

AGENTS KEEP SILENT ABOUT PETER ANDERS

ST. PAUL, Jan. 19 (AP)—Federal agents kept grim, close-mouthed watch today over Peter Anders, brought here after his arrest for the kidnaping and killing of Charles S. Ross, retired Chicago manufacturer.

Led by their chief, J. Edgar Hoover, the officers of the federal bureau of investigation swooped into St. Paul by airplane last night with their heavily manacled captive who was seized Friday at Santa Anita racetrack near Los Angeles. Anders was called by Hoover the self-confessed kidnaper, and slayer of Ross and the killer of his associate in the crime, J. Atwood Gray. Beyond a terse announcement that the prisoner, a curly-haired man about 30 years old, was being taken to Chicago, Hoover refused to explain the stop here.

The FBI chief heightened the mystery surrounding the flight when, replying to questions, he denied Anders was a suspect in the kidnap-slaying of 10-year-old Charles Mattson at Tacoma, Wash., but said the prisoner was being questioned "about some other kidnapings."

The FBI chief still refused to divulge the contents of the purported confession. He announced Monday, however, that Anders, a one-time logging camp worker in the Pacific Northwest, had shot Ross and Gray and had apparently hidden the bodies "somewhere over the Wisconsin line" from Rockford, Ill., where, he said, the killing took place.

It was reported at Chicago Anders may be taken to the vicinity of Rockford to point out where he disposed of the bodies. The slayings were believed to have been committed three or four days after payment of $55,000 ransom Oct. 8.

DIVORCES GRANTED IN WIFE SWAPPING CASE

SALEM, Mass., Jan. 19 (AP)—Essex county's "wife-swapping" case was only an entry in court records today—marked "divorces granted."

Asserting from the bench that he found "unbelievable" the testimony of a Salem chauffeur that he and a Topsfield tree surgeon "swapped wives," Judge Edward B. O'Brien yesterday ordered decrees nisi for the surgeon, Calvin M. Watson, 32, and the chauffeur's wife, Mrs. Raymond S. Lee, 28.

MANY CHINESE 'PLANES' BLOWN UP BY JAPANESE

NANCHANG, China, Jan. 19 (AP)—An American aviation mechanic who says his name is "just Alabam" because that's where he comes from, told today how Japanese bombers have been destroying so many "Chinese Planes" lately.

They're keeping a Chinese carpenter busy at the airbase making wooden dummy planes. Alabam said, "The Chinese go out at night and put them in fields that look like airfields, then the Japanese come along the next day and blow them up. The must have blown up an awful lot of them."

UNEMPLOYMENT FUNDS SOUGHT BY 1,162,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The labor department reported today that 1,162,000 persons filed claims for unemployment insurance benefits during the first week of January.

These were the first claims presented under new laws in 21 states and the District of Columbia. Social security officials estimated that about one-fourth of the claims were not valid.

There were 452,055 new applications for work received by the federal employment service in December—the largest number in any month since December, 1935.

Secretary Perkins attributed the increase chiefly to requirements that would-be recipients of unemployment benefits must first try to get work through the federal service.

The Senate unemployment committee sought information today from relief officials on the effect of unemployment benefit payments on the reduction of relief rolls.

The social security old-age division reported payment of $1,227,516 to 53,337 claimants during the first year's operation.

The payments, averaging $24, went to wage earners who had reached the age of 65 and to the estates or relatives of those who had died.

Old age pension payments by states included: Oklahoma, $7,571; New Mexico, $1,020; Texas, $28,925.

The lamprey is a most unusual fish. Its mouth is a tube-shaped suction cup, edged with horn-like teeth. The creature attaches itself to other fish, and rips away their flesh with the sharp teeth. After a hole is made, it enters the victim's body and continues to feed unmolesed.

Biggest Ditch in America—a Block From Bank to Bank

Only two miles of the 80-mile All-American Canal, largest irrigation ditch in the Americas, remains to be dug before the waters impounded by Boulder Dam will be sent through it to turn desert lands of the Imperial Valley of California into fertile, productive fields. Pictured above is a completed section through desert hills west of Yuma, Ariz., paralleling the Mexican border, which gives an idea of the immensity of this engineering undertaking. At this point the canal is 150 feet wide at the bottom, 110 feet deep, and more than a city block from bank to bank. Dwarfed by the gigantic size of the canal are the tiny figures of men, at right. Not half as long as the proposed, but now abandoned, Florida ship canal, the All American canal is almost four times as deep, and three times as wide. The new irrigation project eliminates the main canal of the Imperial Irrigation district which now passes through 50 miles of Mexican territory.

FORECASTS ON OIL OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Suggestions by some petroleum industry leaders that the Bureau of Mines undertake long-range oil consumption forecasts met with the disapproval today of interior department officials.

A. G. White, chief petroleum economist, said such a program would be "highly impractical" and would embody nothing more than "rough estimates—really guesses."

"Any forecast longer than our present month ahead predictions would be so uncertain they would cast more doubt on our present reliability," he added.

The proposal that the bureau make forecasts from three to four months ahead emanated originally from Texas. Leaders of the industry said they would like some stabilizing influence in the petroleum business.

White explained the oil industry did not present a "static picture" which would suggest a normal on which to base estimates.

"The history of the petroleum industry has been one of steady expansion," he explained. "Some day there will be a flattening off of demand. Until then there will be no long term normal conditions to deal with in oil."

Weather's effect on motoring and the demand for heating oils, and capricious business trends were listed by White as some of the problems his division had to take into consideration in making its present monthly forecast. He cited the sudden downward trend of business the past six months as showing what oil statisticians would have been up against had they been making long-range forecasts of petroleum consumption.

FRANCE SEEKS WAY TO BUILD NEW VESSELS

(By The Associated Press)

France, acknowledging her need for cannon as well as built, sought a way today to wipe out limitations on the size of her battleships.

A high French authority said there had been an exchange of views among the American, British and French governments concerning revision of the London naval treaty of 1936 so as to permit construction of battleships exceeding 35,000 tons.

France's new cabinet walked a political tight-rope while the governments of Rumania and Russia also battled internal strife and armies in Spain and China maneuvered for apparently decisive struggles.

The reorganized cabinet of Camille Chautemps strained to keep a delicate balance, distributed by new labor troubles.

Chautemps, whose coalition government fell because of the labor issue, formed a new government with 18 radical-socialist ministers out of 30. He had dismissed communist support from the coalition but still needed socialist support to retain his power.

The reorganized cabinet of Camille Chautemps strained to keep a delicate balance, distributed by new labor troubles. Chautemps, whose coalition government fell because of the labor issue, formed a new government with 18 radical-socialist ministers out of 30. He had dismissed communist support from the coalition but still needed socialist support to retain his power.

The soviet union considered its problem solved, Joseph Stalin, secretary general of the communist party, ordered an end to mass expulsions of party members. Some foreigners thought it might signalize the end of wholesale denunciations and arrests but the full effect remained to be seen.

A new council of commissars, or cabinet, was announced in Moscow. In Rumania, 16 political parties began campaigns for new elections after King Carol dissolved parliament, creating a test of strength for Premier Ostavian Gogo.

Whatever the outcome, a government spokesman declared Rumania is committed to an anti-semitic course. He suggested that an anti-Jewish coalition might gain a parliamentary majority should Gogo fall.

Thousands of Rumanian Jews looked for havens abroad. A strongly reinforced Japanese offensive was forecast against China's East-West trunk railroad, the Lung-hai, as new troops made Tsingtao, conquered Shantung province port, a base for a drive into the interior.

China was reported to have massed 400,000 men to hold the railroad and the vital region it traverses through her "bread basket."

The recall of Japan's and China's ambassadors to Nanking and Tokyo was not interpreted in Washington as severance of diplomatic relations. President Roosevelt indicated he had no present intention of invoking the American neutrality law.

Spanish insurgents followed up gains along the celadas range of mountains north of Teruel with heavy bombardment of government positions. Government lines were reported driven back north, south and east of the city.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19. (AP)—James W. Van Meter, 67, inventor and developer of mining and chemical processes used throughout the world, died of a heart attack here last night.

He took out his first commercial patent in 1887. His inventions ranged from a process for hard-molded phonograph records to an insulation material for a Russian submarine cable in the Baltic.

He developed gases used in citrus grove fumigation and in the battle with boll weevils in cotton fields. After installing an oil flotation plant for separation of ores in Bolivia in 1902, he founded chlorine works in Gernay and Argentina and aided in development of Mexican quick-silver mines.

In recent years he worked on a chlorocyanic gas process for gold recovery from low-grade ores. Educated at the University of Texas, Van Meter made his home here. Surviving are his widow and six children.

REBEL AIRPLANES KILL FIFTY IN BARCELONA

BARCELONA, Spain, Jan. 19. (AP)—Fifty mangled bodies were removed from wreckage in the southern part of Barcelona today after a heavy bombardment by insurgent airplanes.

Officials expressed fears as many as 100 had been killed in the raid, in which at least 40 powerful bombs plunged into crowded sections of the capital of government Spain. Ambulances took scores of wounded to hospitals. Two trucks were needed to carry the dead to the morgue.

An insurgent air squadron approached Barcelona at dawn, but was driven off. The bombers returned shortly after noon and managed to reach the southern and northern sections of the city.

Yesterday the insurgents carried out a punishing series of air raids on government cities along the eastern coast.

Looking Through Window Rock at Navajo Capital

There are only 200 persons living in the tiny city of Window Rock, which may be seen through this towering rock sentinel for which the town was named, but it is the capital of the vast 16,000,000-acre Navajo reservation in New Mexico and Arizona on which 50,000 Indians live. The reservation's administration buildings are in Window Rock, with Indians holding 93 per cent of the official jobs under which education, health, farming, relief, tribal affairs or jobs are administered. The scenically beautiful community is in New Mexico, but less than a stone's throw from the Arizona state line. Window Rock itself rises 400 feet off the plains and is of rare and changing color formations.

From This Wreckage May Come New Air Laws

While Congress started action on new aviation legislation and investigations of recent major air crashes—one in Montana and the other in the South Seas—rescuers brought the bodies of 10 victims from the charred, twisted wreckage of a Northwest Airlines plane, pictured above, which crashed into a mountainside near Bozeman, Mont. En route to this snowbound scene of northwest dogs, horses, wooded mountainside and rescuers, were members of a special investigating board, appointed by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper. The plane crashed in flames as the pilot sought to land in a small clearing during a snowstorm.

Swaggering Swastikas Fly in Italian Port

Portending possible new flare-ups of Mediterranean sea troubles and definitely strengthening the ties of friendship between Germany and Italy, three German warships are pictured above on a visit to Naples. Emblazoned with swastika flags the pocket-battleship Deutschland, right, and two destroyers, typify the growing power of the Reich's new navy. The warships have been patrolling Spanish waters, following "piratical" attacks on European ships.

GOOD CARE FOR BABIES AND MOTHERS URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—Medical and public health leaders attending a conference on better care for mothers and babies said today that thousands of infant and maternal deaths could be prevented annually if present-day knowledge were made available in every home.

The high death rate was charged by speakers to ignorance about what constitutes good care, failure of communities to provide such care for those who cannot afford it, and poor distribution of doctors and nurses.

Committees reported that community, state and federal resources should be combined to give all needy, expectant mothers medical and nursing service.

DIESEL ENGINES USED. DETROIT, Jan. 19. (AP)—General Motors Corporation announced today the inauguration of mass production of small, lightweight, two-cycle Diesel engines. The new motors will range from 22 horsepower upward.

DEATH SENTENCES OF 2 MEXICANS DISMISSED

AUSTIN, Jan. 19. (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals today reversed the death sentence and ordered dismissed the prosecution of Ascension Martinez and Placido Handy, given the extreme penalties for the slaying of an unknown man whose body was found floating in the Rio Grande near Donna, December 15, 1935.

The court said the time and manner of selecting the grand jury which indicted the men was irregular and although it regretted its action it had no alternative but to reverse the sentences.

Specifically it held the trial judge erred in summoning grand jurors through the sheriff instead of naming a commission for choosing them.

The defendants were charged with killing the man and dumping his body and that of his wife into the river. The man's body bore a heart and dagger figure tattooed on the right forearm below the elbow.

Oscar Redmon of Denton county faced life imprisonment as the tribunal affirmed a sentence given him on conviction of burglary, the third felony less than a capital one for which he had been convicted.

It also affirmed a 30-day jail sentence and $200 fine assessed Mervin Ash of Travis county for bookmaking. It rejected Ash's exception that he was charged with three separate offenses—bookmaking, pool selling and taking a bet on a horse—in one count. The opinion said each embraced the "essential elements of a game of chance and under statutes are but different ways and means by which the offense of gaming is committed."

ALLRED HITS FOES OF SLUM CLEARANCE PLAN

AUSTIN, Jan. 19. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred sharply criticized today persons opposing the slum clearance program of the federal government.

Referring to opposition throughout the state and especially in the capital, the governor asserted "they are just fighting progress and, whether they know it or not, are fighting common decency."

He said he looked to him as if opposition was emanating from elements having an interest in renting types of property which the government was seeking to improve or eliminate.

NEWSPRINT INDUSTRY PROBE TRANSFERRED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—Attorney General Cummings has ordered the government's investigation of the newsprint industry transferred from the justice department to the federal trade commission.

The change will be made as soon as anti-trust division attorneys can assemble data on recent price increases by Canadian and domestic newsprint mills, officials said.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

The more gasoline in your tank, the less space for air—and moisture. Moist air in your cold tank tries to form water. This can keep your engine from starting, even before freezing weather.

Better have the gasoline line and screens cleaned today—a short, inexpensive job wherever you get your car serviced. Then stick to Special Winter Blend Conoco Bronze. Keep your tank full, especially overnight.

That becomes all the easier with Conoco Bronze because it doesn't use up in a hurry...but gee, how it hustles to start your car! Not an extra stroke of the choke, or twirl of the starter. PRODUCTION OF OIL TOO HIGH LEADERS SAY

By ALFRED WALL. TULSA, Okla., Jan. 19 (AP)—From facts, figures and discussion voiced at the meeting of the oil industry leaders today to chart a course to sound business for the rest of the year. As for the figures they seemed agreed production of crude, up 39,300 barrels daily to an average of 3,476,000 as reported by the American Petroleum Institute for the week, was too high.

Richest Girl in the World

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

Yesterday, Bret accepts Connie's explanation about the jewels—that they were her mother's. And that night Connie had her precious hours before she is to tell Bret really who she is.

CHAPTER XII
CONNIE had "her hour" for a little while. Her lovely, secret romance. Each day she told herself that the time must come when she would tell Bret the truth about herself. But each day wore on into the next, with her courage somehow failing her, her decision wavering.

Bret's bridge rose and expanded and spread; so that soon it would be a creation created in steel and stone, as well as in a man's mind. So different was this life to Connie, so complete in her happiness and contentment, that afterwards she was to wonder if really it had been, if perhaps, she had not really been someone else, during those fleeting months, that were over and done, all too soon.

The first faint breath of spring descended into the low valley, warming the little sleepy village into new activity, awakening the somber dark hills, brushing the tips of the gray trees. Wild things ventured out to sun themselves, to water at the springs, birds twittered and trilled and began to look for a place for their home-making. And Bret insisted Connie wear high topped boots for fear she might come across a rattler or a copperhead during her walks.

"I'll make a hill-billy of you, yet," he told her jokingly. He was very gay these days, was Bret. Gay and masterful and tender.

"When are you going to make up your mind to marry me, like a sensible girl?" This was another thing that Bret said, more than once. "I can't see why we shouldn't get married right away. Except perhaps, that it might be better for me—to wait until the bridge is done. 'You see,' he adopted his bawling tone, 'I don't want to let you take my mind completely off my work.'"

Connie said she wished she could. But she did not mean it. His bridge had become as important to her as to him. According to the contract it must be finished within another month. With luck, it would be. Just as with luck again—she might have that much longer as Katie Blyn.

She told him, laughingly, that she wouldn't give him his answer until that time. "When your bridge is finished," she said, "then I'll be sensible and make up my mind. We'll decide about getting married."

That made postponement easier, more acceptable. When Bret's bridge was done Connie must tell him who she was, as well as when she would marry him.

SHE was not to be allowed that postponement, however. Perhaps Fate, if there is such a lady, had decided that she had been kind long enough.

That following Saturday Eloise and Connie, in Bret's car, went shopping together. They had driven over to a nearby town, a larger one where the stores could more satisfactorily meet their demands. Their purchases had been completed, they had even indulged in a fancy Sundae at the elegant marble soda fountain, when Eloise stopped suddenly in the street.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "I forgot—I'll have to go back. I promised I'd bring home a Charleston paper. Bret will be disappointed, and Mother will never forgive me, unless I do. You go on to the car, Katie, and I'll be with you in a minute."

"Take your time," Connie laughed. Eloise had appeared as distressed as though she had committed a sizeable crime. Connie and Eloise were close friends now. They had had many happy hours together, chatting as only two young girls can of anything under the sun and above it; they had indeed, become like "sisters."

They chatted, now, driving home again, of the latest fashions as predicted in the store windows, how ridiculous the spring millinery was going to be with its tower-like crowns, profusion and feminine flowers and feathers and bows—yet how altogether delightful—as to whether Mrs. Parsons could be pleased with the luncheon set Connie had bought as a special surprise, whether or not Eloise should ever decide the momentous question as to bobbing her hair. Not until they had started to unload the car before the bridge, Connie noticed the headlines and the picture on the page one of the Charleston paper that Eloise had bought.

Two pictures to be exact. A portrait study of herself that she had had made for Rodney just before the announcement of their engagement, and another, looking somehow like the same girl, yet somehow different—the girl in Connie's polo coat, the girl who was the real Katie Blyn.

"ARE THESE TWO GIRLS THE SAME?" the headline queried. "It is rumored that Constance Corby, richest girl in the world, may be in hiding. 'Is it possible,' the story continued, 'that some other girl has been taking her place on board her million dollar yacht? Rodney

EXOTIC BIRD CAUSES YOUTH TO KILL MAN

HENDERSON, N. C., Jan. 19 (AP)—A 20-year-old youth was held tonight after Police Chief John Langston said, he confessed hacking an itinerant showman to death and bludgeoning his wife in an argument over an exotic bird.

Chief Langston said the prisoner, who he booked as Clarence Fairbanks, of Baltimore, Md., reported to police yesterday morning that he had found the man, Steve Good, of Austin, Texas, dead in his truck-trailer home, and Mrs. Good lying wounded nearby.

Police detained the youth, who was employed to drive the truck-trailer in which the couple lived while presenting a miniature circus, on a technical charge of investigation. A few hours later Langston announced he had confessed. Mrs. Good, in a semi-conscious state at a hospital, was unable to talk.

Langston said Fairbanks gave his version of the argument as follows: "Mr. Good came in the back of the trailer and took out one of the birds and started working with it. 'He worked and the bird refused to do what he wanted and he got mad and started to beat the bird across the wing with his hand. 'I asked him to stop and he gave me a dirty look and told me to shut up. I asked him again as he started to hit the bird and he got madder and we quarreled and he hit me. 'After that, the youth was quoted as saying, he 'went crazy' and seized the axe with which he asserted, the showman had struck him.

Police held a white crested bird, about the size of a hen, at the city jail pending developments. They said it was the one the accused youth designated as the cause of the argument.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WILL ATTEND AMARILLO FETE

AMARILLO, Jan. 19 (AP)—The nation's "first mother-in-law" will receive a one-tone bouquet of "yellow" roses at the mother-in-law day festival in Amarillo March 9.

Gene Howe, Amarillo newspaper publisher and columnist who originated the idea of mother-in-law day several years ago, announced today that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had accepted an invitation to attend.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be the honor guest and will be joined by thousands of mothers-in-law at the celebration which will be featured by a parade designed to be the most colorful ever staged. More than 20,000 roses are expected.

The bouquet of roses, say veteran florists, will be the largest ever constructed. All the 2,400 individual roses in the bouquet will be red and one of variety.

The bouquet will be so large, mechanical equipment, perhaps a large crane, will be used in presenting it to the President's wife. Actual weight of the roses will be about 850 pounds. Wire used in tying the stems together will weigh 150 pounds. Ferns and other material used in making the bouquet, including a large "irrigation system," will bring the total weight to at least one ton.

Sloths are the only mammals that depart from the rigid standard of seven neck vertebrae. One species of sloth has nine neck vertebrae, one has seven, and one has only six.
