Second phase starts for mosquito fogging

The second phase of fogging residential areas for mosquitoes has begun. Citizens who do not want their property sprayed need to call 669-5760, ext. 3, said Kimberly Lincycumb, city public service superintendent.

Lincycumb said the chemical Fyfanon is dispersed through an ultra low volume sprayer and a larvicide, bacillus thuringiensis, Serotype H-14, has been applied to Red Deer Creek. A herbicide, Promoton, is being applied to grass on the streets, she said.

Citizens can also help control mosquitoes by keeping grass cut and emptying any containers of water on their property, she said.

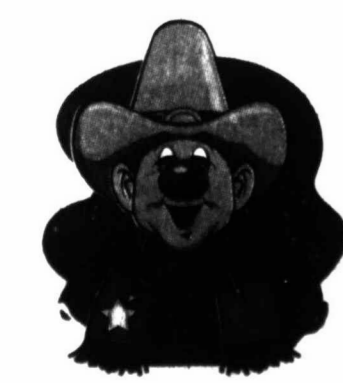

DEATHS

Grand jurors indict twelve

Most charges related to illegal drugs

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
 EDITOR

Gray County grand jurors handed up a dozen indictments, most on drug-related charges, in 31st District Court here Friday.

Grand jurors named Natasha Nicole McGill in an indictment alleging aggravated robbery, a first degree felony. McGill is alleged to have struck Harold Gene Watson, 65, on the head while in the course of committing theft of property on Nov. 7, 2002. Bond has been set at $15,000.

Jennifer Dawn Gaines was indicted on a charge of possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver in connection with an incident on March 16 in which she is alleged to have possessed a felony amount of methamphetamine with the intent to deliver. Her bond has been set at $15,000.

On the same date, March 16, Kenneth Patrick Harrison allegedly possessed a felony amount of methamphetamine. He has been indicted on an enhanced charge of possession of controlled substance with intent to deliver. According to the indictment, the charge, a first degree felony, was enhanced because Harrison had been previously convicted of felony possession of a controlled substance on Jan. 21, 1999, in a Potter County district court. His bond had been

Tulia defendant remains in county jail

By DAVID BOWSER

A man recently released from prison in a controversial Tulia drug case, was in Gray County jail today in lieu of bonds totaling $9,000 on charges of public intoxication, assaulting a peace officer and evading arrest.

Christopher Eugene Jackson, 31, 512 Harlem, was arrested Friday morning after motorists complained of a man standing along side U.S. Highway 60 in Pampa, yelling at cars about 11 a.m. "When officers approached," Pampa Police Chief Trevlyn Pitner said, "he ran, and it went from there."

Officer Jarrett Parsons was struck in the face and head as he tried to make an arrest, authorities said. Parsons was treated and released from Pampa Regional Medical Center emergency room Friday for minor injuries.

Gray County Justice of the Peace Joe Martinez set bond at $5,000 on charges of assaulting a peace officer, $3,000 on charges of evading arrest and $1,000 on charges of public intoxication.

Jackson was one of 12 people released from prison on bond, pending new trials, last Monday in connection with a controversial 1999 drug sting in Tulia.

Jackson and 45 others, most of them black, were arrested in July, 1999, following an 18-month undercover operation.

Many of the 45 were either convicted or pleaded guilty to drug charges based on the word of undercover agent

Tom Coleman.

Following an evidentiary hearing in March in Tulia, Judge Ron Chapman, recommended to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals that the 12 remaining defendants that had been convicted in connection with the drug sting and still remained in prison be released on bond until new trials could be scheduled.

Coleman has since been indicted in Tulia for perjury.

When Judge Chapman released the 12 in Tulia last Monday, he cautioned them to avoid run-ins with the law.

Child hit by van; 1 arrested

A seven-year-old Pampa boy suffered minor injuries Saturday evening when he was in collision with a minivan while he was riding his bicycle.

Pampa police said Marcus Deshawn Jernigan, 7, 1232 N. Duncan, was in collision with a 1995 Plymouth Caravan, driven by Rosa Maria Murgado, 42, 1165 Huff Rd.

Officers said Murgado fled the scene but was later arrested and cited for failure to stop and render aid.

Authorities said the van was westbound in the 700 block of West Crawford about 8:30 p.m. Saturday when Jernigan apparently failed to yield right of way at the intersection of Crawford and Prairie.

The right front quarter of the van struck the boy on his bicycle, officers said.

Indians for breakfast

CANADIAN - Jim Cloyd's grandmother was three years old when she walked out the door of the dugout and saw a war party of Indians camped on the other side of the creek.

Her mother was taking care of the youngest daughter inside the dugout that had been built by the Army a half dozen years before.

Cloyd's great grandfather, E.E. Polly, had brought his family to the Texas Panhandle from Fort Hayes, Kan., in the spring of 1874, but that June morning, Polly had gone the 60 miles to Fort Supply.

Cloyd thinks his grandparents either joined or followed Charlie Rath and a bunch of hide hunters from Dodge City to the Texas Panhandle. Rath, a merchant, had a wagon train of some 300 wagons in the spring of 1874 that came down to the Canadian River

Officers checking break-ins

Pampa police were investigating a series of motor vehicle break-ins today.

Officers said today that there were a rash of thefts from vehicles over the weekend. Most of the vehicles, authorities said, had been left unlocked.

On Friday, a CD player valued at $450 was reported stolen from a vehicle at 521 E. 18th, a CD player valued at $300 was reported stolen from a vehicle at 1311 N. Russell and a radar detector valued at $100 was reported stolen from a vehicle in the 1400 block of North Hobart.

On Saturday, a vehicle at 1712 N. Chestnut and a vehicle at 1711 N. Chestnut were broken into. Nothing was taken.

About $3 in cash was reported taken Saturday from a vehicle at 1819 Evergreen.

Safety glasses, reading glasses, a wallet with $200 in it, credit cards, drivers license, insurance card and a concealed gun permit were reported taken from a vehicle at 1230 N. Hamilton.

City Commission to meet Tuesday

The Pampa City Commission will discuss a temporary water rate increase for the summer at their Tuesday afternoon meeting this week.

Commissioners will hear the first reading of an ordinance setting a temporary water rate for the summer. A special meeting is expected to be called for a second and final reading.

The commission will also hear the first reading on an ordinance amending the 2002-2003 city budget and consider a bid to purchase recycling trailers with detachable bins.

Bids for delinquent tax property at 420 Lowry and in the 300 block of South Ballard will also be considered.

he followed them."

Cloyd's great-grandfather had been a hospital steward at Fort Hays, Kan. In addition to the soldiers, Polly also took care of the Indians at the post.

"The Indians thought he was a medicine man," Cloyd said.

Because there were no settlements in the area at the time, Cloyd, a former Hemphill County sheriff and retired field inspector for the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Association, thinks his great-grand parents may have been the first white family to settle in the panhandle.

Born in 1842 in Ohio, Polly went to Colorado in 1860, when he was 18 years old. He joined the Union Army in Central City, Colo., and fought in their Civil War campaigns in New Mexico. He was stationed at Fort Hayes after the war and served there until his enlistment was up. That's when he gathered his family and headed south into the Texas Panhandle.

In 1868, Major A.W. Evans led troops the 185 miles from Fort Bascom on the New Mexico-Texas line down the Canadian River to what they named Monument Creek, a tributary flowing into the Canadian.

Cloyd thinks the creek was named for a rock formation above the creek to the east that looks similar to a monument found in a cemetery.

"It's crumbled now," Cloyd said, "but it looks like an old cemetery plot monument."

The creek was later renamed Morgan Creek after an early settler, Joe Morgan, died of smallpox in 1883 at a nearby ranch house.

Although it's nearly hidden by hackberry trees today, 129 years ago it had a commanding view of a broad flat area to the west.

Originally, the dugout had been built in 1868 by soldiers under Major Evans and was used as a base camp. It was to this dugout that Polly brought his family in the spring of 1874.

All that is left of the dugout are parts of the rock wall set into the side of a bluff above the creek.

"That thing used to flow year around until they started irrigating up on top," Cloyd said.

That June morning on Monument Creek was a story that Cloyd near tired of hearing from his grandmother.

"Grandma said that she and her baby sister were here by themselves with her mother," Cloyd said. "They woke up one morning and this whole flat was covered up with Indians. It was a war party. There weren't any women or children with them."

Because of the timing, proximity and the descriptions his grandmother gave, Cloyd thinks it was the war party of Comanche, Cheyenne and Kiowa that attacked Adobe Walls in June 1874.

Cloyd, who has ridden this area for most of his life, said that a mounted party turned south at Blodgett Corner (where the Equity elevators now stand on Texas Highway 70 south of Perryton) and went down into the Canadian River breaks and come up on Adobe Walls.

"They wanted something to eat," Cloyd said of the Indians camped across the creek on the flat, now made green from recent rains. "My great-grandmother took a barrel of flour and made pancakes to feed them."

There's 196 pounds of flour in a barrel, Cloyd said, and she used it all.

"When she was cooking, if she'd run out of batter, they'd pinch her and pull her hair, but they didn't mistreat her otherwise," Cloyd said.

After she ran out of flour, Cloyd's great-grandmother took her youngest daughter, who hadn't been fed yet that morning, and began to nurse her.

"She sat down on a log and started nursing that baby and the Indians went to pulling her hair and pinching her, wanting more pancakes," Cloyd said.

When she convinced them she didn't have any more flour, they left, taking the Polly's two milk cows with them.

"Grandma figured they were going to kill those cows, but in a couple of days they showed back up," Cloyd said.

The woman and her two daughters weren't harmed.

"The Indians didn't want to ruin their medicine by killing a medicine man's wife," Cloyd speculates.

But that wasn't the last incident involving the Pollys during what has become known of the Red River Indian War of 1874.

That summer was when a Cheyenne raiding party caught and killed most of the German family near the Colorado and Kansas state line, taking the four girls in the family, two small girls and two teenagers, prisoner.

The Cheyenne later turned loose the two smaller girls on the prairie south of present day Pampa. When the cavalry found them, they took the girls to the Polly's dugout and left them there until they could return with more supplies.

"They left them with my great-grandmother up here," Cloyd said. "They left them over here with my great-grandmother for three or four days while they went back and got supplies to go to Dodge."

Cloyd said his grandmother, who was about the same age as the German girls, told him they never did talk much. The were still in shock.

After a year or so in the dugout at Monument Creek, Polly moved his family to Commission Creek south of present day Higgins where they opened a hotel and ran a stage coach stop.

Polly went on to raise cattle on the prairie around the stage station until he sold out to Dominion Cattle Company, which branded the Box T, in 1882.

When Hemphill County was formed in 1887, Polly was elected the first county judge.

Information meeting set June 26 for prospective CASA volunteers

In the next five minutes, five children will be reported abused or neglected in America. In the next 24 hours, three children will die.

Pampa is not immune from this epidemic, says Janet Watts, executive director of CASA of the High Plains. In 2002, there were 100 confirmed victims of child abuse and 71 children in the care of Child Protective Services in Gray County, she said.

"These children live in your community, go to school with your children or grandchildren, maybe even live next door," Watts said. "You can make a difference in the lives of these children."

Victimized children are drawn into an overburdened child welfare system that is hard pressed to address their individual concerns, she said, and eventually, they end up in court.

CASA is a nonprofit agency that trains and supports volunteers to work with these children as they journey toward safe, loving, permanent homes, Watts explained. The CASA volunteer is frequently the most consistent person in the child's life during their involvement with the court. CASA volunteers make a difference in the lives and futures of the children they serve, she said.

"CASA of the High Plains needs people in the Pampa area who care about the lives of these children," Watts said.

An informational meeting will be held on Thursday, June 26, at 7 p.m. in the fellowship hall of Highland Baptist Church, 1301 N. Banks. The public is invited to attend.

"Come and find out how you can become a Court Appointed Special Advocate to speak for these kids," Watts said.

INDICTMENTS

set at $15,000.

Christopher John Bybee and Max Beatty Floyd Jr., were each indicted on first degree felony charges of possession of controlled substance with intent to deliver stemming from an alleged incident on Dec. 13, 2001 involving a felony amount of methamphetamine. Bond was set at $15,000 for each man.

The grand jury also issued indictment naming Mandy Renee Johnson on second degree felony charges of possession of methamphetamine with intent to deliver. Her bond was set at $10,000.

Darrell Edward Duffield was indicted for possession or transport of certain chemicals with intent to manufacture a controlled substance, a second degree felony. According to the indictment, Duffield is alleged to have had anhydrous ammonia in an unapproved container on Dec. 28, 2002 with the intent to manufacture methamphetamine. His bond is $15,000.

William Bradford Houck was indicted for aggravated assault in connection with an alleged incident on Sept. 26, 2000. Houck allegedly threatened Kevin Ridenour with bodily injury and brandished a rifle, according to the indictment. Bond was set at $7,500 on the second degree felony charge.

Gwendolyn Elaine Welsh was indicted for attempted burglary of a habitation, a third degree felony. Welsh is alleged in the indictment to have tried to open the rear storm door of a residence of Carl Everson. Bond was set at $5,000.

Randall Leighton Williams was indicted for allegedly possessing less than one gram of cocaine on Sept. 5, 2001, a state jail charge. Williams' bond is set at $5,000.

The grand jury also indicted Anthony Paul Gamble for possession of less than one gram of cocaine on Nov. 10, 2002. His bond was set at $7,500.

Grand jurors named Ryan Randal Hill in an indictment charging him with forgery by passing.

According to the indictment, Hill allegedly tried to pass a forged check to Rhonda Cook on Dec. 19, 2000. Bond was set at $5,000.

DEAR ABBY

written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips

Teen Still Misses Mom In Spite Of Her Abuse

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 and couldn't be more mixed up. Mom abused us our entire lives. She lost custody of me and my four younger brothers and sisters last summer. I always thought I hated her for the beatings she gave us.

The truth is, I don't hate her. I miss her so much I don't know what to do. I can't tell my dad or stepmom because I don't think they would understand. Every night I cry myself to sleep because I miss Mom. I'm scared that something bad has happened to her because she hasn't tried to call or see us even once. What should I do? Please help.

SCARED AND SAD
IN THE APPALACHIANS

DEAR SCARED AND SAD: You're no longer a little girl. It's important that you express your concerns to your father. You need to talk about your mother, how she treated you, and why, and find out where she is. There is a reason why your father was given full custody of you and your siblings. When you're older you will have a better understanding of what happened.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I have a dilemma. Our beloved mother passed away three months ago, and both our brothers want Dad to erase her voice from the greeting on his answering machine. The message says, "We can't come to the phone right now, so please leave a message and we'll call you back."

Abby, we love hearing our mother's sweet voice when we call. However, our brothers feel it's "time for a change." Dad seems fine with leaving it as is. Please help settle this dispute.

TWO DAUGHTERS
MISSING MOM IN ILLINOIS

DEAR TWO DAUGHTERS: Please accept my sympathy for your loss. Grief counseling could be helpful for all of you. Your brothers are probably not the only people who find such a greeting to be off-putting. I'm sure family friends are also disconcerted by it. Since it bothers your brothers, perhaps it's time to transfer the message in your mother's voice to tape — so you, your sister and your father can listen to it when you wish.

DEAR ABBY: I'm enclosing a wedding announcement my family and I received yesterday. My family and I are shocked and appalled. It reads:

"Dear Family: I am asking for your cooperation and understanding. My wedding will be very costly, and this has caused me to make some unpleasant decisions.

"I hope you will see this as a request for a donation and not a charge for you to attend my wedding. I cannot figure out any way other than to ask each guest to contribute to the cost. If anyone is insulted by my request, I am sincerely sorry.

"Your $330 contribution must be received on or before June 30. Only postal money orders will be accepted. Please purchase it only from a U.S. post office. Thank you for your contribution."

My question is, how should this "invitation" be handled? We don't have this kind of money. Should we tell the bride-to-be what bad manners this is?

APPALLED IN OHIO

DEAR APPALLED: No. Please allow me to do it for you. What you received is not an invitation. It is a solicitation. Not only is it tacky; it is unbelievably insulting. When a couple marries, all monetary contributions should be voluntary. To specify that the "gift" be paid via money order implies that there might be insufficient funds to cash the check.

If I received such an "invitation," I would not send a money order. I would send my regrets. I recommend that you do the same. Readers, I challenge you to top this!

Stanford forces Game 3 with win over Rice

Cardinals will be going for third national title tonight

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Freshman Mark Romanczuk went to Stanford for the opportunity to win a baseball national championship.

The left-hander will play a major role in determining whether the Cardinal (51-17) win their first title since 1988. He'll start Monday night's deciding game against Rice (57-12) in the College World Series championship series.

"This is why we get up at 7 o'clock in the morning to run every day," Romanczuk said. "This is why we play all year. This is why I've played baseball all my life."

Romanczuk (12-1) will go against Rice sophomore Philip Humber (10-3) in the final game of the best-of-three series.

The Cardinal kept alive its hopes for its third national title with an 8-3 victory on Sunday.

Rice won 4-3 in 10 innings Saturday.

Stanford will become the first team in CWS history to play eight games, but center fielder Sam Fuld said fatigue is not a factor.

"It shouldn't be hard to get up for national championship games," Fuld said. "The coaches keep telling us we have all summer to rest."

Maybe no one in the CWS deserves rest more than Stanford's John Hudgins, who earned his third win in Omaha on Sunday — something no other Cardinal pitcher has done.

"We've had some great pitchers at Stanford, but I don't think any of the pitchers from any of the teams I've brought here has accomplished what John has accomplished during these 10 days," Stanford coach Mark Marquess said. "I don't know whether it can be matched. Pressure games. Short rest. Just a phenomenal job."

Hudgins (14-3) became the eighth pitcher to win three games in the tournament, and first since Wichita State's Greg Brummett in 1989. He also became one of 10 pitchers to win four CWS games in their careers.

Hudgins, who beat South Carolina in Stanford's CWS opener and Cal State Fullerton on Wednesday, held Rice to three runs on 10 hits in seven-plus innings. He walked three and struck out five.

In 24 CWS innings, the junior right-hander has allowed five earned runs, walked six and struck out 15.

"For me, not being a real power pitcher, even if I don't have my best stuff, I'm still going to be able to spot, and that's how I win anyway," Hudgins said. "I focused on location. I wasn't going to blow anyone away anyway."

Fuld homered leading off the bottom of the first inning to tie Texas' Keith Moreland for most career CWS hits, with 23.

Fuld, playing in his third CWS, said the record isn't important now.

"I'm sure later I'll appreciate it," he said. "All it means is I'm hitting and I'm helping the team win, and that's all that matters right now."

The Cardinal added two more runs in the third against starter Wade Townsend (11-2) when Brian Hall scored from third on Townsend's wild pitch, and Tobin Swope scored on Carlos Quentin's RBI single.

Rice got within 3-1 in the fourth when Quentin lost track of Matt Ueckert's fly ball in right field. The ball dropped between Quentin and center fielder Fuld, allowing Craig Stansberry to score from second.

Stanford, helped by Rice first baseman Vincent Sinisi's two rare errors, built its lead to 8-1 in the seventh.

Townsend allowed eight runs — five earned — and eight hits in six innings.

Hudgins left in the eighth after throwing 370 pitches in 10 days.

"He obviously didn't have much left," Marquess said. "The main thing was his health, and he was fine in that regard. He didn't have much on his pitches, but he was still throwing it over."

Asked how his right arm was feeling after the game, Hudgins said, "I can't go tomorrow. But I'm doing OK."

Plate umpire Tony Maners ejected Rice coach Wayne Graham after the coach disputed a called third strike against Paul Janish at the end of the Owls' fifth.

"I didn't think we suffered mentally," Rice second baseman Enrique Cruz said, "but the wheels did fall off and nothing really went right for us after that."

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Reserve quarterback Pat O'Hara threw for two touchdowns and ran for a third as the Tampa Bay Storm won its record fifth Arena Football League title with a 43-29 victory Sunday over the Arizona Rattlers in the ArenaBowl.

Tampa became the first city to have the Super Bowl and AFL champions in the same year. The Buccaneers beat Oakland in January to capture the NFL title.

AUTO RACING

SONOMA, Calif. (AP) — This time Robby Gordon finished what he started, outracing Jeff Gordon on Sunday to win the Dodge/Save Mart 350.

Jeff Gordon, a three-time Infineon winner and no relation, looked for a while as if he might win. But Robby Gordon held off the four-time Winston Cup champion by 0.553-seconds — about four car lengths — in the battle of Chevrolets.

Two years ago on this same road course, Robby Gordon dominated only to see Tony Stewart slip past. Later that year at Watkins Glen — the only other road course on the 36-race schedule — Gordon was again the best car but lost an almost certain victory when the in-car camera battery exploded and started a fire.

TENNIS

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Lleyton Hewitt became the first defending men's champion at Wimbledon since 1967 to lose in the opening round, beaten by the tallest player in tournament history — 6-foot-10 qualifier Ivo Karlovic.

Karlovic, a 24-year-old Croat playing his first Grand Slam match, won 1-6, 7-6 (5), 6-3, 6-4 on Monday.

Since the first Wimbledon in 1877, the only other defending men's champion to lose in the opening round was Manuel Santana, who fell to Charlie Pasarell 36 years ago. That was one year before the Open era began.

Karlovic, playing just his seventh tour-level match, achieved the upset on the sport's grandest stage. In keeping with tradition, the defending champion played the first match of the tournament on Centre Court, so that's where Karlovic made his Wimbledon debut.

The Croat looked nervous at the start but poised at the finish. He served out the final game at love, hitting a 119 mph second serve for a winner on match point. He raised his long arms and threw a fist, and that was the extent of his celebration.

No. 5-seeded Andy Roddick had a less eventful day as Wimbledon began its two-week run in sunny, mild weather. He hit 14 aces and 21 service winners to beat Davide Sanguinetti 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Summer & Soccer

PAMPA — This summer is so chock full of soccer events that if you don't keep your eyes open, you might trip over a soccer ball. Local, regional, national and international, take your pick, says Kim Peterson, publicist-record keeper for the Pampa Soccer Association.

"First, we've got the week-long British Soccer Camp program in Pampa sponsored by the Pampa Soccer Association, July 28 through Aug. 1," he said. "Be sure not to miss out on this one."

Regionally, Peterson said there are a multitude of Major Soccer League's professional games in Dallas (Burn), Denver (Colorado Rapids) and Kansas City (Wizards) all summer long.

"And finally, nationally, there's the upcoming 32-match, 23-day 2003 Women's World Cup to be held in the United States, beginning in late summer," Peterson said.

Peterson said the 2003 women's World Cup is particularly important because several games will at the newly constructed soccer-specific stadium: Crew Stadium

SOUTHLAKE, Texas (AP) — Jason Kreis' goal in the second minute of first-half stoppage time helped the Dallas Burn to a 3-1 win Saturday night over the Colorado Rapids.

Dallas (2-5-3) came into the game with an MLS-low six points, but climbed out of the cellar and dropped the Rapids (2-7-2) into last place in the Western Conference.

Oscar Pareja assisted Kreis by crossing him a pass into the right flank, which Kreis tapped into the net with his right foot for his sixth goal of the season from about 18 yards away for a 2-1 Dallas lead. Joselito Vaca added an unassisted goal in the 90th minute for the Burn's third goal.

Colorado scored first in the 25th minute when John Spencer got his third goal of the season on a penalty kick.

Oklahoma claims Oil Bowl

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Luke Roberts of Deer Creek kicked a 47-yard field goal with 3:43 to play, giving Oklahoma a 24-21 victory Saturday night over Texas in the 66th Oil Bowl between high school all-stars from the two states.

Texas rebounded from a 21-13 fourth-quarter deficit to tie the game with 7:15 remaining on a 1-yard run by Taurance Rawls. A missed point-after try by Lee Price preventing Texas from taking the lead.

Quarterback Chase Wasson capped an 11-play, 80-yard drive with a 4-yard touchdown pass to his Southlake Carroll teammate Scott Chandler that gave Texas a 7-0 lead in the game. Two of Texas' first downs came on Oklahoma penalties.

Oklahoma tied the game with 21 seconds left in the first quarter. Oklahoma quarterback Paul Smith fumbled the snap before hitting Mick Majors for a 2-yard touchdown.

Smith finished the first half with 75 yards on 8-of-13 attempts, while Texas' Wasson completed 8-of-18 for 87 yards in the first half.

Texas took a 13-7 lead on field goals of 25 and 38 yards in the third quarter by Price. Texas' Johnny White intercepted Smith's pass and returned it 29 yards to set up Price's second field goal.

But on the ensuing possession, Spencer McIlwain ran off-tackle and rambled 80 yards to give Oklahoma a 14-13 lead with 3:23 to play in the third quarter, and the lead grew to 21-13 when Royce Street picked off Wasson's option pitch to Rawls and ran 80 yards for a

Dillas down Colts, 11-6

AMARILLO — Rolando Valles hurled the Amarillo Dillas to an 11-6 victory over the San Angelo Colts on Sunday at the Amarillo National Dilla Villa.

Valles started and went six innings to boost his record to 6-1 for the season. He held the Colts scoreless while giving up five hits, striking out five and walking one.

David Nixon's sack in the end zone for a safety cut Oklahoma's lead to 21-15, setting up Rawls' score that tied the game.

Wasson was Texas' leading rusher, gaining 32 yards on seven carries. James Battle passed for 27 yards for Texas in the first half and ran for 16.

The first half was marred by penalties. Between the two teams, they received 142 yards in penalties. Both benches cleared with 4:36 left in the first quarter, triggered by a scuffle between Texas' Bruce Davis and Oklahoma's Kody Impson.

Dillas' shortstop Josh Brack had three hits and knocked in a pair of runs to lead a 10-hit attack.

The win put Amarillo in second place in the West Division at the end of the first half of the Central Baseball League season.

Amarillo is 23-20 for the season and San Angelo is 22-21. The teams play again tonight at 7:45.

Astros complete three-game sweep of Texas with 3-1 win

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — When Houston starter Jeriome Robertson got himself in a bases-loaded jam, Kirk Saarloos ended the threat with two strikeouts.

An inning later, Saarloos needed a helping hand from Octavio Dotel. Then hard-throwing closer Billy Wagner finished off the Astros' 3-1 win Sunday night at Texas that completed a three-game sweep.

"They all picked each other up," Astros manager Jimmy Williams said. "It was a team effort, a lot of people contributing."
Lance Berkman hit his 13th home run and later got a more painful RBI when he was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded.

The Rangers lost their seventh straight, the longest current streak in the majors, and have lost 19 of 21, their worst stretch since also going 2-19 in September 1972. Texas trails AL West leader Seattle by 21 1/2 games.
"When you are in a funk like we are, everyone's pressing a bit. You can't will it to happen," Texas shortstop Alex Rodriguez said.

the game. Richard Hidalgo then doubled before Vizcaino's triple chased Benoit.

"I came in just trying to get a double-play ball," Saarloos said. "I got two strikes on the first guy and was able to expand the strike zone."

After two singles, Dotel came on and got two popouts to end the seventh. Wagner, hitting 100-101 mph on several pitches, got the last four outs for his 21st save in 23 chances.

"That's why we are where we are. I don't think we've been outstanding in any phase of the game except our bullpen, and those guys did it again."
Houston relievers have a 2.73 ERA through the first 75 games. Wagner has allowed just four earned runs (1.35 ERA) and gotten 17 saves in 25 appearances since May 2.

coming April 25. Benoit was activated from the disabled list (right elbow inflammation) to make the start.

"It think it was one of the best nights I've had," Benoit said. "I left a couple of pitches up, the wrong pitch at the wrong time."

Berkman hit a changeup left up in the zone for the homer. Texas got its only run on Mark Teixeira's homer in the first. His 10th homer matched Detroit's Eric Munson for the most by a rookie.

Notes: The third Lone Star Series wraps up with three games next weekend in Houston. The Rangers have to sweep and outscore the Astros by 16 runs to claim the Silver Boot, a crystal and silver trophy that goes to the series winner: Houston won four of six last year. ... The Astros are 10-5 in interleague play. The Rangers are 2-13. ... Astros CF Craig Biggio was hit by three pitches the last two games. He leads the majors with 14 this season, and is the active leader at 228.

Sky Diver captures Free Spirits Handicap at Ruidoso Downs

RUIDOSO, N.M. — Sky Diver drove home for the win in the Free Spirits Handicap last weekend with jockey Martin Bourdieu aboard at Ruidoso Downs.

Trainer Bart Hone was worried about another horse gaining ground by coming out of the turn since Sky Diver is known to go wide in the turn.

"When he comes out of the turn, he usually lugs out a little and another horse is able to make up ground. But when he switched leads at the top of the stretch I saw him digging back in and I knew it was going to be a race from there and I hoped we would be on top," Bart said.

Sky Diver will at taking things a little slow after the Free Spirit Handicap with his next race undetermined. Coming in second was Star Smasher, post-time favorite.

Star Smasher tracked on the inside of the rail and went two wide at the quarter pole. Coming through down the stretch, Star Smasher had a slight lead of a head until he was overtaken by Sky Diver at the wire.

Pacer, piloted by Dennis Means, stalked on the outside of the pack and went three wide through the turn to end up third by a head. Pacer is the 4-year-old gelding owned by Joe Dee and Lisa Brooks. Pacer is trained by Todd W. Fincher.

Boxing continues in its state of perpetual confusion

By JIM LITKE AP Sports Columnist

There were two heavy-weight fights over the weekend. One was sanctioned. Naturally, Mike Tyson fought in the other one — for free. It took place at a Brooklyn hotel, around 5:30 a.m.

"I want rematch," Klitschko, who speaks four languages, said afterward. "You know why? Because I know I will be winner in this fight."
Lewis, less than impressive in the ring earlier Saturday night, was full of bravado outside it. "If he wants a rematch, there's no problem with that. I'm happy to give him a rematch, because I'll bust up the other side of his face, too," he said.

card, is back on a court docket and performing in hotel lobbies for free. Just a year ago, you could argue Lewis had reached the pinnacle and restored some order to the chaos of the heavyweight division. He starched Tyson in eight rounds in front of a pay-per-view audience, talked about establishing his legacy and then announced three times in the six weeks following that he likely would retire. Lewis even turned up at Buckingham Palace to receive the Commander of the Order of the British Empire from Prince Charles.

enough time to wait for a genuine contender to emerge. Finally, Lewis asked and then answered his own question about what it would take to get him to fight either Klitschko, Chris Byrd or any other member of the unremarkable heavyweight class filling out the rankings. "If they want me to fight those guys," Lewis said at the time, "they're going to have to pay me money just to get me back into training."

not good, he's very heavy," Klitschko said. "He couldn't fight hard. I know I was hurting him with my punches."
Whether Lewis likes it or not, the glow from beating Tyson has already worn off. The only way he restores his credibility is the same way he did after the only two losses of his career. Lewis has to give Klitschko a rematch, show up in shape and beat him decisively — not square-dance with a pumped-up middleweight like Jones just because it's the best payday out there.

Jim Litke is a national sports columnist for The Associated Press. Write to him at jlitke(at)ap.org

That came because the ring doctor finally decided he'd rather risk the wrath of millions than have to look even once more at the cut over Klitschko's left eye — which by then was the size of a divot. "I want rematch," Klitschko, who speaks four languages, said afterward. "You know why? Because I know I will be winner in this fight."

Lewis, less than impressive in the ring earlier Saturday night, was full of bravado outside it. "If he wants a rematch, there's no problem with that. I'm happy to give him a rematch, because I'll bust up the other side of his face, too," he said.

It was an easy line to swallow. The 37-year-old Lewis and Tyson, his junior by a few months, grew up as the best prospects in a generation brimming with promising fighters. They clashed during a few sparring sessions in 1984, and then not again until last June.

Lewis came into the fight with a ready-made excuse — he had only two weeks to adjust to Klitschko, a bigger fighter, after his original opponent, Kirk Johnson, was injured — but that wasn't the cause of all the huffing and puffing. He entered the ring at 256 1/2 pounds, the heaviest of his career, and it showed. Lewis couldn't get away from Klitschko's left hand and couldn't press the advantage each time he had the taller man in serious trouble.

Storm rips Silver Stars

SEATTLE (AP) — Lauren Jackson scored 24 points and grabbed nine rebounds in 22 minutes as the Seattle Storm set a team record for points scored in beating the San Antonio Silver Stars 93-53 Sunday night. The Storm (6-5), coming off a disappointing loss to Sacramento on Saturday night, grabbed the lead early and never looked back.

of her career high when she sat down for good early in the second half. Alisa Buras scored 12 and Sue Bird added nine points and six assists for Seattle, which shot 49 percent (32-for-65) and 43 percent (6-for-14) on 3-pointers. Adrienne Goodson scored 15 points and Margo Dydek had 14 for the Silver Stars (4-7), who had a two-game win streak snapped and remain winless (0-4) on the road. San Antonio shot 34.6 percent (18-of-52) from the field and 28.6 percent (4-of-14) from the 3-point line. Notes: The Silver Stars beat Seattle 65-56 May 24 in their WNBA opener, before losing four consecutive games. ... Buras sang the national anthem before the game.

Horoscope BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, June 24, 2003: Many factors toss you in many unanticipated directions, yet you display unusual stability. You often hear shocking or surprising news. Learn to open your mind to different types of thinking.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Your buddies might be rooting for you. Just the same, there could be a lot that you cannot fathom or that you might not be sure about. Are you being overly tough on yourself? Your feelings might be inordinately sensitive right now.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  Take a stand. Others will notice what you believe and will admire you for the strength that you reveal. A partner pitches in to be a most meaningful way. You feel like you can really trust this person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  Manage a situation directly, not worrying too much about someone who might be most unpredictable. Spend some time discerning priorities, even though you might want to avoid the inevitable. Recognize what you can and cannot control.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Friends point you in a new direction. Express your ideas, though you might have to be stern or inordinately serious to make your point. You could be surprised by a friend's fly-by-night attitude.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  You might not be able to please a boss. Sit back and review information.

Your intuition might help you sift through what's going on. Unexpected developments at work reveal a lot more. A partner makes up for a recent problem. Tonight: Do your thing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  Right now an associate holds the cards, and you play along. Don't think that others aren't watching. A boss or someone you put on a pedestal quietly observes. Incorporate new techniques with your best friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Others are full of surprises as they head in a new direction. Right now you come up with a string of endless ideas. Before you launch into action, test them out on someone else — please!

Somebody at a distance might be a bit touchy. Tonight: Go along with someone else's wishes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  Family and domestic matters dominate. You would rather just sink into work. You actually might need to turn off your cell phone if you're going to get anything done.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  If you can work from home, please do. Otherwise, make your office as homey as possible. Verify information, especially info involving finances. You cannot be too sure. Make sure all your ducks are in a row. Tonight: Do only what you must.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Say exactly what is on your mind. The unexpected occurs, though you might need to put your foot down on risk-taking. A child or loved one could be developing an attitude. Keep communications open. Return calls and catch up on messages. Tonight: Chat over dinner.

People in the News

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Sorry, ladies. Tennessee Titans running back Edie George is off the market.

Standing on New York's Brooklyn Bridge one night a few weeks ago, George had an English bulldog deliver a 5-carat diamond ring to Tamara Johnson, also known as Taj, a member of the R&B group Sisters With Voices.

They will be married next June. Titans spokesman Robbie Bohren confirmed Saturday.

The couple met five years ago at a fund-raiser. She splits her time between Nashville and Los Angeles.

George, who will begin his eighth NFL season this year, is a four-time Pro Bowl player and the 1995 Heisman Trophy winner.

FAJARDO, Puerto Rico (AP) — The son of the late ocean explorer Jacques Cousteau toured Puerto Rico's northeastern coastline by helicopter Saturday, saying much of the area's coral reefs appeared to be dead.

"We continue using the ocean as a trash can," Jean-Michel Cousteau told environmentalists and reporters after the tour. He was basing his assessment of Puerto Rico's reefs on appearance and existing data.

Cousteau said ignorance about coral reefs and the hundreds of species they support was contributing to a worldwide trend in coral depletion.

Pollution, chemicals, erosion, diseases and physical contact are factors that can lead to coral depletion, he said.

Cousteau has followed in the footsteps of his late father, Jacques-Yves Cousteau, who until his death in 1997 led ocean expeditions throughout the world and popularized marine issues through films.

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The Rev. Al Sharpton paused from his presidential campaign duties to chastise city leaders for backing off of their decision to rename a street for the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

City Council voted 9-2 last week to leave the name 21st Street on one of the city's busiest arteries while adding an honorary name of Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard, effective in January.

Businesses and homeowners on the street had complained for more than a month about an earlier vote to change the name outright, saying it would be expensive and inconvenient.

Sharpton wrote to Mayor Craig Foltin on Thursday, saying the compromise "is precisely the kind of second-class treatment that Dr. King fought against his entire life."

The New York civil rights advocate said he would "let the national community know of the cowardly decision."

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) —

Former South African President Nelson Mandela and boxing champion Muhammad Ali were the main guests of honor as more than 70,000 spectators cheered mentally disabled athletes participating in the Special Olympics Summer World Games.

Saturday's opening ceremony for the nine-day competition featured concert sets from Irish pop groups U2 and The Corrs, speeches by movie star Arnold Schwarzenegger and Irish Prime Minister Bertie Ahern, and a performance from the largest-ever Riverdance troupe.

Ireland became the first country outside North America to host a Special Olympics, a movement founded in 1968 to promote physical fitness and social opportunities for the mentally disabled.

WAUSAU, Wis. (AP) — A prosecutor who gained attention as a cast member on MTV's "The Real World" is eyeing a new kind of real world challenge — national politics.

Ashland County District Attorney Sean Duffy, 31, said he will decide by mid-August whether to seek the Republican nomination to challenge U.S. Rep. Dave Obey, a Democrat, in 2004.

"I am considering it," he said.

Duffy was a cast member on MTV's "The Real World Boston" in 1997 when the pop culture phenomenon of reality television was just getting started. His wife, Rachel Campos, 31, was a cast member in "The Real World San Francisco." They have two children.

Trial starts in windshield death

FORT WORTH (AP) — A former nurse's aide pleaded guilty to a lesser count Monday before she went on trial on a murder charge, accused of hitting a homeless man with her car and leaving him stuck in the windshield and dying as she drove home.

Chante Jawan Mallard, 27, faces life in prison if convicted of murder.

She pleaded guilty to a charge of evidence tampering before attorneys began their opening statements on the murder charge.

Prosecutor Christy Jack portrayed Mallard as a selfish woman who allowed Gregory Biggs, 37, to die an inhumane death because she was more interested in helping herself than her victim.

Reading from a police report, Jack said Mallard smoked pot, took ecstasy and drank heavily with a friend shortly before she drove home in the early hours of Oct. 26, 2001.

Biggs was apparently walking on the shoulder of the road. Mallard told officers her Chevrolet Cavalier hit him with such force that his head and shoulders jammed into the windshield and his legs were bent over the roof, his pants tearing almost completely off his body.

Mallard stopped briefly to try and get Biggs off her car, but when she couldn't, she drove about a mile to her home, Jack said.

When she got her house, Mallard called one of her friends to pick her up, Jack said. The friend complied while Biggs died in Mallard's garage, Jack said.

"She finally did make a call but the help wasn't for him, the help was for her," Jack said.

She and her friend went to find Mallard's ex-boyfriend to figure out what to do next. When they couldn't find him, they went back to the home. Jack said Mallard showed the friend into the garage, where Biggs had died, still lodged and bleeding in the jagged windshield.

The friend told Mallard to call 911, Jack said.

"Chante refused because she didn't want her parents to know what she'd done and didn't want to go to jail," she said.

Defense attorney Jeff Kearney said Mallard was not thinking clearly because she was in a drug-induced haze. He said she doesn't dispute what happened, but it was an accident, not murder.

He said after Mallard pulled into her garage and lowered the door, she sat in the car and cried, repeatedly apologizing to Biggs.

"She was hysterical, terrorized and confused," he said.

When Mallard's friend arrived at her home, "she was blabbing, 'Lord, I'm sorry, what do I do?'" Kearney said.

Biggs, a former bricklayer who had been living in a homeless shelter, was found dead the next day, his body dumped in a park.

Kearney said Clete Jackson, one of two men who pleaded guilty to helping dump Biggs' body, orchestrated moving Biggs to the park.

Jackson received a 10-year sentence for tampering with evidence. His cousin, Herbert Tyrone Cleveland, received nine years. As part of plea agreements, they were to testify at Mallard's trial.

Police initially said Biggs lived for several days in Mallard's garage, slowly bleeding to death from his multiple fractures and cuts.

But Tarrant County Medical Examiner Nizam Peerwani later said Biggs, whose left leg was nearly amputated, probably lived only a few hours after he was hit. He could have survived if he had received medical attention, Peerwani said.

When Biggs' body was found in the park, authorities had no leads until four months later, when a tipster said Mallard talked about the incident at a party.

The day after interviewing the tipster in February 2002, detectives went to Mallard's house with a search warrant, and they said she confessed.

Police found the car in the garage, the seats missing and the windshield and rear glass broken.

Texas unemployment rates rise in May

AUSTIN — Texas' seasonally adjusted unemployment rate rose to 6.8 percent in May from 6.6 percent in April, according to the Texas Workforce Commission (TWC).

Total Nonagricultural Employment in Texas rose by 12,200 positions in May, the largest over-the-month increase since October 2002. Leisure & Hospitality posted the largest employment gain with 5,800 jobs, followed by 4,700 jobs in Education &

Health Services. The increase in Leisure & Hospitality was its largest since October 1999.

"The increase in the unemployment rate is disappointing, especially after the slight reduction we saw in April," said TWC Chair Diane Rath. "However, the overall gain of jobs in Total Nonagricultural Employment and the significant growth in Leisure & Hospitality are encouraging signs."

Continued instability in the airline and other travel-related industries contributed to losses in Employment in Trade, Transportation & Utilities (TTU), which shed 2,600 jobs in May.

"I also am displeased with the rise in unemployment, especially the continued loss of jobs in Trade, Transportation & Utilities," said Commissioner for Labor T.P. O'Mahoney.

An upward trend in Construction employment that began last October ended in May with a loss of 3,100 jobs. This was the largest employment decrease in this industry since January 2002. In addition to the losses in TTU and Construction, 3,800 jobs were lost in Manufacturing, its largest employment drop this year.

"I share my fellow commissioners concerns over the increase in the unemployment rate," said Commissioner for Employers Ron Lehman. "The losses in Construction are particularly disturbing, though I'm hopeful those losses will be reversed later in the summer."

Overall, six of the Total Nonagricultural industries experienced job growth in May. Professional & Business Services added 1,900 jobs, and 900 more jobs were created in Financial Activities.

Boy accused of shooting at dad over home chores

FOUNTAIN, Colo. (AP)

An 11-year-old boy was arrested Saturday after he fired five shots at his father following an argument over chores, hitting him once in the chest, police said.

The bullet that struck Steve Worley failed to break the skin, said Fountain Police Chief John Morse. Worley, a police officer in nearby Colorado Springs, was treated at the hospital and released.

His son was being held at a juvenile facility on suspicion of attempted murder and possession of a handgun by a juvenile.

The boy fired at him twice from the living room with a .357 revolver, Morse said. One bullet struck Worley in the chest, and the other missed.

The bullet that hit Worley may have been bad or have had a light load of powder, Morse said.

TERRORISM FORCES US TO MAKE A CHOICE. WE CAN BE AFRAID.
OR WE CAN BE READY.

~ Lai Sun Ye, Office of Emergency Management ~

Next time there's a terrorist alert, you can feel helpless or you can feel prepared. It's up to you. The steps to readiness are not difficult. First, make an emergency supply kit for yourself and your family. Set aside supplies to survive three days at home. Water, food, first-aid supplies, clothing, a flashlight and a battery-powered radio. Next, develop a family communications plan so your family can stay in touch during an emergency. Third, learn how to respond to the different types of terrorist threats, such as biological, chemical and radiological.

That information, along with details about kits and plans, is available at www.ready.gov. Or, call 1-800-BE-READY (1-800-237-3239) for a free brochure, "Preparing Makes Sense. Get Ready Now."
