PEDC board to meet Monday at city hall

Pampa Economic Development Corporation board members will consider a resolution regarding funds received after the corporation dissolves at a meeting Monday, Sept. 13.

The board plans to meet at 5 p.m., in the city commission chambers on the third floor of City Hall.

PEDC Board President Doug Locke said Friday he plans to discuss a post dissolution revenue resolution with other board members.

After the PEDC dissolves, all PEDC revenue will become the responsibility of the City of Pampa and City Commission, Locke said. However, he said he'd like to draft a resolution asking the city to place the funds in the revolving fund.

Other items on the PEDC board's agenda Monday include discussion and possible action on assets and liabilities, and a review and possible action on the budget.

GCAD board meets Tuesday at 7:30 a.m.

Gray County Appraisal District's Board of Directors will meet at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 14 in the appraisal district's conference room, 815 N. Sumner.

An executive session will be held to discuss personnel matters, evaluation of public officers or employees, and evaluation of chief appraiser.

In open session, a public hearing will be held on the proposed 2005 budget, followed by a vote on the budget. A web service agreement with ARS is also on the agenda, along with an investment report and a chief appraiser's report.

Lefors school board to meet on Tuesday

Lefors Independent School District's School Board will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 14 in the high school library, 209 5th Street.

Lendi Jackson will present the results of TAKS for the 2003-2004 school year. Agenda items include a resolution containing the issuance of Lefors ISD's tax and revenue anticipation notes; and review time line of previous tax collection and how tax collection will be affected by rollback election.

Fire chief chosen for elite fire academy

By DAVID BOWSER
 Staff Writer

Fighting fires is more than putting water on the flames as Pampa Fire Chief Kim Powell long ago found out.

There's also paperwork, organization and politics to contend with, and never-ending training and preparation.

At a time when most people would have been happy to kick back and lie by the pool and catch some rays this past summer, Powell was sitting in a classroom just outside of Washington, D.C.

"I went to the National Fire Academy in Emmitsburg, Md.," she said. "It's about an hour and a half from Washington, D.C."

This small town, a stone's throw southwest of Gettysburg, Pa., is the home of the Emergency Management Institute and the United States Fire Administration.

"United States Fire Administration is over the National Fire Academy," Powell said.

The course had more to do with executive development than fire fighting.

"I was up there for two weeks," she said.

The trip wasn't the first for Pampa's chief executive fire fighting officer, and it won't be the last.

Known as the Executive Fire Officer Program, Powell will spend two weeks each year for four years there.

"I had to have a letter of commitment from the city commission and my boss, the city manager, that said they would support me through these four years so I could complete the program," Powell said.

The second year consists of executive fire officer operations and emergency management, which has to do with command and control at the scenes of major incidents. The third year was leading community risk reduction. The final one was executive leadership.

It's mostly classroom work, Powell said, although for the command and control class they have a simulator where floods, tornadoes and hurricanes can be summoned up.

"It's really neat," she said, her eyes twinkling with excitement.

This year, Powell made presentations and did story telling.

"We learned persuasive speaking," Powell said. "We did self-analysis, and we had a peer review which gives us feedback from our peers, our subordinates and our-

Pampa Fire Chief Kim Powell attended National Fire Academy in Maryland. With more than two dozen people in her class, Powell shared lessons with senior fire officials from such large fire departments as Orange County, Calif. (the metropolitan Los Angeles area) and Baltimore, Md.

Local United Way kicking off 2004 campaign

Pampa United Way will kick-off its 2004-2005 campaign Sept. 14 with the slogan "Community Matters." United Way supports 17 non-profit agencies: American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Golden Spread, CASA of the High Plains, Community Day Care Center, Genesis House, Girl Scouts, Texas Plains, Gray County Child Protective Services, Gray County Latchkey, High Plains Epilepsy Association, Pampa Meals On Wheels, Pampa Optimist Youth Club, Pampa Sheltered Workshop, The Salvation Army, Samaritan Pastoral Council, Southside Senior Citizens Center, Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority and Tralee Crisis Center.

"Our goal is to raise $312,000," says Katrina Bigham, executive administrator. "Many volunteers come together in the fall of each year to solicit funds, raising more money in the least amount of time with less cost, through United Way allowing the 17 agencies to concentrate on what they do best — helping people."

United Way funds are collected through pledges.

"You can make a pledge now and pay it in any month for the remainder of this year or anytime next year," says

Bigham. "Payroll deduction pledges are made this year and most of the corporations take them out beginning in January. Some begin taking them out immediately. We take checks, cash, bank draft, bill direct, or payroll deduction. Drafts can be drafted on a one time basis or as many times you wish to be drafted. Bill direct can be billed whenever you wish to be billed although most people opt for a one time billing or quarterly."

The Kick-off Luncheon will begin 11:45 a.m. Sept. 14, in Pampa Community Building's large meeting room and will be catered by Dyer's Bar-B-Que for a cost of $5.50 a plate.

Luncheon Planning Committee members are Sharon Strickland, Becky Downey and Porter Briggs. Weekly check-in meetings, hosted by UW-sponsored agencies, for the volunteers

Guthrie tribute to feature Vanaver Caravan

Plans are under way for the 2004 Tribute to Woody Guthrie, Sept. 29-Oct. 1, featuring Vanaver Caravan and one of the folk legend's granddaughters.

Vanaver Caravan will be appearing at all Pampa

Independent School District elementary schools on Sept. 29, 30, and Oct. 1, and perform at an assembly at Pampa Junior High on that Friday afternoon, said Loralee Cooley, president of Pampa's Tribute to Woody Guthrie.

A n n a Canoni, Nora Guthrie's daughter, is scheduled to present rare family photos in a supper program at Stokes Barn, about four miles east of Pampa on U.S. Highway 60. North Fork Band will provide special music for the event.

Vanaver Caravan of New Paltz, N.Y., presents its own

"Tribute to Woody Guthrie," featuring music and dance. Bill and Livia Vanaver created the group 25 years ago, with Bill arranging Guthrie's songs and Livia choreographing interpretive and period dances to go with the music.

"This opportunity for them to work in the schools was not in the Pampa ISD budget, so the cost is being partly underwritten by local businesses and individuals," Cooley said.

Cooley said the group will present workshops with Create-a-Beat After-School Arts Academy, Genesis House, and two local dance studios, Madeline Graves Dance & Gymnastics Studio and Jeanne Willingham's Beaux Arts Studio.

Total cost for the workshops is approximately $3,400 of which $1,450 has been pledged so far, she said.

Parents invited to PHS Open House

Pampa High School's annual open house, termed "one of the best and important evenings of the year" by school officials, is set for Monday, Sept. 13, at the high school, 11001 Harvester.

Open house begins with the Title I meeting in the auditorium. After the short meeting, parents will follow their children's schedules, giving everyone the opportunity to meet and visit with each teacher.

Door prizes will be awarded throughout the evening to parents in attendance.

Students are to bring home copies of their schedule on Monday. If parents don't receive their students' schedule, they can get one from the main high school office.

Following is the open house schedule:

D.C. Carr, Jr., 75

D.C. Carr, Jr., 75, of Pampa, died Friday, Sept. 10, 2004, in Pampa.

Graveside services will be at 3 p.m. Monday at Speer Moore Cemetery in Harper County, Okla., with Pastor David Hearon, of the Booker Friends Church in Booker, officiating.

Arrangements are by Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors of Pampa and Myatt-Seegar Funeral Home in Laverne, Okla.

Junior was born June 25, 1929, at Olney, Texas. He married Patsy Halliburton on Feb. 1, 1971, in Clovis, N.M. He worked all his life in the oil fields, moving to Pampa in 1970 while working at Land & Marine.

He worked at Windsor Well Service and Curtis Well Service and later was a co-owner in Big 3 Drilling for many years with Jack and Joe Curtis. He always enjoyed going to Curtis Well Service to see everyone after he had retired.

He was preceded in death by his younger sister, Janice Blaylock; and his younger brother, Wayne Carr.

Survivors include his wife, Patsy Carr, of the home; two sons, J.D. Carr and wife Cindy of Fritch and Marvin Carr and wife Corlis of Burleson; three daughters, Mary Jane Carr of Grand Prairie, Teri Carr, and Kim Lewis and husband Tim, all of Laverne, Okla.; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren; a sister-in-law, Rose Marie Carr of Wichita Falls; two nephews, Scott and Steve Carr, both of Wichita Falls; and one niece, Shelly Collier of Mansfield.

The family suggests memorials be to a favorite charity.

Mr. Carr will lie-in-state from 1 until 8 p.m. today, Sunday, Sept. 12, at Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Home with visitation scheduled from 2 until 4 p.m.

Joni Daniels, 82

Joni Daniels, 82, of Pampa, Texas, died Friday, Sept. 10, 2004, at Pampa.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Monday, Sept. 13, 2004, at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Carl Novian, associate pastor, and Dr. Johnny Funderburg, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Daniels was born Feb. 23, 1922, in Lockney, Texas. She came to Pampa in 1954 from Amarillo. She married J.C. Daniels on June 26, 1954, in Pampa. He preceded her in death on Jan. 30, 2000.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church where she was a longtime fourth grade Sunday School class teacher.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Walter T. Peterson, in 1951.

Survivors include two daughters, Jona Smith and husband Davee and Marilyn

Steed, both of Pampa; two sons, Barry Peterson of Amarillo and Garry Peterson of Las Vegas, Nev.; one daughter-in-law, Becky Peterson of Eagle, Colo.; one brother, Wayne Simpson of Amarillo; seven grandchildren, Don Peterson of Corvallis, Ore., Erik Peterson of Avon, Colo., Jerrod Imel and Jacee Smith, both of Pampa, Barry Peterson, Jr., of Austin, Laura-Marie Finley of Owings Mills, Md., and Shelbi Whittenburg of Italy; six great-grandchildren; and three Special Caregivers, Tina Miranda, Karen Hapeman and Mary Howell.

The family requests memorials be to First Baptist Church, P.O. Box 621, Pampa, TX 79066-0621; or to BSA Hospice, 800 N. Sumner, Pampa, TX 79065.

Joe Bob Fish, 51

Joe Bob Fish, 51, of Alanreed, Texas, died Thursday, Sept. 9, 2004.

Private services will be held by the family at a date and time of their choosing. Final arrangements are by Bailey Ware Funeral Home in McLean, Texas.

Mr. Fish was born Aug. 20, 1953, in Pampa, Texas. He moved to Los Angeles, Calif., in 1964, and, while there, earned his Master of Arts degree in History. He also began a career life dedicated to serving others, working for Sen. Alan Cranston's office and ADEPT, an organization dedicated to assisting people with disabilities in finding housing and employment.

Joe returned to the Texas Panhandle in 1984. He lived and worked in McLean, where he served for three years as Editor of the McLean News. He then moved to Amarillo where, for several years, he served as Executive Director of PACILS (The Panhandle Action Center for Independent Living Skills), another organization dedicated to assisting people with disabilities.

Many residents of Amarillo and the surrounding area still enjoy the results of Joe's lifetime of service, as Joe was responsible for writing grants to secure monies for Amarillo's public transportation system and KFDDA's close-captioning system.

He was preceded in death by his father, Sanford Cletis Fish. Survivors include his mother, Jeanette Fish of Alanreed; his sister and brother-in-law, Larry and Lynn Swanson of McLean; his brother and sister-in-law, Dan and Sasha Fish of Alanreed; and three nephews and two nieces, Tony and Amy Polito of Clarendon, Ryan Swanson of Amarillo, and Taylor Fish and Parker Fish of Alanreed. He is also survived by a host of uncles, aunts, cousins and friends.

The family has requested that any memorials be made in Joe's memory to the Shriner's Hospitals and the Scottish Rites Children's Memorial Hospital in Nacogdoches, Texas.

Don't let our young soldiers die in vain

On Friday, we ran an editorial cartoon depicting the cartoonist slumped over his drawing table with his head in his hands. He's surrounded by crumpled pieces of paper and on the single sheet before him are the numbers 9-11. Above him is the thought balloon, "Does it ever stop hurting?"

Saturday was the third anniversary of that terrible day, Sept. 11, 2001 — the day our world changed. After that, the United States declared war on terrorism, an elusive enemy that won't stand and fight, but rather hides and preys on the innocent.

The most visible fighting has occurred in Afghanistan and in Iraq. But the battle also continues on some level throughout the United States and the world.

Unfortunately, the shock of having our homeland violated and more than 3,000 citizens killed in one concentrated attack has begun to wear off. For some, it has stopped hurting.

Right now, the presidential election, the state of the economy, and whether or not the government should pay for health care seems to be taking precedence.

I watched the national media wait like vultures roosting over a dying antelope before swooping down on the 1,000th American soldier to die in Iraq. It made me sick to my stomach.

When I hear of another soldier's death, I say a prayer for them and their family. Every one is an unfathomable loss. Every one is somebody's child, parent, loved one.

Dee Dee Laramore

Editor

As time goes by and this war on terror drags on with few big victories and more loss of life, people have begun to question whether or not we have done the right thing.

Many wonder is if these young people, our country's greatest resource, died in vain.

If they die in vain or not, depends on you.

One of my greatest fears when my son served in Iraq last year was that the American people would withdraw their support and leave those soldiers without the means to succeed.

I was terrified that we Americans would do what we did to the soldiers fighting in Vietnam and that my son would be one of them.

Now is not the time to back away, it is the time to go forward with all the means available to us to complete the task of liberating Iraq and Afghanistan.

If you think that withdrawing our troops will bring some form of fairy tale peace — you're wrong. There is no such thing.

Here's how two soldiers feel about what they've done in Iraq — one is my son Dave Bridges. He entered Iraq from Kuwait with the 101st Airborne when the war started. He stayed there for a year in the northern city of Mosul, near the Kurdish border.

In a phone call last week, he talked about reporters trying to get the soldiers to tell them what they thought about being in Iraq. He avoided them, because he didn't trust them.

But he told me how he felt.

"If people ask me if we should be in Iraq, I'd say 'hell, yes,'" Dave told me. "They'd have to see what we saw. They'd have to see what they were doing to them over there — the chemical weapons and stuff. It was evil."

"If they ask me if we should have got rid of (Saddam) Hussein, I'd say we had to. He was evil, you wouldn't believe the things he did to his own people, and he was teaching his sons to be the same way. He wasn't going to stop."

"If they ask me if we can stop terrorism, I would have to say 'no,'" he added. "But

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Sept. 12, the 256th day of 2004. There are 110 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 12, 1609, English explorer Henry Hudson sailed into the river that now bears his name.

On this date:

In 1880, author and journalist H.L. Mencken was born in Baltimore.

In 1938, Adolf Hitler demanded self-determination for the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia.

In 1943, German paratroopers took Benito Mussolini from the hotel where he was being held by the Italian government.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. Army troops entered Germany for the first time, near Trier.

In 1953, Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy married Jacqueline Lee Bouvier in Newport, R.I.

In 1954, "Lassie" made its television debut on CBS.

In 1960, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy addressed the issue of his Roman Catholicism, telling a Protestant group in Houston, "I do not speak for my church on public matters, and the church does not speak for me."

In 1974, Emperor Haile Selassie was deposed by Ethiopia's military after ruling for 58 years.

In 1977, South African black student leader Steven Biko died while in police custody, triggering an international outcry.

In 1988, Hurricane Gilbert slammed into Jamaica, killing 45 people and causing damage estimated at up to $1 billion.

Ten years ago: A stolen, single-engine Cessna crashed into the South Lawn of the White House, coming to rest against the executive mansion; the pilot, Frank Corder, was killed.

Five years ago: Under intense international pressure, Indonesia announced it would allow an international peace-keeping force to restore order to the devastated territory of East Timor. Andre Agassi captured his second U.S. Open title, dominating Todd Martin 6-4, 6-7 (5-7), 6-7 (2-7), 6-3, 6-2. "The Practice" and "Ally McBeal," both created by writer-producer David E. Kelley, were named best drama series and best comedy series at the 51st Emmy Awards.

The story beyond the Bush bounce

President Bush enters September with a remarkable double-digit lead as a result of one of the most successful conventions in recent years. The key to the GOP success was, of course, its focus on terrorism, reminding Americans what a dangerous world we inhabit.

The Republicans also moved to the center, featuring pro-choice and socially moderate orators like Rudy Giuliani, Sen. Zell Miller and Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger.

The Democrats don't understand the need to move to the center. Bob Shrum, Kerry's — and Ted Kennedy's — key strategist, makes his living by appealing to the party's base. The addition of James Carville and Paul Begala to the team just reinforces the tendency to tack to the left, embracing an economic populism that resonates with 40 percent of the voters but leaves the rest cold.

After all, when Clinton needed to win 43 percent of the vote to get elected in 1992 against Bush, as Ross Perot split the Republican vote, he relied on Carville and Begala. But when he needed to win half the voters in the 1996 campaign, as Perot's appeal diminished, they were nowhere to be seen.

Carville and Begala will likely focus on "the economy, stupid," which is a needed correction for Kerry — whose current strategy of trying to beat

Bush on terrorism brings to mind Winston Churchill's characterization of fighting a land war in Asia against Japan in World War II: "Going into the water to fight the shark."

But in its focus on the economy, the Kerry team is likely to lose sight of one basic problem: In running against a bad economy, it is helpful if the economy is bad. With an unemployment rate approaching 5 percent, they'll have a hard time making the case.

The decision to bring in Carville and Begala also begs a more fundamental question: Do they want Kerry to win?

Both men are primarily loyal to the Clintons — Bill and Hillary. Clearly, the former president would like the former first lady to be president in 2008. And a Kerry victory would stand in the way.

A n axiom of politics is that generally you want your campaign advisers to hope that you win — and Carville and Begala may not pass that standard.

Bush's post convention bounce is likely to linger until the debates. He will get another boost this weekend as we mark the anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, reminding Americans, once more, how important it is to keep Bush at the helm.

How big is Bush's lead? Don't believe the surveys that show it in the 5- to 7-point range. Believe the surveys of Time and Newsweek, which show a lead in excess of 10 points.

The difference is because pollsters disagree about whether or not to weight their results to keep constant the ratio of Republicans, Democrats and Independents in their sample. Some polling firms treat party affiliation as a demographic constant and, when they find that their sample has too many Republicans, they weight down each Republican interview and assign an extra weight to each Democratic response.

But other polling firms — and I — disagree. We feel that political party is not a demographic, like gender or race or age. If the survey finds more Republicans than usual, we think it's because the country has become more Republican, so we treat the result as an indicator of national mood, not of statistical error.

Time and Newsweek both picked up major moves toward the GOP in the wake of the convention. Likely the other firms did too, but they treated the finding as a mistake and weighed down the Republican interviews, making the race appear to be closer than it really is.

The debates are likely to See BUSH, Page 5

Farmers suing Mexico over crucial water issues

It's truly a shame that Texas farmers have been driven to the point of filing a lawsuit against Mexico over water.

A 1944 treaty between the United States and Mexico is pretty clear: Mexico annually must send an average of 350,000 acre-feet of water from six Rio Grande tributaries to the United States, and the United States must send Mexico an annual average of 1.5 million acre-feet of water from the Colorado River.

That's plain enough. But Mexico has been renegeing on its part of the deal for the past decade, and the lack of sufficient water has driven Rio Grande farmers out of business.

It's not necessarily that Mexico didn't have the water to give. Imagine how galling it would be to U.S. farmers to see Mexican produce pouring across the border while they were having to go out of business.

Mexico grudgingly agreed to make partial payment and in doing so has lessened its water debt.

But that's not good enough for a group comprising 17 irrigation districts, 29 farmers and a water-supply company. According to an Associated Press story, they're making a $500 million claim against the Mexican government under provisions of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

It's a shame that this matter had to burgeon into an international lawsuit. If the Mexican government had acted in good faith, this controversy could have been avoided. It's a step backward for two neighboring countries and NAFTA partners. But the losses to Rio Grande farmers cannot be ignored. The water debt is owed, and it must be paid.

selves. Then they composite it into one form so we could evaluate our leadership abilities and our competencies."

With more than two dozen people in her class, Powell shared lessons with senior fire officials from such large fire departments as Orange County, Calif. (the metropolitan Los Angeles area) and Baltimore, Md.

"I've also been in class with smaller departments like Davis, Calif. They have an all volunteer system," Powell said. "It's a smorgasbord of different sized departments. Departments like New York City send their people there. You're talking all over the nation. It's not for just small communities. They throw you all in the mix from all over the country."

Powell graduated from Lefors High School in 1982. That's when she first became interested in fire fighting.

"Eddie Joe Roberts was the fire chief there then," Powell said. "He needed someone in town when the guys were all out working.

He recruited about four of us women to get together and he trained us how to fight fires."

After a brief stint at college, she decided that she'd rather concentrate on something she enjoyed.

"I wanted to be a chemical engineer, but terminology intimidates me," Powell said. "I came home and wanted to do something that I really liked."

She joined the Pampa Fire Department and the rest is history.

"I'll have been with the department here 19 years next March," Powell said.

As the first female firefighter in Pampa, she said there weren't any problems when she joined the fire department, but there were adjustments to be made.

"It was a learning process for all of us," Powell said. "They'd never done it before, and I'd never done it before."

There was a concerted effort at the time to recruit women and minorities into fire-fighting.

When she first went to the National Fire Academy in the early 1990s, there weren't any women in her class.

"I can tell you that when I first went to the fire academy, I was the only woman," she said.

This time, there were three.

One was a deputy chief in a small volunteer department in Wisconsin. She was also the Fire Marshal. One of the other women was from the volunteer department at Davis, Calif.

Powell said the training is intensive.

"We spent a minimum of eight hours a day in class," Powell said. "At night, we had homework. We had readings. You had to give abstracts of readings that you'd done. We had discussions over those things. It was most beneficial."

It has been a long trip from a volunteer department in Lefors to rubbing shoulders with officers from some of the most elite fire departments in the country, but Powell said the National Fire Academy has always played a role in her career.

"When I became a firefighter," Powell said, "there were some goals I wanted as far as my career. My first goal was to be able to go to the National Fire Academy and to become a Captain."

To go to the National Fire Academy, she said, a firefighter has to have rank.

"It's not just for firefighters like the Texas Firemen's Training School," Powell said.

This is more of a management level class, she said.

These luncheons represent a relaxing time for volunteers to bring in pledges, pick up supplies and visit with other workers.

Bob Marx, who has been on the United Way Board for a number of years, is the Campaign chairman. Fundraising efforts are organized by professional and corporate groups. Denise Daves, Pampa Regional Medical Center, is Major Firms Division chairperson. Paula Goff, Clean Pampa, is the Commercial Division chairperson. Randy Watson, FirstBank Southwest, is Special Gifts Division chairman. Hal Cree, Cree Oil, is Oil & Gas Division chairman.

Dr. Jay Johnson will be responsible for the dental group. Karen Heare will oversee the accountants. Don Lane is the volunteer chairman for the lawyer group. Merlin Rose has agreed to chair for the engineer division and pharmacists. Dr. Mark Ford is responsible for chiropractors, veterinarians and osteopaths.

Other committee volunteers include the Publicity Committee — Kayla Pursley, newspaper; Bob Marx, radio; Shannon Buck, outdoor signs; and Terry Neslage, cable TV advertising.

Pampa United Way also does information and referral for those in town who don't know where to turn for help.

"We cannot give out funds because our funds are already allocated to the 17 agencies we fund," says Bigham, "but we can tell them where to call to look for the help they need."

The United Way office is located at 200 N. Ballard, suite 105. The phone is 669-1001, and the e-mail address is unitedway@pampa.com.

Donations to help underwrite the workshops and fund additional expenses are tax deductible.

Several local foundations have provided assistance for marketing and airfare for the 11-member troupe scheduled to arrive Tuesday, Sept. 28, from Newark, N.Y., via Houston, Cooley said.

Also, a grant of $5,000 from the Woody Guthrie Foundation, headed by Nora Guthrie, Woody's only surviving daughter, has been offered, she said.

Total artist expenses will be $24,000 of which $5,000 has been paid with a grant from M.K. Brown Foundation.

As Pampa's Tribute to Woody Guthrie continues to take shape, plans also continue for renovation of the Woody Guthrie Folk Music Center, 320 S. Cuyler.

Cooley said that Amarillo Area Foundation has approved a $15,300 grant to help fund the renovation, approximately 10 percent of the total estimated cost.

The Woody Guthrie Folk Center was formerly Harris Drug Store where Guthrie worked in the early 1930s.

He is said to have found his first guitar in a back room of the drug store.

Guthrie's musical career began in the southeast corner of that building, where he played guitar in between serving customers, according to Pampan Thelma Bray in her book, "Reflections — the Life and Times of Woody Guthrie."

Pampa's Tribute to Woody Guthrie, a non-profit organization of area residents dedicated to preserving local history of Guthrie, purchased the building in 2000.

In May 2003, preservationists began to restore the facade of the building by removing the board-and-batten that covered the store front, installing new window panes and restoring the simple white sign that said "Harris Drugs" with Guthrie's tiny signature.

This sign, originally painted by Guthrie in the 1930s, had been sandblasted 20 or 30 years ago and only small vestiges of paint remained, Cooley said.

A reception featuring the Vanaver Caravan was held in January 2004 after their Community Concert performance here. Those attending wore heavy coats to protect against the frigid winter air, Cooley said, because the facility still has no heating or air conditioning.

For more information about the upcoming Tribute to Woody Guthrie weekend or about the Woody Guthrie Folk Music Center, log on to www.pampatribute.org, or call the Chamber of Commerce at 669-3241.

Flyers about the 2004 Tribute to Woody Guthrie weekend are available in many area businesses, at the Chamber of Commerce, 200 N. Ballard, or Lovett Memorial Library, 111 N. Houston.

we can fight it over there and keep it from coming here. We can keep (terrorism) down and make it hard for (the terrorists)."

Dave returned last spring from his tour. He hasn't walked away unscathed. He may not have been struck by enemy fire, but he does have wounds that will take time to heal. And the scars will never go away. He's experiencing what any person who cares about others would feel.

Another soldier, 1st Lt. Joshua Biggers, Marilyn Powers' nephew, is presently on his way home after serving with the U.S. Marines in Fallujah for the past seven months. He recently expressed to his family how he felt about his time in Iraq.

He said he felt the Iraqi people desperately needed the Americans to help them and he felt that they were truly helping them. He said he felt that God had sent him there for that purpose.

Last week, Judy Morris of Lefors, brought an e-mail to me that was apparently written by a retired attorney to his four sons.

He basically makes an argument for our country's current actions that would hold up in any court of law.

He lists the numerous times this country was attacked by Muslim extremists since 1979, beginning at far away embassies and gradually growing closer and closer to our homeland until the Sept. 11 attacks. These attacks happened under numerous presidents — Democrat and Republican.

He warned that, like the Roman empire, our greatest enemy comes from within. Unless we unite under a common cause, we cannot win this war against terrorism.

If we don't win, our soldiers have died in vain.

I can't confirm the veracity of this e-mail, but it appeared quite credible, mainly because I know most of the facts he used were true more than a third of them. The debates are fraught with such traps.

So look for September to be a good Bush month. But, in October, Kerry will close at least part of the gap. Democrats always do.

Dick Morris was an adviser to Bill Clinton for 20 years.

Howdy Neighbor Day

Museum to raffle Z-Coil shoes in drawing

FRITCH — The Lake Meredith Aquatic & Wildlife Museum will be raffling off a pair of the pain relieving Z-Coil shoes this year at the Howdy Neighbor Day celebration courtesy of Dr. Bard Rogers of Golden Plains Hospital in Borger.

"We have a number of ways that people can enjoy themselves at Howdy Neighbor Day while supporting the museum," Shelda Pingree, museum director stated. "In addition to the Z-Coil shoes raffle we also have a Remington 1187, 20-gauge shotgun will also be raffled off."

Pingree said that the museum will once again supply the "bouncy house" for kids to have fun and will host a chili-cook off.

"The Chli Cook-off will be a great success," Pingree said. "We have a few entries and are still accepting more. The left-overs will be sold to benefit the museum's aquariums and the judges are Fritch Councilman Bill Jolly, Bill Briggs, National Park Service Ranger, Police Chief Terry Cox, Mayor Kevin Keener, and Resauranteur Carolyn Shelton from Carolyn's Family Restuarant."

Shelda Pingree, museum director, and Dr. Bard Rogers, of Golden Plains Hospital, display a pair of the pain relieving Z-Coil Shoes Dr. Rogers donated as a fund-raiser for the Lake Meredith Aquatic Museum's project to restore the aquariums. Tickets to win the shoes will be available Sept. 18 during Howdy Neighbor Day at the museum's booth in Fritch City Park.

West Texas A&M fall enrollment tops 7,300

CANYON — The last time West Texas A&M University's fall enrollment eclipsed 7,300 was in 1971, when war still raged in Vietnam and conscription was an American fact of life.

The draft is history; today's news is that preliminary 12th-class-day (Sept. 8) fall enrollment is 7,314, the University's largest number of students in 33 years.

The tally marks an increase of 3.38 percent or 239 students compared to the University's preliminary 2003 fall 12th-class-day report, when enrollment totaled 7,075.

Undergraduate enrollment is up from 5,532 to 5,701 (3.05 percent), as is graduate enrollment, which jumped from 1,543 to 1,613 (4.54 percent).

"It is always gratifying to see the University's enrollment on the rise, but particularly so when it encompasses every ethnic group."

— Russell C. Long
WTAMU President

Twelfth-class-day enrollment numbers are what Texas' public universities report to the state, and West Texas A&M will be able to report gains this fall among all ethnic groups. That includes a 43.14-percent gain among Native Americans, a 15.38-percent increase in the Asian-American population and increases of 8.63, 6.75 and 1.60 percent among Hispanics, African-Americans and whites, respectively.

"It is always gratifying to see the University's enrollment on the rise, but particularly so when it encompasses every ethnic group," WTAMU President Russell C. Long, said. "There are many factors — cost, program offerings and accessibility — which have come together to create an increase.

"To see this many degree-seeking students on campus reinforces our position as The University of the Texas Panhandle."

Enrollment among full-time undergraduate students — those taking at least 12 hours — is 4,496, an increase of 153 students from last year. Full-time graduate students — those taking at least 9 hours — number 465, which is 33 students more than a year ago.

Moreover, WTAMU students presently are enrolled in 82,082 semester credit hours, an increase of 2,519 hours from last year. The state uses semester credit hours — not head count — in its formula-funding calculations to determine how much money public universities receive.

State agency working to increase accessibility to workers' compensation system information

AUSTIN — In response to requests from workers' compensation system participants, the Texas Workers' Compensation Commission is making more information about the system available on the agency's website at: www.twcc.state.tx.us.

General system data is being posted to a new Public Information page on the website which was redesigned in August, 2004.

Posted data includes the top paid health care providers treating injured workers and attorneys with the most fees approved by the Commission to represent workers and insurance carriers.

"The new page on the website is part of an overall effort to be more responsive to requests for public information," said Robert L. "Bob" Shipe, Acting Executive Director of the Commission. "We want to make access easier for documents that we are not legally required to hold for written open records requests.

"This change at the Commission makes sense because it reduces our administrative costs associated with handling open records requests and it gives the requestors speedy and convenient access to the information they want," he said.

Formal, written requests are still required for the release of some information from the Commission and all claim file information for injured workers remains strictly confidential.

The new effort to increase accessibility concerns general information that is not specifically protected under the Public Information Act.

The new page on the website includes links to the following information:

—Top 100 Claimant and Carrier Attorneys for 2003 and 2002.

Ranked by amount of fees approved, also includes the name and State Bar identification number of the attorney, and the number of claimants represented.

—Top 100 Health Care Providers for 2003 and 2002. Includes the provider types MD, DO, DC, DP, DS & OD, ranked by amount paid.

—Certified Self-Insurers' Third-Party Administrator/Austin Representative List

—Private Providers of Vocational Rehabilitation Registry

—Commission on

Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF)

System Data Reports also are available on the website and are linked to the Public Information and the News and Publications pages.

System Data Reports contain statistics about the workers' compensation system such as numbers of worker injuries reported to the Commission, average medical costs of claims and claims with benefit disputes. The reports are updated semi-annually.

Instructions for making a written request under the Public Information Act to the Commission also are posted on the Public Information page.

Hidden Hills Senior Scramble golf results

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

It was another great week to get out and swing the sticks which is what they did at the weekly Hidden Hills Senior Scramble this past Wednesday.

Finishing first this week was the foursome of Willie Nickelberry, O.K. Lee, Charlie Terrell and Ron Crump (61).
Runners-up were Bill King, Larry

Schneider, John McGuire and Calvin Lacy (61).

Third place went to Terry Holt, Jess Mathis, Waldon Haynes and Paul Hinton (62).

Rounding out the top four teams this week was Ron Parnell, Dwayne Stiles, Bob Henderson and Dale Butler (63).

Closest to the Pin honors went to Eldon Maxwell on #9, and Carl Johnson on #15.

Houston falls to Pirates, 6-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Houston Astros have gone cold in Pittsburgh.

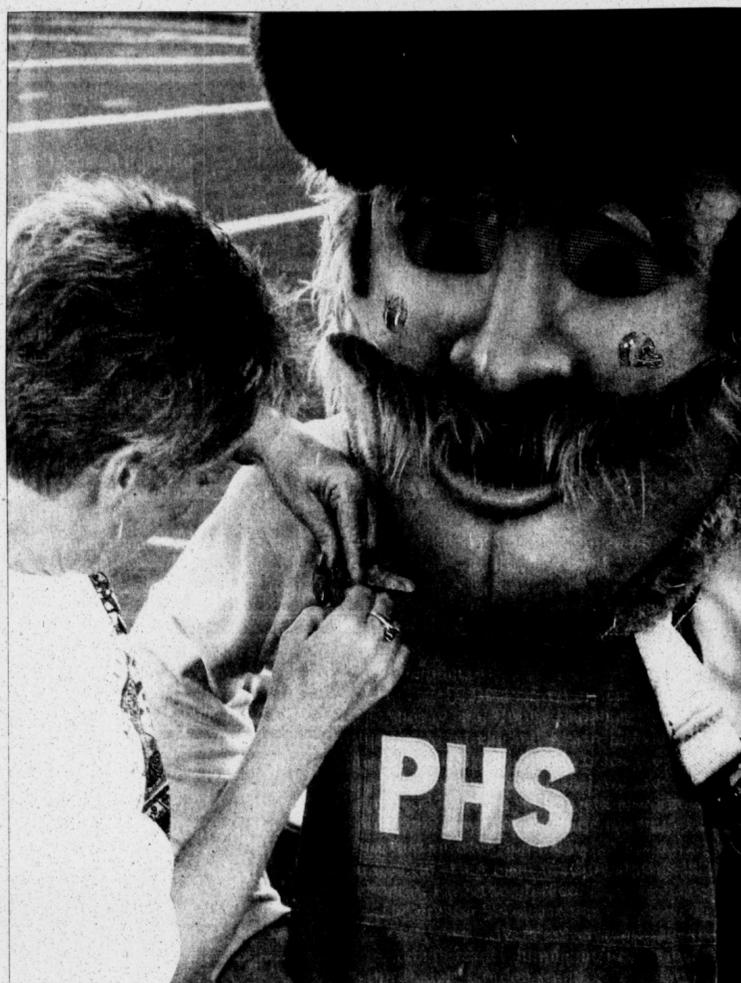

Rookie John Van Benschoten allowed five hits in eight innings for his first major league win, and the Pirates beat the Astros 6-1 Friday night.

Houston, which had won 12 straight before losing the opener of Thursday's doubleheader, has lost two of three for the first time since Aug. 20-22 against the Chicago Cubs. The Astros began the day tied with San Francisco for the wild-card lead, a half-game ahead of the Cubs.

Pete Munro (4-6), who beat Van Benschoten in Houston on Sunday, allowed four runs and nine hits in five innings.

Van Benschoten (1-3), a first-round pick in the 2001 amateur draft, made his fifth major league start. The 24-year-old right-hander, who had relieved injured Kip Wells in the first inning last Sunday, gave up one run, struck out three and walked one, lowering his ERA from 6.64 to 5.08.

Salomon Torres finished with a hitless ninth.

Vikings look for strong start against Cowboys

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota coach Mike Tice picked up the phone last year in search of some friendly advice from a colleague.

As one of the most accomplished coaches in NFL history, Bill Parcells was clearly a good guy to call.

"He's just a great, great leader," Tice said this week while his Vikings prepared to open the regular season against Parcells' Dallas Cowboys. "I really admire the man."

Parcells isn't close to Tice, but he had no qualms offering suggestions about practice routines and some of the other subjects broached that day.

"Hey, that was me 20 years ago asking coach (Tom Landry) the same questions," said Parcells, who led the Cowboys to a 10-6 record in his first year with Dallas and oversaw its first playoff appearance since 1999.

"I just tried to tell him what I thought to be the best," Parcells said. "I think he's doing a really good job there, and I think with time he'll prove to be one of the top guys in the league."

Tice doesn't have much time, though, in his third year on the job. A 6-0 start in 2003 only got the Vikings a lower draft pick, not a berth in the postseason.

'It's time for us to step up and go get what we want — and that's to be world champions.'

— Daunte Culpepper
Quarterback
Minnesota Vikings

After making important enhancements to the defense and bringing every starter back from an offense that ranked first in total yards, Minnesota is eager to begin putting last year's disappointment out of mind.

"I think this is our year," quarterback Daunte Culpepper said. "It's time for us to step up and go get what we want — and that's to be world champions."

Culpepper will surely be looking for Randy Moss on Sunday, because the All-Pro has a whopping eight touchdowns and 525 yards on 21 receptions in four career games against the Cowboys.

Dallas had the league's top-ranked defense last year, but Terence Newman is the only proven cornerback and safety Darren Woodson is out until at least October with a back injury. Plus, there's the new emphasis on enforcing illegal contact penalties against receivers downfield.

That could add up to a big game for Moss.

"We don't want to focus on thinking that they're a bigtime offense and we've been struggling in the secondary," Newman said. "We want to say, 'Hey, we can compete.' We don't have any choice."

Michael Bennett will miss the game with a sprained knee, but Minnesota has other reliable running options with Moe Williams and Onterio Smith.

Newman wins pole for NASCAR chase qualifying event

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Ryan Newman has never pretended to like NASCAR's new points system.

Should he get shut out of the 10-race playoffs because of a poor finish Saturday night at Richmond International Raceway, his dislike will certainly intensify.

But from his front-row starting position, Newman took a wait and see attitude Friday.

"I've always said I don't think it is fair for everybody," he said after winning the pole with a lap at 128.700 mph in his No. 12 Dodge. "The points system should be fair for everybody. We'll leave it at that."

NASCAR begins its new points system at the conclusion of Saturday night's race. The top 10 in the standings, and anyone within 400 points of the leader, will have their points total reset into five-point increments.

Only those drivers will be eligible to race for the Nextel Cup title over the final 10 events of the year.

Newman had to fight to get into the top 10 the past few weeks, and heads into the s race eighth in the standings. The front row is a perfect place to be for someone needing a strong finish to hang on to his qualifying position.

"Not knowing how the race is going to start, it could be the most pole we've had if there's a big crash in the middle of the field on the first lap or something crazy like that," Newman said.

Mark Martin, currently holding the 10th and final spot in the race for the chase, qualified second with a lap at 127.407 mph in the No. 6 Ford.

Martin, an infamous pessimist who has finished second in the championship standings four times, must be flawless to get into the title hunt.

He's got just a 25-point lead over Jamie McMurray, and Bobby Labonte, Dale Jarrett, Jeremy Mayfield and Kevin Harvick are all mathematically eligible to crack the top 10.

"I know for positive that we are going to run good," Martin said. "But I also know that no matter how good we are running, I can't stop the air from coming out of a tire if it gets a hole in it. ... I am tired of all this talking about it. I want to go race."

— Mark Martin
Driver, NASCAR
Nextel Cup

The pressure is clearly on.

Only five drivers are currently locked in — points leader Jimmie Johnson (qualified third), Jeff Gordon (ninth), Dale Earnhardt Jr. (14th), Tony Stewart (15th) and Matt Kenseth (16th).

Elliott Sadler, sixth in the points, only has to start the race to become eligible. He qualified 20th. Kurt Busch, who qualified 17th, simply has to finish 42nd or higher.

After that it will be a scramble under the lights on Richmond's 0.75-mile D-shaped oval, where the racing is usually rough, drivers are aggressive and frustrations are quick to boil over.

Finland defeats United States, 2-1

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — While Finland celebrated one of its biggest international victories, the United States lamented a couple of bad late bounces.

The World Cup of Hockey semifinal was so close, the roles could easily have been reversed. But the Finns got the final break — and a berth in the championship game.

Saku Koivu's unchallenged goal with 3:54 left lifted Finland to a 2-1 victory Friday night.

"The Finnish teams, usually they die," coach Raimo Summanen said. "This was a huge step for Finnish hockey. I'm really proud that we believed."

The U.S. team, which led 1-0 with 15 minutes remaining, was denied a chance to defend its 1996 World Cup title despite limiting Finland to 12 shots on goal.

"We knew what we were up against with their defensive style," said U.S. captain Chris Chelios, who probably played his last international game. "One bounce. ... We knew that's what it would come down to."

The Finns advanced to the title game Tuesday night in Toronto, where they will face either the Czech Republic or Canada — who play Saturday night in the other semifinal.

Finland has won only one major international title, the 1995 World Championships.

"We talked before the game that we would never have a chance like this again," Koivu said.

He and his teammates swarmed goalie Miikka Kiprusoff when the horn sounded, and the mob of blue jerseys slid back toward the boards to celebrate their trip to the final.

"It's going to be a big party there back home," Kiprusoff said.

Doug Weight's power-play goal on a pretty pass from Scott Gomez gave the United States and goalie Robert Esche the lead midway through the second period, but Kiprusoff kept Finland in it with another sound performance in goal.

Kiprusoff — whose Calgary Flames beat U.S. coach Ron Wilson's NHL team, the San Jose Sharks, in the Western Conference final last season — made 16 saves.

Esche stopped 10 shots.

"If I was to count the scoring chances, we probably had six and they might have had three over the course of the whole evening," Wilson said. "Kipper was there when he needed to be, but I don't think we tested him enough and I think that's a credit to their overall game plan to play solid defense and wait for us to make a mistake."

Esche called both goals flukes. Olli Jokinen knocked in a loose puck to tie it at 1 early in the third, snapping the Finns out of their slumber after they managed just seven shots on goal through two periods.

Teppo Numminen's shot glanced off two American defenders between the circles, and Jokinen turned around to find the puck right in front of him.

The second one was set up Ossi Vaananen — who sent the puck across the ice to Koivu, camped out at the right post. Both Esche and Koivu were convinced Vaananen was trying to shoot.

Koivu bobbled the puck twice but still had plenty of time to put an uncontested shot in as Brian Leetch and Tony Amonte arrived too late.

"We completely lost our coverage in our end," Wilson said. "Had a total breakdown."

Though disappointed by the outcome and sad to see Chelios go, the Americans were pleased with their performance in the tournament after losing their first two preliminary games.

"I really believe in my heart that we did everything we had to do," forward Bill Guerin said. "We played well. It just didn't work out."

Said Chelios: "It's been great playing with these guys. We certainly have nothing to be embarrassed about."

It could be a long time before the Americans play another game that counts, with a labor dispute threatening to wipe out a big chunk — if not all — of the NHL season.

"It's obviously disappointing when you're done, especially now," Gomez said. "Who knows when we'll be playing again."

Weir, Els take leads

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) — Mike Weir took the lead at the Canadian Open with a flawless round of 5-under 66.

After finishing his first nine holes in 40, new No. 1 Vijay Singh broke the Canadian Open record with a 28 on the front nine before adding a 66 in the second round.

Because of a 5-hour rain delay at the start of the tournament, about half the field was going to have to return Saturday morning to finish the second round.

Craig Barlow had a 69 and was at 6-under 142. Stewart Cink and Chris DiMarco, among seven Ryder Cup players in the Canadian Open, were at 3-under 139.

BROKEN ARROW, Okla. (AP) — Christina Kim shot a 6-under 65 and held a one-stroke lead over Annika Sorenstam and rookie Shi Hyun Ahn after the first round of the John Q. Hammons Hotel Classic. Sorenstam, playing for the first time in five weeks, and Ahn were one stroke in front of Reiley Rankin, another tour newcomer. Three golfers were tied at 68.

MAINEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Des Smyth and television analyst Gary McCord shot 7-under 65s to share the first-round lead at the Champions Tour's Kroger Classic.

Tom Kite, David Eger and Doug Tewell were at 6 under, and six players were two strokes off the pace.

CHEONAN, South Korea (AP) — Ernie Els shot a 3-under-par 69 and trailed leader Terry Pilkadaris of Australia by a stroke after two rounds of the Korean Open.

Els, ranked No. 3 in the world, had an eagle on the par-5 11th.

Pilkadaris shot a 69 to leave him at 139.

INZAI, Japan (AP) — Two-time U.S. Open champion Retief Goosen shot a 1-over 71 to fall seven strokes behind at the Suntory Open, while Australian Scott Laycock took a one-stroke lead with a 69.

Armstrong withdraws

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lance Armstrong withdrew from Sunday's street race in San Francisco because of tendinitis in his right knee.

Armstrong, who won his record sixth straight Tour de France title in July, had already arrived in San Francisco when his knee began bothering him enough that he knew he needed to rest it.

Make up games scheduled

CHICAGO (AP) — The Montreal Expos and Florida Marlins will play games Monday and Tuesday at the Chicago White Sox's stadium after the Marlins were forced to adjust their schedule for the second time this month because of a hurricane.

The Marlins had three games against the Cubs washed out by Hurricane Frances last weekend.

Tickets for the two games at U.S. Cellular Field are $15, with $5 from each ticket going to hurricane relief.

Furcal arrested, second DUI

ATLANTA (AP) — Braves shortstop Rafael Furcal was arrested on drunken driving, his second DUI arrest in four years.

The team planned no immediate disciplinary action. Manager Bobby Cox said his leadoff hitter could be back in the lineup Saturday.

Furcal was taken to the city jail after being arrested before dawn on Interstate 85, according to a police report. He was clocked at 88 mph in a 55 mph zone.

Vikings

The Cowboys' ground game, on the other hand, is a concern.

Veteran Eddie George managed only 51 yards on 24 preseason carries, and rookie Julius Jones has been practicing with bruised ribs.

That leaves a lot of responsibility to the 40-year-old arm of Vinny Testaverde.

who has reunited with his old coach, Parcells, and his favorite receiver, Keyshawn Johnson. The trio helped take the New York Jets to the AFC championship game two years removed from a 1-15 season in 1996.

"I'm a big advocate and supporter of Vinny, knowing that he can control and run an offense ... and have fun doing it," Johnson said. "I think for him, though, deeply he believes in '98 and '99 that we were the team that was supposed to be in the Super Bowl ... that he got cheated out of his opportunity to take a team all the way. I think he believes that this is his opportunity."

The Vikings aren't worried about the age thing.

"He can beat you if you let him," said E.J.

Henderson, who will make his first career start at middle linebacker. "We can't give him too much time or he'll pick us apart."

Testaverde is eager for his renaissance to begin. He hasn't started 16 games in a season since 2001.

"I like what I've seen throughout camp," he said. "I like the guys we have on this team. I think we can have an explosive offense."

Parcells is known for leading teams to big improvements in his second year, but that will be a tough order after last season's success.

"I don't think about expectations," he said. "I'm just trying to get my team in order and hope that we play good football sooner rather than later."

'I don't think about expectations. I'm just trying to get my team in order and hope that we play good football sooner rather than later.'

—Bill Parcells
Coach, Dallas Cowboys

That's what the Vikings found out last year after going 6-0. They lost seven of their last 10 and failed to make the playoffs.

"I think some confidence was lost and physically we got tired a little bit," Tice said. "I like where we're at right now as a team. I like where we're at as a coaching staff. And we'll have a good time."

You just hope to get off to a decent start if you can and things fall into place. It doesn't always happen that way."

Texans have health issues

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Texans, who went into the first week of the season almost entirely healthy, suddenly might be without their starting fullback in the opener. Moran Norris aggravated a left shoulder injury in practice

Thursday and was listed as questionable Friday, meaning coaches think he's 50-50 to play Sunday at home against the San Diego Chargers.

If Norris can't go, backup Jarrod Baxter will start.

Beef Record Service offers 2005 Black Books

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — The Beef Record Service (BRS) 2005 Black Book is an easy and convenient way to capture valuable performance and management data for your herd, and they're free to all producers.

This pocket-sized book combines all of a cattleman's necessary resources into one, easy-to-use tool, including a 2005 weekly calendar, calf information records, breeding records, gestation table, herd health and feeding records, plus much more.

"The BRS Black Book combines many of the management tools commonly used by producers to keep cowherd records," says Jim Shirley, vice president of industry relations for the American Angus Association. "It is easy to use, convenient, and an excellent way to record field data."

BRS, which is a program offered to commercial producers by the American Angus Association, provides a system to keep management and performance records on animals, regardless of breed composition. These records can be used as valuable decision-making tools to enhance ranchers' profitability.

Producers can submit information on their cowherd, including sire information, breeding records, calving and weaning data, and any additional performance or carcass data collected on their calves. For a minimal $3 fee per calf, this raw data is converted into more comparative numbers according to Standardized Performance Analysis (SPA) guidelines.

This information can help producers make selection decisions on their cowherd, while it supplies information to help market the calf progeny as high-valued steers and replacement heifers.

By using individual animal identification, including electronic ID or traditional tagging or ID methods, comprehensive report forms, and reports generated by the American Angus Association to evaluate and compare the data, cattle producers can characterize their commercial cowherds and have a higher-quality, more marketable product for their customer.

For more information visit www.beefrecords.com or contact the Association at (816) 383-5100.

To receive your free 2005 BRS Black Book, call the American Angus Association's commercial programs department at (816) 383-5100 or e-mail mpepple@angus.org.

United Way agency

Salvation Army: Dedicated caring for the community

This article is one in a series of articles of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 2004 "Community Matters" fund-raising campaign.

The Salvation Army, a United Way Agency, is committed to caring for this community in various and numerous ways including providing emergency financial assistance such as help with utility bills, rent and prescriptions. It provides clothing, personal needs kits and furniture to those who live below poverty.

A Community Thanksgiving meal is provided on Thanksgiving Day. Christmas Holiday relief is provided through the 'Christmas Cheer' and Angel Tree programs.

The facility at 701 S. Cuyler provides a haven for at-risk youth who cannot afford to be involved in social activities due to their financial situations at home. The youth programs include summer camps, karaoke sessions, puppet lessons and performing, gardening, crafts and meals proves to be fun as well as learning experiences.

Adult programs include camps, education, tutorial and spiritual guidance as well as some job training skills.

The Salvation Army also provides programs for the elderly. They visit nursing homes, and facilities that house low income adults. Programs for special holidays are also provided as well as a special camp. They visit shut-ins and take 'cheer bags' of food and new items to them as well as hot meals. This is done also on holidays as well as other times throughout the week.

Another way that The Salvation Army helps this community is that they provide an emergency canteen that can be at a disaster scene quickly.

"In the three years that I have been here," says Captain Patricia Steward, corps officer of the Salvation Army, "I have seen lives improved in several of the folks who come to us for help. Sometimes, I am so busy getting the job done, that I don't see those positive results until later down the road, but it just makes you feel so good and assured that you really made a difference in someone's once unbearable situation."

There are many situations and circumstances that people are facing when they come to The Salvation Army for help. The goal is to determine the true needs in order to utilize the funds as best as possible for each situation.

One particular family situation has been a young mother and father that have five children. They were on welfare, as their parents had been, and had a history of coming to us on a regular basis for assistance.

The children came to our youth programs and eventually the parents began volunteering in other activities at The Salvation Army. The father and mother both ended up getting part-time employment. Later on, the father discovered that he was pretty good at reading and some other skills.

He applied for various student grants to attend college. He now has two more years until he completes a nursing degree.

"That really gives you the greatest feeling," says Steward, "to see lives just blossom before your eyes!"

Captain Gary Steward, corps officer, says, "I enjoy being a part of this community and the other civic projects that go on. It is uplifting to see how these organizations all work together for the good of this community. It is such a blessing to be involved in the Children's Shopping Tour that is provided by the Kiwanis and Optimist Clubs. Just to see all those happy children, many of whom come through our doors, getting a chance to some normal shopping experiences. Also, to sit down and enjoy the fellowship at the VFW, Rotary Club and Rodeo Association here in Pampa, are just awesome!"

Steward also says, "Each individual who comes through our doors is seen for their individual uniqueness. After all, that is what our community is made up of — people. By helping the individual's needs is how we at The Salvation Army help people have a chance for relief from their desperate situations. Meeting individual needs at the social service office or through our programs we provide is how The Salvation Army cares for this community."

Herndon, Goodson take vows in First Assembly of Pampa

On June 26, Heather Dawn Herndon, daughter of Rodney and Jennifer Herndon of Nichols, S.C., and of Lavon and Dewayne Bogle of Pampa, and Keenan Mark Goodson, son of Rodney and Debbie Goodson of Pampa, were wed in First Assembly of God Church in Pampa with Leland Lewis, of the church, officiating.

The bride's maid of honor was Kelly Davis of Amarillo. Joining in the ceremony were the following bridal attendants: Mary Rodriguez of Amarillo and Chelsea Anderson of Pampa, both cousins of the bride, and Jessica Keller of Pampa. The flower girl was Emily Herndon, sister of the bride of Nichols. Standing up as best man was brother of the groom, Johnny Goodson of Pampa. The groomsmen were Jonathan Johnson of Borger, Jeremy Herndon, brother of the bride of Nichols, and Erik Keller of Pampa.

The ringer bearer was Ryley Herndon, brother of the bride of Nichols.

The ushers were Jeff Bogle, uncle of the bride of Haskell, Michael Moore of Pampa, Patricia Hathcock of Lubbock and Wayne Bryan of Amarillo. The candle-lighters were Moore and Brad Barnes of Lubbock.

Sonya Voyles and Jessica Keller of Pampa were guest book attendants. Vocalists Mary Rodriguez of Amarillo and Russell Brister of Lubbock, both cousins of the bride, provided music.

A reception was held following the service at the church with Ruth Bryan of Shamrock, Dianne Pike, aunt of the bride of Haskell, and Cindy Griffith of Pampa serving the guests.

The bride holds an associates of arts and science degree from Frank Phillips College and is scheduled to graduate with a bachelor of arts degree from Texas Tech University in December.

The groom is attending classes to complete his EMT certification.

The couple honeymooned in Nassau, Bahamas.

Maegan Nicole Dyer and Richard William Conner

On July 10, Maegan Nicole Dyer of Plainview and Richard William Conner of Pampa were united in marriage at First Christian Church in Pampa. Father of the groom Phill Conner, of Pampa, presided over the ceremony.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Chelsea Dyer of Pampa. The bridesmaids were Melissa Lawrence and Rachel Soto, sister of the groom, both of Pampa. Karson Parnell served as flower girl.

Standing up as best man was A.J. Swope of Canyon. The groomsmen were Jordan McClain of Amarillo and Ryan Conner, brother of the groom of Pampa. The role of ring bearer was performed by Brandon Gage.

Ushers included Teddy Toleson and John Hahn of Amarillo, Jacob Potter, Kasey Presson, Zack Rogers and Chris Dallas, all of Pampa, and Bryan Yearwood of Lubbock.

Heather Ridenhour of Pampa registered the guests.

Music during the ceremony was provided by Nita Anderson, Jeff Gage, Stan Wardlow and Adam Heare.

A reception was held following the service in fellowship hall of the church with Becky Potter and Cheryl Porter of Pampa, and Jennifer Riley and Samantha Stephens of Plainview serving the guests.

The bride, daughter of Sherri Dyer of Pampa and Perry Dyer and Steven Lusk, both of Amarillo, graduated from Pampa High School in 2001 and will graduate this coming December from Wayland Baptist University with a degree in elementary education.

The groom, son of Phill and Jennifer Conner of Pampa and Richard Williams of Skellytown, graduated from PHS in 2002 and is employed at Hastings Entertainment Superstore.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Galveston and intend to make their home in Plainview.

Newmans to celebrate wedding anniversary

On Sept. 15, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Newman of Pampa will observe their 25th wedding anniversary.

Though no reception is scheduled at this time, the couple is planning a trip to Las Vegas, Nev., to celebrate.

Norman Newman and Brenda Annis, Pampa residents for the past 25 years, were wed Sept. 15, 1979, at Skellytown. Mr. Newman has, for 26 years, been employed with Halliburton.

Mrs. Newman is a homemaker.

Children of the couple are Tabitha and Jeremy Winkler, Kimberly Newman, Camilla Newman and Carla Newman, all of Pampa. They have six grandchildren.

Talent show in offing at Fritch city park

Carl Laughery, Howdy Neighbor Day talent show director, is currently seeking talented and/or aspiring entertainers for this year's show set for 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 18 during the 45th annual Fritch-Lake Meredith Fest. The day's activities will kick-off with a parade at 10 a.m. Other scheduled events include a classic car show, an antique tractor show, a crafters mall, a medieval exhibition, food, games and entertainment in Fritch City Park. Laughery says he is taking talent show entries in three separate age divisions - 4-9 year olds, 10-15 year olds and 16 year olds and up. "Persons who participate in the talent show will have an opportunity to get noticed by the public," Laughery said. See SHOW, Page 7-B

BIT sets stage for new season for 2004-2005

CANYON — Conformity, comedy, romance and a fond farewell will fill the stage during the Branding Iron Theatre's (BIT) 45th season at West Texas A&M University. This year's theatre season, billed as "Crossroads in Time," features a full calendar with three different plays and the bonus of a special farewell salute to the BIT before it moves to the new Fine Arts Complex in 2005. The BIT opens its season Oct. 6-9 with A.R. Gurney's "The Old Boy." Perry Crafton, assistant professor of theatre, will direct this strong, clever tale about Sam and his struggle with memories, uncertainties and questions after a friend's suicide. The play contains strong adult language and subject matter and is not recommended for children. Performances for "The Old Boy" are set for 7:30 p.m. Oct. 6-9. The production will be the University's entry in the American College Theatre Festival Oct. 20-23 at Texas A&M-Commerce. "The Old Boy" will compete against plays by at least seven other schools at the festival for a chance to compete at the regional level in February. The BIT season will continue in November with the production of Moliere's The Hypochondriac. This production tells the hilarious story of Argan and his quest for affection, loyalty and respect. Royal Brantley, professor of theatre and head of the Department of Art, Communication and Theatre, will direct. The play will run Nov. 11-13 and Nov. 18-20 at 7:30 p.m. in the BIT. The "Two Gentlemen of Verona," a comedy by William Shakespeare, will run at 7:30 p.m. March 2-5 and at 3 p.m. March 6. This play explores the bonds of friendship when tested by romantic rivalry when the two characters, Valentine and Proteus, fall for the same girl. Crafton will direct. The 45th season will close out with "A Farewell Salute to the Branding Iron Theatre" at 7:30 p.m. April 20-23. The four-day run will feature current and former WTAMU students as they celebrate the BIT through music, comedy and drama. Their performances will honor the rich tradition established by the BIT and set the stage for the University's new theatre with the opening of the Fine Arts Complex in 2005. Brantley will direct, and Dr. Joe Ella Cansler, associate professor of voice, will provide the musical direction.

Stem cell lines could aid in genetic disease research

CHICAGO (AP) — Scientists at a private Chicago fertility clinic say they have isolated 12 new stem cell lines from genetically flawed human embryos — an advance that could help research into cures for devastating inherited diseases.

The cell colonies came from unused embryos donated by couples who underwent prenatal genetic screening at Reproductive Genetics Institute, clinic president Yuri Verlinsky said recently.

The embryos had gene mutations for two forms of muscular dystrophy, certain blood diseases and a cause of mental retardation — seven diseases in all.

Because of stem cells' unique properties, isolating and studying the cells from those embryos could help researchers better understand genetic diseases and develop new treatments or cures, experts said.

While dozens of other stem cell lines have been developed from human embryos, these are the first to be created from embryos with specific diseases, said Dr. Leonard Zon, president of the International Society for Stem Cell Research.

"This is a significant advance for the field," said Zon, a stem cell researcher at Boston's Children's Hospital. "We may learn a lot about the biology of basic diseases by having those lines available."

The colonies are among 50 new stem cell lines isolated by clinic researchers, said Verlinsky, who will present details at the society's annual meeting in Boston this week. At least two other groups also plan to report that they have created new stem cell lines from disease-afflicted human embryos, Zon said.

Verlinsky said he will make the colonies his lab created available to other scientists doing privately funded research.

Stem cells have the capacity to produce cells for virtually all body tissues and organs, and they can make copies of themselves indefinitely.

Scientists believe they could someday be used to treat or cure diseases and repair the body.

They can be extracted from very early human embryos, but their use in research is controversial because the extraction procedure kills the embryo.

Because of that, President Bush in 2001 restricted federal research funding to experiments involving only the 78 cell lines already in existence at the time.

Northwestern University ethicist Laurie Zoloth said using genetically defective embryos does not erase the moral objections some groups have raised about embryonic stem cell research.

Verlinsky said his research makes good use of embryos that would otherwise be discarded.

"We feel that to throw away the embryo that can give us a lot of good information is not a good idea," he said.

He said the new stem cell lines have mutations for two forms of muscular dystrophy that affect children and adults, thalassemia, Fanconi anemia, Fragile X syndrome, Marfan syndrome, and a type of neurofibromatosis.

Virtual reality, of sorts, for doctors in training

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — The days of new doctors practicing on real patients may be numbered.

Today, many doctors in training are making their first diagnoses on plastic, wires and computer circuits rather than flesh and blood. These virtual patients come in different shapes and sizes, much like the real ones.

Some are almost lifelike mannequins with plastic ears and hair, veins that can be injected, eyes that can move and interchangeable genitals. They can't be hurt or killed, even though they have a pulse, a beating heart and lungs that breathe. The most sophisticated can be programmed to simulate every imaginable medical crisis and then respond as a doctor works on the "patient."

Other, virtual reality-type simulators combine video or computer images with tactile feedback. Trainees insert needles or surgical tools into a plastic box whose innards give the sensation of cutting flesh or pushing through body parts such as the throat or colon. A video screen shows what a doctor would watch during the procedure, such as ultrasound images.

"Do I think this is a wave of the future? No question," said Dr. Stephen Miller of the American Board of Medical Specialties, which oversees certification for medical specialists. "This is a major goal of the medical education and evaluation system."

The top systems are pricey but so realistic that experts predict they'll become standard for training new doctors and for testing experienced ones who soon will face tougher recertification.

The technology is barely 10 years old, and already simulators are widely used for training U.S. military medics and nurses and medical technicians at many community colleges. At least half of the nation's 120 medical schools already use simulators such as Medical Education Technologies Inc.'s Human Patient Simulator mannequin and Laerdal Medical's SimMan to teach students and residents, or graduates completing training at hospitals.

"The mannequin is excellent," said Dr. Eric Chang, a second-year surgical resident who has trained in the simulation center at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in New Brunswick. "This kind of buffs you up in terms of encountering certain problems... You have to react to what's happening" and select the right treatment.

Cynthia Yuan, a second-year resident in anesthesia, said the mannequin "helps them to think when they're in a real situation. I think they should do more of this."

Medical school professors say simulators help their students and residents build confidence and make mistakes.

"It's an extraordinary advantage," said Dr. Adam I. Levine, director of the anesthesiology residency program at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York. "If you have to think through the problem yourself and get your answer, you learn it better."

Students sometimes get so caught up in a training scenario that they are upset if a monitor shows the patient has died. One anesthesiology resident who had sedated a "patient" for surgery, then couldn't insert a breathing tube, frantically resorted to mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, Levine recalled.

"They just were so desperate to come up with a way to get oxygen to this patient ... who was dying in front of them," Levine said.

Dr. Jeffrey S. Hammond, professor of surgery at Robert Wood Johnson, said advanced simulators offer better surgery practice than cadavers, pigs or dogs.

"I think every school is ultimately going to ... determine this is one of the more effective and cost-effective ways to train students," said Hammond, who is working with colleagues at the American College of Surgeons on national standards for simulator centers.

He notes two studies have shown that surgical residents trained on simulators made fewer errors and operated more quickly than those who got the traditional "See one, do one, teach one" training, in which residents observe experienced doctors, do procedures under supervision and then independently, and later train others.

A six-month study just released by Immersion Medical, a top maker of virtual reality patient simulators, shows its Accutouch simulators can pay for themselves in less than six months because trainees can do procedures quicker and make fewer errors.

The simulators are expensive.

Lawsuit damage limits benefit Texas hospitals, survey says

DALLAS (AP) — Many hospitals have seen a sharp drop in malpractice lawsuits and insurance premiums since voters last year allowed limits on medical malpractice damages, according to a recent survey.

The Texas Hospital Association said hospitals that answered the survey averaged 160 lawsuits a month from mid-2002 to mid-2003. In the 10 months after the caps went into effect last Sept. 1, they averaged 54 lawsuits a month, the trade group said.

Malpractice liability premiums fell an average 8 percent for fiscal 2004 and 17 percent for fiscal 2005, the association said.

The Legislature last year approved limits on non-economic damages such as pain, and suffering in medical-malpractice lawsuits. The caps took effect Sept. 1 of last year.

Two weeks after the limits went into effect, voters narrowly approved Proposition 12, which changed the state constitution to give the Legislature power to set the caps.

Supporters said the ballot measure was needed to protect the caps from legal challenges.

The limits haven't yet reduced premiums for many doctors even though plaintiffs' lawyers say they can no longer afford to take injured patients' cases, but the caps have been a boon for hospitals. The Dallas Morning News reported in recent editions.

Christus Health System, a Catholic not-for-profit system, expects to save $21 million on liability insurance this year in the 48 Texas hospitals and facilities it owns or manages.

"The primary factor in that is tort reform," Randy Finley, Christus' director of risk management, told the newspaper. "It's not the only factor, but it's the primary factor."

The limits apply to intangibles such as damages for mental anguish, pain and suffering or loss of companionship.

The maximum is $250,000 for any single person or facility, although an award can go as high as $750,000 in some cases.

Major players, primarily hospitals that self-insure for the first $10 million or more in liability losses, then use "excess insurance carriers" for larger losses, are reporting big savings.

Hospital giant HCA Inc. projects that its liability costs will be down $28 million annually, and it's cutting the liability insurance premi-30 minutes saved this mama.

"I wasn't looking forward to it, but it's something you do for yourself and your family. Now I have peace of mind, and I'm thankful I had that mammogram."

Pampa Regional Medical Center believes the health of this area's women is important. We have invested in state-of-the-art mammography.

The Lorad, because early detection of breast cancer discovered through a 30 minute mammography procedure, is 98% survivable.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My letter concerns a letter in your column. It was written by a woman who had suffered a heart attack and was driven to the hospital by her husband.

I have been a paramedic for 18 years. It is important your readers understand that attempting to drive yourself or a loved one to a hospital is a bad idea. The 911 emergency number was put in place to help the sick and injured in a timely manner. Most citizens are not aware of the capabilities of their local emergency medical services agencies.

Today, paramedics bring the emergency room to the patient's home. We are capable of treating chest pain and, in many cases, of diagnosing a heart attack in the patient's living room. This information is relayed directly to the emergency room, where a doctor can assemble a cardiac catheterization team to promptly treat the heart attack when the patient arrives. (Not every hospital can provide cardiac catheterization, so we offer the patient a choice to go directly to a properly equipped facility.) In addition, we administer medications immediately.

The biggest delay in receiving prompt care is delay in calling 911, due to denial. "Time is muscle" is our saying. The more time you waste, the more heart muscle is damaged. The average person driving someone to a hospital cannot treat the person, and also tends to speed and drive in an unsafe manner. Please inform your readers, Abby.

PAUL TOSCINO, WATERVLIET, N.Y.

DEAR PAUL: Thank you for the valuable reminder that 911 is for life-threatening emergencies, and the expertise of the technicians can mean the difference between life and death.

DEAR ABBY: My 3-year-old daughter was recently invited to a birthday party for two of her classmates (twins). The party is scheduled for a weeknight from 6 to 8:30 p.m. -- the time I have set for bath time, story time and lights out at 8 p.m.

Would I be rude and insensitive if I do not permit my daughter to attend? I don't want to offend the mother, but I don't want to rev my child up with sugary party snacks and activities right before a late bedtime.

— CONFUSED IN TEXAS

DEAR CONFUSED: Rude and insensitive? No. Rigid? Yes. I'm willing to bet that the mother of the twins is a working woman, and the party would be earlier if it was possible. I see no harm in bending the rules or flexing your daughter's schedule once in a while. Of course, you will be going with your daughter to the party, so monitoring what she eats should be a cinch. Feeding your daughter a healthy meal before the party should ensure that she won't overdose on sugar. I say, let her go.

DEAR ABBY: When my 12-year-old daughter spends the night somewhere other than home, I don't sleep well. When she goes away to camp for a week, I hardly sleep at all. I am not up all night pacing the floor, worrying about her -- I just can't sleep.

My sister tells me that this is not normal. Am I abnormal for losing sleep when my daughter is away?

SLEEPLESS NEAR SEATTLE

DEAR SLEEPLESS: No, you are not abnormal. You are a vigilant parent. Many parents cannot sleep unless they know their children are safe in their own beds and under their own roof.

RRC sets Texas gas production allowables for September

AUSTIN — The Texas Railroad Commission recently set September 2004 natural gas production allowables for prorated fields in the state to meet market demand of 24,486,464 Mcf (thousand cubic feet). For these fields, the September 2004 allowable represents a decrease of 4,774,498 Mcf when compared to actual production of 29,260,962 Mcf in September 2003. In setting the September 2004 allowable, the Commission used historical production figures from September 2003 and producer forecasts for the September 2004 demand, and then adjusted the figures to account for such factors as well capability, new wells in a field, etc.

Texas natural gas storage reported by the Commission for July 2004 is 285,439,655 Mcf compared to 229,275,626 Mcf in July 2003. The August 2004 gas storage estimate is 289,155,344 Mcf.

Gas well gas from prorated fields accounts for seven percent of total gas well production in Texas.

Preliminary statewide production reported for June 2004 is 29,528,836 barrels of crude oil and 375,029,709 Mcf of gas well gas.

The Commission's estimated final production for this month can be obtained by multiplying these preliminary production totals by a production adjustment factor of 1.0445 for crude oil and 1.1260 for gas well gas. (These production totals do not include casinghead gas or condensate.)

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Sept. 12, 2004:

The strength of your personality emerges only after you are sure of your positions and thoughts. Often you will mull over ideas, double-check facts and do your homework before presenting your views. You will enjoy yourself alone and do activities that relax you. You might become interested in yoga or decide to get some therapy. Your very practical approach will make you a lot of money in the winter. Self-expression is enhanced toward the end of your birthday. Trust that you'll ask the right questions. You grasp concepts even more easily than before. If you are single, you easily could find yourself in a "secret" relationship or with someone who's emotionally unavailable. If you are attached, your bond will grow because of special time you spend together. LEO can heal you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Use the daylight hours to kick up your heels and put the finishing touches on your weekend. Later on, your mind drifts to Monday and the most efficient way to handle your work. Brainstorm with someone who always has a different perspective. Tonight: Early to bed. This Week: Plunge into work as if there is no tomorrow. When distraction appears midweek, you'll be able to take some time off.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Play the day low-key with family or close to your home. You might have a fall cleaning project on tap. Get as much done as possible. When the opportunity knocks, you let loose. You might think about taking tomorrow off. Tonight: Make up for lost time.

This Week: Ever-playful, you have a difficult time getting into a serious mood. Reality and responsibility hit midweek. Ouch!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

You have a way of drawing people out. Use this gift with neighbors, family or maybe a quiet friend. Learn to keep your own counsel. What is said privately should stay that way. Tonight: Head on home; make it an early night.

This Week: Work from home if you can. Otherwise, make your office more homey if possible. Your friskiness emerges on Wednesday.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Deal with finances. Stick to a new budget. You don't need to get extravagant. Show your expertise in shopping or doing price-comparison. Meet a friend for a late lunch. Chat away. Tonight: Happy out. This Week: You tell it like it is, whether others want to hear it or not. Choosing your words might draw a different response.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

You are in prime time in your life. No one can or will stop you. Evaluate what could be done to perk up someone in your environment who might be a bit down. You have the skills. Tonight: Your treat. This Week: Making money remains a primary goal until Wednesday, when you flake out a bit. The Lion is so social.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Get extra rest today. If you want to curl up with a book, do so. If you want to take a nap, allow yourself this luxury. By late evening, and certainly tomorrow, you will need every ounce of energy possible. Tonight: Nap and then decide. This Week: You blow into the week a force not to be stopped. It might be hard to maintain that attitude when Thursday comes around.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Your happiness extends to your friends. You seem to be able to suggest activities and fun ideas that everyone grabs onto. The wild times emanate from and surround you. Let loose and be that ever-sociable Libra. Tonight: Slow down. This Week: You drag into Monday, but are flying by Wednesday, when the Moon gives you extra power and strength.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

You take the lead, whether it is bringing friends together, a family dinner or just hanging out. Others notice you. You have a rare opportunity to meet new people as well as enjoy your tried-and-true pals. Tonight: So what if tomorrow is Monday? This Week: You smile, and others say

"yes," at least on Monday and Tuesday. Use these days well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Take off for a day excursion, should it be a picnic or a visit to a favorite town that has a flea market. You relax, and those around you do as well. Drift and forget problems. Don't feel that you have to make this an early night. Give yourself the luxury of leaving time behind you. Tonight: Come in when you want.

This Week: Assume the helm of the ship, and you will sail a clear course, especially after Tuesday.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Others make an attempt to please you. Decide who you want to be with and when. You could be developing a stronger relationship with your sweetie or a dear friend. Share more of yourself. Don't hold back. Tonight: Daydreaming time. This Week: Check out facts Monday and Tuesday. Schedule a class. Then take action.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Follow the moment and relish your extreme popularity. You have a good time wherever you are. Be sensitive to a special person in your life who could become jealous out of the blue. Express your generosity and friendship. Tonight: Spend some private time. This Week: Schedule special time with key people, and you'll make them feel like queens or kings for the day.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Complete a long-term project and/or spend the day with a loved one or child. Sharing a hobby, doing crossword puzzles or maybe playing a game of cards relaxes both of you. Laugh and lose the competitiveness. Tonight: See what you want to do. Play it by ear. This Week: Others hold the cards, but if you play yours well, everyone will gain. Lie back, please.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, Sept. 13, 2004:

You'll have an eventful year, whether you want it or not. Those around you grow in unexpected ways, transforming right in front of you. Some of you might become insecure, while others become confused. What you need to do is give yourself, and others, space to process and grow. Sometimes you worry until the wee hours. Learn meditation techniques or exercise to help your innate nervous reactions. Often, we create what we fear most. Don't do that! If you are single, you'll have many choices, as you are magnetic and interesting. You might not want to settle down just yet, but you will have a good time. If you are attached, your relationship will flourish if you maintain a high level of respect and acceptance of your differences. VIRGO empathizes with you.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Dig into work before hassles invade your thoughts and projects. You might find that others are most uncooperative. If you want get anything done, close down and insulate yourself. Refuse to make judgments or think of anything except the task at hand. Tonight: Put your feet up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Friends surprise you with their choices and decisions. Just when you decided you knew someone well, you discover otherwise. So much happens that you might feel like a jack-in-the-box, popping up each time to a new situation. Tonight: Dance away stress.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

You might want to play hide-and-seek, but in your case, you will need to hide and not be found. Pressure comes from all directions. Authority figures act up in strange ways, yet your home needs to be your major concern. Check out facts. Misinformation flows everywhere. Tonight: Play ostrich.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Work with a change of course, new information and/or a sudden realization. Your ability to flex and put mixed facts together comes forward and saves the day. Verify as much as you can. Conversations and meetings are a bit off. Tonight: Swap today's war stories with others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Managing your funds might be as difficult as handling the national deficit right now. You might be well-advised to pull back and do as little as possible in this department. Make sure all insurance policies are in tact and as you want them. Tonight: Go over your budget.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You might be as clear as a bell, but someone else might have a difficult time hearing you. If you pull back, you will notice, that confusion and misunderstandings run rampant. It's not you. Others act and speak in odd ways. Tonight: Others want to listen. Just ask.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Know when to duck. Others are difficult, and you might not be a piece of cake either. Review recent statements and attempt to make sense of a puzzle or issue in your life. Be an observer. Be a listener. Say little. Tonight: Cocoon. Don't be available!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Much drops in your lap in an unanticipated manner. You express unusual ingenuity and creativity while others continue to get stuck. Use your ability to help everyone, including yourself! Tonight: Add more spice to a relationship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Read Gemini, and you'll understand a lot more about your day. A boss might be even more unpredictable than normal. You have no choice but to handle this person. On the other side, rapid switches and mood changes mark your behavior as well as that of close associates. Tonight: Work as late as need be.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

What you see, others don't. You could try to explain, but that might not help at all. You have difficulty finding the right words or the time to talk. Detach, and soon you might see a situation as humorous. Tonight: Hop on the computer or rent a movie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Deal with others directly, and you'll get the kind of results you want. You'll get the wild card financially. You could win the lottery or find your pockets empty. Use your good sense as you handle various conversations. Tonight: Clearly, another doesn't share your perspective.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Your unpredictability charges others with nervous energy or might cause someone to pull away. Recognize what you need to do to keep key people relaxed. In the long run, you will build better relationships. Tonight: Beam in what you want.
