount of hope. Twice, when he had been at our house, I had heard him mention a place called Aubrey's. He said both times that it was the best and cheapest restaurant in London, and I guessed that if he ever found himself back home, he would be certain to look in there if only for the sake of old times.

"Well, I came over as soon as I could get away, and I took a bedroom at a small private hotel which was almost next door to this place. Every day I used to lunch and dine there on the chance of seeing him, and at last—at last one evening I did.

"He came in with someone else—a tall, good-looking man with white hair. They sat at a table in the other end of the room, and although I kept my back to them so that they shouldn't recognize me, I was able to watch him in a looking-glass. They seemed to be talking very seriously as if they were discussing business.

"When they got up to leave I followed them out. The tall man had a car waiting for him and went on in it, then I saw Osborne call a taxi and give some address which I couldn't hear. I got into another and told the man to stick as close to the one in front as he could, and when it pulled up to drive on slowly past it.

"I didn't know London at all well, and I had no idea where we were until we came to Osborne's house. My man put me down at the next corner. Then I walked back and made a note of the number and the road.

"I looked at her admiringly. 'Women are wonderful,' I remarked. 'I've always thought they'd make much better detectives than men.'

"That part was easy enough; the difficult thing to decide was what I should do next. I had no actual proof that Osborne had taken the paper, and although the police at home had tried to help me, I didn't believe for a moment that they would go so far as to ask for his extradition.

"Besides, it was the formula I wanted, and I knew that directly he thought he was in any real danger his first idea would be to hide it or destroy it. I spent all the next day thinking things over.

"At last I decided that there was only one plan which would be any good at all. I should have to get somebody to help me. I should have to find some man whom I could trust, and who at the same time would have enough pluck to take the law into his own hands.

"If, between us, we couldn't force Osborne to give it up, she broke off with a queer, ruthless little laugh. 'When I opened my newspaper in the morning I found that he had been murdered.'

"And as soon as they arrested me you quite naturally jumped to the conclusion that I'd got your formula?"

She nodded. "What else could I believe? I thought that he'd probably taken you into his confidence, and that you'd killed him in order to steal it. It was only when I went to the trial that I began to have my doubts. In the first place you didn't look a bit like a murderer."

"Thanks," I said gratefully. "I was under the impression myself, but it's nice to have confirmed."

"Then there was the way you gave your evidence. I don't know whether I am really a good judge of people, but it seemed to me all along as though you were speaking the truth. I couldn't make up my mind at first whether I oughtn't to come forward and tell them my story. I knew if I did it would be bad for you, because then they'd be able to suggest that you had a much stronger reason for killing him."

"I should have been hanged for a certainty," I said. "The weakness of the motive was what saved me. After all, a fairly successful sculptor doesn't go about battering out people's brains for a few hundred pounds."

"That's what I felt and so I kept quiet. You see, whether you'd do it or not, I wanted you to be let off. If you had, it only served Osborne right, and besides, in that case, there was still a chance that I might be able to get back the formula. If you hadn't," she paused—"well, I had an idea that you were exactly the sort of man who might be ready to help me."

"I threw away the cigaret I had been smoking, and sat down on the sofa. 'Tell me,' I said, 'how did you get in here, and what did you intend to do if those chaps hadn't turned up?'

"I meant to find out the truth one way or the other. I was determined to see you as soon as the trial was over, and I thought that the best chance would be to wait for you at your own studio. I knew where it was because there had been such a lot about you in the newspapers, so one morning, a few days ago, I came along to have a look at it."

"Then I discovered that the place next door was to let. I went to the agents straight away, and as I had a good reference from my bank in New Orleans, they didn't make the least difficulty about giving me a lease. I took it for a year and paid them six months in advance."

"You certainly do things pretty thoroughly while you're about them," I said. "But I still don't understand how you came to be in my bedroom."

"It was just a bit of good luck. As it happens the same key fits the front door of both studios. I found that out directly I got here."

"Go on," I said encouragingly. "I'm learning all sorts of interesting things tonight."

"It isn't the only time I've been inside. I've searched the whole place thoroughly twice. I didn't find anything, of course, but I still thought it possible that you might have hidden the paper under a loose board or somewhere like that, and if you had I felt sure that the first thing you would do would be to go and look for it. That was the reason why I hid myself there. She nodded towards the bedroom. 'There's a crack in the upper panel just wide enough to see through, and . . .'

"But supposing you had been right," I interrupted. "Supposing you'd found yourself boxed up here along with a distinctly irritated murderer?"

"I'd got this," she slipped her hand down inside her dress and pulled out a miniature revolver. "It doesn't look very dangerous," she added, "but it would kill a man all right at close range."

"That's comforting news, anyhow," I observed. "If our visitors happen to call again we shall be able to give it a good test."

Power Spokesman To Visit President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—The issue of giant power and the government's attitude toward it leaped to the forefront again today with a disclosure that Thomas N. McCarter, spokesman for a broad segment of the industry, was expected to visit President Roosevelt before nightfall.

The white house call by the man who heads the Edison Electric Institute and the Public Service corporation of New Jersey underscored recent talk in the capital that moves are afoot for a "compromise" between the administration and those opposing its power policy.

As president of the Institute, McCarter declared war last month on such public projects as the Tennessee Valley authority with its "yardstick" of federal power. He issued a legal opinion, written by Newton D. Baker and James M. Beck in which TVA was called unconstitutional.

McCarter follows a number of other important power executives in the white house. The president himself was authority for the statement last week that some private power officials had agreed with the opinion that any water found in companies' capitalization should be squeezed out and rates lowered accordingly.

Negroes Charge Grid Stars in Robbery, Attack

HOUSTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—Johnny Nelson, 18, star halfback on the district championship Jefferson Davis high school football team here, and Jack Sims, 17, substitute end on the same squad, were in jail today under charges of robbery by assault on a group of negroes yesterday. Three charges were filed against each boy. The students maintained they were innocent.

Arthur Frisco identified Nelson and Sims as two boys he said knocked him down and robbed him of $2.65. Thro Park said Sims beat him and took a hat valued at $2.50. Jimmie Boyd, a third negro, identified Nelson as the boy who attacked him and took a hat he valued at $2.50.

Albert Anderson said nine white boys jumped on him, robbed him of $7.20, an overcoat and a hat. He identified Sims as one of the boys.

Albert White, negro, said that Nelson knocked him down and took his hat, value at $2.50. Bond was set at $1,000 in each case.

Case of Leprosy Found in Prison

FORT WORTH, Dec. 17 (AP)—A case of leprosy was discovered in the Tarrant county jail today. The victim is a 45-year-old negro preacher who has been held in jail for two weeks charged with relief "chiseling."

Dr. Burke Brewster, county health physician, immediately ordered the negro placed in an isolated cell and communicated with United States public health officials in an effort to have the negro sent to the leprosarium at Carville, La.

IL DUCE ASKS APOLOGY AND INDEMNITIES

150 MEN KILLED IN A BORDER CLASH IN ETHIOPIA

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP)—Benito Mussolini took an aggressive stride in Italy's quarrel with Ethiopia today by demanding an apology and indemnities.

Ethiopian forces and not Italy's native troops in Italian Somaliland were responsible for a border clash in which nearly 150 men were killed.

His message was an answer to an Ethiopian protest to the league, which called attention to the gravity of the situation.

Ethiopian troops, he asserted, were guilty of a "sudden unprovoked aggression against Italy's native garrisons" and hurled insults before attacking.

A survey being conducted by an Ethiopian commission led up to the battle, the report said. Mussolini asserted the survey officials conceded that Abual belongs to Ethiopia and that the country's force there of 1,000 had a right to advance. Italian officers, Il Duce related, refused to allow a march into Italian Somaliland, saying the boundary question should be decided by the two governments.

For several days two lines of troops faced the other, he said while Ethiopian soldiers "tried to provoke desertion of Italian soldiers, and attempted to induce them into combat with warlike fantasies according to Ethiopian custom."

AMARILLO, Dec. 17. (AP)—The seventh court of civil appeals today denied B. F. Williams and other Hartley county citizens an injunction to prevent construction of a three-mile hard surfaced road, between Channing and Romero. The Hartley citizens sought to prevent sale of $20,000 in road bonds of a $150,000 issue voted in 1932 on the contention that the announced purpose of the issue was to use part of the money for improving lateral dirt roads.

CHRISTMAS CAROL. NEW YORK, (AP)—One boy has his Christmas present already—a baby sister, and her name is Carol.

When his parents asked what every boy's folks are asking, "What do you want from Santa?" his answer was:

"A baby sister." They went to the Child Placing and Adoption committee of the State Charities Aid association and took Chubby Christmas Carol, eight months old, whose mother is dead and father missing. They say it's the first of about 150 such Christmas presents.

Ferguson's 1917 Nemesis Is Dead

MINERAL WELLS, Dec. 17. (AP)—Judge Edwin R. Bryan, the "democrat without a brass collar" who successfully prosecuted former Governor James E. Ferguson on impeachment charges in 1917, is dead.

The 72-year-old high ranking mason and former district judge died here yesterday after a brief illness. Funeral services were planned for today.

Fellow legislators selected Judge Bryan to lead the prosecution against Ferguson while he served as a member of the legislature. He was formerly grand master of the grand lodge of Texas and since 1913 had served as a member of the board of the home for aged masons at Arlington. He was

UNITED STATES HAS NOT BUILT UP TO 'FIVE'

JAPAN IS EXPECTED TO ABROGATE TREATY ON THURSDAY

BY LLOYD A. LEHRBAS, Associated Press Staff Writer, WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—A threat of a costly naval race among sea powers drew closer today as the capital awaited Japan's formal notice that it would abrogate the Washington limitation treaty.

On next Thursday or soon thereafter Hiroshi Saito, Japanese ambassador, is expected, unless unforeseen developments occur, to deliver to the state department the official word that Japan intends to abrogate the treaty on December 31, 1936.

Saito said, however, that he had not yet been instructed to take this step. When he does, and word of his call on Secretary of State Hull has been flashed to London, the tripartite talks that had been designed to smooth the way for a 1935 naval conference are expected to end automatically.

The London naval treaty automatically expires December 31, 1936, and Japan's abrogation of the Washington pact means that beginning January 1, 1937, there will be no international agreements limiting naval strength.

American officials say that the United States and Great Britain have not built up to the "5" allotted them in the famous 5-5-3 ratio. Japan, however, has built up in building new ships almost to the last ton permitted in her "3" ratio figures here indicate. The nations have agreed that the fighting efficiency of warships decreases greatly after they reach an age which varies for vessels of each type.

Figuring only vessels "under age," official American and Japanese figures show that as 1936 ends the United States will have 113 warships of 734,580 tons, the British 125 of 636,222 tons, and the Japanese 150 of 597,429 tons.

The present status of the three navies, as announced by Secretary of the Navy Swanson, is: United States: Now has 373 warships of 1,092,025 tons; 58 of 234,000 tons under construction or appropriated for; 78 of 136,975 tons permitted to be laid down before Dec. 31, 1936.

Great Britain: Now has 276 warships of 1,158,659 tons; 62 of 171,410 tons under construction or appropriated for; 44 of 132,963 tons permitted to be laid down by the end of 1936.

Japan: Now has 220 warships of 765,561 tons; 45 of 124,696 under construction; and is entitled to build one destroyer of 1,500 tons before the treaty ends.

Embroidery Work Done by Seaman

BEAUMONT, Dec. 17. (AP)—To landlubbers who think seagoing first mates are rough, tough twofisted genies who scorn anything that might be construed as effeminate, Chief Mate C. G. Gable of the German steamship "Vosgen" might come as a surprise.

For during his spare moments during the last trip from his homeland were devoted to his embroidery work. The finished piece was displayed today at the city hall—a pillow case with the "Vosgen" embroidered on it, full rigged.

Grabbs presented it to Captain Alex McClelland and his bride, the former Miss Beulah Herbert, who was secretary to the Beaumont city manager before her marriage.

Beer To Be Served At White Houses

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Beer will be served at white house young people's Christmas parties again this year.

Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt said so today in answering a reporter's question. Another questioner asked: "Will the beer be served out of a barrel?"

The president's wife answered that she did not have the slightest idea and considered the matter immaterial.

Fruit punch also will be served, she said.

Huey Now Tries To Get Biff Not to Resign

BATON ROUGE, Dec. 17. (AP)—Louisiana State university officials said today they were attempting to persuade Captain Lawrence "Biff" Jones, head football coach, not to resign. Captain Jones cancelled a fishing trip he had planned for today, but refused comment on reports of his resignation.

Jones, who had a "run-in" with Senator Huey P. Long over management of the football team during the Oregon game Saturday, said last night he was going fishing, but today showed up at the university football office as usual.

He still had no definite comment about his resignation plans, however.

"I still have nothing to say," he remarked. "I just didn't go on the trip."

MITCHELL TO SELECT HARVESTER BASKETBALL SQUAD THIS EVENING

CHAMPS BEAT LOCAL CAGERS BY ONE POINT

HARVESTERS LOSE 2ND GAME OF TOURNAY TO ALLISON

Coach Odus Mitchell will select a Harvester basketball squad at the 7 o'clock practice tonight and will start a hard training period for his boys. Assistant Coach E. M. Dennard will also select a group of boys who will practice and scrimmage with the Harvesters.

The boys left after Coaches Mitchell and Dennard have selected their squads, will be sent to Coach Harry Kelley and his Gorillas. The two Harvester squads will probably be out again later in the season.

Five Pampa basketball teams, with little practice behind them, entered the Miami Invitation tournament Friday and Saturday. The Harvester "A" team, which has practiced only since the close of the football season, defeated White Deer in the opening game but lost 16 to 15 to Allison, tournament winner, in the second round.

The Harvesters were leading Allison with about two seconds to play when Hays, reheaded Allison star, intercepted a pass and "raced for touchdown" to win the game by a single point. The Allison players crowded the Harvesters near the center line and a pass got away. Hays scooped it up, dribbled fast, and looped the winning basket.

The Mitchell boys looked good in spots despite lack of training. Big J. R. Green, Bill Dunaway, Tom Rose, Edward Scott, and Maysie Nash were the boys who played last season with the Harvesters. Other players were newcomers.

Coach E. N. Dennard's Harvester "B" team defeated Canadian and Higgins in order but fell to LeFors in a hard-fought battle which seldom saw the score more than two points in favor of either team until the closing minutes when condition told and LeFors won, 26 to 22.

The Gorillas under Coach Harry Kelley lost their opening game to Higgins but came back strong in the consolation round to defeat the Canadian A team and the White Deer B team. The White Deer A team defeated the Gorillas for consolation honors.

The Harvestettes defeated McLean to open the tournament but were nosed out 23 to 17 by Allison, tournament winner in the second round of play. The Harvestette B team lost both in regular and consolation play in the first round. Miss Kathleen Milam had charge of the girls' teams.

Dick Hanley of Northwestern Is Looking for Job

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. (AP)—Northwestern university was engaged in its search for a new head football coach—who may turn out to be Ossie Solem of Iowa—today, while Dick Hanley started looking for another job.

Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, Northwestern's athletic director, said that his successor might be announced "early this week." He declined to give any names in connection with the search, but did not deny that Solem's name had been more than lightly mentioned. Wilson and Solem worked together for several years at Drake university, the former as athletic director and Solem as football coach.

It was reported that a "trade" of coaches between Iowa and Northwestern might follow Hanley's resignation yesterday with Solem moving to Evanston, and the former Wildcat coach going to Iowa City.

While Solem was considered the foremost candidate for the Northwestern vacancy, several others were mentioned. Among them George Vecker of Iowa State college. A former assistant coach at Michigan, Dana X. Bible of Nebraska, who has expressed complete satisfaction with his present position; Paddy Driscoll, one of Northwestern's all-time gridiron heroes, and Waldo Estner, former Wildcat star, who served under Hanley as end coach.

Masonic Eleven Will Work Out 2 Days in Lubbock

FORT WORTH, Dec. 17. (AP)—Coach H. N. Russell and his Masonic Home football squad will spend three days in the Panhandle section before they meet the Amarillo Sandies in their semi-final game at Amarillo Saturday.

The squad will leave Tuesday night for Lubbock by bus and will work out on the Texas Tech field there Wednesday and Thursday, driving to Amarillo Friday morning for a final drill on Butler field that afternoon.

The move is being made in an effort to get the club acclimated before the big brush with the Sandies. The altitude of Lubbock is almost that of Amarillo and the weather is generally the same. Plans for the junket into the northwest were announced by Coach Russell today. "We believe the move will be a wise one," he said. "We'll be able to concentrate on the game as we would be unable to do otherwise. The boys will have plenty of time to get over the long trip and the change in altitude and weather will not be so great."

GREENVILLE AND CORPUS TO PLAY SATURDAY AT HOUSTON

(By The Associated Press.) Four survivors of a long season's competition will meet in semi-final Texas Interscholastic League games on two widely separated fields next Saturday for the right to enter the titular game.

At Amarillo, the Golden Sandstorm of the Panhandle will clash with the Masonic Home of Fort Worth while Greenville's Lions, defending champions, meet the dangerous Corpus Christi Buccaneers on neutral ground at Houston.

Record-smashing crowds were expected at both games. Greenville and Corpus Christi accepted the invitation of the Houston chamber of commerce to play at Rice field with the expectation of drawing 12,000 spectators. Ten thousand are expected at Amarillo.

Two of the classiest running backs in the state, Bert Marshall, Greenville's all-state quarterback, and Charlie Hass, the boldest of the Buccaneers, will be seen in the Houston fracas.

Amarillo's Sandstorm twisted thru Big Spring, 31 to 20, in a quarter-final game last week. Greenville anothered the touted Corsicana Tigers, 20 to 6, and Masonic Home beat down a stubborn Highland Park team of Dallas, 13 to 9. The mighty Corpus Christi team rolled over Jeff Davis of Houston, 30 to 6, to cause considerable lifting of eyebrows.

LOOP UPSETS TEXAS TECH'S GRID RANKING

TEAM MUST PLAY AT LEAST 3 GAMES IN LEAGUE

TEMPE, Ariz., Dec. 17. (AP)—Border states intercollegiate conference officials closed their conference yesterday by voting against the proposed three-game football minimum ruling.

Long distances and traveling expense problems were given as reasons for voting against the ruling. Coaches, however, unofficially voted not to recognize teams in their system of rating unless they played at least three conference opponents.

The conference spring track and field meet was set for the second Saturday in May at Albuquerque, N. M.

A proposal to allow freshman competition in varsity track and baseball was killed.

No action was taken on the membership application of Hardin-Simmons university of Abilene because the application was not received, as the conference rules direct, 30 days prior to the session. Texas Mines' application for entrance will be considered in the spring session.

Officials ruled that hereafter segregation of athletes would be prohibited and training tables taboo.

Coaches abolished the present system of picking champions and replaced it with a percentage rating in which ties will count half game won and half game lost.

Basketball schedules approved included: Texas Tech—Jan. 2-3, House of David at Lubbock; Jan. 8-9, Tempe at Lubbock; Jan. 14-15, Flagstaff at Lubbock; Jan. 28-29, Hardin-Simmons at Lubbock; Feb. 13-14, New Mexico Aggies at Las Cruces; Feb. 15-16, New Mexico university at Albuquerque; Feb. 18-19, New Mexico Normal university at Las Vegas; Feb. 25-26, West Texas Teachers at Lubbock; March 1-2, Arizona at Lubbock.

Alabama to Have Only Four More Field Workouts

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Dec. 17. (AP)—Only four more workouts on the home field remained today for Alabama's unbeaten and untied football team before the Crimson Tide rolls west.

Coach Frank Thomas indicated the Tide might have one more rough scrimmage before entraining for Pasadena Friday and the Rose Bowl.

'BIFF' JONES AND KINGFISH HAVE RUN-IN

HUEY LONG ATTEMPTS TO MAKE A 'PEP' TALK IN TILT

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 17. (AP)—Football officials of Louisiana state university attempted today to smooth the ruffled feelings of Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana's political dictator, and Lawrence "Biff" Jones, Tiger football coach, after their run-in on the football field Saturday over direction of the team.

Huey Long became annoyed when Oregon led Louisiana state in the first half of their game Saturday, and he gave voice to his opinion on how the team was being handled. He sought to make a "pep" talk to the team at the half, but Biff Jones objected.

The argument became so heated that the coach threw his hat to the ground and shook his finger under the senator's nose and refused to allow the senator in the team's room. The team came out at the half and won the game by one point, 14 to 13.

Both Long and Jones have refused to discuss the matter. Friends of both men are pessimistic over the prospects of patching up the break. Long is not accustomed to having his will blocked and Jones has insisted for the last two years that Senator Long let him run the team without interference. The coach came to Louisiana from West Point with that understanding.

The outbreak Saturday was an offshoot of Senator Long's farce over making Abe Mickal, Tiger star, a state senator in a burlesque election on the college campus. Jones ordered Mickal not to report to the capital for induction in office.

Senator Long said last night that Jones could not resign as he was in Louisiana on a military assignment from the war department.

After the game Jones told university officials he would resign but he was persuaded to delay such action until Senator Long could be consulted. While the senator declined to comment on the incident, he did not appear enthused over the prospects of Jones remaining. "Jones is a fair coach," he said. "There are some better and some worse."

onds. Jockey Tom Luther was the winning rider.

Time Supply's share of the added purse was $21,000. He paid $12.90, $6.80, and $3.60 in the pari-mutuels. Dark Winter paid $5 and $3 and Fleam $3.

TRACK STAKES TO BE LARGER NEXT SEASON

RACING IS GROWING IN POPULARITY OVER NATION

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP)—Keen competition for the patronage of the increasing racing public has borne fruit in announcement of larger stakes for the 1935 racing season.

Officials of New York tracks, perhaps perturbed by losses of customers to new courses in New England, have increased the endowments of several important handicaps.

Advices from Louisville are to the effect the Kentucky Derby will have $40,000 added next year, an increase of $10,000 over the 1934 figure.

The amazing popularity of racing in sectors where betting has been legalized, notably New England, Michigan and Florida, is offset somewhat by the decline of interest in places where racing long has been a fixture, and the older tracks appear determined to do something about it. By attracting the better horses, they argue, the gate receipts will increase.

Detroit, although accused of trying to kill the goose that laid the golden egg, offered a race meeting of 120 days duration this year and got away with it. Florida has seen lively interest in the sport of kings.

The Florida Derby stake has been boosted from $10,000 to $15,000. Illinois racing lost some ground during 1934, Texas meetings have made a fair showing, and Louisiana tracks expect a profitable season. Maryland racing profits, track managers contend, have been seriously reduced by state taxation.

Contest with Stanford's Indians on New Year's day.

Long workouts with details on offense and defense were certain as the Tide hopes to be prepared for any flanking attempts, aerial shows or straight power smashes the Indians have cooked up for them.

CHURCH PLANS OF WEEK CENTER ON CHILDRENS' CHRISTMAS

BISHOP SPEAKS AT EPISCOPAL SERVICE HERE

MANY HEAR SERMONS AND RELIGIOUS SONG HOUR

Christmas plans of trees for the children and special music for next Sunday were announced in churches of the city yesterday. Attendance was large in all churches, and evening services abbreviated so that various congregations might join to hear the Christmas story, the religious musical work, The Messiah.

A visit from the Rt. Rev. E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo, bishop of the North Texas district, marked the day at St. Matthew's Episcopal church. He brought the message on world missions that received chief stress at the recent national convention of his church, which he attended at Atlantic City.

Children are receiving attention in church events of this week, with Christmas trees planned for the younger groups of almost every church.

Parties for Classes

Francis Avenue Church of Christ is having a series of programs this week, as each class has its own tree and party. The entire children of the church, through the intermediate department, will have a tree and program in the auditorium Friday at 7 p. m.

Departments in First Baptist church will have their parties as follows: Beginners, Tuesday at 2:30; intermediates, Tuesday at 7; juniors, Thursday at 7; primary, next Sunday morning. Adult class parties announced are for the Fidella class this evening, Winsome class at 2:30 Wednesday with Mrs. Herman Whaley; Dorcas class Wednesday with Mrs. V. L. Dickinson.

All divisions of First Christian Sunday school will have their tree together on Christmas eve.

Sunday school attendance reports for yesterday follow: Francis Avenue Church, 204 and two additions to church membership; Presbyterian, 174; First Methodist, 485; McCullough Methodist, 85; Harrah Methodist, 75; First Christian, 395; Central Baptist, 125; First Baptist, 872, and 210 in training service. Central Church of Christ reported the largest attendance in its history, and one baptism.

Junior Club To Be Entertained

A Christmas party and gift exchange was planned by Junior Treble Clef club for Wednesday, 4 p. m., in the home of Thelma Fae Seeds, when the club had its meeting last week.

All members are invited for this special meeting. Plans were also discussed briefly for a banquet at which members will entertain their mothers in January. Marie Tinsley, vice president, was in charge of the business meeting.

Anna Dall Will Marry Reporter, Is Late Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—There was neither affirmation nor denial at the White House today of a report that Mrs. Anna Dall, daughter of the president, will marry John Boettiger, former member of the Chicago Tribune staff.

"Nothing to say," was the unvarying answer of Mrs. Dall's secretary, Miss Mollie Dorf.

The rumor was stirred by Boettiger's resignation from his position on the Tribune to accept a position in New York.

Mrs. Dall was divorced from Curtis B. Dall in Nevada last summer. Boettiger also is divorced. Both have children.

SANTA GREETS CHILDREN FROM McLEAN PARADE

Merchants and Civic Groups Sponsor Floats

McLEAN, Dec. 17.—Santa Claus really came to town Saturday afternoon. Followed by wide and trusting eyes of the very young, Santa Claus led one of the biggest parades of his kind that was ever held in McLean.

At the intersection of Main and First, the parade came to a stop while a short but interesting program was given. After music by the band, Santa addressed the young children and promised to return next Wednesday afternoon with presents for all who "have been good."

Mrs. Dana Shelbourne was hostess to the Embroidery club at a very interesting meeting last Wednesday afternoon from 3 till five.

Coaches Rush and Loker accompanied the basketball boys and girls to Miami Friday evening and Saturday where they participated in the basketball tournament. Miss Clara Dishman, girls' sponsor was a member of the party. The young people made the trip in the Back bus which was driven by Will Ivry.

Preacher Chews Gum as Lawyers Begin Arguments

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 17 (AP)—Thoughtfully chewing gum, William D. Welburn Jr. watched interestedly as Assistant District Attorney Delos Finch began his argument to the jury in Welburn's trial here on a perjury charge today.

A packed courtroom, divided about equally between men and women spectators, quietly listened as the day-long arguments of prosecution and defense got under way.

Judge Bryce Ferguson read a short charge to the jury, defining "perjury" and "alibi."

Judge Ferguson overruled a motion for an instructed verdict which the defense offered on the contention the evidence did not match the indictment charges.

Mrs. Whitea Long Welburn, who obtained a divorce from the former minister defendant in a trial last summer, was present.

Dagmar's Adventures in Santa Claus Land

BY SIGRID ARNE

SYNOPSIS: Two dolls from Santa's toyshop, Dagmar and the tin soldier, are waiting for an earth-worm to save them from an underground prison where they were thrown by the mole king. They are hunting clues to the blight which is ruining Santa's holly trees.

CHAPTER VII
The Dolls Are Saved

Every minute seemed an hour as the dolls waited for the earth-worm to return and get them out of that room which was slowly cracking to pieces.

"The ceiling cracked right over them. But no more earth fell. Suddenly there was the earth-worm coming out of his little hole in the floor again. Dagmar, the doll, and the tin soldier breathed a big sigh of relief.

"Nothing to worry about," said the worm. "I have all my friends digging a passage for you. We're almost through."

"How can we ever thank you?" said Dagmar.

"Why, you can come home with us for a day," said the earth-worm.

"We can plan some way to get that magic pebble back. And maybe we can think of some way to save the holly trees from the moles."

"You think of everything," said Dagmar with a smile, and the earthworm bowed gravely at the compliment.

As they finished talking quite a big hole opened in the floor, and several feet earth-worms wiggled about their feet. They were all grinning triumphantly.

Tomorrow—Disguised As a Mole.

Pupils Think of Others as They Face Christmas

Thought for the Christmas pleasure of others is mixed with holiday plans of pupils at Woodrow Wilson school. Gifts for baskets are being collected now, in two boxes placed in the hall.

A large box receives the donations of clothing, toys, or staple foods, while into a small box are dropped spare pennies. The less fortunate among their schoolmates will be aided by these Christmas gifts.

Glee club members are planning another kind of Christmas gift. They will meet at 6 o'clock Thursday and go to the homes of several shut-ins to sing carols.

The Kid band will be in charge of a Christmas and song program Friday morning at 10 when Santa Claus will appear in person as the featured speaker.

Wright Brothers Are Honored on Flight Birthday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17, (AP)—Hundreds of airplanes poised to day to take to the skies in a "winged half-hour" of tribute to those two pioneers, Wilbur and Orville Wright.

It is the 31st anniversary of the first airplane flight, made at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. Airplanes were tuned to circle over cities throughout the land in a "flight of remembrance."

While planes roared overhead at Dayton, Ohio, Orville Wright planned to visit the grave of the daring brother who was with him on that historic day.

The national capital, where Eugene Vidal of the department of commerce launched the "every plane up" plan, rallied 250 planes for the flight.

From all sections reports of celebrations came to the National Aeronautical association.

The honor of leading thirty civilian planes in Kansas City was accorded that famous flying doctor, J. D. Brock on his 1,350th consecutive daily flight. Rain or shine, hundred-in-the-shade-of-way-below zero, Dr. Brock has a hop in his private plane. When he finished a record of a flight-a-day for five years, he headed for the ten-year goal.

Women were in the thick of the fight. Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, the government's feminine aviation expert, was in the flying list here, and said she was getting reports from women flyers clear to California who were joining in enthusiastically to make a big day.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP)—The metals, some of the utilities and scattered specialties found follow-ings in today's stock market.

DENVER, Dec. 17. (AP)—The ar-rest of Ben Laska, Denver attorney, on a charge of complicity in the Ur-schel kidnaping, was announced today by Harold Hathan, assistant chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

Laska has been indicted, said Nathan, with James C. Mathers, Oklahoma City attorney, for "illegal participation in the division of the Ur-schel ransom, money apportioned to Albert Bates."

Bates, now is confined with Har-vey Bailey, notorious southwestern desperado, and George (Machine Gun) Kelly in Alcatraz prison. San Francisco, the $200,000 abduction in 1933 of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma millionaire.

"The division," said Nathan, "has sus-pected for a considerable period that his (Laska's) relations to var-ious members of the underworld with whom he has been associated have been more intensive and ex-tended than those based upon the legitimate duties and responsibilities of an attorney to his clients."

Laska, who appeared as counsel for Bates after the latter's arrest in Denver also represented a group of suspects in the $60,000 kidnaping of Charles Boettcher II.

Laska, a gray haired bespectacled attorney, dapperly dressed, was taken to the office of E. K. New-man, department of justice agent, for questioning in which he denied the charges against him emphat-ically.

Laska, asserted Nathan, received between $10,000 and $11,000 of the ransom money. However, Nathan acknowledged that federal agents had been unable to locate the cur-rency Laska was accused of re-ceiving.

tical of the story that he walked two miles and have hinted several times of his being driven back by an unidentified person.

Crowds began gathering at the court room more than an hour be-fore the hearing opened. It had been transferred to a dis-trict court cham-ber because pleas court rooms are so small.

When all seats were filled and a thin line of spectators were ranged around the wall, the doors were closed; a throng of several hun-dred jammed the corridor outside and extended back down the double stair well to the first floor.

As Huff began his story a woman screamed and the doors flew open from the press outside, and the crowd poured in, unable to stand back due to the pushing trial fans.

Deputies and balliffs rushed to the scene and succeeded in closing the doors before anyone was in-jured.

Only five witnesses were used by the state and none by the defense. There was little cross examina-tion. That of Huff lasted but a few minutes.

Through the procedure young Kennamer sat stolidly, staring fix-ely at each witness.

Only once, when Huff made a re-mark about the quality of liquor drunk by the youth that brought a titter from the audience, did he re-lax. A smile flitted across his coun-tenance and died away.

The first witness was Dr. J. F. Gorrell, who testified that the slain 23-year-old student dentist.

He was near tears as he told the court, "My son is dead," and pressed a handkerchief to his eyes as he re-sumed his seat. Later he leaned forward once or twice to offer sug-gestions in questioning the wit-nesses.

At the prosecution table was Dr. Felix N. Adams of Vinita, super-tendent of the Eastern Oklahoma hospital for the insane, who was asked by County Attorney Holly Anderson to observe Kennamer. There has been indication that an insanity plea may be entered at the jury trial in January.

J. Berry King, attorney general of Oklahoma, also sat with the prosec-utors and occasionally conferred with Anderson over questions. He may be employed as a special prosec-utor by Gorrell after he leaves of-fice next month.

The witnesses, in the order in which they appeared on the stand, were Dr. Gorrell, Dr. Carl Simp-son, who performed the autopsy on the body of young Gorrell; Wesley Cunningham, youth who found the body; Huff; and Nathan Martin, deputy sheriff to whom Kennamer was surrendered by his attorneys.

There was no mention of 19-year-old Sidney Born Jr., son of a wealthy chemical engineer and col-lege instructor, a state witness who drew Kennamer to the scene of his last ride with Gorrell, and who was found fatally wounded, either a sui-cide or murdered, eight days ago.

Judge Franklin E. Kennamer of the federal court for the northern district of Oklahoma, father of the defendant, was not in the court-room.

Doctor Sought After Absence

A nationwide search for Dr. George H. Bigelow, above, execu-tive director of the Massa-chusetts General Hospital in Boston, was launched when he failed to make his whereabouts known after a week's absence.

He had been urged to take a long rest for his health and a memory lapse is feared.

Short Illness Is Fatal to Nichols

Leon Nichols, 40, died in a local hospital this morning after an ill-ness of less than a week. He had been part owner of the Coney Is-land Shop for the last four months.

Mr. Nichols has a brother in Den-ver but he had not been located early this afternoon. A nephew residing in Amarillo was enroute to Pampa.

The body is at the G. C. Malone Funeral home pending funeral ar-rangements.

The robust choral passage, "Since By Man Came Death," was sung well by a double quartet composed of Mrs. R. R. Jones, Mrs. Ethel Powell, Mrs. W. E. Dee, Mrs. C. C. Dodd, Emmitt Smith, Greely War-ren, W. V. Jarratt, and E. D. Zim-merman. Prof. Myers sang the sad-dening lines of the tenor solo, "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart."

The Rev. C. E. Lancaster opened the program as chairman. The in-vo-cation was by the Rev. John Mul-len and the benediction by the Rev. Gaston Foote. At the close, the Philharmonic choir and visitors were served refreshments in the church dining room.

In the afternoon, many mem-bers of the Pampa chorus went to Amarillo and sang in the massed choir presentation of "The Mes-siah," with the Philharmonic or-chestra playing under the direction of Christian Thaulow. Next year, it is hoped, the choir may be in-creased to 500 voices. Choral music in the Panhandle is growing stead-ily more popular.
