SPANISH AND CHINESE FIGHT DESPERATELY

Both the Chinese and the Spanish government armies fought with their backs to the wall today in battles that may prove decisive in the war of East and West.

Spanish insurgent commanders declared they had seized dominating positions at Lerida, "gateway" to Barcelona, the government's seat and hub of its resistance.

Government forces, however, had prepared a new defensive line 40 miles to the east on which to fall back if their hold on Lerida, 80 miles from Barcelona, is broken.

Border reports told of a steady stream of soldiers and civilians fleeing to France from Spanish government territory. One thousand troops and 2,000 civilians crossed the frontier yesterday.

Chinese desperately defended the little city of Taierschang, where fierce street fighting has continued for eight days with all the modern weapons of war—artillery, aviation, machine-guns and grenades—and with primitive knives and broad-swords.

Taierschang in Shantung province, may be the key to Japan's drive south toward the vital East-West Lanchow railway.

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Federal Communications Commissioner Paul A. Walker informed Congress today that the Bell Telephone company could reduce its rates 25 percent by eliminating "unnecessarily high costs."

These costs, Walker said in a proposed report on the telephone investigation directed by the commission, result from manufacturing, engineering, depreciation, book-keeping and other policies for which the American Telephone and Telegraph company is responsible.

The A. T. and T., he added, has "complete control" of the Bell system, and the latter includes 90 percent or more of the telephone industry.

Walker recommended that the Federal Communications Commission be given jurisdiction to "review, approve or disapprove all Bell system policies and practices promulgated by the central management group of the American company."

Chairman Frank R. McIninch said Walker's findings did not constitute a commission report, but was submitted to the commission as the basis for a full report which the commission will later submit to Congress.

Fending delivery of the full commission report to the capitol, Walker's findings were submitted to the Senate Commerce and the House Interstate Commerce committees for study.

Walker said his report "will, in my opinion, make for effective and progressive regulation of the telephone industry."

Another commissioner, T. A. M. Craven, said he had been unable to agree with some of Walker's recommendations but added that the report "indicates the necessity for an improvement."

From the subscriber's point of view, the chief conclusions Walker reached in the $1,500,000 commission investigation of the A. T. and T. and its affiliates included:

Costs of protection from competition have been assessed against customers rather than stockholders.

Investment has been suppressed and installation of superior equipment delayed.

47 SCOUTERS ATTEND MEET

Men of Carson county are anxious to learn about the Boy Scout movement. So interested are they that 47 gathered in White Deer last night for the second of a series of meetings being conducted by Executive Fred Roberts.

Groom led in attendance last night with 19 men present. Panhandle was second with 11. White Deer next with nine and Skellytown close behind with eight.

The school is not to develop scoutmasters but to enlighten men regarding the Boy Scout program. In order to make the school more real, the men are grouped in patrols similar to the patrols in Boy Scout troops with leaders, assistant leaders, scribes and all. Executive Roberts acts as senior patrol leader, and the Rev. A. A. Boeding of Groom as scribe.

Leaders are Dr. G. P. Crout of the Panther's, Sam Lanning of the Host Owls, Ralph McClure of the Eagles, Paul Morrow of the Wolves, Curtis Gilliland of the Crows.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC testified the measure would make funds available for five, ten or fifteen year loans to business which commercial banks might not undertake.

The bill was passed before many Senators knew what was happening.

WAR GAMES IN HAWAII COST ELEVEN LIVES

HONOLULU, April 1 (AP)—The United States navy today banned night flying in the vicinity of the Hawaiian Islands indefinitely as a result of a series of tragedies during recent mid-Pacific war games which cost 11 lives.

Despite the fatalities and the loss of three $100,000 planes, naval officials said the war games demonstrated the air fleet was an invaluable arm of Hawaii's defenses.

Six of the victims were missing in their planes which dropped out of a six-plane formation during scouting duty Wednesday and never was seen again. Bodies of three other naval fliers were recovered from the wreckage of a bombing plane which crashed off Oahu Island in a rain squall yesterday.

Two more bodies were believed in the submerged fuselage. The crew of the third plane, forced down and sunk at sea earlier in the maneuvers, was rescued by a passing ship.

All of the ill-fated planes were from Pearl Harbor units which naval officials said rendered invaluable service in relaying information about the approach of a supposedly hostile fleet bent on capturing the Hawaiian Islands.

Despite the tragedies—six other planes were forced down at sea without damage—a high navy official said the aircraft "performed wonderful services" in scouting thousands of miles of ocean in all directions from here.

Whether the invading fleet was able to capture the United States' mid-Pacific frontier remained an official secret as officers turned to planning the next phase of the annual maneuvers, starting Monday after three days of rest from two weeks of strenuous war games.

Sixty-five surface vessels and 240 aircraft engaged in a gigantic search for the missing bomber were called in last night after all hope had been abandoned for the crew.

Those given up for dead were Lieut. Charles Signer, Aviation Cadet R. J. Iarrubino, Aviation Machinist's Mates P. B. Panocest and J. A. Bingham, and Radioman G. T. Williamson and C. R. Oulundson.

The bodies of Lieut. L. O. Crane, Aviation Pilot B. I. Windham and Radioman V. A. Luciano were recovered from the sunken bomber.

The bodies of Aviation Cadet Wilbur H. Lear and Radioman Garland H. O'Neal were believed trapped in the wreckage.

What Is Your Car Number?

Pampans rated 50 per cent in a "know your license number" test made this morning of a group of 14 persons who have secured 1938 automobile licenses.

However, of the seven who could give their license number, only three gave the numbers instantly. Justice of the Peace Charles I. Hughes had no trouble in telling his number, nor did Gray County Tax Assessor-Collector F. E. Leech, who also claims to know his license number for the past three years.

County Auditor R. C. Wilson could tell his number, but had to pause briefly before he could do so.

J. C. Dingwall, Texas highway department resident engineer, also gave a split-second pause before calling his number, and said that were it not necessary for him to use that number on several forms daily, he probably wouldn't have known.

Harry Hoare, sports editor of The News, could give his number, but only after a musing glance at the ceiling and a few seconds pause.

THOMPSON WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN ON APRIL 12

AUSTIN, April 1 (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson, State Railroad Commissioner and Chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, announced today he would open his speaking campaign for Governor at Waco Tuesday night, April 12.

Thompson said he would complete his platform next week. It is expected to stress an "economy and no tax program" unless more revenue is needed for social security activities in which event he will urge a luxury tax or higher levies on natural resources.

Dr. John T. Harrington of Waco, long-time Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Baylor University, will be in charge of the Thompson meeting.

The jewelry was taken in a search of Martin's home after a nephew with a police record was slain in Florida.

Martin, in a federal court petition asking return of the jewelry, set forth that he acquired much of the jewelry by foreclosure, by purchase and by gift. U. S. Judge W. T. Davidson cited Frank Blake, chief federal bureau of investigation agent here, to appear April 4 to show cause why the jewelry should not be returned to Martin.

TEMPERATURES IN PAMPA

HIGHWAY WILL BE COMPLETED THIS MONTH

Work is expected to be completed this month on the laying of caliche on a 11.7 mile strip of Highway 152, connecting Pampa and Wheeler. Only 6,000 cubic yards of caliche, covering a distance of two miles on the road, remain to be laid.

The job is a WPA project and 130 men are employed. J. C. Dingwall, Texas highway department resident engineer, whose department is supervising the job, said he had not been informed as to any contract being let to hard surface the road.

On Highway 88, north of Clarendon 5,000 cubic yards of caliche have been laid on the south side of the Salt Fork of Red River, a distance of three-fourths of a mile. Grading work has been completed. A total of 110 men are employed.

North of Wheeler, on a 5.3 mile strip from the Wheeler-county line into Hemphill county, grading has been completed on U. S. Highway 83-Texas 4, and laying of caliche will probably start by the middle of next week. Eighteen men were at work on the project this week.

SOCIOLGISTS DISCUSS 'SAVING OF SOUTH'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 1 (AP)—Sociologists from over 20 states gathered here today for the third annual meeting of the Southern Sociological Society.

In an address prepared for delivery before the meeting today, U. S. Settlement Director W. W. Alexander said that "the salvation of the south" depends on efficient use of its land and federal aid.

Alexander declared the south was still "a slave to one cash crop—cotton."

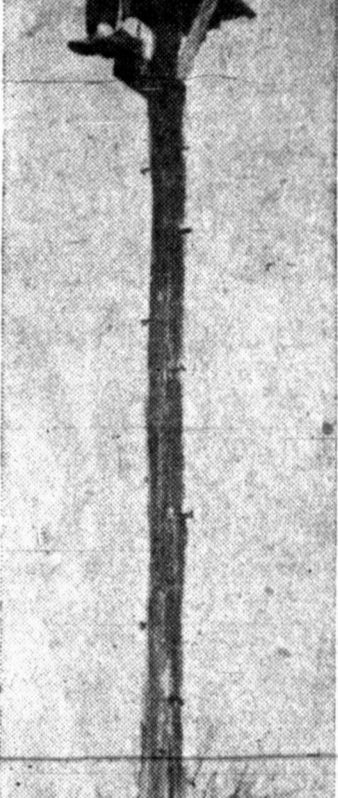

Consequently, he said, "the area presents a strange paradox—an agricultural region which must import a large part of its food. Since its cash income is low, even these imports do not provide an adequate diet."

It may not be long before the whole nation realizes that it would profit by the establishment of a decent standard of living and purchasing in the south and that this goal can be realized only by extensive federal aid.

FLOOD THREAT RISES IN TORNAO SECTION

(By The Associated Press) A flood threat arose today in southwestern Missouri while reconstruction crews tackled their big job in the rest of the mid-western sector where tornadoes killed 36 persons Wednesday and caused property losses approaching $2,000,000.

He is 50 years old and will marry soon, but won't let that stop his daily tooting.

MEXICAN OIL BUYERS FOUND

MEXICO CITY, April 1 (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas was understood today to have found prospective purchasers abroad for Mexico's rising stocks of oil taken from the $400,000,000 properties of expropriated American and British companies.

Bernard E. Smith, New York stock broker, and Francis W. Rickett, British promoter who negotiated a famous Ethiopian oil contract, have conferred with the president and other high Mexican officials.

Persons in the oil industry said it was understood they had reached an agreement "in principle" to purchase government oil at an extremely low figure for resale in the world market. Neither would comment on their activities here.

Smith this morning conferred with Gustavo Espinosa Mireles, whom Cardenas named General manager of the National Petroleum company, established to find foreign markets for Mexico's oil production.

Smith and Rickett made reservations for today's New York plane, but said he was "staying on for a few days."

YOUTH WANTS WORK, NOT TO BE SERVED, SAYS NYA DIRECTOR

DALLAS, April 1 (AP)—Refuting the idea that youth wants to be served, Garin Akridge, Atlanta, Ga., regional director of the National Youth Administration for the twelve southern states, said today no evidence of such a philosophy has been detected among the young people themselves.

HUGE FLAKES FILL AIR FOR ELEVEN HOURS

Pampans couldn't laugh it off as an April Fool's day joke as they awoke this morning to find the ground covered with snow. Snow began falling about 4 o'clock this morning, and was still falling at noon today, bringing the precipitation for the week up to 1.75 inches. Precipitation today was estimated at one-half inch. A 1.4-inch fell here Sunday night and Monday morning.

Snow was melting almost as rapidly as it fell, but it was estimated that at least five inches had fallen at noon, when the temperature was 29 degrees. At Berger this morning the temperature was freezing.

Driven by a brisk east wind, the large snowflakes melted and made Pampa streets slippery, but no accidents had been reported up to noon today.

The snowfall covered the entire Panhandle, snow being reported between Clovis, N. M., and Woodward, Okla., from Pampa to Clinton, Okla., and from Amarillo to Boise City, Okla.

PLATES CAN BE BOUGHT UNTIL LATE TONIGHT

Office of Gray county Tax Assessor-Collector F. E. Leech will be kept open late tonight to handle last minute applications for registration of motor vehicles, Mr. Leech said this morning. The deadline for securing 1938 automobile licenses will be midnight tonight.

Receipts of the sale of automobile licenses totaled $10,500 yesterday, as Gray county rushed to pay fees. As yesterday was also the regular day for the weekly driver's license examinations, the number of persons coming to the courthouse was greatly increased.

To avoid confusion, Texas Highway Patrolmen J. L. Pingenot Jr. and Norvell Redwine were permitted to use the office of Justice of the Peace E. F. Young for the tests, instead of their customary space in the office of the tax collector. Mr. Leech said yesterday was the busiest day the highway patrolmen had had in Pampa since the first tests were given here.

Mr. Leech said he did not know the exact number of automobile license plates issued but that the information would be contained in his report Monday.

Chinese Book to Be Reviewed for AAUW Monday

"The best book on China is the English language" is what Nathaniel Peffer says in "The Saturday Review" about "The Importance of Living" by Lin Yutang. It is to be reviewed for the A. A. U. W. on Monday evening, April 4, in the city club rooms at 8 o'clock. It is recommended for all those who want a true and sensitively perceived picture of China.

The book is not a translation, but is written in English by Dr. Yutang, who is a leading figure in the Chinese literary world. It is known as a "personal guide to enjoyment" of life, and offers Americans the Chinese idea on life learned from the experience of thirty centuries of national and personal struggles.

Many reviewers refer to it as "A beautiful book," because it is so sensitively perceived. Dr. Yutang is also the author of "My Country and My People" and of various articles which have appeared in Harper's Bazaar and other monthly periodicals.

Pampa Group Will Be Host to Young People of District

"The Flight to a Better Understanding with God" is the theme of the quarterly District Rally of the young people in the Clarendon district of the Methodist churches to be held Saturday evening and Sunday at the local First Methodist church.

Between 4 and 7 o'clock Saturday afternoon the groups will register here, and at 7 o'clock a covered dish supper will be served. This is to be followed with a 20-minute organ recital by the Rev. Joe Strother of Miami. Directed recreation will be held in the basement of the church following the recital.

On Sunday morning between 6:30 and 7:15 o'clock, the Rev. H. H. Bratcher of the McCullough-Harrah Methodist churches will conduct the morning watch service. Breakfast will be served from 7:15 to 8 o'clock in the basement of the church to the home and visiting young people.

The young people will present the morning devotional for the adult assembly from 9:45 until 10 o'clock. Sunday school for all young people will be taught by A. D. Patrick between 10 and 10:50 o'clock, and the group will attend church from 11 o'clock until 12 o'clock.

A consecration service at 2:30 o'clock will complete the District Rally.

Troop Four Girl Scouts Add New Members Recently

Four new members joined the Girl Scout troop number four at the regular weekly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the little house.

Mary Jean Hassa, Anna Mae Darling, Neta Fay Bezeley and Lois Shadox became Scouts at the meeting.

After hiking to the airport, the girls ate lunch there. Each was told to find and identify a rock before lunch was served to the groups of four.

On the way back to the little house, the girls observed the rocks and added several to their collection. The Scouts will identify all of the rocks at the next meeting.

The 28 girls were dismissed at the little house. Mrs. L. J. McCarty, leader of the troop, was assisted by Mrs. D. A. Caldwell, lieutenant, and Mrs. J. O. Marie, an assistant.

Stitch and Chatter Club Attends Show Following Luncheon

SEKELYTOWN, April 1—Members of the Stitch and Chatter club met at the home of Mrs. Buddy Childress where they joined in a group to go to Pampa for lunch and to attend the theater.

Attendees were Meses. Herman Fowler, Paul Thurman, Slim Cronwell, Chester Johnson, J. B. Gallaher, Ray Chastain, Emil Stueben, Frank Kirby, Miss Dorothy Cloe Fowler, and the hostess.

Picnic Supper Date, To Be Announced Later by Church

Because of the weather conditions the picnic supper which was planned for this evening by the McCullough-Harrah Methodist church has been postponed indefinitely.

The date for the event, which was to have been held at the Harrah chapel, will be announced later.

Two Complimented At Recent Party

A party honoring Beverly Ann Dale, age three, and Jerry Dale, age six, was given at the home of their parents at the Magnolia camp.

Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served to the group of little friends attending. Banners were presented to each guest as favors.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Scott Gray and Mrs. Tommie Dobbins.

Men's Brotherhood Has Monthly Dinner

Thirty-six men attended the regular monthly Brotherhood dinner given Wednesday evening at the First Presbyterian church.

The Rev. Hubert Bratcher of the McCullough - Harrah Methodist church was the guest speaker for the evening. Accordion selections were presented by Brent Blomkvist Jr.

Games were played by the men following the program.

Mrs. Hunkapillar Nominated Again For P-TA President

CHILDRESS, April 1—Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar was nominated by the committee for re-election as president of the Eighth District Parent-Teacher association at the conference here today. Balloting ended at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Eighth District association, embracing 26 Panhandle counties, was to elect officers for the new year at the concluding session of their two-day conference here. The 1939 conference site also is to be decided.

CHILDRESS, April 1—(AP)—The Eighth District Parent-Teacher Association, embracing 26 Panhandle counties, was to elect officers today at the concluding session of their two-day conference here. The 1939 conference site also is to be decided.

Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar of Pampa, district president, told the 350 delegates yesterday that the 127 units had a membership of 8,000.

The largest number of out-of-town delegates ever to attend an Eighth District Parent-Teacher Association Conference registered here yesterday to attend previous opening day attendance records.

Highlights of the day's session were reports of the district managers, given under the direction of Mrs. Wes Izzard of Amarillo, and a luncheon at the First Methodist church, honoring unit presidents and historians of the district. Prof. R. E. Jackson of T. S. W. C. at Denton delivered the main address at a public program tonight at the high school auditorium. His subject was "Sensible Parents and Teachers."

Greetings were extended the visitors by local civic and club leaders, and Mrs. M. A. Taylor of Bonham, state P-TA president, gave the response.

Thursday morning's program opened with a breakfast at the Central Christian church. A luncheon followed the morning program, and a debate between six leading Panhandle school officials will be the feature of the afternoon session. Balloting on 1939 officers will continue throughout tomorrow, and the results will be announced at the closing business session. Borger is expected to make the strongest bid for next year's conference.

The superintendent of Pampa schools, L. L. Stone, and all by the Pampa principals, Frank Monroe, A. L. Patrick, A. J. Meek, R. A. Seiby, and Miss Josephine Thomas, with the exception of Doyle Osborne, high school principal, attended the meeting yesterday. Most of the group remained for today's session.

President of the local P-TA, Teachers units and approximately 60 other Pampans were present also at the opening day meetings.

Popular Model

Gorgeous Marianne De La Matter goes to college and is a popular model for commercial photographers at the same time. Her beautiful complexion and regular features are perfect for the camera. Large, glamorous, blue eyes and a full, attractively shaped mouth are only two of her assets. A perfectly chiseled nose, an unusual and interesting hairline, long sweeping lashes, and dark, arched eyebrows add sophistication to her lovely face. From Detroit, Mich., Miss De La Matter now makes her home in New York.

American Legion Entertained by Auxiliary Group

An entertainment of interest was the covered dish supper given for the members of the American Legion by the American Legion auxiliary Wednesday evening at the Legion hut.

Supper was served to 82 members and guests with members of the junior auxiliary acting as table hostesses.

Several speeches were made during the evening including one by Edward Buckingham, commander of the American Legion. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing bingo.

Mrs. R. H. Kitchings and Mrs. Al Lawson were members of the food committee in charge of the arrangements for the evening. Meses. Roy Sewell, Felix Stalls, and T. B. Rogers arranged the entertainment.

Alathean Class Has Luncheon

Members of the Alathean class of the First Baptist church met yesterday afternoon for the monthly luncheon at the church.

Mrs. John Bailey, president presided over the business session of the class which is taught by Mrs. Harry Miner, Jr.

The devotional was led by Mrs. W. B. Henry, who dismissed the group with a prayer following a short social hour. Easter baskets filled with candy were presented to each one as plate favors.

Those present were Meses. Don Eason, Ode Branscum, Clifford Eurlison, R. D. Yowell, Raymond Schultz, Harry Miner, Jr., P. K. Stearns, Perry Gaut, W. B. Clayton, L. H. Simpson, Raymond Kirbie, W. S. March, W. B. Henry, Alvin Bell, Bob Sidwell, Ira Pearson, Charles Miller, Horace Johnson, John Bailey, Haskell Dill, R. L. Young, L. L. Allen, R. E. Thomas, Duke Coday, and Wiley Pearce.

Be careful not to over-cook egg yolks, since they are apt to curdle. When adding yolks to a cooked mixture first beat them with a fork and then add a small amount of the cooked mixture. When the combination is well mixed add it to the rest of the food. Cook it for only a minute and then serve immediately.

Are You Interested In The City of Pampa?

Probably the most important and vital factor of any city is its water supply.

Consider the advancements Pampa has made in the past four (4) years. We have built many new homes and new churches, public utilities have extended and improved their services to take care of the probably forty per cent increase in population. Our school system has been enlarged and improved to care for the increased enrollment. Private capital has erected new buildings and improved old ones, merchants have modernized their stores making them comparable to those in cities many times the size of Pampa.

What has the present City Commission done during the past four (4) years for our water supply to keep pace with our city's growth.

We still have the same facilities for supplying water that served the city six years ago, at which time there were 1677 active connections. March first this year there were 2498 active connections, an increase of thirty three per cent. It is true that about 80,000 barrels of storage has been added during this time. This storage however would not run Pampa for two days.

Each summer water users are told to conserve water, not to water your lawn. We have been short of water each summer for the past four years.

Recently a fire at the Mann Furniture Company on South Cuyler St. caused an enormous loss due to the fact that for more than a half hour the fire department did not have enough water to combat the flames.

All this water problem despite the fact that the city's revenue from the sale of water exceeds its revenue from taxation. Had the present City Commission provided an adequate water supply the profits therefrom should have entitled the consumer to a substantial reduction in rates instead of the present high bills you are now required to pay.

For a permanent, adequate water supply, which is the backbone of any city, vote for

Welcoming a British Warship

Contrasting significantly with strained relations between armed forces in other parts of the world is the friendship apparent in the pictures above, showing U. S. sailors standing by to welcome the British battle cruiser H. M. S. York as she put into the Washington, D. C. navy yard for a five-day visit. The York is the flagship of Vice-Admiral Sidney Julius Meyrick of the Royal Navy, shown in the top photo with Rear Admiral George Pettengill, right, commandant of the navy yard, as they reviewed British marines aboard the York shortly after the cruiser docked.

DEAN URGES INDIVIDUALISM IN EDUCATION

DALLAS, April 1 (AP)—Southern college educators today voted H. L. Donovan, president of the eastern Kentucky State Teachers college, into the presidency of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the final session. Chosen as president emeritus was James H. Kirkland of Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. Other officers included A. B. Butts, University of Mississippi, first vice-president; T. Q. Srygley, assistant superintendent of public schools, Port Arthur, Texas, second vice-president; Sam B. Hathorn, Mississippi State college, executive committee; T. H. Napier, Alabama college, executive committee.

Executive Secretary Shelton Phelps of Winthrop college, in the annual report, said 1,187 schools were on the secondary list and added that 34 institutions had been dropped from the association, 368 had been warned and 370, advised. No schools were named. Dean E. H. Hawks of Columbia university warned, in the closing address, that "all over the world the sinking of individuals and the elevation of larger groups seems to be the order of the day."

"We, in America, are trying to retain that individualism in our colleges. We are traveling an untrodden path in our colleges in trying to recognize individuals. We will make errors, but we must be tolerant with those attempting to perfect individualism."

He said that book scholarship wasn't the only attribute required of college professors and urged that they get closer to the individual student.

The part north of a boy's neck isn't the only part admitted to college. We must not remember a boy—let's take all of him as he is when he enters college and treat him individually.

"The primary job of our colleges is not to make the world fit for men, but to make men fit for the world."

Independence Hall in Philadelphia was originally the statehouse for the colony of Pennsylvania.

One Among A Thousand Dead in Barcelona

Hour after hour, following the Rebel "shuttle" air raids over Barcelona, rescue workers sifted the ruins of bomb-blasted buildings. They uncovered hundreds of such tragic deaths as the one shown in the photo above, where a victim, caught in the collapse of a house, is seen almost completely covered by debris.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY SEEKS BIG BUILDING

DALLAS, April 1 (AP)—The Dallas Historical Society is speeding negotiations with the city for the custodianship of the Hall of State building on the State Fair grounds. Impetus to proposed transfer of the building, for use as a historical museum, was given yesterday when Dr. William E. Howard offered his collection of rare Texana, valued at $150,000, to the society. The collection of documents and books would be a nucleus for establishment of the historical museum. The society re-elected G. B. Dealey, its founder, as president.

Insurgents Seize Leida Positions

ZARAGOZA, April 1 (AP)—Insurgent commanders announced today they had seized the position dominating Leida, key city in northeastern Spain, and that occupation of the provincial capital awaited only a clean up of the Segre river valley.

ASK CEMENT EVIDENCE

AUSTIN, April 1 (AP)—The attorney general's department plans to ask for a special commissioner to take evidence prior to the trial of the state's suit against cement companies charging violation of anti-trust laws. The request will be made of a Travis county district court May 2 when the answer of the companies to the state's suit, filed several weeks ago, must be ready. At the same time it is probable a date for the trial will be set.

Il Duce!

Much less formidable than usual, and certainly with a less belligerent tilt to his jaw, Benito Mussolini is pictured at left in one of his rare photos in civilian clothes. The Italian dictator nearly always wears uniforms, and never permits photographs except from angles of which he approves. The above picture was taken at Guilonia, model city near Rome.

MEXICAN EMBARGO MAY HIKE TEXAS OIL SALE

AUSTIN, April 1 (AP)—Halting of oil importations from Mexico as a consequence of the neighboring nation's expropriation of oil company properties may result in a slight increase in demand for Texas crude, Railroad Commissioner Ernest C. Thompson believes.

The commissioner emphasized, however, that the gain would be negligible compared to the decrease caused by the continuing national economic recession.

"Mexico sent only about 9,000,000 barrels of oil and products to the United States in 1937," said Thompson, who is chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission. "That is less than a week's production of crude in Texas."

Some commission officials voiced the opinion the "end of purchases from Mexico would provide a greater outlet for the Tule, Sulphur Bluff, Cayuga and other fields producing heavy asphalt base oil similar to that found in the southern republics. Areas producing Mirando crudes and fields near the coast may be benefited to some extent, they say. Commission headquarters here was informed that several tankers which formerly loaded at Tampico, Mexico, had taken on oil cargoes at Corpus Christi, Texas City or Houston since the expropriation decree was issued.

WATER HEATER CAUSES BLAZE AT RESIDENCE

It wasn't an April Fool joke that sent the fire department on a run this morning even though there was no fire when they arrived at the origin of the call—515 North Faulkner street. The fire had been extinguished by the time the firemen arrived. It was at the home of R. C. Sharp and was in the roof, caused by a water heater with improper vent, according to Fire Chief Ben White. "Next week is clean up and fire prevention week and proper heater vents are one of the things owners and renters are urged to inspect," Chief White said.

Every type of clay known to the ceramic industry, except ball-clay, exists in Texas.

Tex's Topics

It is with a great deal of regret that we announce today that the author of this column is leaving the newspaper and radio field to go to Hollywood where he is to play in a four-star movie with Walter Winchell, Alice Faye, Ben Bernie, and Loof Lirpa, the new Italian screen find, who is taking the American movie colony by storm. It will be Miss Lirpa's first picture and mine, too.

From newspaper drudgery to Hollywoodian heights is a bit more than I had expected, but the contract, has been signed and it's all in the bag. . . . The picture has radio and newspapers for a background. . . . I have already seen the scenario which calls for me to take the part of a combination newspaper man and radio announcer. . . . In one scene I will kiss Alice Faye ever so lightly on the cheek. . . . This will burn Winchell and Bernie into such a rage that they have to be ejected from the radio studio. . . . However, everything finally winds up okay after plenty of excitement with Winchell winning Miss Lirpa and Bernie middle-aiding it with Miss Faye. . . . On the final fade-out I am doing the announcing at a radio double wedding. . . . The role they have picked out for me is very much along the Ned Sparks type. . . . Incidentally, voice and screen tests of me made here in Pampa by Paramount under the greatest secrecy, turned out swell.

However, the story can be told, now. . . . This is not the first time I had screen ambitions. . . . My first contacts with Hollywood were made when I was in California early in 1936, and just shortly before I came to Pampa in June of that year. . . . So you can see this isn't exactly what would be called a flash in the pan. . . . Much water has gone over the dam, and many obstacles have had to be overcome to step into this seemingly good piece of luck. . . . This new picture will be called "Radio Follies of 1938" and will bring to the screen a bevy of Hollywood cuties and some of the most outstanding scenic and dance arrangements ever seen in a movie musical show. . . . Manager Claude Motley informs me it is included in a November hooking at the LaNora here.

Leaving Pampa for Hollywood is one of the most difficult tasks I ever have faced. . . . One is reluctant to leave behind so many good friends and acquaintances. . . . I dislike severing connections with the boys and girls here in the News office and at KPND. . . . Two years in Pampa have been two of the most enjoyable of my life. . . . This truly is the friendly city. . . . Perhaps I shall stop in Hollywood and be coming back. . . . If I do, I can think of no place I'd rather head for than Pampa—providing, of course, Pampa will take me back.

And now, I'd like to have you go back to the first paragraph of this column and take another look at the name of the Italian screen "find" mentioned there. . . . Try spelling her name backward. . . . Another paragraph of this, and I would be believing it myself.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
Inez B. Benton, district chairman of the ladies auxiliary of the American legion of Amarillo, came to Pampa to reorganize the Pampa auxiliary.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
The senior class of the high school celebrated their annual "sneak day" picnic at Camp Warner, south of Claude.

Freddie Mumford, junior high star, bettered the senior 100-mark when he stepped it off in 10.2 seconds with the wind to his back at the county track and field meet here.

went on to say that other colleges, including Annapolis where they train the sailors, give a first few honors to the top ranking men then pass out the certificates alphabetically. (Darn those Andersons, anyway, they always get there first).

Yet at West Point, continues Mr. Terry, "The man who happens to have the misfortune of being the last man in the class is branded with being the 'goat' of the class of 1938 or 1939, and it seems to me that that stigma or that feeling should follow him all the rest of his army career. It seems to me it is an unnecessary and barbaric custom, and should be done away with."

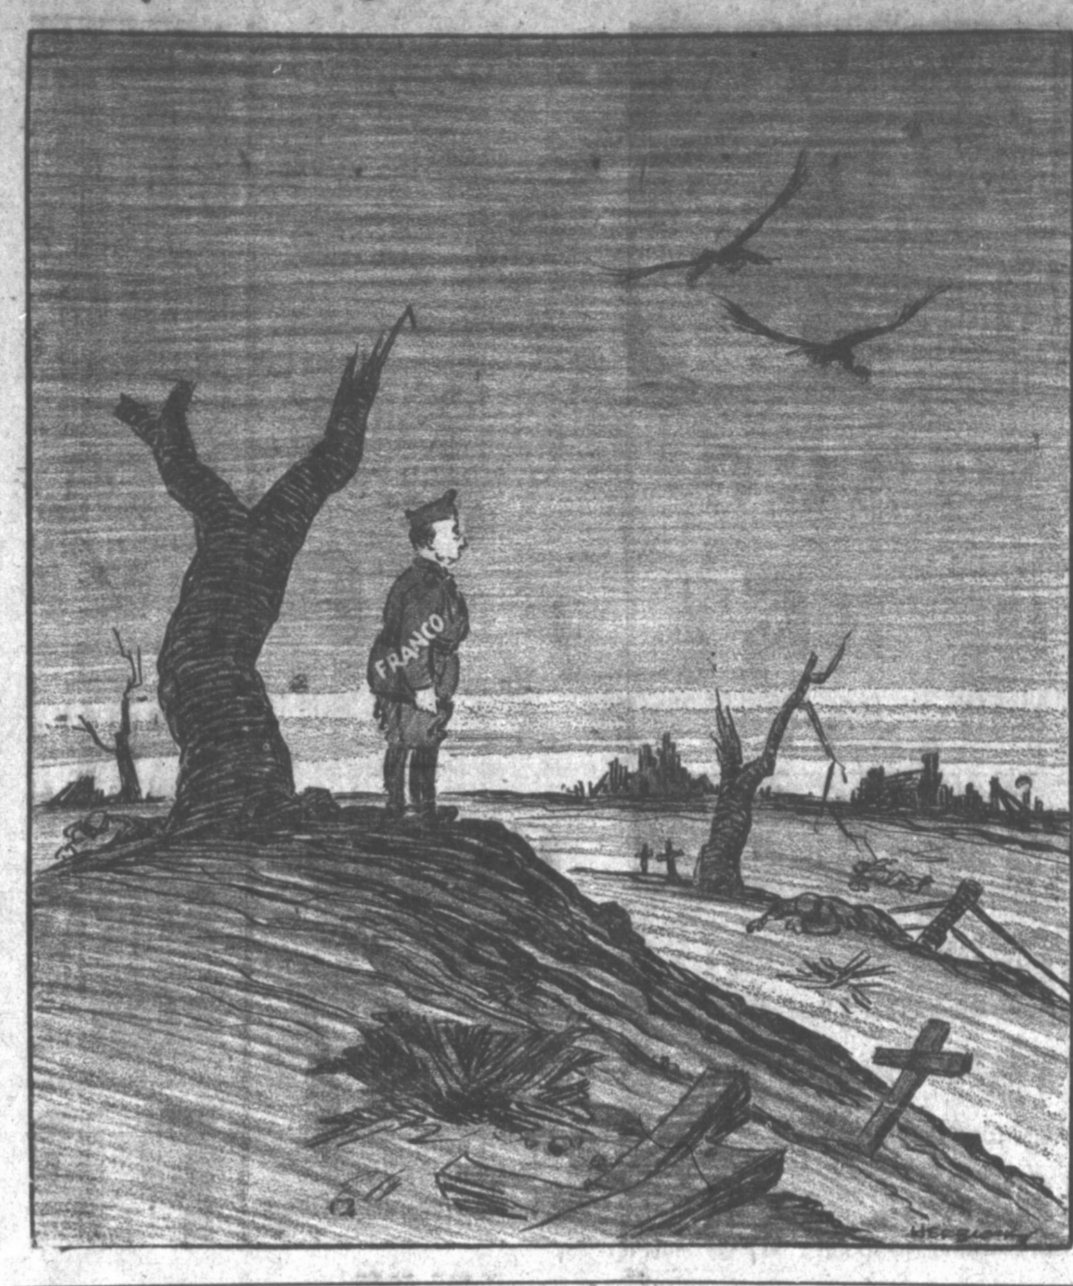

It is fairly evident that the rest of the committee members did not take this thing as seriously as Mr. Terry, for at one point in the ensuing discussion he was compelled to remark that, "My colleagues have taken this with a good deal of levity."

General Benedict said he did not know how long it had been going on. "I graduated 34 years ago, and they were doing it then, and it was a well-established custom."

"It horrified me," said Mr. Terry, "when I saw the humiliation that that man is subjected to."

"Of course," said General Benedict, trying to be practical. "No matter what may happen at the graduation exercises, there is a 'goat' in every class, and he is well known in the service as the 'goat' of the class. Whatever we do at the graduation exercises will have little effect thereafter. He will be known as the 'goat' and he probably will be proud of it, as most of them are. The men at the bottom of the class, who come out as 'goats' are usually very popular cadets, very good fellows and very good mixers."

'Victory Is In Sight'

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—You can talk to a dozen explorers, travelers, and scientists and not find a more primitively intriguing story than the one Charles Rochester brought back from Hawaii.

This is the one about—not, as you suppose, tropic maidens swimming in blue lagoons—but about birds, the minah birds which flock in the streets of Honolulu just as our sparrows do here.

They live by a strange code of ethics, Rochester says, and when one of them gets in bad he is brought to justice. They hold kangaroo court in the street, and it is a common place to see them gathered angrily in a circle, debating the case, while the culprit stands alone and dejected. If they decide he should be punished they peck out his brains. However, if his good name is cleared they fly away happily together.

Your correspondent can remember another bird story that deserves a place next to the minah. This concerns penguins, of which it is claimed there is no more curious fowl to be found.

In the Arctic habitat the penguins live on ice-floes. Each morning when they waken they waddle down to the water to take a bath. However, they like to be certain nothing will harm them. So they get together and slowly press towards the edge of the iceberg. Finally one of their number is spotted overboard. If nothing happens to him they all dive in for a swim. But if he disappears, they know a big fish is waiting for his breakfast, so they hurry off to a safer spot.

Question: why doesn't some enterprising cameraman make a motion picture of minahs and penguins? Such a film would clean up a fortune.

There is always a couple of new gags born when John Anderson likes a play. For he is more frequently displeased than any critic in New York. Long ago he formed the habit of turning up his nose at the drama, and this year has been no exception. Of 90-odd first nights he has been plicated by less than a score.

All of which is by way of explaining this filip overheard in a 4th street cafe.

"He certainly is hard to please," observed a gawling after reading one of Anderson's derisive screeds.

"So tough," agreed his pal, "that when he goes to Heaven and knocks on the pearly gates, St. Peter will say to him, 'You can come in, but you won't like it.'"

Getting back to Charlie Rochester, who told that bird story, he spent a gawling fortnight in the islands, munching exotic foods, sur-board riding under tropic moons, and taking motion pictures of native dancing girls (who dance in dresses made of beaten tea leaves), shell fishing, volcanoes, pineapple culture, and other island lore. Withal, it should prove a nostalgic record of his midwinter's dwaldling in the Pacific.

Morris Gest, one of the last exponents of the flowing black tie, has finally been won over to the conventional four-in-hand. He was observed this garbed dining in a midtown eatery this noon.

There is only one male hop-plant louse in a score of generations. In the spring, eggs of the hop-plant louse hatch out females. These females bring forth young within eight days, and continue bringing forth new female families throughout the summer. In the autumn is hatched a brood consisting exclusively of males.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M. D.

In 1929 Dr. Hans Berger of Jena, Germany, published an article on what he called "human electroencephalograms."

It is now recognized the similarity between the terms "electrocardiogram" and "electroencephalogram." There is in fact a close parallel.

The electrocardiogram is a record of the electrical changes produced by the contractions of the heart. The electroencephalogram is a graphic record of the electrical changes arising in the brain.

The normal living brain undergoes periodic changes in its electrical potential. When wires, called leads are fixed to the scalp and connected at the other end to an amplifying apparatus and a recording machine, a visual record of the brain's electrical changes can be produced.

The electro-encephalogram of the normal person (with eyes closed) shows periodic waves representing voltage changes. These waves have a frequency of between 8 and 20 a second, and a value of from 20 to 50 micro-volts. Visual and mental activity alter this wave picture.

While the electro-encephalogram of one normal person may differ radically from that of another normal person, all electro-encephalograms of normal persons fall within a range which is distinct from the electro-encephalograms produced by known cases of epilepsy.

The electro-encephalogram of the epileptic during a seizure differs radically from the characteristically normal picture produced by a normal person. It also differs from the picture produced by the epileptic when not in a fit.

The typical epileptic seizure electro-encephalogram cannot be faked. It cannot be produced simply by going through the contortions of

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The skeptic's club—which isn't an organization but a state of mind—is going to watch with interest the new M-G-M product which will be, so its makers insist, minus the customary quota of secondary or Class B films.

Obviously though not specifically a slap at the "double-feature evil," this production plan will offer the same number of films as last season. Sixteen of the 52 will be made on a standard feature budget (from $250,000 to $500,000) and the rest, or 36, will be super-supers, bristling with stars and practically colossal if not stupendous.

But the practical result may be, if history repeats itself, that the double-billers will simply "take two super-supers for one program—as they do now with abandon—and regard the others as 'just Bs.' The onerous "B" classification grew in the first place out of simple comparison. Most of today's lower "Bs" would have passed as super-supers in the first year of talkies, when anything that had squeaks and groans in it was a picture for exhibitors to howl for.

Lack Star Names
The main difference between a "B" and an "A" film as made today is that the "B" lacks real star names. It also has less "production value," that is, less costly sets, a quicker shooting schedule, lower story costs and lower salaried actors. They may be just as good, even better actors than go into the "As," but they don't have top drawing power. (Exceptions: Jane Withers, or Charlie Chan, or the Jones Family.)

Costing so much less, the "Bs" stand a better chance of returning a profit than some of the super-colossals which run into $2,000,000 costs.

Star Billing
But the main difference, as noted above, is the lack of real star names. There are plenty of people here who get star billing who aren't stars in the commercial sense. The real stars are making two, three, maybe four pictures a year. Some of these are co-starring vehicles, at that—which would cut down the number of films from these select "real" stars.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, April 1 (AP)—A rumor of brewing opposition to Congressman Maury Maverick of San Antonio has aroused interest in Capitol circles.

Paul Kilday, first assistant district attorney at San Antonio, may oppose Maverick for re-election, it is reported.

Paul is a brother of Owen W. Kilday, chief of police at San Antonio and a power in the city administration political organization.

Another brother is Jim Kilday, prominent political leader of Houston.

The story told here—and it was unverified—was that Kilday would run as an independent, thereby garnering some anti-machine votes, but at the right time the machine would throw support to him.

Maverick, serving his third term in congress, is known as a liberal and a staunch supporter of President Roosevelt and the New Deal. No other young member of congress, probably, has been more successful than Maverick in keeping in the public eye in recent years.

A great deal has been heard the last year about efficiency and economy in the state department. A step toward efficiency has been observed in the executive department.

A new telephone system has been installed to connect the second-floor offices of Governor James V. Allred and his secretary, Dero Cowley, with offices on the first floor, including that of Secretary of State Edward Clark.

The general idea of efficiency is that the system enables more persons to talk at the same time without a proportionate increase in expense.

The capital had the unusual experience the other day of being visited, apparently for campaign purposes by two men running for the state senate in Dallas county.

It wasn't clear why candidates for office in Dallas county should be campaigning in Austin.

The men were Tom Sessions and Ray Holder, who are trying to unseat Senator Claude C. Westerfield. There also are other candidates for the position. Holder is a former member of the state house of representatives, while Sessions has been a partner of Maury Hughes, former chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Capital thieves apparently don't mind taking a chance.

Rip Collins, Texas Ranger and a former deputy sheriff, reported the theft of an overcoat from the back porch of his residence.

A year or so ago the pistol of another Ranger, Bob Massingale, was swiped from his automobile.

Collins, who has been a member of the Ranger force since last September, was a major league baseball pitcher for many years.

He also was one of the greatest football players who ever played for the Texas Aggies, being especially noted for his punting.

Frank Morris of Dallas, candidate for the railroad commission, has the unchallenged distinction of sporting the first man's straw hat in Austin this season. He wore it about the capital the first day of spring.

Morris figures he has an edge on some of the other candidates because of his campaign two years ago against Ernest O. Thompson. Thompson beat him in the run-off primary.

The experience and the organization gained then should be a big help now," Morris said.

He is trying to oust C. V. Terrell, commission chairman, who is asking another term of six years.

Gov. Allred's speech announcing he would retire from public office at the end of his present term was wisely guarded to prevent knowledge of his contents leaking out before it was broadcast.

The governor dictated it the day before its delivery and none but his secretary, Mrs. Alma Albert, and an official of a radio station who passed on its acceptability for broadcasting saw the copies.

Mrs. Allred, the governor said, knew of his decision not to run again, but she did not know what was in his speech. Just before he began reading the address he gave a

Errors In Reasoning On Tax Theories

We presume that the almost universal belief that taxes should be paid in proportion to ability comes from the fact that each individual should contribute to the general welfare of society in proportion to his ability.

Each man should contribute to the general welfare of society to his ability, not because there is any altruism in this kind of a contribution but for the simple reason that it is the best way of self-preservation.

This is true because in the process of evolution or survival of the fittest, there is competition not only between individuals as to the survival of the fittest but there is competition between social groups as to which social group shall survive; and the social group in which each individual contributes to the general welfare in proportion to his ability is the social group that will so outstrip and outdistance any other social group in its ability to propagate, add to the aggregate business and defend its people that no other group that does otherwise can compete with it.

Where most people err in the belief that the individual should contribute to the government in proportion to his ability, instead of society, is they overlook the fact that the government should and can only perform a very small fraction of the needs of society. For this reason, to require any individual to contribute to the government in proportion to ability is to greatly reduce his ability to serve society.

We might illustrate by saying that if each individual is to contribute to every need of society in proportion to his ability, then by the same reason a great educator or a great doctor would be obligated to contribute to the janitor work in proportion to his strength and ability. In fact, his energy ability, to serve in the field in which he has become efficient.

Until people can realize the difference between contributing to society in proportion to their ability, we shall continue to have great confusion and make little progress, if not deteriorate.

Secretary of State Edward Clark, the governor's close friend, also knew of the decision, in fact, he was with the governor in Millard Wells when it was made, but he, too, did not know exactly what was in the manuscript.

DUN AND BRADSTREET SAY TRADE NERVOUS

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP)—Dun & Bradstreet, in its review of the week's conditions, published today, said the trend in leading lines of trade was still generally uncertain. "No changes of constructive significance occurred in the leading industrial divisions this week. While manufacturers exerted more than their usual efforts to obtain new orders, it was found that distributors were not anticipating requirements for any extended period," the review said. "Quickening of demand was more apparent in many of the principal wholesale markets. While numerous orders were for small quantities, despite the fact that the majority of stores were working on low inventories and had yet to accumulate peak Easter stocks. Purchases were limited to immediate needs; few commitments were placed for late spring and early summer; almost none for fall requirement," it continued.

MEXICO CITY, April 1 (AP)—President Cardenas today set up the National Petroleum Export company to find foreign markets for the expropriated foreign oil industry. The finance ministry said he was the only person empowered to negotiate sales of oil for export, and "no one else either in Mexico or abroad is authorized to offer oil and its by-products." Lack of markets, since Cardenas took over the $400,000,000 plants of 17 British, American and Netherlands companies on March 18 has swelled storage tanks to capacity.

DRINKING OF HEAVY WATER CANCER CURE

BALTIMORE, April 1 (AP)—The newest step toward the control of cancer was reported today before the Federated Biological Societies by two Yale University scientists who declared that "heavy water," a weightier twin sister of ordinary water, will slow up the growth of some types of cancer. Dr. Henry G. Barbour and Dr. Edgar Allen announced that they had been able to check the growth of carcinoma and lymphosarcoma, two of the many kinds of cancer, in mice merely by giving them heavy water to drink instead of ordinary water. It has not been tried on human beings. In the experiment reported, the Yale scientists transplanted cancer growths into mice. Then they divided the group, half of which received heavy water to drink, the other half ordinary water. The half which drank ordinary water died twice as quickly from cancer as those which drank heavy water. The etching art developed in Central Europe, north of the Alps. It is a method of picture making on metal plates, in which the lines and depressions are eaten out by acid instead of being gouged or scratched mechanically. In England, broken bones cost more than $20,000,000 in compensations and $35,000,000 in wages annually.

SUFFERING REFUGEES PACK FRENCH RESORT

BAGNERES, de LUCHON, France, April 1 (AP)—Thousands of Spanish

military and civilian refugees fleeing before the great insurgent drive through northeastern Spain today packed this French mountain resort after days of terrible hardships in the Pyrenees. Through deep snows the refugees plodded toward a haven in friendly

France, but many of their companions already had met death in plunges into snow-filled canyons. French frontier guards found the stiffened bodies of others where they had dropped from exhaustion in the snowbanks. Bodies lay on rocky slopes and ridges. Some had literally fallen over the border in France and to their deaths. The refugees arrived in desperate need of food and shelter. Here mothers and children were given first places in hastily erected shelters and private homes, were fed hot meals and given warm covers.

But all were warned, their respite in France would be brief. Efforts are being made to send them back into Spanish government territory within 48 hours. Most of the military refugees—militiamen who fled across the border believing the government cause lost—were confined in open courtyards guarded by the French as if in a concentration camp. Fish have sensations of discomfort but their pain nerves are not developed to as great a degree as in higher forms of life. For this reason, they suffer very slightly when hooked or speared.

Measuring 460 feet from side to side and with five roadways separated by grass plots and lines of trees, the Avenida Nueva de Julio in Buenos Aires, is the widest avenue in the world. Helium has been used experimentally to treat asthma.

Girl Slain

Victim of an alleged suicide pact — only half completed — was pretty Charlotte Mathiesen, top photo, who was shot to death, according to New York police, by her youthful sweetheart, Donald Carroll, Jr., shown below. Carroll was said to have told police he sent a bullet through a corsage which Miss Mathiesen had pinned to her breast, but did not carry out his part of the pact because the girl begged him not to, just before she died. He is a New York university freshman.

COUGHLIN AND BACKERS FLY OFFICES. BILL

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—A new deluge of telegrams urged house members today to kill the government reorganization bill, but administration leaders fought steadfastly for its passage before the week ends.

Employees of telegraph companies worked all night to handle the uncounted thousands of messages, many of which were received after a hastily-arranged radio denunciation of the bill by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest.

Both sides agreed it was too early to tell the effect of the protests, which were reaching the representatives in the midst of the most turbulent debate heard in the house this year.

On the basis of preliminary returns from a poll of members, some Democratic chieftains openly declared the bill would pass. Republican leader Snell of New York conceded that the opposition did not command enough votes—"yet"—to defeat it.

While the bill's backers were declaring the flood of telegrams resulted from an organized propaganda campaign, Rep. Woodruff (R-Mich.) told the house yesterday that congress never had witnessed such "intense lobbying and hidden use of patronage" in behalf of the legislation.

Although leaders failed yesterday to place a limit on debate, it was common talk in house cloakrooms that they wanted to jam the bill to a final vote by tomorrow to stave off some of the communications, especially those that might follow a Sunday speech by Father Coughlin.

If that was their intention, the priest crossed them up by going on the air last night. "If there must be reorganization of government," he said, "let it begin where it should begin—at the head."

Father Coughlin criticized the bill's provision for placing the office of education under a proposed new department of welfare. "By its very words," he said, "it admits that it is an instrument aimed to centralize government in a totalitarian state, with education of your offspring as one of its most outstanding features."

MAN DRAGGED TO DEATH. SNYDER, April 1 (AP)—A frightened horse dragged Fred Wasson, 20, to death yesterday. Wasson, stock farmer and business man of Snyder, and Charley Miller, Berden county rancher, were vaccinating land and sheep on Wasson's place north of here. Wasson, attempting to rope a cow, was knocked from his mount by a tree limb. The lariat was tightened on his arm and he was dragged a half-mile before Miller could cut the rope. His widow survives.

22's Today's Dangerous Age

Twenty-two! It's becoming one of the most dangerous of all ages for Americans—in physical condition, in traffic accidents and, particularly, in crime.

More criminals commit more crimes at the ages of 22 than at any other age.

The 22-year-old is one of the worst auto menaces, only slightly better than the 16-year-olds. The death rate leaps alarmingly between 17 and 22. At 22, a young man has one chance in 128 that his disabling illness will be fatal. When he was five years younger it would have taken 211 such illnesses to produce a fatality.

At no time in life are so few physical examinations taken. The boy in his teens receives twice as many. Eyesight and slight illness are prevalently neglected at this age.

Errors Unemployment Benefit. All through the depression, youths from 18 to 24 carried twice the burden of unemployment that older citizens—even in the after-45 group—had to bear.

But it is crime statistics, particularly, which point to 22 as the most dangerous age. Last year, 22,875 men and women of 22 were prominently recorded with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Of these, 317 were booked for murder, 943 for robbery, and 3432 for larceny and theft, including auto theft. Here is last year's record of the 22-year-olds, as compiled by the FBI:

Table with 2 columns: Boys, Girls. Rows include: Vagrancy, Burglary, Assault, Drunkenness, Disorderly Conduct, Suspicion, Sex Offenses.

Such reports now gathered by the FBI from 3700 crime-detecting agencies, show that more than a third of all offenses made known through finger-print reports are committed by persons between 21 and 29. There are twice as many arrests at 22 as at the average between 35 and 40, and four times as many as at any age between 45 and 50.

The automobile record is especially bad. The 22-year-old is twice as dangerous to human life when behind the wheel as the 65-year-old. Recent Connecticut tests show that 18 is the most dangerous age for driving, and 47 the best, but 22 was here again close to the worst.

Why should 22 be such a dangerous age? Why should it apparently be increasingly so? Those who have studied the situation scientifically point out that the 22-year-olds of last year and this are the first depression generation. The "Lost Generation" which was "lost" in the World War, is being succeeded by another "Lost Generation" which lost itself in the cruel mazes of the depression. Their adolescence colored by tough economic sledding after a childhood amid the "Prodigal Twenties, they come to maturity in a time of depression.

There are movies—and no money to see them. There are autos—but only theft can put some boys behind the wheel. There is travel over the broad world—but only the freight-car or the thumb hike to get it. "When do we begin to live?" is the common, bewildered, disillusioned complaint.

Yet the same sociologists point to young college students, steady-going O.C.O. boys, and some of the hardest-working apprentices industry ever hired, as showing the kind of stuff that is in 22-year-olds when they get a real chance.

NERVOUS WOMEN DUE TO UNEMPLOYMENT OF MEN

PHILADELPHIA, April 1 (AP)—A generation of nervous women—striving "in a futile" race to compete with younger sisters on the basis of sex appeal—has resulted from unemployment which has kept thousands of men from marrying, a Philadelphia physician said today. Speaking to a local medical society, Dr. Russell L. Boles of the Philadelphia General hospital said: "This country has much to answer for because a vast multitude of young women have been denied the God-given right of marriage and children as the result of the unemployment of 10,000,000 men. "The unmarried, childless woman of the 'individual type' can hardly hope to escape functional derangements somewhere in her system. She never abandons hope for marriage and children."

Proof that 22 years really is a "dangerous age" in the matter of crime is provided in the records of the four youths pictured above. Top left is Lester Brockelhurst, convicted of slaying a traveling salesman in Arkansas as climax to a crime career which began when he was 22. Top right is Robert Allan Edwards, 22, executed for the "American Tragedy" slaying of his sweetheart, Freda McKeachie, of Edwardsville, Pa. Lower left is Glenn Brasser, 22, Rochester, N. Y., former choir boy, who confessed killing a girl who spurned his love. Lower right is Nelson D. Boyer, 22, Los Angeles, now serving a life term for killing his wife with a dumbbell.

BORAH CHARGES CONTROL PRICE OIL COMPANIES

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) charged "four or five big oil companies" today with controlling the price of gasoline and oil.

"You will find no competition in price," Borah told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee. "That's been true for four or five years."

The veteran foe of monopoly made these observations at a hearing on a bill by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) to require separation of marketing petroleum products from production, refining and transporting.

H. F. Remington of Reading, Pa., representing "independent" station owners told Senators the big oil companies now meet "the Iowa plan" to "avoid chain store, social security, and other taxes."

Remington said the plan first tried out by big companies in Iowa was to rent or lease company-owned filling stations to former employees.

"A station worth $30,000 may be rented for $75 a month while an independent station of the same type with an overhead of $300 or $500 a month has to pay exactly the same price for gasoline," Remington said.

"It threatens to put all independent dealers out of business."

Remington agreed with Borah that "four or five" big companies fix the price of gasoline.

Richard E. Breed of Baltimore, said independent distributors in Maryland "suffered passage" of the Gillette bill to eliminate "tax dodging and to stabilize prices."

No opposition witness appeared but subcommittee members said they would be given a chance to testify later.

The measure would fine companies up to $10,000 for price fixing marketing from production, processing and transporting.

275 SALES MADE AT HIGGINS THIS WEEK

HIGGINS, April 1—Another good sale was held at the Higgins Livestock Sale company Tuesday with more than two hundred seventy different sales made.

In the miscellaneous lot, Mrs. T. H. Russell disposed of her household furniture and C. P. Pursley of Miami sold a truck load of refrigerators, washing machines and stoves at good prices.

Seven hundred baby chicks from the Laverne hatchery in Oklahoma sold at fair prices. Two good saddles and chaps were consigned by Hemphill county parties.

A good run of horses was in. Consigners in this division were L. C. O. Neal, White Deer, Carl Freeman, George Tubbs of Canadian, R. T. Kelley and Jake Sells Jr. of Lipscomb, Walter Jones of Laketon, and Twin Gilson of Shattuck.

In the hog alley quite a number of small pigs about six weeks old sold at good prices, ranging from $3.50 to $4 per head. Several head of medium fat hogs were sold with prices ranging up to $8.00 a hundred. Consigners in this division included Sam Tandy and George Thomas of Gem City, Jake Sells, Oscar Peterson, Joe McQuig, and V. K. Scarth, all of Lipscomb county. Walter Ellerby of Shamrock, Bob Montgomery, Pampa, Alvin Meier and Emanuel Schwab of Ellis county.

In the cattle yards a few white-face steers brought $5.50 per hundred. These cattle weighed around six hundred seventy-five pounds.

C. P. Pursley, Miami, sold a truck load of plain cows of the dairy type up to $35.00 per head. The top cow butcher cows were $5.00 per hundred weight. They were purchased by Glee Smith of Kansas. Quite a few plain coming yearlings sold at around six cents a pound.

TWO TOP O' TEXAS MEN NAMED ON WTCC GROUP

WICHITA FALLS, April 1—Two of the 13 members of the Texas Chamber of Commerce work committee, newly appointed by Milburn McCarty of Eastland, WTCC president, are Top O' Texas citizens. They are C. R. Stahl of Borger and C. A. Steider of Canadian.

The work committee will plan for the WTCC work platform plans for the next year, and submit other resolutions. H. S. Hilburn, editor of the Plainview Herald, is chairman of the committee.

James D. Hamlin of Farwell has been named chairman of the nominating committee. Other members are Walter D. Cline of Wichita Falls and C. M. Caldwell of Abilene.

Amos G. Carter of Fort Worth, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is one of the members of the work committee.

Both the work and nominating committees began work today in preparation for the twentieth annual WTCC convention to be held here April 25, 26, and 27.

CROWLEY TO RESIGN

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Karl A. Crowley reaffirmed today his intention to resign as post office department solicitor and devote his attention to his campaign for the Texas Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He said he would return to Texas April 15 and resign his federal post as soon as possible before that date after clearing up business matters.

$67,500 IN DAMAGES ASKED IN INJURY SUIT

Damages of $67,500 for injuries allegedly received while working for the Santa Fe railway here last summer were filed in 108th district court in Amarillo yesterday, by W. M. Wilson.

Wilson, who worked here under the name of H. R. Dormire, claimed his leg was broken.

Santa Fe Agent O. T. Hendrix said the man was employed about a month here last summer as a switchman, and that the alleged accident occurred when the switchman rolled off a car. Mr. Hendrix said he had no information on exactly how the accident happened.

The suit was filed without payment of costs on a pauper's plea.

$54,000,000 DAM ON RED RIVER PUSHED

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Further support of the proposed $54,000,000 Denison dam on the Red river in Texas came today from O. W. Floyd Dallas, engineer of the Red River Improvement Association.

Floyd said he expected to present the house flood control committee on April 11 a statement advocating authorization of the project.

His statement would supplement an endorsement given the committee yesterday by Colonel Eugene Reybold, Little Rock, Ark., army division engineer.

Reybold declared the dam would be "self liquidating" because hydroelectric power to be generated would find ample market within a 200-mile radius.

He told the committee that the structure would save from annual inundation thousands of acres of fertile lands between Denison, Tex., and the mouth of the river.

He said the project had been recommended by the war department, after surveys showed a dam of sufficient height could be constructed to be practical for both flood control and power purposes. The structure would be 190 feet high and three miles wide.

Majority Leader Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, said the project would be of great benefit to Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana as well as Texas.

The lake to be created by the dam would cover approximately 20,000 acres in Oklahoma and Texas, inundating several towns in the former state.

Rep. Ferguson, Democrat, Okla., a member of the committee, expressed concern that construction of the dam might prevent the building of reservoirs on the Washita in Oklahoma, a tributary of the Red River.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS MOSLEM PROGRAM

McLEAN, April 1—A program on the Moslem world, given by members of the Women's Missionary society at the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon, was attended by 100 ladies.

The presentation of the program climaxed an extensive study made by the society in their regular Tuesday meetings.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Bogan, who, posing as a traveler, interviewed Mrs. W. B. Swin who took the part of a Christian teacher to the Mohammedans, and Mrs. Bob Black, who had the role of caliph.

Two guides, Mrs. Roger Powers and Mrs. Ernest Beck, then led the visitors in groups of 10 to the basement, which had been transformed into a Moslem village.

Here they visited the temple, where, dressed as priests, Mrs. S. A.

WREATH SENT BY PRESIDENT

HOUSTON, April 1 (AP)—Colonel E. M. House, the mild-mannered little Texan who rose to power in national and international affairs during the world war, was buried with simple rites yesterday.

Flowers were heaped upon his grave by close friends and relatives as death brought him back to the land of his birth, which he left almost half a century ago.

He died Monday in New York, where he had lived since he moved from Austin, Tex., in 1912 to be near his close friend, Woodrow Wilson; who, when he became President, leaned heavily on Colonel House for advice.

Only the widow, other relatives and close friends attended the service in Glenwood cemetery at high noon. The Rev. James P. DeWolfe, Episcopal minister, committed the body to the grave with the simple Episcopalian burial service. That was the manner in which Col. House had wanted to be buried, simply as the private citizen had always been.

A wreath made of dark tulip, with sprays of artificial palm leaves, from President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, accompanied the body to Houston from New York. The wreath was placed in the center of the grave.

The casket spray was a mass of Easter lilies. Spray bouquets of bluebonnets and Indian paint brush, Texas wild flowers, formed the pillow of the grave.

A rose and carnation wreath in two shades of pink was sent by Joseph A. Avenol, Secretary General of the League of Nations. Flowers also were sent by Richard B. Bennett, former Premier of Canada, now leader of the Conservative party of the Dominion. The service at the grave lasted little more than 10 minutes. Rain dripped on the canopy.

Only one-fifth of the mass of an iceberg appears above water.

The Movies Do It With Mirrors

You've seen it in the movies. The train, horse or auto thundered toward you, apparently destined for your lap. Well, it's all done with mirrors, and these pictures show how. Above you see a mirror suspended at an angle over the track, and in it you see the onrushing train. Note the camera at the side of the track, its eye focused not on the train, but on the mirror.

Wham! The locomotive smashes the mirror—and it's all recorded by the electrically-driven camera which kept right on grinding up to the last split second. When the picture reaches the theater, the engine will completely fill the screen at the moment of contact with the mirror.

Cotton Acreage In Gray County Will Be 8,263

Cotton may be king in Dixie but the fleecy plant is only a kukuk in Gray county.

Four-fifths of all crop land in Gray county was devoted to wheat in 1934, according to the latest (1935) farm census, and only 7,500 of the total farmland area of 584,478 acres was used for cotton.

Before the plow-up conservation plan was started in 1933, the normal cotton acreage in Gray county was 14,500 and the normal crop, 5,000 bales.

Under the 1938 quota, 8,263 acres in Gray county may be allotted for this year's crop.

In one respect Gray county, though located well within the Top O' Texas area, is a border-line county between the cotton growing zone and the wheat raising area.

A salient of the South Plains variety of soil, so well adapted to cotton growing, edges its way into the southeastern part of the county, where the soil type ranges from medium sandy to sandy.

Limited To Southeast Cotton growing is confined to the region around Alameda and McLean, with one detached area located east of Laketon.

Cotton is usually planted in Gray county about May 15 and picked about October 1. There are only a few gins within the county, there being one gin at Alameda and two at McLean, according to Ralph H. Thomas, county farm agent. There are really three gins at McLean, but only two have been operated the past two years. Back in the pre-boom days, there was a gin located in Pampa, Mr. Thomas said.

Uniformity Lacking There is no uniformity to Gray county cotton. In the past a Texas bill of lading on cotton assured that bale of a premium above the market. Spinners wanted the inch staple and uniformity of Texas cotton and were willing to pay for it.

Texas had 62 one-variety cotton communities in 1937 which involved more than 300,000 acres, and it is estimated in the annual report of E. A. Miller, Texas A. M. agronomist, that more than 200 one-variety cotton communities will operate in 1938. Ten counties will function on a one-variety county wide basis.

Of the 52 one-variety communities in the state, 21 entered a East Texas Chamber of Commerce contest, which was won by Coupland community of Williamson county. Efforts of the Texas A. & M.

extension service are being directed to improving the quality of Texas cotton, as exporters want cotton with at least 15/16 inch to one inch or better staple to compete with the tremendous amount of high quality cotton now produced in foreign countries.

It has been pointed out that 22.8 percent of the 1936 Texas cotton crop was less than 7/8 inch and 62 percent was less than 15/16 inch in staple length.

World Markets Set Price Cotton prices are determined in world markets and all growers are directly competitive on a quality basis. The United States still exports about five million bales annually, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the bureau of business research at the University of Texas. Cotton is grown commercially in over 50 countries. More than half of the earth's land area lies between the northern and southern limits of cotton production.

The Russian, Manchurian, and North China cotton fields extend above forty degrees north latitude and the fields in South Africa, Australia and South America extend as far south as thirty degrees south latitude.

U. S. Biggest Producer In times of uncontrolled production, the United States produces over half of the world's supply of cotton and the United States and India combined produce over two-thirds of the normal supply. Cotton production in the six largest cotton growing countries: United States, India, China, Russia, Brazil and Egypt, accounts for over 90 percent of world production.

Home Ec Class Has Style Show

McLEAN, April 1.—Girls of the second year class of the home economics department of McLean high school gave a style show in the high school auditorium Wednesday.

First place was won by Emerald Floyd; second by Margaret Kramer; third by Julia Mae Morris. Those receiving special mention were Wanda Estes, Veina Mann, and Violet Moore.

Judges were Misses Clint Dooleen, J. E. Kirby, and J. W. Dotson. The Japanese army says that more than 150 American volunteers are serving with the Chinese army, mostly as aviators.

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

Copyright, 1938, NCA Service, Inc.

Yesterday, at the end of one particularly hard day, Connie finds Dr. Rogers asleep on the library divan. She covers him with a blanket and he says, "Thanks, Hilda! Connie could not easily forget this."

CHAPTER XXV
AS George Thorvald's recovery progressed, there was a very evident effort on the part of the household to keep the daily routine in the same normal grooves of everyday life.

The portrait, Constance knew, was under way again. At Hildegarde Thorvald's request, she had gone with her to the studio for the first sitting. She did not want to go, but Hilda insisted that she needed normal support.

"This portrait was Dad's idea—not mine," she told Constance. "Personally I think the whole thing is a complete headache. But it's his idea, and he's glorified on canvas as a California product seems to Dad an exciting way to spend his money—well, the poor lamb hasn't had so much fun out of life up to date. The only pain-line he's ever really thrown his soul into is glorifying every-thing California."

Constance had to laugh. You could not be with Ernest Thorvald long without realizing that.

"You see," Hildegarde went on, "Dad came here a poor immigrant boy, and made his money here. Now he's gone more native than any native son I ever met. You'd think to hear him sometimes that he personally had prepared the formula for the particular brand of sunshine we put on the market out here...."

Then you are coming to the studio with me, aren't you?
"I can't see what need my being there will do, unless—Constance finished turning her knife in her own hand, just to show herself she could bear it—unless I hold Mr. Manthorn's brushes."

"Oh, you'll be there. Hildegarde stretched her long, beautiful limbs and smiled lazily. "When I begin to feel too gosh-awful glorified, I'll look at you, and we can laugh. You are one of the few women I've ever met who know just when to laugh—and how much...."

And if I must be painted, I've got to be amused."
So Constance went—that once. She saw immediately that her being there was a cruel mistake. Cruel to Derek. It threw him pitifully off his stride. All the facile, charming things he should have said to reassure his subject and put her gaspfully at her ease seemed to freeze on his lips.

And if it were amusement Hilda hoped from Constance's presence, she obviously was not getting it. There seemed to be, somehow, amazingly little to laugh about. Hildegarde, herself, seemed absent and preoccupied, as if there were something she was trying to puzzle out.

Hildegarde had had her way in one respect, at least. The portrait was not to be, as Derek had laughingly described it to Constance that last day in the studio, a still life of luscious fruit with Hilda as the presiding deity of the harvest.

"I won't be all trimmed up like a float of the Carnival of Roses," she had announced at breakfast with an unaccustomed decision in her lazy voice. "I'll be painted exactly as I look every day."

So Derek was painting her in brown blacks and a soft orange shirt, lounging with a book—her usual occupation when she wasn't on horseback or gardening or sitting at the piano.

"From the beginning that first sitting was a dismal failure...."

And this picture means so much to Derek. Constance thought.... And then, with a clutch at her heart. Why a few weeks ago I should have said, it means so much to us!.... Have we really grown so far apart—Derek and I?.... And yet I love Derek. I am angry and hurt and humiliated, but I still love him.... Or do I?

Yes, she decided. If thinking of someone the first thing in the night, if suffering when you could not be sure what he was thinking or doing at any time of day, if having your heart turn completely over when you saw him, if hearing his voice unexpectedly—all these things meant that you loved; then she still loved Derek.

MARK ROGERS came to the studio for a few moments that morning. He nodded briefly to Derek, spoke a few words to Constance in his amiable but infuriatingly detached way, and then lingered to chat with Hildegarde Thorvald—telling her something funny that had happened to him that morning. They seemed to understand each other, these two—quietly, humorously and effortlessly, as if between them there was no need for pretences or evasions. With Hilda he was a different man from the one Constance had always known—youthful, more relaxed and bubbling with infectious humor.

While they were talking and laughing together, Constance turned to a window and stood looking out over the white blooms of the fruit trees toward the crumpled blue of the distant mountains—feeling somehow, a little forlorn. It might be very well—comfortable, she thought, to have a man like Mark Rogers turn to you so naturally for companionship and understanding, to feel as Hilda obviously did with him, no need for putting up little feminine defenses.

Derek, who when Rogers came in, had turned somewhat sulkily to the business of mixing colors, stirred with apparent aliveness as to where Constance stood, and said softly, "Connie, I must talk to you."

"Well?" Constance smiled, although her heart was pounding. "You are talking to me, aren't you, Derek?"

"You know what I mean?" His voice was thin with impatience. "Alone. We can't go on—"

"Derek," Constance said steadily. "When we talk together alone, it will be only with the complete understanding that every-thing in this house that it is because we have a right to be alone together.... And I'm not at all sure that I want to now—any more than you do."

BEFORE he could answer, Hilda spoke to him and he turned to her, eager, charmingly deferential. Constance slipped out of the room because her heart was too full of tears for more talk.

As she hurried along with unseeing eyes, she thought, Derek thinks he still wants me—but it's Hilda Thorvald he wants to please.... Hilda he loves—if he really loves anyone.

"Oh, well—what was it she had said to George Thorvald that first night? "No one can help not loving someone any longer." It had sounded so childish when Mark had teased her about it, but every-thing in this house had had a horse run into the corral for Constance—a slim-legged, spirited sorrel chestnut. And the new riding clothes from Los Angeles fitted perfectly. In the saddle Constance looked like a slight dark-haired boy.

She rode every day now—sometimes alone, sometimes early in the morning with her host. She liked riding with Ernest Thorvald because he was stepped in the Spanish role of the country, and told her many romantic legends of the early days in the southwest he loved so much.

Officer Constance rode with her hostess, Hildegarde Thorvald, who was never known to move faster than a stroll apart, became a reckless Valkyrie on horseback. She rode as she played the piano and sang, with her kind of temperamental. Her horse, a magnificent highstrung black, was as eager to run and as tireless as she. There was not much time for story-telling when one rode with Hildegarde.

One morning while they were at breakfast, Mark Rogers, coming in for an early visit to his patient, brought a message of "in amice de la casa" and the sports were waiting.

Hildegarde said, "Sorry, Constance. I'm having to look after some thing here while Dad runs up to Los Angeles.... Derek, why don't you and Constance go for a gallop?"

WOODUL IS CANDIDATE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP)—Walter Woodul, twice lieutenant governor of Texas, announced for attorney general today with a promise to enforce the anti-trust and oil laws and conduct a non-political office.

The unconnected Houstonian, who served terms in the Texas senate and house before being elected lieutenant governor first in 1934, has served 18 times as acting governor during absence of Governor James W. Aldred.

Woodul said he planned to make an active campaign "on my own merits, visiting as many sections as time permits and discussing frankly issues involved in the race."

"If elected, I shall safeguard to my utmost ability the interest of the people of Texas, and of the public schools in the public domain," Woodul said. "I shall enforce the anti-trust laws, the oil laws and all other laws it may become the attorney general's duty to enforce."

Woodul received a record-breaking vote for lieutenant governor in 1934 and was unopposed in 1936, polling a heavy vote.

Woodul, while a member of the state legislature, advocated passage of laws for a unified highway system, better schools, improved sanitation, improved labor conditions and laws intended to aid farmers and livestock raisers.

STATE SAYS INSURANCE COMPANY IS INSOLVENT

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—The Republic Underwriters Insurance Co. of Waco today faced a receivership suit brought by the state on an allegation that the company was insolvent.

District Judge Roy C. Archer named a receiver after the attorney general's department, at request of the Board of Insurance Commissioners, brought suit.

The petition alleged a deficit of $10,926 made the company insolvent.

Curtis E. Hill of Dallas was named receiver and John Atkinson of Waco, attorney for the receiver.

The company's last statement set forth it was authorized to do business in Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Missouri, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, Colorado, Florida and Mississippi.

GUTHRIE ORCHESTRA TO PLAY AT LEGION DANCE

Another old-time dance will be given by the Kerley-Crossman post of the American Legion at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the American Legion hall.

Joe Guthrie and his orchestra will furnish the music. Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie recently returned from Tia Juana, Mexico, where they were on programs broadcast from the Mexican radio station.
