DETECTIVE INDICTED IN KIDNAPING

Grand Jury Charges Indifferent Attitude Toward Enforcement

600 GO DOWN WITH CRUISER

Gray county peace officers and the citizens of this county are apathetic toward enforcement of our penal laws, the 31st district court grand jury stated in its report submitted at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as it concluded its work for the January term.

This lack of interest in law enforcement was especially noticeable concerning gambling and liquor laws, the report specified.

A lack of thorough understanding about the procedure necessary to bring about operation of the laws and action by the officers fosters the apathetic feeling, the grand jury believes.

Gray county citizens were urged to inform themselves on what action is necessary to enforce the laws, as a remedy for the condition, the grand jury's report stated.

Members of the crews of the British destroyers Kempenfelt and Boreas estimated 600 insurgent sailors were lost when the Boreas went to the bottom of the Mediterranean. The two destroyers returned here yesterday after disembarking the 200 survivors of Palma, Balearic Islands insurgent base.

Previously the British admiralty in London had reported 400 men were saved from the Boreas of the insurgent blockade fleet.

Stung by the blow, which government sources said would impair the efficiency of the insurgent blockade, insurgents repeatedly bombed Cartagena, government naval base, Sunday and Monday, and issued a decree for requisitioning additional ships to strengthen their naval arms.

The British seamen related that upon reaching the scene of battle, the destroyers flashed messages urging the Boreas crew to jump overboard.

The majority, however, refused to abandon their ship. It stayed afloat more than two hours after being hit by the torpedoes. The 200 saved were life belts.

The insurgent command announced the loss of the Boreas with a communique lauding the bravery of the sailors and protesting the "barbarity" of government fliers for bombing vessels attempting to air the shipwrecked.

Members of the crews of the British destroyers, Blanche and Brilliant, attacked but not hit by unidentified planes, said apparently the attackers were government aviators who mistook the British vessels for insurgent craft.

Smalling Reports Mysterious Light On the heels of the Aurora borealis several weeks ago, another mysterious light appeared in the western skies last night and was seen by many Pampans.

$4,000 QUOTA WITHIN REACH, WORKERS SAY

Although figures were not available up to noon today, directors of the annual Boy Scout drive which opened yesterday were optimistic that Pampa's $4,000 quota would be reached this week.

Many large donations have been received. Several workers have already reported 100 per cent coverage of their territories. Absence from the city of men who annually make large donations has slowed up the drive somewhat, but in the meantime, the workers are contacting the smaller contributors.

Brown Gives $300 The drive directors received pleasant news this morning when a telegram was delivered at Scout headquarters in the city hall reading, "Just heard about the Boy Scout drive. Put me down for $200 and I'll mail you a check as soon as the cattlemen's meeting is over," signed M. K. Brown.

Although he is now a resident of San Antonio, Mr. Brown never forgets the Boy Scouts. He has been one of its most ardent supporters since the first troop was organized here.

Yesterday morning while the workers were breakfasting in the Schneider hotel a man handed Howland a check for $100 for the Scouts but asked that his name not be revealed.

Workers yesterday afternoon visited a local concern for a contribution. The man does much for good causes in Pampa but he asks that his philanthropies not be broadcast.

He wrote out a check for $50 for his $100 for himself, instructed his son to give the workers a check, and then informed them that every man employed by him

Flood Waters Sweep Over California Orange Groves

That flood water is no respecter of orange groves is shown by the picture above, taken from an airplane as unprecedented rains brought high waters that inundated the Los Angeles area, taking scores of lives and causing millions of dollars in property damage.

CITY ASKED TO CLEAR TITLES

That conflicting surveys in Hillcrest addition, located in the northeastern part of Pampa, were resulting in a confusion of land titles that might lead to litigation with the city as the defendant, was the warning given the city commission last night at its regular meeting by J. G. Gantz.

Some of the houses in the addition notably on Sunset Drive, are on property that belongs to another house, and some of the houses are located where the streets properly should be, it is believed according to one map of the area, which includes Sunset drive and Yeager street.

House and lot numbers not corresponding with those on the official book of additions have caused insurance and loan companies to reject loan applications from residents of the addition.

For several years, City Manager C. L. Stine says, the city has been

Once Dreaded Chief of OGPU Testifies

MOSCOW, March 8 (AP)—Genrikh G. Yagoda, once the most dreaded chief of the Soviet secret police has known, today stood in the prisoner's box where he had so many others and retraced part of his pre-trial confession of treason and murder.

One of 21 facing probable death in Moscow's greatest blood purge trial, Yagoda admitted he ordered the deaths of Maxim Gorky, the writer, and Valerian V. Kuibishev, chief of the first five-year plan, with some of Russia's most eminent doctors following his instructions.

But he denied he had ordered the murder of Gorky's son, Zinovi Pechkoff, and Vyacheslav Mensinsky, his own predecessor as chief of the secret police. Before the trial he had confessed guilt in these deaths also. Previously all four deaths had been considered due to natural causes.

Asked why he confessed ordering the deaths of Pechkoff and Mensinsky if that were untrue, Yagoda, whose once sleek round cheeks were shrunken hollow and whose face was ashen-gray, would only reply: "Allow me, please, not to answer that question."

AGREEMENT IN SUIT REACHED

The jury hearing the case of N. M. Milliken vs. Traders and General Insurance company was dismissed late this morning, when attorneys reported to District Judge W. R. Ewing that an agreement had been reached.

Compensation was the cause of action, plaintiff asking $20 a week for a 401-week period for injuries suffered in an accident on September 7, 1933, while he was in the employ of the Plains Drilling company.

The case was started yesterday in 31st district court, opening day of the tenth and final week of the January term.

Jurors hearing the case were Art Dickerson, J. H. Lutz, Shelby Gantz, Byrd Guill, W. A. Harbin, F. L. Lewis, J. W. Walker, S. J. Speer, W. L. Hinton, A. C. Adams, W. H. Hulse, and Norman Johnston. Plaintiff's attorneys were Newton P. Willis, John P. Studer, and Ennis Favors. E. A. Simpson of Amarillo represented the defendant.

Little business is expected to be transacted in district court during the remainder of the week, as the jury has been dismissed. Judge Ewing goes to Roberts county on March 14, to conduct a session in Miami.

ELLIS PARKER WILL BE TRIED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Ellis H. Parker, Sr., Burlington county, N. J., chief of detectives, his son, Ellis, Jr., and three others as kidnapers under the Lindbergh law.

The indictment concerned the alleged kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel, former Trenton resident, from New York to the Parkers' home in Mt. Holly, N. J., Feb. 24, 1936.

At that time, the Parkers issued a "confession" signed by Wendel that he had kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., the crime for which Bruno Richard Hauptmann was then under death sentence.

The faked confession allegedly obtained by torture delayed Hauptmann's execution three days.

The three indicted with the Parkers were Murray Bleefeld, Harry Weiss, and Martin Schlossman, all of New York. They have been characterized by state and federal prosecutors in previous legal actions as the tools of the Parkers.

Both the Parkers have been under indictment in Brooklyn for the last 16 months in connection with the Wendel case but all efforts to extradite them from New Jersey have been futile.

Today's indictment, under federal law, opens the way to bringing the Parkers here for trial.

KPDN WILL BROADCAST MOTHER-IN-LAW EVENT

Radio Station KPND, Pampa, will be in a nationwide network program tomorrow when the Amarillo Mother-in-Law Day program goes on the air from 12:30 to 1 p. m.

Approval of detailed plans for the network broadcast Wednesday has been received by KGNC from A. A. Schecter, director of news and special events for the National Broadcasting Company, in Radio City. Although a local station is seldom given the responsibility of handling an NBC broadcast, Mr. Schecter turned both the announcing and technical details over to KGNC. Wes Izard will handle the staging of the program, and Scott Bledsoe, chief engineer, will set up the equipment and feed it into the NBC line.

The broadcast originating from the reviewing stand at Thirteenth and First streets, Amarillo, will cover the basic Blue network of NBC and will be available to all supplemental groups of NBC stations.

Glorifying Yourself

The truly chic woman chooses lipsticks, compacts and other pocketbook paraphernalia with an eye toward her mode of life and the clothes in her wardrobe. Of course, they must suit her skin and be made by a manufacturer whose products she likes. But she doesn't carry just any old lipstick in an evening bag, while a handsome, rhinestone-studded number goes to the golf course with her.

One of the smartest lipsticks for sports comes in a solid walnut case with a shiny copper base. And one of the most charming evening sets includes two half-size lipsticks in half-size cases—one of solid ebony, the other of solid ivory—and both finished with a circle of tiny rhinestones at the base. The black one is for formal afternoon and to carry when you wear dinner clothes and he wears a black tie. The ivory goes with your most formal gown.

Also for afternoon is a full-size lipstick in a gold and ivory case, shaped like a fluted Greek column. And for the gay and frivolous or for one who likes bright touches with black costumes, a patriotic number with red base, white center and blue top.

With the muted pastel or soft print you're wearing now under your fur coat, you might consider a fat lipstick with case in alternating stripes of pastel enamel and gold. There are compacts to match these.

For the south or to give someone who likes the south but cannot get there this year, there are sleek enamel compacts and matching cigarette cases with pictures of palm trees, broad expanses of beach and rolling waves in colored enamel across the top. And pretty tortoiseshell catallin ones with shiny gold findings. These are transparent, so you always can tell how much powder you have or how many cigarettes are left.

WPA FUNDS ALLOTTED FOR MAVERICK HIGHWAY

EAGLE PASS, March 8.—(P)—Maverick county has been allotted WPA funds for construction of 9 more miles of the new highway along the Rio Grande to Laredo, County Judge Wray Zuehl said.

Work on the new section was to start today, going southward from Eagle Pass. Since the county line is 25 miles south of Cuevas creek, the construction of the new section will leave only 16 miles to be traversed to a connection with the road which Webb county is building, Dimmitt county, which has 3 miles of the road to build between the Maverick and Webb terminals, is obtaining right of way for the connection, Judge Zuehl advised.

Maverick, Webb, and Dimmitt counties are pushing construction with all available county and WPA funds to effect this last link in the El Paso-to-Brownsville river highway. The new 102-mile road will shorten the distance between

GAS COMPANIES ENJOIN RAILROAD COMMISSION

DALLAS, March 8.—(P)—A motion by the Texas Railroad Commission for dismissal of an injunction suit against it was denied by District Judge W. L. Thornton here yesterday.

On grounds the court lacked jurisdiction, the commission sought dissolution of action brought by two gas companies in an attempt to prevent the commission's assuming original jurisdiction in gas utilities regulation in incorporated and home rule cities.

Madden Hill, assistant attorney general, and other commission attorneys, argued that jurisdiction lay in Travis county, and said a plea of abatement would be offered in that court today.

Roy C. Coffee, general attorney for Community Natural Gas Company and Texas Cities Gas Company, Lone Star Gas subsidiaries, which brought the suit, asserted that the 44th district court here, where the suit was filed, had full restraining authority against the commission to prevent its entering a field of regulation he said was not permitted by law.

Judge Thornton granted a restraining order, February 18, which stopped an inventory and appraisal of properties of the Texas Cities Gas Company in El Paso and halted a commission rate hearing in Trenton, Fannin county.

The order was applicable also to four home rule cities other than El Paso, served by the Texas Cities Company, and 300 towns served by Community Natural Gas.

COURT ORDERS TAX PAYMENT

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(P)—The government succeeded in the supreme court today in its effort to collect a $354,354 deficiency assessment imposed against Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Company of New York, on the ground of "fraud with intent to evade" paying 1929 income tax.

Justice Brandeis delivered the opinion that reversed a ruling by the second court of civil appeals in favor of Mitchell.

Mitchell was acquitted in June, 1932, after trial on an indictment charging that he fraudulently attempted to evade a $728,709 tax upon his income for 1929.

Despite the result of the trial, the commissioner of internal revenue sought to collect the $728,709 tax, plus $364,354 imposed in addition by reason of alleged fraud.

Among other actions today: The justices agreed to stay, pending the filing of a petition for rehearing, their recent action in refusing to review the conviction of 12 persons on charges of conspiracy to commit election frauds at Kansas City, Mo., during the 1936 election.

The court agreed to review a lower court decision enjoining the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union from picketing the Donnelly Garment Company of Kansas City, Mo., or attempting to unionize its employees.

The supreme court, by overruling previous decisions, widened the field of federal and state taxation.

In a 5 to 2 decision it reversed rulings holding that the federal government could not tax income derived from land leased from a state and that a state could not tax income derived from land leased from the federal government.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the majority opinion which asserted that "we are convinced that the rulings in Gillespie v. Oklahoma and Burnett v. Colorado Oil and Gas Co. are out of harmony with correct principle and accordingly they should be, and they now are, overruled."

But last Thursday he had to work. They called his name and he missed 850.

BRITONS FAVOR 'PEACE OR WE FIGHT' POLICY

LONDON, March 8. (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain's "peace or we fight" declaration to the world brought a mixed response today from London's main in the street.

To some it seemed all right.

"Sure, I'd fight again," grinned a bus conductor with gun powder-marked face.

Many didn't give much thought to the parliamentary appeal for support of Britain's "almost terrifying" armament program to back up peace talks with dictators.

Others thought the armament program all wrong.

There was political and public opposition to the premier's policy, but his appeal to British fighting spirit was not without widespread response.

"The days of namby pamby international pacifism are over," proclaimed the Daily Mail, pro-Chamberlain, in today's editorial.

Even the less friendly Laborite Daily Herald, with surprising moderation, said Chamberlain's speech was "admittedly a capable parliamentary performance," and did not attack the government foreign policy editorially.

Avowing that "I, myself, would fight for the preservation of democracy," Chamberlain last night won a vote of confidence from the house of commons both for pursuing peace talks with Germany and Italy, and, if they failed, for stepping up an already staggering rearmament program.

Chamberlain admitted the headlong rearmament drive was being utilized psychologically, when he said:

"The sight of this enormous, this almost terrifying power which Britain is building up has a sobering effect, a steadying effect, on the opinion of the world."

And Britain would build even greater engines of war, he continued, "if, in the end, we should fail to re-establish confidence and peace."

This roused the Liberal News Chronicle to editorial criticism that: "Chamberlain's speech is a return to power politics in their most naked form."

Foster Local Talent Theme of Music Week

NEW YORK, March 7.—"Foster Local Music Talent" will be the keynote of the fifteenth annual observance of National Music Week, traditionally observed the first week of May, commencing this Sunday, May 1.

David Sarnoff, chairman of the National Music Week committee, in a statement issued on the observance of this year, commended on the high quality of musical instruction now being furnished in American public schools and the responsibility each community has to encourage the talent thus developed and to provide adequate opportunity for its expression and use.

Among the organizations represented on the National Music Week committee are: National Federation of Music Clubs, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, American Legion and its auxiliary organizations, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts, Inc., Kiwanis International, Lions International, Knights of Columbus, and National Education Association.

Indicted for Murder

McKINNEY, March 8. (AP)—J. W. Rickman, 20, arrested as he hitchhiked along a road toward Fort Sill, Okla., last Thursday, was indicted here yesterday for murder in connection with the slaying Wednesday of Motorcycle Officer Marion Taylor. County Attorney H. H. Nelson said Rickman would be tried at the April term of district court.

Tex's Topics

I got into some pretty slick company from Shamrock yesterday afternoon, and the boys from the big town with the Irish name really fixed me up. . . I have one of the most official-appearing certificates that ever graced a garden wall. . . Fact of the business is, I am an honorary member of the Donegal Beard Club, and have the official papers, signed and sealed by Eugene Worley, Supreme Fuzz Grower, and Bedford Harrison, Keeper of the Fuzz inside the sacred temple.

There are quite a few regular members of this untainted and unsullied order of the hirsute adornment, but the HONORARY members are scarce as hen's teeth. . . I'm one of them. . . Jimmy Allred and Bill McCraw and I and one or two others who we won't need to mention here, also are honorary members. . . I could tell you that Jim Collins, Garnett Reeves, and Sid Patterson all got the same thing conferred upon them, but they just happened to be along at the time, and the Keeper of the Fuzz had no other alternative. . . I'm pretty proud of my diploma.

Now, if you would like to know what this is all about—it's like this. . . Over at Shamrock on the 17th of March, which is St. Patrick's Day, they're going to have one of the most unusual celebrations ever held in this part of the Panhandle. . . It's to be a lively program all day and all night, after the first gun is fired a 10 a. m. . . Why, Bedford Harrison, the general manager of the Shamrock Chamber of Commerce, even told me that they wrote smack-dab to Ireland to get the rules for a game of Irish football, which will be one of the day's features. . . At night, on the stage in Shamrock will be a presentation of "Able's Irish Rose," the play that had the longest run in history on Broadway in New York. . . I believe it ran day and night for six or seven consecutive years without a stop.

There will be a big parade, floats, and a beauty pageant for selection of the most attractive Colleen who will be crowned Miss Wild Irish Rose. . . Pampa is to have an entrant in the contest. . . There will be Irish jigs and reels and everybody's going to have a rootin', tootin' good time or I'll eat my old shillalah. . . I'd bank on that from the sales talk given to me yesterday by Mr. Harrison and his three bearded companions, Ralph Wood, Wallace Barrett, and A. C. Hallmark, at least. . . You'll hear and read more about this celebration later.

Clarence Kennedy is off on the right track for Pampa's Top O' Texas Fiesta in June. . . He's of the opinion that what it needs is a "big name". . . So, the wires are going to be burned up within the next few days to see what can be done about it. . . If Amarillo can get Mrs. Roosevelt for Mother-in-Law Day, surely we ought to be able to get Hitler or Mussolini, or Neville Chamberlain here at Fiesta time.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Although the caravan was cut down to 30 cars by a heavy rain, the Good Will tour had a great trip and was greeted in fine spirit.

The spirit of co-operation between a city such as Pampa and the nearby communities like Laketon, was the topic of a session held at the Laketon school.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

W. A. Long of Childress was elected president of the Magnolia wholesale and retail dealers association at a meeting held in Pampa.

Forty-eight Danciger Oil & Refining company wells and their offsets in the Panhandle field were shut in to proration schedule.

tain "ducky," and "goody." They're too feminine. And he deliberately drops down to "it's me" when he actually knows the correct "it is I," because he is afraid of a lifted eyebrow in his crowd, afraid of being set apart. He prefers to be trite, colloquial and stangy because he prefers to be inconspicuous.

Well, it's at least simple, direct and unaffected. It avoids the "gentleism" and the stilted affectations of other periods. And when the college man finally needs to use the more subtle discriminations in his speech, he probably can find them.

RUDE AWAKENING

Something happened in Philadelphia the other day that may bring a reduction in our much-demonstrated auto slaughter. Mrs. Ellen Oberholzer was tossed out of bed long before her regular getting-up time. It all occurred when two cars came together in the early morning hours and then crashed into the beauty parlor beneath Mrs. Oberholzer's apartment.

Now Mrs. Oberholzer like any one else does not appreciate being tossed out of bed at such an hour, especially when she gets a wrenched back and something of a shock to boot. Before that rude awakening she was probably one of the many people who worry about traffic fatalities and who feel sorry when someone they know gets banged up. No doubt she told her friends that something ought to be done about the way people kill each other on the highways.

Now, it is to be hoped, Mrs. Oberholzer will feel impelled really to do something about reckless driving. She is very unhappy about that lost slumber and positive action may be in the offing. So, if autos keep on going around knocking people out of bed in the middle of the night, a great upsurge of sleep lovers may put an end to this blood spilling on the streets and highways of America.

An Individualist Goes In For National Planning

Man About Manhattan

—BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Lines written in dejection, near Madison avenue: "The story's going around that Libby Holman won't grant interviews unless she's allowed to read proof before publication. It's only partly true. . . Miss Holman will grant interviews to those whom she's certain she can trust with a promise not to make any references to her young son. . . And the Holman roof blows off if there's any romantic linking of her name with young men-about-town."

Does it annoy you for strangers to read your newspaper over your shoulder? . . . In New York they quarrel with you if it isn't open at the right place. . . They say, "Fardon me a minute while I see who won the fourth race at Santa Anita."

No kidding. . . The newsreel theaters show everything but news reels. . . Nothing angers me more than my hat blowing off. . . They will have to get me a new typewriter soon if they want these columns on time. . . As it is now, I'm practically setting this by hand. . . Only two whole days before insurance is due. . . Hmmm. . . The coffee here is getting no better.

Why doesn't the theater refuse to seat people who come late. . . Today I saw an actor walking down Broadway with tassels on his shoes. . . gray tassels. . . This town seems to have a monopoly on being sloppily nasty when it rains. . . Everybody ought to go to a night club now and then, maybe once a year. . . But no often. . . If you want to know why, take a look at those who go there every night.

Glad to see Donald Cook back on Broadway. . . When I knew him the first name was spelled Donne. . . He used to be top man in a stock company out in Ohio, and a very good one. . . His co-star was Edith King, and now both of them are back in New York, she with the Lunts in "Amphitryon 38," he with Alec Woolcott, etc., in "Wine of Choice."

Well, swell.

Wallace Ford's blast against N. Y. press-agents brought a call to this department. . . Ford doesn't like the p.a.'s here. . . He thinks they are strangling the theater with ineptness. . . "Will you read these press books, please, and see whether Mr. Ford has received any publicity? . . . Sure, but that was Ford's opinion, not mine. . . I just printed it, with quotes. . . "I know, but will you glance through these, please?" . . . I glance through them. . . There is certainly enough publicity on Mr. Ford to cover a house.

Now let's run through the show calendar. . . Eppmnn. . . There are 41 plays on the boards, and 13 are solid hits, counting the musicals. . . A hit is one which plays to capacity or near capacity every performance. . . The man who asked me to look at Ford's publicity has three of these hits, including the Pulitzer prize, "You Can't Take It With You."

If someone asked me to compile a list of things I dislike, I think I would lead off with child actors. I can not become reconciled to eight-year-olds who seem to know so much. . . This is a bum, fusty day and I'm off for a dram of oolong.

FIDDLE-FADDLE.

AMARILLO—No big apple at the annual Panhandle Cattleman's convention.

The cowmen will throw three dances per night for three nights, but only old-time square dances will be allowed.

Said Jess Hill, who has been "sardrodding" convention dances for many years: "All this talk about the big apple replacing the square dance out here is merely fiddle-faddle."

People You Know

BY ARCHER PULLINGER

The bewildered mother was telling the teacher all about her son. "You know," she said, "I had a hard time getting him to come to school today. He just made up his mind he wasn't going to come at all. And you know it is unusual for him to act like that." The teacher nodded assent; she thought of the small boy who made mostly A's and never missed a day of school. "Yes, he's very quiet-natured and does not talk much. I'm surprised," the teacher said. "Well," continued the mother, "it began the other day when he went out for gym practice. It was his first time. The boys had to take off all their clothing and put on gym suits. Then the other boys saw my son's long underwear, and they began laughing at him and making fun of him. "Oh, that's so cruel," murmured the teacher. "They kept that up until the gym class started and they began it after it was over. Naturally, he was embarrassed more than he had ever been. So he came home and told me that he positively would not go to school another day unless he had underwear like the other boys wear. I told him he was acting silly; I told him everything, but nothing worked. He said he wouldn't go back if he had to wear that long underwear. Well, I promised that I would get him some today and he went to school."

Cranium Crackers

In this series of Cranium Crackers with a court room query, unusual local statutes may alter slightly the legal decisions given.)

The Good Food Grocery Store sold a pumpkin, two oysters and other edibles, amounting to $5.24 to a swell-looking customer named Ronald Smythe. Smythe in payment, offered to endorse over to the grocery store a $20 check of Henry Fure written on the First National Bank.

Smythe seemed honest, the check appeared genuine, Henry Fure was the town's No. 1 citizen and the store wanted to sell food; so the manager said "Okay," and gave Smythe the $4.76 in change.

The store took the check to the First National Bank and received $20. The bank then canceled the check, marked it paid and charged it to Henry Fure's account.

When Fure got his checks on the first of the month he discovered that his signature had been forged on the Smythe check and he forced the bank to reimburse his account in the sum of $20.

By that time Smythe had slipped town. The First National Bank then sued the Good Food Grocery Store to recover the $20.

SHOULD THE BANK WIN?

SUPER TROUPER.
TUCUMCARL, N. M.—"Tiny Joe" Bright, held here for extradition to California, "wowed" officers with a comedy routine.

A theater arranged for him to put on a performance, under guard.

Officer John Palmer, of Sacramento, Calif., recognizing "the show must go on," watched from the wings, then took Joe away.

Around Hollywood

—BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—An old screen friend has passed from the picture, unheralded and unmourned. Gone is the lengthy fadeout scene which used to signal us to get our hats and coats.

Time was when a movie-wise patron could be half-way through the exit before the hero had finished planting the fadeout kiss. Even if the patron weren't movie-wise, he would leave anyway because the lady in the seat ahead, who knew her signals, would be pinning on her hat and he couldn't see if he did stay.

But the protracted movie ending outlasted the hat pin-era in feminine millinery by many a year. Long after the screen story was done, the villain disposed of and true love rewarded, the film kept filling the screen. Through blooming cherry orchards the boy would meet girl would stroll with her—usually into the sunset. Arm in arm, the happy pair would stroll down the blossoming lanes, while the wise audience strolled, in the opposite direction, down the aisles and out.

About the only movie you can catch walking away into the sunset nowadays is a Charlie Chaplin picture. Chaplin likes to send his little tramp sauntering and swinging down open roads for the fadeout. But then Charlie isn't making pictures nowadays.

The ending of "Gold Is Where You Find It" came pretty close—George Brent and Olivia de Havilland standing on a promontory looking out over their fertile valley while Brent philosophized and the color camera caught California fruits in close-up. But there was a reason for that—the gold of the title sprang from those technicolored fruits.

Ordinarily, the wise producer today doesn't take time with such cinematic agonizing. He wants his picture to end with a bang—if for no other reason, because a good bang will wake up the patrons and clear the house, for the next show.

"It Happened One Night" had the perfect ending—a "tag scene" in which the stars did not appear but which was startlingly funny. "The Awful Truth" had another—the dancing figures on the cuckoo clock. "Tovarich's" finale summed up the whole tragic-comic story with a laugh. On the serious side, "Stella Dallas's" fadeout was a quickie. Barbara Stanwyck sees her daughter's wedding, through a window, turns and walks through the rain toward the camera—flims. And the ending of "The Boatman" was practically sensational—Fredric March, with Francisca Gaal's lips upturned, did NOT kiss her in the fadeout, although as he looked out to sea, you had the feeling he would get around to it in time.

None of which means that movie-makers have forgotten about sunsets. All of them know very well that comes the dawn. And they have nothing against blossoming orchards, either. But they all know very well that you won't sit through those endings.

Miller Funeral Held Saturday

McLEAN, Mar. 8.—Funeral services for M. J. "Chicken" Miller were held Saturday afternoon in the Baptist church by Rev. L. H. Shockley. Mr. Miller was born in 1861 in Illinois and died March 4. He has lived in this country about 40 years.

Surviving him are his widow and six children, four girls and two boys.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER,
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Reorganization of the government's operating structure in the interest of efficiency, proposed for reads by one President after another, is up again in the senate.

The program as originally proposed has been torn up and whittled down into the present Byrnes bill. But the remnant is still threatened by a horde of senators jealous of patronage and prerogative, entrenched bureaucrats and lobbyists who appreciate things as they are.

Leading the opposition is chubby Senator Harry P. Byrd of Virginia, whose presidential candidacy is as persistent as his criticism of Roosevelt. Byrd bases his attack on the allegation that the Byrnes bill would mean much heavier concentration of executive power.

His views carry a certain weight with some of the senators because as governor of Virginia Byrd successfully advocated a program to recognize the state government which had been worked out for him by one of the three public administration experts who since have formulated the original Roosevelt federal program.

Increased Executive Power

Virginia borders on the national capital, say it's easy to learn how Byrd operated when he himself went in for government reorganization.

Byrd said then that the problems of government and of the governor's office had become such that the executive should be given authority commensurate with the responsibilities of his office. His program involved enormously increased centralization of executive power, more conspicuously in the transfer of numerous elective jobs to the status of appointive jobs.

A state department of finance to cover auditing, comptrollership, disbursing and similar functions has been recommended by Luther H. Gulick, Byrd's chief expert, and to end controversy over this phase Byrd agreed that he would be the head of the department as well as governor.

Similar Federal Issues

To fill the newly created post of state comptroller Byrd appointed his chief political henchman, E. R. Combs. Involved in the job was the power to stop improper use of appropriated funds—an issue which crops up now in Senate debate.

Few contended that the Virginia reorganization didn't mean a great improvement in government efficiency. But today many Virginians who observed the senator's fervent efforts to restrict powers of the presidency are snickering as they recall the lengths of which he went to extend the official and political power of Gov. Harry P. Byrd.

The Virginia reorganization program wiped out an old and widespread fee system which had enriched country ring politicians, placing the fee on the salary. A compensation commission was set up to determine what the salaries should be and Byrd gave the chairmanship, a post which carried a great big stick because its function was to establish salaries for the country ring politicians, to the same E. R. Combs. The "Byrd Machine" became one of the strongest political combines in the country.

Got More State Taxes

GOV. JAMES H. PRICE, recently elected against Byrd's wishes, has decided to separate the comptrollership and the compensation commission chairmanship. But when he asked the legislature to appropriate $4500 as a salary for the latter job, the lower house, dominated by Byrd men, rebelled and wrote in a requirement that the attorney general must be chairman of the commission. The attorney general was a candidate of the Byrd machine.

Byrd also put over a new tax system under which land and property were subject to local

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALTSTON, M.D.

Though we know a good deal about the kidney and its functions, we are not yet quite clear as to what causes kidney stones to form. We do know some of the conditions which contribute to stone formation, and to the extent of that knowledge we may try to prevent their development.

Commonly the kidneys are said to function as filters, but that conception of their work is not quite correct. The kidneys appear to be able to eliminate selectively certain substances present in the blood, and also to alter the chemical constitution of urine during its passage through the kidney tubules.

The essential kidney function is to remove from the body certain soluble waste products. When the kidneys are normal, they perform their work well.

The urine excreted is supersaturated with relatively insoluble substances. Just why urine can carry in solution more of these substances than an equal quantity of other fluids can is still undetermined. But here is the significant point: When kidney function is altered, the substances carried in the urine may be thrown out of solution to form solids (crystals). Here we have the essentials for the formation of stones.

What favors throwing out of solution certain of the urine's substances? Anything which favors excessive concentration of the urine—adequate fluid intake, excessive perspiration, the extraordinary loss of fluids through the gastro-intestinal tract or prolonged fever.

In addition, we find certain disturbances of the glands of internal secretion, notably over-activity of the parathyroid glands, certain dietary defects and prolonged physical inactivity also favor the over-concentration of urine and the precipitation of crystals within the urinary system. Chilling the body may have the same effect.

All these factors are recognized in modern medical treatment, the physician making certain to fight dehydration (the drying out of the body) by forcing fluids on the fever and other patients. The instruction to drink water at meals, if desired, and between meals is commonplace. Massage and permissible physical activity are usually prescribed for patients kept in bed for any length of time.

Greater and greater concentration of state power resulted and that meant—at least until Price came along—greater power for Byrd and his machine.

Buffaloes Will Play Oklahoma Quintet Today

KANSAS CITY, March 8 (AP)—The process of separating the wheat from the chaff in the national intercollegiate basketball tournament will be resumed today, and by midnight the original field of 32 teams, representing 15 states, will have been sliced to 16 first round survivors.

Today's program, calling for eight games and starting at 12:30 p. m., will see such highly-regarded quintets as Marshall college of Huntington, W. V.; West Texas Teachers of Canyon, Texas; and Central teachers of Edmond, Okla., in action, some possibly for the last time.

No so-called upsets were recorded in the opening day's play yesterday, although two teams rated a better than average chance to crash thru to the title did a lot of talking before the gun barked to end their games.

The touted Warrensburg, Mo. Teachers played to a standstill by the fast-moving Dakota Wesleyan quintet, was happy to take a 36 to 33 victory, and the North Texas Teachers were forced to shut out their basketball to earn a 31 to 39 decision over Morningside college of Sioux City, Iowa.

Seabiscuit And War Admiral To Run in Pimlico

BALTIMORE, March 8 (AP)—Dopesters with the Dixie Handicap in the back of their minds dug into the records today and came up with the discovery that Seabiscuit's best time for the Dixie distance last year was a full second faster than War Admiral's.

Both horses are in the field of 69 nominated for the secondary feature of Pimlico's spring meet on May 11.

The Dixie, Riggs Handicap and preakness are all a mile and three sixteenths on the Pimlico track. Seabiscuit won the Riggs in 1:57 2/5 last year and War Admiral took the preakness in 1:58 2/5.

E. R. Byrson's Calumet Dick won the Dixie last year with a time of 1:56 2/5, then bettered it by taking the Narragansett special, the same distance in 1:57 flat.

The weights imposed on the horses will not be announced until March 15. The impositions are likely to keep at least some of the nominees out of the race while the $20,000 added money will keep some of them in.

BRITISH ALSO WOULD CHANGE OLYMPICS SITE

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—The meeting of the International Olympic Committee at Cairo Thursday took on fresh importance today as European reaction to developments in Tokyo indicated that the question of transferring the games to another site could not be sidetracked.

British Olympic officials, who have gone on record against holding the games at Tokyo in 1940, prepared to lead the fight for a change of site on the basis of yesterday's indications that Japan might not be prepared to act as host nation.

War Minister General Sugiyama gave the first sign that there may be a hitch in Japan's proceedings when he announced that soldiers on the active list would be forbidden to take part in the games. He added that he believed the games should be cancelled unless the conflict in China ended.

Prof. Kano, Japanese delegate to the international committee meeting, immediately protested that he knew no reason for anyone to speak of abandoning the games, adding: "The Chinese war won't affect the games. You will not hear of Chinese troops landing in Japan or their planes bombing Tokyo. We will not exclude the Chinese from the games if they come, but will welcome them as sportsmen true to the Olympic spirit."

Lord Aberdare, British delegate to the I. O. C., commented: "The fact that Japan herself is waverling whether she will be able to hold the games makes the I. O. C.'s position difficult. Just the same it is Japan's privilege to keep the games if she wants them."

Such influential nations as Germany and Italy as well as less powerful Portugal indicated their desire would adopt a more or less neutral attitude toward the anti-Tokyo movement. All three went on record yesterday as believing that "it's up to Japan."

Olympic Village Being Planned By Jap Committee

By FOLO LONDON
TOKYO, March 8 (AP)—The organizing committee for the 1940 Olympics today answered War Minister General Gen Sugiyama's recommendation that the games be cancelled by announcing a 5,000,000 yen ($1,500,000) building program.

The War Minister told a diet committee studying the government's national mobilization bill that the games, scheduled to be held in Tokyo, should be cancelled if the war in China continued. He was joined by Admiral Nobunasa Suetsugu, Home Minister.

But an authoritative source said the Olympics organizing committee "paid no attention" to his remarks.

The president of the committee, Prince Iyeyasu Tokugawa, disclosed that the huge building program provided for construction of an "Olympic Village" which was a Los Angeles innovation for housing athletes, as well as a huge swimming arena to accommodate 30,000 spectators.

HARVESTER GRID SQUADS TO SCRIMMAGE REST OF WEEK

Intra squad scrimmages will be in order for Harvester prospects the rest of this week. By next week coaches will have a line on their best boys and will scrimmage the exes still in school one week from Friday. If present plans materialize, two more lettermen arrived in uniform yesterday afternoon to give coaches a full turnout of last year's eligibles. Melvin Watkins reported for backfield duty and Tommy Solomon for work at tackle. The big fellow also wants to take a crack at the center job, one of the most important in the Mitchell system of football. Solomon would be a natural for the job if he can work at that position.

Watkins looked particularly good at ball carrying for a first time out this season. Another boy who has been making rapid strides is Albert Kemp who is working backfield prospects. Kemp is showing natural ability as a ball carrier and on defense.

An end who is showing quality is Eugene Fleming. His defensive play has been sparkling in workouts and his blocking effective.

An all around player on the squad is Glen Nichols who can play almost any position. He will be used where most needed. He played center and tackle last fall but has been used mostly at fullback during early spring practice. If he is needed at center, that is likely where he will be used. R. G. Candler is at present battling for the call.

Coaches put the boys through a long, stiff workout yesterday afternoon which ended with an offensive scrimmage. Nichols was not in uniform because of a cold and Brown was absent following a tonsillectomy.

football field, bicycle course, auditorium for indoor games and a new main stadium.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Sammy Baugh indicated he would forget about pro football if he made the baseball grade with the St. Louis Cardinals. He worked out at short and second yesterday and hit several hard ones to left field, drawing the comment from Manager Frank Frisch, "a pretty good-looking ball player."

LAREDO, Tex.—The San Antonio Missions of the Texas league planned to begin training here today, with most of the squad in camp.

On the ground were Vice President Guy Alry, and Manager Zack Taylor.

DALLAS—Arrival of additional players was expected to swell the roster of the Dallas Steers as they entered their second day of training.

Fifteen candidates, only five of whom were considered as prospective regulars, reported yesterday as Manager Ray Brubaker called the roll for the first workout.

BEAUMONT—The Beaumont Exporters, more than 40 of them already in camp, planned to begin limbering up today in an initial training session.

The Exporters meet the Philadelphia Athletics second team here Saturday and Sunday in first exhibition games of the year.

JACKSONVILLE, Tex.—The Oklahoma City Indians went into their second day of training here today with a squad of 20 pitchers and infielders on hand, and the remainder of the roster due next Monday.

2ND BASEMAN NEEDED BADLY BY CLEVELAND

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW ORLEANS, March 8 (AP)—The Cleveland club which Oscar Vitt is grooming under sultry skies for another shot at the Yankee stronghold, is not a bowl of cherries. It's more like a barrel of apples with a bad one in the middle, to get our metaphors and smiles thoroughly mixed.

From a distance, the Indians who finished third in the American League last year, look very good indeed. They have a slick pitching staff, potentially the best in the game. What they don't have is a big league second baseman, and that is enough bad apple to spoil any barrel.

"Why should I try to fool anybody?" asks the disarming Mr. Vitt, who is taking over a sector strewn with the bones of departed managers. "I haven't got a good second baseman in sight. Unless I find one among the rookies who is fast enough to team up with my shortstop, Lyn Lary, on double plays, we can't hope to lick those Yankees."

Vitt is not a man to make extravagant talk about beating the Yankees, because he knows them. He managed their Newark farm last season and Colonel Jake Ruppert, he recalls, was disappointed because he won the International League by only 2 1/2 games when the Colonel had set his heart on a 30-game margin.

The brightest prospect Vitt has for that all-important infield berth appears to be one Kenneth Keltner, a big 21-year-old who hit a lusty 310 while playing the outfield and third base for Milwaukee last year. Keltner has looked good in camp and Vitt has hopes he can heal that wound at second base.

If he can't, then Vitt will have no alternative than to put Odell (Bad News) Hale back at second, where he performed, only passably last season, and hope for the best. Hal Trooky, though no great shakes as a fielder, is a fixture at first base.

Vitt thinks he has the best pitching staff in the game. Anyway, he says he wouldn't trade Bob Feller, Johnny Allen and Mel Harder for the Yanks' top trio of Lefty Gomez, Red Ruffing and Monte Pearson. Allen, it will be recalled, won 15 straight last year before dropping his final start, a tough one-run decision.

Julius Solters, Earl Averill and Bruce Campbell, from left to right, give the Indians an outfield that can manufacture a lot of runs but leaves considerable to be desired in fielding skill. Geoffrey Heath, a youngster who blasted a .367 batting average with Milwaukee, is giving Campbell some competition to worry about.

Vitt regards his most interesting experiment as Rollie Hemsey, the veteran catcher recently obtained by trade from the St. Louis Browns. Oscar feels that he either is letting himself in for a lot of grief or is getting one of the best catchers in the game, one who could inspire much confidence in a kid like Bob Feller. Hemsey is a man who likes to forget training occasionally.

Aggies and Rice To Play Tonight

HOUSTON, March 8 (AP)—Texas A. & M. bent on ending the South-west Conference basketball season without slipping into a tie for fourth place with its traditional rival, Texas, comes here tonight determined to lick the Rice Owls in a game that rates an anticlimax.

A win would give the Aggies six victories against six defeats, but a loss would chalk up a five win, five loss rating, like that of the Longhorns, who now are in fifth place.

Rice, which has lost more games than any team except Texas Christian, could boost its wins to three, but nowise change its standing.

Tonight's game is the last scheduled in conference play for the year.

Wrestlers Fight It Out After Venable Victory

Wild Bill Venable had to "come from behind" to win a rip-snorting, grapple battle from Gorilla Poggi in the main event at the Pampa Athletic arena. But the battle didn't end with the raising of Venable's hand. Poggi was so mad that he charged Venable, starting choking, and it took Referee Ray "Big Train" Clement and Promoter Chambers to break the two fire-eaters loose. When they got to their dressing rooms they tried to get at each other but Promoter Chambers locked the door between Poggi's dressing room and the shower and let him cool off.

The match that stole the evening was the semi-final between George Hartay newcomer from Hungary, and Bill Cazell who relieved Dick Sampson who failed to arrive in time for the bout. Sampson wasn't missed much because Cazell staged a brilliant exhibition but he was unable to match the speed, science and ability of Hartay although staying for a draw decision.

Hartay has everything. He is one of the smoothest grapplers seen here in many a day. He knows all the holds and how to break them when he gets in. In fact, he's tops. Cazell showed so much improvement over his previous appearances that fans thought he was a ringer. The Indian has been on the west coast for some time and he learned plenty. He lost his head a couple of times but shook hands and went back to battling, which the crowd admired.

Almost Battle Royal
Slim Hall and his 6 feet and 4 inches of rubber body squirmed and wriggled away from Basanta Singh the Hindu became disgusted. He got hold after hold on Hall but the human eel just wiggled away, finally coming out with a hold. He usually pinned Singh in 12 minutes with a freak head hold in which he twined his long legs around Singh's head, draped his big feet down his chest, rolled over and there was Mr. Singh's shoulders flat on the mat.

It must be said that Venable tried to wrestle a little but the method of procedure was impossible against Poggi who wanted to slug it out. Venable tried to meet Poggi at his own game but failed. Poggi also did some wrestling which was a treat watch. After 13 1/2 minutes of battling, Poggi landed five ribbit punches and then slammed Venable with a miniature pile driver and pinned him.

Venable went berserk in the second fall and went after Poggi with everything in the bag. He wrestled, slugged and even tried to pull Poggi's hair, of which there wasn't any. Finally Venable got the Argentine groggy and slipped over a Japanese crab hold to win in 14 minutes.

The third and final fall was an open and shut case of murder with malice aforthought if it had of been allowed to continue. Both grapplers lost their heads and anything went. There was wrestling, slugging, choking, gouging and what have you. Venable finally got across the lucky punch, a right to the jaw, and Poggi went down. A slam and smother minutes but the two got together and their hostilities in 12 or twice before finally being sent to their dressing rooms.

"Give 'em to me, I'll break 'em in too" babbled Poggi as he raved and ranted with tears in his eyes.

For Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK

Yesterday: With deep concern, Polly waits the return of Jerry, meanwhile bearing the brunt of unkind village gossip.

CHAPTER XXIX SPRING night in Connecticut, and the scent of lilacs through the window. Polly's baby sleeping in his cradle, Polly in her bed.

Near the door lies the mongrel dog on guard, his whiskered nose on his outstretched paws, his ears twitching—the little dog that has come so far and knows his destiny.

Spring night on the Atlantic off the coast of England, the same moment in the span of time was later as hours are counted. Two vessels riding close, one nearly captured.

About the prisoners. Jerry Whitfield was saying to Cabell Banks, "I'd like to get rid of them."

Yes, it's bad business keeping prisoners. You've got to feed and exercise them. In the end they're apt to take your ship away from you. My advice is, set them ashore tomorrow on the first island you can safely touch.

"There never was sounder advice," Jerry replied. "And we'd both better head south at once. Come daylight, old Mother Frigate will count her chickens."

"We'll sail together, of course. I'll have my French pilot pick your island. Good night."

Cabell went over the side alone and rowed himself back to the Gray Gull. Presently the two ships were cleaving the night like a pair of friendly birds flying south.

The old French pilot knew of an island that would do. A ship he sailed had once put in there for a new mast the year he got his second wound fighting for Napoleon.

"It's inhabited," he told Cabell in his provincial French, "but none too comfortable. The old man laughed hard at the thought of the 'English dogs' having to stop there. (It was always 'English dogs' when his wounds hurt him.) They will have to live on carrots and goats' milk, the fine rascals. No roast beef for a while!"

THE island proved to be just where the old Frenchman said it would be, and they reached it next day before sunset. The Gray Gull stood by while Jerry took the May Queen as close to shore as he dared.

There must come now the difficult work of unloading prisoners. Most of the British sailors in the forecastle cabin would be armed. Jerry recalled; only those in the deck light had lost their weapons.

A slip now, one careless or incautious move on his part, and the ship would be taken from him. In this even he and his men would hardly be set ashore on this island. They would be taken in iron to Dartmoor prison or to the vile hulk ships reserved for American privateers who overreached themselves.

At this moment, with elation behind him and grim necessity ahead, Jerry could think of Polly clearly. Not as a dim sweet dream in the darkness, but as a flesh and blood wife in a pine-paneled kitchen, sewing a seam before an open fire. In her strength and courage, in her promise of fruition and home to a wandering man's heart, Polly was America, and America was Polly. For such a woman and such a country, men cultivated level heads and humble hearts.

It was the quarter-deck cabin that Jerry unlocked first. In person he conducted the four sullen officers up the ladder and across decks to a rope ladder that took them to the waiting shore boat. He remembered to be conventional, knowing that the English expected every American privateer skipper to be a boor.

From the forecastle cabin a few men were called in at a time and disarmed. Fists and tempers were active. The prisoners had naturally concerted during the night and day to overthrow their captors. Jerry warily stationed them in the boats with oars in their hands, even watched by an American oarsman, with another pair of his men to guard the boat. And so the transfer was made from ship to island without loss of life.

This accomplished, the May Queen and the Gray Gull put to sea again and sailed west. That way lay home.

THOUGH there was threat of storms, good weather held, and this was fortunate. Both ships were lightly manned, and on board the May Queen bruised bodies and blackened eyes were prevalent. Jerry and his original 12 men could attest to the prowess of British fists, even when swung by sleepy drunkards. Jerry's left cheek was crazily split when the surprised heimsman's knuckles had placed their one protesting blow. His moccasin feet were painfully sore from the scuffing British boots that had trodden over them.

Yet the wonder of this beautiful brig made his aches and bruises seem as nothing to Jerry Whitfield. He ran over the ship like a gratified boy who cannot believe his luck. He was mute and awe-struck as he studied her broad deck and beautiful cabin, her stout canvas and strong spars and realized that they were his to command. For by the laws of war, she was his! There was only Cabell Banks to dispute his ownership, and Cabell had spoken, Cabell had stood in the presence of both crews just before they left the island and said:

"Captain Whitfield boarded the May Queen against my advice and without my assistance. She is his. I have nothing to do with her, except to share the cargo according to agreement."

Because of the cargo the two Captains were proceeding together now to an American port. They wished a court of admiralty to pass on their prize in order that all might be legal.

And so for the second time they put in at Washington for matters of business. They learned now that privateer skippers needed sharp wits for the cargo they had on their hands was rich and extensive. Dealers were in port from cities as far away as New Orleans and New York. The two young seamen were no match for these crafty gentlemen, and so their goods went for less than it was worth.

Yet satisfaction prevailed. Cabell was able to pay his debts and restock the Gray Gull for a long cruise, beside laying by a tidy sum in the bank against another barren season. Jerry was able to buy provisions without stint for the big May Queen and to engage a larger crew. The sailors received their prize money hilariously and swore allegiance.

ON the night of departure from Wilmington, N. C., Cabell and Jerry sat in the Gray Gull's cabin and enjoyed a last talk. They were going on their separate ways. Cabell across the Atlantic again, Jerry to Connecticut to see Polly.

"It's a thing I can hardly believe," Jerry said. "Me going to Polly at last. Going in my own ship."

"The fortunes of war, my boy. Down yesterday. On top of the world today. And don't forget tomorrow's an uncharted country. . . . By the way, my banker gave me some papers I left with him on our last stop here. I've got a confession to make. That letter you wrote Polly and gave me to post. . . . Well, it was with the papers. I found it when I opened the packet. There's nothing I can say except that I'm sorry. I was almost crazy at the time, you'll recall, over debts. It's a poor excuse, but all I have. I've just posted the letter to Polly with an apology from C. Banks. . . . Forgiven?"

"Of course," Jerry said. "I reckon there's nothing we couldn't forgive one another for after what we've been through. Polly's sensible. She'll take it all right."

And so in their large masculine way they disposed of the matter of a mere letter, shook hands, swore eternal friendship, and parted. Later, they saluted as their two ships left the harbor. One ship stood toward the east. The other headed north, following the coast line—the May Queen bound for Connecticut.

Some British warships stood off Norfolk, and these drove her out to sea. Two of them followed her, and because they kept together like a pair of gaddies, Jerry dared not fight them but fled before them, hoping to lose them and so turn home again. This monstrous game kept up for a fortnight. And then one day the May Queen's lookouts reported that the gaddies had parted company and only one remained.

Jerry went to meet this ship, in combat. And so they tested the May Queen's long guns. There was bloodshed, and five of Jerry's men were buried at sea, but there was victory too.

HULL SIGNS TRADE TREATY WITH CZECHS

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Innovations in the newly-signed trade treaty with Czechoslovakia, state department officials said today...

The treaty, signed last night by Hull and Czech Minister Vladimir Hruban, tariff benefits will be granted on 76.7 per cent of Czech imports...

The controversial question of duties on cheap shoes was settled by fixing an upper limit on their production...

Observers noted that the document was signed only a few hours after Secretary Hull said he would be happy to receive German proposals...

Germany denounced the most-favored-nation clause in her commercial treaty with the United States, and has been deprived of the benefits of American trade agreements with other countries.

Other items benefited were lubricating oils, films, electric carbons, abrasives, resin, wood, sulphur, automobiles, office equipment and electrical refrigerators.

The United States granted appreciable reductions on cotton gloves, leather gloves, hosiery, glassware, flatware, tinware, tin cans, and other products on the duty free list.

Principal duty reductions were made on agricultural and fishery products, including fresh apples and pears, nuts, dried and canned fruits, canned vegetables and canned salmon.

GRASSHOPPERS WILL RAVAGE PLAINS AGAIN

COLLEGE STATION, March 8.—Common sawdust, preferably weathered for a year, is being drafted as shock troops for the campaign against grasshoppers...

Entomologists have found that a combination of sawdust, mill-run bran, or "red dog" flour, and sodium arsenate will kill the hoppers almost as effectively as more costly mixtures.

Members of the Texas Grasshopper Control committee figure that the hopper tribe will endanger crops on some three million Texas acres this year.

JAPS CHECKED BY ONSLAUGHTS OF GUERRILLAS

SHANGHAI, March 8 (AP)—Heavy snow throughout central China and increasingly strong guerrilla attacks on all fronts have checked the Japanese advance in its self-designated task of bringing about a pro-Japanese regime in China.

The growing intensity of the guerrilla attacks today threatened to disrupt communications facilities between the far-flung lines of the army of Nippon.

Japanese erected barbed wire barricades around Hangchow, north-west of Shanghai, to combat raids in that area.

Daily reports from the Hangchow area tell of Japanese outposts attacked, train service disrupted and telephone and telegraph lines cut.

While guerrilla tactics constantly barred the Japanese, Chinese troops recaptured several towns in Anhwei province, and were threatening Japanese garrisons at Wuhsing and Wu-kang.

Near Tinghsun, 30 miles south of Linhaiwan in Anhwei, a Japanese cavalry detachment was ambushed. Thirty soldiers were killed.

Guerrilla bands were most active along the Tientsin-Pukow railway. Among them were detachments attacking with red spears and stripped to the waist under the delusion they are immune to gunfire—a survival of the historic Boxer rebellion.

From Shansi province came reports that large numbers of defeated Chinese, instead of retreating into Shensi to the south, were breaking into mobile units and scattering over the countryside to prolong warfare from ambush.

Annual Calf Show Held at Higgins

HIGGINS, March 8.—The second annual Lipscomb County 4-H Club Show was held at the Higgins livestock sales pavilion Saturday with about 20 head of Hereford steer calves shown.

The parade, led by the Higgins school band down the main thoroughfare, was one of the most colorful events of the season. Much fun and merriment was afforded the large crowd gathered from all corners of the county, when each boy endeavored to lead, pull or push his unaccustomed calf down the street.

Most of the steers exhibited were bred on the Jones & Jones ranch, northwest of Higgins, one of the largest ranches in the Panhandle, where Dave McCoy has been foreman for a number of years. The stock, according to experienced cattlemen, who observed the scene, showed marked improvement over the calves exhibited by the boys a year ago.

The calf winning first prize, weighing 640 pounds, owned by Glen Rice of Lipscomb, came from the Jones ranch. Rice who received $8 for his prize also fed another Jones calf weighing around 835 pounds.

The second best calf was owned by Bill Trenfield of Follett. In a deal with his father, George Trenfield, Bill traded a bull calf for this prize winner. His father sold the bull calf about two months ago for $500 to the Carter ranch in Hawaii.

Dean Hill of Follett was awarded largest prize, a 600 pound calf, weighing around 600 pounds was also from the Jones ranch.

Two Oldest Mothers-in-Law From Higgins

HIGGINS, March 8.—Although Mrs. Mary E. McClure of Higgins has been chosen the oldest mother-in-law and will receive the honor due her at the Mother-in-Law Day celebration at Amarillo tomorrow, Higgins boasts another mother-in-law, Mrs. J. C. Brown who is in her 96th year.

Mrs. Brown, an invalid, who will celebrate her 96th birthday on Nov. 8, 1938, has been confined to her bed for a number of years and will not be able to attend the great annual event.

Born in Illinois, in 1842, where she spent her childhood, Mrs. Brown came to this section where she has since resided, in 1906. She is the mother of two daughters, Mrs. Mable Price, Ingewald, Calif., and Mrs. Rhoda Hoover, Shawnee, Okla.; three sons, F. E. Brown, Ceres, Calif., J. C. Brown and B. W. Brown both of Higgins. She also has twenty-seven granddaughters, forty-four great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

Groom Float Has Biblical Theme

GROOM, March 8.—Naomi and her two daughters-in-law Ruth and Orpah, will be the theme of the Groom float entered in the Mother-in-Law celebration in Amarillo tomorrow.

KPND PUBLICIZES ST. PATRICK'S DAY FETE

Shamrock's Irish Day celebration to be held here on St. Patrick's Day next week was publicized by a Shamrock Chamber of Commerce delegation in a radio broadcast over Station KPND, Pampa, yesterday afternoon.

Chief Announcer John Sullivan went into an Irish characterization for the occasion and introduced members of the delegation, donegal beards and all.

Bedford Harrison, manager of the Shamrock Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly in behalf of the celebration and invited everybody in the Panhandle to go to Shamrock for a good time on Thursday, March 17.

Irish music interspersed the talks on the broadcast. J. M. Collins, executive president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, and Garnet Reeves, manager of the BCD, arranged the broadcast with radio station officials, and the delegation members were guests of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce while in the city.

With Mr. Harrison in the party from Shamrock were Ralph Wood, Wallace Barrett, and A. C. Hallmark.

ONLY 423 GRAY AUTOS REGISTERED FOR 1938

Employees of the county tax assessor collector's office looked apprehensively at the calendar today with the realization that they have only 21 days in which to receive 1938 applications for the registration of Gray county's 10,000 motor vehicles.

In the period February 1 to date, only 423 registrations had been made. Census reports show that the total number of motor vehicles in Gray county as of August 31, 1935, was 9,763.

With the extra problem of the increase in the number of automobiles in the county since that time, indications were that the office of the tax-assessor collector was due for a last-minute rush, unless the number of registrations is greatly increased soon.

GRAY COTTON FARMERS WILL VOTE ON PLAN

Gray county cotton farmers will take part in a nation-wide referendum to decide whether or not they wish a marketing quota placed on 1938 cotton, when they vote Saturday in Pampa at the county court room and in McLean at the American National bank. Polls will open at 9 a. m., close at 7 p. m.

Eligible to vote will be all farmers who produced cotton in 1937. In Gray county, the number is estimated at 225, of which 210 live in the Southeastern part of the county.

There is to be no voting by proxy, only one vote per person, except in cases where cotton is produced jointly, under share crop agreement, in which event each one of the two would be entitled to vote.

In cases of groups who produced cotton in 1937, under lease, only the person who signed a lease would be entitled to vote.

The referendum is being taken pursuant to the AAA act of 1933 to determine whether there shall be a marketing quota on 1938 year, for the market year beginning August 1.

J. E. Yoder, chairman of the county agricultural committee, said he understood there would be a third polling place at Alamed for the referendum, but was not certain.

County Farm Agent Ralph R. Thomas was out of town today and could not be contacted concerning the Alamed polling place.

sixth--of the trial traced a fantastic story of murder in which some of Russia's most eminent physicians became the villains and science provided the instruments.

Dr. L. G. Levin, distinguished appearing, with white hair and goatee and nose glasses, who until a few months ago was head of the Kremlin hospital, led up to Yagoda's retraction. One of the 21, accused, Dr. Levin testified Yagoda bribed him by foreign wines and luxuries to kill Gorky.

He and his colleague, Dr. I. N. Kazakoff, head of a clinic, also a defendant, swore they helped kill Pechoff and Menzhinsky under Yagoda's threats against their own lives.

Joseph E. Davies, retiring United States ambassador to Russia, listened intently to the testimony of another physician defendant, Dr. D. D. Pietnyeff, eminent heart specialist, who once examined the ambassador.

Pietnyeff, confessed participant in the medical killing of Gorky, glumly confirmed he had drawn up harmful prescriptions for him.

In Moscow, Genrikh G. Yagoda, once the dreaded chief of the Soviet Secret Police, the OGPU, testified in Russia's greatest blood purge trial in the prisoner's box where he had put so many others.

Yagoda, one of 21 defendants, retracted part of his pre-trial confession of murder and treason. But he admitted, as leader of a Trotskyist-Rightist group, ordering the deaths of writer Maxim Gorky and Valerian V. Kulisheff, chief of the five year plan.

The crowds attending these revival services are the largest ever to attend services of this type at the church. Last evening the evangelist preached on "Blockades to the Road to Hell." In discussing the seven blockades, he said that he was responsible to proclaim the warning and that each individual should accept it.

At this service 10 additions and one rededication to the church were made. Three joined the church at the service this morning.
