

MACK'S RETURN TO HEALTH ACTS AS SPARK PLUG FOR LOWLY ATHLETICS

CONNIE BASES INFIELD HOPES ON LODIGIANI

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
GULFPORT, Miss., April 1—If the Philadelphia Athletics come back as has Connie Mack, they'll win the American League pennant and bag the world series in four straight games.

That is by far the most pleasing feature of the current spring training trip of the men of Shibe Park—the condition and appearance of their 75-year-old manager.

Colonel Mack—made so just the other day when he was appointed to the staff of Gov. Richard Leche of Louisiana—had one foot in the grave last winter. Suffering from a gall bladder ailment, the tall tactician fell away to 119 pounds.

"I don't mind telling you I was worried along about that time," beams the genial colonel. "I was afraid I wasn't going to make it. But I've got it licked, and I'm coming. It now looks like I'll go 10 more years."

Colonel Mack now scales more than 140 pounds, and his good health is reflected in his squad. The A's looked like one of the worst outfits ever assembled at the outset, but improved with the old colonel so rapidly and to such an extent that they copped seven consecutive exhibition engagements, topping the New York Giants, among others.

Bank On San Francisco
Colonel Mack's principal hope for a rise from seventh place, where the A's finished in 1937, is based on Dario Lodigiani, who veterans like Mule Haas say will do at second base if he gets some of the lead out of his back pockets.

A bulky share of the Athletics' defeats last term were traced to second base, where Colonel Mack played no less than five hired hands, including the wayward veteran, Bill Cissell, and the Duke University kid, Wayne Ambler.

So Colonel Mack spent $66,000 for second basemen during the offseason, purchasing, in addition to Lodigiani, Stanley Sperry, who batted .356 and scored 99 runs for Oklahoma City in 111 games.

But Lodigiani—pronounced "Load-e-johnny"—has the call. San Francisco's famous Italian baseball-playing colony's latest contribution to the majors performed for the Oakland Coastiers for two campaigns. He batted .327 in 1937, and batted .355 in 1938, and 18 home runs to account for 84 runs batted in.

Sperry will be carried.
Colonel Mack once more is building his pitching staff around the veteran Harry Kelley and George Caster. Lee Ross is about due to arrive. The left-handed Chubby Dean, too slow to play first base, beat Bob Feller and Cleveland at Shibe Park last fall.

Luther Thomas, Randy Gumpert, and Edgar Smith, a left-hander, are promising Alton Williams, recalled from Atlanta, is coming along. Lynn Nelson is a competent relief worker, and will be assisted in this department by Nelson Potter, who was drafted from Columbus.

Catching Presents Problem
Mack thinks a great deal of Bill Kalfass, a six-foot three-and-a-half inch southpaw who is as sea-saw-y as he is tall. Kalfass and his jerky motion, which throws batters off balance, was purchased from Trenton last autumn in time to win one game for the A's.

Frank Hayes is expected to do most of the catching, but the New Jersey lad isn't hustling, and it looks like Harold Wagner, a tall and slender Duke product, will return next spring to take over the first-string job. Wagner, a tall and slender chap who got in 28 games with Portsmouth of the Coastal League last term, is to be farmed out.

Meanwhile, the well-seasoned Earle Brucker once more will share the backstopping responsibilities with the disappointing Hayes.
Colonel Mack is sold on Gene Hassen at first base, and has Lou Finney and Haas as backstops for the 22-year-old left-hander.

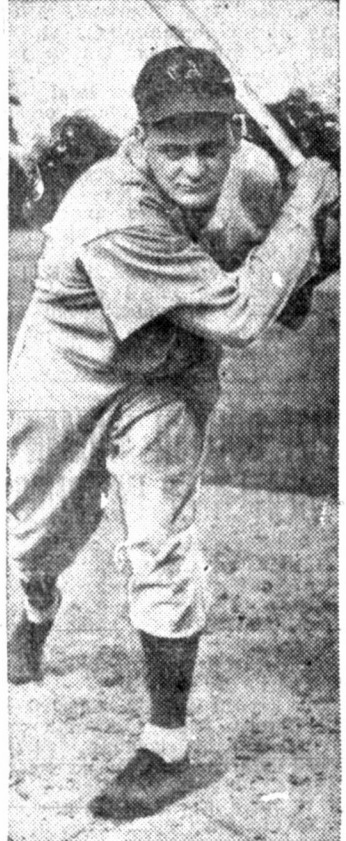

Recalled from Williamsport last fall, Hassen broke into the American League with a home run in his first trip to the plate. He played first base brilliantly for the A's in 28 contests, not making an error, and taking part in 31 double plays, five of which he started and

ADMIRAL-SEABISCUIT DUEL DEPENDS ON C. V. WHITNEY

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The proposed $100,000 match race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit apparently hung today on the decision of C. V. Whitney, vice-president of the Westchester Racing association.

Whitney, who has been on a fishing trip off the Bahamas, could not be reached for a statement, but the New York Sun said it learned he finished. He batted 306 in those 28 battles, his swats including three home runs.

Hassen is a 197-pounder, standing six feet one. He hits left-handed, too. He seems too good to be true.

Outfield All Set
Skeeter Newsome and Bill Werber complete the infield. Ambler, who broke in so auspiciously last summer, and fielded so well until he broke his thumb, is to be sent out.

The outfield will be composed of the redoubtable Bob Johnson and Wally Moses, who had to be satisfied with $10,000 per, and Paul Eastering, who larrups the leather for magnificent distances.

Eastering, purchased from Oklahoma City, is no infant. He's been at it since he was discharged from the army in 1925. He had trials with Detroit in 1928 and '30, but refused to behave.

The handy Finney and Haas are dividing reserves, too.
The A's are not the best club in the American League, but a little of the spirit of Colonel Mack would take them a long way.

St. Louis Browns Still Kingpins of Grapefruit Loop

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Although they sustained their first defeat of the spring training schedule in their first encounter with big league opposition, Colonel Gabby Street's St. Louis Browns today are still king-pins of the Grapefruit league.

That one trimming, by the Chicago Cubs, is the lone blot on the Browns' 18-game record. Since their closest rivals, the Pittsburgh Pirates and Detroit Tigers, each have lost five games, and the opening of the major league campaigns is only a week away, it's a record that's likely to make the St. Louisans champions of the citrus circuit for 1938.

The Tigers, winners in all seven of their games last week, came up from fourth to a tie for second and pushed the New York Giants down to fourth place. But the St. Louis Cardinals, also winning seven, made the biggest advance, from tenth to fifth. The Redbirds' record is seventeen and ten, compared to the Giants' sixteen and six.

The National leaguers saw their margin in inter-league competition cut considerably. The standings now are: National 44, Americans 42, compared to the 36-31 score a week ago.

Top team in inter-league competition is the Pittsburgh Pirates, unbeaten in three starts, all against the Chicago White Sox. The Browns have won two out of three from the Cubs, lead among the majors, with the Boston Red Sox and Cincinnati Reds are even at nine victories and six defeats.

Roswell Golfer Wins Title In Tucson Tourney

TUCSON, April 11 (AP)—Unaccustomed as he was to tournament play, particularly on such smooth grass greens as those of El Rio Country club, Ralph Petty, Roswell, N. M., grocer, was southwestern golf champion today.

Arriving unheralded at the start of the tournament, and overlooked in the prognostications, he played steadily throughout, winning the title from Russell Valentine, University of Arizona student from Miami, Ariz., former and three, in the climax yesterday.

Valentine, former state champion, weakened on the greens after a sparkling display of putting Saturday when he overcame Jack Harden, El Paso, Texas, in the semi-finals. Petty led two up at the end of the morning round, and clinched victory on the fifteenth hole of the afternoon session. It was his first major competition on grass greens. He reached the finals by defeating Jim Canning, University of Arizona student, Saturday.

IN THE TEXAS LEAGUE

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 11 (AP)—The Oklahoma City Indians lost to St. Paul of the American Association 11 to 1 in the first game of a double header here yesterday, then came back to take the nightcap 5 to 2 and even up the bill.

KILGORE—The Kilgore Rangers' ninth inning rally featuring Bob Price's double down the foul line whipped the Shreveport Sports of the Texas league 9 to 8. Johnson and Felle both homered for the Rangers in the ninth.

FORT WORTH—The Dallas Steers took Fort Worth's measure 4 to 3 in the first of two Texas league exhibition games. The Steers came back to win the seven-inning nightcap 13 to 8, pounding Dallas' rookie pitchers.

BEAUMONT—The Beaumont Exporters, completing their spring exhibition schedule, defeated the Toledo Mud Hens in two games. The Exporters took the first 2 to 1 and the second 3 to 0.

AUSTIN—The San Antonio Missions of the Texas league defeated an independent team 13 to 4.

HOUSTON—The St. Louis Cardinals squeezed out a 4 to 3 win from the Houston Buffs of the Texas league before 9,500 spectators here yesterday.

FORT WORTH, April 11 (AP)—Despite the fact his club lost both ends of a doubleheader to the Browns yesterday, Boss Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs maintains he could have one of the best relief pitching stiffs in the league if he were to use Charley Root, Jack Russell and Bob Logan as "handy-andies."

DALLAS—The St. Louis Cardinals met the Texas league Dallas Steers today after holding a one-day "old home week" in Houston, where they whipped the farmhands, 4-3. Dizzy Dean, Lon Warneke, Mike Ryan, Stuart and Pepper Martin, Joe Medwick, Bill McGehee, Don Gutteridge, and Don Padgett all formerly played for Houston.

Tremaine And Mandell Feature Card Tonight

Who's who in scientific grappling circles will be decided tonight at the Pampa Athletic arena when Andy Tremaine of Phoenix, Ariz., tangles with Jack Mandell, Australian Kangaroo man, in the main event of Promoter Cliff Chambers' weekly wrestling card. Opening event will be at 8 o'clock.

The star is among the best in the middleweight class. When it comes to speed, science and cunning they don't come any better. There are stronger middleweights but strength isn't everything in wrestling.

A semi-final that should tear the roof off the arena will send Gorilla Poggi, Argentine bad man, against Bob Cummings, the bounding Oregonian. Poggi will be on the mat for the first time or since he received a broken nose in a battle with Jack Mandell.

Poggi, through his interpreter, announced today, "I'm scheduled to get that Cummings guy in a hurry so that I'll get a crack at the main event next week. I'm picking Mandell to take Tremaine and its that feet-slinging Mandell I want to get."

Cummings likes the going clean and scientific but when he gets in a spot where the other guy is out for slaughter, Bob can get a little tough in his own right, which will be necessary tonight.

Pasha Bey, Turkish terror, will be on the preliminary with an unnamed opponent. He was scheduled to meet Soldier Thomas, but that worthy is on a road trip. Rex O'Sullivan or some other middleweight will meet the Turk.

Admission will be 65 cents, ring-side reserve, tax paid, and 40 cents general admission.

Black Hawks Need One Game To Clinch Title

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Those amazing and battered Chicago Blackhaws, today were just one game away from the professional hockey championship and possession of the Stanley cup.

Twice victorious in the best three-out-of-five series with the Toronto Maple Leafs, the Hawks battle the Leafs in the fourth game at the Chicago stadium tomorrow night. They are determined to win and end it if they lose the fifth and deciding game will be played in Toronto Thursday night.

In a murderous battle, marked by half a dozen fights, both on ice and among the spectators, the Hawks conquered Toronto 2-1 last night before 18,496 fans. The crowd smashed the former national hockey league record for paid admissions, hung up when 17,071 persons watched the Hawks play the Montreal Canadiens here in the spring of 1931.

Elwyn (Doc) Romnes, whose nose was broken in three places at Toronto last Thursday, was the hero of the game. Playing with a guard over his nose, Romnes stifled a 25-foot shot past goalie Walter Broda with less than four minutes of the game remaining. The puck bounded out of the net, causing the Toronto players to swarm around the officials in protest that it had not crossed the line. The officials ruled otherwise, however.

The instant the game started, Red Horner, Toronto defense player, was a marked man. He was responsible for breaking Romnes' nose and causing a total of eleven stitches to be taken in four of the Blackhawk players. Romnes, determined to get even with Horner, slashed at him with his stick in the first rush. Romnes missed Horner's face, and brought his stick crashing down on his shoulder. The big Canadian player dropped to the ice, more frightened than injured.

From then on, the game developed into a battle between the players, with thirteen penalties including one major being assessed because of the fights. The play was so rough that nine penalties were handed out in the first 20 minutes of the game.

Chunky Bill Stewart, manager of the Hawks, was immensely proud of their showing. He bounded into the dressing room after the game, and warmly embraced Romnes, with the players indulging in hilarious back-slapping and yelling. Romnes was their hero.

At the home of the bride's parents here yesterday.
Dr. Gary Smith, father of the bride, read the double ring ceremony in the living room of the Smith home. There were no attendants or music and only immediate members of both families were present.

After a reception at the home the couple left by automobile on their trip. Baugh will play baseball with the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association this summer.

Canadian Woman's Grandson

Coming up from the ranks of the unknown with a rush, Fred Wolcott, above, Rice Institute sophomore, set a new world's record for the high hurdles when he raced 120-yards over the timbers in 13.9 seconds. Young Wolcott is a grandson of Mrs. G. W. Arrington of Canadian. Although he had never run the event until a year ago, he is being hailed as an outstanding Olympic hope for 1940.

BORGANS PLAY FIRST 3 DAYS OF THIS WEEK

It's baseball week in Borgers! The Huber Carbons of that city, fresh from a 2 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, are opening the current baseball season in the Panhandle with four games this week.

The first series will find the Carbons meeting the Ponca City Angels of the Western Association on Sunday and Monday, and following up with games Tuesday and Wednesday against the Homestead Grays. The latter three games will be under the lights starting at 8:30 p. m.

The Borgers team is widely known to fans all over the Southwest due to its record over the last few seasons, and especially since the victory last Wednesday over the Pittsburgh Pirates. This victory broke a 12-game Pirate winning streak that had started early in the training season and included wins over the Chicago Cubs and the Chicago White Sox.

The Ponca City Angels are trekking their way back to Ponca City to begin league play after having trained for some weeks on Catalina Island off the coast of California. The Angels are reported to be in good shape and promise to put a strong team on the field. Last year the Carbons and the Angels split a two game series, and this year, although the Carbons are doped to win, the Angels hope to take home the victories that will show once and for all that they have the best team. Anyway you take it, though, the games will furnish plenty of thrills and good play.

Following on the heels of the Angels, the Homestead Grays will take a share of the Baseball Week spotlight. The Grays are the many-time winners of the Negro National League pennant, and in their previous Panhandle starts have won much favor from the fans for their fine play and exceptional showmanship.

The Grays report that they have a better team than ever before, and should give the Carbons plenty of competition.

Yankees, Giants Named Favorites By Betting Czar

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The New York Yankees and Giants have been installed by Jack Doyle, New York's betting commissioner, as favorites to repeat their pennant triumphs of 1937.

Doyle rates the Yankees, even money choice last year, odds-on favorites at 7-10, despite the fact the world champions have not yet signed Joe DiMaggio and despite their sloppy spring showing. The Giants, rated third by Doyle in 1937, were priced at 8-5.

They Intended to Throw These At Hockey Officials!

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Six thousand hockey fans occupying general admission seats were given a general frisking before they entered the Chicago stadium last night to witness the bruising game between the Chicago Blackhaws and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

As a result, police confiscated about 50 to 60 bags containing lemons, tomatoes, bottles and over-ripe fruit. All was intended to be thrown on the ice, possibly in protest to bad decisions.

The police failed, however, to pick up numerous decks of cards which at periods were tossed from the top galleries onto the ice, and scattered in every direction.

Only 1,310 Veterans To Go Back To Gettysburg

By PAUL MARTIN
 GETTYSBURG, Pa., April 11 (AP)—Only a straggle line of the thousands who braved cannon ball and rifle shot in the civil war will return to the hallowed battlefield this summer for the reunion of the blue and gray.

Illness and infirmities have cut deeply into their ranks, those in charge of the celebration said today in announcing that but 1,310 would be able to attend the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, June 29 to July 5.

Most of them are in their 90's and a few are past the century mark but their spirit is that of youth.

"If it's all right to do so, I prefer to travel by air," Joseph Walter Bricker of Los Angeles wrote to the Pennsylvania Memorial commission which has been receiving the written acceptances of the veterans.

The acceptances are vignettes of sentiment, comradeship, paths and humor.

"Can't come, can get no company," Henry Goshman, 90, of Burbank, Calif., wrote. "I was born in Germany, raised in Wisconsin, brought up in California, lived happily in Texas. Homesteaded in Minnesota, grasshoppered in Kansas, divorced in New Mexico, served in the army and dug gold in Arizona 14 years."

"I'll be there if I have to crawl," said a letter from John Young, 87, of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The federal government is providing transportation, housing and food for all the veterans making the pilgrimage.

of Dale Butler, who scored 98, and Alice Smith, whose score was 100.

Woodrow Wilson won third place, with Shirley Louise Taylor scoring 100 and Phyllis Ann Parker, 97.

In the sixth grade spelling contest, Betty Sue Johnson and Mary Helen Hayes, of Horace Mann, scored 94 and 99 respectively, to make Horace Mann school the winner in this division.

Second place went to Woodrow Wilson: Patricia Lively, 87, Frank Fiauf, 98; third place to Sam Houston, Faye Gee, 88, Fannie Wedgeworth, 85.

Miss Beatrice Drew, Baker school teacher, city chairman, presided over the contests. Judges were high school teachers Mrs. Hol Wagner and Miss Clarine Branom.

DISTRICT COURT TERM STARTED AT WHEELER

SHAMROCK, April 11—With light dockets in both civil and criminal divisions, the spring term of 31st district court for Wheeler county was opened today at Wheeler with Judge W. R. Ewing on the bench.

As usual the first week will be given over to non-jury civil cases, with jury civil cases set for the week beginning April 18. The divorce docket is heavy, there being 25 cases to come to the attention of the court.

The grand jury convened today. Sixteen names appear on the panel from which will be chosen the 12 men to serve on the deliberate body. The panel includes:

Melvin Howe, Wheeler; C. J. Meek, Wheeler; C. E. Sharkey, Wheeler; A. J. Williams, Wheeler; A. B. Lancaster, Mobeetie; W. L. Newmann, Mobeetie; Nep Trew, Mobeetie; G. C. Ware, Mobeetie; J. W. HOUSTON, BAKER TEAMS TIE IN SPELLING TILT

Pupils of Sam Houston and E. M. Baker schools, tied for first place among fourth and fifth grade Pampa ward school students, in a spelling contest of fourth and fifth, and sixth grade pupils, held at Horace Mann school Thursday afternoon.

Six of the eight students entered in the contest for pupils of the fourth and fifth grades, scored 100. A perfect score was made by each of the winning teams in the fourth-fifth grade contest, in which Sam Houston was represented by Helen Jean Paxson and Warren Fathree, Baker by Margaret Covington and Harry Vanderburg.

Second place was won by Horace Mann, whose team was composed

NEW LONG RANGE GUNS FOR COASTS ORDERED

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Army officers said today new long range guns to fight off attackers along a 5,000-mile coastline, and submarine mine equipment to snag invaders' ships, soon may fill gaps in their $65,000,000 coast defense program.

The nation's greatest city and its capital both would be made more secure, they said, by further fortification of the entrances to New York harbor and Chesapeake bay.

Military secrecy veiled most details of the plans.

The $491,000,000 war department supply bill approved last week by the senate included approximately $23,500,000 to protect coastal cities and harbors.

Unless the figure is trimmed materially before final congressional action, considerable sums may be expended for the first time in years on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts as well as the Pacific.

Since Congress in 1936 gave the war department funds to strengthen

CONVICTS WILL BE QUESTIONED IN 2 SLAYINGS

DALLAS, April 11 (AP)—Two Oklahoma ex-convicts, held here as suspects in a series of southeast robberies, will be questioned, Chief of Detectives Will Fritz said, in connection with the deaths of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy.

Dallas Detectives J. T. Luther and F. T. Keith and Federal Agent Tom Neil arrested the two, Jack Flippin, 30, and Jack O. Barnes, 34, last night as they were driving in an expensive coupe here.

Luther, who said the men had been travelling throughout the West, robbing as they went, said also they had served time in the Oklahoma state prison at McAlester.

Local officers were questioning the two concerning a recent holdup of a Dallas loan company, and said they believed the arrest would solve a series of bank and loan company robberies in the two states.

At Tulsa Detective Sergeant Linn Moss said Flippin and Barnes were charged there with armed robbery in connection with the holdup of an auto loan company, and were wanted at Fort Smith, Ark., for a similar job.

Fort Worth officers said Flippin, alias Jack West, was charged with robbery of a package store operator, and Barnes with the robbery of a cafe cashier.

Sheriff Chris Fox of El Paso, who said he had considered the two as possible suspects in the Frome slayings, said he was asking Dallas officers thoroughly to question them. Fox said they left El Paso the day before or early the morning the women were believed killed.

He said the men apparently had gone northward through Roswell, but he would like an exhaustive check.

When the two were arrested officers found golf balls and tees but no clubs. They said the men had been playing golf.

In the luggage of the two, found at a tourist camp, were several guns, officers said, but none of .32 calibre, size of the weapon sought in the Frome case.

AMNESIA VICTIM AT SANTONE IDENTIFIED

SAN ANTONIO, April 11 (AP)—Police today identified a 22-year-old amnesia victim as David K. Andrews, United States Consular Attache at Tampico, Mexico. Identification was established through a passport and other consular papers he carried in a brief case.

Andrews, identified as a son of a prominent Chattanooga, Tenn., manufacturer, walked into detective headquarters last night and enlisted the aid of police to establish his identity, explaining that he could not recall how he came to be in San Antonio, or any details of his life.

The Consular Attache, under care of physicians here today, passed through San Antonio less than two weeks ago en route to Tampico to aid in evacuating several American oil company employes marooned in a small town near Tampico. He had been enjoying a vacation at Sun Valley, Idaho, when called back to duty.

In Andrews' pockets were a Pan-American airlines ticket to Brownsville and a railroad ticket from Brownsville to Dallas. In addition he had a quantity of United States and Mexican currency, police reported.

Although well dressed, the Consular Attache's clothing was torn and there were bruises on his face and right knee, which he was unable to explain. He was able to recall alighting from a Southern Pacific passenger train here and that a bystander informed him he had come from Houston.

The word "insect" comes from the Latin insectus, or "cut into." Insects were given the name because of their "cut-in" appearance.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

WASHINGTON — Rep. Hatton Summers of Texas was photographed with his feet on the table—one of those informal poses—and almost the outstanding feature was a hole in the sole of his shoe. How did he get it? He walks.

Members must take their exercise in some manner and Summers prefers his afoot. He scouts the countryside thoroughly on pleasant weekends and knows the lay of most Civil War battlefields hereabouts.

But his everyday walking has something special about it. There was a time when he lived in a downtown hotel, ate his meals there and walked to the capitol, a mile or so away, for the exercise. More than one congressman has tired of downtown hotel life and so did Mr. Summers. So he moved to a hotel on Capitol Hill.

That, however, eliminated the mile walk. Now he walks from his rooms across the shady capital plaza to the restaurant in the new Supreme Court building for breakfast, and back to the capitol, in all about a mile. He goes to the same restaurant for lunch. It doesn't serve dinner.

The Eggs Are Right
He likes the restaurant. The help knows how he wants his toast fixed in the morning. They coddle his eggs right.

"You don't have to call on the League of Nations to explain to them each time," he says.

He has to watch his diet a bit. He doesn't always eat toast and eggs. Occasionally in winter he eats a dish we never heard of before. It is oat meal mush, covered with honey. Try it some time. We haven't yet, but will be glad to get reports on it.

His job as chairman of the house rules committee brings him in close touch with federal judges. Complaints about judges being biased, unfair to certain groups of lawyers, sluggish in their work or "tainted" in their conduct, find their way to the house judiciary committee. It is the first body to act in impeachments.

Complaints are pending before the committee most of the time. Few see the light of day. The committee investigates, occasionally summons the judge to Washington to explain, or has a member visit the judge's district. The Constitution gives the committee no authority to discipline judges but when a judge finds the committee is inquiring into his affairs he usually mends his ways—if they need mending.

Home to Roost
Summers has been in Congress since 1913 and a glance at election statistics indicates that nothing is likely to interfere there immediately.

One of the best stories about him dates back to a time when he was district attorney. Chicken-stealing was becoming serious. One day a farmer was arrested with a wagon load of chickens but conviction promised to be no cinch.

Summers took the wagon load of chickens back to a community which had suffered a loss the night before. Shortly before sundown he turned the chickens loose. They wandered about the wagon for a time, considerably bewildered, then began moving off in bunches, each flock to its own coop. A jury thought that was enough evidence.

AN INTERESTING CASE

As a result of an automobile accident in which a man was killed, proprietors of two cafes are being sued in Detroit for allegedly selling liquor to a 17-year-old youth, and thereby making of the youth a "destructive agent."

The suit against the cafe owners, asking $72,000, comes after the 17-year-old driver had been determined by a court to have been responsible for the accident, was found guilty of negligent homicide and sentenced to 90 days in prison and placed on probation.

The court action now seeks to place the responsibility for the boy's condition at the time of the accident on the cafe operators. If the judgments are obtained as asked, it would mean that those selling liquor to juveniles and then allowing them to go out to drive would be held responsible for the actions of such youngsters while under the influences of liquor thus sold.

Such an outcome of the case would most certainly put a new complexion on the sale of liquor to minors.

The outcome of the case also undoubtedly will be of widespread interest to liquor and beer dealers, everywhere, to the victims of drunken drivers and to lawyers generally.

It's hard to tell whether the French government is a merry-go-round or a dance of death.

Now Mexico's pouring oil on her troubled waters, and any minute somebody may drop a match.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If you could see and hear the boys scrambling after Indian head pennies you would understand how thoroughly numismatology has caught on in New York. Like mah jong, which sizzled through the early twenties like a fantastic Oriental fever, the pastime of coin-collecting is affecting its adherents with the same bright-eyed, jittery fervor.

In Broadway cafe bars and South streets subway trains strangers are comparing Liberty nickels and mummbling to their beads about commemorative half-dollars. The 1922 Lincoln penny with the D (Denver) mint mark has replaced Dizzy Dean as a sure-fire topic of conversation, and wherever you go you are sure to have drilled into your ears the same old sad refrain: "Buddy, can you spare an 1893 dime?"

Your correspondent spent an hour today with a man who makes a lucrative business of buying and selling coins, and that there is much to be said in favor of this pleasant mania can not be denied by any reasonable person. Here are a few items concerning one plentiful but now elusive coin, including that fascinating symbol of vanishing Americans, the Indian head penny.

The first coin minted in this country was the Pine Tree shilling struck by Massachusetts in 1652, and today if you wish to add it to your collection it will cost you $12.50 to $20, depending on the condition of the coin.

The reason you find more 1919 Lincoln head pennies is because 392,000,000 poured from the mints at one time . . . probably no 5-cent piece is more valuable than the 1913 Liberty nickel, of which only six were minted . . . as for the Indian head penny, it was designed by J. B. Longacre in 1804. . . The first Liberty nickels were struck in 1838. . . Commemorative half-dollars are juicy items with most collectors and involve a considerable outlay of cash. . . For instance, the Grant memorial half dollar with a star cost $60. . . It will cost you a tidy $17 to add an Alabama memorial coin to your portfolio. . . A surprisingly cheap buy is the Lincoln head half-dollar, which retails for only $1.

Then there are the attractive coins struck as memorials to the War between the States . . . the battle of Gettysburg, the battle of Antietam, Stone Mountain others are available at small cost, and they comprise the most attractive group of coins to be had.

Perhaps you will fancy the Benjamin Franklin copper, in which case you should get ready to shell out $2.50. . . The pewter dollar authorized by the Continental Congress (1776) is fetching $15. . . And two copper coins, known appropriately as the Silly Head and the Bobby Head (1839) are itemed at a lowly 50¢ each.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM.

The most surprised man in the county Friday was Jess Morris, driver of school bus No. 3 which became famous as the result of radio broadcasts during the blizzard Thursday night. Yesterday, Jess said that he knew nothing about the anxiety for bus No. 3 that prevailed. He did not even turn on the radio Thursday night after he arrived home. Jess, an old-timer in this community, said that the snow drowned out his motor near his house, and that he took the two remaining children home with him. "If I had turned on the radio and heard all that was said, I would have come to town and told them that we were safe—or I would have gone to a phone and called them." He said he had no idea that people would be concerned about the bus. "I just never thought about turning on the radio."

Mrs. May Foreman Carr, the pianist and teacher, and her daughter, Margaret (who manages to stay on the high school honor roll and work behind the ticket window at the Crown, too), turned their apartment in the Culberson-Smalling building into a "canteen" Thursday night. They made gallons of soup, coffee and stacks of sandwiches for the rescue workers at KPND, and Mrs. Carr's piano studio was almost as crowded as the radio station. Mrs. Carr and Margaret were up all night. They had high praise for the KPND squad and for all the rescue workers.

VITAMINS AND ALCOHOL.

Some people think vitamins can cure alcoholism because vitamin B has been effective in curing the multiple neuritis (nerve inflammation) affecting certain chronic alcoholic sufferers.

Vitamins do not cure addiction to alcohol. Alcohol does not directly cause neuritis. Its effect in the chronic alcoholic is indirect. The habitual and heavy drinker is likely to neglect his diet. The intake of vitamin B becomes inadequate and he is then likely to suffer the consequences of this form of vitamin lack.

Alcohol does not directly cause neuritis. Its effect in the chronic alcoholic is indirect. The habitual and heavy drinker is likely to neglect his diet. The intake of vitamin B becomes inadequate and he is then likely to suffer the consequences of this form of vitamin lack. It is possible, without decreasing his alcohol consumption, to alleviate him of his neuritis by giving him large doses of the lacking vitamin. But in all probability the neuritis of the chronic alcoholic is due to more than merely an inadequate intake of the vitamin. The disturbance in the functioning of the digestive tract, of the liver and of the kidneys, resulting from the excessive use of alcohol, probably contributes to the vitamin lack, and the consequent development of the neuritis.

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Those hardy battlers, Flags and Quirt, have had a long and more or less honorable career on the screen and the end is not yet.

In "The Battle of Broadway" they are no longer Flags and Quirt, except in spirit, Edmund Lowe, who used to play Quirt to Victor McLaglen's Flags, is absent from the cast. McLaglen plays Big Ben Wheeler, and his adversary in heavy boasting and light romance is Brian Donley as Chesty Webb.

The boys are sent by their steel mill boss (Raymond Walburn) to the New York American Legion convention to break up a romance between the boss's son and a show-girl. Bunglingly, they pick the wrong show-girl (Louise Hovick) and fight for her affections, and by seeing her triumphant in the situation, themselves behind the eight-ball.

"The Battle of Broadway" is not quite a landmark in movie history but it is a clever, quick-paced and often riotously funny piece. George Marshall's direction accents speed without sacrificing deftness, and probably must be credited for eliciting a better performance than expected from hither-to-wooden Louise Hovick.

Marcel Pagnol's play "Fanny," in its movie translation, was known first as "Madelon," then as "Life on the Waterfront," and finally as "Port of Seven Seas," which is none too appropriate either. Nominally a starring vehicle for Wallace Berry, the film suffers apparently from the same indecision which marked its quest for a title.

Actually the sincere and moving story of a girl whose lover could not resist the sea and who turned, in her biological predicament, to marriage with a kindly, understanding older man, the film is retarded at intervals by excessive talkiness to spotlight Berry.

When it swings clear of this handicap and settles upon its real job, "Port of Seven Seas" approaches greatness as adult drama, honestly stated, brilliantly acted, and satisfactorily concluded. The real stars are Maureen O'Sullivan, in an inspired emotional performance, and Frank Morgan, who endows the character of the old lover Panisse with unstrained pathos, a triumph in a role that invited over-acting. John Beal, in his one big scene, supports his corner of the triangle admirably.

The week's novelty is "Her Jungle Love," a technicolor thriller with Ray Milland, Dorothy Lamour, Lynne Overman, and Jiggs, late lamented chimpanzee, who doubt as to what is coming next, and even the spectacular volcanic eruption is no surprise. But—

Unless you're awfully, awfully sophisticated, watch out. You may find your heart in your throat more than once, and Overman's running fire of "gags" may keep you howling when you aren't sitting there tensely pretending you don't believe a scene of it. George Archibald did it, and well.

The alcoholic in good physical condition is a more promising patient for psychiatric treatment than the one who is physically run down.

News Clearing House

Pampa, Texas, April 10, 1938. Pampa Daily News:

I can see no just, fair or tenable reason why KPND should be criticized in any respect for the marvelous means of communication and charities to the needy which that station and its magnificent helpers afforded to the marooned and distressed people of this territory during the recent severe storm. Not only should everyone be grateful for the comfort that was given concerning those who were threatened upon the highways with death or serious injury, but also they should give praise for this God-given invention which has placed it in the hands of mere men the blessed means of annihilating time, space and distance and using the sightless couriers of the air to fly upon the wings of the tempest to convey intelligence of danger and warning of disaster.

The sacrificial devotion of those who forfeited sleep to guard the unwary through the dark watches of the night should be especially commended, because in another period that might be infinitely worse we might be badly hurt if this fine radio institute, feeling rebuffed, did not again take guardianship over our lives and our properties, and, more particularly, over our precious children.

The weary wayfarers will wonder what might have happened if this had been a zero blizzard and a deeper widespread snow, such as these Texas plains did have in former years.

Only those who are not in any danger can ever afford to shoot at the sentry.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL.

AUSTIN, April 11 (AP)—A threat to states' rights from the federal government, says secretary of state Edward Clark, is embodied in what is known as the Borah-O'Mahoney federal licensing act. This measure would require all corporations in the United States having assets of $100,000 or more to take out a federal license in lieu of state charters.

Clark, recently returned from Washington where he opposed the bill in a hearing before a sub-group of the senate judiciary committee. He estimated if the bill became a law it would deprive Texas of $750,000 in revenue which now goes to the general fund.

Before the committee, he argued the bill was unconstitutional in that it was an attempt of the federal government to regulate local business and also infringed on prerogatives of the states.

Sponsors of the bill maintain it would prevent violations of the anti-trust laws, unfair competition, discriminations of various kinds and child labor.

Clark's visit was the latest of a Texas state official to Washington for the purpose of fighting proposed federal legislation.

A few weeks ago Gov. James V. Allred, Attorney General William McCraw and land commissioner W. H. McDonald appeared before another congressional committee in opposition to a resolution which they said might establish federal claim to submerged lands along the Texas coast.

In 1935 Ernest O. Thompson, member of the railroad commission, and others bitterly and successfully battled against what they regarded as federal efforts to regulate and virtually control the oil industry.

Gov. Allred disclosed recently how Col. E. M. House used on him an effective method peculiar to the colonel for terminating interviews with some visitors.

"In 1936 I called on Col. House in New York," Gov. Allred said. "We chatted a while and finally I asked a question about something or other and the colonel did not answer at all. He just sat there."

"Well, I certainly felt let down, but I didn't mind it so much when later I learned that he had done many others the same way."

Gov. Allred added that Col. House

REPEAL WAGNER LAW RATHER THAN EXTEND IT.

Instead of extending the control of the National Labor Relations Board to include every project for which the federal government has loaned money, the law should be repealed. It is one of the primary causes of this recession.

If this bill were passed, the National Labor Relations Board would have the right to determine who is qualified to work on public works all over the country. It would further enmesh every project under the hands of the appointees of the President. It would give the National Labor Relations Board the right to determine whether a man could be replaced for inefficiency or not. It would be a direct blow to free enterprise and the competitive system.

Every step by the government that interferes with the natural division of labor reduces production, raises the cost of living and lowers the standard of wages and living.

It might be well to drop Senator Royal Copeland a letter protesting against enlarging the scope of the National Labor Relations Board. He is the senator at the head of the committee.

"Let Them Answer!"
What we need in this country now is a few statesmen like the great English statesman, Robert Peel.

Robert Peel went into parliament a strong believer in protection and the great Richard Cobden was also a member of parliament and believed in free trading and opposed to the Corn Law. There was a famine in Ireland that resulted in a great many deaths. Cobden pressed the issue and explained how it affected the poor, until finally Peel exclaimed, "Let them answer him who can; I cannot." And he proceeded then to heel himself about the repeal of the Corn Law.

Peel was a man of conscience and when he could not answer questions, he was willing to change his position.

If we had people in congress who would explain how we could have more by limiting output, by passing laws to artificially restrict working hours, or do like Peel, did admit that they could not answer these questions—they would correct a very important cause of unemployment.

And when men cannot answer questions intelligently on the things they are advocating, they are undoubtedly advocating things that are harmful.

7,000 WATCH GERMAN SALIPLANE AT WICHITA

WICHITA FALLS, April 11 (AP)—More than 7,000 spectators watched the first German saliplane ever brought to Texas float and circle above the municipal airport here Sunday as the soaring society of America expedition got under way.

L. B. Barringer of Philadelphia, manager of the society, piloted the giant gull-wing plane on experimental flights, several lasting 35 minutes. When he made preliminary tests Saturday, Barringer asserted his faith in this portion of Texas as ideal for soaring. Sunday's flights seemed to bear out his previous observations.

"Meteorologists claim that Central Russia is the world's best plains country soaring base, but my back is on Texas," he said. "I believe Texas will prove the ideal spot."

Kennedy Hailed As Hero For Banning Presentation Of Debutantes To King

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Our new ambassador to England, Joseph P. Kennedy, will go down in history as one of the heroes of United States diplomacy for his daring in discontinuing the presentation of debutantes from this country at the royal court.

This annual rush for glory long has been a nightmare to the American embassy in London, and Washington also has got many a headache out of it.

His Excellency has displayed real courage in facing—so to speak—the three hundred pairs of angry eyes belonging to those duchesses of the social register who already had begged to be allowed the rare privilege of curtsying before their majesties this season.

One would think, too, that it would be a lot of nerve to brush aside all the pressure which is brought to bear on ambassadors by powerful interests, political and otherwise, whose wives or daughters or friends simply must bow before royalty.

Pressure Tremendous. I watched this business at close range for many years, and the average ambassador has been driven almost to distraction by it. Only about thirty American girls can be presented at court, and the applications always run to hundreds.

Now those appeals come from people of consequence. Moreover, they generally are supported by a battery of big political names. Not only is the ambassador bombarded, but the applicants may also work thru Washington.

The head that wears a crown lies no more uneasy than does that of the unhappy ambassador. Sole responsibility for the selection of names rests with him. So he wraps a wet towel about his head and picks the thirty girls. But their feverish expressions of gratitude are drowned by the blast of reproaches from the 270 who were turned down. The diplomat gets damned if he does and damned if he doesn't.

Establishes School. That is only the beginning of the ambassadorial troubles, however. The embassy has to establish a school for the ladies who are to be presented. The court rules regarding dress and etiquette are very exacting, and most foreigners naturally are unfamiliar with them.

The court dressmakers and court hairdressers take care of those two items. But then comes a hard drilling in the handling of that train on the gown. In the correct manner of approaching their majesties in the proper way to make one of those "down-to-the-floor" curtsies, and not lose balance or look awkward.

By the time the court arrives, hysteria is in the air and many of the girls are in a state of near nervous collapse. The embassy staff likewise.

It might appear that the embassy had undergone enough anguish and finished its job when the debutante had passed through her ordeal without mishap. But not so. The gravest danger frequently has been after the event, rather than before it.

Ambassadors long ago discovered that the more excitable debutantes were inclined to give most extraordinary interviews to the press after their experience. The Prince of Wales, for example, most likely would be described as "too sweet for words."

These publications annoyed the royal court no end, and of course were most embarrassing for the ambassadors.

Mr. Kennedy is said to have discussed the proposal with the king and queen, President Roosevelt, the Washington state department and British court officials before making a decision. It is understood that court officials opposed the change at first, on the theory that it might anger American society.

Kennedy Decision Seen As Blow to Social Climbers

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—British newspapers see Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's decision hereafter to present to the king and queen in royal court only families of United States officials in Britain and families of Americans actually living in this country as a "bitter blow" to the United States social climbers.

The ambassador's "axe for U. S. debs," said one paper, "shattered American socialites' most cherished ambition."

THOMPSON ACCUSED OF BALLYHOING CAMPAIGN

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 11 (AP)—Colonel Ernest Q. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad commission, was charged today with using an attack on Louisiana oil proration as political ballyhoo in his campaign for governor.

Scott Heywood of Jennings, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, ridiculed Thompson's recent statement that "The worst spot in the picture of oil proration, where the tax is 11 cents per barrel, is Louisiana."

"Of course, we know that the colonel is running for governor," said Heywood. "Any propaganda put out by him, jumping on Louisiana, to give the impression he is working for Texas producers, is good political strategy but it will not fool our officials in Louisiana, for they know the Texas oil story too well."

Heywood said he could remember when the East Texas oil field was producing more than 1,000,000 barrels per day of "bootleg" oil and the Texas Railroad commission "kept issuing permits to drill more wells."

"Our conservation commissioner and his assistants," said Heywood, "are handling the oil business in this state as prudent and long headed officials should. They have profited by the mistakes made in Texas."

SHAKESPEAREAN TROUPE COMING HERE APRIL 19

It is announced that the James Hendrickson and Claire Biedel Co., Shakespearean players from New York City with a record run of 11 years of touring in the Shakespearean plays, will appear at the high school auditorium in Pampa on April 19. The company will be brought to Pampa through the efforts of the high school. A large attendance is anticipated because of the high professional standing of the company. Tickets for the performance will be on sale beginning soon. Unusually low admission prices have been made for students.

Mr. Hendrickson and Miss Bruce will have in their supporting company such well known players as John Burke, Vincent Copeland, Jeanne Lester, Nathaniel Wynn, Athena Lorde, Chris Lang, Edwin Kandel, Robert Gale, Martin Wells, and others.

BAKER P-TA WILL MEET ON TUESDAY

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 the B. M. Baker school Parent-Teachers association meeting will be held in the school auditorium. Herman Jones is to give the invocation. The program includes singing by the choral group conducted by Miss Sears, a Texas day drill by the 5th grade students, and a talk on the "Place of the Family in the Community" by Mrs. B. C. Dawson.

Following the speech the assembly will conduct a question box.

A report from the district conference and a business session are also on the program.

An award will be given to the room having the most parents present.

OLNEY PUMPER KILLED IN AUTO COLLISION

WICHITA FALLS, April 11 (AP)—R. R. Roberts, 55, pumper on the Benson oil field 11 miles north of Olney, was almost instantly killed when the automobile he was driving was in a collision in the business district about 6 o'clock this morning. His death was the second traffic fatality here this year.

A. A. Horwitz, Wichita Falls oil operator and Roberts' employer, suffered a fractured collar bone and bruises. The driver of the other car was not injured.

"Swastika" may be located on the map of Texas in the center of Hale county.

QUEEN MARY BATTLES STORM--FORTY INJURED

PLYMOUTH, England, April 11 (AP)—The liner Queen Mary arrived from New York four hours late today after battling a 24-hour storm which sent great waves crashing over her decks, injuring about 40 persons, most of them slightly.

It was the worst storm the big liner has encountered.

Marc Connelly, New York playwright and producer, said the storm was "worse than a West Indies hurricane."

"I saw dozens of passengers picked up by stewards and escorted for medical attention," he said. "The waves must have been 100 feet high."

W. H. Suydam, New York banker, was dozing in a deck chair when a piano in the saloon broke loose and crashed into a wall. He woke up in a tangle of wreckage with a broken arm and a black eye. Suydam is vice president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company.

Lily Pons, French opera star, kept a promise and sang for the passengers during the 70-mile gale.

"I had little sleep the night before," she said, "because my bed crashed into the stateroom wall and stewards had to come to my rescue and clamp it down.

"But I had promised to sing and I kept my promise. Ropes were stretched across so the audience and the artists could hold on to them. While I was singing I let go of the rope and the next thing I knew I was sliding across the stage, but I kept singing."

GARNER GIVES FAMOUS GRASS TO REPUBLICAN

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Shadows deepened over the White House lawn today—Vice President Garner has given his famous grass to a Republican.

The Vice President, who boasted last December he could grow grass on the bald spots on the executive mansion's spacious lawn, confessed today he had received a package of tender grass shoots lifted gently from the front lawn of his home in far-away Uvalde, Texas.

Cornered in his senate chambers, Garner explained he had given the grass to Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California—a Republican. About the White House lawn he wouldn't talk.

TOM GIRDLER DISPUTES LABOR BOARD VERDICT

CLEVELAND, April 11 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board's action in blaming Republic Steel Corp. for death of three C. I. O. strikers at Massillon, Ohio, in last summer's steel strike "was wholly unsupported by the evidence," Tom Girdler, Republic chairman, declared today.

Girdler in a statement said "the courts will have to decide" whether "the company must not negotiate with its employees who have formed their own independent labor organization and added that Republic will "take advantage of all rights under the law."

The labor board Saturday found that Republic violated the Wagner act on eight counts. It ordered simple representation plans broken up at its five Ohio plants and among other things, ordered reinstatement of 5,000 strikers with back pay.

"The attempt of the board to place responsibility upon Republic for a riot between city police and the C. I. O. at Massillon was wholly unsupported by the evidence," Girdler said.

"Some 400 pages of the board's report are given over to a very labored effort to construe the evidence as placing sole responsibility for the riot on Republic," Girdler said.

"The NLRB ordered that all but six strikers be re-employed. Girdler said "it is astounding that the labor board should direct the re-employment of employees who were guilty of violence and who menaced the lives of their fellow workers during the strike" called to enforce demands for a signed contract.

KARL CROWLEY TO BE HONORED AT BANQUET

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Karl A. Crowley, retiring from office as solicitor of the postoffice department to campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas, will be guest of honor at a dinner attended by party leaders in Washington Thursday.

Postmaster General James A. Farley was listed as toastmaster for the testimonial banquet honoring Crowley for his five year service with the postoffice department.

J. Bruce Kremer, chairman of the dinner committee, said others who would be present included Senator Barkley (D., Ky.) senate majority leader; Representative Rayburn (D., Tex. leader of the Democratic majority in the house and Secretary of State Hull.

Crowley, a Fort Worth, Texas, attorney, said his resignation would be offered within a few days and become effective April 19, three days after he plans to leave for the Texas campaign.

Yesterday: The quiet rivalry between Joyce and Isobel begins. That night Joyce is ill in her cabin, too ill to care what happens.

CHAPTER IV
NEXT morning the sun rose on a tranquil sea of lapis-lazuli blue. Joyce stared out of her port, scarcely believing that the angry seas could settle down so peacefully overnight. Far off on the horizon, she could see a narrow, dark shoreline marking the division between green-blue sea and deep blue sky. That was Bermuda in the distance, and in another few hours she would be walking in the shadow of its royal palms. That is, provided she decided to leave the ship. She recalled she had no shore tickets.

"I'll arrange everything with Miss Milner," Mrs. Porter was explaining to Isobel. "You shall accompany me with Richard. And be careful, Isobel. Be very careful. Don't speak about Miss Milner at all; don't disparage her in any way. The young man has a protective feeling toward her, naturally. He feels responsible for her. Not that I believe she had a hundred dollars in the bag."

Isobel, dainty in her pink negligee, her blond curls tucked carefully under a net cap, looked disdainful. "She's just a stenographer," she pointed out.

Her mother sighed. "There are times when I wish I were a stenographer, too. A girl in business has opportunities. Now hurry and get to the dining room while I speak to her."

A moment later she knocked on the door of C-214. Joyce opened it expectantly.

"Oh, good morning, Mrs. Porter. Good morning, my dear. Are you feeling better?"

"I'm so well that I believe it was all imagination."

"Not at all. Your first trip, you know, I suppose we're hardened to such weather—oh, it does bother Isobel, but she managed to get to dinner. But now, my dear, I've been worrying about you. You didn't, I hope, lose your excursion tickets. Or hadn't you bought them?"

Joyce smiled ruefully. "Yes, I bought them."

"And they were in your bag too? How unfortunate! How very distressing!" She shook her head sympathetically. "However, I believe I can manage a way for you."

"That's very kind of you, Mrs. Porter."

"Nonsense! That's what I'm on the ship for, you know, to see that everybody has a good time. I've been planning to go to Bermuda for some time today—really, my dear, I wouldn't want you to miss it."

"I would like to go," Joyce admitted honestly. "If there were any way—"

"There is a way—as my assistant. Usually I take one of the steersmen, or as in your case, one of the younger passengers. All you do is to collect the tickets for me at the carriage station in Hamilton and see that the guests are assigned to the carriages and started off promptly. Then we'll all go together you and Isobel and Mr. Hamilton and I, in the last carriage."

Joyce was delighted. "It's lovely of you to do this, Mrs. Porter," she said gratefully. "Under the circumstances I wasn't even sure of going to shore."

"I know, my dear. And a young girl nowadays doesn't like to be dependent. Will you be ready to go ashore the first tender with me?" she asked.

"Yes, I'll have breakfast immediately."

change their plans at the last minute. "Mr. Smith and I met some friends coming over on the tender; can't we have a carriage for four instead of two?" Or "my daughter has taken sick this morning; may I exchange her ticket, please?" These and innumerable others. In a few minutes, Joyce felt as if she were the center of a busy day in the stock exchange.

During one of the most harrassing arguments, a colored boy came up to her with a message:

"Miss Pohuh says she got to go ahead. . . . she'll meet you after a while."

Forty minutes later, Joyce saw her last charge safely installed in the last carriage and met until then, when she was standing alone at the carriage stand, did she realize that the Porters, and the last carriage had gone off without her!

"Morning, Miss Milner."

One of the ship's officers, a young man from the purser's office, stood beside her, and she realized that the second tender was docking.

"Did you miss your party?" he asked.

"So it seems—" "That's tough." He remembered suddenly that Miss Milner was the young lady who had lost her pocketbook. So he suggested pleasantly: "Stick around a minute, until I get my people started. I have an extra ticket for an assistant." He winked.

"I heard that story before," she said doubtfully. "Mrs. Porter suggested that's it!" He was plainly surprised. "Funny she didn't get the extra ticket from me. . . . Well, wait for me, will you? I'm all alone, too."

So she waited. Because he was a pleasant young man and he seemed sincere about the extra ticket, and because his passengers were fewer and less bothersome than her own and on their way in five minutes.

But most of all, she waited because she wanted to see Bermuda.

They had a carriage all to themselves with an amiable driver. And Mr. Roberts, as he introduced himself, proved a delightful companion because he knew Bermuda as well as she knew Fall River. In three hours she felt like a native.

"Do you know," Mr. Roberts ventured at last. "I think Mrs. Porter put something over on you."

"But why? Why in the world would she do a thing like that?" He smiled wisely. "Can't you imagine?"

"Certainly not."

"Well, perhaps I'm speaking out of turn, but it looks to me as if she's trying to keep you Hamilton for Isobel's exclusive use. And you're competition."

"Oh, that's ridiculous," she retorted hastily.

"Is it? Ten million dollars is no joke."

Joyce opened her eyes in amazement. "What?" she cried, incredulously.

"Don't you know?" It was Mr. Roberts' turn to be surprised. "Hamilton's father is president of National Rubber. . . . they're one of the wealthiest families in New York."

Joyce sank back against her seat, dumbfounded. To think that she'd been worried about costing him an extra $6 for her shore ticket!

So that was Mrs. Porter's little game. That was why she'd made his grand pretense of generosity, to be sure she would not go ashore alone with Dick.

Well, what of it? If Isobel needed a rich husband so badly, what was it to her? Let her marry the Hamilton money and load herself with diamonds!

monds and live to be another Mrs. O'Hara. Certainly she didn't care. But later on, when Mr. Roberts took her to the Bermudians for lunch (it was included in the ticket, he explained carefully), her cheeks flushed guiltily when she saw Isobel and Dick out in the garden at a private little table, having the time of their lives. . . .

She tossed her head defiantly, and laughed engagingly at Mr. Roberts' utterly unimportant remark about the price of Bermuda onions in London. You couldn't, she told herself sternly, you simply couldn't be jealous of a man you hadn't known 48 hours!

MAGIC CITY-66 ROAD WORK TO BEGIN SOON

SHAMROCK, April 11—Work on graveling the road between Highway 66 and Magic City will get under way this week as soon as final approval from the WPA Regional office is received. The 10 miles of road will be leveled and graded. Grading and drainage structures were put in last year as a WPA project.

Vernon Shortt will be in charge of the construction work which will employ 100 men now on the WPA rolls of Wheeler county.

Actual work was scheduled to start April 1, but due to delay in Regional WPA officials approving the project, will not get underway until this week.

Seven or eight trucks will be used in hauling gravel for the ten-mile stretch.

Untapped reserves of the world's three great natural resources, gas, coal, and oil, amount to 2200 times the world's annual consumption of all forms of energy.

AT that moment Isobel and Mrs. Porter bustled up and the others joined them. Isobel slipped her arm into the circle of Dick's arm and carried him off to the other side of the boat to have him point out certain landmarks. Mrs. Porter bustled about arranging last minute details, and Joyce stood at the rail alone, delighting in the beauties of this lovely little island.

Drawing alongside the wharf, Mrs. Porter gave the last minute instructions. Joyce took her stand eagerly, but soon she was beset with difficulties which Mrs. Porter had not explained. Some passengers wanted to
